Troops To Leave Mexico.

No. 29

Please watch the Date on your Paper.

Washington, Jan. 18 .- Although Villa's operations have injected confusing factors into the situation in Northern Mexico and along the border, there is every indication that the administration is going forward with its plans for early with-drawal of Pershing's expedition and demobilization of the National Guard. Officials here have insisted that it was impossible to set a definite date for the troop movements because of the uncer-tainty of transportation facilities and because the situation at the border and beyond constantly is changing. It has been indicated clearly however that unless there was some unexpected development Pershing's withdrawal and the return of the Guardsmen would be ordered within a few days, possibly by the end of the week.

The reports on Villa's new campaign apparently have not disturbed this de-termination, but they have somewhat bewildered official ideas as to the real situation and in the end may operate to hold up orders until a more thorough in-vestigation has been made. Army officers contend that the Pershing force would be in a better military position if withdrawn and regrouped, but they are anxious to locate the Villa forces more definitely be-fore there is any American movement.

-----Probable End of One Cent Dailies.

Magazines now admit their prices must go up soon, and high cost of literature is confronting the nation as a result of the shortage of paper.

It is predicted in many publishing circles that the one cent newspaper is bound to disappear in a vast majority of localities and that shortly no magazines will sell under 20 cents a copy. Says the editor of one nationally known "Paper manufacturers are magazine: going to kill their own game by the pressure they are exerting on all kinds of publications.' Edgar G. Criswell, executive manager of the Quoin club, an organization of magazine folk, says: "We realize there is a shortage of paper, and some increase in price is to be expected, but we can see no justification for the 100 per cent increase which has been effected. In Pittsburgh and Buffalo all the papers are now 2 cents a copy. Among the pio-neers in the movement that seems destined to abolish in large part the historic penny newspaper was the St. Louis Re-public, which shoved up its price some months ago. -0-23-0-

How to Advertise a Sale.

First, use newspaper advertising. If you have a large sale, and the property is so located that the circulation of two or more newspapers is likely to help draw buyers, then do not hesitate to advertise in more than one paper. This is espec-ially advisable when there is a lot of good horses and cattle to sell. In most cases, perhaps the use of one paper having the largest neighborhood circulation, is sufficient.

Second, use posters. These are hung up where men congregate, and they are often looked over; besides, a poster can give advertising in out-of-the-way places, and helps in the general publicity. Third, the use of cards, especially tor large stock sales, is desirable, when they are specially addressed and mailed to these the are not librar to see either the

those who are not likely to see either the newspaper advertising, or posters. They are also handy to carry around and dis-

It is a great mistake to think of saving too closely in the matter of advertising. Advertising is not spending money, it is investing money. There would be no use in advertising a sale so far out of the neighborhood that it could not possibly draw buyers, but it is hardly possible to waste money in thorough advertising within the reachable radius of a sale. This is not "shop talk" for the benefit of the printing trade, but it is good business sense, based on our own personal experience, and that of auctioneers.

Annual Meeting Library Association.

Last Saturday afternoon, Jan. 14, in the Commissioners' room in the Firemen's Building, the Taneytown Library Associa-tion held its annual business session. Though the attendance was as large as at most meetings and larger than many, yet there were those whose interest in the maintenance and development of the organization made their absence disappointly felt. Miss Eliza Birnie presented her report for the year (1916) as Secretary and Librarian, and also as acting Treasurer in the absence of Miss Margaret Englar, which was as follows:

LAWSON TESTIMONY MAKES A BIG SENSATION

..... Startling Disclosures Bring Emphatic

Denials.

The politico-news sensation of the week was the evidence of Broker "Tom" Law-son before a special committee of the House of Delegates, that information of the President's recent peace note had "leaked," and that the Congressman who told him a Cabinet officer, a Senator and a banker were engaged in a stock gam-bling pool, was none other than Representative Henry, chairman of the com-mittee. Then, before his hearers had time to recover from the shock, Lawson sprung one sensation after the other by declaring that the Cabinet officer referred to was Secretary McAdoo; that the banker was H. Pliney Fiske, of New York, and that he knew the Senator only by the initial "O."

To complete the explosion, Lawson went on to charge that Paul M. Warburg, of the Federal Reserve Board, had knowl-edge of the leak machinery; repeated a rumor that Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, had made two millions in the stock market, and to mention a list of well-known men whom he thought should be questioned. The com-mittee promptly issued subpoenas for all of them.

Mr. Lawson said he had been told that Malcolm McAdoo, the Secretary's brother, knew of the leak, as did C. D. Barney & Co. and Stewart G. Gibboney, of New York. A Mrs. Ruth Thomason Visconti, of Philadelphia, he said, had declared to him in the presence of her attorney that Secretary Tumulty "received his bit" and that W. W. Price, one of the White House correspondents, was the "go-between for Tumulty and others." H. Pliney Fiske, Lawson said was the banker he referred to previously as dominating a Cabinet officer, and Archibald S. White, he said, had given him this information.

Lawson declared Henry had asked him, on patriotic grounds, not to press his charges. At no time, the Boston financier testified, did he ever say he had direct information.

When Lawson had finished his recital, Chairman Henry took the stand and swore that at no time had he mentioned to Lawson the names the financier brought out on the witness stand; that he had no information then and had none now of his own knowledge, and denied generally and completely all of Lawson's testimony

When he had concluded Lawson rose and solemly declared that every word he had uttered on the stand was the "truth, so help me God without variation.

diately after leaving Henry at their first conference he laid his information before John O'Hara Cosgrave, Sunday editor of the New York World; Erman J. Ridg-way, president of Everybody's Magazine, and Donald McDonald, publisher of a GERMAN SEA RAIDER CAUSING MANY DISASTERS.

Twenty-three Merchant Vessels are Sunk This Week.

A German cruiser, whose name is not positively known, has been causing destruction this week among merchant ves-sels of the Allies, chiefly those plying be-tween South America and Europe. It is thought that the cruiser, under a com-plete disguise, succeeded in passing the English blockading fleet while carrying the Danish flag, and trimmed up to look the Danish flag, and trimmed up to look like a merchant vessel, possibly carrying a cargo of hay stacked up on deck.

With the possibility that the German sea raider which sank or captured from 15 to a score of allied ships is still continuing her depredations, steamship owners and marine underwriters are in a state of nervous tension. The losses in ships and cargoes thus far represent from $15,000,-000 to $20,000,000.

A cordon of British cruisers, reported to number 15, is believed to be sweeping the southern seas in search of the raider, which, according to one report, may be the auxiliary crusser Vineta; according to another, the cruiser Moewe, the same sea rover with played havoc with allied shipping about a year ago. Steamship circles were especially concerned, Thursday, over a wireless warn-ing that the German raider was working northward to more frequent lanes of steamship trauel. The possibility that the raider may have armed and manned one or more of her prizes and dispatched them also on commerce-preying missions was another source of anxiety. One report was that the British steamer, St. Theodore, was thus transformed. -----

Meeting of W. M. Alumni.

The Alnmni, old students and friends of Western Maryland College will hold their mid-winter banquet in the palm room of the Hotel Emerson, Baltimore, Md., on Friday evening, February 9. This is the Golden Jubilee year of the College, the charter having been issued in 1867. About 3500 students have been enrolled in this time and this mid-winter banquet held in Baltimore, as a more central point, draws together not only the old students from Baltimore, but from all portions of the State and other localities. After the most attractive menu the Emerson can offer there will be enthusiastic speechmaking, college reminiscences and college songs. J. W. Smith of the Western Maryland

R. R., is President of the Alumni Asso-ciation, and the committee in charge of the banquet consists of L. Irving Pollitt, Chairman; Dr. C. Alfred Shreeve, Secre-tary; J. Bibb Mills, Treasurer; Burdette B. Webster, Henry Gilligan, Judge Wm. H. Forsythe, William C. Baker, Jr., Samuel J. Turner, George Dexter, Harry L. Gilbert, Bay A. Norman, Ward and L. Gilbert, Rev. The manner of financing the project, the question of its conduct, and all other details, are as-suming definite form and the physicians at the head of the movement state that within a few days they will be able to out-line for publication the entire matter. Gettysburg with its population of 4500.

Gettysburg with its population of 4500, and the balance of the county with 30,-000 more, should be able to support their own hospital, think the men at the head of the present movement. For years York, of the present movement. For years York, Chambersburg, Carlisle, Harrisburg, Bal-timore, and Philadelphia hospitals have received patients from Gettysburg and other sections of Adams county. That an institution should be located here for our own people has long been the belief of many but it has never assumed such definite shape as at the present time.

For a Hospital in Gettysburg.

Plans, contemplated for some time and now rapidly drawing to a stage which will warrant a definite announcement of ex-definite shape as at the present time. A few years ago the project was given a start but died without getting much farther than the starting stage. There was some opposition to it for various reasons and the necessary co-operation could not be secured either to finance it origiinally or to provide for its continued maintenance.

Under the direction of the men now advocating the hospital here, it is believed that both of these matters will be well cared for and that, with the proper sup port of the townspeople and those of the county, there will be little difficulty in securing and maintaining the institution. Further details, together with the names of those concerned and the plans of the hospital's operation, will be eagerly awaited. — Gettysburg Times.

The "Dry" Cause.

(For the RECORD).

