Austria has decided on an extraordinary measure to stave off "imminent bankruptcy," according to the Petit Journal's Geneva correspondent. The correspondent says that a decree is about to be submitted to the Emperor whereby a fourth part of the real and personal property of all the subjects and inhabitants of the empire is to become the property of the state, in exchange for a kind of mortgage bond. This bond, according to the correspondent, the state binds itself to redeem when the financial situa-

All except two had been disposed of, either by amicable adjustment or with pleas of gnilty entered, prior to the convening of court. Both of the remaining cases, had been settled and this left no matters requiring the action of the grand jurors.

Presbyterians are keenly interested in a movement to unite the Northern Presby-terian Church and the Southern Presbyterian Church, which have been separate ecclesiastical bodies since the Civil War. An impetus has been given the movement by the action of the New York Presbytery in adopting an overture to the General Assembly asking for a reunion of the two great branches of the Presbyterian Church. This overture. which asks for the appointment of a committee to confer with representatives of the southern church, will be considered by the General Assembly at its meeting in Dallas, Tex., next May.

W. F. Cover's Warehouse Burned.

The large brick warehouse building, at Keymar, owned by Wm. F. Cover, was totally destroyed by fire this Friday morning, which was discovered about 2 o'clock. The cause of the fire is unknown, but it evidently originated in the basement in a large lot of lumber stored there.

The loss on building and contents was complete, and consisted in part of about 160 bushels clover seed, 1000 bushels wheat, 100 barrels of corn, carload of feed, 2 cars of lumber.

The stock of general merchandise and household furniture of J. Price Robertson, and a lot of general stock usually carried in a warehouse; as well as the Postoffice equipment of Keymar, and the books of accounts of Wm. F. Cover & Son.

The insurance was small and will not cover the loss. The loss on the warehouse property, over the insurance will probably amount to $7000. to $10,000; and on Robertson's stock $1500 to $2000. By a hard fight Mrs. Newman's property, nearby, was saved, as well as other adjoining property. We have not been informed as to the rebuilding of the property, but it is quite probable that this will be done.

Newspapers Advance Price.

The Baltimore daily Sun advances to two-cents a copy, Feb 1. and the Sunday edition of the Sun goes from three-cents to five-cents. All of the one-cent Philadelphia papers take the same step, Jan. 29. So, we are having near-home practical demonstrations that paper and other publishing costs have really advanced beyond the "talked of" point. And, be it understood, these are pay in advance, or at least pay when you get it, prices. None but the poor little weekly paper beggars send out their issues "on time," and are afraid to do otherwise, because a few unreasonable people may "stop their

Most of the dailies would have advanced six months ago, had it not been that they have been getting their paper, under long contracts, at old prices, while the little papers have been paying pre-vailing higher market prices. The fact of the matter is, they have been paying the paper manufacturers an advance big enough for them to make up what they lost on the daily paper contracts; and even today, the dailies are buying their stock at a price fully one-third less than the weekly publishers must pay—and yet, most of them are doubling their selling

SAYS WAR IN EUROPE IS FAMILY AFFAIR

Prof. Heaps Shows Royal Relationships, and Comments on War.

The catyclasm in Europe, which thanks to modern invention, the by-product of Christian Civilization, would better be called a holocaust, is but a family affair after all, in which monarchs are the ones who quarrel, while subjects fight and die, and all to keep crowns on unworthy

Christian IX, of Demark, has righly been called the Father-in-law of Europe; his children who sat upon thrones and ruled empires were The late Frederick VIII of Denmark; Dowager Empress Dagmar of Russia; Queen Mother Alexandria of England; and the late George V of Greece, while two sons of Frederick VIII of Denmark are: Christian X of Denmark and Haakan

VII of Norway. A son of Alexandria of England is the present George V of Greece, and the son of George V of Greece is the reigning Constantine X of Greece. Thus the reigning Kings of Denmark and Norway are brothers; while the present King of England and the King of Greece, and the Czar of all Russia are first cousins, all five being grand-children of the late Christian IX of Denmark.

But to carry the lesson further, Princess Catherine of England, daughter of the late Queen Victoria married the father of Kaiser Wilhelm, and Emperor Wilhelm of Germany is her son; hence the King of England and the Emperor of Germany are first cousins, both being grand-sons of the late Queen Victoria. Again, Princess Sophia, a sister of Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany, is the wife of King Constantine X of Greece, which makes the Emperor of Germany and the King of Greece brothers-in-law. Furthermore, Czar Nicholas of Russia married Princess Alix of England, who is married Princess Alix of England, who is first cousin of both George V, King of England, and Wilhelm II, Emperor of Germany, while Haakan VII, of Norway, married Princess Maud, of England, sister of King George V, of England.

Again, Alphonse XIII, King of Spain, married Princess Ena, of England, a grand-daughter of the late Queen Victoria, who is thus first cousin of George V, King of England. Thus, the King of England.

of England. Thus, the King of England, the Queen of Norway, the Czarina (Queen) of Russia, the Queen of Greece, and the Queen of Spain are all first cousins, all being grand-children of the late Queen Victoria, of England.

With such a family mix-up, with all the petty jealousies incident to such a state of affairs, no wonder Sovereigns quarrel and fools fight. What will the end be?

Pity the poor deluded fools who die in the trenches; pity the cripples—the worse than dead—who return home a burden to their kin; pity the poor widows and orphans left behind to eke out a miser-able existence; pity poor Europe, with the flower of its manhood slain, and pray A. Edmondson.

The outcome should be a United States of Europe, to be followed by a federation of the world.

And this is not impossible though at present it may be unthinkable. It is now an absolute impossibility—it is unthinkable-that Maryland and Pennsylvania should be at war, or that Pennsylvania and any other State of the Union should be at war; but while each was an independent colony war between them was not unthinkable, and at times was highly

Under a world federation it should be as impossible for England and Germany or any other two countries now at war to fight, as it is now impossible for Maryland Penusylvania to settle its disputes by the sword and over the dead bodies of

Based upon the facts stated, the writer thinks that President Wilson and our authorities at Washington have made a blunder by being drawn into the present premature peace proposals, and that he should have remembered Washington's injunction, "avoid entangling alliances." Nothing is ever settled until settled right, and if the European war is settled now with the animus that now pervades the regal mind of reigning sovereigns, it will mean but a truce for greater preparation and later for greater bloodshed. If the present war is fought to a finish until some one is victor it will go down in history as the last and greatest war, but if it is settled prematurely, it will go down in history as a precedent for a greater war and carnage to follow.

In the meantime the motto of America should be "In pace pare bellum." — WM. JAMES HEAPS, Baltimore.

We have the blank at our office, and all those feeling so disposed are at liberty to come in and sign it. This is the form of the petition-

'We the undersigned citizens of Maryland strongly urge the adoption by the United States of a system of Universal Military Training and Service, providing for a reasonable amount of training for young men prior to their 21st year with subsequent liability to service." Trouble in Pennsylvania.

Governor Brumbaug, of Pennsylvania, has not been "getting along" well with the state administration party, the control of which rests with Senator Penrose and his following. In fact, the Governor does not seem to have made good, even with many who have no love for Penrose with many who have no love for Penrose. He seems to have started in well, and with the best of intentions, and there are no doubt many sides to many questions relating to why his administration has met with knocks and criticism.

We do not pretend to know how his course in general has been right, or wrong, nor whether he has been misled, whether he has himself led wrong, nor whether pits have been dug for him designing enemies for the purpose of dis-crediting his administration, and perhaps making it appear more a failure than it really has been. These are all questions deep in the obscure ways and immense problems of Pennsylvania politics; but, the present situation is that the Governor is practically under serious charges, some of which have been threatening for quite a long time.

The most serious has been talk of impeachment, based largely on a charge that he falsified his returns of election expense. We are not fully acquainted with the evidence in detail, but there is a strong intimation from the best of authorities, that he has not, at least, made his innocence in the matter very clear, but has almost Just now, a legislative investigation is being planned which will go into the question of the Governor's incidental expense account, and perhaps lead further. He is said to have spent $15,000 a year more, on this account, than any other Governor of the state.

To some extent these charges are discounted by the fact that he has been fighting the Penrose organization; in other words, there is a suspicion that if he had worked with, instead of against, this organization, there might not now be this investigation; but that is another of the murkey opinions connected with the mix-

----Economy of Milking Machines.

That milking by machinery, compared with hand milking, is less expensive, in general, in herds of more than 15 cows, and more so in smaller herds, is indicated in recent studies made by farm-manage-ment specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture.

One of the important conditions affecting the economy of milking large herds with machines was found to be the elimi-nation of necessary labor. Herds that normally required three men for milking by hand, only two of whom were needed to feed and care for the animal, required only two men to milk by machine. The available labor and the labor requirements are therefore better balanced in the latter case, since the same two men may milk and otherwise care for the herd, the labor of the third milker required under the hand system being dispensed with. This tendency toward economy when machines are used can not result in actual economies in all cases when a small number of cows is milked, since depreciation, fuel consumption, repairs, interest on investment, etc., are responsible for considerable costs which must be charged to the milking expense.

The studies were made in typical intensive dairying regions in Delaware, Chenango and Chautauqua Counties. and among mixed dairying and farming enterprises in Lenawee County, Mich., Fulton County, Ohio, and McHenry Co., Ill. It was found that in herds of 15 cows or less the average time required to milk a cow by hand was a fraction over 7 minutes, and by machine a fraction under minutes. In herds of over 50 cows, how ever, the time required to milk by hand was a fraction under 7 minutes and by machine 4.15 minutes. In milking hand, the average cost per cow in herds of 15 cows or less was $10.91 a year as against $10.45 in herds of 50 or more. When machines were used the cost was $11.77 a year in the smaller herds and $7.34 in herds of 50 or more.

