A size 6 glove today is larger than a size 6 glove five years ago, and this applies to all the sizes made. The explanation is that ladies' hands have grown larger than they used to be, through their practice of cycling, golfing, hockey, etc., but they do not like to admit it, so the glove makers meet the new conditions and vet avoid hurting the vanity of their customers.

Farmers' Pic-nic at Mt. Airy.

Mt. Airy, Aug. 4.—The second pic-nic of the farmers of the four adjoining counties of Carroll, Frederick, Howard and Montgomery, was held to-day in Wildwood Park, with the following prominent farmers as a committee: Charles E. Smith, of Carroll; George T. Roderick, of Frederick; C. F. Purdum, of Montgomery, and Nathan E. Young, of Howard. Vehicles of all descriptions began to arrive early, loaded with farmers and their families. Large crowds arrived by trains, the number of people being estimated at 2,000.

The park resembled a county fair, with quite a number of exhibits of machinery used on a farm. The exhibit which seemed to interest the farmer most was a mail transmitter used for carrying the mail from points on a rural route to the farmer's house when the house is some distance from the road. The transmitter is exhibited by Russell & Saylor, patentees and manufacturers, Union Bridge

C. F. Purdum, of Montgomery, introduced the speakers. J. B. Ager, master of the Maryland State Grange, made a very able speech and tried to convince the farmer of the benefit of the grange Mr. Taliafero, of the Expertment Station, spoke on alfalfa and corn breeding, stating the origin, quality and superiority over other long feed, after which he gave the farmers an opportunity to ask questions, which very many ers' Big Day.

The Grangers pic-nic, held last Saturday in Milton Ohler's grove, was a pro-nounced success, the crowd in attendance being fully 2,000. The grove is To say that all did full justice to it, is extrainly correct. A few did injustice to with a little removal of underbrush, the erection of a permanent auditorium, and the sinking of an artesian well, should make the spot very desirable for excur-sion pic-nics from all points along the line of the Railroad.

Although the sky was overcast during most of the day, the afternoon turned out beautifully, making an ideal day for an outing of this kind. The female sex was distinctly in evidence, and it is but truth to say that a finer looking lot—whether judged by face or dress—would be hard to find anywhere. No doubt some of our city folks, who imagine that country people are represented by the cartoonists and their typical "hay seeds," would have imagined that the grounds was being visited by a thousand or more "city boarders," but they would have been egregiously mistaken.

Carroll County ladies and Carroll County farmers are among the hand-somest and best in the world. But then, the pic-nic represented a CARROLL REC-ORD gathering; hundreds of our subscribers were there—those who had read of the event in their favorite paper—and this largely explains the cause for the high-grade attendance. There was not a sign of disorder of any kind, and this, too, was to be expected: therefore, the day throughout was a pronounced suc-cess from every point of view.

The hum of machinery, the tooting of a small engine, the activity of dealers in agricultural implements, the exhibition of a model silo, several cream separators, patent fences and a traveling mail box, all added to the interest and instructiveness of the occasion. Beware of those who would drive the wedge of discord in your ranks. Remember "in union is strength; in division is weakness."

J. B. Ager followed in an address showing the progress of the Grange movement in Carroll County, and the state. He said that Carroll no longer held the "banner" but that Garrett had outstripped it, now having 13 granges. He dwelt upon the argument of som against the Grange because it is "secret," and asked, why should the Grange ask all to its meetings? Do merchants and professional men invite the farmers when they discuss their affairs and fix prices He said the fact that ministers and teachers were members of the Grange, was sufficient to demonstrate that there was nothing very dangerous connected with the secret feature. Farmers have not yet fully appreciated the vast benefits to e derived from the organization.

GARRETT NOMINATED. The Board of School Commissioners

Harmonious Convention of Second District Republicans.

The Second District Republican Convention met at Aberdeen, Harford Co., on Tuesday, Hon. Wm. B. Baker, presiding. The nomination of Robert Garrett, of Baltimore county, was made by acclamation, as had been predicted, and the convention was entirely harmonious throughout. Resolutions were adopted, as follows;

"The Republicans of the Second Congressional District of Maryland, in convention assembled, congratulate the people of this state and of the Union on the firm, pure and honorable administration with which our beloved country has been blessed during the past four years. The United States are prosperous and happy at home, honored and respected abroad. For these blessings a great debt of gratitude is due from all right thinking men to the memory of the lamented William McKinley and to his worthy successor, now presented with confidence to the American people as the Republican candidate for the presidency.

now presented with confidence to the American people as the Republican candidate for the presidency.

