State Superintendent of Education M. Bates Stephens has selected as the report for study in the schools on Maryland Day—March 24, 1907—the subject of popular government in Maryland, with a review of the early legislatures. In the selection of the topic, Dr. Stephens could hardly have chosen a more interesting subject or presented a more fruitful field for historical research. While the Virginia Assembly initiated government by the people in the New World in 1619, yet to the sturdy English settlers of Maryland is due the credit of stringing to life the political and legislative body of the people far in advance of their times.

Postal Department
The Postal Department were given credit for all the service it renders the Government. We have the receipts would be practically eliminated, according to the report of the House Committee on Postoffice and Post Roads. The Government's expenditures and other Government offices in Washington reported for the six months period ended December 31, 1906. The postage upon matter they sent through their mails would have aggregated $2,285,427. The committee estimates that it is fair to assume that $50,000,000 of postage is carried for the Government annually from Washington through credit to the Postal Department. The deficit in the Postal Department for the fiscal year 1906 was $10,516,996, and the committee estimates that this would be entirely covered if it were possible to compute the amount of mail franked by Federal officials in all parts of the country, in addition to the amount of free mail going out of Washington.

Letter from San Diego, Cal.
(For the Record.)
We still have an interest in the old home and the doing of our business friends and would miss the RECORD. Things out here are moving along about the same as they were for some time. We are in rain this season which is a great blessing to this country where it only rains in a couple of months each year. Our water systems have their tanks nearly full, and the country is very pretty now, everything so nice and green. Our city is having a great amount of building done.

The time has come when the people who have the greatest financial interest are ready to go home. We have the ideal location for a large city but the interests of our sister city, Los Angeles, have been able for years to retard our progress. When the time comes over, next month, this will be a very active place the remainder of the year.

NEW LABELS FOR DRUGS.

The Pure Food Law is having the Desired Effect on Medicines.

Ever since January 1, when the new pure food and drug law went into effect, the manufacturers of proprietary and patent medicine have been busy with the jangling and brush parties on the bottles, boxes and cartons containing their preparations, which are guaranteed to cure just about everything and nothing but the truth, about what the packages contain.

The law is very strict about the sale of medicines and medicine bottles. A restricted drug which cannot be sold in mixtures unless the name and amount of the restricted drug is mentioned in bold type on the label on the bottle.

The law also says that descriptive matter upon the label shall be free from any statement, design or device regarding the article or the ingredients or substances contained therein, or quality thereof, or place of origin, or false or misleading in any particular.

For the most part only supplementary labels are being used at the present time. The law gives the manufacturer until October 1 of this year to use old labels that may be on hand, and only requires that he should have a supplementary label, stamp or other device, which is contained in the wrapper, or on the manufacturer, however, has gotten out entirely new labels, and these, as well as the old labels, are being used.

The clause requiring the name of any restricted drug that may be used in the preparation of a medicine to be printed upon the label has been productive of many changes. Certain medicines which formerly were warranted not to contain any poisonous or harmful ingredients are now to be seen on the market with labels guaranteeing to cure such and such ailments, and other ingredients.

Just what effect the law is having on the sale of medicines can only be conjectured. There can be but little doubt that certain unscrupulous dealers, who have an excessive amount of the restricted drugs will be forced out of the market. The average person, who has been taking medicines for years, and who has taken the medicine in the past, will probably be very much interested in the fact that the law is having the desired effect on medicines.
