Miss Fannie Birnie, one of our most charitable ladies, has contributed through the RECORD the handsome sum of $30.00 to the Key Monument Fund. Miss Birnie remembers Mr. Key very well, and considers the movement to erect a monument in his honor, one which should be con-tributed to liberally by the patriotic citizens of Maryland.

In another column will be found an appeal from the Children's Fresh Air Society of Baltimore, which should have the attention of the charitably disposed citizens of this locality. We learn that several of these children have been sent for by a charitable lady of the town; and more may be accommodated by others if the "sample" does not prove too bad.

The New Windsor History, in this issue, contains an interesting account of the celebrated Bank robbery case. and places in print a concise and correct account of the event. Snicide of Edward S. Baile.

The sad intelligence of the suicide of Mr. Edward S. Baile reached us by telephone on Saturday, and was a great shock to his friends and ac-quaintances. Mr. Baile was a well known young farmer, living about two miles from Westminster, and his late home is one of the handsomest in the county. It is presumed that financial difficulties, which were not insurmountable, temporarily unbalanced his mind, and caused him to commit the rash act. The circumstances in connection with the suicide, are as follows: About noon on Saturday, Mrs. Baile and one of the children went to the barn to call Mr. Baile to dinner, as he had not come to the house at the usual time; she called his name several times, but re cieved no response, and on looking in at the entry door she saw his hat ly-ing on the floor. Suspecting some-thing wrong, she lit a lantern, as the Price Lynched.

About ten o'clock in the evening a crowd commenced to gather in the town, and it was generally thought that there would be a lynching. Price was notified of the gathering, and begged to be hid away somewhere, but all escape was carefully guarded, and the sheriff notified not to attempt to take his prisoner away.

The mob had but little difficulty in securing the prisoner, as the jail is a very insecure old affair and wholly unfit to use for great criminals. After of Marshall E. Price. The act was caused by the reprieve of Governor Brown, which was interpreted to mean that it was some kind f pardon, or that in some way it would lead to the ultimate escape of the murderer. This, however, was a mistaken opinion, and the law would later date on the issue of another leath warrant.

Election of Directors.

At a meeting of the stock holders of the CARROLL RECORD Company, on Saturday afternoon, the following persons were elected as a Board of Directors for one year; Dr. George T. Motter, Dr. C. Birnie, Dr. F. H. Seiss, George A. Arnold, George H. Birnie, P. B. Englar and A. H. Zollickoffer. This is the re-election of the old board, except that A. H. Zollickoffer is in place of W. Jesse Roberts who declined to be a candidate.

On Tuesday evening the new Board met, and organized for the year by electing Dr. Geo. T. Motter, president. A. H. Zollickoffer, vice president, H. M. Clabaugh, secretary, Dr. F. H. Seiss, treasurer.

The Key Monument.

It may not be generally known that an association has been formed in Frederick, called the Key Monument Association, which is endeavoring to raise a sufficient amount of money to erect a suitable monument to the memory of Francis Scott Key, the author of the Star Spangled Banner. This money is being raised largely through the public schools, the patriotic societies, and patriotically in-many states; it was organized in July 1894 and regularly incorporated under the laws of the state. About $2000 has been subscribed by citizens of Frederick, and so far, about $500 has resulted from outside contributions. In addition to this, a small sum In addition to this, a small sum loss. It is for children whose physical, or mental, or moral natures are starving them to have fresh country air for the little lungs, good country milk for the hungry little bodies, new ideals of living for the ready little minds to see and perhaps to try to imitate, and love and kindness to make happy memories in lives that may have all too few bright days.

COUNTY CORRESPONDENCE.

Union Bridge.

A yery sad death occured in the home of Mr. Daniel Lightner, on last Monday night. The deceased was Elizabeth, the beloved wife of Mr. Lightner, who died from a cancer. Mrs. Lightner had suffered a great deal for the past two years, and dur-ing the past six months was confined clined people in general, and has so far been contributed in small sums.

