MUST GO ON BALLOT.

Pa. Cavalry, is published by request, thinking that it may be of interest to Governor Warfield.

Annapolis, Md., March 23.-The people of Maryland will have the opportunity to vote upon the negro disfranchisamendment proposed by the last egislature, at the general election next all. This was made certain to-day by the decision handed down by the Court Appeals in the mandamus case instituted by Hon. Murray Vandiver against Governor Warfield to compel the Gov-ernor to promulgate the amendment in order that it may be placed upon the ballot. The good-roads amendment is included in the decision.

The opinion of the court, which was written by Chief Judge McSherry and, except in one particular, is concurred n by all seven of the other members of he court, sustains Mr. Vandiver and the Democratic managers on every point. Upon the primary and funda-mentable question, "Does a proposal to amend the Constitution, after having been adopted by the General Assembly, require the approval of the Executive, or must it be passed over his veto if he disapproves it before the people are entitled to vote upon it?" the court was unanimous in agreeing that a proposition to amend the Constitution when formulated by the General Assembly and when no measures that are distinctly and essentially legislative in their na-ture are appended to it does not require the approval of the Governor before it can be voted on by the people, and that the Governor has no authority whatever What the court termed "a second and Old-time Politics in Adams County.

"It is not the design of this article to follow up the personalities of this cam-paign. Suffice to say they would have done credit to the politics of a later period. The changes were rung on the whole vocabulary of epithets. A prominent York Springs (they called it Petersburg then) Federalist was said to have threatened felo de se, if Gregg was defeated. A correspondent signing himself "Latimore" in the "Compiler" of September 24th., 1823, intimates that no harm will result to the community if the aforesaid Federalist carries out his threat. At one meeting in this campaign (not in Adams county), there was a great scurrying around to find an old Continental to grace the stand. Finally one was reported as living in an isolated locality at the distance of a few miles. A committee was sent after him in hot haste, and he was hustled into a wagon, with scant questioning, and hurried to the meeting. The speakers referred eloquently to the "aged hero by their side whose heart beat high with patriotic ardor," &c., &c. You can supply the rest, the usual spread eagle The show was a success. Better values have never been offered in Taneytown. The first three weeks of this sale have been a much greater success than we expected. Many of the lots advertised have been closed out entirely, and some of the larger lines have been reduced to very small lots. In order to add zest to this last week's trading, we have gone all through the stocks again, and given prices another mark down, some of the small lots are marked at less than cost to make, in order to assure ourselves that they will be closed out entirely.

We are not divided; All one body we— One in hope and doctrine,

One in charity. Christian Endeavor is interdenominational. Denominational loyalty has ever been emphasized and never ignored or belittled; yet it has also been recognized that it is possible for members of a particular denomination both to be loyal to it and at the same time to have the truest fellowship and comradeship with those who are enrolled in other denominations. The practicability of such a position has been fully demonstrated by an experience of over a quarter of a century.

At first many feared that an interdenominational organization would undermine denominational fealty, but quite the contrary has been proved. By the mingling together of the young people of many of our denominations denominational loyalty has been stimulated instead of weakened, and at the same time incalculable advantage has accrued to the church of Christ in the world by the fellowship and comradeship of Christians of various denominational affiliations. Moreover, this position is that of the Master Himself. He certainly contemplated a large amount of unity in spirit and co-operation in service when He prayed for place in us we are dead in trespasses them which believed on Him, "That and in sins, we have no real life (Col. they may be one, as Thou, Father, art ii, 13; I John v, 12), and He does not may be one in us."

Christian Endeavor is international. In this movement all nations and peobeen discarded, but with it has been found a place for world citizenship. This, too, is in accordance with the will of God, for He "hath made of one blood the bonds of their habitation, that they should seek the Lord if haply they might feel after Him and find Him."