The writer recollects when the temper-ance societies were first formed and few in number, called "enthusiasts" and laughed at. In 1851, when one of the leaders died, in the march to the grave one of the prominent citizens of the town carried a large Bible, open. I ask now, have not their principles won? The liquor forces were never so strong, but they are in retreat; and while the pioneers of temperance have crossed "the great divide," and are forgotten, the seed sown by them has at last brought forth a plentiful harvest-today we have the results.

It required strong hearts to face the town, city, county, or state, then. We must be no less vigilant to defend the cause now, as it must be sustained against a more insidious race than long ago. The wave is world-wide, and what state or country regrets it? A few "soap sticks" who can't get their rum are the only howlers—all good citizens stand pat. The law, like all good laws, must be sustained by the people; self interest and appetite rebels against it, but what matters that, as these are few as compared

More Double Track for W. M.

Under the plan of consolidating the properties of the Western Maryland Railway and the completion of its financial plans, all of which have just been sanctioned by the Public Service Commission, the company will undertake, it is said, vast improvement program. The first of these in this section may be the providing of a double track nine miles long between Hagerstown and Highfield, near the brow of the Blue Ridge grade.

For this work, it is said, the company expects to spend between $1,000,000 and $:,500,000. Its completion will enable the road to handle its rapidly growing traffic more expeditiously and economical At Highfield the road branches, this ly. being the western junction for the line to Gettysburg and other points in Southern Pennsylvania. It joins the main line again at Emory Grove, from which point the road is double-tracked to Baltimore.

The meeting of stockholders to sanction this will be held in Baltimore January 23, when the final steps will be taken. It has been supposed the company would seek a lower grade line over the mountains, extending perhaps from Hagers town to Baltimore. The grade from Thur-mont to Highfield is very heavy and contains the horse-shoe curve, which is a great strain on loaded trains in either direction. The matter of building a line to cut the distance and to use part of the lowlands by means of a tunnel has been under consideration for some time. The company now has an engineer corps out going over this route or laying out one that will be practicable. But it may be some time before the company can take up the proposition, as it is both expensive and a difficult one from an engineering standpoint. -Sun.

Boston financial paper. "Call these men," he declared, "and they will bear me out in what I say." Almost in tears at Henry's absolute denial of his statements, Lawson shouted. 'I'll make good here, and I won': go to jail as the goat !'' Secretaries McAdoo and Tumulty and Mr. Price at once issued statements denying Lawson's references to them. The committee promptly ordered subpoenas for Ridgway, Cosgrave, Warburg, Fiske, Price, White, Malcolm, McAdoo, Gibboney, Barney & Co., Mrs. Visconti and John R. Rathom, editor of the Providence Journal, who published some ar-ticles about "leaks."

Lawson's statements, given with evident sincerity, present no absolutely di-rect evidence of the guilt of anybody, but there is a question of veracity involved, amounting to perjury, as he admits, between him and others involved. Just what it all means, or will eventually amount to, is an open question, the ten-dency on part of the press and the public apparently being to discount the Lawson testimony, unless it receives additional support; and yet, there is the feeling that if the whole truth could be brought out, the fire back of the present smoke would be shown.

The Committee, on Wednesday, suddenly determined to stop taking testimony until new plans are perfected. The Com-mittee will try to get a satisfactory counsel before other hearings are entered into, and this will be a difficult matter. Some persist in saving that the whole matter will be discontinued, but that is hardly probable.

The Board of Education.

From the old treasury building, at Annapolis, which was erected in 1694, and which our readers will recall as one of the most interesting relics of our early colo-nial history, the State Department of Education has moved to McCoy Hall, Baltimore, which was until this year the prin-cipal building of the Johns Hopkins University group.

This removal comes as a matter of necessity, consequent upon the expansion of the work of the department. There will now be four professional assistants to the State Superintendent and some additions to the clerical staff, whereas until the fall of 1916 there was but one assistant to the State Superintendent; and as the old treasury building contained but two rooms, the added duties of the department in the absence of any available office accommodation at the capital, obliged the State Board of Education to look elsewhere. The new offices occupy northern front of the fourth floor of Mc-Coy Hall, comprising four large rooms that afford several times as much floor space as did the two small rooms at Annapolis.

In view of the accessibility of the new office from all parts of the state, of its suitability for educational work, and its location in a building known for more than a generation as the home of a university of international reputation, it is believed that the department will be able to work both more efficiently and with more dispatch.

evidence when the saloon has been re moved-the experience everywhere is to this effect, and the truth cannot be denied successfully, though some do try to deny the facts.

We should by all means secure "dry" members for the legislature to forestall any movement of the liquor forces to modify the present law. If the interests of the state demand it, this body would justified in making the whole state dry by legislation.

The dry majority should have been much larger in Frederick county. It was expected, and the result was a disappointment to the drys. As it is, the county is dry, and so far so good; we are satisfied, and expect good results when the law goes into effect and saloons are a thing of the past. Emmitsbugr, Md. ALPHA.

Walt Mason Boosts Home Trading.

Walt Mason, the fellow who writes daily poetic stunts that look like prose, had for his inspiration one day this week, the home merchant and the local tax payer, and sang his song very pointedly, as follows: "I do not wish to buy your book, oh. agent at the door; I do not need a shepherd's crook, nor salve to heal a sore. And if I did I'd hie me down along the village street, and buy of men who boost the town, pay taxes, and repeat. I took a ride the other day, in my new paste-board car, and saw, along the right of way, men toiling, near and far. They're building up a thoroughfare in which we take much pride, and soon like streaks of lightning there our motor cars will glide. They're grading down the steeper hills, and bridging creeks and draws; and who is paying up the bills? Who is the Santa Claus? The agent from some parts unknown, the smiling gent like you, never known to cough a bone, to put such projects through. The local business men must bear such burdens on their backs; they pay for bridge and thoroughfare when they dig up their tax. And so when I am needing prunes the merchants of this burg will get my hard-earned picayunes, you bet your lid, my lad. So, to the place from which you came, oh, agent smooth, return ! I do not need your quilting frame, nor patent duplex churn.

A Great Temperance Rally.

On Sunday, Jan. 28, Hon. Wesley L. Jones, United States Senator from Wash-ington, will address a great Temperance Mass Meeting at the Lyric Theatre, Balti-more, at 2.30 in the afternoon.

Senator Jones will bring a story of the benefits of prohibition to a great seaport city like Seattle. He will also tell of the tremendous reversal of sentiment in the cities of the West on the prohibition question as evidenced by the fact that, when the states of Washington, Oregon and Colorado went dry in 1915, Denver, Seattle and Portland gave large wet majorities; but when in 1916, after ten months of prohibition, an effort was made by the wets to weaken the prohibition laws in these three states, all of these cities gave overwhelming majorities for prohibition. Senator Jones is a forceful speaker and comes with all the breeziness of the West and filled with a tremendous enthusiasm for the dry movement. The meeting is for men only. Admission free. -....

An isssue of the one and two dollar greenbacks of Civil War days, discontinued more than thirty years ago, will be put into circulation, probably about February 1, displacing similar United States notes of larger denomination to provide relief from the unprecedented demand for small paper money. If the toy-makers of the United States, who are in annual convention in New York, can put their plans into effect, the Fourth of July will be made a sort of mid-summer Christmas, with Uncle Sam the patron saint, instead of Santa Claus. All agree that the Fourth should continue as a festive occasion. The plan is to substitute for fire crackers and other explosives American-made toys, with plenty of ac-tion and plenty of noise, but harmless. The manufacturers report that the toy industry in this country has expanded 300 per cent. since 1914.

ONE OF THE REPORTS about "after the war" doings, is, that England will try to encourage many of her disabled and invalid soldiers to go to farming. Whoever started that must have been thinking of healthy, able-bodied, men, at least in surely we will stop sending good money this country.

THIS IS NOT a good time to acquire expensive habits, because the times are abnormal, and a rate of living, or expenditure, that can't be kept up, had best not be commenced. We are profiting (those who are) just now, because of the misfortunes of others, and not because of our own merits.

THE COMPULSORY school attendance law of Appeals, as three appeals were taken last week, in Westminster; two of which were by the State, on verdicts of "not the late guilty," and one by counsel on a verdict of "guilty." These appeal cases, however, will only test the soundness of the law, and not its desirability-which is of more importance, perhaps, than whether it is desired by the majority.

while on which to establish peace-a the victor belongs the spoils' applies peace that all of the countries want, but | fully to all the fruits of "organization." are afraid to agree to enter into, for the reasons here stated. The violation of Belgium's peace, was a terrible and with the demand, but congressional world-wide misfortune.

What of Our "Dandy" Regiments?

The dream of a state militia as an effective military force, has been completely exploded by the experience with Mexico. Not only has it been shown that the troops were not in effective fighting trim, but that their equipment was largely missing, and that the average member did not want to give up his employment and go to the border; in fact, was not equipped to go, either by training, physical condition, or otherwise.

The question will arise, therefore, in states maintaining these organizations, as to the propriety of continuing the great expense of building and maintaining armories. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been spent in Maryland, for this purpose, and more was wanted at the last session of the legislature. If the product is not of much value, why continue the plants ?