The movement has been endorsed to her bed and grew weaker every day until grim death took her from her loved ones. She was well known by Governor Brown, as well as by throughout this community and the governors and leading men of many states; it was organized in July and pleasant mother and wife, and resulted from outside contributions. In addition to this, a small sum which was raised for the purpose about twenty years ago, and which has since been bearing interest, will has added to the amount.

In addition to this, a small sum band and five children to mourn them loss. The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon from Pipe Creek (Dunkard) meeting house, Rey. R. L. The usual general distribution of seeds by the Agricultural Department will not take place next year. An opinion was given by Attorney General Olney some time ago that as the law provided for furnishing "rare" seeds for scientific purposes, Secretary Morton was not compelled to expend the appropriation made in distributing common seeds. Secretary Morton has always opposed the general free seed distribution, which has become one of the regular duties of the Agricultural Department and of congre men, and under the authority of the Attorney General's opinion during this fiscal year he will inaugurate reform, and supply no seeds save for scientific purposes.

Volume Two, number one, appears at the head of this issue, which means among other things that Taneytown is publishing, weekly, its history. Let the citizens see to it that it is history worth publicly recording.

gets in the following hit from the shoulder, on Sunday bicycling; "Five thousand Baptist wheelmen from New York, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Virginia, Delaware and Maryland are going to Baltimore on their bicycles to the convention of the Baptists' Young People's Union in July. Baptist wheelmen has a pleasant and as a tribute to virtue and merit, and reassuring sound. It is very much to as a stimulus to others to emulate the the advantage of the bicycle to form evangelical connections, and to be associated now and then in people's minds with pious works and devotional aspirations. The fleet machine has taken such liberties with Sunday that it is liable to be looked upon by some of us as an invention of the adversary, and of evil purport toward religion. It helps us to think better of it when we hear not only of its being bestridden by Baptists, but of being used by them to carry them hundreds of miles to one of the conventions of their church."

Employment For Women.

The LADIES' EVERY SATURDAY, of Philadelphia, Pa., desire women of ability, everywhere, to write for their high class, illustrated, thirty-two page newspaper for women. A lady of energy in each City or Town, can secure a permanent income by representing the LADIES' EVERY SAT-URDAY and assist in introducing it in that locality. A beautiful and interesting newspaper for women, with an entirely new plan for securing circulation, which is meeting with success everywhere. Send three two-cent stamps, for sample copy and full particulars. Address; Ladies' Every SATURDAY, 36 South Seventh Street Philadelphia Pa.

Law and Politics.

The reform Mayor of New York, Mr. Strong, was asked recently; "Will the strict enforcement of the excise law weaken the political strength of the party of Municipal reform?" His answer was; "I have given no thought whatever to the political incidence of the strict enforcement of all the laws; as an executive officer, I am not concerned in that view of public questions."

In the above query is stated the greatest obstacle to good government, both state and municipal-political expediency-hesitation to enforce laws for fear of party disaster, which means that justice is second to poli tics. Good laws may be enacted because they are demanded by good people for the sake of good government, while the executive officials may allow them to be inoperative for the sake of the gratification and support of an exactly opposite class; or, in other words, the executive department may consider personal political power, and continuance in office, before plain duty under the law, and act accordingly.

We Should Contribute.

The Key monument fund should receive a handsome contribution from the citizens of Taneytown. The custom of honoring dead heros, statesmen, poets, reformers and philanthropists, by erecting monuments to their memory, has a decided tendency to cause bravery, virtue, honesty and education to be better appreciated and imitated by the living; therefore, the custom is more than mere sentiment or fashion.