The value of the labor replaced by the milking machines was found to vary from $2.63 per cow in herds of 15 cows or less cows. The addition to the time available for field work due to use of the machines was found to vary from 1.5 to 5.1 hours, according to the size of the herds. Attention is called to the fact that milking machines must be operated by competent aperators and that stripping by hand after the machine is essential if satisfactory results are to be obtained. The majority of the farmers visited during the studies believe that the milking machine has no effect one way or the other on the general welfare of the herd. -U. S. Dept. Agriculture.

The Prisoner Was Easy.

Sheriff Howard J. Hartman, of Adams county, during the early part of his term of office has established a record for successfully apprehending prisoners, which was further increased Sunday, when he took into custody one Robert Gill, a 'squatter,' who several weeks ago took ession of the abandoned buildings on the Kennedy farm, near York Springs, and started to live off the generosity of the residents of that section.

He finally became abusive when gifts failed to keep coming and the sheriff was summoned. Mr. Hartman came upon Gill walking along the road and offered to give him a lift. The man accepted quickly, little guessing the identity of his supposed benefactor. The sheriff drove on in to Gettysburg, a distance of about 12 miles, went right up to the front of the jail and invited Gill in. He walked along and never realized where he was until the door of the jail corridor closed behind him and then he turned to the sheriff with the remark: "Well, you're pretty slick." Sixteen dollars in cash was found sewed in Gill's clothing and some food was also secreted about him. No formal charge has as yet been laid.

PRESIDENT WILSON AMAZES WHOLE WORLD

Proposes World League to Abolish All Future Wars.

President Wilson, in a personal address to the Senate, on Monday, laid down the question of whether the United States shall depart from its traditional policy of isolation, and no entangling alliances, and take part in a world league to preserve peace after the war.

Shattering precedent of more than a century, the President, regarding the Senate with its treaty-making power, as his counselor in foreign affairs, explained why he believed the time had come for the world to know America's position, and discussed the underlying causes on which he believes a permanent peace of the world can be maintained. He asserted that: Only a "peace without victory" can be lasting.

The United States cannot interfere with the terms, but has a duty in its own interest to see that they are a proper basis of permanent peace.

Participation by the United States in a concert of powers to prevent future wars is necessary.

Nations 'with one accord' should apply the Monroe Doctrine to the world by refraining from extending their policies over other peoples.

Freedom of the seas should be assured. 'Moderation'' of armaments should be provided for.

The President's address was considered in Washington one of the most amazing acts of an American statesman in many years. Democratic Senators and Representatives generally approved it, but many Republicans criticized it as too rad-ical or as ill-timed.

Ex-President Roosevelt called the address a grandiloquent proposal made to conceal "pitiful ignominy and shirking." The President's own view of his speech was given in a discussion with a Senator just after he finished his address.

"I have said what everybody has been longing for, but has thought impossible. Now it appears to be possible."

Briefly, the President, in his address, said he believed no peace which was a peace of victory in the present war would be a permanent peace, and that it must be taken for granted that peace "must follow by some definite concert of power which will make it virtually impossible that any such catastrophe should ever overwhelm us again."

"It is inconceivable," he said, "that the people of the United States play no part in that great enterprise. They can-not, in honor, withold the service to which they are to be challenged. That service is nothing less than this: To add their authority and their power to the authority and force of other nations to guarantee peace and justice through the world."

At another point the President said: "No covenant of co-operative peace that does not include the peoples of the New World can suffice to keep the future safe against war." At that point the President went on to say: "If the peace presently to be made is to endure, it must be a peace made secure by the organized major force of mankind." Later he said: "The equality of nations upon which peace must be founded, if it to last, must be an equality of rights.' Then, he said, the end of the war must see, not a balance of power, but a community of power; "not organized rivalries, but an organized common peace."

The reception of the President's address in England was generally unfriendly, or at least was received with skepticism France appears rather more friendly to it, but regards the proposition as visionary, and especially balks at the "peace without victory" statement. The German press gives the speech much space, but comment is generally withheld.

Washington, Jan. 19.—In the face of a threatened Treasury deficit of $350,000-000 the ''pork bar'l'' champions in Congress took the bit between their teeth late today and jammed through the House a $35,000,000 Public Buildings bill by a vote of 234 to 92.

This action was taken despite the fact that both Democrats and Republicans know that the measure has little or no chance in the Senate, and that even if it does pass that body President Wilson introduction to the control of t tends to veto it.

The big vote received by the bill astonished even its champions. This is explained partly by the fact that practically every member of Congress had a public building project in the measure and many of them wanted to get a share of the Representative Chas. P. Coady is the Representative Chas. P. Coady is the only member of the Maryland delegation who voted against the bill. He and Representative "Marse Fred" Talbott also enjoy the distinction of not having a piece of "pork" in the bill. Mr. Coady going so far as to refuse to ask that the $50,000 emergency appropriation for the Baltimore Postoffice be taken care of in the measure. Representatives Linthicum, Price and Mudd voted for the bill. Representatives Talbott and Lewis were not present at the roll call and therefore did not vote. Representative Price intended to vote against the bill, but friends of the Eastern postoffice building, carried in the bill, urged him to support it and he yielded. Mr. Linthicum's interest in the bill was the Baltimore immigration station. The measure carried a provision diverting part of that appropriation for the equipment of the station.

Mr. Mudd's interest in the measure centered around the authorization for the purchase of two postoffice sites at Ellicott City and Laurel. For the first-named, $7,500 was authorized, and for the latter, $5,000 was fixed as the maximum purchase price. Representative Lewis had in the bill a provision for the demolition of the present postoffice at Hagerstown and the erection in its place of a new building to cost

$100,000. The bill was one of the most bitterly assailed measures ever passed through the House. As illustrating some of its weak and inconsistent features, the bill provides that future Congresses shall not authorize a potoffice building for a town where the postal receipts are less than $10,000. Despite this effort to bind future legislation on public buildings, the bill authorizes the construction of 101 postoffice buildings in towns where the postal receipts are under this $10,000 limitation. Treasury Department experts declare it is a costly investment by the Government to erect a postoffice building in towns where the postal receipts are under $20,-000, while the Postoffice Department experts assert the limitation should be at

---Fire Due to Acetylene Gas.

The manor house on Arcadia farm, about three-fourths of a mile west of Princess Anne, was burned Thursday afternoon, last week. Its entire contents were also destroyed. The building was valued at $12,000; the furniture at $4,000. An explosion of acetylene gas in the dining room, due to a leak in the fixture, started to blaze. The explosion occurred when a maid started to light the gas, and almost instantly the entire east side of the building was in flames.

The building was purchased about three weeks ago by John B. Roberts from the Arcadia Farm Co., of which the occupant of the mansion, Leander J. Buckey, was president. The transfer had been completed and Buckey was moving from the dwelling. He intended to make his home in Baltimore. Two moving vans of the Kaufman Storage Co., were taking the furniture away when the fire started. One truck had gotten as far as the county road with a load of furniture and was saved. The other was loaded and standing at the front porch. It could not be moved and was destroyed together with the furniture packed in it. - Salisbury

A Leaf from the Calendar.

Just tearing a leaf from the calendar. What a routine, and simple act, and yet, it means a day, or a month, dismissed from our alloted period of life. The days, months and years, are torn from life's span, almost without thought, always depending, apparently, on the abundance of days, months and years, yet to come, despite the fact that we have no guarantee, even of an hour, in the future.

We merely tear off a leaf, and think little of it. Why do we have so many sudden deaths among us? We call them mysterious dispensations of God, and because they have occurred before, and know they will occur again, we take them as more or less matters of fact, perhaps thankful that we escaped being the victim-and that is about all. Are not these sudden deaths warnings to all to make the very best use of every hour and day of life-of "days of grace" that are ours by gift, and not by right, or claim?

We hail the coming of Spring, glad that the dreary and uncomfortable Winter is over-tear several leaves from the calendar with pleasurable anticipation-forgetting that the fact places us that much nearer the time when only others will remain to tear off the leaves-we will have torn off our last.

0.53-0-A Situation, and a Question.

This is the situation.

The Supreme Court has recently decided that the Webb-Kenyon law, prohibiting the shipment of liquors into states that have barred the liquor trade, is sound and constitutional.

There is a bill pending in the House of from carrying advertisements of liquors into dry territory.

Certain daily newspapers are strongly that it is an unconstitutional interference | the investment. with "the freedom of the press."

This is the question.

Does the "freedom of the press," as a purpose of a law that the Supreme Court has declared constitutional?

to-a paper that has energentically supported the liquor business, as against impossible to strike out unnecessary buildprohibition-recently published an edi- ings, because by so doing the cut-out memtorial which it likely thought so much of ber becomes an opponent of the whole as to issue in circular form to the weekly scheme; so, it is merely a question of all than those on this side of the border. that it would be reproduced and indorsed, which says in part:

"Where prohibition cannot win by open and approved means, the newspapers are to be penalized by such underhand and disingenuous legislation as the proposed bill. It is a wonder that the friends of boomerang effects of such enterprise. There are multitudes of persons who stand for prohibition who do not stand for tapping the tills of the newspapers as punishment to them for failing in all instances to support the prohibition propaganda. There are hundreds of persons who would vote for the cause on merit who will be turned away from it if it adopts the proposed tactics. The measure is condemned in public intelligence because it does not harm the ones against whom it is professedly directed—the brewer; because it assails the freedom of the press, which is the freedom of the people; because it represents tactics that are discreditable; because it is a dangerous innovation, and because it is inspired by general animus against newspapers. Hence the measure should be and is likely to be killed with credit to Congress. Let prohibition win or lose upon mate grounds is the view held by the majority of the people.

