Applications for State Aid.

The list of applications to the Board of State Aid and Charities, for appropriations by the coming legislature, was made public last week. All, or nearly all, of the institutions receiving aid two years ago, now ask for the same, or larger, amount, while there are a number of new applications. The list will be gone over by the Board, an investigation made, after which the Board will make a report to the legislature.

The largest applications are the following:
Springfield Asylum for Insane, $285,000; received at last session, $123,000.
Maryland Asylum and Training School for Feeble-minded, $246,500; received at last session, $70,000.

Maryland Militia, $200,000; received at last session, $120,000.
Maryland Hospital for Insane, $131,000; received at last session, $53,000.

St. John's College, $100,000; received at last session, $16,000.
Maryland School for Boys, $100,000; received at last session, $40,000.

Maryland School for Deaf and Blind, $100,000; received at last session, $20,000.
Maryland Agricultural College, $85,000; received at last session, $65,000.

In all, there are 120 applications, ranging down as low as $500.00 a year; and, should all the requests be granted, there would not be enough received in the State Treasury to half pay them.

Apparently, the State is in need of still further legislation by which both the number of objects entitled to receive State aid should be restricted, and the amounts as well. While the State Aid Board no doubt does some good work, still, the importunities of politicians and lobbyists are very apt to pull appropriations through, which nothing but positive and fixed restrictive legislation can prevent.

Three educational institutions of Carroll county have applied, as follows:
Western Maryland College, $6,500; received at last session, $6,500.
New Windsor College, $6,000; received at last session, $2,000.

Maryland Collegiate Institute, $4,000—first application.
Western Maryland College receives, by special act, perhaps about $12,000 a year, in addition to its present request for $3,100 a year more; New Windsor has been receiving $1,000, commencing, we think, with the appropriation of last session, while Maryland Collegiate Institute is making its maiden effort.

We have serious doubts as to whether Colleges, and the various reformatory institutions of a strongly denominational character, are justly entitled to state aid. The question is debatable, to say the least; but, one conclusion is sure—if the State assists the institutions of one denomination, it should, by right, assist all. There should be no favoritism; no taking of the money contributed in taxes by the members of one church, to build up the incalculating establishments of another church.

Certainly, it would seem that if the higher education is to be furnished, gratis, by the State, it should be through State schools; and that if "homes" and "asylums" of various kinds are to be supported by the State, rather than by one or more denominations, should control and operate them. In other words, the State has no right to finance the operations of one or more churches, to the exclusion of all others.

Party Loyalty And Good Citizenship.

One of our exchanges, in elucidating the question of what constitutes a "Loyal Party Man," especially with reference to, if not anticipating, candidates for office who may be disappointed in not having their names placed on the ballot, says, "But the loyal Democrat, will, like a good citizen, turn in and support the man who has been chosen above him * * * in no other way can party organization be maintained."

This is all very good, but there are exceptions, especially when the "good citizen" is involved. Certainly, a man should not become "soured" simply because he failed in a "square deal," to lead a nomination. But, the square deal is important. If he does not get it, he cannot be expected to retire quietly into a corner and cry it out; moreover, if he is a "good citizen" he will protest, and try to make his party play fair, thereafter. "Loyalty to party" may require him to submit to whatever the party caucuses and conventions may dictate, but good citizenship does not recognize the motto that any one party is pure and holy and can do no wrong.

Neither is it the proper definition of "good citizen" that to be one a man must necessarily support the nominees of his party. Country comes before party, all the time, and if it is necessary to rebuke the party for a bad nomination, or if it is clearly for the good of the public service to vote for a man on the other side, the "good citizen" will see his duty and follow it, regardless of the sophistry about "party loyalty."

We believe in parties and party organizations, and thoroughly disbelieve in mere "square head" factions; but, the organization must play fair, and be such in its operations that one can have respect for it—it must be representative of the people who compose it, and not representative of the few who "boss" it.

Mr. Bryan's Blunder.

Great men are not free from making blunders, and when they do make them they are often superlatively ridiculous. If reports are correct, Mr. Bryan has made one in stating that President Roosevelt is copying him, and acting out the advice contained in his (Bryan's) addresses made years ago. It was to have been expected that some of Mr. Bryan's admirers should charge the President with stealing Bryan's thunder, as it is regarded good political policy to belittle one's opponent when he cannot be defeated, but for the "silver-tongued" himself to engage in such tactics, is exaggerated ego of the purest sort.

