The great political landslide of Catholic church at Taneytown—one 1894 throughout the country seems to as a memorial to Rev. Father Delahave affected the parties this year in the same way. The Democracy hoped as a memorial to Father Zocchi, who dates being his only daughter, margareted the parties this year in garet E., and Mr. Arthur Coombs of Gettysburg. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. W. McSherry, pass tor of the Trinity Lutheran church. Promptly at 1.30 p. m., the bridal couple entered the parlor to the strains of Mendelssohn's march, beautifully rendered by Mr. George W. Englar of Penna. College, Gettysburg. The bride was attired in a traveling costume of green henrietta cloth, with gloves to match, and carried a huge boquet of Marechal Niel roses and white carnations. The bridesmaid, Miss Maud Hann was attired in a green olive cloth, with gloves to match those of the bride, and carried a bunch of La France roses. The groom wore the conventional black with tan colored gloves. G. Walter Wilt, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

Immediately after the ceremony those present were ushered into the same way. On Thursday afternoon of last week, Mr. Henry Lynn, a well known and highly respected citizen of this place, passed quietly away. Mr. Lynn had been confined to his bed for some time, and all knew that re-covery was impossible, but when the last hour had came, death completed its work so quietly that it was a sudden shock to all. Mr. Lynn's age was 83 years, 8 months and 24 days. Funeral services were conducted in St, Pauls' Lutheran church of this place, after which the remains were red in the Reformed cemetery at Emmitsburg.

Mrs. Eliza Hesson of this place, died on last Monday morning, of dropsy and a complication of other diseases. Mrs. Hesson has been in ill health for a number of years. She was an active worker in the U.B. Church of this place from the time of its organization. On last Sunday when Rev. Wagner paid her the last visit, she appearantly knew that her time on earth was short and selected the 23rd. chapter of Joshua and the 14th. verse, as the text from which she desired her funeral sermon to be preached. Funeral services were conducted on Wednesday morning in the U. B. Church of this place, after which the remains were interred in the U. B. cemetery. Special Rates on Periodicals.

As the days get short, and the evenings long, the time for reading increases. The time not only increases but readers increase along with it. It is a good sign in any community, when the newspaper mail is heavy, and, while there is room for improvement in this place in that line, it is probable that our postoffice receives as much news matter as is received at any other office of the same size.

The combination offers of the REC-ORD are not purely salfish ones. Having in view the improvement of this section, we desire the people to read; and, while the combinations offered are expected to indirectly benefit our paper financially, they are also made for the educational effect that plenty of good reading matter always gives. While only a limited number of com binations are published, we are able. to make a special combination offer on nearly all monthly and weekly publications published in the world, at less than regular publishers prices. For instance, we can give you Harper's Magazine at $3.50, the Century at $3.75, both of which are $4 .00 agazines. You can get Lippincott's at $2.50, and Scribner's at $2.75, both of which are $3.00 a year.

No matter what you want, or where published, if you are a RECORD subscriber, call at the office and see whether we cannot give you a special price. It cannot be done on all pub lications, but on the most of them we can, and will, save you money. Bear this in mind before sending in your renewal for periodicals you are now receiving, as well as for new ones you propose getting.

Business Maxim; and Methods.

It is an old saying that a merchant can nine times out of ten persuade a customer to take what he recommends; but how many of the "nine persons out of ten" are satisfied with the article he recommends after they have tried it? If they are not satisfied they are likely to try another store when again in need of the same article. This is a risk the merchant takes when he recommends it.

owe their large sale to their merits and therefore recommend themselves, so his customers will feel they receive full value for their money every time they deal with him. This is the only way to hold trade, and a man who does not or can not hold his trade will have to struggle to make both ends meet all the days of his life.

No merchant gets rich on one sale, or on a month's sales. Now-a-days it is the large number of sales with a small profit on each, and the successful merchant must make every sale no matter how small, do him good by sending away every customer with a feeling of confidence that they have received full value for their money.