This is distinctly aside from the real question. Prohibition has won in the territory which the bill before Congress aims to further protect by prohibiting the circulation of liquor advertisements, the appearance of which could have no other effect than to tempt citizens to try to violate the laws of their state. Should the press be "free" when its tendency is to encourage violation of law? There is no "Prohibition propaganda" to either support or reject, in the dry states. That situation has passed. The time for argument has gone by. The people have settled the question their own way.

By law, this government has declared lotteries to be gambling in its worst form, and has prohibited newspapers from not only carrying their advertisements, but even publishing the result of drawings. In what respect, in principle, does the bill referred to now before Congress, differ either materially, or morally, from the

Aside from any question of prohibitory law, and the old whine for the "freedom they pay for keeping up our "military of the press," does not common respect for the expressed will of state majorities, demand that the press should not stand off and try to undermine, and make a failure, the will of the majority of the people of a state? After all, is it not full time that a crimp be put into this boasted "freedom of the press," when the freedom stands marines-and then again, it might not. for encouragement to violation of law, and practically to opposition to a decision

The Cincinnati Times-Star, in commenting on the Webb-Kenyon decision,

"To the layman the decision of the United States Supreme Court, upholding the Webb-Kenyon law, seems revolutionary. The "original package" and other principles enunciated in decisions through many years, apparently are thrown into the discard and hereafter states will be permitted to erect walls against interstate commerce, so far as the liquor traffic is concerned. State sovereignty in the matter of prohibition has been recognized by our highest legal tribunal. Congress has in effect been permitted to give back to the states a power supposed to have been delegated by the constitution to the central government and therefore subject to modification only through constitutional

There was something to be said for the Webb-Kenyon law, if the legal objections wheat during war times as against about hibition only to find that consumers of alcohol could receive as much as they wished if it but came through channels of interstate commerce. Prohibition thus led to excesses greater than in a period of regulation, because the traffice was in the stronger, and therefore the more portable, liquors. The armor of Federal sanction vas too much for the police power of the state. The laws against the liquor traffic became a broken lance."

These are opinions tersely stated. 'States rights' in the matter, have been granted by our highest court, whether in our own analysis we may care to accept the doctrine or not. Now it is clearly up to Congress, and perhaps the same Court, It would be well for us not to lament to decide whether the press is immune

Public Building "Pork." known as the big "pork" Bill of Congress, has been before the House. The discussion has been largely a repetition of facts pretty widely known, and they are not creditable. In the face of an acknowledged deficiency of about $300,000,-000 facing the U.S. Treasury, which will call for a bond issue, Congress promises to keep on spending millions for unneeded postoffices, and all because the plan is such that the votes can be had to put the measure over. Hardly anybody claims that most of these buildings are actually needed for the improvement of the postal service, and it is equally widely known Representatives prohibiting newspapers that ample buildings can be rented, for usually much less than one-half of the cost of maintenance of even the cheapest of the new buildings, without counting urging the defeat of this bill, alleging the cost of the building or the interest on which no buildings are provided in the dampened handkerchief from their overinpending bill, which contain cities much dulged brows and are looking for business larger than many of those provided for; or its own bottom many of these things but the votes of the members from these are going to be remembered.—Ernest G. this legislation have never thought of the districts are not needed, and they "get SMITH, in Wilkes-Barre Times-Leader.

The way these bills are "put over" is to have a string of Congressmen, comprising a safe working majority, each having constitutional right, extend so far as to one or more building measures in the permit the press to aid in defeating the pool, each of course, striving to strengthen his own political fences in his district, by having a building or two erected in his One of the class of newspapers referred district, as an argument for his return to the House. This means that it is almost press of Maryland-perhaps with the hope standing together, and all getting what They seem to be playing the game fairly. they want.

left" out of the deal-this round. It is charged, too, that in some cases members 'have had their share' and are now opposing others getting theirs, and so the merry game of "pork" goes on.

In the present bill it is claimed that a postoffice must show annual receipts of $10,000 to entitle it to consideration—the amount previously was $6000., and many of the pending bills is for the erection of buildings at such places where the site has already been acquired by the government. One of the places brought out in the discussion, is Susanville, Cal., with a population of 688, postal receipts of $7,-058.08, present rental $600., estimated upkeep $4800 per year. Another specimen is Berkley Springs, W. Va., population 864, postal receipts $6,845.23, present rental $450., estimated upkeep $3,700.

There are dozens of like places where the receipts do not amount to $10,000 but which are nevertheless provided for in the bill. Representative Ashbrook, of Ohio, charged that there were 118 towns of this kind, and named most of them. The entire discussion showed conclusively that the whole affair is a log-rolling scheme by a ring of favorites, and that if all of the towns in the country were given public buildings, on par with the ones already favored, the financial proposition would be so immense as to condemn the feasibility of it.

There are 300 of the propositions included in the present bill, so distributed as to guarantee the passage of all-not distributed according to need, but mathematically. The Treasury department itself says that fully 200 of these are unprofitable for the country. But, there is another Bill, of practically the same character, on the docket-the Rivers and Harbors scheme-and both are asking for about $40,000,000 a year each, notwithstanding the $300,000,000 deficit. The Bill passed the House, as was expected, last Friday, and now goes to the Senate, where it may be stopped. It is also thought that the President has a veto ready for it, even should it get through the Senate in an amended form.

----Taft's Warning To America.

Ex-President Taft has broken his postelection silence to sound a word of warning to America. He emphasizes, in one of his characteristic trade board speeches, that whatever goes up must come down. It's the bump at the end that concerns Mr. Taft and with which he is now trying to concern Americans. He sees a scale of living set by unusually prosperous conditions, which scale, when once fixed as a family habit, is most difficult to revise downward.

To the distinguished speaker's notion there are many heartaches, much industrial confusion, some bitterness and a lot of dissatisfaction ahead in the readjustment of this country to normal world conditions after a general declaration of peace.

Here is the farmer, for instance, who were waived. States would vote for pro- 80 to 90 cents on an average in norma times. His cost of harvesting is practically the same. But when his undue and unsound profits per bushel again give place to those yielding in meeting the grain of other nations now at war, he will feel the shock. Then the case of the American manufacturer. He has come upon years of plenty following lean years. And he, too, has run amuck. Conditions over which he had no control have turned his head. Instead of good old-fashioned business football he has quickly learned the squeezes play and is using his knee on his fallen opponent when the umpire isn't

In point is the example of paper manufacturers. A taste of the peak of prosperity has sent them yelping wildly and showing a suspicious foam at the mouth among their customers. Reason is thrown to the winds. Gouge, grasp, grind, gar-The Public buildings Bill commonly rote and grapple is their motto. Mr. Taft may not have had them in mind in speaking of bumps, but these erstwhile sensible citizens are overripe for an appalling spill. We hear a lot of hot air at election about the "protection" needed by Amer. ican manufacturers. God save the mark ! What they need is protection against their own damfoolishness. Paper-soled shoes shipped for export at three prices, shoddy instead of wool where they thought they could get away with it, newsprint paper wound on a corrugating machine so as to induce all the wastage possible, are indictments against money-mad captains of industry which will need explanation in the more soher moments of normal business. In direct contrast to American methods is the action of Canadian manufacturers. Confronted by labor shortages due to enlistments, targets for heavy taxes and the restraining hand of militaristic control, they have remained on their feet through it all. One of the largest chain store retailers of shoes in this country recently said to this column that owing to the superior quality of Canadian-made shoes at fair prices which he had learned to use during this carnival of price insanity in the United States, he would never again buy an American-made shoe. Many publishers can lend the same sort of testimony as to paper supply. Canadians have had infinitely more reason to have run amuck And later on when some lines of industry There are a large number of districts in | in the United States are unwinding the

German Sea Raids.

We have been asked what we think of Germany's activity on the seas, in sinking merchant vessels of the enemy. It is our opinion that nearly everything is fair in war, horrible though it may be, and as Germany is fighting to prevent her own starvation, as well as to shut off supplies from the enemy, we see no other opinion save that of justification. However, neither Germany, nor any other nation has a moral right to violate neutral country rights, nor rules of warfare established by treaty of Nations; and among these are, that merchant vessels must not be sunk without warning, and there are other regulations relating to taking prizes on the sea that should be observed.

Our opinion is that these regulations are designed largely to the end of saving the lives of captive crews, and also the lives of passengers of other Nationalities on board prize vessels. If Germany observes these international regulations—as all signatory nations must do, to be honorable—there can be no question that she is within her rightful privileges in playing havoc with enemy commerce.

As to submarine warfare, it is probable that these treaty regulations may not definitely apply, except by natural inference, as this class of warfare is comparatively new. We should say, however, that the end and effect, rather than the means used, is the material point at issue, and that a submarine, because of its class, is entitled to no more liberties than a war vessel of the regulation type.

The use of the flags of other nations, disguises, and expedients of this class, are no doubt specifically covered by the laws referred to, and should be observed. If Germany sinks vessels without warning, and without giving crews ample time to escape, or without towing them into some port when possible, then her practices are wrong and inhuman, irrespective of the greatness of her necessities. ---

-63-The Women Will Govern.

Women will conduct the government of Umatilla, Ore., for the next two years. About 48 hours before election a group of them decided to run for the town offices, and as women outnumber the men, contrary to the Eastern theory that women are in a decided minority in Western communities, the women's ticket was successful.

Umatilla is not a large place. At least it does not appear in lists showing the statistics of the incorporated towns with a population of 5,000 and over. At the same time it is large enough for the management of its affairs by men to have caused dissatisfaction to the women, and it is their purpose to have a reform administration.

The new mayor even refuses to appoint any man to a subordinate office. Her husband, for example, would like to be town marshal, but she says no, and announces that she expects the town to be so orderly that it will need no marshal. The salary of such officer, she thinks, can be used to better advantage.

SILAGE FOR SHEEP.

