On Tuesday morning an excitement was created in our town by the runaway of a pair of horses. The driver had them hitched to a carriage and when passing "Antrim", a bolt came out from the axle and the pair started off at full speed. They fairly flew up Baltimore street dragging the spread between them, and when they came to the iron railing which incloses the public pump at the square, the off side horse passed to the right of it but the saddle horse attempted to leap over it, when the spread caught on the pump and brought the pair to a very sudden stop, throwing the jumper to the ground with great force. The miraculous part of the occurrence is that neither horse sustained any apparent injuries.

A mad dog created considerable excitement in town early on Monday morning, before the most of people were out of bed. He is described as being a black dog of large size; he bit dogs belonging to Jacob Brown and Theodore Reid, which were promptly killed, but he escaped from the neighborhood unharmed. He then made circuit of the country, biting a number of other dogs, and several head of cattle, and was finally killed on Tuesday on the farm of John Shoemaker. The dog belonged to Ezra Stuller who had him penned up for a time, but, thinking there was nothing wrong with him left him out for a day, but shut him up again, when he gnawed his way out and caused the damage as stated. There are many reports of the case that it is difficult to get exact facts.

A Chambersburg man asking a blessing at meal time the other morning hit his wife a heavenly right-hander as follows: "Dear Lord, I would ask thy blessing on this food, but I realize that it is cooked too miserably for thee to waste thy valuable time in blessing, so, instead, I urge upon thee that thou instill into my wife's heart that it is better to cook steak acceptably for one man than to raise $10 by working two weeks for a church social."

Mr. Thos. A. Myers, of Baltimore, while spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Myers, met with a remarkable accident on last Saturday night. When about to retire, having put out the light, he stooped suddenly to pick up a piece of clothing and struck his right eye upon the sharp corner of a piece of furniture, cutting a gash through the outer skin of the ball. The wound is serious but it is thought no permanent injury will result.—Carroll News.

Frederick, August 3.—Jacob Hull, a huckster, of Woodsboro, this county, and a young man named Smith, while at the Pennsylvania Railroad crossing at New Midway yesterday, met with a serious accident, in which they narrowly escaped being killed. They were driving two horses to a wagon loaded with truck, and just as they reached the crossing a freight train came along. The horses wheeled, upsetting the wagon, and throwing the men out. They then ran for some distance, demolishing the wagon and breaking fifty dozen eggs. Hull and Smith were badly cut and bruised, and the horses were also hurt.

The buildings, track, &c., on the Timonium fair grounds are now being put in shape for the combined State and county fair, which will commence on the 28th of this month. The show ring, where the horses are judged, will be enlarged and a large black-board will be erected opposite the grand stand to designate the different classes as they are brought out. Linwood Camp.

The attendance at the Linwood Camp on Sunday is estimated at 6000. Addresses were delivered by Rev. G. W. Getts of Shippensburg, Pa., F. L. Nicodemus, of Philadelphia, Rev. W. R. Covert, of Pittsburg; Mr. G. W. Bowersox, of Baltimore; and Jesse Garner, of Linwood. The receipts for the day are reliably reported to have been about $800—which is pretty good for hard times. Ezra B. Garner, the manager of the Camp, was arrested for violating the laws against trafficking on Sunday.

The following additional information we clip from Tuesday's American.

Westminster, August 6.—Early this morning Mr. Ezra B. Garner, of Linwood, and Edward Zepp of Pipe Creek Station, came to this city and went before Justice Wm. Moore to whom they confessed a plea of guilty of a violation of the law against trafficking on the Sabbath Day. In Zepp's case it was ascertained that it was his first offence under the law, the minimum penalty for which is a fine of $30, and the maximum $50. Zepp only anticipated the imposition of the lowest fine possible but Justice Moore was inclined to impose the maximum, and he then withdrew the plea of guilty, and gave bail to answer the charge at court.

In the case of Mr. Garner, who had been fined before on the same charge, Justice Moore determined to fix the penalty at $100 fine and ten days in jail. Mr. Garner thereupon withdrew his plea of guilty, and gave bail for a further hearing on Friday. His case is exciting more than ordinary interest. He is manager of the business affairs of the Linwood Camp—meeting of the Church of God, and controls trafficking on the grounds and within the limits fixed by law between prominent members of the denomination by which it is held, and the result of the proceeding against him will be watched with extraordinary interest, especially in the neighborhood of his home.

Warrants have been issued for the arrest of Jacob Hope, Richard Wehling and two men named Wilhelm and Ohler, charged with violation of the law against trafficking on Sunday. All these offenses are alleged to have been committed on, or in the vicinity of the Linwood Camp ground yesterday.

A New Electric Road.

A committee from Littlestown were in town to see Pres. Hoffer of the Electric railway, last week, with reference to its extension to Littlestown and Westminster. Two lines have been suggested—one down the line of the turnpike—the other from Round-Top to Taneytown and thence to Littlestown. The latter would be about a mile and a half longer but upon a line more favorable for construction and operation. In either event, the requirement is that the citizens should not lead to the raising of a given sum of money, for bonds and stock—the bonds to be secured by a mortgage upon the property to be held by a Philadelphia Trust Company as a trustee of the rights of both the parties to the mortgage.—Star and Sentinel.

