Rather, the credit which the dominant party hopes to secure through the passage of the bill should be made possible only after the party l.as decided on a course of economy, cutting out all unnecessary appropriations, and refusing all such appeals as that of $50,000 to a college for new buildings. Until this situation is assured, it looks to us as though all popular appeals for the $5, 000,000 bond issue is but playing into the hands of the politicians, and a turning of the "other cheek."

Topic.—The wise use of time.—Eph. v, 15-21. The expression "redeeming the time" used by the apostle in the paragraph before us is a peculiar one, and THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES. the authorized version scarcely expresses its true meaning. In the original it means "buying up for yourselves the opportunity." The idea intended to be conveyed is "that of a merchant who, knowing the value of an article and the good use to which he can put it, buys it up." But the element of upon our timeliness in seizing the opportunity to do good or to achieve a great purpose that God has offered to "There is a tide in the affairs of if we are to win the victory it affords. Otherwise defeat and failure are the result. In a general way the wise use of time is the use of it in such a way as to make the best use of every opportunity that is afforded to us. Time is but another name for opportunity. The wise use of time is only possible time. Throughout the ages the teachimportance of using time well. It is God has given to man; but, like every other gift of God, its value will depend upon the use we make of it. We have all the time that any one else in the world has, all the time that there is, but he is indeed a wise man who uses it all to the best advantage. But all should strive to be wise in this respect. "No one should allow a mortgage to be placed upon his opportunities." Time waits for no man. In the strict sense, it can never be redeemed. The man who procrastinates, the man who wastes time, loses that which can never be recalled. The second just passed has already gone into the eterfor it. What we do we must do quickly and promptly, else it never can be done at the moment allotted to it.

The wise use of time is imperative, because it so swiftly and silently passes from us. The Romans had an adage. "Tempus fugit" ("Time flies"), and to the man who uses his time properly it does fly. If time hangs heavy on our hands, if to us it seems to have no wings, we may rest assured that we are not using it well. How silently also does time fly! No bugle call announces its arrival and departure. Well hath the poet said-With what a gentle foot doth silent Time Steal on his everlasting journey!

How important, then, the proper and best use of every moment of our time. The use of what we call the he cobbled shoes the world little remembered and little cared, but so long as time shall last the product of his odd moments and its subsequent tremendous results will be held in grateful remembrance.

The example of Christ should inspire us to the wise use of time. With zeal, with energy sublime, Mark how the Saviour valued time. The work of centuries appears Crowded within His three short years.

Singer Sewing Machine Or a Wheeler @ Wilson On the Rental Plan

The purchase of a sewing machine is altogether too important a transaction to be decided off-hand, because it soon becomes a family institution.

When You Rent a Singer Sewing Machine or a Wheeler 2 Wilson even for so short a time as one week you give yourself an opportunity to test a machine that will do its daily work so perfectly and noiselessly from the start, that you will hesitate before you let it go out of the house again.

No reason why it should go out either; for your rental payments may be applied to the purchase of the machine if you decide to keep it.

"THE COUNTRY LAD."

I know no nobler forage ground, For a romantic cheerful youth; Then the family mansion garret, Right underneath the roof.

There is great fun in groping
Through a tall barrel of books;
And looking out for pictures
As the light peeps through the nooks.

And many clothes have been in stock For twenty years or more. The old brocade petticoat That always wiped the floor.

You go out into the yard, And see the giant trees; For in summer you love to stand, Beneath their gentle breeze.

You love to see the old stone mill, That grinds the farmer's corn, And to see the rippling waters, That flow from eye till morn.

The red brick school-house on the hill, Is all your joy and pride, The school master with his rod, Slowly creeping by your side.

You set and ponder o'er your books, Until the evening dawn. You surely would not play truant, And be hooted at with scorn.

And as the even time draws nigh, You scamper to the barn; And drive the cattle from the yard To be sheltered from all harm.

You hear the lambs a bleating The chickens cackling too; And oh! what noise they make, As you bid them all adieu.

The night is dark, the wind is cold The stock is safe once more; And the boy with his old felt boots, Sits by the hearthstone door.

The farmer's wife is busy A baking some good old Johnnie's While her ragged little boy, Is reading about the bunnies.

Now supper is almost ready
The cakes are steaming hot;
But the little lad does not forget,
The chicken in the pot.

The country lad toils long and hard, From early morn till night; And to ride the fattest steed, Is his very great delight.

The farmer's youth has won renown, At home and far away. From whence rose our Washington? And mighty Henry Clay? The city chap may laugh and sneer,
With his gay and dudish fad;
But the man that made the nation,
Was the poor old country lad.

MODES OF THE MOMENT.

Just now a great deal of attention is given to stripes, two tone and two color, although they are seldom very strongly contrasting.

Some of the new muffs are trimmed with a number of little heads and look as if they had no padding. The flat collar or stole has also a number of heads on each side.

Many of the newest two piece walking suits have a coat of one color with skirt of contrasting tone, and smart models of a more elaborate nature are even allowed jaunty little velvet coats.