"Goods well bought are half sold" is as true today as ever. But "well bought" does not mean low price only -it means quality quite as much as cost, for low-priced goods do not mean cheap goods.

"The best is the cheapest" always, whether it be a paper of pins, a toy book, a pair of shoes, calico—in fact, anything must be good to be cheap He must always buy a standard line of goods that are in demand by every body and sell them at a fair profit; then he will constantly draw new trade and hold it, too.

Coins Disappearing.

It has likely been noticed by many. that some of our small coins are not seen as frequently as they used to be, and wonder what is the reason. Those which are disappearing, are as follows: two-cent pieces, three-cent pieces (both silver and nickel) fivecent and twenty-cent silver pieces. The coinage of these pieces, has, at different times, been ordered dis-continued by congress; and, while they have never been called in, so to speak, when they once return to the treasury they are never re-issued.

These coins were unpopular for various reasons, and it is likely that its clippings. in a very few years, the sight of one f them will be rare. About the most unpopular pieces ever made were the three-cent pieces. It is probable that the same idea was responsible for the two-cent piece, but in Sold by Druggists, 75c. neither case was the experiment popular with the people.

HISTORY OF MIDDLEBURG.

BY JAS. H. KOONS,-1895. PART IV.

History of Keysville.

Keysville is a small village located in the western part of Middleburg district, on a tract of about 1000 acres of land taken up originally by John ORPHANS' COURT—David H. Hoffacker, Lewis P. Cash, Albert Schaeffer.

Or Hand taken up originally by John Ross Key, the father of Francis Scott Key-the village deriving its name from the Keys. The first house in the place was built by Francis S. Key, in 1824 or 1825, and the second one not until 1863, by Abraham S. Zentz; since which time quite a number of Luildings have been erected, including stores, church, schools, etc.

The first school house was built in 1828, on ground donated by Francis S. Key, for church and school purposes, which remained until 1867, when the present brick building took its place. The first school building was of course of logs, as nearly all of the early buildings were, and was a famous place for singing schools and debates, as well as Sunday school. Since the building of the new house, however, any other exercises than regular day and Sunday school, have COMMISSIONERS.-Dr G. T. Motter, Edward | been prohibited, which has excited Kemper, W. Jesse Roberts, Joshua Koutz, E. some opposition and unfavorable comment in the neighborhood.

Probably about the same time the first school house was built, a log church was built, which was used for holding union services for many years. In 1870 the present brick church was built by four denominabath at 10.30 a. m. Sabbath School one hour tions; Methodist, Lutheran, Reformed and United Brethren. Some years -Weekly Prayer Meeting Tuesday Evenings | ago the latter sold their share to the Lutherans, consequently that denomination owns one-half of the property, and the Reformed and Methodist month, at 10 a. m., and on the fourth Sabbath | the other half. These three bodies at 2.30 p. m. Sabbath School one hour before seem to get along very well in their joint ownership, and services are held every Sunday by one of them.

Charles F. Roop, a well-known citizen of the place, has in his possession 9 a. m. Y. P. S. C. E. 6.30 p. m. W. Talleyrand declared that a good dinner had great influence on human actions. This is certainly true. Many a man loses his nerve-from no greater cause than an attack of biliousness. Straw as Feed.

