

THE CARROLL RECORD.

Vol. 1, No. 14.

TANEYTOWN, MARYLAND, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1894.

$1.00 Per Year.

LOCALS AND PERSONALS.

Mr. Henry Swope, of Liberty, has been visiting his brother, Dr. Samuel Swope.

John F. Parker, Esq., prohibition candidate for Congress in this district, called at our office on Saturday.

Ordinance No. 41, in reference to corporation taxes, is posted in a number of public places in town.

Mr. H. M. Clabaugh and family have closed up their summer residence here, and removed to Westminster.

Messrs. S. C. Reaver and J. C. Crouse, were in Frederick on Thursday, in the interest of business.

Mr. Samuel S. Fleagle and mother, of Union Bridge, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ab. Hess, on Monday.

The Taneystown Band has been engaged to furnish the music at the Frederick Fair, on next Wednesday.

Misses Ada Basehoar and Alice Baumgardner, of Hanover, Pa., who has been visiting friends here, returned home on Monday evening.

We acknowledge the receipt of a complimentary ticket to the Hagerstown Fair from Mr. G. W. Albaugh, Westminster.

Mrs. Helen Engelbrecht of this place has a moon flower which had forty large and perfect flowers on its stem last day.

The farm of Jacob Sell was sold on Saturday last at public sale to Elias Keefer. The price paid was $25.10 per acre.

Mr. Pius Rudolf, of Oklahoma Territory, but formerly of this place, is visiting his sister, Mrs. T. H. Fringer, and other friends in this vicinity.

Rev. Ruark will return to his charge on Friday Oct. 26th., and will give several lectures during the coming winter on things of interest concerning his trip.

Miss Annie R. Marshall, of Pittsburg, paid her relatives and friends here a brief visit during the week. She is a niece of Mrs. Ezra Hawk and Mrs. Edward Yingling.

Dr. John Brubaker, of Kipple, Pa., has been on a visit to his father, William Brubaker, of near this place, who has been in declining health for some years.

Mr. John W. Harpel who had the index finger of his left hand shot off some time ago, reports that the wound is still painful but is gradually healing.

The Western Md. R. R. schedule was slightly changed on the first of the month, but for some time received a copy of the new table, consequently it has not been changed in the paper.

Mr. W. L. Fleagle offers his very desirable property at Mayberry at public sale on Oct. 27th. This property is first class in every respect and merits the attention of those contemplating the purchase of a home.

Rev. Charles L. Ritter formerly of this county, who now has a charge at Fayetteville, Pa., was married on Thursday of this week at Woodboro, Md., to Miss Jennie Stimmel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stimmel.

Mr. James C. Davis formerly of this district, but now living at Gwynnbrook, Baltimore county, has sent a friend here a sample of the kind of corn they have raised. It is a single stalk with two very large and perfect ears on it.

The dwelling formerly occupied by the family of William Crabb near Ottetide mill, but for some time vacant, burned down one night last week. Mrs. Crabb was about to repair the house so as to move into it again. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Alfred Frook, son of Mr. Levi Frook, of near Middleburg, was thrown from a colt near Mr. Charles Reck's and had his left forearm broken. He was engaged in driving a lot of cattle from Birnie's lease to E. M. Dutters' when the accident occurred. The fracture was reduced by Dr. F. H. Seiss.

The machinshop property of Chas. H. Sechrist, has been sold to James H. Reindollar of Littlestown, Pa., who it is said will open a coach shop. This is a very suitable property for that purpose, and there is a splendid opening here for the business if it is run in a first-class manner.

Mr. Samuel Hill living with Geo. K. Dutters on the Keyville road, was kicked in the face by a horse on last Wednesday morning, and rendered senseless for a short time. His upper lip was badly cut as well as the left side of the nose. While his injuries are painful and likely to leave ugly scars, they are not serious. Dr. F. H. Seiss rendered surgical attention.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Miss Minnie Ray, daughter of Mr. E. B. Garner, of Linwood, to Mr. Jerry J. Garner, of this place. The ceremony takes place in the Church of God, Uniontown, on Wednesday October 10th. at 12 m. Jerry is a popular young man and has many friends who wish him much happiness.

Through the efforts of Mr. A. H. Zollicoffer there will be a special train on this road on next Thursday for the Hagerstown Fair, connecting with a special on the Western Maryland. The train will leave here at about 8:30 a. m., arriving at Hagerstown at 10 o'clock. Passengers will return on fast mail train leaving Hagerstown at 4:15 and arrive here on the special at about 6:25 p. m.

Mr. D. Thomas Reindollar, son of Wm. H. Reindollar a prominent merchant of this place, is now in the employ of the Baltimore Centennial Exposition Co., as stenographer and type writer. The couple have in advance, our hearty congratulations.