When Sound and Free From Mold It Furnishes an Excellent Roughage. The common impression has been that silage cannot be safely fed to Within the past few years the Oxford Down breed of sheep has Oxford Down breed of sheep has made steady progress and is in ever increasing demand. This breed needs little recommendation to practical farmers. The rams at two years of age often weigh 300 pounds. They also produce a good fleece. Their hardiness and good feeding such is the reasons for the qualities are other reasons for the Oxford's popularity. The lambs grow rapidly and will eat grain when two weeks old. The illustration shows an Oxford wether.

been injured by silage, says the Kansas Farmer. In nearly every instance, however, it has been found to be due to the carelessness of the feeder in permitting the sheep to have access to partially spoiled silage. Sheep are very susceptible to moldy or spoiled feed of any kind, and in feeding silage to them only that of good quality should be used.

Silage has been found to be a most profitable feed for sheep by some of the largest sheep feeders in Kansas. A. L. Stockwell of Pawnee county has several large silos and for some years has been feeding silage to sheep. He ships in lambs by the thousand and finishes them by using silage and alfalfa as the roughage ration. The experiment station has likewise found that silage can be fed with safety provided the feeder is careful to sort out any moldy silage that may be found.

Frank McRoberts, one of the most successful lamb feeders in Missouri, in speaking of his feeding operations at the sheep feeders' meeting in that state said that he had fed silage in connection with corn, cottonseed meal and some hay for four years and had found it most profitable. He learned that lambs do not begin to eat silage unless rather hungry. It seems to be necessary for them to acquire a taste for it. He has found it much easier to start them in by giving a small amount when they first arrive at the feed lot, gradually increasing it until they are getting and a half after turning them to the feed troughs. He called attention to the fact that when a spot of mold was found in the silage he always took special pains to sort this out. This feeder has had excellent results from the following daily ration: Corn, one and onequarter pounds; silage, two pounds; cottonseed meal, one-quarter pound, and all the hay the lambs would eat, this usually amounting to a quarter to a half pound daily per lamb.

Tankage For Fattening Hogs.

Hogs in the cornfield or on a full feed of corn should have tankage or linseed oil meal to balance the ration. In "hogging down" corn hogs should have access to tankage in a self feeder. In this way they balance their own ration and save the labor of husking the corn and the feeding of the tankage by hand. Even when fed by hand hogs should have a supplement of tankage or oil meal in order to stimulate the secretions and digestion and build framework and muscle as well as make fat. Tankage or oilmeal may be fed in a slop or dry in a trough. Either way is satisfactory. About one part of tankage to ten parts of corn will make a balanced ration, while one part of linseed oil meal to every six parts of corn will balance a ration. Young pigs and shoats need more protein than older hogs. As the hog grows older and fatter the protein supplement may be decreased somewhat and good results secured .- S. T. Simpson,

Watch For Lumpy Jaw.

Considerable loss occurs through the condemnation of the heads of beef animals because of "big jaw" or what is perhaps more commonly known as "lumpy jaw," says the Kansas Farmer. It not only affects cattle, but is troublesome to man. Treatment of this disease is very successful if taken in the early stages, and even when it is well advanced it can be controlled in many cases by a competent veterinarian. There is some question concerning the direct transmission of this disease from one animal to another, but there is no question about the folly of taking a chance on any loathsome disease among animals on the farm. Any nodule or abscess formation about the jaws or necks of cattle should be looked upon with suspicion and attended to

A BOY'S SUCCESS IN RAISING BABY BEEF

An excellent record has been made by an Iowa boy, a contender in the baby beef contest conducted by the Iowa Beef Producers' association, says the Iowa Homestead. This contest began Nov. 1, 1915, and on the opening day Donald C. Hill of Corning, Ia., selected from the pasture a calf three and one-half months old and put him on the scales. He weighed 360 pounds, a promising youngster, we will all admit. This calf was out of a grade Angus cow and sired by a pure bred Hereford bull, so that he came honestly by his beef tendencies.

This calf was allowed to run with his dam for several months, and during this time he put on a gain of practically 100 pounds per month. He was fed grain twice a day, the ration being composed of shelled corn, oats, bran and linseed meal, and in addition the youngster had all the clover or alfalfa hay that he needed. On the anniversary of the day on which this calf was started in the contest he tipped the scales at 1,170 pounds, so that here we have a boy bringing a calf fifteen and one-half months of age to a weight of nearly 1,200 pounds. A gain of 810 pounds was made during the twelve month period. A record was kept of the cost of every mouthful of feed consumed, and at current market prices on the various products it was found that each pound of increase in weight cost practically 71/2 cents.

At the close of the experiment the youngster was shipped to Chicago and sold for $10.60 per 100 pounds. It is an excellent thing from the standpoint of a calf to fall into such hands as did this one, but the arrangement was a reciprocal one, and it may be assured that the calf did even more for Donald C. Hill than the latter did for the youngster, and this is the whole purpose of the baby beef feeding contest. It is to get the rising generation interested in beef production, and when a record like this can be made the first year who can say what may yet be accomplished by hundreds and even thousands of boys in the future if they undertake work of a similar character? It may be mentioned that Donald has already selected his calf for another year, and with such knowledge as he acquired during the last twelve months he is determined to make this one excel the record of the Hereford-Angus youngster that he has just marketed for upward of $130.

Breeding Old Sows and Gilts.

It is an easy matter to find men who will take sides on the question of using gilts or old sows for breeding purposes. Ordinarily it is a good thing to have a few of each. The old sow will bring through larger litters, but of course there is considerable outlay for wintering, whereas the gilt may raise a fairly good litter and be ready for market ninety days after her pigs are weaned. This plan has been followed by many successful men for a series of years with good results. Mature stock is more to be advocated in the case of those who handle pure breds, where closer attention is given in car ing for the litter and where great importance is attached to growthiness The old sow's pigs will be larger and sturdier at six months than will pigs from a gilt, and this is of some importance to those who are raising pure bred hogs.-Iowa Homestead.

The Farrowing Sow.

Don't change a sow's nesting place at farrowing time. If she is in a straw stack leave her there until the pigs can walk home. Be sure, of course, that the is well fed and warm.

WHY MD. FARMERS SHOULD ORGANIZE

CLEARLY SHOWN IN ANNUAL RE-PORTS OF COUNTY DEMON-STRATION AGENTS.

ESSENTIAL TO DEVELOPMENT

Enables Farmers To Aid Themselves and Each Other In Solving Their Problems.

College Park, Md., Jan. 18 .- The improvement of farming methods and conditions in Maryland during the year past as indicated through the reports of the several county demonstration agents has been measured to a large extent by the growth of farmers' organizations in their various sections. Although steady and consistent improvement has resulted in most sections where the individual demonstrator has carried out his work successfully, the best results are being obtained where the progressive farmers of a neighborhood have joined with the County Agent in forming a local farmers' club, grange, or community association. Through co-operation with such farmers' organizations the influence of the County Agent is much increased. There is a better understanding of his work, questions are freely asked and answered, and the average farmer goes home to his own labors knowing better how to make use of the services of his County Agent and along what lines his fellow-farmers think improvements in his farm operations should be made.

In Harford county, for instance, through the influence of the county grange organization and the several local farmers' clubs, the farmers of that section are progressing rapidly in improving farming conditions. Where here and there, an individual or a neighborhood showed commendable progress, whole communities, and, in fact, the agricultural interests of the entire county are awake to the needs of their section. Following the organization of various communities in the county into clubs, granges, and associations, the farmers of Harford county have organized other associations for the promotion of special industries to which the county is adapted, such as cow testing, corn breeders' and milk producers' associations that are already bearing practical fruit in making farming a better paying business in this section.

The presence and growth of these organizations has been especially helpful in enabling the farmers of Harford county to make the most intelligent use of their County Agent, T. E. Mc-Laughlin, who has accomplished some most helpful work during his first year's employment. The most recent step in which he has actively co-operated has been in the organization of eleven boys' agricultural clubs in connection with the schools of Harford county and with the consent and support of the school authorities. In taking this advanced step, Harford county has taken another long stride toward settling the question of how we shall keep the farm boy on the farm. Yet without the strong backing of local farmers' clubs and granges, such a forward step could not have been taken or thought of. The best support that any county demonstration agent receives comes from the progressive farmers' clubs and granges of his county whom he has convinced of the value of his services and the most practical method of developing the agricultural interests of his territory. On the other hand, the Maryland farmer who is making the greatest profitable profit and at the same time getting the most healthy enjoyment out of life for his family and himself is the member of the local farmers' club or grange or community association made possible through his efforts and intelligent cooperation with his County Demonstration Agent and his State College of Agriculture.

Planning the Farm Garden.

College Park, Md., Jan. 18.-The importance of the farm garden to the country household is now being impressed on the students of the Maryland State College of Agriculture enrolled in the correspondence course on regetable growing. In connection with planning the farm garden, the writer, E. F. Stoddard, says:

"Long before the time of seed planting, the size of the plot should be secured and a plan of the garden drawn to scale. This will enable the grower to figure out just how many rows of vegetables he can have, and also just where each vegetable will be planted. Then when planting time comes, the work can proceed without further difficulty. An architect always draws a plan before he builds a house. Is it not just as important for the gar dener to plan his work beforehand? The exact plan of the garden will depend upon the personal tastes of the pwner and will be different for each individual. "Whatever the size of the garden may be it should be oblong in shape, that is about twice as long as it is wide. Plantings are made in long rows, wide apart, to permit of horse tillage as much as is possible. Here every effort should be made to reduce hand labor to the minimum, for time is more expensive to the farmer than space. The main effort should be to produce the best yields with a mininum expenditure of labor, regardless of the space required

TO CLEAN SILVER

GOVERNMENT EXPERTS TELL OF BEST METHODS.

Directions for Preparing a Cleansing Material That Has Much Virtue-Must Be Applied With Care and Thoroughness.

