

THE CARROLL RECORD.

Published every Saturday at Taneytown, Md., by The Carroll Record Printing and Publishing Company.

P. B. ENGLAB, Editor and Manager.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.
Dr. C. HIRNIE, Pres., G. A. ARNOLD,
Geo. H. HIRNIE, Sec., J. B. BOWEN,
F. H. SMITH, Sec. & Treas., P. B. ENGLAB,
E. E. BROWN, Sec. & Treas.

TERMS: One Dollar per annum in advance. Six months, 50c. Trial subscriptions, three months, 25c. Please do not send us money unless you mean to pay for it. The paper contains data to which no subscription has been paid.

ADVERTISING rates will be given on application, after the character of the business has been definitely stated, together with information as to space, position and length of contract. The publisher reserves the privilege of declining all offers.

ENTERED AS SECOND CLASS MATTER SATURDAY, DEC. 10th., 1903.

THE CONVICTION of the first two Postoffice department-windlers tried, must be something of a shock to those who have been trying to make believe that the investigation is a sham, and that erring officials will be only scolded a little and then whitewashed. The officials there are still a few honest ones left, to prosecute dishonest ones notwithstanding the efforts of certain Congressmen for the appointment of a professional investigating committee, and incidentally to establish a campaign thunder factory.

GRADUALLY, Senatorial preferences are assuming a Gorman, or anti-Gorman, distinction. While that astute politician is keeping his hand in the background, it is nevertheless generally recognized that he is back of the candidacy of Governor Smith, consequently, some of the spontaneous enthusiasm for Mr. Rayner is not only subsiding, but the thick-and-thin party organs are reading his title as "Mr. Rayner, who is not a Gorman," and not as safe a man for the honor as the Governor.

THE "SMARTY" who writes "State Notes," for the Baltimore News, exercises his or her talents in poking fun at items appearing in the various county weeklies, as if "honey-seeds," who presumably know no better, need the erudite criticism of this city genius in order to improve their diction. We are of the opinion that the News is overlooking genius which deserves promotion. Such a bright mind should not be bound to the humble capacity of paragraphing the erudite of county journalism, as the task is entirely too easy, while the preparation, means also ill-paid. Dramatic critic, at the very lowest, should be his assignment.

Donations.
This is the time of year, above all others, when donations are in order—donations aside from the regulation Christmas gift. Recently, this custom has fallen into disuse, possibly through an unexplainable change in fashion, or through some abstruse turn of the public mind, which means the same thing. Donations have become an objectionable side, it is the only one for they often represent a gratuity which properly belongs as an increase to a salary—on an earned stipend, rather than a gift—and yet, even as a tardy recognition of services, they should not be abandoned.

Donations may be, and often are, the occasions for a personal demonstration of appreciation, such as the mere payment of salary cannot convey. The social features which attach to them are undoubtedly productive of closer relations between the benefactors and the beneficiary, and, as a result, both participate in the joy of the occasion, and the element of charity is thereby wholly eliminated, as it should be.

Years ago, the Pastor's salary, for instance, while lower than at present, stood far more as a sum tota for the year, than now. The loads of food for the faithful, the loads of wood for the kitchen stove, the liberal gifts of meat and other important items for the larger, and the well-filled purse on the Christmas tree, have largely disappeared, while pastoral duties and congregational criticism, have proportionally increased. In such instances, there ought to be a distinct revival of the donation custom.

Again, the families of the poor and unfortunate are not remembered as in "ye olden time." Possibly because there is a tendency toward mere selfishness, or a disregard of the condition of others. We fear that true fraternal and sympathetic relations, as they should exist in every community, are gradually disappearing, and that the "every man for himself" motto is taking their place. It is unnecessary to say that the falling of the charitable sign, because it indicates a decadence of true Christianity, and that spirit of neighborliness and love for our fellows which makes a country strong and great.

We ask our readers, during this Christmas season, to look about them and see whether they cannot, by a little well directed planning and giving, do something to help the needy as well as to themselves. It is decidedly selfish, and in accord with the teachings of the Saviour of men, that we should consider only ourselves, or our immediate family, in the dispensation of the surplus with which we have been blessed; rather, our benefactions should be as widespread as possible, and in some way we shall in turn participate in the joys we bestow.

The Egg Basket.
The gathering of eggs, both actually and figuratively, is more or less a pleasant and profitable occupation; in fact, it is a hobby, rather than a means of livelihood, especially so in the meaning of Andrew Carnegie, when he advises, "Put all your eggs into one basket, and watch the basket." There are those who would rather pursue the hunting of Carnegie's kind of eggs—they "live, move, and have their being" in a scramble for them, and never rise to a higher level.

many exist in every community, who plan and connive, not how they may enjoy some modest pleasure, or acquire some desirable object, but how they can do without yet a few more items of their already scant list of necessities, in order that the egg basket may come nearer to being filled; and, in the pursuit of this object, those nearest related to them by ties of flesh and blood, are made suffer as victims of a species of insanity—of intemperance.