NOTES HERE AND THERE.

The York fair held during the week is said to be the best ever held at that place.

The first meet of the Cycling Ramblers held in Westminster on Saturday was a success in every particular. Most of the prizes went to Baltimore.

The Comptroller of the treasury has made the quarterly distribution of the Public School tax. Carroll county receives $3,146.74 for white, and $261.44 for colored schools.

During the September sittings the officers of registration for this county added, in the aggregate, 293 names to the lists of registered voters, and erased 235, leaving a net gain of 38.

Rev. W. M. Cross, son of Rev. T. J. Cross, of New Windsor, was withdrawn from the M. E. Conference because of private troubles, and not on account of reasons which reflect on his character or reputation as a minister.

The fall meeting of the Baltimore Presbytery was constituted on Monday night in the Presbyterian church at Hagerstown. Fifty-four churches were represented. Rev. Wm. A. Price, of Harford county, was chosen moderator.

The farm tenanted by Mr. Wm. J. Wivel, situated along the Gettysburg road, near town, and owned by Messrs Eckenrode and Galt, of Taneystown, has been sold to Mr. F. A. Wely, of Richmond, Va. The price paid was $2,500.—Emmitsburg Chronicle.

Owing to the illness of George, son of David P. Forney, of Hanover, the argument upon the proceeding of the Government for the condemnation of land in possession of the Gettysburg Trolley Road, which was to begin last Friday, has been postponed. The argument is to take place on the 23rd. of October at the office of United States Attorney Ingham.—Star and Sentinel.

Miss Eva DuHamel, of Cecil county, was found dead in bed on Wednesday morning last. She was subject to severe leadaches, and it was her custom when suffering to bathe her head with chloroform. One evening she had a severe attack and bathed her head in the usual way, and after using the drug placed the vial containing it under her pillow. The vial in some way became uncorked and she was found dead the next morning. She was sixteen years of age, and a very estimable young lady.

An ordinance has been issued by the mayor and board of aldermen of Frederick compelling all owners of vehicles used for conveying passengers for a compensation to take out yearly licenses, ranging in cost from five to fifteen dollars each. This is done to protect the local tax-payers, who meet with competition during the county fair and other public occasions from hackmen who drive from points in Pennsylvania with their teams, and do a flourishing business here.

The tournament and races of the Carroll county pleasure association took place at Pleasure Park, Westminster on Wednesday, about 1500 people being present. The winners of the tournament were C. T. Rogers, Jr., who crowned Miss Bettie Reifersuder, of Westminster, queen of love and beauty; Grant Beasman, who crowned Miss Melissa Beasman first maid of honor; George P. Beasman, who crowned Miss Louise Lynch second maid of honor; C. T. Rogers, who crowned Miss Estelle Duderder third maid of honor. The races were won as follows: first, Belle, Chas. N. Mitten; second, Jay Bird, E. L. Crawford; third, Fannie Gold Dust, J. M. Smith; fourth, Fearless, A. J. Walden.

Death of ex-Judge Maulsby.

Ex-Judge William P. Maulsby died at his residence in Westminster on Wednesday morning, in the seventy-ninth year of his age, of obstruction of the bowels. He was a prominent lawyer in this county from its formation from Frederick county, and was its first State's attorney. At an early age he was elected State Senator and served for eight years. At the breaking out of the war he was a strong Unionist and entered the army, where he served with bravery and distinction and acquired the rank of colonel. After the war he opened a law office in Frederick and headed the delegation from Frederick county to the Constitutional Convention of 1867. He was appointed by the Governor in 1870 chief judge of the Sixth Judicial district, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Nelson.

He was twice married, his first wife being Miss Emily Nelson of Frederick, and the second was the widow of John Fisher of Westminster. Three children were born to the first marriage, Wm. P. Maulsby Jr., a prominent lawyer of Frederick, Mrs. John Etchick of Frederick, and Mrs. Kinball of Kenosha, Wisconsin. After the death of his first wife he removed back to Westminster, where he has ever since been actively engaged in his profession, and was considered one of the ablest members of that bar. Funeral at Frederick on Friday afternoon, in Mt. Olivet Cemetery.

A New Scheme.

Grant L. Galvin and Abbie Speelman of York Springs, Pa., were arrested in Harrisburg recently for writing the mails with intent to commit fraud. Their scheme was as follows, they inserted advertisements in different papers—one wanting a wife, the other a husband—to who they received numerous replies. The woman on receiving a reply from a person whom she considered unsuspecting, would write him for a present or money to pay car fare to a meeting with him. He would then play about the same scheme on anxious maidens, and between the two they found the business profitable, as they received gold rings and other jewelry and sums of money from five up to thirty dollars. A post office inspector was put on the case, who soon had the necessary evidence to make the arrests. He has a list of names of ten persons who have been swindled out of $30 each inside two months, by the woman.