New German Baptist Church.

At the call of the General Church Erection and Missionary Board of the German Baptist Brethren Church, Elders S. F. Sanger, John S. Hollinger and M. G. Early, of Virginia, and E. W. Stoner of Maryland, met in the National Capital Bank Building in the city of Washington, D. C., for the purpose of organizing the members living in said city. This was done, the members, 31 in number, being willing to subscribe to the distinctive principles of the Bible and the Church of Elder Wm. Lyon is preaching for them and is supported by the Gen. Miss. Board. Elder E. W. Stoner was chosen by the church as Presiding Elder. The name as agreed on, is the Washington City Church.

Base Ball.

A very interesting game of ball was played here on Thursday afternoon by the home club and the Uniontown boys. The latter secured a victory for the former by the score of 13 to 8. On account of the inability of three of our players to take part in the game, their places were filled by players from Woodsboro. The game was well played and enjoyable to all on the fact that there were lots of fine plays; the umpiring was good, and "Jim the coon", from the Hot Springs Medicine Co., kept the crowd in a good humor with his funny coaching. The Uniontown club played nearly a perfect fielding game, but could not connect with the ball to any extent except in the fourth inning. Shaw, the Uniontown pitcher, was hit rather freely for the first time, by our boys.

The score by innings was as follows:

In	ngs	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	Tl.
Ta'n	3	0	0	0	6	3	2	0	x	1	13
Un'tn	3	0	0	5	0	0	0	0	0	8	8

Base Hits, Taneytown 14, Uniontown 8.

Errors, Taneytown 8, Uniontown 3. Umpire C. A. Kohler.

Death of John Miller.

Mr. John Miller a former resident of this vicinity died in Hanover on Tuesday, August 7th. He was a member of the church here for a long time, where he followed the carpenter trade; he then removed to Keysville where he owned a small farm for a number of years, after which he lived in this neighborhood previous to removal to Hanover. He leaves four children—Mrs. Geo. W. Kerr, Miss Alma, and William, residing in Hanover, and Mrs. Fannie Spangler in Gettysburg.

(Communicated.)

The Y. P. Societies of C. E. of Taneytown listened to an account of the Cleveland Convention from Mr. McSherry last Sunday evening. The speaker gave a careful review of the impressions left on his mind, not only from the meetings at Cleveland, but also from what he saw and heard going and coming. No closer observer of the Convention should not lead to a one better able to discern the true meaning of events, and to see clearly what the surface appearances concealed beneath. He clearly saw and faithfully reported the trend of the Endeavor movement there.

Marketing Wheat in Pork.

As the prospects are for another short crop of corn, and the price of wheat is too low to realize anything like a fair remuneration for the cost and work of its production, the farmer should if possible try to market it in some other form than in grain. The following article clipped from the New York Tribune may be of interest, and probably benefit, to a number of our readers. If there is more money in feeding wheat, by all means feed it; and if it cannot be raised at present prices, why not raise something else; there is no use in going on year after year to farm as you have been, just from force of habit.

"The American hog furnishes a solution to the problem of a more diversified form of farming. Farmers have hesitated because ignorant of the value of wheat as food. Many of the farmers of the Western States were reared in the corn belt of the country. They have been accustomed to feeding corn and it is difficult for them to understand the feeding value of other grains. It is true that wheat cannot equal corn as a producer of fat, but it has been thoroughly demonstrated by a dozen experiment stations and by scores of practical farmers that wheat and certain of its milled products are far superior to corn as a food for young pigs. Corn-fed hogs are always dwarfed in size. Wheat-fed hogs have a larger bone, a stronger framework, more blood and better digestive organs. These are the things that make a hog. Corn-fed hogs are so excessively fat that a reaction has set in against the use of such pork.

Professor Atwater, the highest authority in the world on food questions, says "Our diet is overloaded; the food we eat has too little protein and too much fat, starch and sugar. This is due partly to our large consumption of sugar and partly to the use of such large quantities of fat meats. One-half of the disease which embitters the middle and after part of life is due to an excessive and one-sided diet." Can we not cater to this demand and furnish a high grade of pork of fine flavor and free from excessive fatness? What will do the work. Professor Henry, of Wisconsin, has shown that 51 pounds of cornmeal are required to make 1 pound of dressed pork, and that the same gain is made by 51 pounds of wheat shorts. Sanborn, of Utah, found that 31 pounds of wheat will produce a pound of gain. The Washington Agricultural College found in a one-month trial that 4 pounds of wheat would produce a gain of one pound. Throughout the Eastern States farmers are now extensively feeding wheat as a substitute for corn.

An Indiana farmer sold a portion of his wheat at 60 cents; the remainder he fed to hogs and realized 96 cents. Many farmers of Morrow County, Ohio, received 75 cents a bushel for wheat by turning it into pork, when the market price of wheat was 50 cents."

Tariff and Business.

The R. G. Dun & Co., mercantile agency has made a statement that "The business situation is bound to improve, no matter how the tariff question is settled, as the uncertainty will then be removed." This is likely true, yet we do not see how any very great improvement can take place, because while one uncertainty will be removed, another is ready to follow.