It is often the case that a man's deeds are not fully appreciated and rewarded while he is living, and there are, possibly, many who can see no use in erecting costly piles over their graves, or to their memory. Such a feeling, however, represents nothing more than lack of interest, or short-A RECENT issue of Harper's Weekly | sightedness, and, in some cases. cupidity. A reward to the livingeven though undesired-which is not granted merely because of the performance of a duty which good citizenship and christianity imposes on all to perform cheerfully and without hope of material compensation, should be both granted and accepted example set for them.

Mr. Key, as the author of a patriotic song which will live as long as the country itself, deserves the erection, on his native soil, of a shaft which will have a tendency to perpetuate, not alone the memory of the author, but, the grand and burning patriotic sentiments expressed in the words written by him, possibly-who can deny-by the inspiration of God,

About Reading.

"Reading maketh a full man." So Bacon said some three hundred years ago. I wonder if he would say the same thing now if he were living? With the onward march of progress, has come a multiplicity of books and periodicals such as the world has never seen before. No man, however great his capacity, whatever be the amount of time at his disposal, or the intensity of his desire, can begin to keep pace with the amount of literature which is flooding the world at the present time. It is apparent to the present time. It is apparent to the thoughtful observer that there is an abnormal—not to say morbid—desire on the part of many, to enlighten the world through the agency of the the world through the agency of the men's Patent Leather Oxfords, $1.75 kind, $1.50 in $1.25 in $1.00 in $1.25 in $1.25 in $1.25 in $1.00 in $1.25 in $1.25 in $1.25 in $1.00 in $1.25 in $1.25

It has come to such a pass that a term has been invented to suitably describe this class of persons. "Graphomaniac" is the term—just as the term "Anglomaniac," characterizes those who rave over and ape everything that is English, and as the term "Andromaniac," depicts that class of women who affect everything that is manish, so Graphomaniac fitly describes every one who has an intense and morbid desire to write for publication. It therefore comes to pass, that those who are content to remain readers, find themselves overwhelmed by a deluge of books, pamphlets and magazines, from which it is a very hard matter to select what will be profitable and entertaining. We are all aware that reading is the most available and democratic road to culture. The distinction of being well read always appeals to us. But is it necessary that we should keep abreast of all the current literature, in order not to suffer mortification when questioned as to the extent of our reading? Is there not a host of timid readers who just at this point need a word said to help them? This is the word--that bravery and self-reliance and not quantity or fashion, is what gains us culture out of our reading-books were made for men not

TESTIMONIALS.

Taneytown, Md., June 10, 1895. DEAR SIR: I would like to tell the public some facts about the Cream Separator purchased from you last Spring. It was set up April 30, and it has been used twice a day ever since.
The gain the first week over the old way was 7 pounds of butter from 6 cows. After we were done skimming the milk which had set 24 hours, it was run through the Separator by the Agent, D. W. Garner, and he took from it 1½ inches of solid cream in a gallon paint bucket; this would have been fed to the pigs at 16c per pound. Farmers, count up the gain from 6 cows at a gain of 7 pounds a week, multiplied by 52 weeks equals 364lbs. at an average of 20c, and you will save $72.80, saying nothing about the washing of 15 or 20 milk crocks, and the warm food you have for the pigs and calves, with the animal heat in it, which is worth 10 per cent. I wouldn't haul my milk to a Creamery when I can get a Separator for $125. PTOLOMY S. HILTERBRICK.

Frederick, Md., June 4, 1895. DEAR SIR: I have been using the Davis Hand Separator for the past month, and find it to run smooth, easy and simple in construction, and of first-class workmanship, and no no trouble to separate 12 gallons of milk in 16 to 18 minutes. I find it will pay for itself with 10 cows, over old style, in 6 months, without taking into consideration the warm food we have in the milk for our calves and pigs.-A. C. MCCARDELL.

Harney, Md., June 12, 1895. DEAR SIR: The 140lbs. of milk run through your Davis Cream Separator made 7 pounds of butter, and the same quantity of milk through crocks, made 5½ lbs.—EDW. P. MYERS.