We appeal to the people of Maryland, and more especially of this district, to weigh calmly and with just regard to the public welfare, in superiority to mere partisan prejudice, the claims of the two great national parties to public confidence at this time.

The Republican party has nothing to retract in the expression of its principles, nothing to conceal, or of which it is afraid or ashamed, in its record. The Democratic party asks popular support on the ground that it has silently abandoned principles which eight and even four years ago it proclaimed vital to the people's welfare, and which it has not the manliness to frankly disavow. It would be the most inexcusable of dangerous experiments to intrust our federal government to a party that will not even say aloud it was mistaken in its advocacy of doctrines which all its wisest members admit in whispers to have been fraught with errors.

We ask all our fellow-citizens to aid us in electing as the representative from this district a man worthy to represent its intelligent, industrious, patriotic and law-abiding people. And we demand that our congressman shall be one of whom none need be ashamed and whose reputation in the community and the record of whose past life is a pure, faithful and creditable service, with an eye single to the public good.

In conclusion we affirm our loyalty to the cardinal principles of the Republican party as proclaimed by its recent national convention; we indorse its nominations for president and vice-president; we point out to the voters of Maryland that pledges of Republican platforms and Republican candidates have been kept in the past, and declare that only a party and candidates who keep their word are worthy of the people's trust."

Addresses were delivered by C. Ross Mace, Chas. J. Bonaparte, W. Tyler Page, Mr. Garrett and Wm. B. Baker.

Bryan not Always Wrong.

Mr. Bryan advocates several things which are worthy of a second thought (1) government control of railroads and telegraph (2) an income tax (3) the election of postmasters by the people. It is not enough to say that the first proposition is socialistic, the second utopian and the third impracticable, nor long ago threshed out and given up.

The time will come when the governrailroads will practically control the busrates. In fact, about all that is needed to reach the point, is for the government to delay a little longer the restriction of railroad aggressiveness; then, the interests of the Companies will have grown will then be a very simple matter. Mr. Bryan may see a good many "visions" but the time may not be far distant

The income tax question, we admit, looks very far from accomplishment, and yet, if such a system can be evolved, and honestly carried out, it is the only true method of collecting taxes. Neither lands, nor houses, nor personal posses- it was too early to make a forecast. ssions, represent the true basis of taxation, for these items, in themselves, may be unproductive. The thing which produces wealth for the individual, should pay the tax, and in relative proportion to its productiveness. In other words, a $10,000 non-productive property should not be taxed the same as an active working capital of the same amount, nor should the farm be taxed, year after year the same, irrespective of the income derived from it.

It may not be possible ever to invent any perfectly equitable system of taxation, but it is at least the exact truth to tion, but it is at least the exact truth to rivals, Clark and Heinze, hold sway, are say that our present system is about as looked to for another million. inequitable as one could be. With all the burdens on the unprotected masses, there is no wonder that Mr. Bryan feels that he represents the people in proposing even so chimerical a plan as that of taking incomes.

The third question is one of such popular desirability that it is scarcely worth defending. We have always contended story of Judge Parker as a politician. that the postmaster, who comes in more direct contact and relationship with the people than any other official, should be chosen by the people whom he serves, and we have yet to hear of a single reasin republican towns, and democratic ones in democratic towns, would have a very decided tendency toward making the Postoffice department a non-partisan endless floods of gossip regarding the institution, possibly with the result that the service would be both better, and less liable to the production of such scandals as we have recently had. To-day's Fight.

An article in a recent issue of the Christian Endeavor World makes the statement that this country has had be-was over our independence as a nation, and was settled more than a hundred years ago at Yorktown. The second contest was over the unity of the republic, and was settled nearly forty years ago at Appomattox Court-house. The third great question is over the purity of the municipal units, and we are in the thick of that great fight to-day. This touches home, life, our very existence. As the safety of the republic depends upon the intelligent, constant interest of its intelintelligent, constant interest of its intelligent citizens, it is a violation of the Golden Rule for any christian man to neglect anything which is for the common good. * * * The times in which we live are the laymen's opportunity for service; and by the word 'layman' I would mean the average business man or the mechanic, young or old.