We are on the eve of an election which may change completely the political complexion of both the Senate and House. Of course, if the President signs the bill as passed, it becomes a law, and cannot be repealed except by the passage of a new law by a two-thirds majority over a veto, which is a situation at present very far from being in sight, yet it is probable that with a decided change in the political complexion of Congress, people would naturally look for a possible change in the executive in two years more, and would in all probability hesitate before going in to any very extensive and permanent preparations for carrying on business on new lines.

If this miserable tariff tangle could only be taken out of politics, at least to the extent of its being the greatest issue between parties, and be settled on a strictly non-partisan and non-sectional basis for the best interests of the whole country—and we think this possible—then the great industries of the country which often require years of calculation and preparation to put into practical operation, could rest assured that they would not be materially interfered with, at least for a long time.

When a present danger passes only to show another coming in sight, a prudent man will not go far away from his earthly treasures, even to try to add to them—he is a protectionist at least that far.

Where are the Boys at Night.

This town is not different from other small towns in a general way, and our boys are the same as the boys all over the civilized world; we do not therefore, say anything new, when we mention the fact that the small boy is numerous on our streets when he ought to be in bed, or at least at home.

We think that the principle secret in bringing up boys right is to keep them at home in the evening. While they are very young this is comparatively easy, as their pranks during the day, generally make them so tired, that by evening they are willing enough to go to bed early, but as they get older their strength increases and the day no longer furnishes the required amount of diversion.

This, then, is the important time to furnish home amusements for your boys in some shape, and not let them run the streets and take the chances of having them corrupted—as they almost surely will be,—by improper associations. Parents do not always realize that it is just as necessary to amuse children, as it is to feed and clothe them; there is unfortunately too much of a feeling for getting them out of the way, so as to have some leisure apart from the steady grind of duty.

We can readily understand how a mother who is weary with her household duties, feels like having the evening to herself, free from the worry and care of children, yet it may be a pleasure dearly purchased. Boys at a certain age, probably 10 or 12 years, are very impressionable; it is a time when they easily form habits of speech and traits of character, and rather than leave them to absorb, what they catch from running the streets, they had better be locked up in a room, if they cannot be kept at home by other means.

Probably the best way for mother's to have the evening to themselves, is to encourage children's parties, where the boys and girls can mingle alternately in each others homes at least several evenings in each week, and it will likely be found that the "tearing up" they do in the houses, will be a small damage in comparison to the evils they will contract by street running. Invite to your homes your boys and girls friends, encourage them to play games which compel them to use their wits, put them on a common plane of endeavor, and they will enjoy themselves, will learn to become friends without danger of anything worse than childish nonsense, and the boys will early learn a respect for the female sex which will last when they become men. If boys and girls habitually meet and become intimate with good companions, and are trained in an atmosphere of purity, when they grow up they will surely feel only a disgust for impure and undesirable associates.

Parents should consider this question; little boys, and some who resent the term as well, should really be looked too more carefully as to where they are at night. There is decidedly more bad than good to be picked up on the streets, there are always "arabs" about, who are left run unrestrained, and as sure as the sun rises and sets, the hope of many a family is likely to be ruined by association with such characters, unless they are kept off the streets at night.

Purely Editorial.

There are still a number of persons in the town and neighborhood who should subscribe for, and advertise in, THE RECORD. Come forward friends, we want your assistance even if we have not asked you personally for it. The Editor is, unfortunately, a poor solicitor, and besides that, his time is very much taken up. Do not be offended, or think that you are purposely slighted, because you have not been asked to subscribe or advertise, for no such feeling is intended to be created. Further than this, we would be glad to have you consider that the work of editor and manager is very new to us; we know that we are absolutely ignorant of many things in connection with our work; and we would be pleased to have you charge certain deficiencies to our ignorance, rather than to an intent to be discourteous.

Our very short experience has been at least long enough to learn us that the work of a country editor is never completed—if he is conscientious in the performance of his many duties. Those who have never attempted this work, can not properly appreciate, nor can they see from reading the paper, just how much time and work there is in connection with producing every week a paper as small even as ours. They scarcely think either, of the fact, that a country patronage is essentially a highly critical one, and a number of minor defects(?) are noted, that would never be thought of in the same light in a larger town than this.

We cannot, and do not, expect to please every body, nor do we expect every one to subscribe for the paper, but we do ask, and expect, that every sensible thinking person will give us credit for honesty of purpose, even if our methods and opinions do not agree with theirs.

The success of the RECORD is what every official connected with the company is striving for, and we think every person in this enterprising little town, who is worthy of the name of citizen should have a like feeling, for it is a well established fact that a properly conducted newspaper is a powerful instrument for forwarding and benefiting the interests of the town on all lines.

Small personal matters should have no influence in retarding anything which is undeniably for the public good.

THE MONTH just ended is said to be the hottest July we have had since the establishment of the weather bureau.

THE PULLMAN shops have started up with 300 employees, the most of whom are from the strikers, yet Debs will not say that the strike is over.

NUMEROUS BILLS providing for the settlement of differences between employer and employed are being prepared for submission to Congress. The leading feature of these bills make provision for the appointment by the Government of a board of arbitrators, to which shall be submitted for adjustment all differences which may arise, when both parties agree to such arbitration. We fail to see how this will be any improvement over ordinary arbitration committees, and it leaves a chance open for an endless amount of encouragement to dissatisfied workmen all over the country, to air grievances of a very trivial character, and deludes them into the belief that they may gain through legislation about everything they may ask for.

