Our hunters were out bright and early Saturday morning after squirrels. Don't rush the sport too lively boys, or you might spoil the game in more ways than one.

A large crayon portrait of Emanuel Wolfe of this place, displayed in one of the windows of P. B. Englar's clothing store for several days last week, attracted a great deal of attention and favorable comment.

The attention of investors is called to the advertisement of Francis H. Elliot in our columns this week. This is the first desirable business location which has been offered for sale in Taneytown for a number of years.

Mr. Geo. W. Wilt, of Flemingsburg, Kentucky, in company with his daughter, Douglass, is visiting his brother Henry O. Wilt, near town. Mr. Wilt left this place in 1860 and has been home only 3 times since that date, in 1869, 1876 and 1894. His son, Wm. M. Wilt is editor of the Flemingsburg Gazette. Mr. W. is one of the "old Taneytown boys", and his letters to the Sentinel some years ago signed O. B., giving reminiscences of his boyhood days in this place will be remembered by many of our readers, as they were generally appreciated. We hope that hereafter the Record may be favored with communications from him.

Elder J. A. Long is holding a series of meetings in the German Baptist church in Union Bridge, which will continue over next week. Services each evening at 7:30 o'clock; also on Sunday morning, 9th. inst. All are invited to be present.

MR. BAKER FOR CONGRESS.

Unanimously Nominated by the Republicans at Havre de Grace.

State Senator William B. Baker, of Harford county, was nominated Tuesday by the republican convention of the second district for the Fifty-fourth Congress. Mr. Baker's nomination was unanimous, no other name being presented to the convention.

The second congressional district is composed of Cecil, Harford and Carroll counties, eleven districts of Baltimore county, (not including the first and thirteenth district,) the twentieth, twenty-first and twenty-second wards of Baltimore city, and the ninth precinct of the eleventh ward of Baltimore city.

The convention met at noon in the town hall of Havre de Grace, and was called to order by State Senator Wm. B. Baker, who was designated by H. M. Clabaugh, of Carroll county, chairman of the republican State central committee. On motion of Mr. Clabaugh, Leon Seliger, of Baltimore city, was unanimously named as temporary chairman, and H. M. McCullough, of Cecil county, temporary secretary. The convention passed the following resolution:

"The republican party of the second congressional district of Maryland declares that it believes in the protection of American industries and in the proper restriction of imports for its face value in all the markets of the world; in the administration of the federal government in the interests of the whole people and not congressional legislation as administered by the democratic party in the interest of the whiskey, sugar and other trusts.

"We do not believe in a party which has discouraged the industries of the country, repressed labor, all commercial interests and agricultural products of all kinds, and which threatens to renew in the next Congress the same tariff agitation which has already spread ruin and disaster throughout the country.

"We are in favor of congressional aid to the Chesapeake and Delaware ship-canal, thereby connecting the chief metropolis of our State directly with the ocean."

Mr. Baker addressed the convention. He said he had come to the convention determined not to take the nomination, but as his friends had insisted that his candidacy would strengthen the ticket, he was willing to make the fight and would do all in his power for the party to which he had belonged all his life. He thanked the convention for the honor conferred on him. Mr. Baker was heartily cheered when he concluded.

Senator Wm. B. Baker, of Harford county, was elected to the State Senate in 1893. He is fifty-four years of age, and was born in Havre de Grace, of Havre de Grace, who was defeated for Congress two years ago by J. Fred. C. Talbott. He is chairman of the Harford county republican executive committee and a member of the republican State central committee. He was elected to the House of Delegates from Harford in 1881 as a republican.

Very Sick.

Some time ago there was a family who had in its employ a dusky maiden from the Sunny South. She came into the house one day looking very shy. The mistress of the house asked her, "What is the matter Josephine?" She answered, "I've been very sick, and I hung up all over de yard." It is very evident that since the last county convention, "a better Republican than Harry Clabaugh," has been "very sick." It is to be hoped he is convalescent, by this time, whoever he is.

Labor Day in Baltimore.

Labor day, the one distinctive holiday of the workmen of the country, which was made a National holiday by a special bill of the last Congress, was generally observed all over the country on Monday last.

In Baltimore there was a street parade which was participated in by George A. Labor. There was about 8000 persons in the parade, twenty-three bands of music, and many floats illustrative of the various trades represented, divided into five companies. The streets were lined with thousands of people intent on seeing the display. The objective point was at Dargy Park where the parade was broken, and after speech-making, dancing, bowling, and other amusements were indulged in.

It was also a great day for Base Ball, as about 25,000 persons saw the games between the Baltimore and Cleveland clubs, while at least 10,000 were shut out of the grounds. It was the greatest crowd which ever assembled in Baltimore on such an occasion, and will long be remembered both by those who saw the games, as well as by those who did not.

Patriotic Day at Pen-Mar.

Pen-Mar, which is becoming a famous place for re-unions of various kinds, was the scene of the first reunion of Patriotic societies of Pennsylvania and Maryland, on Thursday last. This, the first of such events which will likely be held annually, was a satisfactory first effort, but the management was not wholly perfect, and by another year no doubt the scope of the event will be of a broader and more official character, and be more generally participated in.