Rumors and Reveries.

The air is full of wedding rumors—it is a gossiping consistency, in fact. That the wedding outlook is brighter than the business preview, is the opinion of the knowing ones. Rings and other tell-tale things, it is maintained, are the signs of promise.

I must talk; I can't help it. You know we are "built that way." The billing and cooing of last spring have ripened during the summer and there's no telling where it's going to end. I can hardly believe the sounds that strike my tympanum. They must be the forerunner of a "boom."

Ah, me! this is throwing me into a cogitation-mood. To marry, or not to marry, that is the question. Whether it's better to face the married days to come, single handed or not, is a matter of supreme importance. I'll place my sober countenance within the hollow of my agitated hands, for a little while, and think, and only think! 'Tis a sweet care got hold on me.

O, that I might write a book, or a poem! I thought first of novels and sunshine have romped through the zig-zag, labyrinthine, passages of my throbbing brain. It is "single blessedness" over against a double condition. It must be somewhat as the old English parson Jeremy Taylor expounds on the fresh subject. The one who marries has more of both the sweets of life and its sorrows. The bachelor or the "bachelorette" lives in a narrower sphere and doesn't fathom the current of human life. Poor bachelors, and the rest of us! And what of those who are single, but all the wisdom of the past which is summed up in the well seasoned words "single blessedness?" How, now? Methinks I hear bells, wedding bells!

JESSICA.

Talbot gets the Nomination.

The Democratic convention held at Towson on Tuesday, to nominate a candidate to represent the party in the second Congressional district was a harmonious affair so far as the nomination was concerned. Mr. Crouse of the Carroll county delegation presented a set of resolutions identical with those passed by the late Carroll county convention, which repudiated Gormanism, but they were voted down, and the committee resolutions of a somewhat more mild form were adopted. Mr. Talbot and Mr. Henning were placed in nomination. The former received every vote in the convention, except the five votes of Carroll which were for Henning. Mr. Crouse then moved that the nomination of Talbot be made unanimous, which was done. Talbot made a short speech, and so ended the convention, and the efforts of Carroll county democracy to break the state.

Washing Woollens.

One of the things which bothers the average housewife is the shrinkage of woolen clothing from washing. The use of such goods is rapidly becoming more general, partly because of increased knowledge of their value, and partly because they are gradually getting lower in price so that they are within the reach of most people. The great objection however, to woolen undergarments in particular, is that they so often shrink up so that they cannot be worn with comfort. This has been remedied, however, by the method of washing we believe will prevent nearly all trouble from shrinkage if the directions are carefully followed.

Woollens should be washed and rinsed in water of like temperature, to which borax has been added, not rubbed on a board, or have soap rubbed on them, neither wrung with a wringer, hung in the sun, nor allowed to freeze in drying.

To water as hot as you can hold your hand in add borax, a heaping teaspoonful to each pailful, and enough nice soap to make a suds. Immerse the white woollens (or colored, but never together) in this, have them well covered, and allow them to remain half an hour, stirring them about, and then wash in clear water. Then rub the soiled parts with the hands, turn and wash the wrong side, wring with the hands, rinse once in water to which borax, in the same proportion as above, has been added, but no soap. Then shake and hang them up in a clean water. Shake hard, pull carefully into shape and hang them up to best retain the same—as such garments should never be ironed. Proceed in the same way to wash flannels or worsteds, though, of course, these must be pressed on the wrong side.

Remember that the rinsing water should be of the same temperature as the wash water.

Baltimore Centennial Exposition.

Our readers have no doubt seen mentioned in the papers something about the Great Exposition which is to be held in Baltimore during 1897.

It would be well for them to note that this is a State affair, in which all the counties are expected to take part, and be largely represented by their various industries, and show off their different advantages. And this huge undertaking, although inaugurated by our city friends, is to be a perfect exposition of the State, in which the hearty support of all the people of the State; so we must be up and doing, that we may show off the State's many attractions in the most thorough way; also that many of the millions of people who will visit this great exposition will come to us, to see as every true Marylander always maintains. That is, our State is not only a good place to be born in, or to die in, but the very best to live in.

This Great Big Exposition in plain words is a grand advertisement for our State; and the rivalry among the different States in the Union for supremacy is so great, these exhibitions or advertisements are a necessity.

In the past we have been too modest to brag. To-day we are up and showing its advantages to the people of other sections and foreign countries. Owing to the fact of hard climates, low prices for agricultural products, and long distances from foreign or consuming markets, the title of immigration is changing, and the South is putting forth many schemes that are attractive to get new people to its sections.