A Musical Age.

Every great civilization in the past has been marked by the development of one or more of the fine arts. Egypt gloried in her architecture, Greece in her poetry and sculpture, and Rome in her rhetoric. Modern times have witnessed the development of painting and the revival of architecture and sculpture, but if any one of the fine arts is prominent in the civilization of to-day it is the art of music. This is the age of artistic playing and singing. Harmony and melody have been brought to such a stage as to make them the fitting instruments in the expression of what is best in the life of our day. Music has been known ever since the day of Jubal, who was the father of all such as handle the harp and organ. Long before Noah built the ark there were musicians upon the earth. Music has always had its place in the life of every people. No tribe, however savage or barbarous, has ever been found which did not have some notions of the art, but music never reached the development that it has reached in our day. Just as painting, sculpture and poetry, have been made to embody and express the loftiest flights of the imagination, the deepest emotions of the soul, and the grandest conceptions of the mind, so music in this age is used to express the most exalted feeling of the heart, and set forth the ideals to which our civilization has been directed.

We all love good music, just as we delight to see a beautiful painting, and exquisite statue, or are moved by the words of a sweet, and graceful poem; but just after this point is where the difference comes in between music and the other arts. While we are willing to acknowledge our inability to paint, or to chisel the marble, or to write poetry, yet most of us imagine that we can become proficient musicians. The result is that this portion of the world is literally alive with musicians; almost everyone can drum on the piano, or pedal away at the organ, and it seems to be an accepted fact that the most civilized community is that in which there is the most music, and where musicians are most numerous. If this is the case, Taneytown may be said to be very highly civilized, as pianos and organs profusely abound, and the number of musicians is legion.

Yet, it may be, that we may be led into a false conclusion if we judge only by the quantity, and not the quality, of the music which abounds in our midst. It has been demonstrated that music has a very marked effect upon those who have lost their mental balance, soothing their disquieted spirits and bringing them again into a normal and healthful state. This is doubtless true, but I am inclined to think that it would be dangerous to try the effects of some of our music upon those of unsound mind; the result I imagine would be very disastrous—at least to the player or the instrument.

I am afraid our friend Shakespeare would be unwilling to repeat those famous words of his, relative to the effect of music upon the savage breast, if he were living on one of the streets of our village. By this remark we do not wish to be understood as calling any one to account, nor do we presume to dictate or advise what any one shall do in their homes; I am simply using this means to express an opinion in a frank and kindly way. We do not urge that there be less music; we would not have this put a damper upon the musical genius of any one, but there is one point upon which most musicians are absent minded—they forget that their neighbors have ears; not itching ears, but sensitive ears,—ears that grow very very tired of that everlasting tune, "After the Ball is Over" or that never to be let alone air—"Two little girls in blue" especially after ten o'clock at night.

The heat has been almost unendurable this summer, the flies very annoying and the monotonous grinding of the distant organ—a means of grace—a reminder of our friend Job, but happily for Job, he did not live in a musical age, or his reputation for patience perhaps would not be so great.

We had a parrot once—I am glad some one else has it now—that bird had just one keynote. I cannot tell whether it was G or A or B—possibly the three combined—GAB; that parrot was musical, but only within the compass of that one note. It never ventured beyond it. It stuck right to the point and never wandered from the subject. It believed in the emphasis of repetition, until it became too emphatic, and we parted. I trust, to meet no more in the same relations which then held us together.

But we cannot always resort to the same means. We cannot part so easily from other musical celebrities. We must bear, and forbear. The consideration of this subject, however, forces me to say that our appreciation of the delights of music, no matter how highly developed it may be, should not rob us of the feelings of consideration for those whose nerves are set on edge and whose enjoyment of the hour is spoiled by the continuous and monotonous discord which an untuned instrument and untrained voice produce. Besides, even if the quality of the music is ever so good, it will always be well to observe the wise man's words. "To everything there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven." I am sure that if Solomon lived in our days he would most assuredly say there is a time to be musical and a time to refrain from being musical. Moderation then, via media even in the matter of music, is the only reasonable course to pursue.

Moreover, believing that music is an art, and that the musician, like the poet, is born, not made, I deem it unwise and extravagant to throw away time and money striving to teach music to children who neither have the capacity nor the inclination for music. I thoroughly believe in accomplishments; but that is no accomplishment which is only half mastered, and in which one never becomes proficient. Much vexation of soul, a vast amount of discouragement as well as time and money, could be saved to parents, if they would only learn that it is useless to make out of their child what God never meant her to be. A child who has no aptitude and no marked desire to learn music, should not be compelled to learn what she will never acquire and what will never be of any earthly use to her, because so indifferently possessed.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Special Correspondent.)

Washington, Aug. 6, 1894.