An immense crowd of people were on the grounds, principally from nearby points. The parade which formed at 1:30, was poorly handled, and an inopportune shower completely spoiled the demonstration.

Pen-Mar at best is not a good place for a large parade, yet with proper system just such a parade as this with its flags, banners, glittering regalia and brass bands, would produce a most picturesque effect at this beautiful spot of nature.

The really fine feature of the day was the speechmaking. While the program was long it was not tiresome to those who enjoy eloquent, patriotic and intelligent efforts such as were made by Prof. F. F. Hartman, I. C. Elver, Esq., Prof. F. A. Buschman, of Baltimore, A. B. Saybault, Ex-State chancellor, of Philadelphia, Maj. R. M. Reed, of Philadelphia, Hon. W. U. Brewer, of Chambersburg, and others. Maj. Reed who is well known to the P. O. S. of A. of this place and Westminster, was the speaker of the day and was liberally applauded. Prof. Zeigler's orchestra added considerably to the enjoyment of the occasion. The enterprising Blue Ridge Zephyr issued a handsome souvenir edition printed on fine paper and handsomely illustrated.

COUNTY CORRESPONDENCE.

Harney.

Last week Upton Stoner had the misfortune to fall and dislocate his wrist. Dr. G. J. E. Sponseller was immediately called upon and rendered the necessary surgical assistance in a very skillful manner.

Mrs. Lavina Shriner is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Maggie Reindollar, at York Road.

Miss Bertha Reindollar, of York Road, spent several days visiting friends in this place. Frank Reindollar also paid us a short visit on last Tuesday.

Mr. S. S. Shoemaker has sold out his entire stock of store goods to Mr. Wm. Snyder. At this writing they are busy taking an invoice of the stock, and Mr. Snyder will take charge of the business immediately. This is a good stand, and we believe that he will do a good business.

Mr. O. T. Shoemaker has just finished digging a well deeper on Mr. J. Newcomers farm; we are informed that the flow of water was about 2 gallons per minute, this we think will be sufficient for farm use if it holds out.

Beware young ladies! Some of our young men who despise the popular fashion that the ladies seem to take so much pride in, are looking up law for the sylt all women of whatever rank, profession, or degree, who shall after this act, impose upon, seduce, and betray into matrimony any of his majesty's subjects by virtue of scents, paints, cosmetic washes, artificial teeth, false hair, eye-knots, stays, bolstered hips, or high heeled shoes, shall incur the penalty of the law now in force against witchcraft and like misdemeanors; and the marriage under such circumstances, upon conviction of the offending parties, shall be null and void. These young men think the English law a good one and say they will not rest until it is established in the United States.

York Road.

Miss Lenora Edwards and niece, Helen McQuaid, who have been spending several months with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dayhoff, left for their home in Boston, Mass., on Monday last.

Miss Englar and sister, of Baltimore, visited Dr. and Mrs. Buffington, of this place, Monday last.

The prayer meeting at the Christian Workers Camp, of Linwood, has considerable trouble keeping order. On last Sunday evening, some unknown person or persons stooped so low as to throw stones in the congregation while services were in order.

One of the stones struck a gentleman on the leg, and several others came too near for comfort. We hope the guilty parties will be brought to justice if found out. The minister offers $5 reward to any one who will report the guilty person.

Mr. Oliver C. Warfield, of Baltimore, an independent candidate for Congress of the second congressional district, was in town on Saturday, canvassing. He travelled on a Columbia bicycle and said they are the best made.

Mr. Harry Smith met with a painful accident Wednesday evening while working at the canning factory of Stouffer and Hawk. He was working with the cob ear when his finger was caught on the track crushing it very badly. Dr. John Buffington rendered surgical aid. Quite a number of other accidents have happened since the factory opened.

Public school will open Monday, with Robert E. Barnes as principal and Westminster as principal.

The college will open on the 19th, and Miss Kleish's select school on the 17th.

Mr. Richmond Adams, of Balto., returned home Aug. 30th., having spent several weeks in the neighborhood, and made many friends, who miss his pleasant face and genial manner, and who will be glad to see him, back at any time.

The camp held by the "Christian Workers" bids fair to be interesting in more ways than one, as we understand there was a fight Sunday night, and Wednesday night a denunciation of the christian churches in the neighborhood. Just what the next attraction will be, we cannot say.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse C. Shriner and Miss Elsie B. Shriner, who have just returned from a visit to Mr. S's brother, in Boston, Mass., and Miss Milton Carvel and son, and Miss Grace Dashiell, of Balto., are guests of Mrs. E. L. Shriner.

Miss Carrie Englar returned to Baltimore, Sept. 1st., to continue her studies at school.

Master Charlie Englar son of F. J. Englar is very ill with typhoid fever.

Mr. Sterling Koonz is on a visit to his parents at Linwood.

Manchester.

We, people of Manchester are getting along in our usual quiet way with our usual daily fishing party, a game of base ball that causes a ripple for the true being upon the smooth waters of every day life. Yet taking it as a whole we have much to be thankful for in this community.

