OUR SCHOOLS AND ROADS

The Comptroller's Report on these Public Ouestions.

The State Comptroller's report, issued this week, has the following to say in reference to public school taxes and disrsements, and to the new road law; 'There was distributed during the year to the public schools of this state the unprecedented sum of $1,195,565.22, or a gain of 62 per cent, by far the largest amount ever dispersed. During the year this fund has felt the full operations of the law of 1904, whereby the rate was changed from 10½ cents to 15 cents on each $100. each $100. If this rate remains it must necessarily produce more revenue, for as the basis increases each year so must the collections, not only on account of such increase, but necessarily so from arrearages. Therefore, we may readily

There was disbursed during the year account of free school books the sum oi $150,000, although the tax of 1\frac{14}{2} cents produced but $127,832,33. The amounts, herefore, distributed to Baltimore city and the several counties from these two funds were $1,345,565.22, the taxes levied therefore being 164 cents, or within onequarter of one cent of the whole state tax for the years 1901, I902 and 1903. In addition to this, the state paid during the year just closed $32,600 to manual training and industrial schools, $32,500 to academies and high schools, all of which came out of the general treasury, while there was distributed on account of the free school fund the sum of $48,-566.49. In view of these facts, it does appear that the state is doing its full asure, if not more, towards maintaining the public schools of the state. Anything further than this, in my adgment, should be provided by local evenues. Indeed, I am fully convinced that the entire state public school tax, now 15 cents and 14 cents for school books, should be reduced to 15 cents, and from the revenue thus produced deduct first the sum of $100,000 for free school books, distributing the same as now provided by law, the remaining sum and sugar industries must be pacified. On Thursday, Jan. 11, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel S. Null, of near Taneytown, was the scene of a large without injury. Indeed, Baltimore city contributed to these funds $141,896.68

The ceremony was performed by the bride's pastor, Rev. Charles E. Reinewald, of the Lutheran church, and took place under an arch of evergreen, in the parlor. The bridesmaid was Miss Emma May Koontz, ister of the bride, and the best man was Benjamin Byard, brother of the groom. There were over 100 invited guests, neighbors and friends of the happy couple, and 65 witnessed the ceremony, being from Taneytown, Littlestown, Harney, Greenmount, Rocky Ridge and Emmitsburg. A reception was held from 7 to 11 o'clock, at which a collation conisting of ham sandwiches, bananas, oranges, caramels, cake, etc., was served. The presents were numerous and consisted of useful and valuable articles, including some fine silverware. This property has been in the Allison family for 65 years, and this is the first wedding to be elebrated in the residence during that time. The bride has been living with the family for nearly 24 years.

The effect of the Governor's stand will be to lessen the number of engrossing and enrolling clerks employed. The "engrossing committee" in past years has been one of the sources of petty graft at Annapolis, and among the en-grossing clerks have been the reporters of certain newspapers, who got a slice of the State's money for doing no work. This is one of the smaller evils that will be remedied this session, it is promised.

The first was appropriated for the college, to be used connection with its work, while the $2,000 was appropriated for the mainter ance of the farmers' institute. The first was made under the Act of 1902, while the second was provided for by the Act of 1904. No attempt, it appears, was made to draw the money until a year after the act was passed. The Comptroller refused to pay the money, because 'neither of the sums nor any part thereof" could be lawfully drawn after the expiration of the fiscal year for which they were appropriated.

The Court of Appeals decides this case in the following words: "There is no general law which declares that money not drawn in the fiscal year for which it has been appropriated cannot be drawn thereafter, but it is argued that it was the intention of the Legislature that these appropriations fail, unless drawn during the time mentioned in the acts. Though the act directed that the first payments be made during the fiscal year, it is difficult to see how the failure of the Comptroller to pay them should defeat the legislature intent, which made the appropriations annual ones. To construe directions as to the time of payment to be a limitation, or denial of the power to pay after the close of the fiscal year, would be to frustrate the leading and evident purpose of the acts.'

SCOTT'S EMULSION

is such a great aid is because it passes so quickly into the blood. It is partly digested before it enters the stomach; a double advantage in this. Less work for the stomach; quicker and more direct benefits. To get the greatest amount of good with the least possible effort is the desire of everyone in poor health. Scott's Emulsion does just that. A change for the better takes place even before you expect it.

FAKING ANIMAL HORNS. Mathods Adopted by Dealers to Fool the Unwary.

It is not strange that the desire for ported blouses are absolutely free from the horns and heads of great game animals should at times be catered to by the American fakir, whom, like the poor of holy writ, we have with us always. But fortunately for honest people the "faking" of horns is in most cases impossible. It is decidedly risky to the party of the first part and almost certain to be found out. Two young taxidermists of my acquaintance once came to grief by a clumsy and foolish attempt at grafting one pair of elk antlers upon another to secure great follows: length of beam. Faked "death lock" antlers are becoming so common that no collector need be without a pair. Whenever a pair is offered you for in- ing eattle. spection note whether or not the opposing antlers have rubbed each other at their points of contact. If they have not, then the antiers were interlocked by the interposition of hot water and wooden wedge