Were it not for the tariff bill, the end of the session would certainly be very near at hand. The Senate last evening finished the last of the regular appropriation bills—the general deficiency,—and there is now very little work left to be done, except on the great revenue bill. The appropriation bills are all in a very forward state, and the record that has been made on them in the Senate, in point of time, has been very gratifying to the Democratic leaders of both houses. On the first of July, the House had passed every bill, and the Senate had passed one. In five weeks the entire lot has been run through the Senatorial mill, and this would doubtless have been accomplished in less time, had it not been for the delay incident to the first report of the conferees on the tariff. Seven of the fourteen bills have received the approval of the President,—the Fortification, Pension, Military Academy Postal, Diplomatic, Naval and Legislative. The conferees reports on the District and Agricultural bills have been agreed to by both Houses, and are now being enrolled for the signatures of the presiding officers. The Conference Reports on the River and Harbor Bills, and Indian Bill, have been agreed to in part, and the Senate will probably to-day finish the former. The remaining two bills, the Sundry Civil, and the General Deficiency,—are now in conference. All present prophecies of the time of adjournment are arranged in the order of movable feasts. The wisest ones merely admit that Congress will adjourn just as soon as the tariff question is settled. It is to be noted, that they do not say, "when the bill passes", for that is taking long chances on an uncertain ty. No one is now rash enough to predict the date of that event. Foretelling has given place to hoping, and so the situation stands to-day. It may change at any hour, and where at this time the final adjournment really seems a long way off, to-morrow there may come the tidings of such a tariff agreement as will insure the speedy dissolution of Congress. But it must not be expected that the reaching of an agreement on this most important subject in conference will be the signal for immediate, or quick adjournment, for, although, by virtue of the cloture rule, the conference report can be hurried through the House in a few days, or even in a few hours, there is always the prospect of a long, tedious, and apparently, interminable debate in the Senate. This was exemplified by the reception accorded to the first report from the conferees, which precipitated a week's discussion. To be sure, much depends upon the character of the report that will be made, but in almost any event, there will be free talking, as there is hardly a basis of compromise that will not arouse antagonism. On the other hand, a failure on the bill, and an attempt to adjourn, without taking further action, would be the signal of one of the hottest fights of the session.

Church Notes.

Mr. Kelly of near Littlestown, a student of the Gettysburg Theological Seminary, preached an excellent sermon in the Lutheran church on Sunday morning last.

The church or congregation as a body of believers does not revolve about any one individual however prominent, as the earth on its axis, but rather as the earth in its orbit which revolves around the central sun. The great light of the church is Christ, and the true bodies of disciples are like the planets that move around the sun and receive light and heat.

The world often says to the church, "Come walk with me", and the latter to her loss and shame, has extended her white hand, in some cases. The world then looks at the costume of the church and says, "Your dress is most too plain, let me array you in brighter colors and more stylish robes, accept these ornaments of gold and precious stones." In this strain sings a poet sadly in these latter days.

A few shares of the Capital Stock of the CARROLL RECORD Printing and Publishing Company yet remain for sale, the par value of which is $10.00 each. The directors desire to dispose of the shares at once, looking forward to making some additions to the present plant which may prove to be actually indispensable. If it is decided to make the improvement under contemplation, it is very probable that the certificates will all be taken by some of the present shareholders. KATE JORDAN'S CHAT

MATTERS OF INTEREST TO THE UP TO DATE WOMAN.

Fashion, Fads and Fables—A New Trade For Women—A Woman's Specialty, Sketch of Mrs. Kendal—Her Housekeeping.

HERE is a new material in the market that is exquisitely pretty and which is very popular. It is fitly called butter colored batiste and comes with embroideries of various lengths to match. This will be especially becoming to pale brunettes.

It seems that women are not the only ones who devour sensational literature. There must be a tremendous audience of men and boys throughout the country for writers of the daredevil books where the hero, unarmed, easily vanquishes 20 outlaws and where the detective surprises one by stepping from Europe to the Rocky mountains just in time for an important arrest, although how he manages it is a mystery to you. Harlan Page Halsey, better known as Old Sleuth, has made a fortune of almost a million out of stories of this sort. He has an office in one of the lower business streets of the city, where he literally grinds out these stories, so many words an hour.

The artichoke is a great creole dish. It is particularly beloved in New Orleans and occupies about the same place on the table as asparagus does with us. It is eaten when very cold with French dressing and is certainly worth the bother of cooking.

Sweet pea luncheons, dinners, etc., abound at this season. The pretty variegated flowers so deliciously fragrant have spring glamour to them.

If you would be quite correct and very English, get a rough straw walking hat to go with your street gown. They are trimmed with moire ribbon and have quills or black cock feathers at the side.

What will be done next in "sweet charity's name?" Private theatricals are voted tiresome and charades old, so that the belle of this advanced day turns her attention to amateur circuses. There was one in a small, aristocratic settlement not a thousand miles from New York only the other day. Around and around the ring went the pretty girls on horseback, striking at rings on bars, sitting sideways on a horse, etc. "Do you like this?" asked a disapproving man of a little blond who looked tantalizingly lovely in a jockey cap and red satin coat. "Well, you see," she answered, "when I was a little girl, I thought the circus riders the most beautiful things in existence and registered an oath in my baby brain to wear gauze skirts some day and jump through a hoop. So you can understand that this is partly a realization of a long cherished dream. Besides, although it's risky and maybe a little bold, it's for charity, so it goes!"

