Owners of peach orchards in the vicinity of Frederick are greatly alarmed over the destruction of their trees by the San Jose scale, which, it is said, has ruined more than 10,000 trees in the past two years. It seems that the scale has done little damage on and near South Mountain, but is confined to a radius of 12 miles around Frederick. War has been waged systematically and intelligently against the pest, but not much has been accomplished, and the peach growers are at a loss to know what to do.

The steeple of the old German Reformed Church, in Frederick, containing the town clock, has been repaired by Steeplejack John Hassler, of New York. Strong Points and Drawbacks. The writer's early recollections of Taneytown are those of two or three illy-paved streets, few or no buildings of any pretensious, no street lights, no town gov-ernment. Its trade was then no more pretentious than its size; it was a typical country village in the late 60's. Its present solid proportions are not the product of any false-bottomed "boom;" except-The first county fair to be held in this ing the advent of the railroad in 1871, it has been that of a natural centre of substantial farming interests, requiring a depot and other facilities in business life. To-day it is a busy mart; it is well built well paved and seemingly well governed.

One of the most notable things lacking is street lighting; only the excellent pavements make the stranger feel at ease when hurrying along at night. It is understood that of the several electric railroads projected in the state, one of them has considered a route via Taneytown; should it come it may solve the problem of street lighting. One of the drawbacks is the utter insufficiency of railroad facilities; the studied and successful effort to Axtell, the stallion that made the world's trotting record, 2.12 to a high-wheeled sulky, in 1889, died at the Warren Park stock form. to six hours at Bruceville of passengers from all points east of that junction and doubt as to the stability of the earth's crust everywhere from Alaska to Patathe almost every-day happening—a drive | gonia. with such treatment is far from the fact, but Mr. Cassatt, a la Boss Tweed, simply says; "Well, what are you going to do about it?" Carlisle, Pa., Aug. 16.—Dr. William Trickett, the well-known legal writer, who is the dean of the Dickinson law School, today issued an open letter in answer to Secretary Bonaparte's address former; the Sun of the latter. These on anarchy. Doctor Trickett is far from ably one of the severest critics of the American Constitution, has always been recognized as being in touch with the

In his letter Dr. Trickett speaks of 'the singular address' of Mr. Bonaparte at Cumberland, and says:

"Not so stupid as many, he concedes that the ideas of anarchism may spring up in American minds, but he thinks nevertheless that they are traceable to Europe. So they are, but what, good or bad, in the United States, cannot be so traced? The Secretary himself betrays partnership in blood with that great and extradordinary despot, the first Napo leon. Surely, after getting so many goo whine because we get a little that is bad

"The Secretary declares that there is no fundamental difference between so both rooted in the doctrine that 'all men of right ought to be and should therefor be made and kept precisely equal.' It's not very long since a good many Americans, neither socialists nor ancarchists. declared that 'all men are created equal Why did the Creator make them equal if he intended within a day, or week, or

"The fact is that anarchism is founded not on the doctrine of the equality of city and business men will make up the men, but on the doctrine of the selfishness of power, and this doctrine they share with great thinkers of many ages.

Leo Tolstoi is one of them. "Bonaparte's suggestion that men be punished with death for indirectly seeking the life of politicians in office is a reversion to the Draconian severity of times when the political class had unchallenged supremacy. The time is hardly ripe. It will require the laborious co-operation of many more men with the Napoleonic rage for autocracy in them to initiate

"The Secretary has professed himself a believer in a partial doctrine of equality. He thinks a jack tar, when he has uniform on, is equal to a civilian in a threatre or other place to which uniformed jack tars resort. He may yet discover that there is not so much error, after all, in the still wider doctrine of equality, the doctrine that God made men equal, in order that they should remain equal not merely for a second, but corrected and you will be surprised for a lifetime, and that he who subverts this equality, under whatever pretext, is an atheist and a despoiler of the rights

THE GRAND PRIZE (HIGHEST AWARD) for which was given at the World's Fair, St. Louis.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 26. By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—The snare of worldline xiv, 27; xv, 18, 19; Matt. vi, 19-34. As the result of the coming of sin into the world we live in a world of two kingdoms-the kingdom of God, to which the people of God belong, and the kingdom of the world, to which the children of the devil belong. These two kingdoms are opposed to one another, and the world delights in laying mares for the people of God and in winning them from His kingdom. Nor are the allurements of the world to be despised. They are powerful in fascinating even those who have been born anew into the kingdom of heaven; hence all Christians, and especially young Christians, need to constantly "watch and pray," lest they be entrapped by the snare of worldliness.