We have all heard of the "Dandy Reg't," and the beauty of its marching in inaugural parades and other demonstrations; how they were "prize winners" and pride compellers; but, do we not want something more than this for our money ? Have we all along been paying over our tax money for a make-believe i How the "National Guard" has appealed to our patriotism, and how guilty and stingy we have felt, as a state, when we feature about them is, it is funny that have had it shown to us that Maryland was not treating her "soldier boys" as liberally as other states.

Evidently, we are getting a rude shaking up, but other states are getting it too -and the whole world has learned something, too, as to the value of our "paper" army. We will want to get on a much "agriculturists," for "farming" needs better basis than this, very quickly, and after bad, in our own state expenditures, hereafter.

Which Will Control?

The House of Representatives has 435 members. If all are present, a majority, or 218, will be required to "organize." -----Not a Proud Showing.

The war strength of Pennsylvania's militia, as computed under the reorganized army plan, is 28,550 men, while the State actually furnished for service in Texas but 15,098 soldiers, or 52.9 per cent. of its quota. This percentage seems highly discreditable. Not only is it below that of the 48 States as a whole, which was 59.2, but it relegates Pennsylvania to a very ow rank among its fellow Commonwealths. Only nine States did worse, while 38 did better. Washington did best of all, furnishing 98.9 per cent. of its war strength, and Arkansas made the poorest showing with 31.2. Delaware was slow in mobilizing, but stands fourth in friends in the back. Mighty Boost For Prohibition.

There will be no disposition anywhere, and 'there should be least of all in the liquor trade, to minimize the tremendous importance of two events during the present week having direct bearing upon the movement for the prohibition of the manufacture, sale, and use of intoxicating liquors. The first, of course, was the sweeping decision of the Supreme Court of the United States sustaining the Webb-Kenyon law prohibiting the shipment of liquor into States which have already banned the trade. And the second was the adoption by the United States Senate, by the unexpectedly large vote of 55 for to 31 against, of the bill prohibiting the liquor traffic in the District of Columbia. The practical certainty that the House will concur in this action will add another important unit to the "dry" territory, and this without any action on the part of the residents of the District. It is perhaps to be regretted that the amendment to the pending bill providing for a referendum was defeated, whatever may have been the motives of its author, or how well grounded the suspicion that its purpose was obstructive. For some of the strongest advocates of the ultimate banishment of the drink evil are yet to It is apparent, if 218 votes are required be convinced that the passage of prohibi-

Who Wouldn't Be An Editor ?

The editor of a good Michigan weekly takes occasion in a recent issue to tell his readers that there is joy and satisfaction to be found in his job, even if there are people who miscontrue the motives that prompt him to print some of the things he does. This is how he puts it: "One fellow stopped his paper because he 'couldn't stand' the Ledger's 'dry' editorials; and 672 others renewed their subscriptions with expressions of confidence and good will during October and November.

"Another fellow grumbled because the Ledger supported a local man for a county office. The Ledger has always favored home candidates and it probably always will. It befriends its friends. Why shouldn't it ? That's the way we keep our friends-by deserving them.

"Still another fellow howls because we stood by a neighbor when he was in trouble. What are friends good for, if you can't find them when you want them ? And he's going to 'ball us out !' Well! Well! Wonder what that is? Anyhow, it won't be for knifing our

"The church is a good institution, but if the preachers tried to run them every night in the year and lead people to neglect their business, their families and their homes, we would protest against it; and it would be perfectly right.

"Don't believe it, brother. The Ledger isn't 'slamming.' It is simply standing for the right-as we see it-just as we always have done; and just as we always will

"That's the joy and satisfaction of being an editor worth while and being willing to stand up and be 'balled out,' if need be, for principle.

"And those 672 jolly, good people who swelled our heart with kind words and our bank account with hard cash, proved to us that the policy is sound.

Marking Time in Mexico.

The Washington administration is reported as delaying the contemplated withdrawal of General Pershing's force from Mexico in the hope of getting Carranza to sign a protocol on the subject, which he declines to do. It is feared that the withdrawal under present conditions would be viewed as a diplomatic victory for him and would dignify Villa in the eyes of his countrymen. That should be no excuse for keeping our men in Mexico doing nothing. General Perishing was sent into Mexico not productive of evils almost if not quite not been permitted to do that. He and as serious as those which prohibition is intended to combat.

By sustaining the Webb-Kenyon law the Supreme Court has not only put "teeth" in existing State enactments, but it has opened a door for congressional action which is destined to be a mighty boost for the prohibition cause. It has certainly put an end to a whole catalogue of adroit evasions by which prohibitory laws in some of the States were to a great extent nullified. But, far more important even than this, the ruling makes it clear that the commerce clause of the Constitution is so wide in its application that should Congress elect to prohibit altogether shipments of liquor in interstate commerce its action would be sustained by the Supreme Court. The effect of this would be to localize the traffic in liquor wholly in the States which still permit it to exist.

Vast as are the evils growing out of the drink habit, and commendable as are the war. efforts to combat those terrible evils, it is pot the part of prudent statesmanship to ignore the difficulties in the way nor to overlook the possibility that a prohibition in advance of popular consent will breed evils of momentous import. Of course, the answer to this will be that society must prepare to meet new situations as they arise, and this is true. But it is also true that the surest and most permanent progress is not that which is made too hastily. Friends of prohibition have made progress at an amazing pace in recent months. Would it not be the part of prudence for them to ask themselves whether they may not be going too fast, and whether the ground has been sufficiently prepared for the new positions they are so joyfully occupying? Their cause reflects the highest aspirations of civilization, and their ultimate success cannot be a matter of serious doubt, but Ledger.

KEEP MORE POULTRY.

Indications Point to a Great Demand For Hatching Eggs Next Spring.

Wise poultrymen in all sections say it is a favorable time to keep more fowls rather than fewer, for, while feeds cost more, the prices of eggs have risen in far greater proportion and the poultrymen's books are showing greater profits than ever before, writes J. W. Keller in the Iowa Homestead. It is an almost criminal mis take at this time to send to market any hen that can reasonably be expected to lay a fair number of eggs during the next few months.

In this connection there is another very interesting and important phase that should not be overlooked. The high price of eggs, attractive profits and great demand for poultry products is going to create great interest in the industry and cause many persons to take up poultry raising next year. This always happens. That means next spring is going to see a tremendous demand for hatching eggs, baby chicks and breeding fowls. As with eggs, a heavy demand for these will mean higher prices. Does that make it seem as though it would pay to keep your flock intact?

When we speak of "keeping" the flock, however, do not understand that we advocate housing and feeding them for months if they are drones or unfit. Maximum profits come from closest and best attention. Every unproductive fowl should be culled from the flock and marketed while the prices are high. Housing should be carefully looked after to insure against profit

DRY PICKING BEST WAY TO DRESS POULTRY

Dry picking and wet picking are the two general methods used in dressing poultry, depending upon whether the birds are for future consumption or immediate use

Successful dry picking depends on the proper sticking of the fowl, says F. E. Fox of the poultry husbandry department of the Kansas State Agricultural college, as the longer the bird is left after sticking the harder the feathers set. Dry picking takes a trifle longer, but if the sale of the fowl is to be delayed for any reason, as by shipment or storing, it should be dry picked.

When the fowls are dry picked they are bled by thrusting a sharp knife through the mouth until the jugular

Have a kettle of boiling water ready, put the cabbage in, add a small pinch of soda, let boil until tender, then take the kettle stand it in the sink and let cold water run over it until you can put your hands into it, then squeeze all the water out of the cabbage, then chop it fine.

Have a frying pan on the stove, put a small tablespoonful of lard in it or drippings (butter, of course, makes it still better). Take a medium-sized onion, cut it up fine and fry till brown. Add a tablespoonful of flour, stir a little, then add the cabbage and thin it with hot water or soup stock (a good cupful is best), salt and pepper to taste. Let it cook up a few minutes, then serve. It is fine with any kind of meat gravy over it.

Bairish Kraut.-Take a good-sized head of cabbage, shave it fine and wash it. Have a large iron kettle or a pan on the stove; put a good tablespoonful of lard in it, then take a medium-sized onion, brown it slightly, add the cabbage and just a little water (a scant half a cup), cover tightly and let it steam until tender. Stir occasionally so it will not burn. Add salt to taste and a few minutes before serving, add a good tablespoonful of vinegar. (Of course if you don't like the sour taste leave the vinegar out.)

SPRAYING PRUNING AND

County Demonstration Agents Co-Operate In Making a Neglected Farm Asset Of Real Value.

College Park, Md., Jan. 11 .- The Agricultural Extension Service, through its orchard specialist, S. B. Shaw, is carrying on an extended series of prchard demonstrations in pruning and spraying in co-operation with county demonstration agents. The arousing of interest in the possibilities for profit in home and commercial orchards during the year past has been an interesting and profitable feature of extension work. In this connection a most interesting report of what can be done under average conditions is reported by County Agent John McGill, Jr., of Allegany. Mr. McGill says, 'Definite work was carried on this year with six orchards. One of these, an orchard of 500 peach trees and 220 apple trees, on limestone soil, was selected as a permanent demonstration, co-operatively with Mr. S. B. Shaw, of the State College of Agriculture. This orchard had been somewhat neglected. A large number of the peach trees had been killed by borerers and many others seriously injured by them. Both peach and apple trees were in much need of pruning. Up to consuming disease as well as increas ing egg production.