How much does the rich tresson of a rich bride cost? Have you ever thought about it? I went into a shop on upper Broadway the other day where a French woman manufactures lingerie for those who tread on the velvet and lilies of life. The underwear for the tresson of a banker's daughter was displayed to longing eyed women. It was all of finest linen, sheer as a butterfly's wing, with lace and ribbon so dainty they had the effect of frosting upon it. There were a dozen of everything. The cost? Seventeen hundred dollars. That's all!

No dessert is as grateful in hot weather as iced fruit. If you make pineapple sorbet once you will be sure to make it again. Take a quart of grated pineapple, 2 heaping spoonfuls of gelatin dissolved in of water, a quart of water, a quart of sugar, the juice of a lemon and the beaten whites of 2 eggs. Put in just before freezing.

Onida, who was very much in advance of her times when she wrote "Strathmore" a good many years ago, is very much behind the times now. She not only decries the idea of women being privileged to vote. She loathes the women who are fighting for it. She says: "So long as woman wears dead birds as a mainery and dead seals as coats, so long as she invades literature without culture and art without talent, so long as she shows herself without scruple at every debasing spectacle which is considered fashionable, so long as she is unable to keep her sons out of the shambles of modern sport and her daughters out of the miasma of modern society, she has no title or capacity to demand the privilege or the place of man."

More trinkets are worn now, even with severe cloth gowns, than ever before. They are all in good taste, though, and each has a reason. There is the brooch at the high collar, the sleeve links, just visible in the cuffs; the long empire chain having a vinaigrette, or little silver purse or watch at the end of it; then the chatelaine belt, from which trifles in silver are strung. I know a girl who carries on her belt a silver powder box, bonbon box, mirror, case for nail scissors and file and—yes, indeed—a dainty cigarette case!

Tremulous reverts are worn on coats. There is a new trade for women, and one as dainty and fitting as it is remunerative. On Broadway, at good distances apart, there are three windows which "bloom like the flowers of spring." As you approach them you fully believe that you are gazing at the luxuriant growths of nature in a florist's window. Lilies, Gloire de Dijon roses, sunflowers are all there, making a color harmony against the smoky, blue-gray street. But are they flowers? Only when you have gained the window do you see that you are looking at nothing more nor less than a score of paper lamp shades, each heavy with a mass of paper blossoms so artistically true to the real thing that you stand dumfounded. In a big Japanese shop I stopped to watch half a dozen little Japanese women smiling around a table at which they were making the pretty things. How their fingers flashed! How the flowers grew under them as if the pointed, polished nails were tipped with veritable magic! They were like flowers themselves in their long robes of gold and blue, the pointed sleeves drooping back displaying the very prettiest arms and wrists to be found under the sun. Farther down the street in an American shop there were as many trim, brown haired girls quite as proficient. One bunch of pansies was so perfect a customer fell in love with them, waited until they were finished and bunched and then coolly pinned the bouquet in her dress.

"Oh, you'll never go out on the street with them there! That's not good taste at all," said her friend.

"Only until I meet Charlie," she replied. "I'd like to bet you a pair of gloves he'll think them real. Men are so confiding!" Then they went out to waylay Charlie.

"I suppose it is very difficult to make these?" I said to one of the girls as I examined a bunch of really lovely tiger lilies.

"Any one who has learned how to make the usual kind of artificial flowers can make them," she answered, "only these are so much nicer. They don't stain your fingers at all. There's one thing extra you have to learn," she added, "how to paint just a little—enough to make stripes on a lily like that or give the proper shading to the heart of a rose."

Paper lamp shades are the fad at present. If you despise them because they are paper, you are behind the times. If you think them cheap or common, you will find out your mistake when you go to buy "a perfect beauty."

He was a lawyer, and what he did not know about this poor human nature of ours you may rest assured was not in the least worth knowing. He sat at his big desk, and a woman's daintily monogrammed letter fluttered in his hand. There was a smile upon his lips. "Here is a woman made up of dashes," he said, raising his eyebrows. "The way women punctuate is one of the most curious things in the world!" "Why, they all observe the same rules, don't they?"

"No, not in the least. Men do try to punctuate their letters according to the standard taught them with their grammar; but, however correct and painstaking a woman may be with manuscript, she lets herself go in a personal letter. I have among my correspondents a woman who uses a period all the time—sticks it in wherever she can—and a real black period too. That woman knows her own mind and is as obstinate and patient as a spider in gaining her point. Then there is the woman whose specialty is the semicolon. She is the sort who halts between two opinions and is apt to recapitulate. She is not one of your positive sort, although she is not flabby of will either. But oh, this woman of dashes! Impulsive, uncertain, hasty, malleable! As an example, this particular client, being consistent with her temperament—and her dashes, married in haste and now is bent on moving heaven and earth to get free. I shouldn't be surprised if she fell in love with her ex-husband a year after the divorce. Pin not your faith on the reliability of the woman who uses many dashes for pauses," he said sagely.

Mrs. Kendal has been voted an excellent actress. All the world knows she is a good wife and a loving mother. Indeed she stands out as a shining figure that the people of the stage might well try to emulate. She believes in the old views. "She has no use at all for the 'new woman' who is being featured at present."

"My dears," she said at a young woman's tea lately, "I have never taken a single important step in my life without consulting my husband and obeying him. Why should women not obey? Is it not a happiness to fulfill the wishes of those we love? Obey, then, in a spirit of sympathy and faith. Love your husband first, and the rest will come easy."

