On Tuesday, the main demonstration took place, in the shape of a parade from the White House to the Capitol, which started at 10 o'clock. It was a magnificent and inspiring sight as the parade swung into the long stretch of the handsome thoroughfare. Through the broad street, cleared from curb to curb, with the majestic Capitol towering at the further end and the sombre Treasury behind, the marching hosts moved between two solid walls of enthusiastic, and the solid wall was visited by a traveler who gives some interesting particulars about his visit.

An attendant invited him to take a seat. He did so, and strains of delight full music came from the chair. He hung his hat on a rack and put his stick in the stand. Music came from both rack and stand. He wrote his name in the visitors' register, and on that the bird now is as good as new. tween two solid walls of enthusiastic, shouting, gesticulating humanity, banked solidly from the curbs and rising, tier on tier, on every conceivable kind of structure, to the crowded roofs and windows, while above, below and all about fluttered flags, bunting and Dewey emblems and de

The brilliant-coated Marine Band added color and inspiring music to the gay seene, and following them came every describable kind of soldier sailor and marine, mounted and afoot; infantry, artillery, cavalry; the marines in their short blouses and helmets, the jackies from the Raleign and other warships, battery after battery of light artillery, the mammoth eight-inch siege guns of the Seventh Artillery, each drawn by eight horses. Then the crimson trappings of the artillery danged to the yellow of cavalry, as line after line of the yellow plumed troopers rode by. And then, Dewey! Admiral began to pass in review before him shortly after 8 o'clock. There were many novel and interesting features. The spectacle, as the marchers came up the length of the avenue in the glare of the red lights, under sweeping arches of stars from thousands of Roman candles, was beautiful and impressive. The beginning of the march was heralded by the bursting of thousands of glant crackers, while bombs along the line sentishowers of fire into the air.

The column was headed by Gen. George Harries, chief marshal, leading a large body of bicvelists. The wheels were interwoven with garlands and wreaths of flowers and greens and colored bunting and eyery wheelman carried Chinese lanterns. Many were in costume. Close behind the Marine Band came the veteran organizations. A great shout of applause went up as the veterans of the Spanish War passed by.