Bridgeport, Md., June 11, 1895. DEAR SIR: I have given the Davis Hand Separator bought of you May 24, 1895, a thorough trial and am very well pleased with it.-M. HUMBERT. This does not mean that any child should be allowed to eat promiscuously at all times and season. They should be given regular meals, oftener than the three set periods of breakfast, dinner and tea, if they show any signs of hunger, even if the meal consists of nothing more than a slice of bread and butter and a glass of milk. Nothing is more unwholesome than the habit some children have of continually munching cake and candy, and for healthy children, who go to bed soon after the chickens and do not eat an early breakfast, the three regular meals will be sufficient. Much depends of individuals. No routine law applying to all can be laid down. -Exchange.

Mr. Shepherd served continuously as president from his election in 1864, up to the time of his death, June 1895.

This bank, from its inception, has had the desideratum of thorough and judicious management, and stands to-day, for its capacity, without a peer in the state. Until recently it has declared semi-annual dividends of 5 to 6 per cent clear of all taxes or its capital stock. An incident transpired in connection with this bank, which will never be forgotten by any citizen now living. Nev Windsor was never thrown in the state of intense excitement as on Saturday morning Jan. 23rd., 1869, when the discovery was made that the bank was robbed. The details of this robbery may be interesting, and I will recite substantially from published records.

BANK ROBBERY. For some days previous, two strangers had been in the neighborhood, who represented themselves as drummers for Baltimore houses. About 1 o'clock on Saturday morning, Dr. Gibbons, who was called up to see a Gibbons, who was called up to see a patient, saw a man standing near the bank building, and, although it was unusual to see any person on the street at that hour, he suspected nothing wrong. Saturday morning Mr. Jos. A. Stouffer, cashier of the bank, went as usual to his place of business, but discovered that the safe could not be opened. Mr. Stouffer immediately started for the city of Baltimore, and placed the matter in the hands of Smith, Pierson & West's detective agency. The detectives came at once to New Windsor, and found that the lock had been successfound that the lock had been successfully picked, and that important portions of it had been removed. Upon opening the safe, it was apparent that the whole contents had been removed. One hundred and thirty thousand dollars in all had been taken. Of this amount, one hundred and twenty thousand dollars, were in different kinds of securities, which were the property of private parties, and had been deposited in the bank for safe keeping. The remaining ten thousand dollars were in greenbacks, of the denominations of one thousand dollars and five hundred dollars, and were the property of the bank.

An examination of the premises disclosed that the burglars had but little difficulty in gaining access to the bank. The upper part of the building was not occupied, and the entrance was effected through a green deave window after which entrance was effected through a second story window, after which, with the aid of burglar's tools, the doors were easily opened. One of the tools, a jimmy, made with a screw thread on one end, by which it could thread on one end, by which it could be converted into a brace, was found be converted into a brace, which is a good with a brace into a brace, which is a good with a bra on the premises, where it had been left. The robbing was done by expert burglars, and it is supposed the arrangements for its consummation had been perfected for some time, so easily and thoroughly was it accom-

Brown found tied to his garden formers were fine horse with a set of fence a very fine horse with a set of silver mounted harness on him. The harness and blankets were new, and of costly make. The impression was at the time that the robbers had intended to meet are accomplice here. The burglars left New Windsor in a hand-car, and ran down to within a mile of Westminster, at the lime stone quarries. Here they threw the car off the track, and walked to Westminster. ter, where they took the early train for Baltimore. A reward of 20 per cent commission on amount recovered was offered by the bank. The detectives learned that several persons, whose description he had with him, had registered at the hotels in Baltimore at different times previous to the robbery, and no doubt remained in his mind that these were the rob-