From the reports coming in there has been an abundant harvest of the cereals, while the corn crop is quite good and the turn-out of potatoes, while less than the average, promises a surplus for the market.

The absence of rain for several weeks has made the ground quite dry and dusty and is holding back seedling operations among our farmers. The fruit crop has been quite good and some persons are having apples enough to make cider and are boiling butter. So you see as said we have much to be thankful for, although not enjoying electric and steam railroad facilities as you good people do, that is, you enjoy the electric, I see in the fight for it. That is the way to accomplish the end.

Our Mayor and Council are handicapped in carrying out the provisions of some of their ordinances on streets and public alleys, in the absence of a plot in the town or any record of the lines that were established when the corporate limits were laid out, all seeming to have passed away with the death of Mr. James Kelly who made the survey, and had a plot of the whole town, which cannot be found. In order to act intelligently in their execution of the laws the Mayor and Council resolved at a meeting on Tuesday evening to have the town surveyed and the lines established. They have employed Mr. Weldon B. Wooden, of Hampstead, to do the work. He is a graduate of the Lehigh University and comes well recommended for accurate work.

The remains of Mr. Charles Rhodes were laid away to rest, on Monday last, at the age of 19 years. This young man was quite a charge for sometime to his parents, being an epileptic, and for some months needed special nursing. The mother being a paralytic for several years could not add any relief to the father's attention; who has had the sympathy of the community in these afflictions.

A glass partition has been placed in the lecture room of Trinity Reformed church dividing off rooms for the infant department and the library from the main room.

Mr. Clay Wilhelm cut his foot quite badly on Tuesday morning while cutting wood.

Wm. Wolf is confined to his room with a badly bruised foot caused by a crow bar striking it.

Mr. W. B. Wooden has commenced surveying the boundary line of the corporation limits.

Sudden Death.

William Myerly a well known millwright of this county, whose home is in Uniontown district, who had been assisting in making some repairs at Waters' Mill several miles from this place, was taken suddenly with cramps on Tuesday evening last, and died on Wednesday morning. Mr. Myerly was a man of fine physique and generally popular. The sudden death is a great shock to his family and friends.

He leaves a wife and two children.

Death of Jesse C. Engel.

Jesse C. Engel, youngest son of John Engel, of Johnsville, and brother of Mrs. E. W. Stoner of Union Bridge, died in Marysville, Kentucky, of paralysis. He was aged 62 years, less two days. Mr. Engel married Miss Laura Boston, and lived near Unionville for a number of years, but for the last 15 years he has lived in Tennessee. He leaves a widow and two children, a son and a daughter.

HAVOC IN MINNESOTA.

Terrible Forest Fires. The Losses Run into Millions. Towns Entirely Destroyed.

The loss of over four hundred lives, five or six smaller settlements, and the laying waste of miles of timber land, is the terrible record of the forest fires in Minnesota. Saturday and Sunday the flames spread over many miles of country, leaving nothing but desolation in their track. Such destruction of life and property by forest fires was never before known in this country. The flames were checked by rain, and several other towns to which the fire was rapidly spreading were saved. The towns of Hinckley and Sandstone were entirely destroyed. Nearly four hundred lives were lost in this section alone. The railroad companies also lose heavily. For miles the rails were warped and the ties burned. A number of cars were destroyed. The loss in property and timber burned will run up into millions. In Wisconsin and Michigan several villages were partially destroyed, and many farms burned over, and over three thousand persons are homeless. The latest estimates of the dead in the devastated towns in Minnesota are:

Hinckley, 200; Sandstone, 62; Miller, 12; between Skunk Lake and Miller, 12; Pokegama, 28; in lumbering camps and scattering estimate, 100; total, 414. Sept. 4.—The death toll resulting from the forest fires increases and now more than 650 persons are known to be lost, the greater part of whom are women and children. In a stretch of territory twenty-six miles long, and from one to fifteen miles wide not a single habitation has been left standing. The work of the flames has been cyclonic in character. Where the fire raged, not a tree is left standing except a blackened stump. The fire is still raging. Thorpy, Wisconsin is burning, and other places are threatened. The loss so far is almost incalculable.

In addition to the Minnesota and Wisconsin fires, there are also extensive fires in the Pennsylvania lumber region. It is reported that English Centre, a village of 30 inhabitants in Lycoming county, has been destroyed by forest fires, and other sections of the county have suffered losses of thousands of dollars. From Bradford, Pa., also comes the report that fires are raging in that vicinity. Doyle's mills has asked for help, as the flames are sweeping toward the town. As all the telegraph and telephone lines are down it is difficult to know the exact situation.

Base Ball.

A game of base ball was played here on Thursday last, between the Emmitsburg and senior club, which was interesting but not very exciting. Our boys connected with Mr. Moore's curves in the first few innings, to such an extent that Emmitsburg did not get near them at any time. Reindollar and Barker played for the home club and both did well, and received good support. The best of order prevailed, and everybody was kept in good humor by "Hokey" who was almost equal to "Jim" Henry.