No one questions that President Roosevelt and Mr. Bryan hold views which are common, but it is equally true that the same views are held by tens of thousands of intelligent men in this country in both parties; views that have been held, in embryo, since long before Mr. Bryan was discovered. In fact, in substance, they date back to the Golden Rule.

Instead of trying to belittle the President, as a copyist, it rather looks as though Mr. Bryan is trying to fall in behind the popularity of the President's success, and to build thereon why his successor should be his present critic; or, perhaps, he is trying to get credit both for the prescription before taking, and for the results after taking. In any event, Mr. Bryan would have stood much higher in the estimation of a discerning public had he refrained from engaging in such a primary political expedient as the one just charged against him.

There is, after all, nothing so very remarkable in what President Roosevelt has done, nor in what Mr. Bryan announced that he was favorably to do, for both represent, in substance, innovations that both National platforms have stood for, for years past, but which were merely wall ornaments, for attraction, rather than use. The President has simply made household furniture out of theories that these two workmen, put all, and in so doing shocked a good many dignified functionaries, and shattered a good many long-standing good housekeeping rules. Neither the one nor the other invented the ideas, but it has fallen to President Roosevelt to put them to practical use. Perhaps, Mr. Bryan, had he been elected, would have done the same—and perhaps not.

Mr. Howell's "Arrangement."

Mr. B. F. Howell, general passenger agent for the Western Md. R., in expressing himself on the subject of "retreats" to Pen-Mar reunions, is credited with the following:

"While the Interstate Commerce law prohibits the giving of rebates or commissions to committees working up excursions in charge of the President's reunion, the Reformed Church reunion and the Lutheran Church reunion, by which they will be enabled not only to hold their reunions during the coming season, but for years to come."

To the Editor—without a pass, the query occurs, whether it might not be possible for Mr. Howell, providing he was so disposed, to find a "legal and satisfactory arrangement" by which Editors might exchange transportation for the publication of their articles. Perhaps the dissemination of information of this kind, to the public, is not as important as carrying excursionists to Pen Mar, but we can't quite see it that way.

Catholic Priest Scores the "Unwritten Law."

In his sermon at St. Charles' Catholic Church, Baltimore, last Sunday, Rev. M. J. Riordan, the pastor, in speaking of the "unwritten law," said:

"The 'unwritten law' is a relic of barbarism and has no place in a Christian community. It is incompatible with the virtue of self-control or the spirit of law and order, or even with an enlightened sense of justice. Neither the Bible, the Catechism, nor theology sanctions it, and no jurist, moralist or publicist of note defends it."

"It advocates for the most part impulsive, half-educated men, who are swayed by feeling rather than by reason. It results from the inability to think clearly and honestly. For if you may kill the man who wrongs your female relative you have a right to kill the man who wrongs your male relative. With even greater justice you may shoot down the man who wrongs you, who robs or slanders you. You may, if a workman, murder your employer who discharges and blacklists you, the black-list being possibly the most damaging material wrong one man can inflict on another. Like the Molly Maguires, you may murder your persecutors and feel no qualm of conscience, because you redress a grievous wrong and rid the world of tyrants."

"This so-called law profanes the sanctity of the oath. Jurors who swear to uphold the written law of the State and then repudiate it by rendering a verdict in accordance with the 'unwritten law' perjure themselves, and we cannot overestimate the gravity of the crime of perjury."

"The only shadow of justification for the 'unwritten law' is its deterrent effect, but the murderer who hides behind a female relative cares naught for that. His only purpose is revenge, and revenge is wicked, irrational and utterly indefensible under any circumstances whatever. The blood feud and the wild justice of revenge belong to the ages of lawlessness."

"Champions of the 'unwritten law' place themselves on the same moral plane as anarchists, who also repudiate the written law. But intellectually anarchists command more respect. Anarchism counts among its followers names favorably known to science and letters, while the 'unwritten law' is upheld chiefly by the persons of imperfectly developed mental powers and by clever attorneys hired for the occasion."

Public Duty vs. Private Gain.

