Some Cherry Recipes.

Spiced cherries—Make a rich syrup with one quart of vinegar, five pounds of sugar, two ounces of whole cinnamon, one ounce of whole cloves and the thinly pared yellow rind of two lemons.

The Washington Whitewash.

Take half a bushel of unslaked lime; slake it with boiling water; cover during the process to keep in steam; strain the liquid through a fine sieve or strainer, and add to it a peck of salt, previously dissolved in warm water; three pounds ground rice boiled to a thin paste and stirred in white hot; half a pound of Spanish whiting and one pound clean glue, previously dissolved by soaking in cold water and then hanging over a slow fire in a small pot hung in a larger one filled with water.

and you preserve your youth. "A woman is as old as she looks," says the world. No woman looks as old as she is if her hair has preserved its normal beauty.

be almost as serviceable as paint for wood, brick or stone, and is much cheaper than the cheapest paint. Coloring matter may be added as desired.

Sick headache can be quickly and completely overcome by using those famous little pills known as DeWitt's Little Early Risers.

Grape-seed-swallowing Nonsense.

"Don't swallow the grape seeds, for they may get into your venous form appendix, and death or at least the surgeon's knife may follow."

Frog Farming.

How This Industry is Successfully Conducted Under Favorable Conditions. The first requisite for successful frog farming are suitable ponds or a stretch of low, well watered grounds where the frogs will never suffer for lack of moisture.

True Rule for Cooking Potatoes.

So simple a thing as a potato is insulted by half the cooks in christendom. When potatoes are to be boiled, pure and simple, only a vandial will peel them before cooking.

Bees Swarming.

A beginner in beekeeping asked these questions in The American Bee Journal: 1. Can a person tell within a day or two a queen cell is about to issue?

Distance Between Plants.

At the Georgia station results gained with cotton were such as to justify these conclusions: With a standard width of rows of 4 feet, on soil capable of producing 1 to 1 1/2 bales per acre, the plants should not be farther apart than 12 inches in the row.

The Army Worm.

In reply to the query, "Will the army worm come this year?" Professor Slingerland, Cornell station, writing to the New England Homestead, says: I have noticed in reports from some localities in New York that farmers are planning to refrain from sowing oats and other grains for fear of a repetition of the 1896 invasion of the worm this summer.

Old Wood Best to Burn.

Old wood best to burn, old wine best to drink, old friends to trust, and old authors to read.—Alouzo of Aragon.

tablespoonful of stoned cherries sprinkled with a little lemon juice, cover with another spoonful of the batter and place in the steamer immediately. Steam for half an hour, or longer, depending upon the size of the platter.

Bean Culture.

Methods Practiced by New York Farmers on Long Island. String beans can be grown either as a first, second or intermediate crop. The Long Island farmers plant from the first week in May until the last week in July.

Tomatoes Planted in Every Third Row.

The best soil for beans is a light, friable loam, but whichever soil it is, it should be well manured with a light coating of nitrate of soda, say 200 pounds per acre.

Watermelons are Excessive Feeders.

Watermelons are excessive feeders and must have plenty of plant food. Here is the plan of a successful grower of melons given in The Orange Juice Farmer. He says: I prepare the ground as for corn. Lay off in rows 12 feet apart each way.

Fertilizer for the Sugar Beet.

Lime as a special fertilizer for the sugar beet on all except extremely light soils has given promising results in Germany and at the Rhode Island station. It usually increases the yield and is also said to increase the sugar content.

Harlequin Cabbage Bug.

Entomologist Smith of the New Jersey station says that the harlequin cabbage bug is hard to kill, being proof against emulsions and soaps. Kerosene will kill it and kill the plant also. The remedy recommended is to take advantage of its love for mustard and radishes and plant a trap crop of either or both in advance of setting the cabbage plants.

Trees which have grown on a northern exposure.

Trees which have grown on a northern exposure, as on the north side of a hill, produce better, harder wood and more durable lumber than those which have been pampered by the southern sun.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

MCKELLIPS Horse and Cattle Powder, A SCIENTIFIC AND RELIABLE REMEDY FOR HORSES, COWS, ETC. One of the Best Condition Powders in use.

