TOUR OF CARROLL CO. SOUTHERN STATES AS SEEN BY REV. OWEN A smile that shall last until the next

Made by Minister and Family

Rev. Charles S. Owen and family returned home a few weeks ago from a vacation trip in the Southern Mountains of Virginia, Western North Carolina and Eastern Tennesse. Last week he spoke before the local Chamber of Commerce giving a travelogue covering the journey of more than 2000 miles through some of the most scenic areas of eastern America. As many did not hear the story who would like to hear it, the Record will carry the travelogue substantially as it was gven before the Chamber of Commerce. This is the first install-

I have no moving picture reels to visualize this travelogue as some of the other men have brought you from time to time. While I do have some pictures I do not have the facilities for showing them on the screen. There are many interests, I want to relate, which a movie camera could not record. Neither do I come to tell about the grandeurs of our country far away, but rather those nearby, right at our door.

One cannot travel far without being impressed with the fact that our country is beautiful everywhere, and feeling the truth expressed by the poet in the hymn "America the Beautiful"

Pastor Returned to Taneytown Charge

The 161st Session of the Pennsylvania Conference of the Evangelical United Brethren Church closed Thursday evening with the Bishop J. After the powerful message of great fervor the report was read where the ministers would be stationed by the bishop. The conference was held in Carlisle Grace

There were nineteen churches and charges which received new men for this next year. The ones in our com-munity which were affected were as follows: Manchester, Md., received a new man who was ordained Thursday afternoon, the Rev. Ira C. Keperling; the Rev. Paul E. Holdcraft, of Hagerstown Emmanuel Church went to Old Otterbein, Baltimore, where Rev. Paul Emenheiser went when leaving Taneytown. The Rev. William Wachter, former pastor of Taneytown was moved to Lemasters, Pa. Rev. George C. Daugherty, formerly of Hanover Church, goes to Jefferson Charge; and the Rev. Miller S. Schmuck, of Jefferson was moved to Waynesboro, Pa. The Rev. C. M. Ankerbrand, of Waynesboro Church went to Mt. Wolf; Rev. Russell C. Oyer, of Mt. Wolf, goes to Hagerstown Emmanuel Church; Rev. Steve Raby a new man in the Conference was given the Myersville, Md. Charge and Rev. Varner was sent to Keedysville, Md. Taneytown pastor, the Rev. A. W.

There were more changes this year in the conference than for many years in the past. Several changes took place because of conditions of health. In the case of Dr. Paul E. Holdcraft as he was going to retire and with a shortage of ministers was given the Old Otterbein Church as Dr. Holdcraft is making his home in Baltimore and

OCTOBER DAYS

Glorious weather! Pumpkin pies. cider! What joy it is to live at such a time with such luxuries.

The corn is in the shock, and the pumpkin on the vine ready to be plucked. Did ever any people, anywhere have such luxuries as ours in these good old United States.

There is but one fly in the ointment, Russia persists in being antagonistic to our way of life. Well let them! It means fight, perhaps atomic war, but if it must come it will come so let's let it come and have done with the mess. One thing is certain Democracy and Totalitarian governments cannot exist side by side in peace. One must surrender. Will we? I do not believe we will, but "eternal vigilence s the price of lib-

VOTERS SHOULD CURB FEDERAL SPENDING, WARNS BOLTON

Our government is now spending more money than the tax revenue justifies and voters of the nation should curb this tendency to go deeper and deeper into deficit financing. before our ship of state breaks away from its moorings and cracks up on the reefs of national bankruptcy, warned Congressman William P. Bolton in a radio address Sunday, September 25th. Mr. Bolton conducted the "Report to the People" program over radio station WBAL in the absence of Senator Millard E. Tydings, who is now on official government business is Europe.

History reveals that every country whose government's spending reaches 35% of its national income naturally turns to socialism or communism, states Congressman Bolton, who cites the fact that we are spending dangerously close to that ratio in this country today.

We have changed from a people who 20 years ago despised the dole, to a people, poor and not so poor. who are clamoring at the doors of our Federal treasury for grants, aids, subsidies and assistance of every desubsidies and assistance of every description, he states. He emphasizes that this change has been brought ter heaters, feeders and fountains, heatrola, 28-ft. extension ladder, never used; lot of garden tools and about by less than 50% of the nation's eligible voters—that the 81st Congress was actually elected by approximately 28% of our people.

On our national balance sheet certain expenditures cannot or will not be curtailed, points out Mr. Bolton. 15 billion dollars for defense cannot be scaled, particularly since Russia now has the atomic bomb. 51/2 billion dollars for debt service is a government obligation. 6 billion dollars for pay roll he says is not likely to be reduced as long as Congressmen receive deluges of letters pleading with them not to do anything that would cause Bill or John to lose his job. 5 billion dollars for ECA, and he reveals that any reduction in this figure would be offset by our program to arm Europe.

