THE HAGERSTOWN Mail is disposed to "rub it in" on Frederick, by making fun of their efforts to secure a high class brass band; it says very unkindly, that "There are several reasons why it can't support a band. One is there is no one down there who can play. The second is there are no band instruments there. Otherwise Frederick is all right. It has the wind and the cheek to support a half dozens bands and has a brass bazoo or two, for the News is always blowing one, even if it is a bit out of tune. Brace up, old Frederick, you have still your cobble stones."

Money Getting.

There is a class of people found in every community, the members of which have for their chief aim-money getting. They are insensible to every principle and duty, and every manly, christian, and honorable sentiment which interferes with the pursuit of amassing a fortune. Their principal aim is to get money—to get it honestly if possible—if not, to get it anyhow.

Revival of Business.

The newspapers generally, are tryng to make the country believe that there is a general revival of business on hand, but we fail to see that the slight raise in the price of wheat, and the advance in cotton, and cotton manufactures, and petroleum, indicate any great signs of prosperity.

There is nothing to be gained by howling calamity, nor will the efforts of business "boomers" amount to anything unless backed by substantial facts which show that the agriculturist is receiving more for his produce, which consequently means more money to spend.

It will be many a long day, we fear, before "times will be good;" in fact, such a thing is well nigh impossible. Four-Footed Criminals.

One of the least commendable uses to which an animal can be put is to train it to become a thief. Yet there are many instances in evidence to prove that, in the hands of clever rogues, our four-footed friends are capable of being made the accomplioperators in crime.

Sir Walter Scott tells of a sheep-dog which had been trained to steal sheep by its master. Murdison and Millar were a sheep farmer and his shepherd, who, settling in the valley of the Tweed, commenced and carried on an extensive system of devastation on the flocks of their neighbors. A dog belonging to Millar was so well always to the farmer's advantage to trained that his master had only to keep his boys on the farm. They show him during the day the parcel naturally take more interest and will of sheep which he desired to appropriate and at night the animal went straight to the pasture, where the flock grazed, and drove off the quanity shown him by the most out-ofthe-way paths to Murdison's farm, where the dishonest master and servant were in readiness to receive the

He gives a further instance in the case of a little spaniel, which a friend of his purchased from a dealer in specimens of the canine race. When he entered a shop the new owner noticed that his little companion made it a rule to follow at some interval, and to estrange itself from its master, so as to appear totally unconnected with him. When he left the shop it was the dog's custom to remain behind till it could find an opportunity of seizing some little article of property, which it brought to its owner. The animal was with difficulty cured of this objectionable accomplishment.

Cats are known thieves, especially when a dainty morsel is in question, but grimalkin as a trained accomplice in crime is a rarer animal. A lady repreaching on the first three Sabbaths in the cently missed several small articles month, at 10 a. m., and on the fourth Sabbath | from the children's nursery, the winat 2.30 p. m. Sabbath School one hour before dow of which was frequently left open. Half suspecting a thief, she set watch, when a cat was observed to stealthily enter the half-open window and seize a little woolen sock, which it carried in its mouth to a neighboring house. Finding the practice repeated on several other animal was a trained thief, but it proved too difficult a matter to bring the guilt home to its trainer.

There is an amusing story of a highwayman's horse in this capacity which may not be out of place here. A lawyer, desiring to travel from London to the north in the pre-railway days, went to a horse market to purchase an animal for the purpose, and was delighted to get hold of a hand- chance to try. For Farmers with Boys.

Whether or not a boy can be content to remain with his father on the farm, depends greatly on the character of the boy. Many boys are fond of excitement, and the amusements which a city life affords are more attractive to them than what they are ces of criminals, and even active co- pleased to term the "humdrum" and drudgery of the farm. It is this mistaken idea of what constitutes a "humdrum" life that takes so many boys to the city. To some minds it would seem a far more free and attractive occupation to plow and sow, ride the binder and even do the "chores," than to work behind a counter day after day. It is nearly do better work than hired help. But very few boys are content to work at home without a visible compensation of some kind.

