A MEMORIAL FOR TANEYTOWN SOLDIERS

The District to Honor Its Boys by a Home Memorial.

Two joint meetings of the Men's and Women's Council of Defense for Taneytown district, have been held, with D. J. Hesson as chairman and Rev. L. B. Hafer as Secretary, the object of the meetings being to consider the question of the erection in Taneytown of a suitable permanent memorial to "the boys" of the district who entered the army and navy service, during the recent war.

These meetings resulted in developing a number of ideas, as well as some information as to costs, but the main conclusions reached were that Taneytown district should erect its own memorial, and that a public meeting of all persons interested in the proposition should be called for the purpose of measuring sentiment for the project, and also to find out as nearly as possible, what amount of money can be raised in order to determine how expensive a memorial it is worth while to consider and contract for.

If a sufficient amount can be subscribed, the idea so far seems to centre around a granite design with one or two bronze tablets containing the names of the soldiers from the district. It has also been considered, tentatively, that a suitable triangular grass plot, or mound, with concrete curbing, might be provided at the in-tersection of the Westminster and Uniontown roads, as a site for the me-

Further than this, the joint committee has not gone, and will not go. public meeting has been called at the Opera House, for Saturday evening, April 26, at 8:30, to which all interested are invited. This is a whole district, and not a town, affair, and it is hoped that there will be a very large and interested meeting on the date

Taneytown district can easily erect a handsome permanent memorial. If the project is popularly indorsed and subscribed to, large donations will not be necessary. The families of the seventy-four soldiers from the district are specially and closely interested, and should enter into the work with enthusiasm. Let us all work to-gether and erect a memorial that will stand indefinitely, perpetuating as a historical record the names of those who fought the battle for the world's

Field Corn vs. Sweet Corn.

The present situation between the canner and grower of corn, tomatoes, peas, etc., is but a locally plain situation that exists in more or less like terms in other sections in other lines of business. In this locality it is chiefly a "corn" question, but in other sections it may be cotton, or wool tobacco, or something else with the same attending general problems.

It is the question of the disposal of big surplus stocks, made up at high prices, on which the holders want to escape loss; the question of decreased consumption because of these high Payment in f prices; the question of future prices; the question of who shall come down first; and naturally everybody is trying his best to save himself, and put the loss, or risk, over on somebody

The readjustment of prices, both of raw products and manufactures, from the abnormal to the normal, should be fought out with the best grace possible, and with a considerable gamble on what the future may hold. Just now, the price of field corn, for instance, as compared with the offered price per ton for sweet corn, presents to the farmer the attractive probable profit in field corn this year. is, of course, the uncertainty of the price of the latter when it is ready for market next winter.

The farmer, therefore, as well as the canner, is dealing in "probabilities." If both knew just what the selling price of both kinds of corn will be, say eight months from now, there would be little conflict between them; and as neither can know this, there should be no present bad feeling, nor calling of names. Both can honestly exercise their own judgment as to what is best for them, and let it go at that.

Middletown's Financial Statement.

Middletown, Fredeick county, has just issued an excellent annual statement, showing receipts of $6659.82, and a balance, after providing for sinking fund requirements, of $844.30. Middletown has a bonded deft of $15,-762.50, and a tax rate of only 35c. The year's expenditures included conimprovements amounting to $2111.89.

It pays its Burgess $25.00 a year; Treasurer, $125.00, and each of the Commissioners $15.00. The cost of electric lights for the streets was The cost of pumping water was $120.74. The detailed statement can be seen at this office, by those in-

An Error in Date.

An error unfortunately occurred in the Carroll Record in an advertisement for "Transfers and Abatements" for Taneytown district. The date should have been April 9th, instead of the As the other dates following were 10th and 11th, it is probable that most readers understood that the correct date was the 9th.

FARMERS MEETING.

Directors of the Sweet Corn Association Meet.

The Board of Directors met in the County Agent's office in the Times Building, Westminster, on Monday afternoon.

The most important business before the board was in regards to a section in the constitution providing that each member sign a note which would be held as collateral security by the Association and as a forfeit in case the member sold his product at a lower figure than that set by the Associa-

It was decided that for this season this section would not be exercised. Owing to the fact that the market is uncertain, due to the economic conditions, and that the canning industry is very important to Carroll county, it was decided not to push this phase of the organization this year.