The detectives in prosecuting the search visited Philadelphia, and gave the detective force there a description of a man whose identity could be es tablished more readily than that of the others, and asked the co-opera-tion of the Philadelphia officers. The latter recognized in him Max Schin-bourn, a notorious New York burglar, who was then in New York, and for whose apprehension the New Hamp-shire authorities were offering a rewhose apprehension the New Hampshire authorties were offering a reward of one thousand dollars, he being an escaped convict from that state, An additional reward was also offered for his arrest by the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company, from these office of the lehigh coal and the state of the lehigh coal and the lehigh coal and the lehigh coal and lehigh coal whose office at White Plains he had stolen fifty-six thousand dollars worth of bonds. The Baltimore detective officers, in continuation of their investigation went to New York, and applied for assistance to the chief of police, relating the circumstances and their suspicion of Schwinbourn. At this junction Mr. S. S. Ecker, accompained by Judge Jno. E. Smith, went to N. Y. After a relentless search they gained intelligence of the burglar's whereabouts, and afterwards even rode with him in a carriage. After considerable manipulation, a large part of the bonds were located, and they wired the information to Joseph A. Stouffer in Baltimore, who immediately sent a certified check on the First National bank of Baltimore for sixteen thousand dollars as commission on the recovered property.

The following night a box contain-

Baltimore, and were placed in custody of the First National Bank of that city. The detectives afterward, at different times, secured amounts, which were restored to the bank, until one hundred and twenty thousand dollars had been recovered. Prior to this, Capt. John O. Young, chief of the police of New York city, to whom this check was given, had personally consulted with the officers of the bank here, and had made such provision, that in case of his success, there would be no doubt of his compensation. This check cost him his position, it being unlawful for an officer in his capacity to receive like com-pensation. Afterward, it was learned that Schwinbourn had a confederate named McQuade and both had been arrested and confined in the New York police central office, for about a week, and when called out for trial,

'I once knew a man.' continued the elderly woman, addressing the presenters growth and fixing the gaze on the red faced man, "who had a happy home. He had a house and a corner lot and four Government bonds. He took to drink. In two years he lay in a drunkard's grave and his wife took in washing."

The conductor opened the door and said "Broadway, change for Tenth avenue." Nobody left the car and there was a silence for two blocks, while the elderly passenger fumbled for her pocket. She found it at length and, producing a paper, crossed over and sat down beside the red faced passenger.

"Certainly, madam."
"Your father living, too?"

"He is."

"And he's a good man?"

"Very good—deacon in a church."

"I knew it," she rejoined earnestly.
"I knew it. Now, do you think, young man, you are pleasing them?"

"I hope so," said the red faced passenger, getting redder and fidgeting happy passenger.

"Young man," continued the elderly woman with increasing earnestness, disregarding his question, "liquor is the worst enemy of men. I want to ask you to read this tract, entitled 'Rum the Road to Ruin,' and if, after its impressive lesson, you can continue a drunkard's career—."
"Who's a drunkard?" shouted the red faced man excitedly. "Well, perhaps not yet," she said, 'but a drinking—"

"It's a lie!" he rejoined angrily.

"I'm the superintendent of a Second avenue Sunday school. I haven't touched a drop of liquor in five years!"

"Your breath, my poor young friend," said the elderly woman compassionately, "cannot be explained away. I grieve to say it has been unpleasantly apparent to every one in this car.

"Breath!" he ejaculated in aston-"Breath!" he ejaculated in astonishment, "Perhaps you mean the rum and quinine that the barber rubbed on my bald spot. You're an impertinent old meddler," he added, purple faced and breathless. "Take your tract and clear out!"

She did. She left the car right there, and as long as the conductor could see her she was fumbling for her pocket.

THE FIRST AMERICAN cent was "struck off" and put in circulation just 102 years ago, in 1793. Previous to that date several "pattern pieces" had been made, but they were experiments only, and were never put in use The so-called "Washington cents," which existed previous to the date above given, were not issued by the government, and were therefore only medals. The cent of 1793 was very similar to the large copper cents of later date, with the exception that the face of "Liberty" was turned to the right, and the legend "one cent," was inclosed in a chain of thirteen links.