It is not difficult to understand why so many public offices are filled by incompetent or mediocre men. As a general rule, public offices go to men who seek them, and equally as a general rule, the incompetent men seek them. The competent man is doing something else, doing that something else well and making more money at it than he could get by holding office, especially if he confined his efforts to his salary, which is a competent man would do. It may be urged against this statement that public officials are paid pretty well and that not one man in twenty is making as much as the salary of a County Commissioner, for instance. This is all true enough, but it may be said in reply that not one man in twenty is fit to be County Commissioner and the twentieth man is doing something else and has no desire for public life, with its many vexations and troublesome features and responsibilities. When a number of people set their eyes on Mr. Twentieth Man and say, "Come and serve us as a county official or a member of the Legislature," Mr. Twentieth Man draws back with alarm, although pleased at the compliment, and replies: "Indeed! I couldn't think of it. Why, I am a very busy man and it would be a sacrifice."

Well, why shouldn't our busy citizen sacrifice a portion of his valuable time for the good of the community in which he lives, has his being and depends upon for many things? Other great men have done so before him. George Washington, if history correctly informs us, not only sacrificed his time for several years and a large portion of his means, but ran a serious risk of sacrificing his life also for the good of his fellow men.

So also did our own John Eager Howard and so have done very many other recognized and unrecognized heroes.

There is a higher and nobler duty than the mere amassing of dollars, and there is no higher duty than a man's duty to his fellow men, for it is also his duty to God. If we are to depend for public officials upon those who want the jobs merely because the salaries paid are more than they can make in private life, we must remain misgoverned and with our affairs mismanaged. We badly need a little more patriotism and sense of public duty in our present day men of ability. A man owes a duty to his country in time of peace as much as in time of war, and he may be a hero in the former just as well as in the latter.

Bar more common is now calling for honest men and true to lead her out of the political slough into which she has fallen, and he is a poor patriot who will disregard her appeal when she calls him by name and hurry by on the other side merely because he may lose a little of his valuable time.—Townsend News.

Our Irrational Fourth.

It does little credit to our patriotism or enlightenment that Thursday's celebration of our greatest national holiday should be chronicled as "the bloodiest Fourth yet." How can any satisfaction be taken in the perversion of a holiday to purposes of disorder and destruction, and how can any pride be felt in methods of observance which inevitably condemn hundreds if not thousands to be shot, burned, maimed and otherwise disgraced and tortured in propitiation of the great god of senseless uproar? What a hideous waste of it is which depicts these victims—most of them children tempted into peril by thoughtless parents—to the Chinese deity of punk and lockjaw! The sacrifice is as wanton as it is meaningless; for the effort which is so dearly paid for contributes in no way to the appropriate celebration of the nation's birthday and adds in no conceivable manner to its beauty, dignity, significance or impressiveness.

Amiel somewhere in his diary philosophizes over the conduct of the boorish and the untrained when brought into contact with nature's beauties and sublimities. They are uneasy and overawed and seek to emphasize their own petty individualities by singing, shouting or other trivial uproar. Can it be that as a nation we are not able to grasp the real significance of the ideas underlying our holiday observances and must cover our incapacity by mere vociferation or a resort to gunpowder? The Fourth of July should have an intellectual and spiritual significance. The celebration of the holiday should be made attractive by music, oratory and pageantry. It should be associated with things beautiful, inspiring and of good report, not degraded to the Chinese level of fumigation day for malignant spirits. The senseless burning of powder and human flesh and propagation of tetanus are poor tributes to the men who signed the Declaration of Independence and made the thirteen colonies a nation. They represent a sad deterioration, just as the modern din and riot of a New Year's Eve represent a painful decline on the public's part in imaginative power and in capacity to grasp the inner significance of our feasts and holidays.

It is time to protest against the vulgarities and boorishness as well as the disorder and recklessness of our latter day Fourth of July celebrations. Some complaint was made when sports began to overshadow patriotic observances on that holiday. But sports have their rightful place on the calendar of a great open air holiday like Independence Day. They are wholesome, cheering, beneficial and not out of tune with the spirit of the occasion. But to turn the Fourth into a mere carnival of fireworks, discharged under conditions of the greatest possible discomfort and danger, is to make the holiday pestiferous as well as empty. Probably fifty persons were killed and twenty-five hundred injured—many of the latter most seriously—in Thursday's orgy. Houses were set on fire and the laws against carrying and using firearms were defied.—Tribune Farmer.

The Republicans and the Government.