Greatest of all, the closest attention should be given to feeding. Give your birds all they need, but do not waste nor underfeed. The greatest production always accompanies the best feeding. Last, but not least, watch the health of your fowls. The adoption of any reasonable method to insure the health of your birds is justified. Husky, healthy, vigorous fowls, unbothered by parasites or disease, can do good work for you and coin golden dollars. Poultry health is more essential than ever before, for healthy fowls digest all their food and consequently require less to get the same amount of nourishment. You can't afford to waste high priced feed on sickly, nonproductive fowls.

Now, if ever, is the golden age at hand for poultrymen. Keep every good fowl you can procure, increase your flock if possible, if you can read the handwriting on the wall and have faith in the poultry industry. The conditions are all present for such a period of prosperity as poultrymen have never known before.

Oats For Chickens.

Pound for pound, oats are not worth as much for chickens as wheat or corn. Fowls do not relish oats as well as those grains. The large amount of hull on the oats is an objection. The hulls are largely indigestible. Minus the hulls oats would be an excellent food for laving or fattening fowls. Oats are not as fattening as corn or wheat, and many poultrymen feed considerable quantities of oats to prevent the hens becoming too fat. Special care should be used in selecting oats to prevent the hens becoming too fat. Special care should be used in selecting oats, as they vary a good deal in quality. Only heavy, plump oats should be fed. The chief value of oats is in furnishing a necessary variety to the ration. This, of course, is true of other foods. Hulled oats, if they could be obtained at a reasonable price, would probably be superior to corn or wheat.

Cottonseed Meal For Hens.

The last annual report of the United States bureau of animal husbandry says very unsatisfactory results have occurred at its poultry station at Beltsville, Md., from feeding cottonseed meal. The Maryland station reports the same thing, and the Pennsylvania department of agriculture has had several reports tending to show that the continued feeding of cottonseed meal will put chickens in very bad shape and will cause death in numbers.

brain is then pierced through the eye. This loosens the nerves that have control over the feathers. After this portion of the brain has been paralyzed the feathers readily yield themselves to the hands of the picker.

There are two general methods of dry picking poultry, the bench method aud the string method. Commercially the bench method is generally preferred. Poultry keeps better if it is not drawn. The head should be neatly wrapped in paper and the feet left intact.

If the fowl is for immediate use it is a trifle quicker to scald it and use the wet method of picking. In this method the "bloom" is spoiled, and the bird will not keep so well. All scalded fowls are immediately drawn. In cold weather one can send the birds almost any distance by parcel post.

Feeding Pigeons.

Many varieties of grains are used in feeding pigeons. A good grain ration may be made from the following: Equal parts by weight of cracked corn (sifted), hard red wheat, Kaffir corn and Canadian peas, with a small quantity, perhaps 10 per cent, of hemp and millet seed added during the molting season. Canadian peas are expensive, but for best results they seem to be indispensable, especially during the breeding season. They seem to take the place of green feed. Other grains which may be added to the ration are peanuts, which are used to some extent to take the place of Canada peas: hulled oats, Egyptian corn, barley, cowpeas and milo maize. In addition to these a small amount of stale bread, rape rice, vetch and sunflower seed may be fed for variety. Lentils are sometimes fed as a tonic to breeding birds during the molting period.

Sterilized Bonemeal For Hens.

Green bone (fresh meat bones cut into shavings by machinery) contains some elements that are egg making but the hen's egg making machinery is capable of getting only little of this element without disturbing her liver to a serious degree even when the bond s free from taint. On the other hand. sterilized bone ground into meal does not offer the same disturbed factors. and its fineness or meal-like size permits not only almost complete digestion of the food elements, but assists in mechanically cleaning the intestinal tract.

Gravel For Grit. A load or two of gravel or gravel and sharp sand mixed dumped in the chicken yard occasionally will solve the grit problem.

Hot Biscuit.

Three cupfuls of flour, two tablespoonfuls of baking powder, threequarters of a teaspoonful of salt, three tablespoonfuls of butter, three-quarters to one cupful of milk. Mix and sift the flour, baking powder and salt together twice; then cut in the butter with a fork until it is in fine bits. Add the milk gradually, just enough to make a soft dough. Do not handle any more than is necessary. Turn out on a floured board and roll to about threequarters of an inch thickness. Cut. then place on a baking sheet and bake in a hot oven from 12 to 15 minutes.

Orange Sauce.

One tablespoonful flour, one-third cupful sugar, one cupful boiling water, one cupful orange juice, one teaspoonful orange rind and one teaspoonful lemon juice. Mix the flour and sugar together thoroughly, then add the boiling water slowly and cook for ten minutes, stirring constantly. Add orange and lemon juices and the orange rind and bring to the boiling point. Serve hot with orange puffs.

Honeycomb Pudding.

Beat two eggs, add one-half cupful sugar, one-half cupful molasses, onehalf cupful milk, in which dissolve onehalf teaspoonful soda, one-half cupful flour. Pour into pudding dish and bake in moderate oven 45 minutes.

Sauce-One cupful sugar, one cupful boiling water, butter size of a small egg, salt, one tablespoonful flour dissolved in three tablespoonfuls water, one-half teaspoonful lemon extract.

Chicken Pie.

Boil chicken until tender. With the water in which it was boiled make a gravy, allowing one-half cupful of flour and two tablespoonfuls butter to every quart of water. Season with salt and pepper, put in baking dish, add chicken from which bones have been removed. Cover with one-half pint cream and pieces of butter, cover with a rich pie crust. Bake in hot oven.

Scallop Stew.

Pour boiling water over one-half pint scallops that have been cut in halves, and let parboil at least five minutes. Drain well, then add to one pint of scalding milk; cook for five minutes, then season to taste with salt and pepper and plenty of good butter. Serve immediately.

Good Margarine and Fresh Butter. A great saving may be effected by mixing equal quantities of good margarine and fresh butter. The mixture tastes quite as well as fresh butter.

are the largest the grower has had yet, although due to frost there was only a fifth crop of peaches. Mr. Shaw and I visited this orchard a number of times and held pruning and spraying demonstrations in it. We found that having no agitator on the spray pump was probably the cause of past failures in spraying. This year the owner reports 98 per cent. protection against brown rot, codling moth and other orchard troubles."

Similar demonstrations will be carried on this year with responsible orchard owners, a special feature being the enrolling of farm boys who are anxious to make the often neglected home orchard a source of profit and a start in business for themselves. Particulars may be had from either the local County Demonstration Agent or by writing to the Extension Service, Maryland State College, College Park, Md.

Will Study Farm Machinery.

College Park, Md., Jan. 11 .-- During the coming week, January 15 to 20, the students enrolled in the winter short courses at the State College of Agriculture will devote their time learning the practical points of improved farm machinery. The study of farm machinery and motors in this course will familiarize the student with the construction and use of various implements and machines required in meet ing modern farm conditions and in solving the labor problem. The gasoline engine and its adaptability to a wide variety of service will be thoroughly demonstrated.

The farm animals should be wellhoused and fed this month. This is one of the coldest and most disagreeable months of the year and animals require careful attention. Butcher the remaining hogs. Corn is too expensive to feed to fattening hogs dur ing the cold weather. Begin to select and mate the flocks that are to produce the eggs for incubation. Too much emphasis cannot be placed or the importance of this work. The character of the future flocks depends upon what is done now.

Treat all young animals for lice Calves, colts and pigs that are dam aged by lice already rarely make pro per development.

Use the Babcock tester this month The cows that are not giving satisfac tory returns should be eliminated from the herd. Feed at this season is too expensive to use with unprofitable ani mals .- From Lessons in Elementary Agriculture, issued by the Maryland State College of Agriculture.

UNION BRIDGE.

Mrs. Sally Pittinger had a metal roof but on her residence on Farquhar Street last week. This leaves very few wooden roofs as spark arrestors on this railroad street, and it would be much safer for the town if they would all disappear. In talking with parties who have been endeavoring to teach respect for the Prohibition law, I have discovered that all law is so carefully made to shield the malefactor that officers can accomplish their work-very slowly, and with of course plenty of censure because of their dilatorto be unwound that I think an officer is sometimes excusable if he balks.

Neal Eyler moved from near McKins-try's last week, to the house of G. P.

Buckey, on Farquhar Street. The members of St. James' Lutheran church, gave their pastor Rev. W. O. Ibach, a surprise donation party, last veek. The affair was well engineered, the family knowing nothing about it until the guests arrived. There were about 50 present. A purse of money, provisions, groceries and other things useful were donated, and a pleasant evening was pent.

There has been but one case of scarlet fever and but one of infantile paralysis in town to date, and people are hoping that there will be no return of either.

there will be no return of either. The epidemic of measles which has been sweeping over town, the past weeks, still shows no sign of abatement. It appears to be making a clean sweep. It is con-fined mostly to the younger children. Two rather recent appearances of it pret-tre well accord up all available moterial ty well cleaned up all available material among the older generations. The poor little tots with their faces speckled with measles are enough to enlist the sym-pathies of the most hardened. We should be thankful that so far there have been no fatalities.

The Union Revival services continued last week in the M. P. church, and commenced Sunday night in the M. E. church where they are expected to continue an-other week. They continue to draw in-terested audiences.

