Education of Every Child.

The sentence in the Carroll county republican platform, pronouncing in favor of the education of "every child," with the expressed belief that "in the general dissemination of knowledge among the masses rests the safety of every republic," is deserving of universal indorsement, irrespective of party. The time is coming when the state must realize that it is performing only a half duty in providing educational facilities without also demanding that the young shall take advantage of public education, unless it is secured through some private institution.

We must have intelligent citizens, if we want good and safe citizens. The state has no proper right to allow its institutions be imperiled and its courts kept busy, because of ignorance in the ranks, without making an effort to improve the conditions. We should like to see this question acted on by the coming legislature, and cannot conceive how there could be any sound objection, political or otherwise, to taking this step which other states have already taken.

Trade Cannot be "Cornered."

If we believed that the creation of trusts would be a permanent benefit to our economic system, we might share in the alarm expressed by some timid persons. We do not; we regard them as a merely transient commercial craze, which will die of exhaustion. The commerce of this country is altogether too great to be kept under control by any one set of men acting upon a single principle. The trade of the United States has passed that stage just as it has passed the stage when the wheat product of this country can be "cornered"—Seattle (Wash.) Post-Intelligencer.

The above is in exact harmony with our expressed opinion in these columns several weeks ago. This country is too big to be successfully "trusted," and whenever its citizens begin to feel the oppression of these financial schemes, just that soon will they make them both unprofitable and unpopular. The same power—the people—which makes Presidents, and adopts national policies, may be safely trusted to suppress dangerous and unworthy private enterprises.

The present general tendency toward monopolistic ventures is a natural outgrowth of the times, for which the unusual boldness and feeling of security of capital is responsible. It is not that the laws are now any more favorable to trusts than they have been heretofore, but because a feeling of safety prevails everywhere; that money heretofore locked up, or invested at a low rate of interest, may show itself in new avenues, without danger.

As this condition represents a reaction, so will there be, in time, a reaction from the present craze, when money will again hide itself, and some of the present combinations will find it hiding in absolute loss to its speculative owners and everybody else. We will likely have, within a few years, an exemplification of the adage that it is better to "make haste slowly" in getting rich.

Industrial Prosperity.

Undoubtedly this country is passing through a season of unparalleled industrial and commercial prosperity, which has extended to a great degree all over the country. Everywhere, mills and factories of all kinds are busy, and mechanics in every community fully occupied, at remunerative wages. So general is this condition that very little is heard of the burden of the war tax, and the subject of trusts, and the dangers they represent, has not yet received the general consideration of the masses because they are too busy just now attending to their own business, having little or nothing to complain of.

Even the farmers, who feel the pressure of hard times when brought about by low prices of produce, are generally in a satisfactory financial condition, especially as the bottom of their troubles in this direction seems to have been reached, and the future more promising than the past. The following bright picture of present conditions is from the pen of Henry Clews, a noted New York financial authority:

"The activities of our industries far exceeds anything ever witnessed in the past; nor is there anywhere an indication of impending over-production nor of any reactionary tendency; and what is still more important, producers have now a guaranty they never had before, in the rapid growth of their ability to command foreign outlets for any possible surplus of supply in the home markets. The crops, taking them as a whole, are more than a good average. Our grain market may be expected to receive the stimulus of another season of short crops in other countries. Appearances indicate the probability of a continuance of the remarkable credit for foreign balances that have marked the fiscal years 1897-8 and 1898-9."

"Prosperous conditions continue throughout the land, and the wave advances rather than recedes, with bright prospects ahead. A larger number of working men are employed to-day on terms satisfactory to themselves and their employers than ever before in the national history. The demand has fairly caught up to the supply in everything. The business of the country is on a legitimate basis and devoid of boom, which is the best evidence of its substantial and lasting character."

Not Specially for "Sportsmen."

The Gettysburg Star and Sentinel editorially laments the fact that bass are becoming scarce in the streams because of the preponderance of "commercial fishermen" who either sell, or eat, their catch, and indorses the claims of the "true sportsman," as follows:

"The money cost of his catch is the least consideration to the true sportsman. With tackle, very often costing twenty-five or fifty dollars, he is willing to spend a whole day, in, or along the creek, and he is rewarded with a catch that would not get sold for much. It is the recreation he is in search of, when he goes fishing, whether it is with home-made tackle or the most expensive rod and reel. We believe that the true sportsman, in this country, outnumber the commercial fishermen, and that, therefore, the law against illegal fishing should be rigidly enforced and not allowed to become a dead letter. If the law is not enforced the time is coming when the streams will be depleted of game fish, and the sport and recreation so dear to the heart of an honest fisherman, will be taken away."

