The Editor is not responsible for the open expressed by contributors, nor does ions expressed by contributors, nor does to publication of them make him their endors. The public is entitled to the free use of it department, as long as it is not used as medium for the ventilation of personalitic or for the publication of articles of no gener interest or benefit. All communication must be signed by the writer, or authorsh acknowledged in a separate note

We do not disclose the identity of any writer in this department, in order to gratify curiosity, therefore the "nom de plume" may be used with a feeling of security; at the same time it must not be used as cloak behind which to deal out "personal cuts." Write only on one side of the paper, as plainly, and as nearly correct in punctuation, as possible. Communications should be limited to 500 or 600 words at most.

Our Home Circle.

By mutual consent, perhaps, this department has, to a large degree, lost its individuality during the past summer. In a sense, it has taken an "outing," during the busy and heated term, but, the time is nearly here when it should take an "inning," and the numerous contributors of the past winter and spring return to their posts as contributors to a cause, which, we think, has already demonstrated its value beyond question.

The RECORD has always recognized the rights of its patrons to certain privileges, exclusively their own, not affected by the censorship of the editor. It has conceived the ideas that the popular paper is one in which its subscribers feel a personal interest; that people tire of the opinions of the editor and the weekly sameness of the average country newspaper. In order to carry these ideas into practice, the Home Circle was established, and it has proven an admirable medium for a free interchange of interesting and beneficial opinions, too valuable to think of discontinuing.

We, therefore, again extend a general invitation to all, who have suffiduce a pleasing variety of ideas.