Mrs. George Eichelberger apparently ad a little improvement the past week. Earle Eichelberger has been looking ollegeward for several days, but the Dr. iscourages him from thinking about it et. He had been attending a College at vet. Ann Arbor, Michigan, and came home for the holiday season. Wednesday, Jan. 17, the cold wave is still with us and the icy pavements are keeping some of us at home. Mrs. Felix Gunther, Jr., received a telegram last week that her mother, Mrs. Gardiner, of Newcastle, Pa., was ill and requesting her to come home. She responded and will remain for a time with her parents and assist in caring for her mother.

Corn has been coming in in consider-able quantities during last and this week.

JOHN T. FOGLE.

John T. Fogle, died January 13, 1917, from a stroke of paralysis, in his 64th. year. Mr. Fogle was found dead by his wife, and his sister, Mrs. B. S. Miller, about 6 o'clock, Saturday evening, in the basement of the Lutheran church, where he had gone to fix the fire in the furnace. He was the sexton of the church, and had cleaned the snow from the pavement, be-ing last seen near 5 o'clock. It is thought that he must have been dead nearly an hour when found. He had apparently been in good health. Mr. Fogle was a shoemaker by trade, in addition to being sexton, and was a good workman in both capacities. He will be greatly missed, not only by his family, but by a large circle of friends. He was a member of the P. O. S. of A., and Knights of Pythias, both of which assist-ed in the services at the grave, Wednesday morning, in the Reformed cemetery, the church service being by his pastor, Rev. L. B. Hafer.

He is survived by his wife (second marriage) and one daughter, Mrs. Charles G. Boyd. Also two brothers Manasseh Fogle, of Baltimore, and David R. Fogle, of Tan-eytown, and one sister, Mrs. Burgess S. Miller, of Taneytown.

MRS. ALICE NELSON

Died Jan. 10, 1917, in Taneytown, aged years and 6 days.

A loving mother from us has gone, A voice we loved is still; A place is vacant in our home, Which never can be filled.

Day by day we saw her fade And slowiy sink away; Yet in our hearts we often prayed, That she might longer stay.

-0-0-0-BLUE RIDGE COLLEGE.

Bible Term is in full sway; large attendance, splendid interest, and excellent instruction. Elder Frank Crumpacker, a returned missionary from China, has brought us much encouragement, inspiration, and the desire to do more work for the Master. His lectures were so prac-tical and touching. He left, Wednesday evening, for Elizabethtown College. The evangelistic services each evening are conducted by Rev. B. F. Waltz, of Western Pennsylvania; Dr. John Flory, of Bridge-water College, and J. E. Miller from Elgin, Ill., will be with us Thursday. If you have had a peep into our College Library during the past few days, you could have seen the students busy recata-loguing the books. This means quite an improvement and facility in using our library.

----Earned $68,000 in a Year.

When the schooner Frances M. docked in Philadelphia, Tuesday morning from Buenos Aires she had earned her owners $68,000 in less than a year. Only a year ago this vessel was offered for sale at $35,000, but there were no buyers at that price. The vessel is now valued at about $75,000, according to the present tonnage market. This vessel is another instance of the remarkable increase in value of floating property during the last year. Of the $68,000 which she earned, about a year ago they would now have been out the $50,000 which she earned and the increased value of the vessel, which amounts to $40,000.

What the Velie shows at the shows

You will have an exceptional opportunity to compare Velie values at the automobile show to be held in Baltimore, Jan. 23rd to 27th.

Judge from quality only, What better can you find at any price than the powerful Velie continental motor; Timken axles, front and rear; long, under-slung springs; multiple dry disc clutch; Reamy automatic ignition; enclosed wiring; vacuum feed; push button starter; everything in and on ?

What could be finer than the new streamline body-longer, roomier, with genuine deep tufted leather and real curled hair upholstery.

Such features are found only in a car built up to long maintained standard, and not down to a price.

Built by an organization with half a century's manufacturing experience, and a mile of Velie factory-such facts are worth considering.

BETTERMENT WORK

Doing This Job Only Once a Day, It Is Said, Saves Time.

"The careful housekeeper will always resent the suggestion that once a day is often enough to wash dishes," writes Dr. H. Barnard in "Table Talk" in the National Food Magazine. "She cannot train herself to allow soiled plates and Actively Aid Welfare Plans of silverware to stack up from one meal to the next, for she has been taught that such actions are evidence of shiftless, slovenly housekeeping. As a matter of fact, along with many other no tions which are fixed in the operation of the home, both time and energy are saved by cutting out two of the three daily dishwashing jobs.

PHILANTHROPY NOT INTENT. Dr. Barnard goes on to recite the experience of one housekeeper who actually dared study the homely work of dishwashing. One week she washed Comfort and Contentment of the dishes three times a day; the next week Workers Considered Paramount. she washed each day's dishes altogether. She used the same number of dishes each day in both weeks. GET TOGETHER FOR PERMANENT PROSPERITY.

Every man and woman engaged in American factories, mills and mines, whether they know English or speak it, are naturalized or intend to become citizens, have a direct interest in maintaining industrial prosperity. When times are good, all workers should not only be thrifty in habit and lay up a little something for possible rainy days, but they should do all they can to keep the good times with us. Simply because your language is different from that of the foreman, overseer, superintendent, manager or owner of the plant in which you earn a living, is no excuse for misunderstanding your own common interest in prosperity by hating your partner in your own industry or listening to and following the gospel of dissension and violence which selfish agitators so often preach. Do not blindly follow the man who tells you how hard your lot is. Often he is doing so untruthfully and for the purpose of getting you to contribute membership money for his own support in idleness. Agitators get rich by preying on the men in American industry, whom they urge into unlawful or harmful acts by misrepresenting conditions or holding out foolish and false promises of better things if they follow their orders. You know conditions yourself, and you know or ought to know that the man or men whom the agitator who pictures your employer as on inhuman driving machine is actually a partner with you, interested in having the plant or industry successful. The more successful your plant or industry becomes, the more room for you to grow with it there will be. It should be your feeling, then, that you will not do as little as you may find it convenient to do, but to do just as much as you possibly can do, and then reasonably expect to share in the rewards that always come to the efficient worker. Do not be a clock watcher in the factory. Those who wait for hours to strike or whistles to blow and "soldier" at the bench, machine or in the office, never get ahead in the ranks of industry. They never get any more pay because they are not worth any more, and often are worth less than they get. Remember the old adage that a man who never does any more or as much as he gets paid for, never gets paid for any more than he does.---Industrial Conservation, N. Y.

Business is being permitted to speak for itself, and a movement has been instituted by the leading business men of the country under the title of the National Industrial Conservation Movement for the purpose of repairing the damage that has been done. Nothing revolutionary is contemplated. The plan is simply to educate the public by taking it into the business man's confidence. Meetings will be held in various trade and industrial centers. All classes of citizens will be invited. The purpose of these meetings is to give the public a new and correct viewpoint as to the effects of drastic legislation and restriction of business on the prosperity of the country. Every effort will be made to give the public a clear view of the problems and difficulties which beset business. Special favors are not sought through Commercial and other civic organizations and the local press are already showing great interest in this movement, and it is reasonable to believe that much good will come from it .-Industrial Conservation, N. Y.

Common Capitalists.

Every man or woman who possesses a dollar or owns a set of tools is a capitalist. People generally make the mistake of thinking that the only form of capital in existence is the national currency-the dollar, franc, ruble, mark, lire or pound sterling. Yet everybody knows that many a successful business man's only original capital was brains, knowledge, ability, determination or ingenuity. It would be well for more people to recognize this truism before abetting, either by action or attitude, ceaseless efforts on the part of some political or other self seekers, to hobble business men and industrial development. Such is the spirit of industrial patriotism which is needed in America .- Industrial Conservation, New York.

plants by over 75 per cent per annum through a progressive safety campaign. The Pennsylvania Railroad in ten months decreased the serious injuries of its 33,242 shop employees over 63 per cent by the installation of safety devices and by the constant instruction of the workmen in exercising due caution. As a result of its safety campaign the United States Steel Corporation reduced serious and fatal accidents in its various plants by 46 per cent since 1906. Each year 2,300 of the men employed by the corporation escape who would have been injured under the previous conditions.

During a lull in the fighting in Hans Schrieber, who had been called to the colors from his father's farm in Westphalia, had marched away as morning ordered before the colonel of his regiment.

has been reported to me that you have been caught fraternizing with a private soldier in your company. Possibly you may not know the customs of the army in this respect. In the army there can be no familiarity whatever between an officer and a soldier. This war has necessitated the promotion of many men from the ranks, which is contrary to the spirit of the military forces, and doubtless there are officers who do not realize the great gulf that lies between them and their former companions. I have sent for you to warn you that if you are again caught conversing familiarly with Fritz Oelrich you will be court martialed, and the punishment will be severe.

"But, colonel," the captain protested, "Private Oelrich is from the same locality as I. He is very young and requires a friend to cheer him, to prevent his falling a victim to homesickness, which will impair the value of any soldier. I feel it to be my duty"-

"Your duty is to obey orders. Go, and do not again let me hear any more of this breach of military discipline."

The colonel turned away from Captain Schrieber, who saluted and went back to his command. The very next day the Germans made a drive in which the captain again distinguished himself. One of the field officers of his regiment was killed, and his colonel was about to recommend him for promotion to be major when it was reported that young Oelrich had been slightly wounded and the captain, forgetting that his position was at the head of his company, had carried the private to the rear in his arms.