Dr. B. F. Bomberger, Assistant Director and Specialist of the Extension Service at Md. State College, was present. He gave an interesting talk on the economic conditions which the farmers have to face this year. He explained the position of the Exten-sion Service in relation to the pro-ducer, canner and consumer, all three must be considered by the Government. The canned product at the grocery store must be at a price which will not prevent a high consumption, but that will give the consumer his moneys cost of production to producer and canner.

The director of each district will canvass the district for members. All producers are urged to join as soon as possible.

A committee was appointed to confer with the canner in regards to price and production. The farmers are holding for $20, or will plant other crops that will insure them some profit over cost.

Frederick County Pikes.

The directors of the Woodsboro and Double Pipe Creek pike have offered to sell the stock of the pike to the county, at $5.00 per share, and it is believed the offer will be accepted.

A petition containing more than 100 names was filed with the commissioners on Monday, asking that the county take over the Liberty and Union Bridge road for the purpose of making it a free highway. This road runs between Liberty and Union Bridge, a distance of about 8 miles, and has 3 gates. James Sappington, of Liberty, is president of the com-

The signatures to the petition are farmers and property owners living along the road who express a strong desire to have the toll gates removed. It is understood that the directors of the road desire to arbitrate a price with the commissioners, but the latter prefer to settle the price question crete work on the streets and other among themselves. The commissioners stated that they will consider the petition in a few days. Five dollars per share has been paid by the county for all other roads taken over. The Record is a bit late in extending its congratulations to "Col." E. O. Weant, now of the Governor's staff, but somehow the information came to us late. #### MABYLAND BOYS RELEASED FOR HOME

The 29th and 79th Divisions Home. in May and June.

Washington, April 9.-General Pershing adivsed the War Department to-day that the Twenty-ninth, Thirtythird and Seventy-ninth Divisions had been released for return to the United States, the order effective immediately as to the Twenty-ninth, as to the Thirty-third April 12 and as to the Seventy-ninth April 10.

The Twenty-ninth Division (the Blue and the Gray) consists of National Guard troops of New Jersey, Virginia, Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia; the Seventy-ninth Division National Army men from Maryland and Southern Pennsylvania and the Thirty-third National Guard troops from Illinois.

These divisions had already been designated for return and the order is assumed here that the new order merely means that they now have been relieved from any other duty in France on the dates given and will begin to move to the ports of embarkation for the return journey.

According to a War Department explanation. General Pershing's announcement simply mean that the Twenty-ninth, Seventy-ninth and Thirty-third divisions have been ordered to begin preparations for their homeward journey and are to hold themselves subject to such sailing ar-rangements as will be worked out for them, but does not imply their

Mr. Walden's Baltimore Home Robbed

On Friday night of last week, while the family was attending a theatre, burglars entered the home of William Walden 2619 St., Paul street, proprietor of a stock farm at Middleburg. It is supposed that the robbers made a hurried escape when they saw Mr. Walden stop his machine in front of his home, as the silverware on the buffet was not disturbed.

During their visit, the robbers ransacked three rooms—the front and middle rooms on the second floor and the front room on the third floor. The rooms were in such a condition that Mrs. Walden was unable to tell just how much was stolen. The burglars entered the house by jimmying open the parlor window. They unlocked the front door so they could make a hasty exit, but left by way of a kitchen window. Mrs. Walden discovered the robbery when she went upstairs to get her husband's

There is a great deal of concern manifested about furnishing "work for the returned soldiers." There should perhaps be greater concern about making some of them work, when they have the chance, and to urge others of them to invite work.

Addison C. Grabill, of Union Bridge,

WHEAT GOING TO EUROPE. Government Selling Wheat to Europe at Less than in U. S

C. B. Evans, April 7, market report letter from Chicago to the Philadel-phia Ledger, contains the following surprising information;
One of the most interesting curiosities in the present world museum is the fact that the United States Government is selling wheat to Europeans at prices thirty to forty cents a bushel below those charged to American millers. For some weeks there has been a creeping up of our figures till the feeling has grown more general that the wheat market ought to be thrown open. Perhaps this feeling is the warmest in the breast of the householder, who is paying $14 a barrel for a good quality

It has been inferred from these high American figures that the supply was short and that the farmers were responsible through hoarding. This appears not to be the case. At the close of last month the supply of wheat in store in the United States was 92,546,000 bushels, against 5,381,000 a year before. The secret of the thing is that all this wheat belongs to the

As reported by trustworthy statistisians, the amount of wheat March 1 in the producing areas—that is, not in the market yet—was only 129,000,000 bushels, of which 50,000,000 bushels. els are required for seed. In country elevators there was a total of 107,000,000 bushels. The amount of wheat in sight that is probably available until the next crop comes to market does not vary greatly from that of former years.