Worldliness promises what it cannot pay. To His disciples Jesus said, Peace I leave with you, My peace I give unto you; not as the world giveth, give I unto you." His reference to the world means that it promises peace, but cannot give it. He actually gives it. The world holds out many rewards to men that seem most alluring-pleasure, prosperity, success, fame-but they are vain promises. If won at the cost of sacrificing right they give no satisfaction. Let no one be deceived or ensnared. What the world has to give will never compensate us for the price it exacts. "What would it profit a man if he should gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

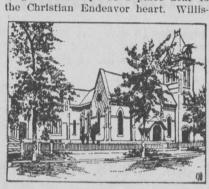

The Christian who refuses to be enspared by the world will be hated by But that matters nothing. The world hated Christ and crucified Him. "Is the disciple above his Lord?" It is a recommendation to have some people our enemies. The Christian should so consider the enmity of the world. "The world loves its own," and If it does not love us we need no surer proof that we belong not to the world. but to God.

Life in this world is but temporary; that beyond is eternal. How foolish in any one to sacrifice eternity for a few years of time. The best things the world can give us are but toys in God has in store for us, and will we "sell eternity to obtain a toy?" Nor can we divide our allegiance between God and the world. "No man can serve two masters." It is God or the ing Him (Gal. iv, 4, 5; iii, 13; Rom. world. It cannot be God and the x, 4). world. Which will we choose? BIBLE READINGS.

Matt. v, 11, 12; vi, 33, 34; x, 16-25; Mark iii, 24, 25; viii, 34-38; Rom. xii, 9; II Cor. vi, 14-18; Eph. v, 11-20; Col. iii. 1-17: I John ii. 15-17.

ton church in Portland, Me., stands today much enlarged from its appearance on the February night twentyfive years ago when the faithful minister and the little company of young be saved?" "With God all things are people gathered to band themselves together for Christian service and to do a deed that should echo around the world; but Williston church today is the same seat of enthusiasm it was then and in many ways intensified through its growth and prosperity. An appropriate bronze tablet on the front of the church, put there by the Endeavorers of the world, tells to the stranger and the unfamiliar that the first society of Christian Endeavor had its birth here

Peace. True peace is when the soul revolves around its center, Almighty God, craving for nothing but what God continually supplies, its passions subdued to Itself, itself lovingly loyal to God, in harmony with its God and His laws. God made the soul for Himself, to have its bliss in His infinite, unchanging, exhaustless love. The soul then "must needs be restless until it repose in Him." Everything, whether it belongs to the keenest intellect or the lowest senses, is an idol if the soul rests in it, apart from God. The soul's craving for peace is its natural yearning for its end, its Maker and its God. Since the soul is large enough to contain the infinite God, nothing less than Himself can satisfy or fill it.-E. B. Pusey in Christian Work and Evangelist.

Broad Enough to Embrace All. The Lutberan Evangelist declares that it "is for the unifying of all young people's church organizations under the banner of Christian Endeavor. None of us is the less loyal to our several denominations by reason of our enthusiasm for Christian Endeavor. The spirit and aim of Christian Endeavor are broad enough to embrace all young people's organizations that stand for Christ and the church." That is good sense and good Christianity.