The following is the score by innings:

GENERAL NEWS.

Gen. Nathaniel Prentiss Banks, soldier and statesman, died of brain trouble shortly after 8 o'clock last Monday morning, in Waltham.

Two millions of the new playing card revenue stamps made necessary by the Tariff bill have been printed in the last two weeks.

A terrible flood occurred in Texas last week, in which the town of Uvalde was submerged, and many of the houses wrecked, by the overflowing of the banks of the Leona river. A number of persons living in and below the town were drowned.

It will be in the closing months of 1895 that Utah will become a State—the 45th. The recent act of Congress authorizes the holding of a convention in Utah to frame a constitution. This convention is to assemble in March next, and the constitution it produces will be voted upon by the Utah people in November, 1895. If it be ratified by the people and approved by President Cleveland, the latter will then issue a proclamation declaring Utah a State. At the last census Utah had a population of 207,965, a very respectable figure for a new state.

Six negroes were lynched in Tennessee who were supposed to have been part of an organized gang who have been burning barns and dwellings. The negroes had been arrested by a detective who had them in a wagon in hand cuffs, when they were surrounded by a masked band of lynchmen who riddled them with bullets. A coroner jury was summoned, with the usual result, "death resulted at the hands of the lynchmen, unknown." Later, the detectives, driver of the wagon and three other persons have been arrested on suspicion for being concerned in the lynching, and lodged in jail.

Treasury officials are much gratified at the rapid increase in the receipts, as it now seems probable, at least, that the stringency which has prevailed for so long is about at an end. As was expected, the receipts, both from customs and internal revenue, have been comparatively heavy of late and have brought the cash balance up to a point beyond danger. The gold reserve is also gaining slowly, but it is expected that as soon as cotton and grain shipments are in earnest the tide of gold shipments will again set toward our shores. It is not expected, however, that the present abnormally heavy receipts from customs duties will continue after the goods now in bond have all been taken out.

The hostilities in the east seem to be gradually turning in favor of the Chinese. Numerous, unimportant victories have been gained, in which the Japanese have been compelled to retreat. Japanese citizens are fleeing from Chinese cities as they are not granted either protection or mercy, although they are non-combatants. It is reported that the Japanese are pursuing a large number of Chinese already captured appear to be pleased at having been made prisoners, as they receive better treatment than they are accustomed to when at large in their own country. It is proposed to send these prisoners to China, where they will not fail to speak in high terms of the treatment they received while in Japan, and those who hear of this would be so desirous of experiencing the same treatment that they would not fight with any ardor when they encountered the Japanese troops, but would lay down their arms and run to the Japanese as self-surrendered prisoners.

THE POLITICAL pot begins to boil at a lively rate, and political papers are beginning to stir up the mud in the bottom of it. As usual, some one will be splattered, but it always washes off with "soap", and sometimes without.

THERE is considerable speculation as to the cause of the smoky appearance of the atmosphere. Some think it is smoke from the great forest fire in the northwest, but it is more likely due to other causes. Probably it arises from the battle field in the Sixth congressional district.

UNDER THE new law, persons who practice veterinary medicine in this state must be regularly examined by the State Veterinary Medical Board, which will begin its sittings on Sept. 11th. Every practitioner in this line will be compelled to register, and can practice only on a diploma stating that the person is competent.

Probably.

Probably the Electric Road will be built from Westminster to Gettysburg, and probably not. It may come by the way of Taneytown, and it may not. Whatever may happen in the matter, we do not see that we have either much to gain, or much to lose.

If our people want it, they ought to have it, and should expect to pay for it. Nothing of much value is ever secured in any other honest way. So far as our men of means are concerned who live in this town—we seriously say to them—if you have any money to invest, invest it right here in a Water Company. This is a necessity and a protection, as well as a luxury. The Electric road is a luxury pure and simple, and a doubtful investment at best.

Protection at night.

Nearly a year ago the question of employing a night watchman to patrol the business section of the town, was agitated, and the amount necessary to secure such services was about subscribed, but, for some reason the matter was left dormant. As the season is rapidly approaching in which burglaries are generally committed, and in fact have already commenced in other sections of the state, it behooves our business men to agitate the question anew. Our town is practically in quiet and darkness at 12 o'clock at night, and the hours from 12 to 3 a. m. are the ones during which the most serious burglaries are committed. Surely a good reliable person can be secured for about 4 hours each night, whose services would be worth what they cost to our business men. The cares of business during the day, and the uncertainty in connection with business investments in the ordinary, are certainly enough to worry the business man, without being compelled to be afraid to take the little rest at night which is absolutely necessary to him.

As the town is yet too small to have a regularly paid police, the only protection in that line which business men can look for, is that which they pay for themselves, and if all unite in the matter the cost to each will be comparatively small.

Now is the time to make the arrangement, and not after some one has lost several hundred dollars by a burglary. If we would have a night watchman the thiefing fraternity would soon get to know it, and would give the town a wide berth, which would relieve the watchman him self from danger, and secure the business men the security which they desire.