Why should not Maryland have its share of new people also? It can, if we only let other people know what we have to offer. The coming Baltimore Centennial is our opportunity; let's embrace it. We are glad to know each day its scope broadens, and already many foreign manufacturers are inquiring about space for their exhibits, and even foreign governments, through their ambassadors and ministers in Washington, are respecting the matter up, so their respective countries can be properly represented.

It is confidently asserted if the State put their shoulders to the wheel, work with unity, and help the project along, that in 1897 our visitors, who will come from every country in the world, will see an exposition only second to the World's Fair, held last year in Chicago. The people coming will have to be fed; they will consume a great deal. We in the country districts must supply the food. Baltimore is our natural market, therefore the direct results in cash from the Baltimore Centennial can be counted in millions.

Capt. Henry W. Howate, who escaped from his jail-keepers at Lexington in 1882 while under indictment for forgery and embezzlement, and who was recently recaptured in New York, was brought to Washington on Thursday in company with Deputy Marshal McCarty and ex-Chief Detective Drummond, of the secret service.

A test case is being argued before Judge McComas in Washington in which the Louisiana sugar planters are plaintiff, and Secretary Carlisle of the Treasury department, defendant. The case involves the continuation of the payment of the sugar bounties provided for by the McKinley bill for the benefit of American sugar planters, and is attracting considerable interest.

Health of the State.

Dr. James A. Steuart has made a report to the State Board of Health that for the past six months the general health of the State has been good, with the exception of a typhoid fever epidemic, which he attributes to the drought during the summer. He also reported that he had visited Carroll, Washington, Montgomery and Baltimore counties to look after the abatement of nuisances, and that in a great measure he had been successful.

Prof. David Swing, the noted Chicago preacher, died on the 3rd., from acute blood poisoning. He was once a Presbyterian, but afterward became an Independent.

GENERAL NEWS.

A cyclone in Arkansas damaged property in Little Rock to the extent of over $1,000,000. Four lives were lost and many people injured.

It is now reported that in addition to reverses on the field of battle, China is threatened with bankruptcy, and is experiencing great difficulty in negotiating loans with which to furnish the barest necessities for the troops.

The season for packing tomatoes and corn, is drawing rapidly to a close. Judging from the present condition of the canned goods market and the universal shortage in the crop the season has been one of the most unprofitable experienced for many years.

All the tin plate mills in the country have closed down, and several thousand men are thrown out of work. There is no indication as to when they will reopen as there is a wide difference between the manufacturers and hands on the subject of wages.

The forecast for this month issued by the Naval Hydrographic office indicates a cyclonic month. It reads: "Frequent gales between the New England coast and the British Isles and as far south as the fortieth parallel. Occasional tropical cyclones or hurricanes probable."

On Monday the grand jury at Washington brought in indictments against Henry O. Havemeyer and John E. Searles of the Sugar Trust, and Allen L. Seymour for refusal to answer questions put to them by the Senate Sugar Trust investigating committee. The cases will be argued October 13th. The questions which were not answered were as to the specific amounts contributed in the different states to campaign funds by the Trust.

The czar of Russia is reported to be seriously ill, but the nature of the disease is not stated. His condition is said to have commenced to become grave a year ago. His disappearance as a ruler would be followed by a critical situation in European affairs, as no one knows the capacities of the czarowitch for ruling. While the present czar has been a decent ruler in a large sense he has an honorable one, and of late years has contributed largely to the peace of Europe.

Much interest must attach to the announcement that a new railroad, equipped with patent steel stringers, cross-ties and rails, is to be built from the Manitoba boundary line to the Gulf of Mexico. The route is to traverse the Dakotas, and will give a new outlet to Canadian products. The Farmers' State Alliance, at Dallas, Texas, says that English investors have already taken $3,000,000 of the bonds of the projected line. Another authority says $4,000,000 have been taken abroad. Some 300 miles are said to be under contract.—Sun.

The call for the special meeting of the British cabinet has caused the greatest excitement throughout Great Britain and war talk is heard on every hand. It was generally admitted that the cause for this latest summing-up of the ministers while they were enjoying their holiday is a new and unexpected friction with France concerning African dominion, but later developments indicate that the popular judgment was wrong in this case. The newspapers of London bristle with war editorials which declare that Great Britain must not surrender any part of its rights or shrink any part of its duties; that a firm reply must be made to any demand from France, and that all political parties will warmly support the government in up holding the national dignity.

Col. George W. F. Vernon was before Commissioner Bond Thursday on three charges of violating the pension laws, and was released on his own recognizance for a hearing on Friday. The charges are that on November 11, 1892, Col. Vernon received from Richard P. Carter, guardian or committee in lunacy of his brother, Wm. T. Carter, an illegal fee of $50 in addition to the $40 authorized by law, and that he lent money to Alexander Brown and Mary A. Armacost on their pension certificate. Col. Vernon declared that there was no foundation for the charges, which he termed persecution and not prosecution. He said he would make a preliminary hearing, and that he had no doubt, courts, that the fact of the charges in court.