He was evidently earnest and fearless and humble, for Jesus had gone forth into the way or street, and in contrast to Nicodemus, another ruler, this man came publicly and in the day and, running to Him, kneeled down in the way. with his eager question concerning eternal life. He did not know that the gift of God is eternal life and that this life is in His Son, and he that hath the Son hath life (Rom. vi, 23; I John v, 11, 12), but he was hungry for something he did not possess. Our Lord's Imply, since only God is good, do you recognize Me as God? Then He referred him to the perfect righteousness of the wondrous law given by Himself long before out of the midst of the fire and which He had come to fulfillcomparison to the immortal joys which | that law which is so holy and just and but Jesus came to fulfill it and magnify it and become the end of the law

This time he does not say "Good Master." He is not willing to acknowledge God in Christ nor himself as a sinner. Then our Lord, knowing what was in man, put his hand right on the sore place, with the words, "Go thy way, sell and follow me" (verse 21). possible." In I Cor. i, 26, it does not say not any wise, not any mighty, are called. but not many wise, not many mighty, so that some one has said thank God for the letter "M." Joseph of Arimathea was a rich man, Abraham and David and others were rich men, and the grace of God can save rich as well as poor, but riches are, as a rule, a hindrance rather than a help to salvation; hence the admonition to Timothy, "Charge them that are rich in this world that they be not high minded nor trust in uncertain riches, but in the living God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy" (I Tim. vi. 17). Our Lord having spoken to the rich man of treasure in heaven, Peter remarked: "We have left all and followed Thee. What shall we have therefore?" (Verse 28, with Matt. xix, 27.) Our Lord made answer that all who forsake all for His sake and the gospels shall receive an hundredfold now in the way of houses, brethren, sisters. mothers, children and lands and in the world to come eternal life. Many a whole hearted follower of Christ can testify to the literal fulfillment of this In the things and people that have become theirs for the gospel's sake. The hundredfold-that is, 10,000 per centhas been realized in the souls saved and in other ways. Ask D. L. Moody, now in heaven, and Dr. Torrey and others who have been used in like manner. I myself can testify that a few dollars of class offerings which might have been lawfully used for personal use as a recompense for labor, renounced for His sake, have brought me for missions in fifteen years over $300,000. His word stands true to all who prove Him (Mal. iii, 10). We shall in due time see that the twelve thrones and rule over the twelve tribes (Matt. xix, 28: Luke xxii, 29, 30) will be literally fulfilled also. We must not omit the two words, "with persecutions," however unattractive they may be, but see John xv, 18-21; xvi, 1-4;

Freckles and Sunburn. There is nothing that equals fresh buttermilk for removing freckles or sunburn. It has the great advantage that it does not injure the skin, but renders it soft. Take a soft cloth or sponge and bathe the face thoroughly with buttermilk before retiring for the night; then wipe off the drops lightly. In the morning wash it well off and wipe dry with a rough towel. A few such baths will take off all tan or freckles. The following is a very good recipe: One ounce of lemon juice, a quarter of a dram of powdered borax and half a dram of sugar; mix and let them stand a few days in a glass bottle till the liquor is fit for use.

THE SUNDIAL.

It Should Be Marked For the Latitude In V. hich It Stands.

In an old shop in lower New York a man keeps up his trade of dial making. The dials, square, octagonal or circular, are hand chased. They do not receive a high polish, and any accidenif not skillfully added. These dials, fitted with the gnomon, or stylus, are windows of uptown curiosity shops among a selected debris of Sheffield plate, prism candlesticks, inlaid tea raddies and old blue plates.

A visitor to one of these shops asked: "How old is that brass dial over there? It's all hand work, isn't it?" "It's all hand work," said the proprietor, whom we will call Truthful James. "I can testify to that, for I know the man whose hands made it. It's about a month old, if you want to know. You're like lots of other people-you want an old Scotch or English dial. Don't you know it would be useless, if you found it, for practical purposes? Excuse me, but haven't you ever studled geography and heard of latitude? A dial ought to be marked out scientifically for the exact latitude in which it is to be set up. So unless you strike the same parallel in the states that the dial left in England it will tell lies from morning till night. You'd be surprised how many people pick up a dial that strikes their fancy which perhaps stood in the garden of an old Virginia estate, intending to hurry it off to the big grounds of some place in Minnesota; or they'll snatch at some quaint dial from New England, with the idea of rigging it up in Texas. "More people would make the same blunder, except that many haven't caught on to dials. Too bad. Nothing is prettier than a simple dial at the crossways of garden paths, or by a fountain or on a terrace or at the entrance of a pergola or near a rustic seat or arbor. You don't have to hire a head gardener and two assistants to keep a sundial. Marble platforms and pedestals are very grand, but unless you're running a big Italian garden with clipped hedges and yews and statues something simple is what you want. The dial will keep just as good time, once it's engraved right, if it's mounted on a tree stump, with ivy planted round it, or on a bowlder, or on the coping of an old disused well, or on a column of cobbles mortared together, or on top of the old hitching post that the family doesn't use in these automobile days, but doesn't want to root up and throw away.