Her methods of housekeeping are worth a hearing. In every room of her beautiful home she keeps a slate and pencil. When she makes a daily tour of her house, she writes on this slate what she finds amiss, and the housemaid is expected to consult it. If the housemaid has any reply to make, she writes it also. This saves all possible learning nothing for forgotten, and there is a dignity to it which a conscientious servant is sure to respect.

Sykesville.

On Tuesday night, August 7th., at 8 o'clock, a very pretty wedding was solemnized at "Springfield," the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Phillinger, the contracting parties being their daughter, Miss Letta S., and Mr. Robert W. Carter, of this place. The ceremony was performed by Rev. O. Belt, of the M. E. Church, under a large and spacious tent erected for the occasion on the lawn, which was very prettily decorated with flowers, evergreens and Japanese lanterns. Mrs. Louis Hoopel presided at the organ accompanied by Mr. Wm. M. Chelvey on the violin. The bride was attired in a very pretty white cashmere dress, trimmed in white silk, and wore a tulle veil, and a wreath of orange blossoms, and was attended by her sister, Miss Florence and Miss Ada Carter, sister of the groom. The ceremony was witnessed by over two hundred relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The presents were numerous and handsome.

A wholesale arrest and the novel scene of a midnight court occurred at this place on Thursday night. B. & O. detectives arrested twenty two tramps, supposed to be return Coxeyites, as violators of the law pertaining to riding on freight trains. Justice Gorsuch committed seventeen to the House of Correction, one to house of Refuge, and liberated four.

Mr. A. Schultz and family, of Baltimore, are visiting Mr. L. H. Schultz, of this place. An effort on the part of two of our officers to arrest Frank, one of the noted Johnsons, who has been visiting our town, was frustrated by that individual, on Friday, by escaping to a corn field. Frank is very slippery and what he usually leaves, are tracks with the heels toward the officers.

Our band has moved into new quarters in the center of our village, and now we are furnished with music four nights a week, by it and the orchestra.

A passing train frightened Mr. Jno. T. Kildley's six horse team, a few days ago, and caused them to run away, demolishing the hay scales of L. H. Schultz & Son.

York Road.

Master Clarence Bussard, of Frederick, spent Sunday with his uncle, Mr. C. E. Valentine.

Mrs. Hitesher, who has been visiting her son, Mr. Alfred Hitesher, of Smithburg, has returned to Mr. Lewis Hann's of this place, where she expects to make her future home.

Miss Nannie Reindollar, who has been visiting her parents returned to Smithburg.

Miss Stella Shoemaker, of Harney, and Miss Carrie Hiltbricker, of near Taneytown, called on Miss Bertha Reindollar, Tuesday.

Mr. Harry Reindollar, of Baltimore, who has been visiting his parents at this place has returned home.

Miss Lizzie Cover visited Miss Lulu Birely, of near Keyville, last week. Miss Lulu Forney and Master Veri, of Keyville, spent Wednesday evening with Miss Florence Koozitz.

Mrs. Montfort, of California, aunt of Mr. Geo. Gall, paid him a visit recently.

Mr. and Mrs. John Brown, of Hagerstown, were visiting friends and relatives in this vicinity.

Miss Bertha Reindollar and Florence Koozitz visited the Misses Wilhilde, of near Bruceville, last Wednesday. The day was spent in fishing along Big Pipe Creek. They returned in the evening with a fine string of fish.

Mr. C. H. Koozitz, of Hagerstown, spent Saturday and Sunday with his parents, at this place.

On Wednesday, a gentleman from Union Bridge caught 13 fine bass at Mr. Mehrling's mill dam.

Mr. C. Koozitz shot a crane which measured 17 feet tip to tip.

Mr. Isiah Reinsider is sinking a well at his home place, Mr. Mehrling, the water-smeller from Littleton, found water at 20ft. Price of smelting $2.50.

Mr. Wm. W. Over has purchased a new hay press capable of packing hay in large quantities and is running day and night.

Master Wilbur Myers, while on his way to C. Koozitz's blacksmith shop, was thrown from his horse, but, fortunately was not hurt. It was caused by a bicycle rider running near him. Wheelmen should not become so careless as to endanger the public safety, or special laws for their conduct will be demanded.

Mr. Daniel Diehl of near Uniontown, spent Sunday at Mrs. Otelia Hereter's.

Porters.

The congregation of Messiah Lutheran church will celebrate the 10th. Anniversary of the church, on Saturday, Sunday and Monday, August 18th., 19th., and 20th. Prominent ministers from abroad will be in attendance, and the programme will consist of preaching on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, and Monday morning at 10 o'clock. The ordinance of the Lord's Supper will be administered. All lovers of Christ, no matter what denomination are invited to partake.

Brandenburg M. P. Sunday school held a picnic in the grove adjoining the church, on Saturday afternoon and evening, which was well attended by the beaux and belles of the vicinity. Music furnished by Morgan Chapel Cornet Band.

Robert E. Barnes, wife, and daughter, Miss Bessie Richardson, and Miss Clara Barnes spent Sunday as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Shoemaker at their delightful home, and were delightfully entertained with vocal and instrumental music, by the charming daughters of the hosts.

