It is rumored that there is a hitch in the progress of the Western Mary-land Company, owing to the recent court decision in favor of the Bell Telephone Co., which declares valid what is known as the Berlinger patent, which gives the Bell Company, the owner of the patent, a monopoly of the telephone business until 1908. This decision of the U. S. Court of appeals is a reversal of the decree of Judge Carpenter which was made in December 1894, which declared the Berlinger patent invalid. This de-cision will throw telephone business into confusion all over the country, and will result very likely in number-less law suits.

A new and handsome four story building, sixty by eighty feet, built of brick and brown stone, and finished inside in oak, has been added. A very handsome chapel is added in the rear. The first floor of the new building contains the gymnasium, the lavatories and the bathroom and closets. On the second floor is the president's reception room and class room, one other class room and the main library, with the historical library. The third floor is given ex-clusively to class rooms. The fourth is fitted up for dormitories. In the chapel there is the usual chapel equipment, with a pipe organ. Me-morial windows to the honor of de-ceased professors have been erected by students of the professors and their friends. The old building, which is the old-violated it by marrying Mr. William H. Powell. The defendant does not' deny the allegation, but claims justification in having discovered certain facts damaging to the character of the plaintiff, and that they were of a sufficiently grave import to release her from the fulfilment of the con-

suing to recover damages for the failure of a marriage contract to be consummated, and not a woman who wants to receive balm for wounds received on account of a failure to enter into promised conjugal felicity. The amount of damages claimed is $5000. The plaintiff is represented by Weant and Henning, and the defendants by W. H. Thomas. Mr. Warner testified in his own behalf, and explained the relations which existed between him and the defendant, and stated that they were to have been married in February, 1894, and that the defendant about the middle of that month told him that she would not marry him. He testified to the confidential relations which existed between him and Miss Weybright's father and mother, and later with the defendant. He also testified that he was aware that the match was opposed by Mr. Samuel Weybright, a half brother, and Mr. Joseph Weybright, an uncle of the defendant. He also produced a num-ber of letters received by him from the defendant, tending to show kindly relations, and stated that he had that he had a farm worth $5000 and count of her money, but because he

All the little boys and girls of the neighborhood are urgently invited to lend their aid to the occasion, and the P. O. S. of A. will supply each one of them with a flag to carry in the parade.

The business men, it is presumed, will close their stores as usual, between the hours of 1 and 3 p. m., and the citizens of the town should hang out flags in honor of the day. Major Reed is a talented speaker, and a good address is sure to be forthcoming on this occasion, which promises to be the most interesting one even held here. The parade will be par-ticipated in by Camps 7 and 9, P. O.S. of A. of Pleasant Valley and Middleburg, as well as by the local Camp.

The verdict of the Supreme Court on the income tax law was made public on Monday, and the majority has decided that the whole law is invalid. The opinion is handed down by Justices Fuller, Field, Gray, Brewer and Shiras, while dissenting opinions are given by Justices Harlan, White, Jackson and Brown.

The Income Tax Law Invalid.

The conclusions of the Court are as follows;

"First, we adhere to the opinion al-ready announced, that taxes on real estate, being indisputably direct tax es, taxes on the rents or income of real estate are equally direct taxes. "Second, we are of opinion that taxes on personal property, or on the income of personal property, are like- which they used to inhabit, but from vise direct taxes.

"Third, the tax imposed by sections 27 to 37, inclusive, of the act of 1894, so far as it falls on the income of real estate and on personal property, be ing a direct tax within the meaning of the Constitution, and, therefore, unconstitutional and yoid, because not apportioned according to representation, all those sections constituting one entire scheme of taxation are necessarily invalid." "The decrees hereinbefore entered in this court will be vacated. The lecrees below will be reversed, and the cases remanded with instructions to grant the relief prayed.' Sections 27 to 37 of the tariff act of 1894, referred to in the conclusions of the court in the opinions, are all the sections of the act relating to the income tax; so that the entire income tax law is declared void specifically. Chief Justice Fuller delivered the opinion of the court, which is very exhaustive. Justice Harlan deliver. clear, and contains many apparently strong points in favor of the income raised under glass."

The whole machinery and system for the collection of the tax will be abandoned, and the amount already paid (about $75,000) will be promptly refunded. The question now arises -how will revenue be raised for the establishment. Some months ago, on leaving the heated work room to run across the street on an errand, he support of the government, and will For several months the receipts of revenue have been less than the expenses of the government, and the

The RECORD is not authorized to in this year received its lowest tide of speak for Dr. Birnie in the matter, and at present has but little to say. The Doctor is amply able to speak for himself when the time comes, and that he will do so plainly and straightforwardly, there is not a shadow of doubt.

Aside from political prejudice, there cannot be a single voter in this or any other district in the county, who is acquainted with the man, who will ending March 31st, 1895, show that deny his high qualifications for this office. There are in fact, but very few people in the county who possess an equal amount of ability and fitness the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1892, for the office of legislator, and, in addition to this, whose course, if elected, could be so absolutely depended on to be honest, and truly representative of the best interests of the fell to 428,652, and in the next twelve whole people.

That Dr. Birnie is a thorough republican there is no doubt, but he is not blindly partisan, and is in no sense an aspirant for political honors either from necessity or desire, and, should the party insist on his nomination, his acceptance-if forthcoming,-would be wholly on account of a patriotic desire to serve the people, and would involve a considerable sacrifice of personal inclinations. ### Summer Boarders.