Add to this figure only a few of the programs being suggested from high government sources. Socialized Medicine, involving untold billions, has many good arguments in its favor, according to Mr. Bolton, who says he feels this program is nearer to adoption than many would believe. He comments that 46,000 Federal Security Department employees are disseminating these arguments using the government's frank privilege and almost unlimited other government facilities and funds. Federal Aid to Education is in the offing in a greatly expanded form, and a program equivalent to the Brannan Farm Program defeated in this session of Congress can be expected and will run into fantastic cost, predicts the Congressman. He feels that the 16 billion dollars recently authorized in direct Federal grants for Federal Housing is only a beginning, since this program's sponsors state frankly that they expect Federal Housing to develop its own political momentum to the point where Congress will automatically in the future extend authorization of funds to whatever extent may be claimed necessary.

"Do you think our economy is going to take this strain without drifting into a welfare state?" asks Congressman Bolton. "This is your money Congress is spending, money paid from your pocket or withheld from your salary check. If your bank account, your investments, insurance policies, all your hard-earned material possessions should some day prove worthless because of this spending spree of our government, don't complain, if you have not been in the habit of voting." This is a government elected by the people, he reminds, and "we get exactly the kind of government the people who vote ask for. One of life's mysteries is why we get old so soon and smart so late. Here is a good receipt for long life. During this past summer, while vacationing in a rural community Mr. E. D. Kramer had the good fortune to make the acquaintance of an old Negro mammy, who, at 97, was still spry. "Auntie" lived alone in a spickand-span cabin and did all her own housework including the washing and housework including the washing and ironing. When he asked her one day how she managed to do it all by herself, she chuckled and gave him a beautiful philosophy of life in a single sentence. She said, "When Ah works, Ah works hard; when Ah sets, Ah sets loose; and when Ah starts worryin', Ah goes to sleep."

Let's Think

G. H. ENFIELD

AN EARLY HERO OF THE SEA

Americans are what they are, and where they are, because a Genoese, in the 15th century, possessed an adventurous nature, and a courageous, romantic spirit. The spirit of Columbus is expressed by Joaquin Miller, the California poet in the words which he would have the navigator speak to his discouraged crew again and again—"Sail on! sail on! and on!" Columbus would not stop short of his goal. He was no quitter. In a sonnet, Sidney Lanier pictures Col-umbus spirit of determination. If it thous spirit of determination. If it took such a spirit to discover America, it is equally true this spirit must characterize the Americans who would preserve America and the American way of life.

The wishy-washy is not a true

Columbian or a genuine American. Defeats are not suffered by those with the spirit of Columbus. In the face of hardships, disappointments, waitings, and apparent mutiny, Columbus would sail on, and on, and on. Only men with that kind of a spirit will ever reach a worthy goal. Is this not the spirit of "Choo Choo" Justice of the University of North Carolina football squad! This is the spirit which makes a losing team a winning team in the last few minutes of the game! Struggles are hard. The way is rough. The mountain is high. The goal is far. There will be found many on the way turning back because of the lack of those qualities which moved Columbus to sail on, and on, and on. The Creator made us to be victorious!

There is strength in a purpose. "Nothing is so tragic as an aimless life." Without the power of purpose we would be traveling backward instead of forward. The hope to succeed must be supported by other hopes Hope cannot be made an orphan and continue to live within the human

Tennyson expressed a great thought in the poem "Ulysses:" 'How dull it is to pause, to make an end, To rust unburnished not to shine in use!"

Behind the known lies the dim unknown. God has implanted the spirit of quest within us. How many people fail because they fear to fail! Do we believe as the poet that we are the master of our fate! The end of the rainbow is not debris but gold, and more gold. One must possess moral qualities to stand firm under the pressures of life. Did Columbus exhibit these qualities!

Columbus was not working for self. He was discovering for a nation. This lesson is much needed to be taught today, and learned by those in public places, men and women chosen as representatives of a free people. The important thing is not the starting place but the ending. We can learn a lesson from China's greatest poet, Li Po, who at the age of ten wrote to a firefly: of ten wrote to a firefly:

Rain cannot quench thy lantern's light;
Wind makes it shine more brightly bright."

