

FIGHTING IN CUBA.

Reports from Spanish Sources Tell of Two Insurgent Reverses.

HAVANA, Oct. 6.—News has been received here of an engagement which took place Monday near Guamo, in the western part of the province of Pinar del Rio, between the Spanish troops under General Bernal and Colonel Granados and the insurgents under Antonio Maceo.

Colonel Granados, it appears, was informed that the Cantabria Battalion was surrounded by a force of 3,000 insurgent infantry and 800 cavalry at Guamo. The insurgent force had been sent to Guamo by Antonio Maceo from Loma Blanca.

The fighting was in progress when General Bernal was flushed out and fled to the mountains near Lomas de La Teja. General Bernal only had 700 troops at his disposal, while the forces of Antonio Maceo occupied long lines of battle.

The fighting commenced at 9:30 a. m., and the enemy made a very stubborn defense. But the insurgents were finally dislodged from the positions they had taken up, leaving 100 killed in the field, and the prisoners captured by the Spaniards say that the insurgents carried away over 200 wounded.

New Argument for Free Silver. A colored orator in Baltimore, recently made use of the following unique argument in favor of silver rather, against gold.

"You white folks, you niggers too, doan know nothin' but how to get the gold dollar kin do. Now suppose, just suppose, you know dat when you gits yer pay Saturday night yer gits one of dem dollar bills, dat's a long way to go, dat's a long way to go. Now yer take dat little yellow dollar home and shows it ter de old woman. She takes and puts it away ter keep it. Long comes de same time and he wants de money."

Her New Ten Commandments.

William Schmeckelber of Chicago, was granted a divorce from his wife last Saturday by Judge Haney.

Schmeckelber showed that his wife had been unfaithful, but the decision was the more easily obtained upon William presenting the new "Ten Commandments," which his wife had set up for his observance. Here they are:

1. Remember that I am thy wife.
2. Thou shalt cherish all thy life.
3. Thou shalt not stay out late at night.
4. When I speak, thou shalt not interrupt me.
5. Thou shalt not smoke indoors or out.
6. Nor chew tobacco.
7. Thou shalt not be a drinking man.
8. Nor stray from my side.
9. My mother thou shalt strive to please.
10. And let her live with me in ease.
11. Thou shalt get up with both eyes.
12. To dress well throughout the year.
13. Thou shalt in manner mild and meek give me thy wages every week.
14. Nor shalt thou be a drinking man.
15. But live on prohibition plan.
16. Thou shalt not riot, but must allow thy wife such freedom, anyhow.
17. Thou shalt get up with both eyes.
18. And try the child to tranquility.

Current Humor.

It has been noticed many times by keen observers that the man who lives next door to a church is generally a man who doesn't go there.

"Mamma (to Willie, who is sliding down the cellar door)—"Willie, what are you doing?"

"Willie—"Makin' a pair o' pants for a poor orphan boy."

"This blackberry pie isn't nearly so good as those mother used to make."

"No; I told your mother this morning when she made it that you would be sure to find fault with it."

"My dear," said Mr. Darley, "did you take any money out of my waist-coat pocket?"

"I did," replied she, defiantly. "Why did you?"

ORIGIN OF THE HELLO

INVENTION OF THE TELEPHONE, AS TOLD BY ITS AUTHOR.

Dr. Bell, like his father, was interested in Efforts to Instruct Deaf Mutes—While Engaged in This Line of Work the Telephone Was Suggested to His Mind.

The story of how the telephone came to be invented was told by Dr. Alexander Graham Bell during his attendance at the meeting of the American Association to Promote the Teaching of Speech to the Deaf, held at Mount Airy, N. C., on his father was an eclectician in England and well known as a corrector of defects in utterance, as his grandfather had also been.

Dr. Bell did not at that time believe it was possible for deaf mutes to understand speech by looking at the mouth of the speaker. The mechanism of speech was, he thought, too complicated for that.

He made many hundreds of tracings, but unfortunately they did not correspond with the flame pictures before described, and he attributed the trouble to the clumsiness of the apparatus.

Between Two Kvils. Lady (to dirty tramp)—"Here's a piece of soap, and if you will wash yourself with it, and here's a piece of homemade cake to eat."

Dirty Tramp (critically surveying the soap and cake)—"Is the soap homemade, too, mum?"

Dirty Tramp—Then, if you don't mind, mum, I'd rather eat the soap and scrub myself with the cake.—Fun.

A Wrong Valuation. "Bligh has a great estimate of his own importance," remarked the politician's acquaintance. "He told me today that he always left himself in the hands of his friends."

He laid her cheek on an easy chair against his head and murmured: "How I do love to rest my head against your head, Augustus."

HUMOR

RUNNING A TROLLEY CAR.

The Intelligent Young Man Tells His Best Good-bye to His Tricycle.

"You see," said the young man on the front seat of an electric car, explaining to his best girl how the electric current was made to send the car flying along the rails, "the motor man turns that thing a little to the right, and that connects the car with the electric current carried along in the wire down in the conduit under the track."

"How perfectly lovely!" chirped the little miss. "But I don't just see how the electric current gets to the wheels."

"Well, there's a little jinghammer that runs from the grip and plow to the axle, and the current runs through little whitenoisecans and is connected by some kind of jingammas to the wheels. When the man turns on the electric current, it shoots through those kadogings, and the trolley-tour starts the wheels."

They then got off at the corner drug store.—Washington Star.

He Was Not. A reformed actor who lives in Detroit tells of an experience he had while banistering 15 years ago, which shows that however painful a comedian may be on the stage, the comedy habit sometimes produces bright results when emergencies arise.

"We were putting on a pirated edition of 'Rosedale,'" he says, "and Wallace started in to make trouble for us. He threw a picture of the comedian habit on the screen. He commenced his experiments with König's manometric flask apparatus, which, by means of a vibratory diaphragm, stretched on a piece of wood divided into two parts, and a lack started in to make trouble for us."

"Why, I understand. But how does he stop the car?"

"Just grabber! I had jinghammer around to the left, right up against the whitnoise, gives 'the brake a twist, and there you are."

It Failed to Work. "I failed to work."

PUMICE STONE.

Thirty Merchants Are Engaged in the Chase on the Island of Lipari.

Pumice, as is well known, is of volcanic origin, being a trachytic lava which has been rendered light by the escape of gases when in a molten state. It is found on most of the shores of the Tyrrhenian sea and elsewhere, but is at present almost exclusively obtained from the little island of Lipari.

"It's hard to get into the Army. The tabulation of the enlistments in the United States army for July shows unmistakably the cause with which recruits are now accepted. Captain Palmer, in charge of the Chicago recruiting station, enlisted only 27 men out of 480 who applied for enlistment—an acceptance of 1 in 17. The army standard has been raised from time to time until it is more difficult to enter it as a private for the small payment of $14 a month than it is to secure admission into any other department of the government."

It is more difficult to enter it as a private for the small payment of $14 a month than it is to secure admission into any other department of the government. The total enlistments during the month were 430 and the rejections were 2,933.—Chicago Tribune.