The Powders will be found invaluable for cattle in all cases of debility, or where the health has been impaired or they will loosen the hide, improve the appetite, and cause a rapid deposition of fatty matter.

THE Carroll Record.

VOL. IV.

The New Volume will aim to be an improvement over its predecessors, as it is not the policy of the RECORD to attain a certain degree of excellence and then stand still.

As in the past, partisan politics will be given no room.

As a News-gatherer from points in Carroll county north of, and bordering on, the Western Maryland Railroad, the RECORD stands without a rival.

Once a Subscriber— Always a Subscriber

It is the rule with patrons of the RECORD. Few indeed, have discontinued the paper, and the few have been those who had no grievance against, or fault to find with, the RECORD.

JOB PRINTING

Is a leading item of the business of the Carroll Record Co. Our equipment for Job Work of all kinds is second to no office outside of the large cities, and we prove this by the excellence of our work, and by the amount of it turned out.

JAPAN IS AROUSED.

Her emphatic protest entered against the Annexation of Hawaii. IT IS ALMOST AN ULTIMATUM.

Washington, June 23.—The protest from Japan in connection with the Hawaiian treaty, which was received by the Senate committee on foreign relations today, is considered in a more serious light than was at first made apparent, and the committee took exceptional precautions to prevent the publication of its proceedings.

It is not a protest against the form of the document, as had been supposed in some quarters, but against the document itself, or rather against the transaction, as being opposed to Japan's interests. The specific reason alleged for the protest is that the consummation of the agreement between Hawaii and the United States would disturb the existing trade relations of the North Pacific and nullify treaty rights.

Requires Delicate Handling. The protest is in such definite terms and is directed so squarely at the transaction as to cause the committee to feel that the entire matter should be handled with the utmost circumspection, as the only way in which complications of a serious nature can be avoided. While there is no disposition on the part of a majority of the committee to weaken in its support of the treaty, there is a general feeling that the friendly relations which have existed between Japan and the United States call for great deliberation and special care in proceeding in the matter.

Senator Morgan's Bill. Senator Morgan introduced in the Senate today a bill for the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands. The bill provides that the islands shall become a territory of the United States in accordance with the terms of the recently negotiated treaty.

Chinese Coins for the Smithsonian. The Smithsonian Institution has received by bequest from the late G. B. Glover, of New York, formerly of the Chinese imperial maritime customs, a collection of Chinese and other East Asiatic coins, consisting of 2,025 pieces and representing the coinage of China from 770 B. C. down to the present day.

Tommy's Idea of Babies. "Babies are usually young. Now and again specimens may be found of twenty years and over. Real, live, unmistakable, heard-a-mile-off babies are always young."

It is now thought that a final vote on the tariff bill will be taken in the Senate about July 1st. It had been thought that it would have passed about June 20th, but the democrats have consumed a great deal of time in long speeches on points of the bill which were expected to pass without. After its passage by the Senate, it goes to the conference committee, where it is expected to remain about two weeks before the final vote on its passage can be taken.

Orphans' Court Proceedings.

MONDAY, June 21st, 1897.—William R. Currey, trustee of Thomas J. Bond, settled his 35th account. Philip S. Bowman, executor of Sarah Groves, deceased, returned inventory of goods and chattels and list of debts and settled first final account.

TUESDAY, June 22nd, 1897.—Letters of administration on the estate of John L. Bakert, deceased, were granted to Jacob Wesley Mathias, who returned inventory of goods and chattels, and received orders to sell goods and chattels and notify creditors.

Pat and the Priest. A clergyman was standing at the corner of a square in the city on Thanksgiving day about the hour of dinner, says the Philadelphia American, when one of his countrymen, observing the worthy father in perplexity, thus addressed him: "Oh, Father O'Leary, how is your reverence?"

"Mighty put out, Pat," was the reply. "Put out—'who'd put out your reverence?" "Ah, you don't understand; that is just it. I am invited to dine at one of the houses in this square and I have forgotten the name and I never looked at the number and now it is nearly six o'clock."