The colonel, as he considered this act of gallantry on the one hand and dereliction of duty on the other, knit his brows. Had it not been for the necessity of supplying the gaps constantly occurring among the officers he would have made short work of Captain Schrieber, notwithstanding his efficiency as a leader. As it was, he felt compelled to recommend his subordinate for promotion. Indeed, he knew of no other man that he could put in the bling about his head. If Oelrich had but'enough of the qualities of a soldier to promote him to the lowest rank of officer there would be no danger. There was no military law to prevent a general from hobnobbing with a lieutenant, but there was a very stringent law against his having anything of a social nature with a private. When men have confidence in a leader they are anxious that that leader should continue to command them. General Schrieber's troops were fearful that his partiality for young Oelrich would end in his being degraded and they obliged to accept another untried commander.

Their fears were not groundless. One day General Wenz, commanding one Flanders, when the Germans were of the brigades, went to General making their onslaught upon the allies, Schrieber's headquarters-they were at the time in a farmhouse-for the purpose of arranging with him certain features of an attack that was to be a private and had through the killing made upon the enemy. He found off of officers and his own bravery Schrieber bending over his orderly, been promoted to be captain, was one who was lying on a bed in an adjoining room in a high fever. The visitor called Schrieber out for consultation, "Captain," said his commander, "it but found it impossible to secure his attention.

Schrieber, "that my brigade and yours are to advance upon the enemy as soon as the artillery has demolished their defenses."

"What enemy?" asked Schrieber. "What enemy? Why, the French, of course. There's no other enemy in our front. The British are far north of us."

"Oh!" was the only reply. A groan from the rear room carried the general there. When he returned he said:

"Please excuse me, general. My orderly is very ill. He comes from the same region as I, and we came to the war together, both in the ranks. I feel it obligatory on me to take especial care of him."

"Certainly. The orders are that we shall advance under a curtain of fire"-Another groan. General Schrieber The visitor arose impatiently. "I perceive, general," he said, "that your mind is centered upon your orderly, and the army must wait till the orderly recovers.

the man who said it clanked out of the

The next morning the two brigades were drawn up in mass and at a given signal advanced to capture a French position that had been pounded by the German heavy guns. The attacking force became confused and were driven back.

"General," said Wenz savagely, "this from the base of the pile. comes of my being unable to get your attention yesterday when I called to talk over this attack. Your mind was on a single private soldier instead of on the welfare of the fatherland."

"Let us try again," Schrieber replied. And, moving out to the front of the line, he seized a standard from a color bearer and led a charge that was not only successful, but was maintained. Soon after this fight Schrieber received an order from the general commanding the division to send Private Oelrich back to his regiment. It was to the recipient that General Wenz had reported the failure of his effort to secure his colleague's attention when he had called to arrange the details of the coming attack and the cause. Had not Schrieber by his galcharge he would not have got off so lightly Nothing was heard of the stumbling block in the way of General Schrieber's efficiency till the Germans began their attempt to reduce Verdun. Then after one of the terrible and unsuccessful charges in mass made on the French works the general was seen by his division commander leaning over Private Oelrich, who was lying on the ground in a pool of his own blood. "General Schrieber, what are you doing here? Your brigade is forming with others to make another attack. We are expected to take the position if we have to try a hundred times." There was no response except a moan. The man addressed quite likely did not know that he was addressed. The other was about to pour forth some stinging rebuke when he saw Schrieber fall lifeless across the body before him. He had been struck by the fragment of a shell. When the Red Cross workers went over the battlefield they took up the bodies of General Schrieber and Private Oelrich together and carried them to the rear. Their identification tags were examined, and it was found that they hailed from the same place in Westphalia. Their bodies were sent home addressed to the same person, an old farmer, the father of General Schrieber. last honors to the dead. Some troops in the neighborhood were detailed to carry the general's body to the grave and fire the customary salute over it. Old Schrieber took the commander of the escort aside and told him that Fritz was to be buried with the general and it would please the family if his body could go on the same gun carriage. The officer said no, but where the old man whispered a few words in his ear he consented.

No Product Of Equal Value Is So Much Neglected.

MANURE HAS A MONEY VALUE

Every Step Should Be Made To Preserve All Manure Made On Farm.

College Park, Dec. 7 .- At this season of the year the attention of the farmer should be called to the importance of the conservation of manure. In one of the correspondence lessons written by Dr. H. J. Patter-"I understand, general," he said to son, Director, Experiment Station, the following advice is given concerning the case of manure:

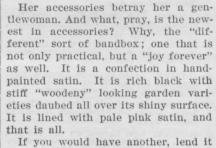

> Even though manure is regarded highly by all farmers in sections where fertilizers are needed, nevertheless there is probably no product of equal value which is so much neglected and so poorly cared for.

The first great source of loss is through the incomplete absorption of the urine. It is not infrequent that no attempt is made to save this portion of the manure. When it is remembered that the urine is richer in both nitrogen and potash than the dung, and that they are more available to crops in the urine than in the dung, heard it and did not hear the speaker. it should be self-evident to all that it is highly essential that this part of the manure be carefully saved.

The second greatest source of waste of manure is the loss incurred by leach-This was said with bitter tone, and ing. If manure is piled against the side of the stable where the water from the roof can drip on it, or if it is piled on the hillside or other exposed places, the rain water in leaching BANDBOX MUST BE CORRECT through the manure washes out of it much nitrogen and potash, which is seen in the dark brown liquid oozing

The third common source of loss is that incurred by heating and fermenting. When manure is thrown in piles, it soon heats and throws off more or less vapor and gas. This heating is caused by fermenting or breaking painted satin. It is rich black with down of the materials composing the manure. The fermentation is caused by the action of bacteria or low orders of microscopic plants. The bacteria which produces the most rapid fermen- to the sports hat. A certain amount of moisture is necessary for fermentation, but if the material, stitch it here and there with lantry accomplished the object of the manure is wet, fermentation is checked the wool, and you have another "joy." because it lowers the temperature and excludes part of the supply of air. The fermentation which takes place background of satin arrange "cutin manure breaks down the organic outs" of silver cloth in conventionmatters and causes a loss of humus, and also of nitrogen through the ammonium compounds which are volatilized. place of the officer who had been killed in whom he would have confidence.

The necessities of the service and not a yielding to any tenderness he might feel induced the colonel to ignore the report of Schrieber's having carried Fritz Oelrich off the field and to give him a higher command than a single company.

"Captain," he said to Schrieber, "Major Heckler having been killed, you will assume his position and the command of the companies that were intrusted to his care. I shall only add that the higher the rank of an officer the more incumbent it is upon him to remember the gap between him and the men of the ranks whom he commands. The discipline of the army is of the highest order. This cannot be attained or kept up except by the officers being absolute masters of the men."

Captain-now Major-Schrieber saluted, but said nothing and again left his commander without that punish. ment which he knew except for necessity would have been meted out to him.

A combination of bravery and tenderness has always captivated the world. Major Schrieber the moment a fight opened was a lion; the moment it ended he became a lamb. He went about with the Red Cross workers succoring the wounded and was never known to prefer the case of a German to a Frenchman. It was this that led his comrade officers into a tacit unacknowl edged agreement to turn the other way whenever the major's sympathetic nature overcame his sense of duty and he went beyond the limits in expressing that sympathy to a common soldier.

In the case of Fritz Oelrich he nev er offended openly. Toward Fritz, when others were there to see, he maintained an unapproachable dignity. But unfortunately he had been surprised speaking earnestly to the boy, and on one occasion had taken Fritz's hand in his while speaking words of encourage ment and comfort. He did not know how often he had been seen in such position, for those who saw him kept the secret.

There was fighting all this time, and Schrieber's efficiency as a leader was constantly being demonstrated. On a reorganization of a certain force that count of the high military rank of Genhad been very much depleted he was made colonel of a regiment. Another fight took the general of his brigade, and Colonel Schrieber was put in his place.

When those officers and soldiers who understood their general's weakness heard that he had made Fritz Oelrich, who was still a private, his orderly there was a feeling of dread among them. They feared that Schrieber's affection for the boy might place him

The funeral cortege attracted more than usual attention, not only on acéral Schrieber, but because the secret of his attachment to his comrade was known to many of his fellow citizens who lined the route over which it passed, some of them shedding tears.

The two bodies were lowered into the same grave, and a volley was fired over them, and the mourners dispersed In due time a headstone was placed over them, on which was inscribed, "In Memory of Carl Schrieber and Gretchen, His Wife."

Care Of Manure.

The first step to be taken in the care of manure, so as to prevent the losses mentioned above, is to provide sufficient bedding or litter in the stable | ings. to absorb and save all the liquor parts. The losses due to fermentation can be greatly checked by mixing horse manure with the colder cow manure; blues are the shades-a woman may by making the piles compact as to exclude the air; and by moistening the pile so as to assist in excluding the air use of chemicals or mechanical absorbents, such as peat, kainit, phosphate rock, etc., in the stable and sprinkled over the manure, assists in preserving Losses from washing or leaching by rain may be prevented by piling under cover or in favorable basin-like places, or still better, by hauling it directly to the field and spreading it as soon as it is produced.

Application Of Manure.