For the benefit of those who have the care of silver, the office of home economics at Washington has made a thorough study of the electrolytic method of cleaning and has published the results of their work in United States Department of Agriculture Bul-

After discussing several types of commercial cleaners and giving the results of various analyses, they suggest the following method as being cheap and satisfactory:

"An enamel or agateware dish should be partly filled with a cleaning solution of one teaspoonful of either washing or baking soda and one teaspoonful of common table salt to each quart of water and placed directly on the stove to boil. A sheet of aluminum or clean zinc should then be dropped into the dish and tarnished silver placed in contact with the metal. It is best that the silver be entirely covered with the cleaning solution and that the solution remain at the boiling temperature. As soon as the tarnish has been removed the silver should be removed, rinsed in clean water, and wiped with a soft cloth. Zinc may be used in place of aluminum, but it becomes corroded and inactive in a much shorter time." The electrolytic method cleans plated or sterling silverware without loss of metal, giving, however, a satin finish rather than a burnished appearance, and has the additional advantages of being both clean and labor-saving .-Clara Glidden, Colorado Agricultural College, Fort Collins, Colo.

Silver Cake.

Beat whites of four eggs stiff, one and one-half cupfuls sugar, one-half cupful butter, one cupful cream or rich milk, two and one-third cupfuls flour, two teaspoonfuls cream tartar, one teaspoonful soda or two and one-half teaspoonfuls baking powder, one teaspoonful scant of salt, flavor with lemon. Cream butter and sugar together. Add egg whites, then milk, alternately, with flour in which baking powder and salt have been sifted four times. Last add one cupful coconut if liked. Frost with cream frosting made as follows: One and one-half cupfuls powdered sugar, two teaspoonfuls butter and sufficient cream to make of right consistency to spread. No flavoring, as butter and cream flavor it. Beat hard five minutes and spread on cake.

Delmonico Cream Roll Potatoes.

Here are two Delmonico potato recipes: Pare potatoes and cut them into bits the size of a pea. Keep them in cold water until all are ready. For each scant pint of potatoes make a pint of white sauce, seasoning with onion juice or celery salt. Stir the potatoes into the hot sauce, turn into a well-buttered agate sauce pan and cook in the oven until the potatoes are tender and the sauce is absorbed, with the exception of just enough to hold the bits of potatoes together. Fold one part over the other as an omelet and turn onto a hot dish. The potatoes should not brown above or below. If necessary, set them on the grate and cover the pan.

Fried Parsley.

We always use a little fried parsley to ornament our meat dishes with. This is how it is done: Wait until a bluish smoke is rising from the fat, then remove it to the side of the fire. When it has cooled slightly throw in the parsley, and leave it until the fat has almost stopped spluttering. Then lift it out at once and drain it well, when it should be a lovely green color. Be careful not to overfry it, or it will turn an ugly brownish color.-Boston

INTERNATIONAL PEACE.

Plans to Secure It Have Been Tried For Three Centuries. Admirable and farsighted plans for securing a peaceful international order have been before the world for 300 years. M. Emeric Cruce submitted his plan, which included liberty of commerce throughout all the world, as early as 1623. Following the peace of Utrecht, the Abbe de St. Pierre developed his plan, which included mediation, arbitration and an intresting addition to the effect that any sovereign who took up arms before the union of nations had declared war or who refused to execute a regulation of the union or a judgment of the senate was to be declared an enemy of European society. The union was then to make war upon him until he should be disarmed or until the regulation or judgment should be executed.

Some twenty years earlier William Penn had produced his quaint and really extraordinary plan for the peace of Europe, in which he, too, proposed to proceed by military power against any sovereign who refused to submit his claims to a proposed diet, or parliament, of Europe or who refused to ablde by and to perform any judgment of such a body.

All these plans, like those of Rousseau, Bentham and Kant, which came later, as well as William Ladd's elaborate and carefully considered essay on a congress of nations, published in 1840, were brought into the world too soon. They were the fine and noble dreams of seers which it is taking civilized men three centuries and more to begin effectively to realize.—New Yexk Times.

A Small Man.

Lincoln never lost his interest in exhibitions of physical strength, and involuntarily he always compared the possessor of it with himself. On one occasion, says Francis F. Browne in "The Everyday Life of Abraham Lincoln"-it was in 1859-he was asked to make an address at the state fair of Wisconsin, which was held at Milwaukee. Among the attractions was a "strong man," who went through the usual performance of tossing iron balls and letting them roll back down his arms, lifting heavy weights, and so on.

Apparently Lincoln had never seen combination of strength and agility before. He was greatly interested. Every now and then he gave vent to the ejaculation: "By George! By George!" After Lincoln had made his speech some one introduced him to the athlete, and as Lincoln stood looking down at him from his great height, evidently wondering that one so small could be so strong, he suddenly gave utterance to one of his quaint speeches. "Why," he said, "I could lick salt off the top of your hat!"

CROOKED, BUT FAMOUS.

Washington Street, Boston, One of the World's Great Thoroughfares.

Washington street in Boston is one of the great thoroughfares of Amer- will be given to the value of 4c on ica, worthy to rank with Broadway in the Dollar, at New York and Michigan avenue in Chicago. Like nearly everything else in Roston it has a history of incredible length and respectability, making other streets seem painfully young and callow and crude.

Moreover, Washington street is one of the longest in the world, running all the way through Boston and on to another town without a stop or a break. This is not accomplished without many a bend and meander, however, for Washington street is amazingly crooked, as are nearly all the thoroughfares of Puritan origin. It seems that the Mayflower party did not realize how big Boston was going to be, and so they carelessly let the cows lay out the streets as they wandered home-

Washington street today does not look like an aristocrat of ancient lineage, however. On the contrary, it appears decidedly democratic, swarming with all sorts of people who jostle and push each other on the narrow, overflowing sidewalks in the brilliant glare of numerous electric signs that flash the rival merits of moving picture shows, bars and cafes.-Exchange.

ODDS AND ENDS.

The lives of practically all men famous in the business world as shown in the history of industry during the past twenty-five years will prove to you the practical value of the "stick to it" principle of life. Armour stuck to beef, Harriman and Hill to railroads, Edison to electricity, Carnegie and Schwab to steel, Rockefeller to oil, Morgan to finance, and so on without end. All these captains of industry and thousands of others that might be mentioned had the faculty of "sticking" to a job until they made good.

"The time has come," said James W Wadsworth, Jr., United States Senatorelect from New York, recently, "when business men should give heed to what is going on in the legislative bodies of the country. I see in the future except this heed is given a development which will prevent the individual from carrying on his business, honest though he may be, with his own initiative and enterprise."

Do not be a clock watcher in the ranks of industry. Those who wait for hours to strike or whistles to blow and "soldier" at the bench, machine or in the office seldom or never get very far ahead in the ranks. They never get any more pay because they are not worth more and often are worth less than they get. Remember the old adage that a man who never does any more or as much as he gets paid for never gets very much pay

OVERTAXING INDUSTRY.

Taxes are not alone the burden of the rich. They inevitably descend along the scale and are generally shared in some proportion by all. When excessive burdens of taxation emphasize the competitive disadvantages of any community for any branch or class of business that community will invariably suffer a decrease in the industrial development and prosperity of all within

In many sections of the country reports show that industry is often sublaws of Ohio, certificate filed in the jected to continuous and unreasonable office of the Secretary of New York burdens of taxes in one form or an-State, New York) beg to advise you other. Two manufacturers in similar lines of business, one operating a plant in claim immunity (see N. Y. Penal Code, Massachusetts and the other located in Connecticut, were recently comparing notes. They discovered that for every $100 in taxes which the Connecticut plant pays per annum the Massachusetts plant was paying $1,000, or ten times as much. The answer to this situation is that Massachusetts has been falling behind in the percentage of growth as an industrial state compared with some of her neighboring communities where industry is not so often aimed at by burdensome, unnecessary and unreasonable laws. The following open letter by J. W. Powell, president of the Fore River (Mass.) Shipbuilding Corporation, addressed to the employees of that company in a recent issue of their "family magazine," The Fore River Log, presents in a fair way the average business man's view on excessive taxation of industrial plants:

"What is good for Fore River is good for Quincy, and what is good for Quincy is good for Fore River.

"The officers and employees of this company and their families make up more than a quarter of the population of the city. Their interests are the same as the interest of Quincy and of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corpora-

"This company's business is building ships, which brings us into competition with companies building ships in other States. Anything that Fore River must do in this community that other shipbuilding companies do not have to do in their cities will, in the long run, hurt us. "Today there are more ships to be built than there are yards to build them. When the war is over there will be more shipyards than there are ships to build. Then the yard that builds the cheapest will take the contracts, and the yard whose costs are highest will discharge its men. "The other big shipyards do not pay big taxes. Some of them pay no taxes at all. If you cwn a house and rent it you add your taxes into the rent. If you rent a house you pay the taxes when you pay your rent, so the company must add its taxes when it sells a

"Such an assessment and such taxes as have been levied against this company this year in Quincy, which is as much as the combined cost of its new hospital and club, hurt it and will hurt you. It is not fair to increase this company's assessment 90 per cent and to increase its taxes nearly 50 per cent this year as against a year ago. "You know that a great part of the company's money spent in improvements has been spent to make Fore River a better place to work. There are still many departments needing new buildings, new washrooms, new locker rooms, and many other improvements to make this yard the kind of a yard you and we both want it to be.

"We expect to pay a fair tax, but will not pay an exorbitant one. This matter is of interest to you. Think it

A Texas legislator recently offered for enactment a bill designed to prevent head-on collisions between railroad trains in his State. # A COMPLICATED CASE

It Resulted From an Endeavor to Make a Match

By F. A. MITCHEL

Suits for breach of promise are not always the vulgar affairs to which we are accustomed, though I admit that many which are made public are not very sweet smelling.