The whole problem is complicated by the well-known fact that the United States Government is giving away a good deal of wheat. This much is certain, however, that this class of foodstuffs is costing European con-sumers less than the people of the greatest surplus country in the world are obliged to pay.

Attention to this subject was precipitated today by the statement of the head of a bank in this city which commonly loans large amounts on that class of security, that there was not one grain loan in the institution. The absence of this class of borrowing is easily understood, when it is remembered that the United States Treasury is borrowing of the people at 41/4 per-cent. while the rates for money in open market are 5 and 6 per-cent. The monetary arrange-ments are all based on legislation perfected by the Congres which adjourned March 4, including the appropriation of $100,000,000 for the charity of this business.

C. B. E.

An event that will really be of great importance and benefit to the whole state is the opening of the Chesapeake Bay ferry, with regular Shore. It is now proposed to make a 'big time" of the opening, May 1 or

Opening of the Bay Ferry.

E. G. Cover, of Easton, formerly of Uniontown, this county who probably will use the ferry as much, if not more than any other man in Talbott county, outlines a plan as follows: "I would say that Talbott county in vite the other counties immediately adjacent, as well as the Western Shore counties directly affected by the ferry, and have a celebration at Claiborne well worthy of the reputation of Talbott on former occasions. Invitations should be sent to the Governor of the State, Attorney-General Ritchie and his assistant, John Requart: Comptroller Hugh A. Mc-Mullen, and the county officials of nearby counties on both the Eastern and Western Shores. Plenty of music, suitable decorations on all roads leading to the ferry, and speeches by the State officials, would no doubt draw a good crowd and present a holiday appearance at the terminal. The ferry will mean much to me, probably as much to me as any other man on the Eastern Shore. My business connec-tions take me to Washington very frequently, and the ferry will save a day a week in traveling back and forth. By all means start the ferry off with a rousing day, as it is one of the real big things in the history of this State.'

Histories of the War.

As was to be expected, there is a vast multitude of cheap "War Histories" already on the market, made up largely of newspaper reports, the products of enterprising imaginations, and some more or less correct "eye witness" stories. Some good material, and a vast amount of unofficial

We give it as our opinion, that what may be termed reasonably authentic and correctly comprehensive histories of the war, will not be out for several years. The most of those now current, will be book-junk, filling the second-hand stores at 25 cents, or less, a volume, within two years. The fact is, this is the ultimate fate of most, even of the best, histories of war.

We therefore suggest to those who really want fairly authentic war histories—and, by the way, the war may not be ended yet-to wait a while, at least a year, before investing much in any present book of the kind.

Nearly a million dollars worth of partly finished wooden ships are to worth finishing.

CONFLICTING REPORTS OVER PEACE PROGRESS.

Secret Sessions Responsible for Doubt as to Situatiou.

Reports as to the Peace plans are so conflicting as to be practically worthless. One correspondent will tell a certain story with all signs of plausibility, while another will tell it in a different and contradictory light. The fact is that the secrecy of the negotiation has everybody guessing—a secrecy that may, or may not, be justfied, but which is being used, perhaps, with more harm than if the public was given a daily correct summary of progress, and of the differences encountered.

It has been reported, this week, that the President is soon coming home, and that he is at serious odds with both the English and French, and they with each other. That the President has lost his standing as a negotiator. That both England and the United States are opposing the just demands of France. That the whole conference was likely to break up, and each government make separate terms. That the League of Nations has dropped out of sight. In tions has dropped out of sight. In general, the report is persistent from most sources that the American delegation is being harshly criticised by

The latest report is that the terms of financial reparation have finally been completed, and when all were finally laid on the table, and the com-promises studied, the tension has re-laxed. There is now apparently left the final problem of agreeing on territorial lines the French and Italian borders These will come in for another conflict, apparently, but, if the report is to be credited, the conference may yet have a satisfactory ending.