A remarkable attitude of "awaiting developments" seems to characterize the Republican situation in Maryland. Nobody is being "boomed" for the Government, and no candidate seems to be making any special effort to be boomed. A great deal of anxiety is manifested from time to time, however, in quarters outside the Republican party, to get one particular possibility eliminated, if it is not actually announced, in one form or another, that Mr. Crozer, R. Gaither will not accept the nomination for Governor. It is also intimated, every now and then, that he will be nominated for Attorney General. On the latter point, Mr. Gaither has stated, in the most emphatic and unequivocal manner, that he will not accept a nomination for Attorney General. In the same statement he declared that he saw no reason at present for abandoning his desire to withdraw from public life, but evidently left open the possibility of his running for the Governorship if circumstances should develop which recommended that course to his judgment and his sense of public duty.

The intense anxiety exhibited in some quarters to talk away this possibility is one of the most interesting features of the Maryland political situation. Nothing could demonstrate more strikingly the strength which Mr. Gaither's candidacy would give to the Republican party. His standing in Baltimore is of a unique character, and he is held in the highest esteem throughout the State. He is a man who combines the shrewdness and geniality of the successful practical politician with the highest standards of upright, energetic and efficient public service. He commands an extraordinary following among the masses, whether of Republican or Democratic affiliation, and at the same time is thoroughly liked by the regulars in his own party. Against not only an objectionable Democratic candidate, but against any Democratic candidate who would be classified as a colorless man or a weak man or a Bourbon, Mr. Gaither would make a campaign that would simply sweep the State. Among his other qualifications, it may be noted, he is a rattling good campaign speaker. If he were sent in for the Governorship, it would be with a view to taking hold of the office with vigor and achieving big and substantial results for the State during his four years at Annapolis; and, what is more, everybody in the State would have a very good chance to understand this long before the campaign was over. If the Democratic party wants to elect its candidate for Governor, with George Gaither to contend against, it will have to put up a man who, in point of ability, character and force, is a match for his opponent.—*Balt. TANEYTOWN LOCAL COLUMN.

Items of Local News of Special Interest to Home Readers.

All copy for ADVERTISEMENTS on this page must be in hand early on this morning...

Ernest Angell spent several days in York and Philadelphia, this week.

Dr. R. S. Seiss, of Littlestown, spent Monday here on a visit to his son, Dr. F. H. Seiss.

Mrs. Smelser, of Staunton, Va., and son, of New York, are visiting at Mr. John J. Crapster's.

Henry A. Shoemaker, and his force of hands, are building a new dwelling for D. Albert Sharratt, in Woodstock.

Mrs. J. Frank Seiss, of Cumberland, and Mrs. Orlando Seiss, of Greencastle, visited their nephew, Dr. F. H. Seiss, this week.

Our Junior baseballists visited New Windsor, last Saturday, and relieved the Juniors there, of a ball, to the tune of 15 to 8.

Maurice C. Dutera, Mr. and Mrs. Claudius Long, and daughter Ellen, attended the Reformed Renuin at Pen-Mar, on Thursday.

Regular communion services will be held in the Lutheran church, on Sunday morning. Preparatory services on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

A note from Hagerstown, says "Mrs. Jennie B. Kregelo was to see her brother, William G. Fair, at Cumberland, and returned to her home in Hagerstown, on July 4th."

Don't forget the festival held this evening and Saturday evening for the benefit of the Base Ball Club, in the Firemen's Building. Come and help make it a success.

W. Edgar Thomson, wife and child, left for their new home in Sebring, Ohio, this week, where Mr. Thomson has a responsible position with a large Manufacturing firm.

Miss Elizabeth R. Elliott, who for several years has been a nurse in the Presbyterian Hospital, Philadelphia, spent several days of her vacation in this place, the first of this week.

Rev. T. A. Whiteside, of Mt. Airy, N. J., will preach in Taneytown Presbyterian church at 10 o'clock a. m. and at 8 o'clock p. m., Sunday next July 21st, and in Piney Creek church at 2 o'clock p. m.

Mrs. David Young and Miss Annie Roop, of near Uniontown, and Mrs. Elizabeth Fuss, of McKinstry's, were among those from a distance who attended Mrs. Knox's funeral, on Wednesday.

John H. Mehring and son, of Great Bend, Kansas, visited here the first of this week. He likes the scenery, first of all, but has a warm feeling for old Maryland. About fifteen years ago Mr. Mehring lived on the Trevanion farm.

The RECORD office turned out, this week, a supply of Policies, of new design for Protection Mutual Fire Insurance Co., of Littlestown, Pa. Secretary Mayers need not be ashamed to compare documents with any of them, hereafter.