It is becoming rather common for Ovis poli horns from Tibet to be mounted by using "scalps" of the white sheep of Alaska. This is so cheap a fraud it is a wonder that any man will through it deliberately throw away his reputation. And yet one case of that kind occurred in Chicago, and quite recently another broke out in Colorado. The drollest of all faked horns, how ever, appeared in a New York magazine about four years ago. An enterprising assisting subeditor, having more ink than experience, decided he would make up an article about "Big Game Hunting With a Camera." So he obtained a nom de plume, a lot of animal photographs taken in the New York and Washington zoological parks, some ink, pens and paper, mixed them thoroughly and made an article. It was an unqualified thriller, and the climax came to his adventures borne on the horns of a female white tailed deer. He related that after several daily pettings of the fawn of the aforesaid doe while she was gadding about making

The Leading Evening Paper HINTS FOR FARMERS Economy of Hog Raising. Director A. M. Soule of the Virginia experiment station makes the following statement in comparing the economy of swine husbandry with that of cattle raising: "Lawes and Gilbert, the celebrated English investigators, have shown conclusively that the fattening ox consumes twelve to thirteen pounds of dry substance per pound of gain as compared with four or five pounds for hogs. Thus two or more pounds of pork can be made on the food required for one pound of beef. Though the sheep is considered one of the most profitable and economical animals to maintain on the farm, the hog makes a pound of gain on one-third to one-half less dry food. The hog also yields a high per cent of dressed meat-from 74 to 82 per cent. With cattle the per cent of useful cuts runs down as low as 45, though in some cases it may go as high as 70, and with sheep, depending on age and condition, from 40 to 60 per

Outside the rain was turned into frozen sleet as it came in sheets at intervals all day. He felt it an unsuspecting public and lives in luxury will be meted out the same measure of justice as the vulgar footpad receives.

Clerical Blunders.

Each profession has its stock jokes, its stories innumerable, and to each belongs a flavor all its own. That the point of a jest lies not in the tongue of him who makes it, but in the ear that hears, is the testimony of the great dramatist. The doctor on his rounds and the judge upon the bench have both an audience ready and willing to accept as the highest wit the bon mots of the speakers; and there is no club or gathering of men that does not acclaim one of its members as supreme in this respect, and are ready to yield due recognition of the gift. There is, however, a vast amount of unconscious humor always floating about, and to those who perceive it the world is ever very amusing. It must be admitted that the blunders and jests clerical stand, for some reason, pre-eminent both in number and mirth-producing qualities. The reason, of course, is not far to seek; the very surroundings in which they occur, the very upsetting of one's preconceived notions of reverence, all tend to cause a reaction in the ordinary mental equilibrium, and the simplest mistake or accident under such circumstances assumes the proportions of a huge comedy.

The divine who, in drawing the attention of his congregation to a special communion service on the following Sunday informed them that "the Lord is with us in the forenoon and the bishop in the eyening" is chronicled with praying for the children of the parish in these words: "And now, O Lord, bless the lambs of this fold, and make them meet for the kingdom of heaven." While a Scotch minister, innocently, perhaps, hit the mark by telling his people: "Weel, friends, the kirk is urgently in need of siller; and as we have failed to get money honestly, we will have to see what a bazar can do for us."

There is a certain amount of excuse to be made for the young curate who, remarking that some people came to church for no better reason than to show off their best clothes, finished up as he glanced over his audience: "I am thankul to see, dear friends, that none of you have come here for that reason.

An Irish clergyman is credited with having concluded a powerful oration in this fashion: "My brethren, let not this world rob you of a peace which it can neither give nor take away." Which is coupled with the remark of a fellow country colleague who in reasoning with a woman who had lost her faith in Christianity told her: "Well, you will go to hell, you know; and I shall be very sorry, indeed, to see you there !" But what can be said of the negro student who, conducting the prayers at one of the great missionary colleges, said: "Give us all pure hearts, give us all clean hearts, give us all sweet hearts," to which the entire congregation made response, "Amen." The giving out of church notices has often proved a pitfall for the unwary. "During Lent," said a rector lately, "several preachers will preach on Wednesday evenings; but I need not give their names, as they will be all found hanging up in the porch." It was a rector who gave out a hymn beginning "Awake, my soul, stretch every nerve," before his sermon, and a curate who read in the lesson for the day, "He spake the words, and cathoppers came and grassipillars innumerable," but it was at a young woman's Bible class that, when asked what hymn should be sung at the close they where is my wandering boy to-night?"

ETIQUETTE AMONG PEERS.

Rules Laid Down to Preserve the Dignity of Their Chamber. Besides insisting upon all due respect to themselves the peers suffer no disin which they are accustomed to assem ble. Even when parliament is not in session none but members are allowed to be covered there. Not even the eldest son of any peer may wear his hat in the room. "Neither is any person to stay there, nor any attendant on any nobleman but while he brings in his lord, and then he is to retire himself." In 1703 official notice was taken of the fact that of late the doorkeepers have frequently presumed to come within the doors when the house is sitting, and it was therefore ordered that for the future this liberty be forbidden. Another point in which the peers are scrupulous to preserve their dignity is revealed in the standing order with reference to conferences between the two houses It sets forth that "the place of our meeting with the lower house upon conference is usually the painted chamber, where they are commonly before are to come thither in a whole body and not some lords scattering before the rest, which both takes from the gravity of the lords and besides may hinder the lords from taking their proper places. We are to sit there be covered or sit down in our presence unless it be some infirm person and that by connivance in a corner out of sight, to sit, but not to be covered." Although never rescinded, this regu lation is now practically obsolete .-Chambers' Journal.