It has been both reported that Lloyd George has prevented the in-sertion of the Monroe Doctrine agreement, and that such an amendment, prepared by Col. House, has been incorporated in the proceedings. President Wilson is both said to be preparing to come home, threatening to back out of the whole job; and also that he is preparing to come because everything will soon be satisfactorily com-pleted. It is also now said that the findings of the Commission will not be made public until they have first been submitted to Germany. Both British House and French Senate are reported as demanding information as to what is being done, they apparently being as much in doubt as any-body else as to the exact status.

Farmers-Buy Bonds.

Farmers have been told so often that they are the backbone of the nation's prosperity that they sometimes grow tired of hearing the praise reyear-round service, between Annapolis, and Claiborne on the Eastern more than ordinary significance. It costs many to raise and transport the produce of American fields and farms. The farmer made money; he received higher prices for his crops than had ever been paid before in the history of the country. It is true that the war has been gloriously ended. But the job has not been ended. When the American puts his hand to the plow he does not look back. When he puts his name on a note he makes good. It is the American way. And nobody doubts that the American people will make good on the Victory Liberty Loan. In entering the war they put their name to of Congress, has been consigned to a promisory note to their govern-ment which is about to fall due.

These words are just a reminder of obligations. The farmer has prospered, in some cases even beyond his dreams. And prosperity is coming to him in the future in even greater measure. The world must come to America for food. The war is over, but the job is not. America will finish it in true American 100 per-cent. style.-War Loan News.

Return of Troops Depends on the Outcome of Peace Terms.

Washington, April 7.—Approximately 120 ships now are engaged in returning American troops from overseas and additional vessels are being fitted out for this service, with a view to increasing the homeward movement to 300,000 or more men a month. It was said today that at this rate the last of the expeditionary forces might be out of Europe by late summer, but that this would depend largely upon developments at the Peace Conference.

Of the ships now in the transport service, more than 100 are vessels commandeered or built during the war, former German liners seized in American waters, some few foreign ships held under charter and battleships and cruisers fitted out for this purpose since hostilities ceased. of these craft are manned by Ameri-

THE RAILROAD MUDDLE.

The Public Must Pay, Either in Taxes or Higher Charges.

Undoubtedly if the railroads were returned to private operation they would be more economically operated than they can be under the present system. But it is impossible to believe, in view of the statistics of earnings and expenses for recent months, that, while existing wages of labor, prices of fuel and materials and passenger and freight rates, they can be so operated under government control as to avoid another large deficit, or under private control as to enable them to earn enough to pay their interest and reasonable dividends.

There is no prospect of a reduction of wages. Prices of fuel and materials are weakening some, but not much. In the circumstances there seems to be but one method available for restoring the remainder between earnings and expenses, and that is to advance rates again.

It is impossible to see how, without another advance of rates, the railways could be restored to private operation without bankrupting many companies and forcing many others to suspend their dividends. It is also impossible to see how the govern-ment, without another advance of rates, can avoid piling up a larger and larger deficit. Its deficit in the year 1918 was about $225,000,000. This was increased to about $260,000,000 by the deficit incurred in January, 1919.

The public must pay in taxes the entire deficit incurred in operating the railways. But there ought not to be any deficit incurred. Those who use transportation service should pay the entire cost incurred in rendering that service. The taxpayers should not be required to pay any part of it. The railroad administration ought to advance the rates at once enough to prevent any more deficit from being incurred. would public opinion permit another advance in rates? We believe it would, if the facts were presented to the public clearly and fully. The price the public will have to pay if the railroads are not returned to price. vate operation will be greater, either in rates or taxes, or both, than the price it will have to pay if they are not returned to private operation, for our own experience, like that of every other country that has had experience, has shown that government operation inevitably is more expensive than private operation. It will not cost the public nearly as much to return the railways to private operation as it would to continue government operation; but it will cost something. Will the public willingly pay the price necessary to restore private operation, or will it refuse to pay it, and thereby in effect force itself to pay the much higher price that it will have to pay if it continues government operation? The public must answer this question. It is one of the most important and pressing questions now confronting it.—Railway Age.

A Silly Sentiment Exhibit.

The White House will apparently need another set of expensive china, because the set used at the Peace Conference dinner February 26, has been placed on exhibition. The news report of the setting aside of the "historic" china says;

"China used on the White House table for the dinner conference February 26, at which President Wilson on his return from France discussed the league of nations with members of the Foreign Relations Committees a cabinet along with other sets used presidents on historic occasions. It is a plain dinner set, decorated with a single stripe of gold, and was used for the first time at the league of nations dinner."