Kate Devereaux was my chum in the woman's college, and I confess she fascinated me. Girls who have brothers are fond of picking out wives for them, and it usually happens that the brother doesn't see the matter in the same light as the sister at all. When I told Ralph that I proposed to make a match for him with my college chum he showed no interest in the proposition whatever.

"Wait till you see her," I said to him. "If she is as homely and uninteresting as most of the girls you have picked out for me," he replied, "I don't want to see her."

I invited Kate to spend the spring recess with me. I had been just as stupid in telling her that I had a brother for her as I had been in telling Ralph that I had a chum for him, though my plan was rather a fancy than a serious intention. I was quite curious to see how these two persons who had been thus informed would greet each other. Ralph and I went to the station to meet my guest, and I did not have a good opportunity to see how they were impressed with each other. After our return home I said to Ralph

"Well, what do you think of her?" "She's not so homely as the rest of your favorites," was his only reply. I asked Kate if she did not think my brother a fine fellow, and she said,

"Very nice," but in an indifferent tone. We were all together for two weeks, with other young persons of our bunch, but I could not see that Ralph and Kate were especially interested in each other. Ralph seemed rather to favor another girl and Kate another man. It struck me that I had made a new failure in picking out a wife for Ralph, but, as I have said, my doing so was not a matter of great concern to me. and I thought no more about it.

Kate and I went back to college, and since we were to graduate in June, we were absorbed in our preparations for the final exams and commencement. Ralph came to see me graduate. Kate took part in the graduating exercises of the class, and I asked Ralph if she didn't look very sweet in her pure white costume. He replied indifferently that all girl graduates looked sweet. Kate invited me to spend a few weeks with her after our graduation, and we left college together. The day after our arrival at her home Kate took me into her room and said to me: "Estelle, I have a very unpleasant announcement to make to you "Do tell me what it is!" I said, catching my breath. "I am going to bring a suit against your brother for breach of promise of marriage." I looked at her with as much amazement as if she had drawn a pistol and ordered me to throw up my hands. "When-how-where?"- I began, but got no further.

"You may remember what you said about Ralph to me before we met. Well, I had no sooner gone to your house for the spring recess than Ralph began to make love to me. Fortunate ly I did not trust him and showed little interest. When we returned to college he wrote me letters repeating what he had said to me. We met several times after that-without your knowledgeand I accepted him. I have no doubt now that he was simply desirous to make a conquest, for when he came on at commencement he treated me very coolly, not mentioning our engagement. Now, don't you think, dear, that such treatment merits punishment?"

"I certainly do, but"-

"But what?" "I'm surprised that you should think of making the affair public." "Estelle, you are harking back to a time when we women were expected to suffer any treatment from men they felt disposed to give us and hide our feelings of grief or resentment under a bushel. A time has come when such self abnegation has passed. I take this step not because I wish to-indeed, on your account especially 1 dread it-but because I deem it my duty to do so." I could not but admit that in principle Kate was right, but in this particular instance something must be done to stop such a proceeding. I cut short my visit, returning home at once. I called Ralph into the library, where we were alone, and after telling him that I knew of his outrageous conduct I told him that Kate in justice to her sex was about to bring suit against him for breach of promise. "How much damage does she claim?"

he asked imperturbably.
"Ralph!" I cried. "What do you mean? You don't mean that you are going to let this disgraceful conduct stand; that you intend to keep up this dishonorable treatment?"

"What can I do? You tell me that you wish me to marry your college thum. You bring her home with you for vacation. She, having been informed by you that I am to make love to her and marry her, acts accordingly. I act accordingly too. She takes it all seriously, whereas we were both deferring to your wishes."

"Oh, Ralph!"

"Fortunately," he continued, "I am perfectly able to satisfy her claim if it is not unreasonable. My railway bonds will do that. I shall certainly do everything I can to keep the matter out of court. If your bosom friend does not shrink from publicity I do. There is no need for the lady to expose her lacerated feelings to a lawyer. Let her tell you what is the damage done, and

Could this be my brother Ralph whom I had always regarded the soul of honor? My astonishment was as great as at learning that Kate Devereaux, who, it had appeared to me, possessed the soul of a true woman, should make a money demand as compensation for having been trifled with. But Kate had justice as a motive. Ralph so far as I could see had no ground whatever to stand on.

"Ralph," I said, "this is the most awful thing that has ever happened to What can I do to stop it?"

"What can you do, Puss?"-Puss was his pet name for me-"you can get your friend's terms. I will pay and that will end the matter.'

"But are you content to remain in such a position? Think how it will injure you. Kate showed me your letters, they are full of ardent love." "She will not show them to any one

"How do you know?"

"Because she is not that kind of a

This gave me a ray of hope. Ralph thus far had spoken no word of blame for Kate, and it was evident that he respected her. And his letters to her showed plainly that he had loved her. "What brought about your change of feeling for her?" I asked. "That would be telling. I am quite willing that you should pick out a wife for me, but after bringing about a complication I am not willing to be catechised by you as to my action or my feelings in the matter. But for any wrongdoing, I am willing to pay." There was much more talk upon the matter between Ralph and me, but I got no more out of him than I have given here. There seemed nothing else for me to do but see Kate again and endeavor to placate her in some way and persuade her that it was not her duty to take the drastic measure she intended. She lived not more than fifty miles from me, and I left Ralph to take my car and run over for another conference.

She received me apparently with no great concern. She did not act like a woman whose heart had been broken or one who desired revenge. As to making money out of my brother, I knew that was absurd. I attributed her action merely to principle, to conscientious motives, the protection of her sex against unjust treatment from man. Since I had come back to her so soon, she evidently expected that I had something to tell her, and she waited -chatting upon unimportant mattersfor me to do so.

"Kate," I said, "I have had a long talk with Ralph and have received no explanation of his treatment of you. The only thing I can get out of him is that he is ready to pay any reasonable amount within his capabilities that you may name. But I cannot conceive of our accepting a money consideration for such an injury."

"I can give the amount to charity," said Kate. it seemed to me rather severely.

"Are you sure," I said, "that there is nothing vindictive in your action?" "Nothing of the kind. I simply wish to teach one man that he cannot treat one woman with impunity. What other women do under similar circumstances is their affair, not mine.'

"Well, then, I suppose nothing remains but for you to name the sum you claim and for me to name the amount to Ralph."

Kate made no reply to this at once. but at last said:

"I think the matter can be settled between the principals better than through a third party."

I caught at this at once and asked if I should say to Ralph that she would consent to a conference with him. She consented to this with apparent reluctance. It occurred to me that I could as well communicate this over the telephone and, going to the instrument, I called Ralph.

"Kate thinks that it would be best for her to give you her terms of settlement personally. Come over and see

"Yes, I admit that it must have seem ed very wrong to you for me to give away a rose that you had given me."

"Then you'll be over for luncheon?" "For heaven's sake!" I exclaimed when Kate rejoined me. "Has all this racket been about so small a matter?' "It wasn't a small matter at all. Ralph gave me a rose. Another man took it, and Ralph saw him wearing it. Ralph, instead of coming to me for an explanation, treated me shamefully."

I didn't wait for Ralph's coming. The lovers had no further use for me I wish it distinctly understood that I do not claim to have made this match. Indeed, I was as far from it as one could possibly be. Both Ralph and Kate fooled me completely. Just think of these two, who happened to fall in love with each other and were both desperately caught, talking about a monetary consideration for wounded affection! And the cause-could anything be more ridiculous?

RIGHT COLOR

EASY MATTER TO BRIGHTEN UP A NORTH ROOM.

Home Art Specialist Suggests Use of Yellow as Probably the Best-Have the Curtains of Some Transparent Material.

Have you a bugbear of a north room that always eludes your attempts to make it livable? Now that winter is here, it might be just the place for the children to use as a playroom, or the older ones for quiet study and read-

"The problem facing one who furnishes a north room is that of making it light, bright and warm," comment ed Miss Araminta Holman, instructor in home art in the Kansas State Agricultural college. "Since this room lacks sunshine, yellow is the best color to use. Yellow will cheer and bright en it, and yellow which has a little red to warm it will be better than a 'cold' color. Orange is the warmest color. Browns are tones of orange and better to use than gray, black or blue. One should use browns that have more yellow than red.

"If the room is a 'den,' the furniture may be walnut or oak, but if it is a bedroom, bird's-eye maple or cherry may be used. The curtains should be light, in tones of yellow or orange. The material should be thin and trans parent to admit all the light possible.

"Backgrounds should be yellow or orange-warm colors. The woods used should be in harmony with the other furnishings of the room. Dark tones express formality, dignity, repose and seriousness. Light tones express gayety, youth and informality."

Rice Jambalaya.

One and a half cupfuls of rice that has been thoroughly washed, one pound of fresh pork, one pound of sausage, one slice of ham, half a seeded red pepper, one large tomato, one sweet pepper, one large onion, one clove of garlic, three sprigs of parsley, one sprig of thyme, two ground cloves, one crushed bay leaf, one tablespoonful of butter. Cut pork and ham in very small pieces; the sausage in rather large slices. Mince all of the other ingredients. Carefully brown the onion and the pork in butter. When light brown add the ham and the other seasoning and brown together for five minutes. Then add the sausage and cook five minutes longer, stirring constantly. Add three quarts of hot water or clear soup stock. Boil ten minutes, then add the washed rice, after which boil half an hour or until firm. This is the real jambalaya. But the average southern homekeeper does not make such an elaborate dish of it, the jambalaya being a method of utilizing left-overs. It is a favorite way of finishing up ham, veal and beef scraps in combination. Chicken sausage, shrimp and oysters make good jambalava.

Potatoes Stuffed With Meat.