With a competent watchman the various stores could let a light burn which would partially light up their store rooms, and if the town officials would agree to let the street lamps on Baltimore Street burn until morning, there would be almost no danger from burglars, as they shun light. There should be no objection from the town authorities to a little extra expense in gasoline, for the merchants as a rule are heavy tax-payers, and are entitled to such a concession. We should like to hear from those interested in the question, and if it is given the attention it is entitled to, there will be no trouble about securing this protection.

Prosperity South, and Here.

If reports are correct the South will enjoy a measure of prosperity this fall which will not be approached by any other section. The cotton crop is very luxuriant and the best for many years, while the corn and other crops are fine, and have been produced at less expense than usual. It is said too, that the people in the Carolinas and other cotton states have discontinued the old practice of mortgaging their crops in advance, and that this year they will have a good sized surplus for sale over what will be used for personal needs, and the system of economy which they have been practicing for several years has placed them in a present position of comparative ease. This happy condition, if true, seems to have been brought about solely on account of unusual crops, and because the tariff question has but little bearing on the interests of the section referred to, particularly in manufacturing. While the South is better off in an industrial sense than it has been for a generation, the North and West is not in such a promising condition, as the corn crop particularly is much below the average, and manufacturing interests are crippled and unsettled. While Maryland is classed as a Southern state, we are really the middle ground between the two, particularly the Western portion of the state—and it is probable that our present condition and prospects represent the mean between the prosperity of the south and the not so rosy situation north. Our farmers who have been economical and prudent in past years should not be so badly off now, even with 50 cent wheat. Wheat is not the whole dependence of the farmer, but it has undoubtedly a great influence in persuading them to believe that because it is below the point of profit, that everything is going to ruin, and that there is no bright side to anything.

The farmer has heretofore been securing fair prices for everything; that is, making a profit on all his produce. The present situation acquaints him with a phase of business with which merchants have been acquainted for 20 years, or since the steady decline in prices of merchandise, that of being compelled to sell a portion of their stock each year for less than cost.

Even including wheat at the present price, it is likely that our section is in a better financial shape than last year, so far as the farming community is concerned; and, if people could just make up their minds to believe that everything is not "going to the dogs", chase that frown off their face, and get that chronic complaint out of their mouths, we have no doubt that the effect would be healthy all around.

DON'T PLACE too much dependence upon luck. Success in any field lies largely with the man himself, and is not the outcome of luck. This is particularly true in regard to advertising. Right methods bring about better results than haphazard luck. —Press and Printer.

The New York Weekly Tribune is by many considered the best news and family paper in the United States. Politically it is aggressively republican and has the courage of its convictions. R. G. Horr who is probably the best posted man in the country on the tariff question, and all other political questions which interest the great masses of the country, is a regular and voluminous contributor, and is a convincing debater. The editorial department is ably conducted and the principles of republicanism are warmly defended, while other great questions are intelligently ventilated by competent writers. Other leading features of the Tribune are its departments for the farm, home and workshop. As a newspaper it easily takes first rank, and occupies a position enjoyed by but few journals from the fact that its tone is clean and moral, and the more objectionable occurrences, and sensational and immoral events are conspicuous by their absence. Altogether, the Tribune is a mine of valuable information each issue of its 20 pages and should be in every family in the country. We furnish it with the CARROLL RECORD for one year for only $1.25 for the two.

Useless Drugging.

It is fortunate that most people are in the enjoyment of some natural ability to withstand disease, since they are thus freed from much useless experimenting with drugs.

Even when one is suffering from a rather serious disorder, it will generally be found that attention to the natural laws of health is a more rational mode of treatment than dosing.

Aside from the usefulness of endeavoring to find something for every ailment, however slight, the practice sets up in the patient an appetite, as it were, for various concoctions, and predisposes him to the habit of being on the watch for cure-alls.

Not that we should omit treatment of serious illness, or cease our efforts to provide what are recognized as specifics for them. Prompt recognition of the urgency of a case and careful attention to the prescribed treatment have doubtless saved many lives.

But to confound a case which is really deserving of sympathy and careful treatment with one whose only claim to attention is that the patient is "incurable," is highly inexcusable. To give medicine to such persons may almost be called a crime, since, as we have said, drugs are useless and positively harmful when they are not directed against a specific disorder in an intelligent manner.

A person who has long been a sufferer, or who has shown signs of being "spleeny," should be encouraged to do without drugs as far as possible. He should be led to look upon medicines as in the main simply mixtures of poison, the use of which is to be avoided except under the most urgent circumstances.

In this way the moral strength of the patient is reinforced, and he is enabled to get away from his own troubles, and out of himself, into a more wholesome and unselfish sphere.

But what is of far more importance, and more in line with the point which is aimed at in this paper, is that a large proportion of the troubles which so weighed down the body of the sufferer will be found to have taken flight. —Youth's Companion.

Changes in Election Laws.