The Price of Coffee.

Chicago, April 7th .- One of the high prices not due to the war is the present cost of coffee, according to a Brand, of Cleveland, president of the National Coffee Roasters' Association. A hard frost last year devastated the Brazilian fields, he said, and when the new crop arrived the price for common grade coffee would be about fifty cents a pound and better grades from fifty to sixty cents, and no further abnormal prices should prevail. Present prospects for the next two years in Brazil he pronounced

Mr. Brand further declared that Europe was not buying large quanti-ties in Central America, that Eng-land had embargoed the product and Germany was getting nothing.

Remarkable Accident With Hay Fork.

William Earp, a prominent farmer of Howard county, met with a most remarkable accident, on Monday, while loading hay in a barrack, Mr. Earp was operating the fork, when the rope attached to it broke and wrapped around his body. the horse could be stopped pulling at the other end, Earp was carried to the roof of the barn with such force as to break his neck. Just how such an accident could occur, is not made clear in the report, but there is no doubt of the fact itself. Mr. Earp was taken to a Baltimore Hospital, with but little hope of recovery.

Secretary of the Treasury, Carter Glass, made an address in Baltimore, Thursday night, in favor of the Victory Loan, confidently predicting that Maryland would meet her quota, as she has done before.

What George Washington Said, and What He Might Say Now.

There is undoubtedly a strong following in this country against a League of Nations of any kind, no matter how its constitution may be framed. This sentiment takes for its motto the policy of George Washington, warning against all "foreign alliances," and no interference in European affairs whatever.

They believe—so they say—in an Americanism that "minds its own business." They point out that the Constitution of the United States delegates to Congress the sole power to regulate commerce with foreign nations; to define and punish offenses; to raise and support armies, and to provide and maintain a Navy; and then, there is the Monroe doctrine that delegates to the United States the sole right of maintaining order in North and South America, and warns Europeans to keep hands off.

We like these sentiments. They have brought us-or, at least while we followed them-National great-We have unbounded belief in Washington; what he did, what he said, and his general program as a man, General and President. But, we have serious doubts, whether, after all these years, it is either wisdom, or righteousness, to continue to "let George do it?" Whether George himself, in the light of changed world conditions, would still advocate his many sound and famous policies for present application.

Great men sometimes change their minds. It is a sign of greatness, wisdom and justice, that that, when prices do come down, inthey do so. All great men consider come will follow in the same ratio, the evidence before them, and act accordingly. We are not, therefore, so greatly concerned as to what George Washington said, over a hundred years ago, as to what he would say if living now, and in the same authority.

sure that it could maintain its own Bailey says: Nationality, and was naturally suspicous of any sign of un-Americanism as it was then known. It wanted to be left alone, and was perfectly willing to let others alone. Its business was largely at home, and its chief concern was to stay at home and look after that business.

But, that time of timid development has long since gone by. This country is a nation with a big N. It is doing big business with, and has big interests with, all portions of the world. It has not only civilized and friends? Christianized itself (as these words are commonly accepted) but it is largely engaged in trying to bring the United States with intelligence civilization and Christianity to the enough to know why he is a Democrat uttermost and darkest portions of the earth. It is doing humanitarian work on a big scale, as it is doing Jackson were Democrats.' everything else, and demands worldwide freedom in doing it, as well as world-wide freedom in trade.

Now, the question is brought plainly before us. Can we continue our sharply defined Nationalism, and our Monroe doctrine, and our freedom of the seas demand, and our right to extend wherever we please our missionary efforts and our trade relations, his hand. without at the same time helping other Nations to preserve that peace and order that is necessary for us to have to attend to this greatly widened scope of "our own business"? It looks to us as though if we want to continue these objects-and we certainly do-we must help police the conquest, and is now giving his mighty world. For this reason, our humble judgment is that we must agree to a League of Nations, properly safeguarded so as not to break down our sume our share of international responsibility. Perhaps such a League of Nations will not suit Europe, and faded, still go on about him."

it may be objected to as being no world League at all; but, we have hopes that some such League can be formed, and given a trial.

It is conceded, even by the most ardent Peace Leaguers, that no compact for absolutely preventing war can be found; that, given the proper circumstances and provocations, wars must come in the future as in the past; therefore, whether it be called a "League," a "Treaty," or "Agreement," we do not see why the very best effort should not be made, that it is possible to make, then let it go at that. To say that we will not go into any League, does not appear to us to have a sensible foundation.