While it may not be generally agree to, that the three greatest National problems have been stated, it is at least true that our country is to-day facing a great danger-that of impurity in our municipal and state governments-and one which, as the World truly says, presents the "layman's opportunity for service." Purity will not come from the professional officeholder and politician. If it comes, it must be by and through

The number of automobile disasters due to the machines getting "out of control" continues to be great. A large proportion of motormen who run over other vehicles seek to excuse themselves on the ground that that their machines were out of order, and would not respond to the lever. Our Candidates for Vice-President, Senator Fairbanks is a public-spirited nan. As citizen and Senator he is held in equal esteem. But he has merged his personality and private affairs so comoletely into his public career that it is difficult to think of him as a private citizen. He has even given up his profession to devote his whole time to public duties, and from the time he entered public life he has steadfastly refrained local public interest to his home city, particularly those which have a "Washington end," over which he keeps a watchful eye.

> The physical endurance of Mr. Davis s surprising, and almost irritating to younger men who do not possess his untiring vitality. He seems never to become tired. He is always fresh and vigorous. His capacity for hard work is unlimited. Neither loss of sleep nor hardship impairs his energy. A striking 8-6-8t illustration of this characteristic was given at the St. Louis convention.

Mr. Davis sat in a not over-large room, as a member of the committee on resolutions, from 8 o'clock Thursday evening to 11.30 o'clock Friday morning-fifteen and a half hours-and emerged with his usual brightness of eye and composedness of manner. Men of but little more than half his age were haggard and weary. Mr. Bryan appear-the following property: The Home Farm, cod to be on the verge of exhaustion ed to be on the verge of exhaustion. Senator Tillman was near the point of collapsing. Others were all more or less affected by the all-night committee meeting, but Mr. Davis appeared to have been freshened and invigorated by the long and arduous session. Mr. Davis regards horseback riding as the best possible form of exercise. He may be seen on every pleasant day cantering along the mountain roads, sitting erect, and managing his animal with ease and skill. It is less than a year since he rode on horseback from Elkins to Charleston, a distance of more than two hundred miles, in five days. The road passes through an unbroken and mountainous country, and his friends and neighbors still marvel at this exhibition of unimpaired vigor. Long hours of almost incessant activity constitute the daily routine of Mr. Davis at his summer home. He allots the same period to labor now as when serving as a brakeman.-From American Monthly Review of Reviews for August.

The subject of God's providence needs to be emphasized today. 'Tate' and "chance" are words that are being too frequently heard in explanation of the events of life today. "Blind fate reference to the existence of a God and phasize the great truth that God is hairs of your head are numbered." God and not fate or chance rules in the universe which He has created, and the lives of His children who love and serve Him are the special objects of watch should therefore never be suspended and sand care. "The lot is cast ed or laid against a cold surface. Sud-His love and care. "The lot is cast ed or laid against a cold surface. into the lap, but the whole disposing den change in the temperature of the thereof is of the Lord."

God's guidance is not only general, but special and individual. Many believe in a general providence. They will say, "Of course I believe that God directs the great things of the universe, such as the planets and stars and the the oil which has thickened with time great events of human history, but and necessarily produces irregularities that He guides individual lives and their special events is absurd." And yet this absurdity is true and is no absurdity. God could only direct large events by directing the smaller ones. Washington's life in the nation was only made possible by God's care over him in the wilds of western Pennsylvania, in protecting him when expert Indian riflemen made him in vain the mark of their deadly bullets. Egypt's national life at a certain important period could only have been what it was by God's guiding hand in the life of Joseph as an individual in the years before. God's providence is particular and individual. His guiding hand is in your life, though it may be one of obscurity and humbleness. His banner over you is love, and He guides you with His eye.

"But I cannot always see the hand of God," says some one. But that does not prove that it is not there. Some days the sun is hidden behind the clouds, but no one argues that there is no sun because it cannot be seen. "God moves in a mysterious way His wonders to perform." The way may be mysterious, but God moves and performs His wonders all the same. Don't doubt it, child of God. When you can see His purposes in your life, rejoice for the light that you have, but when you cannot see or understand rejoice that you can trust God even if now and here you cannot understand Him.