In that kind of legislation which affects most directly the fundamentals of American citizenship—the department of electoral reform—the present year has few notable changes to report. The fact that most of the States are now conducting elections under a secret ballot system—those which have not secured such a system during the past five years can be counted on the fingers of one hand—sufficiently accounts for the general indisposition to tamper further with the electoral machinery. Virginia is the last state to adopt the Australian method of nominating and voting. In Kentucky and Colorado there have been revisions of existing election laws; reappointments have been made in New Jersey and South Carolina. Rhode Island at last decides to elect representatives in Congress by plurality rather than majority vote. Massachusetts makes more effective her educational qualification of the suffrage by providing that each voter shall be required to read from a slip containing a portion of the state constitution, each of these slips to be drawn from a box. It is believed that this method of applying the constitutional test will do away with the old form of fraud which consisted in using set passages of the document, carefully committed to memory by the illiterate voter. Massachusetts has also adopted a thorough-going primary elections law, which embodies practically all the regulating machinery already adopted very generally in the state and especially indorsed by the Republicans for use in their party caucuses. In New York, permission has been granted to extend the use of the Myers voting machine from town to city elections, although some doubt remains as to whether the use of such a device conforms fully to the present constitutional requirement of "voting by ballot." The convention now in session at Albany is apparently disposed to recommend a clause in the new constitution which will permit the use of such machines in all state and local elections. In Ohio women are granted the right to vote for school directors, and in Iowa on questions of bonds and taxes for school and municipal purposes. —From "Recent State Legislation," by W. B. Shaw, September Review of Reviews.

Feeding Wheat to Stock.

The Philadelphia Record says: Grain merchants report frequent references to the larger consumption of wheat for animal food in their letters from Western correspondents. Here are a few extracts from communications received within a few days by I. M. Parr & Sons, of the Philadelphia Commercial Exchange, from business firms in different parts of the West, which give some idea of the extent of the substitution of wheat for other grains which is now in progress. A Logansport (Ind.) firm writes:

"Saw mills in this section are putting in feed mills to grind wheat, and many farmers have bought cast-iron crushers, which they will run by horse power for the same purpose. One farmer, who has raised 3,000 bushels of wheat, will feed 2,000 bushels."

A Van Wert, Ohio dealer, says: "All the farmers in this section are feeding wheat and selling oats."

A large shipping firm at Columbus, Ohio, makes this report:

"The wheat we are shipping to New England is nearly all used for feeding purposes, and we have forwarded over two hundred and fifty earloads so far this month. In our twenty years' experience in the grain business in Ohio this is the first time we have ever shipped wheat to New England for feeding. Farmers who have given the matter careful study claim that a bushel of wheat will go as far as 1 1/2 bushels of corn."

A St. Louis correspondent writes that his firm is shipping wheat to Iowa to be used for feeding, and from Topeka, Kan., grain dealers write:

"We have sold a great many cars of wheat for feed, and every day receive letters and telegrams from Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas asking about wheat for the purpose and about its cost. More wheat has been sold for feed in our territory during the last thirty days than has been before sold for that use (we believe) in as many years."

A Jamestown (Ohio) dealer reports that farmers in his section secure the best results in feeding to hogs "by crushing the berry of the wheat and casting it over a good grade of clover hay previously cut and dampened for the purpose."

These are fair samples of the results of private investigation of the subject of wheat feeding in sections of the country where the scarcity and comparatively high cost of corn and the abnormal cheapness of wheat have induced a trial of the experiment by farmers. The economic effects of this movement may prove to be of sufficient importance to warrant future careful inquiry by the Federal Department of Agriculture as to its extent and its influence upon prices of grain and the profits of meat production.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Special Correspondent.)

Washington, Sept. 3, 1894.

Representative Wilson, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee was in the city to-day, and had a short conference with some of the members of the Congressional Campaign Committee. Arrangements are being made to have his speech, delivered at Martinsburg last Wednesday brought out as a campaign document. Its circulation will depend upon the House members of the Campaign Committee. The Senators will not indorse it, as it is a repudiation of their action on the tariff.

There was more or less gossip here to-day with regard to the letter of Vice-President Morton, expressing his willingness to become the Republican candidate for Governor of New York. Among Republicans there was a great general expression of satisfaction. Mr. Morton, it is believed by his friends in this city who have watched his career and know his record, would make a very strong candidate. The Democrats recognize that fact and view with no little alarm the probability of his nomination. In connection with the gossip regarding New York politics and the nomination of Mr. Morton there is considerable talk of the Democratic nominee. It is whispered here that the Administration desires to name a candidate, and has selected the leading politician of the Cabinet, Secretary Lamont, of the War Department. The mention of Col. Lamont's name recalls the numerous Post-Office appointments which Mr. Cleveland made just before leaving for Gray Gables. The fifty-six appointments in New York State are said to be all in the interest of the anti-snapper faction. It is now suggested that these newly-made officials may be of great assistance in carrying out Mr. Cleveland's desire to nominate his Secretary of War for Governor on the Democratic ticket.