The political field.

The Brooklyn Eagle says there will be an Independent Democratic ticket in New York to defeat Hill, which is likely to be headed by Charles H. Fairchild.—Adam S. Garis has declined the populist nomination in the Sixth district.—Ferdinand Williams the Democratic opponent of Wellington opened his campaign at Oakland on Monday night.—Democratic conventions were held on Tuesday in the Second, Third, and Fourth Maryland congressional districts. The candidates selected were as follows: J. F. C. Talbot, second; Harry Wells, Rusk, third; John K. Cowart, fourth.—at the town election held in Connecticut the Republicans gained 23 towns.—The State Democratic ticket in Georgia was elected by 30,000 majority.—Robert H. Smith has been nominated by the Republicans of the fourth district.—Senator Hill, of New York, has not yet been officially notified of his nomination for Governor, consequently has not yet accepted. It is yet an open question whether he will accept or not, as his whole political future would depend on the result of the gubernatorial election and Mr. Hill is too shrewd to accept unless the chances of election seem favorable. There is also doubt as to the acceptance of Judge Gaynor.—The Democratic State Executive committee of Ohio has declared its campaign to be the leading issue in the present campaign.

SATURDAY, OCT. 6th, 1894.

The Blue Ridge Zephyr discontinued publication with its issue of Saturday, and announces that it will again appear as an evening daily during the month of December. Brother Martin shows a decided inclination to "take time by the forelock," and give Waynesboro a daily at the earliest possible moment.

WHERE WERE our correspondents last week? If you have run out of stamps and stationery, notify us. If there was a scarcity of news, you were right in not trying to manufacture a letter out of commonplace topics. We want news all the time, whether in large or small amounts, but when it comes to "filling up" we prefer to do that ourselves. Send us what you have each week, and if not enough for a special letter, we will make use of it in our "Notes" department.

OUR BALTIMORE mail missed coming on Saturday morning, and we had a good illustration of how the people would get along nowadays without daily papers. Sometimes we are inclined to feel that we can't afford the expense, think there is not much in them anyway, and we fall out with their opinions, and all that—yet, when they don't come, we find that there is a void in the day which nothing else can fill, and are ready at once to fight the post office or railroad, for having cheated us out of a single paper which only costs a penny or two.

ONE OF THE important questions of the day is—What should young people read? They are bound to read something, for this is a reading age. Parents should see to it that their children should have healthy reading matter and plenty of it, but don't let them devour every paper and book which comes into their hands. Let them read stories by all means, all novels are not bad, and moral ones exert an influence very often more powerful for good than a sermon. We do not know of a publication more interesting or healthy, and more desirable in all ways than the Youth's Companion, published in Boston. The good thing about it is, that the older people read it too—the chances are their parents will have to wait until their children are through with it.—You can't go wrong on the Companion.

Our Hobbies.
As the season is about closed for any undertakings in the way of outdoor enterprises of an extensive character, we presume the water question must go into winter quarters. We have at different times endeavored to place this matter before our readers, so that it might be thought over by our citizens and an interest aroused. While nothing has apparently resulted from our little blow, we are not at all discouraged, but with the coming of the robins the old subject will bob up serenely again, and we believe that the desired end will be accomplished; then there will be "water, water, all around" and everybody happy. Let every one remember this, and hold back a snug sum for water stock, when calculating how much cash they will have to hunt investments for in the spring.

A newspaper cannot be expected to boom everything on its own account, for the reason that no management can be expected to be enthusiastic in every direction like the spokes of a wheel. More than this, if the support and effort of a newspaper in a certain direction is of as much value as it is often given credit for, it follows that such influence must, to be permanently valuable, be based on correct views and worthy objects. A paper which would boom a scheme not thoroughly desirable for the large majority of its patrons, might almost as well solicit and publish advertisements of a fraudulent character.

The reason why we take such an interest in a public water supply is, that we do not know of a single objectionable feature in connection with it, and only presents a single question of doubt—the percentage of profit to stockholders—which we would advise, and think could be, ascertained approximately before beginning operations.

It is a question singularly free from the objections connected with enterprises in the ordinary. Water itself is a necessity, and when stored in sufficient quantity and coupled with proper appliances it is a protection to life and property, a money saver, a sanitary agent, and a general friend and luxury. To such a great extent is it so desirable to have in plenty that the question of financial profit is a secondary consideration.

In comparison with it there is, in our opinion, no other public improvement so badly needed, and we feel like indorsing it and standing by it until the last chance is gone.