"Oh, is that all?" was the reply. "Just now be at my, your reverence; I'll settle that for you." "So saying, away went the good-natured Irishman around the square, glancing at the houses and when he discovered lights that denoted hospitality, he rang the doorbell and inquired: "Is Father O'Leary here?"

"No, brother on Father O'Leary! He is not here, but he was to dine here to-day, and the cook is in a rage, and says the dinner will be spoiled. All is waiting for Father O'Leary!" Paddy leaped from the door as if the steps were on fire and rushed up to the astonished priest, saying: "All is right, your reverence; you dine at 2145 and a mighty good dinner you'll get."

A fond mother in Chicago recently took her little 4-year-old girl to a photographer. The child could not be made to sit still. He of the camera was as suave as he could be and worked every device of gentle persuasion to make the little wiggler keep still. Finally he said to the despairing mother: "Madame it you leave the little one alone with me a few minutes I think I can succeed."

HEART DISEASE.

A London Specialist's Method of Treatment.

This is an age of specialists, and in no profession more than the medical one does the specialist attain either fame or profit or a combination of the two. Every day one hears of some doctor or some surgeon who has made his name by the cure of this or that or that operation, but about many of them, in London at least, something more than a suspicion of quackery hovers.

I heard the other day of some astounding cure due to an entirely new treatment of heart disease which can hardly be passed by without the usual attendants details. There is no doubt that among men of our own generation who are approaching the age of 50 the most frequent form of trouble, in this country at least, consists in a weakened or otherwise abnormal action of the heart.

And the moral of it all for, as the duchess told Alice, "Everything's got a moral if only you can find it." Is the case of the heroines of the novels so very different from the case of the heroes—and of the heroes, too—of real life? Perhaps with a little money early in life the evil in Miss Rebecca Sharp might have slumbered for all time, and you can tell what dire confusion poverty might have brought the Dorotheas and Marcellas? The scientists would have us believe that the struggle for food and clothing is the incentive to progress and civilization; the emotionalists, with a similar air of materialism, assign other motives for human conduct. Whichever may be right, neither can deny that the best of us like our comforts, whether, as in the case of his royal spendthriftness, it takes $50,000,000 to supply them or, like some aged gentleman of African descent, he craves only a few cents with which to buy a corn-cob pipe and bag of tobacco; whether, like Queen Elizabeth, 305 dresses are needed to fill our wardrobes or, as in the case of the pilgrim mothers, we are content with homespun to make us a Lord's day gown.

A Rare Book by Mrs. Browning. The discovery is reported from Sandwich of another original copy of Mrs. Browning's "The Battle of Marathon," which was printed for W. Lindell, 87 Wimpole street, Cavendish square, in 1820. It was bought at a local sale with a number of other books for a few shillings. Up to the year 1891 but three copies of this scarce work were known to exist, and the only one that has ever been sold by auction realized $340 at the Route sale, held at New York. This may have been one of the three copies already mentioned, but in any case only five at the most can be accounted for at the present time. The book is consequently scarcer than "Pauline." Mr. Browning had neither seen nor heard of a copy up to within a short time of his death, and when his attention was called to it expressed a doubt whether it might not be a fabrication.—Athenaeum.

Hard to Reclaim a Woman Drunkard. It is not flattering to women to be told that when one of their sex gives way to drink she is much harder to reclaim than a man. This statement was made by Miss Gorman of the Edinburgh England Temperance society at the Women's guild conference in Edinburgh. She said that after 14 years' experience in the cause of temperance she had found that it needed three Christians to bring a man back to sobriety and at least six to bring a woman back. She declared that drunkenness was much on the increase in London.

A public house in the Old Kent road was watched one day last August, and from 7 in the morning till 12 at night 2,442 women, 1,169 children and 359 babies entered it.

B. W. Johnson, Newark, O., says: "One Minute Cough Cure saved my only child from dying by croup." It has saved thousands of others suffering from cough, pneumonia, bronchitis and other serious throat and lung troubles. The Cherry King cure became known all over the world, and has never been satisfactorily solved.