Because God placed one race in Africa, another in Europe or one in Asia and the Portland, lies in the fact that the first named is a natural product and the International in the International Inte another in Europe or one in Asia and another in America why should there do bear witness of Me, that the Father which, when mixed with water, soon which, when mixed with water, soon and forms an artificial stone nearly it should not be. LESSON XIII, FIRST QUARTER, INTER-NATIONAL SERIES, MARCH 26.

Text of the Lesson, A Comprehensive Quarterly Review - Golden Text, John xx, 31-Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns. [Copyright, 1905, by American Press Association.]

LESSON I.-Christ the Life and Light young people. Nor has it been a limited John i, 4, "In Him was life, and the comradeship, but rather the broadest life was the light of men." Repeat nominations and of all lands have been associated in Christian fellowship and lesson, that Jesus is God, that there is with all possible emphasis and prove no life apart from Him and that to self. have what He calls "everlasting life" In our own land Christian Endeavor He must be truly received as the A Safe Cough Medicine for Chilwest. Unfortunately some of our Chris- only Saviour of sinners, without whose LESSON II.—The witness of John the hand, we should be able truthfully to Lord, before whom he stood and seeking only His glory. This lesson should lead from Gen. iii, 21, by way of Ex. xii to Calvary and on to Rev , 6; xxi, Lesson III.—Jesus wins His first disciples (John i, 35-51). Golden Text, John i, 49, "Thou art the Son of God; Thou art the King of Israel." John pointed Him out and honored Him, two of John's disciples followed Him, and thus began a following, ever since increasing, which shall result in a glorious church, a redeemed Israel and a world filled with His glory. LESSON IV.—The first miracle in Cana (John ii, 1-11). Golden Text, John ii, 5, "Whatsoever He saith unto you do it." Not until after the marriage of the Lamb (Rev. xix), of which this and many other marriages in Scripture are in a sense typical, notably the marriage of Adam and Eve (Eph. v, 31, 32), shall the kingdom come and the words to Nathanael be fulfilled. Would we hasten that time, let us note carefully His command in Matt. xxviii, 19; Mark xvi, 15; Acts i, 8, and obey the Golden Text. LESSON V. - Jesus and Nicodemus (John iii, 1-15). Golden Text, John iii, 16, "For God so loved the world." * * * We cannot be of any use to the Saviour to hasten His kingdom until we are born again, for until that takes in Me and I in Thee; that they also ask dead people to serve Him, for they After trying several cures the storekeep-

LESSON VIII .- Jesus at the pool of Bethesda (John v, 1-15). Golden Text, John vi, 2, "And a great multitude followed Him, because they saw His miracles." No religiousness helps, no sin need hinder, no case is beyond His power, but the pool is not necessary nor a man to put us in. He Himself is the fountain, and a word from Him is sufficient.

LESSON IX. - The miracle of the Lesson IX. — The miracle of the loaves and fishes (John vi, 1-14). Golden Text, John vi, 51, "I am the living broad which came down from the living the latter and the living broad which came down from the living the latter and the latter and the living the latter and the latter and the living the latter and the living the latter and the latte Vast multitudes, the majority of the value of chronic constipation." Sold by J. McKellip, Druggist, people on earth, have never heard of Taneytown, Md. the new birth, the living water, the bread from heaven, and, while it is the tendency even of those who have rethis man." While they are abusing Him and seeking to kill Him because He broke their national idol, their Sabbath day (for that day, like their feast days, had become the Jews' instead of the Lord's), He continues to offer freely the living water to all. LESSON XI.—The slavery of sin (John viii, 31-40). Golden Text, John viii, 34, "Whosoever committeth sin is the servant of sin." There was not one of all those who brought the woman to Him who could say that he was without the society, the motion being made by sin (verse 7), yet they dared to say that an Indian girl and seconded by an Inthey were never in bondage (verse 33), for, being only natural people, they talked foolishly concerning spiritual things. All the unsaved are servants of sin, all the redeemed are servants of righteousness, but many are in bondage by disobedience (Rom. vi). LESSON XII. — Healing of the man born blind (John ix, 1-11). Golden Text, John ix, 5, "I am the Light of the World." Not only are all born in sin, but all are also born blind and live in darkness till the Light shines in. The same Jesus Christ who gives the new birth and health is the only one who can open blind eyes, but He often uses human instrumentality, as wi n He sent Ananias to Saul to open ha eyes (Acts ix, 17). If we would be used we must be willing to give Him all the glory, for no flesh can glory in His Dissatisfied Boys.