This water supply question, electric road, electric light, telephone, coach factory and every other enterprise which has its friends here, can best be brought to reality by organization. Just such a Business Men's Improvement Association as we spoke of a few weeks ago, is what will unify clashing ideas, crystallize miscellaneous opinions, and produce clearly defined and practical lines on which to prosecute telling efforts in the future. Right now is the time to start it, and an immense amount of work may be done during the winter if every one enters into the organization with proper spirit. Let us have harmony and organization—this is essentially an era of unions, and no great things are accomplished without them—and the RECORD will help any power which has for its object the progress and prosperity of this section. It can't do everything, either with, or without, organization—but it will help.

Our columns are open for expressions of opinion from any or all of our business men, and all citizens who are interested in forming an organization which has for its object the general good of our town.

Is business so brisk here that we can afford to let good enough alone? Is the credit system working profitably and satisfactorily? Is all the business being done here which is desired, and are we supplying the community with everything it wants? Have we no more houses to rent, or no more room for new buildings? Are we up to the times, and improving on all lines?

If these questions can all be answered affirmatively, then while we may not need an Improvement Society badly, we would still need it to preserve our advantages, but, the truth of the matter is every one of the questions to be answered truthfully, must be answered negatively.

The RECORD thinks it is absolutely within our power to improve our condition. Will we do it?

Country Newspapers.

When we are thinking of the great city papers and the influence they exert, we are apt to overlook the important place occupied by the country newspaper—the local newsgatherer of our villages and small cities. It has come to be a habit in some circles to look on the life of a printer as thrown away, or at best only partially successful. Of the things that make the village paper seem an undesirable field for work, perhaps, the chief is lack of circulation and "a consequent reducing of one's powers to the level of the circulation," as one writer has said. True, lack of circulation is a drawback in more ways than one, but it is no excuse for the withholding of one's powers in the make up of the paper.

People who live in the country have minds just the same as those who live in a city; and we have every reason to suppose that they appreciate a good thing when they see it, just as their city cousins do. If they do not, why do live, breezy country papers always have so much larger circulation than those that are sleepy, and merely give the news without comment? The American public admires pugnacity whether they see it in a prize fighter or a great city daily, or a country weekly. The people like a paper that is no respecter of persons, but hits right and left, and they often desire the petty personalities which it is wrong for any paper to print. Bold opinions, boldly advocated, always attract appreciative audiences, and the more of this quality of boldness a country editor possesses the larger will the paper's circulation be.

Young men who are just entering journalism, from college perhaps, are apt to wait to conquer the whole world at one fell swoop. They feel the power within them which will set all humanity right. It generally takes about a week to get the spread eagle combination out of a new man. Nearly all of these young fellows have more or less ability; but a young man is apt to want to spread over too much space, and as a natural consequence the mixture is thin—so thin in fact, that a majority of readers care very little for the wishy washy matter served up to them by such men. A young man needs to concentrate his energies and his talents, and to work in some special direction. Very few have the talent which will enable them to handle successfully the variety of subjects. Perhaps this is why so many fail in journalism—they try to accomplish too much and succeed in doing nothing at all.

Country journalism now offers far greater inducements than city journalism to the young man of ordinary ability. Usually the weekly paper has a job office attached to it and the income from the paper and the job work enables the editor to live in comparative affluence, and that too with the consciousness of being his own master, which to most Americans is an important consideration. His work demands a constant attention to business details and an ever present strife for the freshest and best matter, a large part of which is culled from exchanges from all over the land. Inasmuch as the paper is made up largely of "clipped" matter, it needs the facilities of a good selector, rather than those of a good writer, though both are useful.

I have in mind one local weekly which is a good model for any to build upon. The editor is sometimes too sharp, perhaps, but the circulation of the paper has increased under his management from 1500 to 2500 in a short time. His paper is clean, bright, newsy, "the organ of no sect or party," and has the best staff of local correspondents to be found in the country—some of them being men of superior education and talent.

Such organization always pays and the rapidly increasing subscription list of this paper proves that the people appreciate good work, even if they do live in the country.—B. H. Albee, in the Writer.

The Political Outlook.

The Review of Reviews in its October issue gives the following, among other comments on the political situation:

The Republicans, being then in full possession of all branches of the national government, completed the so-called McKinley tariff bill in the early autumn of 1890, launching it upon the industrial community a few short weeks before the Congressional elections in November. The result was an overwhelming defeat. Thus at the very moment of its passage the people pronounced positively against the McKinley bill. And although it has taken four years to replace that measure in the statute books, its moral effect was so undermined that it may be said never to have gone fairly and forcibly into operation, for nobody was ever willing to adjust his business to meet either the advantages or the disadvantages of a measure which was doomed to so brief an existence. The impartial historian of the future will perhaps make it clear that it was a misfortune for the country that the McKinley bill could not have had a trial upon its merits before the people at the polls had been invited to approve or condemn it. The change from a high protective policy, which must come sooner or later, might have been reached just as soon in the end and with far less embarrassment to trade if the McKinley bill had been accorded a few years of undisturbed operation. It is now replaced by the Gorman-Wilson bill, and in the first week of November the people of the country are to record their feelings about this Democratic legislation, just as four years previously they expressed themselves upon the work of the Republican tariff framers. It certainly begins to seem that the country is as ready to punish the Democrats this year as it was to punish the Republicans in 1890.