We are not aware, as seems to be implied in the above, that the Creator intended fish, or any other specimens of his handiwork, for the special benefit and amusement of "sportsmen," but rather that food products should be for the use of the people who need them most, for real practical benefit. The "true sportsman," as depicted by our brother of the quill, very frequently stands for the fellow who gets more "recreation" out of a plentiful supply of bottled "bait," while on fishing excursions, and does not hesitate to dicker with his less hipulous, but more successful, "commercial" brother fisherman for a supply of the finny prizes to take home to show admiring friends as the result of his skill.

The laws against illegal fishing should undoubtedly be enforced; but, that so-called "sportsmen" should have any advantage over those who fish for consumption, or even for sale, is preposterous, as also is the assumption that an "honest fisherman" is he who sports a "twenty-five or fifty dollar" outfit, camps out, consumes "booze" and has a high old time generally.

A Valuable Suggestion Regarding the "Trust" Issue.

All of the astute and resourceful politicians seem to be blind to the fact that the "trusts" can be kept from becoming a practical issue between the conflicting parties in the Presidential campaign of next year. The Republicans, who are greatly interested in eliminating this topic from consideration by the voters for Presidential electors as the Democrats are in keeping it prominently before them, have in their own hands the power to destroy the hopes of their opponents in this respect, and at the same time add to their own reputation as constructive rather than destructive, and increase their prestige by proposing the first practical step toward effective national measures respecting the "trusts."

They have only to present and press, with or without a recommendation such as President McKinley may make in his annual message, a resolution in Congress, which will meet in December with a Republican majority in both branches, proposing an amendment to the Constitution giving Congress that authority to deal with the "trusts" which, it is admitted, it does not now possess. It would take, of course, two-thirds in each house to adopt such a resolution, and the Republicans have not two-thirds in either house, but the Democrats could not afford to oppose such a proposition, which is directly in the line of their contention against "trusts," and there can be no doubt that the resolution would be adopted.

It would be idle, as every Senator or Representative would admit, to attempt any new legislation for the better regulation of "trusts," since the Supreme Court has decided that Congress has not the constitutional power to enact such legislation, and any attempt to substitute a bill of that character would be too obviously mischievous to succeed.

The proposed amendment of the Constitution could not well be opposed as a dilatory measure, because it offers the only way of successfully dealing with the matter, and besides, it could be ratified by three-fourths of the States, according to the constitutional requirement. In abundant time for action by the Congress to be elected next year and which comes in to existence on March 4, 1901.—From "How to Eliminate Trusts from the Presidential Campaign," by Henry Macfarland, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for September.

PLEASE AGUINALDO.

Anti-Imperialist work Encourages His Followers.

Washington, Sept. 4.—The Cabinet today was in session for more than two hours, and a variety of matters which have accumulated during the President's absence were discussed. It was Secretary Root's first attendance, the other members present being Secretaries Hay, Gage, Hitchcock and Wilson.

President Schurman, of the Philippine Commission was also present by invitation, and made a comprehensive statement of the situation on the islands. It is understood that within the next two or three days he will make a statement to the press which will cover his observations on the islands, and later will make a formal report to the President covering the subject in detail. This report, however, will not be made until the other members of the Commission arrive in Washington, and not until after Admiral Dewey's return.

It is understood that Mr. Schurman takes a hopeful view of the situation in the Philippines, and has no doubt that with increased forces we will be able to make comparative short work of Aguinaldo and the insurgent forces. He stated that although Aguinaldo is the leader of a very strong faction of the natives he does not, by any means, fairly represent the entire population, a considerable number appearing to be more or less indifferent as to the outcome of the insurrection. Although the work of the Anti-Imperialist League has had no considerable influence among the soldiers in our army, Mr. Schurman said it certainly had given great encouragement to Aguinaldo and his followers. The influence of the league in this country, Mr. Schurman thought, has been magnified by the insurgent leaders, and has had the effect of giving them heart and a strong hope of ultimate success.