There is a movement afoot, by some of the young men of our neighborhood, to organize a council of the Jr. O. U. A. M., at Daniel, in the near future, in which they have our hearty co-operation, and best wishes for success, for we consider it a grand order, in which virtue, liberty and patriotism are combined.

Mr. John O. Wardfield's wife and family, of Balto., are visiting Mr. Wardfield's sister, Mrs. Cornelius Wilson.

Several of our neighbors attended Linwood Camp on Sunday, the 5th., inst., among whom were Mr. L. G. Rhinehart and family, Mrs. Jacob Jenkins, and Messrs William French, William Conaway, and Walter Brown. The three latter gentlemen rode up on their bicycles, and made the run of 13 miles in 1 hour which I think (considering the hilly roads, and they being but amateur riders), very good speed.

The Women's Missionary Society will meet on Tuesday evening at the church.

Billiousness Cured.

Dr. Slasher had been treating a patient in Bellevue hospital for disease of the liver, and the patient died, and when the autopsy was held it was discovered that while the liver of the victim was in a perfectly healthy condition, his lungs were dreadfully diseased.

Some of the students who were present began to snicker, whereupon Dr. Slasher remarked: "Gentlemen, what else did you expect. This man's liver was diseased; but, as you see, I cured him completely. That he died of tuberculosis is something with which I had nothing to do."—Texas Siftings.

Why a Store Is Deserted.

One of the curiosities to be found in Southern Ohio, not far from Chillicothe, is a country store that has remained as it now is for over thirty years without the change of a single article. When the war broke out, the man who owned the store had a son. The father was intensely loyal, and persuaded the son to enlist, promising the son that if he should enlist the store and its contents should be his when he returned. Another call for troops came, and the old man locked up the store and shouldered a musket. He remained in the army until peace was declared, and then returned home. His wife had died in the meantime, and no tidings had ever been received from the son. The father worked a small farm that he owned, but never entered the store, saying that it should be there as it was when his son came home to claim it. A quarter of a century has gone, but no word yet from the missing son, and the store stands just as it was over thirty years ago, the old man, now in his dotage, refusing to allow any one to enter it.

A Few Things to Avoid.

Never call upon people just at bed time, or during dinner, or before they are down stairs in the morning.

Never stop people who are hurrying along the streets and detain them for ten to twenty minutes.

Never begin to talk about "this, that and everything" to one who is trying to read the morning paper, or a book or anything else.

Never fail to keep an appointment, Never inconvenience people by coming in late at church, theater, lecture or concert.

Never delay in answering letters or returning books.

Never tell long stories of which you yourself are the hero.

Never speak disrespectfully of your parents nor of your sisters. People may laugh at your wit, but they will despise you for it.

Never talk when others are singing or doing anything else for your amusement, and never, the instant they have finished, begin to talk upon a different topic.

FRENCH ART OF TODAY.

Only the Genius of the People Keeps It From Hopeless Debasement. For years all the art roads have led to Paris. It is today the center of the art world, a model of taste, skill and knowledge as well as a hotbed of eccentricities, mannerisms, stilted affectations and small trickeries. It takes in the world, takes credit for all its virtues and is saddled with all its vices. It is ruled by the quips and cranks of what at times seems outrageous fortune; it is magnified and belittled; it is overpraised and underpraised; it seems to be rising to lofty heights at times and then again to be sinking into the mire. It is at once the best and the worst art center in the world, a crucible where all elements mix, all become alloyed, and yet all average up a respectable grade of amalgam. That which keeps it from hopeless debasement is the art genius of the French people. Has that art genius ever reached its apogee? Has it fulfilled its mission and voiced the finer feelings of France, as painting once did in Italy and Spain? Did we accept the exhibit at the World's fair as a criterion we might think her day was about finished, that her artists had said all there was for them to say, but the representation was inadequate.

The French stand sponsor for all the academic emptiness displayed there, for all the studio recitation, all the exaggerated realism, all the tawdry sentiment, and yet at heart they have little sympathy with them. The academic was foisted upon them early in life by the example of Italy and the misdirected energy of royalty. Ponsin or Lebrun was no more French in thought or method than Corneille. The monarchy upheld the academic because it snatched of heroism and the empire because it fostered the military spirit, but the republic has barely tolerated it. It is the bete noir of French art, against which there has been a long series of revolutions. Why, if not that it fails to represent the French? They are fond enough of talking about such loyalists as Ponsin, David, Ingres and Cabanel, but the men they love are the rebels, Watteau, Fragonard, Delacroix, Millet, Corot, Courbet. The vicious, the decorative, the emotional, the sentimental, the positive—all these they love because they are national characteristics, but the mock heroic, the grandiloquent, the bombastic, have been more the result of foreign imitation than the outcrop of French feeling.—John C. Van Dyke in Century.

Photographs of "Lip Speech."

What is regarded as the greatest triumph of the photograph was the recent successful experiment by E. Oscar Dameny of Berlin in taking photographs of "lip speech." By making successive negatives of the movements of the lips of a rapid talker he managed to arrange photographs printed from them in such a manner that deaf mutes who were familiar with "lip speech" could plainly interpret every word that the speaker uttered.—St. Louis Republic.