Life has its light as well as its shadows. Simplicity and sincerity give immortality to our acts. We are born with a background. We make our own foreground. The discovery of America was an accident, but America is no accident. And the discoverer died without knowing what he had discovered. He gave the people the name of Indians because Columbus was mistaken as to where he was. All errors, however, do not prove as priceless as those made by Columbus. Today, we are enjoying the fruits of his errors and frugality. Even after years of delays and disappointments, long days of hope and weeks of waiting, Columbus persevered until he found someone who had faith in him and in his theory, and who showed that faith by financing his enterprise. He was called crazy, and many of the world's benefactors have been so called, but he demonstrated have been so called, but he demonstrated that he had more in his head than all those who spoke harshly and critically against him and his under-takings. They who were to accom-pany him on his voyage lost courage. He, whose cradle was rocked by the side of the blue waters of the Mediside of the blue waters of the Medi-terranean, developed a restlessness which knew no calm until he sailed the mighty deeps of the Atlantic. Christopher Columbus was the son of a weaver. His father combed wool, but the son will seek the golden fleece. Great men ever stand apart from their fellows. Maurice Francis Egan pays Columbus the following tribute: "He was a man in a million, an apostle, a prophet, a seer."

Columbus died in poverty and obscurity that you and I might live in luxury and the greatest of all nations. But the greatness of America has made Columbus great, until he has won universal remembrance and recognition.

Yesterday we sailed due west, which was our course, is an item found in the Log of Columbus. Taking this brief item as a basis, Dorothy Brown Thompson has written a poem:

He held his course—he faced due west
In spite of dread and mystery;
He missed the object of his quest, But wrote his name in history.

If, resolute when ways are dim, We hold our course, however bleak, Who knows but we may find, like him A something better than we seek G. H. ENFIELD.

open court in between. It was his plan to have the faculty live in these houses to which the students would come for classes. Of course now the University has expanded far beyond the bounds of this colonade.

As we came into the city we searched for and found this noted colonade. I stopped the first student who came along and asked him a lot of questions. One surprising fact was this.

The University of Virginia, so famous in American History, is just about half the size of the University of Maryland. When I asked the student about a possible guide to show us everything and answer all our questions, he immediately volunteered, and stayed with us three hours. He was a junior in the Medical School.

He took us on a tour through the colonade where some of the most distinguished leaders of our country were educated. One place of particular interest was the old room occu-pied by Edgar Allen Poe, famous American Poet.This is the only room in the colonade now unoccupied by students. It has been made into a shrine. There, intact, is the old bed on which the famous poet slept, the old desk, washstand, bowl, candle stick, and other antiquated furnishings. Over the door is a plaque bearing these words in Latin: "Domus, Parva Magnus Poetas," meaning "Little Home of Great Poets."

The bird answers every question with the word "Nevermore." Finally he asks the mysterious visitor the greatest of all questions: Will he ever see again his departed loved one? to which the Rayen croaks "Nevermore." Raven croaks "Nevermore."

But that was too much doubt to accept about the future world. So faith and hope, rising above doubt and despair, he shouts 'liar' and tries to expell the brack bird from his door. But the Raven refused to leave.

According to the superstition, this is the source of the legend that the Raven is still there. And, according to our guide, the negroes still insist his shadow floating on the floor, and hear his croaking words: "Never-Little further down from the room occupied by the famous poet, was the one occupied by Woodrow Wilson. But that is being wood by students. Near that is being used by students. Nearby was the room where Dr. R. S. Mc-Vaugh, popular and gifted physician in Taneytown lived while there as a student. According to reports, the following motto was inscribed on his door in Latin: "Little Home of Great Doctors. Our guide pointed out other rooms occupied at one time by distinguished men of American History, and the serpentine wall which Jefferson built around the grounds. By building it in serpentine curves he could fashion a strong wall one brick thick as a means of economy in saving brick.

"The Raven, never flitting, still is sitting, still is sitting.

Our guide also told about many traditions coming down from Thomas traditions coming down from Thomas Jefferson. One was the student honor system and self-government where-by every student is placed on his own Even in examinations he can honor. Even in examinations he can take his papers and go to his room. I asked him if students ever violated this trust. He replied, very seldom, that no student without unquestional integrity was welcomed on the PAPER HANGING and all other jobs of interior decorating including Plaster Repairs. COLUMBUS DAY FACTS

Queen Isabella was 41 when she financed Columbus' voyage. Columbus lived 60 years. Mystery surrounds his brithplace and year of birth, but historians generally believe he was born in 1446 at Genoa, Italy, and died in 1506. No one is certain where he is buried.

His name in English is Christopher Columbus. In Italian it is Cristoforo Colombo, and in Spanish it is Cristobal Colon. The Spanish rulers agreed to finance his explorations April 17. 1492, after seven years of pleading on his part. Columbus sailed on a Friday from Palos, discovered the new world on a Friday. Columbus Day was first observed in Colorado. Much speculation takes place upon who really did discover America. Besides Columbus and Leif Eriksen, candidates are offered by the Chinese, Japanese, Negroes, Welsh, Irish, Corsicans, Greeks and Spanish. The tribe of Indians present at Columbus' landing-the Caribs, living on a reservation on British-owned Dominica in the West Indies-are about extinct.