While, as I said before, much depends on the kind of boy, much also depends on the kind of father. Boys will be boys, and the father who realizes this is the one whose sons are content to stay on the farm. Many fathers expect too much of their sons, both as to their work and judgment. Their failures too often call down quick and sharp reproof. No bright, high spirited boy will bear being constantly found fault with. If fathers oftener made companions of their boys it would be better. It is neither wise nor expedient for the father who would keep his boys at home to keep himself apart from them. I know of one instance in particular where father and sons were almost inseparable. In rides to town or on business, side by side, in the field, or with guns and dogs off for a day's hunt they are always together.

The fathers whom I have known to be the most successful in keeping their sons on the farm have early given them something to particularly interest them in the farm, a share of the income in some way either of stock or of money as their own to do take pride in their work. They were trusted with the best team to the mutual advantage of both. Our most successful farmers financially to day, are the ones whose sons work occasions, it became evident that the at home. It is not to be much wondered at that some boys depart as soon as possible from their iather's roof. Boys will have recreation and amusement, and if these are not provided at home they will seek them elsewhere. Some boys are not to be kept at home by any means and it is better that these should go. They may be more successful in some other vocation and should be given a to-do farmers with proper encourworkmen, the books of the company, and all the finished and unfinished work, including a new locomotive engine in process of construction, were destroyed.

This loss was severely felt by the company, but forthwith new and more substantial buildings were erected. In the same year, the R. R. company began to run its trains westward from Union Bridge, and about that time much of the building on Benedum and Farquhar streets was done. A "Building Association" was formed, by the aid of which twelve of the dwelling houses in the town were built.

WHY NOT BUY YOUR WALL PAPER of EDW. P. ZEPP?

HE IS THE MAN who sells the Latest and Most Beautiful designs at 3cts. and up.

It is with pride and pleasure that we announce to the general public, that our new Sample Books for the season, are guaranteed to represent the finest and best line of Wall Paper we have ever handled, and the entire Stock of one of the greatest Wall Paper merchants in America, who controls the largest and best equipped factories; thus by buying of me you have the same choice as though you bought of these merchants. Every pattern in the books is of the very latest production in the market, and among them there is not one-low or high priced—but will make a good room. Selling, as we do, exclusively by sample, we are enabled to offer new goods, new colors, new designs, new plain and blended effects, etc., in great numbers—not the accumulation of years, shop worn and out of date—such as you will find most deaters handle whose stock is but limited and are obliged to carry many patterns over from season to season The grandest of all we have to offer, are our $1000. PRIZE DESIGNS which have been so highly complimented by the great daily papers and leading periodicals all over the country. They are a special line of goods superior to anything in the market. Compare our samples and prices with those of your local dealer and form your own conclusions. We offer you better value for your money than any other house in the trade.

If you are thinking of papering a room or whole-house, write to me and I will call on you personally with a better variety of designs than can be shown by any other house in the United States. Hoping to be favored with a liberal share of your esteemed patronage, I remain

Sincerely Yours, EDW. P. ZEPP.

Some people seem to doubt the genuineness of my "closing out" sale of CLOTHING, because it has the appearance of an advertising scheme; some attempt to deny the truth of it for reasons of their own, while others are carrying off the goods without caring whether it is genuine or not.

NO MATTER WHAT THEY SAY! I am offering my Entire Stock of Men's and Boys' Suits at and LESS THAN COST. The way to test this statement is to get prices elsewhere, and then come and see for yourselves. If you don't find bargains-don't buy!

TEN PER CENT REDUCTION: on all other goods, on amounts of 50c, or over.

It is my desire to run down my Entire Stock to a very low point, between now and next Spring, so that it will not be difficult to secure a purchaser who will rent my store room, and continue the Clothing and Hat business. My other duties are sufficient to fully employ my time; more than this, my health is not such that it will permit me to continue doing the large amount of work that I have been doing for the past year. I desire to drop the Clothing Business, because I like my other work best. If I can't sell out, I must keep on, but I intend to make a strong effort to do the former.