The autumnal campaigns in general have opened rather later than is usual. It may be predicted with entire safety that the Democrats will lose many congressional districts which have been their in the last two Congresses; but whether the Republicans will gain enough to control the next House is only a matter of guesswork, and no man can pronounce an intelligent opinion upon it. In Louisiana the situation is much complicated by the fact that the sugar planters have decided to support the Republican party as a protest against the abolition by the Democrats of the bounty on sugar. The county primaries in South Carolina have made it almost certain that Governor Tillman will realize his ambition and will replace General Butler in the United States Senate. The unprecedented struggle in the Ashland district of Kentucky over the nomination at the Democratic primaries has resulted in a slight plurality for Mr. W. C. Owen. He had the support particularly of the women of the district, who were opposed on moral grounds to the re-election of Congressman Breckinridge. In Nevada there are numerous tickets in the field, the Free Silver Republicans having decided to flock by themselves, while the Populists, Democrats, and regular Republicans are all making separate contests. In many Western congressional districts the Democrats and Populists have agreed upon "fusion" candidates. The most conspicuous of these, perhaps, is Gen. Weaver, of Iowa. In Illinois the senatorial contest is attracting much attention, Mr. Franklin McVeagh, of Chicago, having taken the field as the Democratic aspirant for the seat at Washington now held by Senator Shelby M. Culom. Both candidates are making an active contest for control of the legislature.—Review of Reviews.

To Young Men.

(Communicated.)
Young men make the most of yourself. I do not mean in the way of putting on a finish, but in feeding the roots of your being, strengthening your capacities, nourishing what ever is good, repressing whatever is bad. Determine that not a power shall go to waste, that every faculty shall do its utmost and reach its highest. The noblest sight this world offers, is a young man bent on making the most of himself. How sad to think so many don't seem to care what they become; men in stature, but not yet born into a world of purpose and attainment. Some seem to think a cigar, a horse, a flirtation, a suit of clothes, a night of drinking,—with just work enough to attain such things—is all that is needed, but what a sad mistake. How the spirits of the wise sitting in the clouds laugh at them, and what an introduction to manhood and manly duties. No one can start thus in life and become a master of it, or get any real good out of it. It is a sad thing to begin life with low conceptions of it, and there is no misfortune comparable to a youth without the sense of nobility. Better be born blind than not to see the glory of life. Of course it is not possible for a young man to measure life, but it is possible to cherish that lofty and sacred enthusiasm which the dawn of life awakens, and also say "I am resolved to put life to its

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

noblest and best use." There is no tragedy like wasted life, life failing of its end, or life turned to a false end. The true way to begin life is not to look off upon it to see what it offers, but to take a good look at self, find out what you are, how you are made up, your capacity and tact, and then determine to get the most out of your self. Your faculties are avenues between the good of the world and yourself, the larger and more open they are, the more of it you will get. Your object should be to get all the riches and sweetness of life into your self; the method is through trained faculties; you find in yourself a mind, teach it to think, to work broadly and steadily, to serve your needs pliantly and faithfully. You find in yourself social capacities; make yourself the best citizen, the best friend and neighbor, the kindest son and brother. Whatever you are capable of in these directions, that be, and do. Let nothing within you go to waste. You also find in yourself moral and religious faculties; beware lest you suffer them to lie dormant, or summon them to brief periodic activity. No man can make the most of himself who falls to train this side of nature; deepen and clarify your sense of God, gratify by perpetual use the inborn desire for communion with him. Listen evermore to conscience. Keep the heart soft and responsive to all sorrow. Love with all love's divine capacity and quality, and above all, let your nature stretch itself towards that sense of infinity that comes with the thoughts of God. There is nothing that so deepens and amplifies the nature as the use of its moral and spiritual ways, and one cannot make the most of himself who leaves this out.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Special Correspondent.)

Washington, Oct. 1, 1894.