A very fair game of baseball was played on the local ground, last Friday evening, between mixed teams made up of regulars, juniors and "has-beens," which resulted in the score of 4 to 1 at the end of seventh inning. The pitcher of both Reinoldar and Clark was very effective, and very little batting was done. The field work was generally good.

The new carpet was laid in the Lutheran church, this week, and is a very handsome improvement. The pulpit and choir furniture has been re-upholstered to correspond in color, and the general effect will be pleasing to most of the members, especially to the musical to read. The cost of the carpet, and laying, was about $5.00.

The contract for raising the front portion of our Public School building one story has been given to the Taneytown Elevator Co. This is gratifying news, indeed, as sentiment is strong here for a two-story building, both for the sake of appearances and because it is probable that this method will give not only more room, but better light and ventilation than the one-story plan.

Mrs. George Knox, who had been at St. Agnes Hospital, Baltimore, for about four weeks for surgical treatment, died suddenly at that institution, last Sunday morning, from pulmonary embolism. She was recovering nicely, and was in the very best of spirits up to within a very short time of her death, which was very unexpected by all her hospital attendants. Her body was taken to her late home, near Knapp, on Monday morning, and funeral services were held on Wednesday morning, at St. Joseph's Catholic church, in this place. Mrs. Knox was Miss Mattie Adelsperger, before her marriage, and was well and favorably known here.

Word reached here on Monday afternoon, of the death of John J. Hape, in Philadelphia, who was a member of Lodge No. 36, K. of P., of Taneytown. Mr. Hape joined the order here, some years ago, when living at Elm M. Dutera's, near Middleburg. For a number of years he lived in Chambersland, and recently removed to Philadelphia. Mr. Hape was a motorman on an electric line, and his death, which was almost instantaneous, was caused by his being crushed between two cars. He was in his 32nd year, and was a son of Jacob Hape, of near Woodstock. Funeral services were held on Thursday, at Rocky Hill, near Woodstock, a delegation of Lodge No. 36 participating in the services.

Silver Run.—A. W. Feesser, wife and daughter, Leah, spent Sunday at Hanover, Pa.

The Lord's supper will be celebrated in the Lutheran church, this Sunday morning, July 21.

The Lutheran parsonage has been improved by the addition of a new roof. Farmers are now busy with harvest, which is a week or 10 days later than usual. Some older folks think it the steepest and most difficult of pleasure-seeking and barley, yielded excellent.

Krug & Dutera, of Littlestown, purchased a tract of woodland of John D. Feesser. The price paid is said to be $900.

Bear Mount.—Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Heltridde and wife, and three sons, and Daniel R. Heltridde, all of Hanover, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Davidson and family, of Uniontown, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Heltridde, Saturday and Sunday.

The Ladies Sewing Circle of Baust's church will hold a festival at the usual place, in Tyrone this Saturday evening. Music will be furnished by the Pleasant Valley Band. Come one, come all.

Mrs. L. D. Maus, of Tyrone, is on the sick list.

Going Up Middle Street.

(For the RECORD.)

When going up Middle Street, Right over the hill, It is seen with a good stop, And cause a gaze from "Buffalo Bill"

That he was never here— On any wonder why? He couldn't get through the streets, Nor the alleys round by.

The "farmers" have great weeds, Which they never weed, Some are full of germs, And nearly three feet tall.

Our "Editor" has a farm, Quite close by, Naturally thinks their views are right, And for a week grows wide.

The Hall is enclosed, With some fine timothy hay, Which the horses would enjoy, On a hot pie-nic day.

Now this is the first rhyme, I ever tried to write, But I should have tried, When travelling that way at night.

For the street lamps—sometimes lit— And the farmers bring their lanterns, Both the day and the night.

Now farmers have better advice, Than to get a horse and a mule, Make the street clean, And now around the Hall.

A FARMER'S DAUGHTER. John Dorsey very slowly works His wonders to perform, But when he is a little jerks The Editor's farm from harm.

So farmer's daughter, with dainty feet, Did once pay a farmer $10 for killing a cat that belonged to another farmer. This time he was wary.

"Was that your dog?" "Yes." "Certainly looks so?" "Very valuable dog?" "Well, not so very." "Will $5 satisfy you?" "Yes." "Well, then, here you are." He handed a five dollar bill to the man with the gun, and said pleasantly, "I'm sorry to have broken up your hunt."