It is too early to say much of the effects of the tariff bill. Everybody has been busy arranging his affairs under the new order of things. The chief business has been the withdrawal of foreign goods from bond and paying internal taxes on whiskey. In many lines of trade there has been more activity than there was in mid-summer or a year ago, when the panic was at its height. Bank clearings showed an increase of 20 per cent above panic business in the corresponding week and 5 per cent of the corresponding period in 1892. Some dealers in dry goods have been busy and in many lines of trade there is hope of better times. There is no boom, however, and the money market and the price of agricultural productions have not changed appreciably. That seems to be the general feeling in business circles here. So far as I can learn, not one word of favor has been spoken in business circles of the letter to Congressman Catchings. Indeed, the President's intimation that the Gorman bill is only a make-shift, has caused no little consternation and anxiety and is quite likely to have checked much of the favorable impulse which would be sure to follow the passing of any tariff bill, if such legislation were to be regarded as a permanent disposition of the tariff at least for some years.

Va.; third, John Barr, Glenn Division, of Eau Claire, Wis.; fourth, Mystic No. 12, of Girard, Kansas; Fifth, New Albany No. 5, of New Albany, Ind.; sixth, Yellow Cross No. 85, of Alliance, O.; seventh, Prevost No. 1, of Kansas, City, Mo.; eighth, Terre Haute, No. 3, of Terre Haute, Ind.; ninth, Lily No. 16, of Radcliff, Ia.; tenth, Indianapolis, Ind.

FINE DRAFT HORSES.

Specimens of the Two Breeds That Are Most Popular in America.
In spite of the tendency to trotting stock and showy carriage horses among breeders, those who have stuck to the heavy draft in spite of all temptation to turn out a 2:05 flier have done well. Heavy draft breeding is mostly confined to the Pennsylvania and the north-western states. Illinois perhaps ranks next to Canada in the number and quality of her draft horses. Our home breeders of Percherons and Clydesdales are now bringing their stock to such perfection that there is comparatively little importation of these breeds. We can grow such good horses at home that we no longer need to send them to France or Scotland for them.

This is an imported horse, owned in Illinois. He is a beautiful animal, 6 years old, of the favorite Percheron dark dapple gray color. He is 16 hands high and weighs a ton when in good flesh. From his breast through to his powerful shoulders he measures 2 feet 11 inches. His girth is 7 feet 2 inches.

The second illustration is a portrait of the champion prize winning Clydesdale stallion of any age at the World's fair. The Clydesdale breeding industry has suffered less than many others during the depression of the past year.

There is bound to be something of a reaction in favor of heavy draft horse breeding, since farmers are finding that they cannot raise fast trotters. For one successful trotter or thoroughbred there are 20 that are failures. We hear of the successes. A Pennsylvania breeder of drafts says he has made money steadily with well broken and matched heavy teams. Minnesota begins to show up as a raiser of fine drafts too. Breeders should always bear in mind that they can raise just as fine heavy horses in the United States as can be produced in Canada, and they should work accordingly.

Bob Veal.

What is your opinion of the man who would send to market for sale as food for human beings a calf weighing but 18 pounds? So far as the manhood of such a creature is concerned, isn't he about as small a specimen as the calf? Yet such a calf came to this market the other day—shipped from the country, too, although we hope not by a farmer. It didn't get much farther than the market, for it was seized by the board of health and consigned to the dump. This is the smallest calf of which we remember having heard, although quantities of them are received weighing not over 25 or 30 pounds. A commission merchant informs us that he knows of a number which have been taken from the wagons of the transportation companies within the past few days. Another commission merchant informs us that he knows of a firm that is smuggling quantities of these bob calves into the back part of their store to be sold on the sly as customers can be secured. Numbers of calves are to be seen hanging openly in the market, exposed for sale, which are altogether too small to be fit for consumption. What must those be, then, which it is necessary to smuggle in? This is an infamous business because it endangers the health and lives of hundreds and thousands of innocent victims.—Rural New Yorker.

Foot Rot.

Every one who has handled a sheep's foot must have noticed just above the hoof and between the tops of the claws a small office covered by fine hairs and evidently the end of a duct. A viscid fluid escapes from this duct when the sheep is in health, says a writer in an Australian paper. In every sheep that I have seen affected with foot rot this little duct is closed or sealed. The escaping fluid has become hard. What is the name of this duct? Is it connected with a secretory gland for lubricating the sheep's foot? Finally is the closing of the duct an effect of foot rot, or is it a cause? It is very important that this should be followed up and worked out.

I once asked an accredited veterinary surgeon what this duct was for, and did it extend far into the foot? The reply was that it was only superficial and of no use. I cannot help thinking that the duct is connected with a gland, which gland supplies a fluid for lubricating the tendons of the foot.—Exchange.

Experiments made at the Minnesota station in the fattening of lambs and wethers indicate that the lambs got a half more of value per ton out of their food than the wethers did.

Corn, with one-tenth its weight of cottonseed meal added, was found at the Minnesota station to be the most profitable ration on which to fatten lambs at present prices. Screenings were nearly equal to the corn as a sheep food.

At the London zoological garden there was a few years ago a pony that was only 26 inches high. She was evidently a direct descendant from the prehistoric horse, which scientists tell us was not much larger than a cat.

DO NOT KILL THEM.

BIRDS THAT ARE REAL AIDS TO FARMERS AND GARDENERS.