From the unfinished condition of the interior of the White House, and the fact that no word has been received to prepare for the President's return, it is apparent that he will not leave Gray Gables until after the middle of October, and it is possible that he may extend his visit even longer. A complete transformation has taken place in the appearance of the outside of the building, and the inside also presents evidence of the painters' brush and the decorator on all sides. For two years the President's residence has been a dingy color and anything but exemplified what its name intends to indicate. This condition has been the result of paucity of money for the proper care of the building, and last year only a few daubs of paint were put on here and there, leaving the greater part of the building anything but attractive. The sidewalk approaches from the street to the port-cochere have been replaced by concrete, the great iron rails thrown away, and the huge lamps which whirled every night a glow of light on the beautiful old mansion, painted, touched up and repaired. The repairs and paint have given to the mansion a decidedly new appearance, and on all sides are indications of paint and completeness of work. Inside, the East, Red and Green rooms are in the hands of decorators. Upstairs, some few changes are being made in the private part of the house, but the entire work is expected to be finished and the residence ready for the President and his family not later than October 15th.

This week will witness the greatest army transfer in the infantry and cavalry arm of the service that has been made since the reorganization soon after the civil war, when new stations were established and the standing strength reduced to its present quota of twenty-five thousand men. For the past five years there has been a constant diminution in the number of the outlying army posts on the frontier, the concentration of the forces at and near the great commercial cities of the West, and the organization of a few new military garrisons, such as the one at Helena, for various strategic reasons and the opportunities allowed of assembling large bodies of troops at some central point in a few hours. The capital of the country will receive a strong protection from the federal government, and gradually this will be increased. Philadelphia is the one great city in the East that is practically devoid of military protection of a federal character, and there seems to be little prospect of its receiving an assignment of either artillery or infantry regiments. To establish a post there would entail the expenditure of two or three hundred thousand dollars, unless the standing army is materially increased by Congress, and there now seems some prospect of this materializing, Philadelphia will have to rest secure for federal aid upon the garrisons at New York, Baltimore and this city. The proposition of the marine corps to amalgamate with the artillery in a marine-artillery branch for the protection of the coasts, if carried out successfully, would result in a decided increase of every artillery station in the East. Cities where there are now only a few companies would be made headquarters of full regiments, and Fort McHenry, which now has

Who Makes the Best Butter? The market reports of the dairy goods trade in England published by the London Crocer during the past year show a satisfactory condition of the business in both butter and cheese.

These figures, taken into comparison with the claims for superiority made by the French and Danish dairymen, go to show that the Irish butter makers, who are unskilled women, except so far as the practical knowledge of the art of butter making is possessed by them, stand well up with the so supposed to be scientific expert makers of France and Denmark, who are held up to the world as a pattern for all to imitate.

SELECTIONS

HEAT AS AN ANTISEPTIC.

Valuable Curative Properties That Medical Men Are Slow to Realize.

An eminent surgeon has been experimenting upon certain classes of wounds and in surgical operations, with a view to testing the efficacy of heat as an antiseptic.

Attention is also called to the importance of properly cleansing all instruments used for any purpose whatsoever. It is not enough that they be dipped in some antiseptic solution and wiped with a bit of cotton waste, as is too often the case.

There is quite too little attention given to the curative properties of heat. The subject has begun to attract the notice of some of the more advanced thinkers of medical men.

It is a positively demonstrated fact that intense heat steadily applied will break up any case of pneumonia in the earlier or middle stages, and there are many who do not believe that a fatal termination to this disease is at all necessary unless there are other complications.

Known Older of Mines Than of Weddings.

Coolgardie, the new goldfield district in Western Australia, though situated in the midst of an almost waterless desert, is rapidly becoming civilized.

The Nile valley is now receiving a good deal of attention from geologists. At a recent meeting of the London Geological Society Captain H. G. Lyon of the royal engineers read a paper in which he maintained that it was carved out by the river in the miocene period.

The process of producing "artificial silk" has been invented by Dr. Lehner. Waste cotton, wool, jute or other suitable material is reduced to an emulsion by means of a mixture of nitric and sulphuric acids, when it is formed into threads by forcing it through glass tubes of small bore and is passed over a series of rollers and wound in the ordinary way on bobbins.

An Ingenious Device.

Canada is congratulating herself upon having secured a relic of the glorious opening page in her history as a British colony—namely, the sword worn by General Wolfe at the capture of Quebec in 1759.

HUMOR

HIS WIFE WAS AWAY.

Strange Appearance of a Man Who Was Anxious About Himself.

He stood before his front gate and looked anxiously.

"Thank you," replied the anxious looking man as he turned his necktie over. "Is my collar all right?"

"Well, yes," said the pedestrian, "but you have it on upside down, that's all."

"How glad I am to know it! I will change them immediately. Everything else all right?"

"That is back side to."

"Thank you. Everything else proper?"

"Yes, I see. Anything else?"

"Oh, nothing special, but I noticed when you arranged your necktie that you had forgotten to put on your shirt!"