"I wasn't going hunting," replied the other, as he pocketed the bill. "Not going hunting?" "What were you doing with the dog and the gun?" "Going down to the woods to shoot the dog."—Youth's Companion.

A cleansing, cooling, soothing, healing household remedy is DeWitt's Carbolic Witch Hazel Salve. For burns, cuts, scratches, bruises, insect bites, and sore feet it is unequalled. Good for Piles. Beware of imitations. Get DeWitt's. It is the best. Sold by J. McKellip, Druggist, Taneytown, Md.

How Sal "Disgraced the Family." A traveler in the State of Illinois some years ago came to a long log hut on the prairie near Cairo, and there halted. He went into the house. It was a wretched affair. An empty packing box served for a table, while two or three other, and disreputable stools graced the reception room, the dark walls of which were ornamented by a display of tinware and a broken chair article or two. The woman was crying in one corner, and the man was sitting on a stool in the other, with tears in his eyes, with a pipe in his mouth, and with his sorrowful looking head supported by the palms of his hands. Not a word greeted the interloper.

"Well," said he, "you seem to be in awful trouble here. What's up?" "Ah, we are almost crazed, neighbor," said the woman, "and we ain't got the patience to see folks now."

"That's all right," said the stranger, "not much taken back by the polite rebuff," but can I be of any service to you in all this?" "Well, we've lost our gal; our Sal's gone off and left us," said the old man in tones of deep despair.

"Ah, do you know what induced her to leave you?" remarked the new arrival.

"Well, there's the trouble. The gal could have done well, and might have married Martin Kelso, a capy maker, who, when he has but one eye, plays the flute in a lively manner, and earns a good living. Then, look here, she has deserted. She was here surrounded by all the luxury in the country," said the old man.

"Yes, but who knows what poor Sal will have to do, and wear now?" groaned the old woman.

"And who is the fellow who has taken her into such misery?" queried their interloper.

"Why, she's gone off and got married to one of them literary fellers, a critter called an editor, as lives in the village."

"With that stranger vanquished. Bad sick headaches, biliousness or constipation are quickly relieved by DeWitt's Little Early Bitters. Small pill, safe pill—prompt and pleasant in action. Sold by J. McKellip, Druggist, Taneytown, Md.

The following is a copy of the official document has been received after having recently passed through the hands of an officer:

"Regret to inform you that Pte. —, admitted to hospital this morning, is dangerously ill, suffering from N. Y. D."

This may interest "the faculty," who are always on the lookout for new complaints. In point of fact, however, it seems that N. Y. D. stands for "Not yet diagnosed"—London Truth.

The Doctor Aways from Home when Most Needed. People are often very much disappointed to find that their family physician is away from home when they most need his services. Diseases like cramp colic, and cholera, require prompt treatment, and have in many instances proven fatal before medicine could be procured or a physician summoned. The right way is to keep at hand a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. No physician can prescribe a better medicine for these diseases. By having it in the house you escape much pain and suffering and all risk. Buy it now; it may save life. For sale by E. S. McKinley, Druggist, Taneytown, Md.

A QUEER EPITAPH. The following epitaph appears in the graveyard at Childwid, Eng.:

"Here lies me and my three daughters. Brought here by using sea-water. We had stuck to Bismarck suit. We wouldn't have been in these 'ere vaults."

The Mystery of Death. Oh, death! how bitter is the thought of thee! How speedy thy approach! How stealthy thy steps! How uncer tain thy hour! How universal thy away! The powerful cannot escape thee; the wise know not how to avoid thee; the strong have no strength to oppose thee; the rich cannot bribe thee with their treasures. Thou art a hammer that always strikes, a sword that is never dull, a net into which all fall, a prison into which all must enter, a sea on which all must venture, a penalty which all must suffer, a tribute which all must pay. Oh, death! how terrible is thy doom! Why dost thou enter into the world?—Louis de Granada.

DIRTY MONEY.

A Large Part of Our Paper Currency is Not Fit to Handle.

Recent cases of blood poisoning from handling dirty money furnish a striking illustration of the unsatisfactory condition of the paper currency of the country. It has been asserted that the dirty notes which pass from hand to hand in this community serve as vehicles for the dissemination of disease, but it may be doubted whether these reiterated statements have carried much conviction with them.