In many sections of the country feed will be very valuable the coming winter, and the man who has a good lot of oat straw, and even wheat straw, and carefully saved, has the bulk of the material, which, if fed understandingly, will prove a small mine of wealth to him. Straw is deficient in feeding quality, principally in albuminous matter and fats. The thing to do is to feed some food with it so as to restore the "harmony," and to do this, if some sort of succulent food is fed, as roots or silage, and, in addition, if 200 pounds of oil meal is fed with each ton of straw, a very well-balanced ration is secured, and one on which the cattle will do very well if they are not compelled to expend the greater part of their feed in protection from the cold. The feeding of straw and other light foods as the bulky part of the ration calls for the best of housing, if the full measure of the food value of the ration is o be obtained. This is why straw is not regarded as a satisfactory part food for the winter milker but where this cow has succulent food in some form and grain strong in proteins, and has little exposure to the weather of winter, it is found that there is no objection to moderate quantities of straw being used. It is the abuse of it that has given straw an unfavorable reputation. Men use it as full feed with which to economize, and, not properly combining it with proteins, failure results, and the conclusion is at once formed that "it is a pretty good thing on which to starve a herd." Too much straw with a full ration of proteins is apt to aggravate this matter of bad effect, but if a daily addition of roots or a small feed of silage is given it acts as a laxative, and nature has a natural way, and then even dairy cows may be fed a SURREYS, limited amount of bright straw with ration in some way and saye the straw to feed and do not use it as bedding only. It has a feed value.-Practical Farmer.

It is better to sacrifice a few magazines likely to be stored away and not taken out again rather than deny the boy anything on his subject. It is astonishing how soon he will collect quite an interesting volume on "Natural History" or any subject chosen. Scrapbooks of facsimile and pictures are very interesting and may be procured from old magazines and papers in quantities.

That Headache!

You have sick headache occasionally, with sour stomach and biliousness. This all comes from a sluggish action of the liver.

There are three things you can do. You can take liver pills which cleanse the whole system out but leave you weakened and exhausted. Or you can consult a physician, which is a good but expensive plan. Now there is a third and better course. You can have the physician's advice and his remedies both for 25c.

Ask your druggist for Ramon's Tonic Liver Pills. He will give you two boxes of medicine. These boxes contain exactly what every leading doctor prescribes. You first take a Ramon's Pill which opens the bowels easily and naturally, without violence. You then take the Ramon's Tonic Pellets daily for a fortnight.

They contain a powerful Tonic and Blood Purifier, which makes a new creature of you. At the same time they keep the bowels mildly active. Try it

VOTE OF THE STATE.

Returns from all over the state indicate that an unusually heavy vote has been cast, and the vote for the republican ticket has been marvellous. The exact standing of the legislature is not positively known as yet, but it is strongly republican on joint ballot, and a republican United States senator is assured, to succeed senator Gibson. A DISLIKE OF DUKES.

A Handicap Which the Highest of English Peers Have to Carry.

We may note a peculiarity in the English feeling about titles of which we have never seen a reasonable explanation. The political populace dislikes the title of duke. Some of the ablest peers in politics have been dukes, but to be a duke weights instead of lightening a man in the great race for power. There is a widely diffused impression, the origin of which we cannot trace, that a duke is sure to be a little stupid, that a brilliant duke is, in fact, an impossibility. The title is a positive drawback to the Duke of Devonshire, and a Duke of Derby would never have been described as a "Rupert of debate."

The Duke of Argyll, who is an intellectual athlete, would have been far more completely recognized as Earl of promising politicians in the house of lords. Certainly a duke rarely rises there unless he has become known to the country before the title crushed him. Is it that the rank overpowers the popbeen long on the service and have become practically disabled.

ular imagination till men cease to see the person—a thing which constantly happens in the case of kings-or is it that men can never forget the special rank by merging it in the simpler and more familiar title of "lord?" No peer except a duke is invariably mentioned by the title which marks his grade. We have not an idea of the true explanation, but we know that a political earl who accepted a dukedom would lose heavily in popular estimation, and The appropriation for the year was that even a marquis like Lord Salisbury, who would alter his rank so little, would find that the coronet of strawberry leaves acted, to a certain extent, as an extinguisher, while if his son never entered the house of commons he would have to struggle against some inexplicable weight. The fact is one of the very oddest in the whole of the odd history of the influence of rank, but of its reality we entertain no doubt whatever. To say "that is a ducal opinion" is to say it is an opinion that no one in our days need consider .- London Spec- 1t