Very many well-to-do people have battle to fight every time they see some useful article which they really need and desire. With an already well filled basket, and more eggs ready to put into it, they are too weak to let a few go into some other person's basket, but prefer rather to starve their mind, stint their body and continue in shabbiness—self, house and household—if only that egg basket can be made full. It does not require a very acute mind-reader to discover these truths; they are almost written in plain type on the faces of those who appear where such temptations are, and they deceive themselves when they think they deceive others.

It is probably true that there are hundreds of persons in every community, who never in their lives gave as much as a dollar at one time, freely and happily, to an object of charity, or to some other good cause. Their gifts and benevolences have rather been on the installment plan—the smallest permissible amounts, to the fewest required objects—and grumblingly at that, as if by some imposition of authority, which they cannot evade, they are enforced victims of egg-basket robbers. That book would be useful to me, but I can't spare an egg. I ought to take that bill I owe, but don't want to take an egg out of the basket. My wife needs a new dress, and the children look shabby, but, to change their condition means the changing of my eggs. I ought to subscribe for the Record, but it costs an egg—and besides, I can borrow it from my neighbor.

These are a few of the thoughts which are not hidden from the average liberal, intelligent, live-and-let-live citizen of this world of ours, even if the foolish egg-basket watchers hid themselves in the delusion that their secrets are well kept. Keep at it, brethren, if the habit pleases you, and if you think well filled egg baskets will help you get across when the last trumpet sounds, but, you are taking heavy chances on such a frail commodity as eggs.

Floral Antisepsis.
Tooth powder. Efficient and exceedingly agreeable, it cleans the teeth, keeps them white, breathes sweet, and the gums healthy. Contains nothing injurious. Can be had only in cents at McKellick's Drug Store.

Public Indifference.
Without much doubt, the public mind is indifferent to a good many important questions. The "don't worry" motto seems to have been adopted in weighty matters of public relation, while all others and thought, are applied to purely personal objects by each individual. The kind of laws we have, how questions of political economy, ways and means for improving general conditions, are all subordinate to consideration for our individual bank accounts, our own success along special lines, and self-gratification at public, or any other, cost.

Public meetings for any humane, sanitary, or general improvement purposes, are failures, the discussion of questions of public policy in the newspapers, are conspicuous by their absence, the commission of crime against the rights and liberties of the people, largely go unremanded; the prosecution of projects for the public weal are by the few, and against the open or secret objections of the many; the enlistment of the co-operation of others, in worthy undertakings in which they cannot see some personal profit, is a well-nigh impossible task. This may be pessimism, but, rather than an optimism run mad.

Lack of interest is responsible for nearly every public ill and abuse from which we are suffering, and they are many. The awakening will come, after a time. There has been just a little too much general prosperity in recent years, and it has resulted in the development of a spirit of greed, and the conclusion that his Satanian majesty "may take the hindmost." This is a lack of interest, and the superabundance of the other, is seen at almost every time an occasion is presented for their comparison. Place a principle on the one side of a way, and a $5.00 bill on the other, and the person who has the chance at either, promptly becomes a financier; given a situation in which "speaking out" means the supporting of right, while silence saves the possible loss of a customer, and the latter course, promptly accedes to the temptation.

Dodging Responsibility.
Dodging responsibility, is called "hazy" and the manipulation of political forces for the accomplishment of party or personal ends, is called "statesmanship"; the winning of a competency through questionable methods, is called "business ability," and for each of these misapplications, public indifference is responsible, for the reason that it permits them to pass current and unquestioned.

Our churches, and other organizations for the betterment of mankind, are accomplishing wonders, considering the apparent growth of stolid indifference among the masses, and by no means are we to surrender our faith in the ultimate triumph of good forces over evil forces; still, one cannot help, at times, lamenting the drawbacks in the way, or wondering what great upheaval is to bring about the change. Surely, "anti-worry" should take the place of our strongest and best efforts, not only for ourselves and our own interests, but for the higher and greater object, the interests of our fellow men.

OUR RECORD-TRIBUNE OFFER.

In order to introduce the CARROLL RECORD to new subscribers, and especially into the homes of Farmers, we make the following remarkably liberal offer—

(1) We will send the RECORD to new subscribers, with the Tribune Farmer, both papers one year, for only $1.00, providing acceptance of this offer is made before Jan. 1, 1904.

(2) To present subscribers who desire the Tribune Farmer, we will send the RECORD to them in addition to the regular price of the RECORD, or $1.25 for the two papers one year.

(3) Or, should it be preferred, instead of the RECORD to new subscribers, we will send the RECORD to them until March 15th, 1904, at $1.00, to all who accept the offer before Jan. 1st, 1904.