In order to reduce the loss in manure to a minimum, and also to economize in handling it, the general aim and practice should be to haul it directly from the stable to the field and spread it at once. On the average farm the following of this practice all through the year would result in less loss than any method that could be pursued. The use of rotted manure rather than fresh manure is desirable in connection with many market garden or vegetable crops, as it gives quicker results and with root crops will give a smoother and nicer product.

Good in Reading.

An antagonistic influence to reading exists in some quarters in the curiously mistaken idea that it hinders the development of individuality, making copiers instead of originators. Any knowledge of the history of great men and women proves the absolute falsity of this; moreover, the conscious desire to be original which such an attitude on the part of grown-ups leads to in children is very bad. One never heard of great men being preoccupied with the endeavor to be original. Observation, again, is increased rather than the reverse by the habit of reading. Those children into whose lives books other than as enforced lessons never enter are as a rule singularly unobservant --- proof that the brain must be behind the eyes in observation, just as it must be behind the hand in technical work.

they seldom walked or rode two or more abreast, but followed one another in single file. It has been thought by some that this practile resulted from the lack of roads, which compelled them to make their way through woods and around rocks by narrow paths. If this were the real reason for the practice, then we should expect to find that the tribes who lived in open countries travelel in company, as do whites. The true reason for journeying as the Indians did in single fil seems to be a feeling of caste. This feeling was at the bottom of other customs of the Indians. It made thei: women slaves and rendered the men silent and unsocial. This peculiarity is Asiatic. How it has warped an! disfigured Hindu life is well known. The worden of a Chinese household are seldom seen in the street. The children, when accompanying their father, follow him at a respectful distance, in single file and in the order of their ages.

SCHOOL SUNDAY

Lesson IV .- First Quarter, For Jan. 28, 1917.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, John ii, 13-22. Memory Verses, 15, 16-Golden Text, Matt. xxi, 13-Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

As in our last lesson, our thoughts were carried back to Jacob's dream and that which it pointed onward to, so in this marriage at Cana, where He wrought His first miracle and manifested forth His glory (chapter ii, 11), we are taken back to the first marriage in Eden and onward to the marriage of the Lamb (Rev. xix, 6-9), after which will come the kingdom, when He will drink again the fruit of the vine and others shall eat and drink at His table in His kingdom (Luke xxii, 18, 30). If these earthen vessels of ours, these mortal bodies, were as full of the water of the word as the vessels at the marriage were full of literal water up to the brim, He could easily change the water to wine and we would be filled with the Spirit and with joy and peace in believing, and perhaps be counted drunken, as the disciples were at Pentecost (II Cor. iv. 7; Col. iii, 16; Rom. xv, 13; Acts, ii, 13-15). As this marriage was at Cana and that was Nathaniel's home (ii, 1; xxi, 2), if it is of interest to you to think of this as being the marriage of Nathaniel you are at liberty to do so until you can see him and ask him about it.

But it is the Lord Jesus and not Nathaniel in whom we are especially interested. Let us not forget Mary's word to the servants, "Whatsoever He saith unto you, do it" (verse 5). After a brief stay of a few days at Capernaum with His mother and His brethren and His disciples, we next find Him at Jerusalem at Passover time (verses 12, 13). We think of the first Passover to which He went with His mother and Joseph when He was twelve years old, and when, after three days' search for Him they found Him in the temple, and when they asked Him why He had so dealt with them He replied, "Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business?" or, as in the revised version, "in my Father's house" (Luke ii, 42-51). We now find Him again in the temple and again He calls it "My Father's house" (verses 13-17). In verses 18-22 He speaks of His own body as the Temple, for both the tabernacle and the temple were typical of Him as the true tabernacle and temple, in whom God dwelt (Heb. viii, 2). When God gave Moses instructions to build the tabernacle in the wilderness He said, "Let them make me a sanctuary that I may dwell among them" (Ex. xxv, 8).

The temple was for the same purpose that God might dwell in the midst of His people-Israel; an house for the name of the Lord God of Israel that all the people of the earth might know that the Lord is God and that there body prepared in the womb of Mary was for the same purpose, as it is written, "A body hast thou prepared me" (Heb. x, 5). As we had it in a recent lesson, "The word was made flesh," "God manifest in the flesh" (John i, 14; I Tim. iii, 16). Every redeemed person is now a temple or mansion, in which the Father, Son and Spirit come to dwell (I Cor. vi, 19, 20; John xiv, 17, 23), and all the redeemed are living stones built upon the foundation of Jesus Christ, the chief cornerstone, in whom all the building, fitly framed together, groweth unto an holy temple in the Lord, an habitation of God through the Spirit (Eph. ii, 19-:22; I Pet. ii, 4, 5). The tabernacle and the temple might be desecrated and defiled, and they were; the individual believer also and the whole company of believers called the church may be defiled, but He who was the true tabernacle and temple, was never defiled by a sinful thought or word or act; He was without sin, He knew no sin. He did no sin. He was the Lamb of God without blemish and without spot. Therefore He could as such bear our sins by dying in our stead. "His own self bare our sins in His own body on the tree" (I Pet. ii, 24). It is His own death and resurrection which He refers to in verses 18-22. They asked Him for a sign, and He told them that this would be the sign, just as at a later date He spoke of Jonab's experience as typical of His death and resurrection (Matt. xii, 38 40). In connection with the temple as a type of Himself it is most interest ing and suggestive to note that in the thirty-fourth year after its completion it was desecrated and plundered by the king of Egypt (I Kings, vi, 37, 38; xiv. 25). It was probably in His thirty. fourth year that He was crucified. As to His cleansing the temple, He did it again at the end of His ministry, as recorded in Matt. xxi, 12, 13, when He told them that they had made His house a den of thieves instead of a house of prayer. May He cleanse us from all that hinders and make us as individual believers, all prayer. I like to think of His two dwelling places. heaven and the lowly heart of every penitent sinner (Isa. lvii, 15), and here ls another answer to the question in last week's lesson, "Master, where dwellest thou?" The last two verses of our lesson chapter tell us that He did not believe in all who said they believed in Him. He knoweth them that are His. The word translated "commit unto" in verse 24 is the same word translated "believed" in verse 23. He considers our hearts and sees whether we are real and true or merely professors. Words only amount to nothing (I John ii, 4).

HOW TO ECONOMIZE IN + THE USE OF COAL. * -If the consumer is not getting 4 his money's worth-and proba- + + bly he is not-says the anthra- + + cite bureau of information, the + * fault may be with the stove or * + furnace, the kind of fuel used + or the method of regulation. . Here are some of the don'ts . picked from a pamphlet issued 4 by the bureau: Don't put in too much coal or 4 too little. Don't crowd it above 抗 * + the top of the fire brick lining + + in range, cylinder stove or hot + + air furnace. Fill the fue space + + twice a day in winter weather, + heaping the coal slightly in the + + center.

Don't add small quantities of coal several times a day, with : * attendant shakings; that means * + loss in economy and comfort. + + Shake the grate only twice a + + day before fresh coal is put in, + Shake the grate only twice a 4 * and stop when a bright light * + shows underneath.

Don't leave the feed door 🕂  + open; it cools the heating sur- + + faces. All checking of draft + + should be accomplished by shut- + + ting the ash pit door and open- + ing the check damper in the is stovepipe.

Don't neglect the furnace in 4 mild weather. See that the coal * * is properly consumed and not * + shaken through the grate to pass + out with the ashes. Keep the * ash pit empty. Don't let the 💀 🕂 ashes bank up under the grate; 🕂 * it not only shuts out air needed * + for combustion, but tends to + warp the grate bars. Remove 🕂 + the ashes regularly once a day, + 🕂 even if only a small amount has 🛟 🕈 fallen.

Don't use the wrong size of + coal. Ordinary domestic ranges 🛟 -----require "chestnut;" larger sizes 🕂 🕂 can use "stove" coal, but "chest- 🕂 🕂 nut" will give satisfaction. Fair- 🛧 + ly large steam and hot water boil- + + ers are best operated with "egg + 💠 size" anthracite; larger sizes use 🕂 ------"stove" alone or mixed with + "chestnut." Hot air furnaces of 💠 * all sizes generally in use should * * be fed with "egg."

If the right size and quality * + * of coal is used no ash sifter is *. * required. The coal should burn * to a fine ash, and its first trip 🔸 + through the stove or furnace should be its last. Clinkers are 💠 usually a sign of improper use of 🔸 + the poker or improper regulation + of drafts. Too hot a fire pro----duces clinkers.

Dry air is a poor conductor of 🔸 heat and is also bad for the + health. Keep the air in the + + house reasonably moist. This + 4 can be done by placing an open 🔸 vessel of water on or near each 🔸 radiator. All hot air furnaces 🕂 and modern base burner stoves + + have receptacles for this pur- + pose. They should be refilled + -1-* every time the fire is replen- * + ished.

"Sovereign" King Or Them All

Well, way back in 1901, after I had been in this bright, happy world for several days, I began to get worried like. I didn't have any name.

Folks were calling me "it" and "the new one" and "whatdya-call-it." I didn't like it a bit. Then one day I heard the Big Chief telephoning all his department heads to meet in his office.

Pretty soon they all came filing in. Tall chaps, short chaps, fat chaps and skinny chaps. "Now that he is here," said the Big Chief, "what will you name him?"