There are 15 cities in Italy where tourists are shown the "birthplace" of Columbus.

Columbus seems to have been physically ill of a brain disorder after returning from his fourth voyage and probably died at Valladolid, Spain.

What goes on here?

Referee makes first down — or did he really just miss it? Field judge blocks out the nearest tackler—or was it clipping? If the officials call 'em - and play too - what kind of a game is that?

You wouldn't stand for that sort of thing on a football field - but it happens every day in the electric light and power business. Government not only regulates the electric companies - but is in competition with them at the same time!

The catch is that government sets up two different sets of rules. Government electric agencies pay little or no interest on borrowed money, and pay no Federal taxesbut electric companies do, and expect to. When government-in-the-power-business can't make ends meet-it gets a handout of tax money from the U.S. Treasury. Who foots the bill? American taxpayers - of which you are one.

If government can get into the light and power business this way - it can get into every other business in just exactly the

In sixty-odd years, the self-supporting electric companies have built for America the most and the best electric service in the world. While costs of everything else are way up (including the costs of making and delivering electricity) electric service is still the best bargain in the American family's budget ... it does so much, and costs so little.

This is a good record for the thousands of people who work in power companies, and for the millions of people who invest savings in them.

Don't you think these men and women deserve a fair break?

The answer is yours to make, for government money is your money.

Seven-Day Religion

Lesson for October 9, 1949

EMPLOYERS don't care much for letters of recommendation signed by preachers. Not that they think preachers are dishonest. The employer is glad to know where the chap is on Sunday mornings. But he would rather have a letter from somebody who sees him every Saturday night and Monday morning.

Religion Won't

Keep Sweet by Itself
T IS a temptation as old as religion, to put it on one side of a wall and life on the other. But the prophets showed, once and for that God has literally no use for religion which has been dissected off from life. Religion which is kept apart from life turns sour and bad. In Isaiah's time, everybody there was knew something wrong Dr. Foreman with the country.

Isaiah's diagnosis was shocking: Religion is our principal trouble. God is tired of it. What? The pious people would exclaim. Look at the crowds in the Temple every holy day! Listen to all the prayers, count the number of tithers. If anything is wrong with our country, it can't be religion! But religion it was.

Why God Was Tired

A CATHOLIC priest would shock everybody should he call Vatican City "Hell's Half Acre." Isaiah shocked his fellow citizens by calling Jerusalem "Sodom and Gomorrah." Those cities were the worst places the Hebrews had ever heard of.

They were so bad the Lord had to destroy them by fire—not 10 good people could be found there. The prophet follows up that first shock by another. Every single expression of organized religion comes under the prophet's lash.

Sacrifices and offerings (v.11), attendance at the sanctuary, observance of the Sabbath and other holy days (v. 13), church gatherings, corresponding to our rallies and conventions (v. 13), even prayers (v. 15).

Put that into modern terms: attendance at church, Bible reading, tithing, praying—if that is all, then all is no good. It may be religion, and of course it is one kind of religion; but not the kind God

Indeed, Isaiah says God hates it; he is "fed up" with it (vs. 11). What was wrong? Isaiah tells them that, too, in short simple words. "Your hands are full of blood."

Oh, the people would protest, we are not killers, we don't lay a hand on anybody. Isaiah goes on to explain: seek judgment (i.e. justice), relieve the oppressed, judge the fatherless, plead for the widow.

You don't kill outright, you churchgoers, he would say, but you are so indifferent to justice in your city, you take so little interest in the people at the bottom of the heap, that people die here, widows and orphans die, simply because no one cares.

What Makes a Town Worth Saving?

ALAS, nobody did care. One hundred and more years went by, and Jerusalem came close to its end. But nobody thought that disaster could strike. The belief had grown in every one's mind that the Temple of the Lord would forever insure the safety of the city in which it stood.

But a young prophet, Jeremiah, preached a sermon on the same theme as Isaiah's (Jer. 7): It is not the temple that will save you, it is not church attendance that will being you the favor of God bring you the favor of God.

As the men of Jerusalem looked back to the great days of Moses, they thought of the sacrifices and offerings, the tabernacle and the rituals and all the pageantry and paraphernalia of a picturesque religion, as the great thing that God had given them.

But God remembered it otherwise. Jeremiah even says (with understandable exaggeration) that God had not said a word about sacrifices and offerings; the Ten Commandments, with all they implied, were the main thing.

What God looks for, back of all our church attendance and Bible reading, is "justice between a man and his neighbor." A place where that can be found is a good place.