Take a number of large potatoes, wash and scrub them thoroughly and bake in a very hot oven. As soon as they are tender cut the top from each and scoop a hole in the center. Previous to this take the remains of cold cooked beef, mince finely, season to taste, moisten with gravy and heat. Place a spoonful of meat in each potato. Replace the tops of the potatoes and bake until a brown color. The scooped-out potato may be either mashed smoothly with butter and milk or made into rolls by mashing the potato and adding a little butter, salt and flour. Mix to a paste with a wellbeaten egg, form into rolls and bake in the oven.

Graham Pudding.

One cupful of sweet milk, one egg, pinch of salt, one-half cupful sugar, one-half cupful molasses, one level spoonful soda (dissolved), two rounded cupfuls of graham flour, one cupful of currants or raisins floured. Mix in order given, steam three hours. Eat hot with lemon or vinegar sauce.

Lemon Sauce-One tablespoonful cornstarch, mixed with two tablespoonfuls of water; stir into one cupful of boiling water, boil till clear, add one cupful of water, one egg, grated rind and juice of one lemon. Beat together, stir rapidly and remove from stove as soon as it begins to simmer.

Pumpkin Pie.

This is an old-fashioned recipe: Cut the pumpkin into large pieces, keeping the skin on, and put it on to boil. When soft, scoop out the pulp, sift it and for every heaping teacupful of pumpkin add one pint of rich milk, two eggs, one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, one-half tablespoonful of ginger and the same of salt. Make a good, short pastry, fill with the mixture and just before putting into the oven put a few small pieces of butter over the top and grate over them a little nutmeg.

Use any kind of sauce, apple, berry or pear, etc. Make very sweet. Mix one cupful of flour, one saltspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of cream of tartar, with water (never milk) enough for stiff batter. Drop in sauce, cover tightly and boil 15 or 20 minutes.

Wire Rods

Often in a country bungalow or up in the attic loft we desire to put up curtains, but do not care to spend any extra money for curtain rods. Strings will sag after a time, but an excellent substitute for a rod is a wire stratched tight.

TAKE OUT GREASE SPOTS

Blemishes That So Greatly Annoy the Housekeeper May Be Effectively Dealt With.

Grease spots may be removed by the application of carbon tetrachloride, according to H. F. Zoller, assistant in chemistry in the Kansas State Agricultural college.

"Removing grease spots with gasoline or benzine is both dangerous and wasteful," said Mr. Zoller. "Chloroform is effective, but is dangerous. Carbon tetrachloride is used by cleaners because of its safety, cleaning power and the absence of a disagreeable odor. The disadvantage is its expense.

"Ink is difficult to remove if it has been in the garment for some time. Iron inks may be removed by oxalic, acetic, citric, or dilute hydrochloric acids. In case of the coal-tar inks, the spot must be bleached.

"Iron rust can be removed by fairly strong oxalic acid solution, if allowed to stand on the goods for a short time, and often when it is exposed to the sunlight the action is a little quicker. The excess of oxalic acid must be washed out, and the goods washed with a good soap, in order to neutralize the acid. Hydrochloric acid is the best remover of iron rust, if handled by an experienced person.

"An excellent formula for the removal of fountain-pen ink, especially iron ink and iron rust, is the aceto-oxalic acid formula. It is made by saturating a 10 per cent acetic acid solution with oxalic acid, and mixing one part of the product with four parts of al-

Corn Chowder. One can corn, four cupfuls potatoes cut in one-quarter-inch slices, one and one-half-inch cube fat salt pork, one sliced onion, four cupfuls scalded milk, eight common crackers. Cut pork in small pieces and try out. Add onion and cook five minutes, stirring often that onion may not burn. Strain fat into a stewpan. Parboil potatoes five minutes in boiling water to cover, drain and add potatoes to fat: then add two cupfuls boiling water; cook until notatoes are soft, add corn and milk, then heat to boiling point. Season with salt and pepper and butter and crackers, split and soaked in enough cold milk to moisten. Remove crackers, turn chowder into a tureen and put crackers on top.

Colonial Cake. One-half cupful butter, one and a quarter cupfuls granulated sugar, three eggs, half cupful thin cream or rich milk, half even teaspoonful soda, one even teaspoonful cream tartar, two cupfuls of pastry flour, half cupful seeded raisins. Add whites of eggs last and bake in tube pan. When cold frost with a heavy white icing that will contrast prettily with the yellow of the cake. Citron sliced in thin strips may he used instead of raisins, or in combination with them.

One teaspoonful of baking powder in one-half cupful granulated sugar added to the white of one egg stiffly beaten makes a fluffy meringue.

Cornmeal Muffins. Sift together one cupful cornmeal one cupful bread flour, one teaspoonful soda (level) in one cupful sour milk, and add it to the sifted ingredients. Then add one-quarter cupful molasses, then two eggs, two tablespoonfuls melted drippings. Beat well and bake in well-greased muffin pans about onehalf hour in moderately hot oven. Makes 12.

Graham Drop Biscuits.

HAS HAD VARYING MEANINGS

Term "Casualty" Not Always Employed in the Way in Which It Is Used Today.

When did the word "casualty" first. assume the modern specialized meaning with which we are unfortunately so familiar? I think it must have been at the time of the Crimean war: for the latest volume of Disraeli's Life I have come across the following passage, dated September 2, 1855: "Lady Londonderry is in despair about her son, who is now in the trenches. . Casualties, she says, and truly, what a horrible word to describe the loss of limb and life!" The underlining and the comment seem to show that Disraeli, one of the greatest masters of words, found its use unusual. Murray's dictionary does not give much assistance on the point, for all' its quotations—such as one from the duke of Wellington's dispatches in 1810, "the casualties of the service"-do not necessarily imply anything except loss by unavoidable accidents. My suggestion, however, is borne out by the following from Stockqueler's "Military Encyclopedia," published in 1853, which says: "Casuals or casualties, a term signifying men that are dead (since first enlisted) or have been discharged, or have deserted"-in other words, total losses. No mention is made, it should be noted of the application of the word to temporary losses caused by wounds. It was Lady Londonderry's use of it in this sense, perhaps, which Disraeli found strange.-Westminster Gazette.

RESPONSIBILITY IS ON FATHER

Traveling Along Wrong Road When He Finds Himself Too Busy to Talk With His Boy.

The father and son movement is one of the best and most sensible things we have heard of for a long time. That is because it proposes to accomplish results through using natural human instincts naturally. It appeals to the deepest of human feelings—love. It Subscribe for the RECORD goes about to remind fathers of something they may have forgotten and to tell boys something they may not have known. You can get at this better if you sit down and talk confidentially with some other father's boy. He will tell you things your own boy cannot. In his wistful earnestness, you will discover that there are times when a boy has a real matter of grave importance to him that finds his father too busy to be bothered. It will make you stop and think as you realize that this little fellow couldn't come to any other conclusion than that his dad was indifferent. Fathers know better: fathers remember pretty well when they were boys, but they don't remember just how sensitive a boy is to the worst of rebuffs, that of being thought silly. Now, the boys need to be told this about their fathers, that they are not indifferent. But after all the biggest thing is to tell fathers, for it is their business to understand and theirs is the responsibility.-Milwaukee Jour-

The Newspaper "Story."

Perhaps those outside Fleet street hardly realize what a guileful reptile insinuated itself into the public mind when Fleet street, about fifteen years ago, began to talk of a "story" instead of a "report" or "article." It then became the reporter's or correspondent's duty to send "a good story," and a good story does not invariably imply truth. The purpose of a report became pleasure rather than accuracy, and because the "good story" gives pleasure, the people loved to have it so. Under such influence the news of the daily world, with all its incalculable issues and continuous destiny and far-reaching decisions, becomes a cinema show of startling events, rapid, disconnected, melodramatic, and faked: "The wealthy viscount marries the pretty seamstress," "The Hon. Mrs. Bridewell loves her dog and parrot," "Lord Grey repudiates American swank."-London Nation.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson V .- First Quarter, For Feb. 4, 1917.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, John iii, 1-21. Memory Verses, 5, 6-Golden Text, John iii, 16-Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

If we take the last sentence of chapter ii and the first of chapter iii from the revised version we will read: "He Himself knew what was in man. Now, there was a man of the Pharisees named Nicodemus." This man therefore comes before us as a sample of all religious men of his stamp, and as our Lord dealt with him so He still deals with all such. He was one of the rulers and evidently a man held in high esteem by his fellows, but he was not as yet born from above. He was very complimentary and courteous to the Lord Jesus, but our Lord had no heart and no time for mere compliments. He saw all people as either having life and not condemned or under the wrath of God and condemned already (verses 18, 36). Seeing before Him a lost soul and not being willing that he should perish, He at once spoke to his heart, for He knew what was in him

We may sum up His threefold reference to the new birth (verses 3, 5, 7) in the emphatic declaration of verse 7, which is a word for every unsaved person, however religious he may be. "You must be born again," or, as in the margin, "from above." It has been truly said that if we are born but once. merely a natural birth, we shall die twice, and the second death will be the lake of fire (Rev. xx, 14, 15), but if we are born twice, have had the birth from above, we shall die but once, and, if alive on earth at His coming, shall not die at all (I Cor. xv, 50-52). While our Lord often used the word "verily" (a translation of amen), only in this gospel is He recorded as using the times, the first time being in chapter i, 51, and in reference to the coming kingdom. We find it in our lesson chapter in verses 3, 5, 11, and in the first two also in reference to the kingdom. It requires a new birth inwardly and a new body outwardly to enter that kingdom (I Cor. xv, 50), but if we have the first we shall in due time have the second (Phil, iii, 20, 21). Nicodemus, being merely a natural man, although a religious one, could not understand spiritual things, according to I Cor. ii, 14, therefore his many questions. As a master of Israel (verse 10) he might have known more than he did, but he needed some one in him whom he had never yet received (chapter i, 12).

incident in the wilderness story, with which he must have been familiar (verses 14, 15), and from it taught him how to be born again, and we conclude from chapters vii, 50, 51; xix, 39, that then or later Nicodemus was really born again and became a true disciple of Jesus Christ.