Endeavor In Unexpected Places. unexpected ways and unusual places on sea and shore He has a use for Christian Endeavor principles. On the ships of war and on the peaceful vessels of the merchant marines He has established our cause. In a score of American prisons men who wear the stripes have come worthily to wear the badge in time to take additional exercise dur- mos. of Christian Endeavor and have learn- ing the afternoon he will have a better liberty wherewith Christ makes us free. In the old soldiers' homes in Virginia and Kansas and elsewhere the veterans not only "shoulder a crutch and show how fields were won," but take their Bibles and show how souls are and certainly with more pleasure to

In a postoffice of northern Japan the clerks have formed themselves into a Christian Endeavor society to win their Buddhist companions to Christ. A group of firemen in one of our large cities have not failed for many years to hold each week a Christian Endeavor meeting. The Christian policemen of another city hold a similar meeting. In many outlying schoolhouse districts little groups of people have established helpful means of grace by organizing themselves into a Christian Endeavor society, loyal to Christ and and Cold. Dr. Clark In Australia. On one evening of the five days' con vention in Melbourne the audience that greeted Dr. Clark numbered over 10,000 people. The convention committee issued a souvenir programme of views and music, on the cover of which was the latest photograph of the founder of | the 4th of July attendance at the World's Christian Endeavor. The large sacrifice that Dr. Clark willingly makes for the cause is shown by the enormous work he has done on this around the world journey. He has had public addresses in four or five meetings each day and interviews and conferences that rarely give him any leisure till midnight. He has also wielded a busy pen in the preparation of nearly twoscore of newspaper and magazine articles that are having a large reading

Organization With a Definite End. We hear much senseless talk about too much organization. What we really need in all our churches is more organization, but organization with a definite end in view. The church in its ministry to the community's needs is like a great department store or like a great university. Study the organization of either of these and you have a fine model for the administration of a church. - William Shaw, Treasurer United Society.

A Deep Sea Vampire.

An exquisite sea flower, something like an aster, grows at great depths in the ocean. It looks innocent enough, but it is charged with such a deadly poison that a small fish touching one of the beautiful petals is instantly killed, and its body is then drawn down by the waving leaves to the plant's mouth and is literally eaten.

An Odd Fact In History. It is an odd fact in modern history that the tombs of the kings of Sardinia and the cradle of their dynasty, Savoy, are now in the hands of France. Only Kings Victor Emmanuel II. and Humbert I. are buried in Italy. The rest. from the thirteenth century and numbering twenty-eight, lie in the abbey church of Haute-Combe, near Chambery, which the peace of Villafranca in 1860 transferred to France, with the rest of the province, in return for French aid against Austria. By a strange oversight the tombs of the that a guest will arrive from the city, kings were not "extraterritorialized."

When Sea Birds Drink. Did it ever occur to you to wonder where the sea birds get the water they drink-sea gulls and the many other kinds that fly miles and miles out over the ocean? You know they cannot drink the sea water, for that is salt, and sometimes they are too far from land to reach any fresh water streams. So what do you suppose they do? They follow the rain clouds and catch the drops as they fall. They are able to scent a storm many miles away and will hurry after it with the most remarkable speed.

But when there are no convenient storms about the birds sometimes go days and perhaps weeks without any

A Happy Social Event.

(For the RECORD.)

A happy event in the lifetime of most persons, is to have their friends assembled in a body, to extend that hospitality which is so conspicuous among our American citizens; Such a happy time was witnessed at the hospitable home, "Briar Wood," of P. J. Babylon near Roop's Mill, on Friday evening, July 29, in honor of their guest, Miss B. May Harman. Vocal and instrumental music, was a features of the evening's entertainment, Miss May Harman and Miss Sarah Hoover, presiding at the organ, alternately. This was interspersed with various innocent games, on the lawn, which furnished amusement for the 45 who were present and who spent a very hap-

Near the midnight hour, all were ushered into the dining room, where a sumptuous repast was in waiting, composed of the many good things that are so tempting to the innerman, and the manner in which the viands disappeared was evidence that the repast, which was so lavishly bestowed, was heartily enjoyed. Long after the midnight hour, the good byes were said and the wish expressed that Mr. Babylon may live to enjoy many more such happy events.

A REAL CURE FOR MALARIA.

It has recently been discovered that the germs that produce Malaria, breed and multiply in the intestines and from there spread throughout the system by means of the blood. This fact explairs why Malaria is hard to cure by the old method of treatment. Quinine, Iron, etc., stimulate the nerves and build up the blood, but do no destroy the germs that cause the disage. Rydala's Tonio build up the blood, but do no destroy the germs that cause the disease. Rydale's Tonic has a specific effect upon the intestines and bowels, freeing them from all disease breeding microbes. It also kills the germs that infest the veins and arteries. It drives from the blood all poisonous matter and makes it rich and healthy.

RYDALE'S TONIC is a blood builder, a nerve restorer, and a Malaria destroyer. Try it it will not disappoint von. it; it will not disappoint you.