"You'd be surprised at the ingenuity of some people," said Truthful James, who himself seemed of ingenious bent "I mean people who haven't much money to spend and are fond of their own old stuff for association's sake. They're the ones who get effects with a piece of junk, a lump of sentiment and a pocket of small change that can't be bought with a blank check. I've known people who used an old millstone to set the dial on, or who laid a slab over an old stone garden urn, or who saved the capitals from pillars on a house being torn down, or who even rigged up a standard from the bricks of a chimney on an old homestead that had meant a lot to them. One family made a sort of cairn out of a geology collection some ancestor had formed. Another took a flag pole for the gnomon and laid out a dial with pebbles in the grass around the pole

"No, it doesn't require any skill to set up the dial. Get the noon mark for the gnomon on several days, nick it on the slab and then set the dial in a bed of cement. There you are."-New York

NEW BUFFALO RANGE.

There is something about the buffalo which appeals strongly to the Amerithen artfully slipped into the show can's patriotism and makes him welcome the latest step in the effort to preserve it from extinction. Twelve of the buffaloes from the New York Zooother herds in captivity will be placed in a big buffalo range in the Wichita forest and game preserve in Oklahoma. Twelve square miles of prairie, forest | 850 subscribers. and mountain, watered by a winding creek and having good pasture of mesquite and blue stemmed grass, will be fenced off for the use of the herd.

Hornaday, that congress was led to make an appropriation of $15,000 to fence off the Oklahoma range and maintain the herd. said to be only eighteen wild buffaloes | it will be given promptly. -eight in Alberta and ten in the Yellowstone National park It is expected that the work of fencing off the range-it will take fourteen miles of fence to inclose the space—will begin at once in order that the buffaloes may be shipped in the fall. That is the best time to transport them with safety. It is not thought that the cattle will suffer from lack of shelter, as the range was at one time a wintering place for the herds which roamed the plains and hills of the far west. Great buffalo wallows may still be seen there, while skulls and skeletons bear silent witness to the relentless warfare which Indian and white hunters made on the animals. To the northeast the range is completely surrounded by hills and mountains, which will protect the cattle from the severity of storms.

To Be Swell, Yet Shabby. "The smartest togs a woman can wear nowadays," said a chic little New York widow, "are not silks nor laces nor yet lingerie costumes, fascinating though they be. Antwerp and Shipping. Nearly one-half of the shipping traffic to and from Antwerp is carried on under the British and American flags, and this has made Antwerp almost an English speaking port. Free night schools for exclusive classes in English, organized by the city authorities, are attended by thousands of pupils, while special attention is paid to the study of English in all the grades of the day schools, public as well as private. This desire to popularize the English language is not confined to Belgium, but has extended to Germany as well, where schools of instruction have already been established at Munich and Nuremberg by the German government.

Dives and Lazarus. Some of the wideawakers may be surprised when told that the name Dives is not mentioned in the Bible, and yet they have heard the story of "Dives and Lazarus" time and again, perhaps. Even the preachers give the name Dives to the certain rich man of the story. The truth about it is that in the Vulgate or Latin Bible the word dives is used where the name of the man might have been given, but dives is a Latin adjective meaning rich and not a proper noun at all. It is not strange, as the poor man is called Lazarus, that the rich man should be designated by a personal name, but there is no warrant in the original text for doing so.