The average man does not exactly disbelieve them, but he does not believe them exaggerated, that there is no real danger from the source mentioned, and he is generally too glad to get money of any kind to be very particular about its physical quality. He thinks that there is no real danger of his contracting any disease from all the money he has occasion to handle, and, anyhow, he is perfectly willing to take his chances.

That kind of feeling can be understood, and yet it shows some lack of thought or sense. There are noxious germs on much of the paper money in circulation. Considering how many hands it passes through and all the kinds of people who have it in their possession it is natural, it is almost unavoidable, that there should be, and that these noxious germs may prove infectious has been proved more than once.

As a matter of fact, a large part of the paper currency in circulation is not fit for a nice, clean, self-respecting man to be carrying around concealed upon his person. In other large cities where there are numerous banks the conditions are not so bad, because the banks refrain as far as they can from giving dirty notes to their customers, but in the country, where greenbacks and treasury notes are passed around until they will scarcely hold their own in a state of things exists in this connection which is distinctly injurious and discreditable.

It has been proposed as a remedy that the use of paper money in denominations of less than twenty dollars be discontinued, and that gold and silver coin be exclusively employed in retail transactions. That this would not be impracticable is proved by European experience. There is practically no paper money in England.

The smallest bill in the five pound note of the Bank of England, which the banker tendering is liable to be asked to indicate, so seldom are these kind of notes used for too many years been accustomed to the convenience of a paper currency to be willing to give it up. Yet the problem is not insoluble, and some other remedy should be sought for and applied when found.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Earthquake Curiosities. During the earthquake in Jamaica in January four statues in the public square, as within about 100 yards of one another, underwent remarkably varied experiences. The statue of Queen Victoria, on the south side of the square, was turned slightly to the left. Another statue in a corresponding position on the north side of the square was turned to the right. A statue facing northeast was thrown to the ground and broken in pieces, and one facing west was snapped in two in the middle.

Complies with all requirements of the National Pure Food Law, Guarantee No. 2041, filed at Washington.

An old soldier writes about ARBUCKLE'S ARIOSA Coffee: "Your coffee is the best and richest coffee I ever drank since I left the service, from '61 until I received your coffee yesterday." A soldier knows coffee by the taste, and the way it makes him feel, and would sooner go without his bread than without his coffee.

ARBUCKLE'S ARIOSA was the first roasted, packaged coffee, packaged for protection of consumers, roasted and the pores of each berry sealed with a coating of fresh eggs and pure sugar, to hold the goodness in and make the coffee settle clear and quickly. Better than "fresh roast." Warning: little develops the flavor and makes the grinding easy. Our enormous coffee business, exceeding the next four largest firms in the world together, reduces our average cost per pound, and enables us to give you better coffee for your money than you can buy in any other way. There are more packages of ARBUCKLE'S ARIOSA sold in the United States than all the other Coffee packages combined.

If your grocer will not supply, write to ARBUCKLE BROS., New York City.

THE FOUNDATION IS IMPORTANT—it can't be too solid! Notice the Base and Shoe at bottom of all our Posts. No other fence so well anchored. The Fence that costs least is not always the best. All grades of Ornamental and Farm Fence. Farm Gates made to order. Lawn Furniture of every description. C. & P. Phone. J. W. EYLER, Middleburg, Md.

CHIEFLY FROM CASTLES IN SPAIN. By Sophia Chandler, OF CARROLL COUNTY, MD. THE NEALE PUBLISHING CO., New York, Flatiron Bldg.; Washington, D. C., 431 11th Street. 12 mo., cloth, postpaid, $1.00.

Oregonian, Portland, Ore.—Written in a delightful, leisurely manner—reminds one of Washington Irving.

Scout, Milwaukee, Wis.—Written with a light touch and piquant diction.

American, Nashville, Tenn.—Treats the subject of "Birds," in a very unusual and attractive way. A cleverly written book, which treats of many and diverse subjects, but which touches all of them with the illumination of a poetic and cultured mind.

Times, Seattle, Washington.—Full of beautiful thought and description.

Sun, Baltimore, Md.—Volume of charming sketches.

PUBLIC SALE OF A Valuable Farm in Middleburg District, Carroll County, and Two Wood Lots in Emmitsburg District, Frederick County, Md.

By virtue of an order of the Orphans' Court of Carroll County, and by the authority conferred upon the undersigned Executor of the last will and testament of the late H. H.