A sad story comes to us from Philadelphia, for it represents the untimely end of a boy, due to his waywardness and disobedience to parents. The West End Mothers' Council at Chicago, Ill., has declared out of date the "Now I lay me" prayer of childhood and offers in its stead others that sound more euphonious and poetic.

Then others offered substitutes for the e-honored "Now I lay me." Mrs. obert W. Smith, corresponding secretary of the club, also hostess at the meeting, submitted this:

Cement.

The difference between the two well known varieties of cement, the Rosendale and the Portland, lies in the fact comes only and wholly by believing— as hard as the original rock. Portland as hard as the original rock. Portland cement, on the other hand, is made by combining chalk or some other form of limestone free from magnesia with siliceous clay, these materials being intimately mixed and made into bricks, which are burned in kilps with calculated which are burned in kilns with coke fuels at a very intense heat. The resulting clinker is ground in the same man-ner as natural cement and is much tronger and sets quicker than the other.

Whatever industrial revolutions there may be, the land to the process of the practice has not been satisfactorily traced, but the statement is made that in the year 1785 a small company of Germans sailed up the Potomac and established below the present Georgetown a settlement which they have a settlement wh Egg rolling on Easter Monday is a cus-Georgetown a settlement which they named Hamburg, and it is possible that the custom of rolling Easter eggs owes to these pioneers its introduction into the United States. Among the settlers, perhaps, was a descendant of the Princess of Burgundy, who, according to tradition, centuries ago dipped eggs in dyes, hid them in her palace grounds and then invited poor children to search for-them.

One who has never witnessed the sport of egg rolling cannot realize how much enjoyment there is to be had from it.

Healthy Mothers.

Mothers should always keep in good bodily health. They owe it to their children. Yet it is no unusual sight to see a mother, with babe in arms, coughing violently and exhibiting all the symptoms of a consumptive tendency. And why should this dangerous condition exist, dangerous alike to mother and child, when Dr. Boschee's German Syrup would put a stop to it at once? No mothers are invited by the condition of the princess of Burgundy, who, according to tradition, centuries ago dipped eggs in dyes, hid them in her palace grounds and then invited poor children to search for-them.

One who has never witnessed the sport of egg rolling cannot realize how much enjoyment there is to be had from it.

It is an orderly crowd, and this is to be wondered at when it is taken into consideration that not less than 15,000 children spend the day together. The crowning joy is when the Marine band, dressed in scarlet coats, which seem to vie with the gayly colored tulips nodding in their beds close by, strikes up a popular air and continues to play until the time to go home.

When the strains of "Hail to the Chief!" are heard it is the signal for Chief!'' are heard it is the signal for wild and enthusiastic cheering, for all know that the chief magistrate of the nation has come out on the portico to watch the children. He is usually accompanied by his wife and a number of his official family. The children are made happy by nods, smiles and friendy recognition with a wave of the hand.

At last "The Star Spangled Banner" s struck up, and the ceildren know that their happy day is at an end, for that is the last number played, and it is the signal to disperse.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

The Astor Fortune.