My! how they wrangled and wrangled them argue whether He'd be called Jack or John or Jim before. Finally, one fellow spoke up and said:

"Why not call him 'SOVEREIGN'? His mother was a Virginian, his father an aristocrat of the Carolinas. He comes from the very best stock. He comes from the very sweetest, ripest, mellowest Virginia and Carolina tobacco. He is being raised right in one of the cleanest, whitest, healthiest homes on earth. He is a Southerner born, a Southerner bred, a Southern gentleman-the king of them all-a real SOVEREIGN.

The Folks of the South KNOW good blood. The Folks of the South KNOW good tobacco.

SOVEREIGN-the best-is none too good a name." So I was named, friend, for I want you as one of my friends. and it means a whole heap when I say-

PIN MONEY.

How a Quaint Explanation of It Became Current.

The term "pin money" dates back to the seventeenth century, when the modern pin was invented. After that time the maker was allowed to sell them openly only on Jan. 1 and 2, so that court ladies and fashionable dames alike were compelled to buy a large quantity to last them over the year. So extremely important was this yearly purchase that husbands gave their wives large sums of money for the pins. By and by pins became cheaper and cheaper, and women spent their allowance on other vanities, but the term "pin money" remained in use for all "spending" money.

The expression "salt money" is another such. This dates very far back when the Roman workers in the salt mines were paid in salt. The salt they got in return for their labors was called in Latin "salarium," or salt allowance. The word salarium later on was applied to the fees men got for odd jobs. For instance, the Roman noble would say, "For patching my toga I will give the fellow a slight salariuma bit of money to buy salt with." Finally salarium came to mean wages, salary, what it does today. When we say "a man is not worth his salt" we mean that he is not worth his salary or wages.

How to Rid Cats and Dogs of the Pest of Fleas.

Attention has been called to the fact that care must be taken in using tar camphor on dogs to rid them of fleas, not to let them lick their fur before the tar camphor has been brushed off. Tar camphor never should be used on cats, for they naturally lick their fur to keep it smooth, and in this way the camphor will get into the alimentary canal and poison the animal. A valuable cat treated with the camphor had to be killed to put it out of its agony. But in the case of dogs this danger is slight

How to Keep Roses Fresh In the House. Cut flowers, especially roses, will stay fresh longer if they are kept in salt water. To get the best results a small piece of the stem should be cut off each day. The stem should then be slit about half an inch and salt put in the slit. Fresh water should be put in the vase each day. Great care should be taken not to drop water in the roses themselves, as it will turn Them dark.

I am guaranteed by The American Tobacco G. - Buy me. If you don't like me return me to your dealer and get your money back. I have said it. A Southern gentleman is known the world over for keeping his word, and I have given you mine.

Sovereign Cigarettes FOR THE GENTLEMAN OF THE SOUTH "King of Them all"

Keeping Out the Heat.

When the Bedouins of the desert go on a caravan journey in the heat of the summer, they wrap themselves up in their woolen cloaks so as to be fully, but not tightly enveloped. Then they wrap the ends of their kaffiah, or headdress, loosely around their faces, leaving only their eyes and nose exposed. They say that the covering keeps out the heat. Henry Martyn, the first modern missionary to the Moslems, followed their example. When he was traveling through Persia on his way back to the home in England that he never reached, he encountered a temperature of 120 degrees in the shade, so he wrapped himself up in his blanket. The practice of covering up the chin and mouth is most excellent. The sands of the desert reflect like a metal mirror the heat and glare of the blazing sun. Something must be done for protection against the heat under foot as well as the heat over head.

Landmarks to Peace.

Continually the good in nature, called by many names, is trying to influence the mind and to secure control over the body. Often it seems almost personal. It will even speak in words, telling the people off the track that they must beware and find the right way. The wounded understand well enough. Their wounds they can recognize as the records of their disobedience. "My scars are my best possessions," says a woman who has passed through agonies which she knew how to meet and to overcome. "They're my landmarks to peace."--John D. Barry.

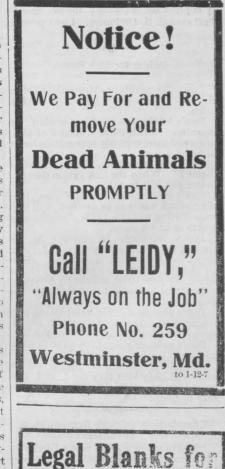

Parrot Is the Best Imitator of Sounds and Only Feathered Creature Taking Food in Claws.

It appears that it is not only in imitating human speech that the parrot excels most of the birds. It is alone among birds in taking food in its claws. With these two characteristics, remarks a writer in the Washington Evening Star, it makes more or less use of that which distinguishes humanity from the rest of the animal kingdom-the hand and the larynx.

The monkey uses its hands and the elephant its trunk in feeding. Various animals have a habit of pawing their food. Rodents have serviceable toes. Still, the parrot is pre-eminent among birds in this regard. The secretary bird is said to attack reptiles with its claws, and some observers have said that owls make partial use of their remarkably flexible perching toe somewhat more than does a hen in scratching for food. However, there is no other bird which, when presented with a piece of food, will accept it in its claws.

Parrots do not, of course, talk, as the word is used, in their wild state and are not known to be imitative of neighboring sounds, nor to possess the repertory of the mocking bird. It is, therefore, a question whether or not their use of the claws is largely imitative also. The shape of the parrot's beak would indicate that some assistance in eating has always been a part of the bird's characteristics.

Like man, the parrot makes its appearance in the world naked and help-

Commencing Monday, Jan. 29th, we shall have the pleasure of again having the best show that ever played in Taney-town, THE COLUMBIA STOCK COM-

PAN All new plays will be presented this time, and produced with all new scenery; some of the members of the company who were so well liked here last year are still with them, and the new people have trengthened the show so that this year The Columbia Stock Company is even better and stronger than they were last year. Prices will be the same as last year: 15% for children, and 25% for adults, and season tickets now on sale at S. C. Ott's Store, or R. S. McKinney's, are $1.25 for the six nights. By buying these you save money and help a good cause. Remember, The Columbia Stock Company comes but once a year. All new plays will be the rule, selected with great care out of the 29 plays that were presented at Westminster, where the Company is at present. The play that made the greatest hit in Westmin-ster was "THE MAN OF THE HOUR," ster was "THE MAN OF THE HOUR, so that will be the opening play on Mon-day night. Hampstead, Manchester and Greenweek, by the Consolidated Gas and Elec- | burg, at 2 p. m. tric Co., of Baltimore, to bring electric current to these places. The question will depend on the number of subscribers secured. The Hampstead Enterprise, last week, spoke very encouragingly of the prospect, and strongly urged the need of current.

The installation of officers of Taney Lodge, No. 28, I. O. O. F., took place on Friday evening, Jan. 12, when the following members assumed their positions as officers for the term: N. G., Wm. Hawk; V. G., Samuel Wilson; Rec. Sec., C. E. Ridinger; Fin. Sec., U. H. Bowers; Treas, H. L. Baumgardner; W., D. R. Fogle; Con., George Baker; Chap., C. L. Hesson; R. S. to N. G., C. E. Reid; L. S. to N. G., Clarence Reaver; R. S. to V. G., B. Babylon: L. S. to V. G., Ellis Ohler: S. S., Jacob D. Null and Elmer Crebs: I. G., Sherman Gilds: O. G., C. E. Sell. After the installation the members greatly enjoyed the excellent music by the Butheran S. S. Orchestra. Light refreshments were also served.

Don'ts for Sick Room.

Don't dry towels or other articles before the fire. The steam will settle on the bed linen.

Don't let the fire die down toward the morning. When a fire is needed at all, it is needed most urgently between the hours of 3 and 7 a. m.

Don't ask repeatedly, "Are you feeling better?" When the sick person does feel better you will be told.

Don't get obsessed with the idea that the patient wants to be amused, and that your talking will effect this. He probably wants to be let alone. Don't whisper. It conveys to the patient the notion that you are keeping something from him. Don't walk about on tiptoe. Either slippers or houseboots will make your tread sufficiently noiseless.

Don't let a draught come under the

Don't assume a sickly, sympathetic look intended to convey that we must be re-signed to affliction and all the rest of it. Don't mistake weight for warmth when adding to the bed covering. Don't forget that old people cannot make the body heat they need, and that some form of artificial warmth is neces sary to them.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Most Effectual

"I have taken a great many bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and every time it has cured me. I have found it most effectual for a hacking cough and for colds. After taking it a cough and for colds. After taking it a cough always disappears " writes J. R. Moore, Lost Valley, Va. Obtainable everywhere. Advertisement. L. F. MURRAY, Pastor.

----Constipation Causes Bad Skin.

A dull and pimply skin is due to a sluggish bowel movement. Correct this condition and clear your complexion with Dr. King's New Life Pills. > -0.3-0-U. S. Acquires Danish Islands.

The formal ownership of the Danish West Indies passed from Denmark to the United States, on Wednesday. The trans-fer includes the islands of St. Thomas, St. John, St. Croix. and site for a naval base at Charlotte Amalie. The islands have an area of 142 square miles. Den-mark receives $25,000,000 and all American rights of discovery in Greenland. The chief value of the islands to this country is military—or rather, naval. The exact treaty stipulations have not been made public.