The Harm They Do Is Small Compared to the Good They Accomplish—Even the Much Abused Hawk and Owl Render Valuable Service and Do Slight Harm.
"No decent person who knows the value of birds that sing, whether their notes be harsh or sweet voiced, will ever kill a singing bird," said a naturalist. "Thousands of birds that are of inestimable value to the farmer as well as to the town dweller who grows fruit or keeps a garden are slaughtered ruthlessly every year."

"The farmer, the gardener and the fruit grower should know more about the birds that nest and sing and flit about their premises; for then they would defend and protect them and in time have them back in something like their old time numbers and variety. How often nowadays does one see the saucy, rich voiced, nervous little wren? A few years ago it was seen and heard everywhere, but it must be a favored locality that it visits now. Yet the little wren was a most ravenous devourer of the pestiferous and destructive outworn of the garden and did great work toward lessening the damage done by the pest of the soil. The bright little bluebird clears the air and the ground of thousands of codlin moths and cankerworms during a season."

"The crow blackbird has no peace at the hands of man, yet a flock of them in a short time will clear a newly planted field of all its hosts of destructive larvae that the plow turns up. The great American crow itself would do the same thing if it wasn't for the inevitable man with a gun that just wants the crow to try it once. Neither the blackbird nor the crow cares as much for corn as it does for grubs, and if farmers would scatter corn about their fields instead of putting up scarecrows and like those misanthropic birds would never pull up a hill of his planting. The chances are anyhow that if the agriculturist will take the trouble to examine a hill of young corn that he charges the crow with pulling up he will find that it was cut off by a grub of some kind, and that the crow was simply mining for the grub, not the corn."

"The robin, it cannot be denied, is a sore trial to the man who has fruit trees and bushes, but if he could only bring himself to stop and think how many thousands of ravaging insects that are the special enemies of his trees and bushes that the robin destroys, both before the fruit has ripened and for weeks after it is gone, he would not begrudge the bird the few quarts of cherries or berries that it levies on as partial satisfaction of the debt the grower owes him. The same may be said of the other thrushes—for the robin is a thrush—the cherry birds, orioles, blue jays and many other birds of that class. These birds never levy tribute on grain or seeds, but they do the farmer untold benefit."

"The climbing birds are the different varieties of woodpeckers, and they are constantly befriending growing things. Whenever a woodpecker is heard tapping on a tree, it is the deathknell of the larvae of some destructive insect. Yet it is not an uncommon thing to see the very person for whom this bird is industriously at work following with his gun the bird's red head from tree to tree until the opportunity comes for him to send a load of shot into the unsuspecting feathered philanthropist. It is a pet belief among farmers that the woodpecker kills the tree it works on, and that he is working for that very purpose. It is a fact that the common little sapsucker does injure trees, but the woodpecker never does. Quite the contrary. The white breasted nut hatch and the little gray creeper—so generally confounded with the sapsucker—live exclusively on tree insects, yet the nut hatch is in bad repute among many farmers because they believe it kills their trees."

"The meadow lark is another bird that has little peace on any one's land, for there is a mistaken notion abroad that he is a game bird. He is game in the quality of being alert and hard to get a shot at, but is no more entitled to be so classified than the flicker or highholder is. The meadow lark is a constant feeder on underground larvae, and whatever he is disturbed he is simply driven away from active work in ridding the ground of the worst kinds of farm pests. The blue jay may be said to be indirectly an enemy to the farmer as well as a friend, for it has the bad habit of destroying the eggs of other birds that do only good."

"If there is one bird that the farmer loves to do all in his power to exterminate more than he does the crow, unless it may be the hawk, that bird is the owl. He can't be brought to the belief that if it were not for the owls and the hawks his fields would be overrun and burrowed by field mice to such an extent that his crops would be in perpetual danger; that owls, while out mousing, feed on myriads of night flying moths and beetles, thus preventing the laying of millions upon millions of the eggs of these insects, and that they not only keep the field mice down, but lessen the number of domestic mice and rats about barns and outhouses to an extent that a small army of the most vigilant cats could not surpass. As to the hawk, the farmer remembers that on some occasion one carried off a chicken for him, and therefore the fact that the big soaring bird daily kills many field mice, grasshoppers, snakes, lizards, beetles and other vermin cannot be set up in its defense. The proportion of hawks or owls that kill chickens is small compared with those who keep down the deadly enemies of the farmer's crops."—Exchange.

Mr. Hudson speaks of it as a common occurrence for the horses of a district in seasons of drought to migrate suddenly to some distant place—50 miles away perhaps—where rain had fallen. A slight breeze from that quarter will start them off.

The gaucho horse has the greatest terror of an Indian invasion, and long before the marauders reach the settlement—often when they are still a full day's journey from it—all the horses take the alarm and come flying wildly in. The horned cattle quickly feel the contagion, and a general stampede ensues.

The gauchos declare that the horses smell the Indians, and Mr. Hudson believes they are right. When passing a distant Indian camp, from which the wind blow, all the horses driven before him have taken fright and run away.—Exchange.