Activity is so much the national watchword that we can hardly conceive of a great fortune accumulated by slow and easy stages. In "The Astor Fortune," in the April McClure's, Burton J. Hendrick traces the growth of this, the biggest fortune in America, which in less than a century has grown from old John Jacob Astor's modest $2,000,000 to approximately half a billion, and this great ncrease is neither the creation of enterprise nor chance; as the story shows it is, in effect, a gratuitous bonus, the tribute paid by New York to the incubus which the "little fur trader" saddled on the city when he established his system of land

This man who began life as a baker's boy had one great claim to genius, "he realized that America was to be a great and populous country, and that New York was to be its capital." His imagi-nation peopled the sweeping fields and wait; he need make no improvements, he taxes; the city's growth must inevitably make him rich. This was his dream, and he lived to realize it. He bought great blocks of land and year after year he compelled his fellow citizens to improve his preparty, pay the taxes and prove his property, pay the taxes and supply him with cash for new investments. It is a wonderful story of the power of patience and unchanging purpose. The building of the Astor fortune is followed step by step. The background is a panorama of old New York.

By Astor's method the increase piles up automatically. It is the father of all "unearned increment;" it is the product of the activities of all but Astor. All the of the activities of all but Astor. All the economic and social forces which made New York the Metropolis, added their quota to the Astor wealth. Astor did nothing but acquire land. He contributed nothing to the city's growth, which converted his goat-farms and swamps into the richest rent-bearing soil.

For all that, Astor built his fortune on surer ground than the really great great.

A Pleasant Surprise Social.

(For the Record.)

A very pleasant surprise social was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kiser, near Farquhar's Run, on the evening of the 15th. The evening was spent in various games, singing and music was rendered on the guitar banjo and other instruments, until 12 o'clock, when all were invited to the dining room where the table was laden with all the delicacies of the season.

When the hour for saying good by arrived all wished the host and hostess many more such happy events and all departed for their homes. A two-horse wagon load from Double Pipe Creek, stuck fast in the mud near Hobson Grove, and had quite a serious time till they got out. There was about fifty present.

When a spy reported to them this state of affairs, they immediately prepared "you may tell me what grows in for action. One night they broke into guards and servants and appeared before him in his own apartments. Prostrating themselves, they said: "We would beg your honorable lordship to commit harakiri." When the honorable one could not see Dear Sir: Here's a paint that's being his way clear to this course, they killed him, took his head to their former master's tomb and offered it to him, with their regards.

But the shogun's officers of the law, hearing what had been done, now appeared on the scene and informed the Artie B. Angell, who has been attending a Veterinary College, in Toronto, Can., returned home on Saturday morn-The forty-seven, seeing the justice of the request, immediately disemboweled themselves and so honorably died. The tombs of these noble and faithful men at once became renowed and were visited by many pilgrims. One man who had insulted some of the Ronins while they were drunk and dissolute, seeing now the true state of the case, appeared at the tomb and disemboweled himself as a mark of his sorrow at his mistake and of his respect for their memories The writer of the story tells of a visit to the graves of the Ronins. Incidentally he mentions that just before his arrival there another Japanese, as a testimony to the faithfulness of these disinterested and noble servants, had been disemboweling himself at the graves, and the scene of his death struggles and the blood on the soil were pointed out by admiring natives. This story shows something of the Dwellers by the Pole. According to the census of October, 1901, there were 11,893 inhabitants in Greenland, an increase of 1,377 since 1890. This increase includes 441 Eskimos discovered by Captain Holm in 1894. The actual increase was therefore 936, or 8.9 per cent. The European population of Greenland in 1901 was 272; in 1890 it was 309. The largest villages are Sukkertoppen, with 382, and Julianshaab, with 393 inhabitants. The east Greenlanders are of pure Eskimo blood. The remainder of the population is greatly mixed. The birth and death rates vary greatly birth and death rates vary greatly from year to year. Consumption claims 31 per cent in the north and 28 per cent in the south. About 13 per cent of the deaths are from accidental causes, chiefly drowning. In 1901 about 84 per cent of the population sustained themselves by seal catching, fishing and hunting.