The new birth is wrought in us by the word of God and the Spirit of God, as our Lord taught in verse 5, the water signifying the word as in Eph. v. 26. Both James and Peter are in perfect accord as to the new birth being accomplished by the word of God (Jas. i, 18; I Pet. i, 23), and our Lord said that His words were Spirit and Life (John vi, 63). I have often seen John iii, 16, bring about the new birth in a soul just by writing the person's name in the verse instead of the words "the world" and "whosoever," and as quickly as the bitten Israelites looked upon the dead representation of that which had bitten them and lived so have I seen sinners looking upon Jesus made sin for them and obtaining life by a look. He came to save the lost, the sick the hopeless, and He does it all

We have only to let Him save us, to see Him dying in our stead, bearing our sins in His own body, and, receiving him, take Him at His word, that by virtue of His great sacrifice all such have everlasting life and can never perish. People are condemned not because of any ordinary sin, for all are sinners, but because they will not receive Him who alone can save them. because they will not look and live (verses 18, 19). By receiving Him we honor God as true, but by refusing to receive Him we make God a liar and join hands with the father of lies against God (verse 33; I John v, 10; John viii, 24).

Only one who was truly God could speak of Himself as 'the Son of Man who is in heaven" while yet He was on earth (verse 13). Note also His words in verse 35, "The Father loveth the Son and hath given all things into His hand." Compare Matt. xi, 27, and let us, like John the Baptist, bear faithful testimony to Him, and, like the servant of Abraham seeking a bride for the only son to whom his father had given all that he had, let us live to help obtain the bride, the church, for the coming Bridegroom. See verses 27-31 and compare the beautiful story in Gen. xxiv. As Abraham's servant talked only of the wealth of the beloved son and carried samples of it, by means of which to obtain the bride, so we are to speak of Him and His wealth of grace and glory, seeking only to magnify Him, that He may draw souls to Himself. The one thing that believers are on earth for is to let Him so live in us that others may be won to Him.

The upper one employs double verily and just twenty-five purple velvet and ermine in its construction. The little toque of velvet is banded in ermine and an ornament in oriental colorings centers the front. The scarf may be worn open, as illustrated, or it may be draped high about the throat. A narrow band of ermine borders the scarf on either side and an ermine-covered button of generous size serves to conceal the scarf's fastening. The small round muff is edged with ermine. Color of velvet used and type of fur may be varied to suit the individual taste. Chinchilla squirrel and silver rabbit are two effective furs that might be attractively combined with velvet in the development of a three-piece set similar to the one sketched.

Firelight Photographs.

It is worth noting that the most successful firelight photographs do not show the fire at all. The subject is arranged so that the fire is screened in some way from the lens. The mentalpiece, fire-irons, rug, etc., are included, however, and the fire itself is suggested by the lighting. On the whole this is the best way of doing what we want. If we arrange things on these lines, with the illumination proceeding from the spot where the fire is supposed to be, we can get a true firelight effect, although the light actually used may be electric, magnesium, flash or ribbon, or even daylight itself. In the last case, the bottom foot of glass in a French window may be used, with a sheet of white paper on the floor to serve as a reflector, and the whole of the rest blocked up. A figure posed against this will give a very successful firelight effect.

(For the RECORD). A very enjoyable day was spent in the home of Mrs. Mary A. Weybright, Detour, Md., Sunday, Jan. 21, it having been the occasion of her 80th. birthday. It was looked forward to by her with much pleasure. Notwithstanding her age, she is in excellent health, for which she expresses her thankfulness over and

There were many references to happy bygones. She, with her departed husband, celebrated their Golden wedding, Feb. 10, 1912. She took much pleasure in reading the many birthday cards, receiving calls, telephone messages, etc.

At 1.30, we were invited out to the dining room to one of those sumptuous dinners was served for which Miss Mary is noted. All did justice to the occasion. The afternoon was spent in the library with plenty of good music, interspersed with memory of bygone days.

We were made to feel that the life of our dear sister is worthy of the following, both in precept and example. She never misses going to church, only when it is impossible to get there. Those present were, Phillip Snader and wife, of New Windsor, her only living brother; Mrs. Alice Snader, of Union Bridge; John T. Royer and wife, of Westminster. On account of the bad weather others were prevented from coming.

Senate to Debate Peace Message

Washington, Jan. 24.—Developments in the Senate today made it certain that before many days there will be a bitter debate between the opposing forces on the President's outline of the terms which he thinks necessary to secure a permanent peace. A resolution introduced yester-day by Senator Cummins, of Iowa, Re-publican, setting aside a definite time for discussion of the new international policies was permitted today to go to the calendar, thus giving an opportunity to revive the subject whenever Senator Cummins wishes to call for a vote. He said he intended to bring it up soon.

The Democratic leaders made every effort to bury the Cummins resolution in committee, but the Rebublicans refused to permit it. Several of them gave notice on the floor that they intended to have their say on the question of joining a league to enforce peace and on what they regard as the President's proposal to abandon the principles involved in the Monroe Doctrine and Washington's his-Rev. Paul D. Yoder, wife and two toric advice to refrain from entangling

> At no time in the debate did the discussion involve actual consideration of the President's program, as the Republi-can leaders confined themselves strictly to arguing for the necessity and propriety of subjecting it to thorough scrutiny, but at several points the thinly veiled sarcasm with which they touched on Mr. Wilson's plans showed plainly the bitter hostility his address to the Senate has > aroused among the minority.

> "The President has come to the Senate frankly and boldly," Senator Cummins declared, "and, I assume, with all sincerity, saying that he owed it to us to disclose to us the purpose in his mind." Asserting that the President had explained his existing that the President had explained nis position when he referred to the Senate as a "council associated with me" and that he must have intended to appeal for advice, he asked: "Are we to sit dumb under this appeal? The time to vote, it is true, has not arrived, but is the council to remain silent while public pinion is forming and public judgment s being entered

> 'I have no authority to speak for the President, but I am bound to believe those who oppose this resolution are not his true friends. It must be he desires and expects the freest and fullest de-bate on the tremendous issue he has raised. What value are we as a council if we lock our lips and allow him to go his way? I do not know whether any Senator here intends to vote in opposition to this resolution—I hope there is not. But if there be any one who does, I ask him to reflect a moment, for it seems to me opposition means a doubt respecting either the sincerity or courage of the

Phonograph Party Postponed.

Because of circumstances over which those most concerned had not the slightest grip-the Community Phonograph Party, which was to have charmed its many patrons yester-night, has been "held over" until the Easter-week season. The Committee-in-charge bows its profound acknowledgments to any whose interest in the affair gave promise of an evening of delightful entertainment, and in this public manner expresses its very real regret that the logic of untoward events made postponement the part of wisdom—trusting the public's common interest in the success of our town Library for loyal support of their entertainment when later given.

"Electricity For Every Farm and Home" AN ELECTRIC LIGHT PLANT FOR THE NON-TECHNICAL MAN'S USE IN SOLVING THE LIGHTING QUESTION OF THE COUNTRY.

DELCO-LIGHT REASONS: Abundance of light is not a luxury. Electric lights cannot explode.

Electric lights are cheapest to run

Comparison, vs. Other Methods of Lighting Delco-Light stands alone today in the cost of producing light, no matter what the form of light may be. By its operation on 25c gasoline, it has but few competitors, and when operating on its standard fuel, 8c kerosene, it stands out alone as the cheapest light by far, except the Sun and Moon. Electricity being measured in watts -a term understood by but few-we shall endeavor to make this term in comparison with such measures of light as will make it at least under-Electric lights are cheapest to install. standable. We shall make the comparison between a standard Delco-Light plant using kerosene, a lamp using kerosene, and an acetylene gas generator using calcium carbide.

With 8c worth (1 gal) of kerosene, Delco-Light makes available for use 30c worth of city electric current or a little over 3 kilowatts (3000-watts). This will burn a 40-watt (burning 40 watts per hour) electric bulb for 75 hours. 12c worth of kerosene oil (coal oil) will furnish an average one-inch wick lamp for about 25 hours. This lamp will give from one-third to one-half the illumination of the 40-watt electric bulb. 8c will buy about 2½ lbs of carbide ($3.75 per hundred). 2½ lbs carbide in the most efficient gasgenerator known ($3.75 per hundred). 2½ lbs carbide in the most efficient gasgenerator known will generate about 10 cubic feet of gas ready for use. (½ cu. ft. per pound). These 10 feet of gas will burn a ½-ft burner (burning ½ ft of gas per hr.) just about 131 hours. The 1-ft burner of gas that has burned up 8c worth of carbide in 13½ hours is hardly equal in illuminating power to the 40-watt electric bulb that burned for 75 hours off its 8c worth of kerosene. These figures we challenge dispute. The efficiency of Delco-Light shown here is due to its direct connection (no belts) and to its superior Storage Battery.

A Bit of Safety in Comparison of Fuels, The fuel used in Delco-Light is a standard article, obtainable at any time or place. It is so harmless that although used in every home each day of the or place. It is so harmless that although used in every home each day of the year, few accidents occur, except when in use with kerosene lamps (lighted lamps). Against this we have Calcium Carbide. It must usually be obtained from some shipping point. It is not a standard article carried by our every-day merchants. Its explosive powers when once set in action in connection with a gas generator is almost inestimable. More damage from fire and explosion have resulted in the outlying country districts from its use than from any other known cause. Three accidents recorded in our local papers since the opening of the holiday season, show a death roll of seven killed and twenty-one injured, with property loss reaching the enormous sum of $50,000 to $75,000. Some of these may have been the result of careless on the part of someone, but the bold fact remains that the accidents have occurred and that hardly a week passes that some home does not pay the penalty of this explosion.