We desire to state, frankly, that we do not care to have the RECORD accepted by those who are sure of not continuing their subscription to the RECORD at the end of the term. We are perfectly willing to make the RECORD should be measured, during the offer, on its merits, but we want at least the even chance, from the new subscriber, that he will continue to read it. We also desire to state, that, in all probability the RECORD will be continued by us—unless we hear to the contrary, at the end of the special offer term—with the expectation that it will afterwards be paid for at our regular $1.00 a year rate.

It is too generally known to need our commendation. It is the No. 1. Weekly Tribune Farmer, and Agricultural Weekly for Farmers and their families. It is a 30-page paper, and contains the following departments: Farmers' Wives; Science and General and Farm Topics; Cattle—horses, sheep, hogs; Farm Machinery; Poultry; Horticulture; Dairy; Young People; Short Stories; Good Reads; News of the Week; Markets. In short, it is probably the best weekly agricultural paper published, and its regular price is $1.00 a year.

For the convenience of those who desire to accept the offer, the following persons are authorized to receive and forward subscriptions for us—
W. P. Englar, Uniontown.
D. C. Derr, New Windsor.
J. W. Reid, Harney.
Nathan Englar, Linwood.
Chas. H. Brown, Mt. Airy.
Geo. C. Harman, Banker's Mill.
O. R. Koontz, Sam's Weybright, D. P. Creek.
W. H. Franklin, Sam's Creek.
John E. Null, Frizingsburg.
J. Albert Zepher, Melrose.
Or any of our regular correspondents, wherever they may be.

Few Real Legislators.
Fully nine-tenths of those elected to legislate for us will have not the slightest part in originating laws, and the assertion that the average member will vote as the leaders direct, is absolutely true. Possibly not to the extent that they must vote for a measure—or against it, but they will vote as the other, when neither may or should they. The few party managers will introduce all important laws, and none other will be permitted to pass, either as originals or amendments, even should there occasionally prove to be a member with ability enough to construct a possible law. There may be attempted legislation, contrary to the will of the leaders, but, nothing beyond the attempt.

Why men of more than ordinary capacity should represent the people at all is a question, and one which has not been answered. True, those who have the discernment and honest desire to vote rightly, and the determination so to do, are valuable men. Even those of ordinary ability, if possessed of sterling integrity, may do a vast amount of good as members of committees, through which much legislation is shaped and ultimately accomplished, and yet, measures of the most far-reaching importance, especially as they relate to questions of political power and morality, are never trusted beyond the tight grip of the "steering" committee, and are not at any time subject to danger of defeat.

Very few members will take their seats in the legislature this winter—especially those who appear there for the first time, which most will do—will carry in their pockets great amounts of money for the public good, or in their brains well digested arguments in the support or antagonism of those which they know will be presented by others. They go as mere followers—voters to make quorum. This can be said without reflection upon the present majority, because, it is the rule in all states and all legislative bodies, and will be, both present and future, irrespective of parties and measures.

That this is true, is responsible for the feeling of relief when law-making bodies adjourn, and that they would think that in a state as old as Maryland, but few new laws are required, and this is exactly true, especially as they relate to laws affecting the whole state and all the people. That this is not the result, however, is the matter of great concern, and bi-annually the people find themselves at the mercy of lawyers, politicians and hoodlums, so that the expressions of thankfulness that "the term is over," and that "it might have been worse," are perfectly justifiable and natural.

A Frightened Horse.
Running like mad down the street dumping the occupants, or a hundred other accidents, are every day occurrences. It behooves every body to have a reliable Salve handy and there is none as good as Euclyen's Arnica Salve. Burns, Cuts, Stomach, Eczema, and Piles, disappear quickly under its soothing effect. 25c. at R. S. McKinney's Drug Store.

be honorable men, they are bound to represent the sentiment of the people. Mr. Rayner trusts to the honor of the delegates and appeals to the source of all power, the Democratic voters of this State.

In Anne Arundel, Howard, Montgomery City, the public sentiment in behalf of Maryland's gifted son has crystallized in the shape of public meetings where Mr. Rayner has received the outspoken endorsement of the people. We doubt not that if throughout the entire State, as it has been gathered in a few sections of Maryland, the public sentiment would be found altogether with Rayner. After a careful survey of the Senatorial situation and after a through effort at ascertaining the sentiment of this State, we unhesitatingly pronounce Mr. Rayner as the choice of the people of Maryland. There is remarkable unanimity on the Eastern Shore in his favor; the Western Shore is showing the same favorable spirit toward him. This is an evidence of the fact that the Eastern and Western Shores are not pitted against each other in securing this coveted honor. In fact on both sides of the bay there is almost a universal sentiment in favor of the peerless lawyer and matchless orator from Baltimore. He is not the favorite of any section of the state. He is the choice of the entire state and would represent this commonwealth on both sides of the bay with absolute impartiality.—Centerville Observer.