Commenting upon the published statement that President McKinley had formulated a plan for the government of the Philippines after the insurrection shall have been put down, it was stated by a member of the Cabinet that no definite plans whatever have been made by the President nor is he at present giving the subject much thought. He will confer with the committee of Congress when that matter comes up for settlement, but it is certain that he will not formulate any hard and fast system of government, and insist upon its adoption.

Six Million Letters Astray.

"It is estimated that during the last year 6,000,000 pieces of mail matter, including all classes, were posted in the United States," writes Patti Lyle Collins in the Ladies' Home Journal for September. "Of this number, 6,312,731 were sent to the dead letter office, making an average receipt of about 21,000 letters and parcels for each working day. During this period more than 85,000 pieces were dispatched either with insufficient postage or none at all, 33,000 bore no address whatever, 34,000 were misdirected, 200,000 were unclaimed at hotels, and something more than the last number were sent to fictitious addresses. And to these figures must be added 2,373,387 letters and circulars without inclosures of obvious value which could not be turned to the senders and were destroyed. More than 50,000 letters contained money amounting to $38,535, while 32,422 included drafts, money orders, etc., to the value of $845,000, to say nothing of 30,000 with photographs."

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtin, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement, that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption, and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from first dose. She continued its use and after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at R. S. McKinney's drug stores. Only 50c and $1.00 every bottle guaranteed.

Linwood.

Linwood Sunday school festival convened in Winter's woods, on last Saturday afternoon. The day was perfect, and the attendance large. A few clouds passing along the western horizon, and a little rumbling thunder about 4 p. m., caused quite a number to leave the grounds, but there was not a drop of rain fell to mar the delight of the children in the grove.

Misses Gertrude and Nellie Rowe, of Baltimore, are paying a visit to their sister, Mrs. Louis Messler. Miss Mary Messler, daughter of Mr. Louis Messler, and Miss Helen Hibbard, daughter of the late Allen Hibbard, who have both received scholarships to the State Normal school in Baltimore, will go to their new field of labor on next Monday. Miss Battie Longley, of Baltimore, and Mr. Willie McKinstry, visited J. E. Yingling's family, on Saturday evening last.

Mrs. Amy Holbrenner, widow of the late Harry Holbrenner, died at her home on Sunday, August 27th, of general debility, aged 76 years. Mrs. Holbrenner was a highly respected lady, and a consistent member of the Lutheran church. She was possessed of a very pleasant disposition, and had a large circle of friends, who deeply regret her demise. The deceased leaves one son, Mr. William Holbrenner, of Libertytown, and two daughters, Mrs. Joseph Long and Mrs. Simon Crum, of this place, to mourn their loss. Her funeral took place in the Lutheran church, on Tuesday morning, Rev. R. S. Patterson officiating. Interment was made at Mt. Hope cemetery.

The proceeds will be devoted to the use of Baust's church congregation. Ample seats will be provided, and all pains spared to make this grand success.

All are cordially invited to be present. The corn crop in this neighborhood will be an abundant one. Late rains have freshened up the pastures, and everything betokens prosperity for the farmers.

Fruit is abundant, and of fine quality. Mr. H. Sell has about 1500 bushels of apples in his orchard. Apple butter boiling is the order of the day.

A few weeks ago, a skunk made its appearance here, and everybody was much alarmed, wondering what they were created for.

A Big Wheat Field.

Oklahoma's largest wheat field lies a few miles west of the small railway station of Bliss, in Kay county. It contains 5,000 acres and belongs to the noted ranch "101" which controls 15,000 acres of land leased from the Ponca Indians. Two hundred men, more than 300 mules and horses and twenty-four big twin bladders were employed in cutting and shocking the grain grown on this magnificent field this year, and it was not until an army of laborers worked night and day for ten days, that the last acre was harvested.

Every principle of good farming was observed in cultivating this big field, with the result that the total output will not be less than 100,000 bushels of as good wheat as can be found in Oklahoma. It is estimated that about 20 to 25 bushels. There are many acres that will run from 40 to 50 bushels. Buyers have already offered 50 cents a bushel for the entire crop. It is probable that the owner will get from 60 to 70 cents, a gross sum of $65,000 or $70,000. The cost of producing this wheat and putting it on board cars will be 35 cents a bushel, leaving a net profit of about $35,000.