For unknown reasons, certainly not very good ones, there has never been much of an effort made in this neighborhood to secure city boarders during the summer. There are plenty of large and comfortable country residences in this district, with good shade, fishing and pic-nic advantages, beautiful scenery, and all the necessaries that city people care for who really come to the country for rest and quiet, and if it was made known that summer boarders were desired, they would likely be forthcoming.

Most families are likely so situated that they could not take city board- marksmanship. There is a town orers, yet there must be many who can, and this number should try the experiment and see whether by so doing they could not earn what may be badly needed money, without working very hard for it.

Many farmers wives are overworked, and such should not think of adding more to their burdens, but, where there is plenty of help, and possibly a number of grown daughters, the applicable to them-that a good rat, addition of several intelligent and is a dead one. We think it is equally much of a burden-and maybe a real benefit-other than in a pecuniary way.

immigration for fifteen years. The principal explanation for this decrease is found in the fact of the business depression which has prevailed so generally, and in many instances the lack of work has influenced thousands of foreigners to return to their native land. The article referred to includes this paragraph: "The Government statistics for the nine months the decrease in the number of immigrants which has been noticed each year since 1892 still continues. For the total number of immigrants arriving in this country from all sources was 566,663. In the next fiscal year, ending June 30th, 1893, the number months, ending June 30th, 1894, 275,764 imm<sup>i</sup>grants arrived. In the nine fiscal months which have passed since, 140,980 have reached this country, and if the same porportion is maintained during the remaining three months of the fiscal year, even with the usual increase in April, May

Don't Kill the Birds.

It has been pretty conclusively demonstrated by scientists that but very few, if any, of our many varieties of birds are an injury to anything which grows, and, even when they do apparently injure growing vegetation, the benefit which they do in other directions, more than overbalances the damage they do.

There is entirely too much killing of birds done, for so-called sport; even in our town, boys and young men shoot birds within the corporation limits, and on the outskirts, for no other reason than to show their dinance against the firing of guns within the corporate limits, but it has never been inforced in cases of shooting rats or birds, because it is taken for granted, possibly, that rats and

Rats likely have some qualifications. in their favor, but so far as we know, the old saying about the Indian is birds, but that the unnecessary killing of them for pure sport, should be prevented by law either locally or otherwise.

Here is the land Shaggy with wood, With its old valley, Mound and flood. But the heritors? Fled like the flood's foam, The lawyer and the laws, And the kingdom, Clean swept therefrom."

Our age builds the sepulchre of the past. We would fain revive the palimpsest, whereon are written the early incidents of time and place, but times sad effacement of the record, challenging the alchemist's art, for-ever hides and holds unseen the con-necting links of history. Men, movements, data and their environments, cannot be recalled fully, save by tra-dition, and the thread of consecutiveness is snapped, hence the attempt to write a history of our town, must in a measure, be fruitless, and the history itself fragmentary at best. One hundred years ago, and a few rude huts, skirting a sombre wood-land, which extended eastward, were all that marked the site of our present town. Winding roads which seemed to lead almost anywhere, trailed aimlessly over fenceless fields, quite as barren and wild as them-selves. The smoke that circled from unfashioned chimneys, and floated dreamily over thatched roofs of the east the procession of the scattered huts, bore no prophecy of future homes of competence and com. fort, if not of wealth and refinement. Yet around the broad hearth of those homes, there lingered that primitive satisfaction and manly content which perhaps many of their posterity feebly shared and shares.

The ground upon which New Windsor is located, was shifted fre-second son of William Atlee quently from county to county, and from district to district, before it be-came circumscribed and stamped with its present topography. As early as 1658, this soil was embraced in Charles county, and so continued until in 1694. Then Prince George's county was created, into whose bounds our territory was shifted, where it re-mained until an act of the General Assembly passed June 11th., 1748, es-tablished the bounds of Frederick yard of county. Into this county our rights and titles were now "gerrymandered." You will note that our heritage of land, water and wood has already existed within the confines of Charles, Prince George's and Frederick coun-ties; and finally in 1835 Carroll county was created, and in it were launched our present proportions, "for better or for worse." The sequel shows "for the better."

good progress in this community, clearing up forests, and preparing the soil for their maintenance. A remnant of the "Susquehannock" Indians yet lingered here, and as late as 1810 an old Indian and his family lived near a spring on the farm now occupied by Mr. John W. Myers. This old aboriginal was named Dickinson, (likely by the white natives) and the familiar creek—Dickinson's, which now uncomplainingly winds over its tortuous bed, and makes our mead-ows green, was named after him. In about the year 1788 after the as 1810 an old Indian and his family

He noted considerable travel on both the Mo-considerable travel on both the Monocacy and Buffalo roads, which crossed here, and, being of a business turn of mind, concluded that a tavern at this juncture would be a profitable investment. The Monocacy road was opened only by usage and not by state authorities, and passed here from Baltimore and the settlements of Baltimore county, to the settlements on the Monocacy. This was the main thoroughfare, and trains of wagons passed over it daily. It antedates the national turnpike more than a half century, and is the identical road which now passes through the farms of Lincoln W. Rinehart and Amos Wampler. The Buffalo road laid out by duly commissioned officers, starts at An-napolis, and leads to Buffalo, N. Y. At the intersections of these thor-oughfares here, Mr. Atlee located, and built a small tavern, and rudely constructed stables. The genial disposi-tion of Mr. Atlee, and the unstinted courtesy shown his guests, made his addresses. hostelry very favorably known to travellers, who patronized him liberally, oftimes making excuses, by predicting unfavorable weather, to tarry longer with him.