What was king in the Strip last week, and its importance eclipses everything else on ranch "101." Not merely a 5,000-acre wheat field is not very impressive. To ride over it, however, in blazing sunshine is to give rise to the feeling that it covers the face of the earth. The 7,000 acres of wheat on ranch "101" are divided into two fields of almost equal size by the Salt Fork river, a stream that courses down a large volume of water at this time of the year. Great yellow undulations of grain swept along the distant hills, until they seemed to reach the sky. It was so far across the fields that the shocks looked like a solid wall of wheat. In the field on the south side of the river the first sign of a binder was made by Sept. 10th.

"There was not a man who could guess how long it would take me to make the round," said he. "I piled up a supply of twine on my binder and started. I was gone four hours and traveled six miles."

"The distances are so great on the ranch that it is impossible for the men to turn in at one place for their meals. The loss of time would amount to hundreds of dollars in a season. Accordingly camps are established at different places, generally close to a stream, where the men live in tents and the meals are prepared by ranch cooks."—Kansas City Star.

Spelling Puzzled Him.

He was evidently unaccustomed to railway travel and was puzzled as to the possibility of acquiring information as the train rolled along. Gazing at the flying landscape, his brain was puzzled by the little sign posts beside the track, bearing the single letter "R" or "W." He stopped the porter and asked him the meaning of the signs. "Oh," said he, "dem's whistles for the engine to stop for engineer."

The traveler pondered and became only the more perplexed. In despair he questioned the conductor. "Those signs are for the telegraph," said the engineer. "I replied the conductor: 'Is to whistle or ring at certain points,' as indicated by those initial letters."

"Yes," said the traveler, "so I understood the porter, but I thought he must be mistaken. I know 'W' stands for whirring, but how in thunder do you spell whistle with an 'R'?"—Chicago Daily News.

A WONDERFUL CURE OF DIARRHOEA.

A Prominent Virginia Editor had almost been brought back to Perfect Health by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

READ HIS EDITORIAL.

From the Times, Hiltville, Va. I suffered with diarrhoea for a long time and thought I was past being cured. I had spent much time and money and suffered so much misery that I had almost decided to give up all hopes of recovery and await the result, but noticing the advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and also some testimonials stating how some wonderful cures had been wrought by this remedy, I decided to try it. After taking a few doses I was entirely free of that trouble, and I wish to say further to my readers and fellow-sufferers that I am a hale and hearty man to-day and feel as well as I ever did my life.

A Frying-size Bride.

Col. A. C. Kisse, owner of the town of Kisse Mills and generally known as the "King of Taney county," has just taken unto himself a child wife, but he chose to speak of her as "a frying-size chick." Dora is the name of the bride. She is the daughter of John Garrett, a Taney county farmer. She is 15 years old. Col. Kisse is nearly 70, and is a celebrated mountain character. It is a common expression that he "carries Taney county in his vest pocket."

Colonel Kisse conceived the idea a few days ago that he had been a widower long enough. He confided to a friend, who suggested several widows fair and good.

"Nope. No hens for me; fryin' size or none," the Colonel replied. So fryin' size it had to be, for having his own way is one of his old mountain-er's strongest traits. A day or two after Colonel Kisse drove to the Garrett home. Waiting courtship preliminaries, he bluntly informed Papa Garrett that he was searching for a wife. He concluded his brief speech by asking if the house of Garrett had anything to offer a valid son.

"Take yer pick," said Papa Garrett. A little later Miss Dora, clad in new gingham, was seated alongside of the Colonel in his kitchen. They, much, they drove to the county seat to get a marriage license.

And "Mrs. Kisse" is now the "first lady" of Kisse Mills.—Herald.

Played Him False.

It is strange that no one but a Kansas pastor, fell of the life and energy that has come to that state, would have thought of the photograph as his substitute in the pulpit while absent on a vacation. The pastor, however, that earnest and progressive pastor, leaving his flock for a vacation, left a thirty-minute sermon on a cylinder to be delivered at the proper time. The hymns were sung, a brother offered prayer, and the announcements had been made, when one of the deacons brought forward the photograph of the pastor, and the machine in motion.

No one can imagine the consternation of the congregation when the photograph gave out the song, "Dinah, de Moon Ah Shining." The song ended, but there was no break—the terrible machine proceeded to relate the pastor's sermon. The deacon, very Sunday or pulpit stories. No one understood the machine, but after twenty minutes the deacon grasped the irrelevant photograph and hurried out of the church.

The beloved pastor might have been called before a council had it not been discovered that the sermon-loaded photograph had been left in the hands of a son of Belial with the weakness of a practical joker.—Indianapolis Journal.