The sort of public consideration of the League that the country most needs is for the Democrats to stop boosting it because they consider it a mark of party fealty to do so, as being mostly a Democratic President's idea; and for the Republicans to stop knocking it because the Democrats make a partisan issue of it The League is not something to be swallowed whole, with a hurrah, nor to be refused without the fullest investigation. That these attitudes largely prevail, we believe, is due largely to President Wilson's arbitrary, and without "advice and consent," manner of promoting it.

Do Not Wait for Prices to Come Down

The great objection to holding back now in making purchases, or going ahead with improvements, is, that it influences business and trade six months or more ahead. Mills and factories of many kinds are now working on next Fall and Winter's merchandise-clothing, shoes, knit goods-everything that will be needed in the retail stores six to nine months from now.

If the Spring and Summer business is slow, the effect will reach far ahead. Merchants will be afraid to place orders, and the mills will not make up big stocks without orders, and these stocks can not be made up late in the season when the demand comes. All through the Summer manufacturers must be working on Winter goods; otherwise, they can not

Just now, nobody wants to "take chances." The fear that there may be a "drop" in prices, influences retailers and wholesalers as well as consumers; and it is the latter that must start the business going. If they do not start it now, it will not manufactured goods, and that means continued high prices.

The Sleeping Sickness.

the past ten days, from what is commonly called "sleeping sickness" has caused some apprehension that the disease might become epidemic, and the fear has been all the more pronounced because the disease appears not to be well under control of treatment, nor its cause very well understood. Dr. C. Hampson Jones, of the State Health Department, does not look for an epidemic, and speaks somewhat reassuringly, as follows;

"The many scientific investigators over the world looking into the cause of death frequently discover evidence to show that many deaths apparently due to the same cause have been really due to different causes. As for example, many years ago appendicitis was not given as a cause of death simply because that up to a certain time the cases of appendicitis causing death were classed with other inflammation of the abdomen and the subsequent classification of deaths due to appendicitis did not mean that appendicitis was a new disease, but that it was simply differentiated from many other affections of the abdomen causing death.

"This is probably true in deaths that are now said to be due to a new disease, Encephalitis Lethargica, commonly known as sleeping sick-ness. This probably is no new thing. but investigators have determined certain definite symptoms that show it to be due to a definite cause that formerly was classed with other illdefined causes of death affecting the central nervous system. "Many of the symptoms of Encephalitis Lethargica are similar to those of poliomyelitis and in all probability the disease has been causing death not only in Europe but also in this country long before

"We therefore do not consider that there is any reason at all to expect any outbreak of the disease, but merely a more clearly defined diagnosis being made by the physicians.'

We find it isn't a locust at all, but is a member of a totally different family known as the cicada. Also, it is not a "seventeen-year" insect, but is a periodical cicada, making its appearance in some localities at periods of 17 years and in others at 13-year intervals. And the two

Farm Improvements and Construction Work.

Farm products have a greater purchasing power today than ever before in the country's history. This may explain why rural districts of the country rapidly are now getting under. way with building and construction work. It is obvious, since building and construction work have such an important bearing at this time on stimulating general business, the farmer may serve both his own and the national interest by at once making needed improvements on his property. He can further the general welfare while assuring himself of immediate and permanent benefits, in urging road construction and improvements in his locality.

It is generally understood no material reduction may be expected in building and construction costs in the near future. To be sure, prices on some materials may be slightly reduced in the readjustment, but the best authorities on the subject assert no pronounced reductions are probable. This is explained by money conditions, the foreign demand, and the marked curtailment of production of building materials during the war. Prof. Fisher, of Yale University, has ssued a statement in which he say the country is on a new price level from which there will be no general

Many farmers have been unable to get materials and labor for barns, silos, houses and other improvements during the war. The farmer who at once avails of the labor supply and gets his improvement work under way, in the long run, may prove to be the prudent business man, for there is reason to believe that farmers who delay in the hope of materially reduced construction costs will have been deprived of the use of these improvements and in the end be forced to pay approximately the building prices now prevailing.

In several States, among them Missouri, Oregon and Colorado, silo building campaigns are being carried on by the Agricultural colleges. In Wisconsin there is a milk house campaign being vigorously prosecuted in the dairy districts, while in Illinois farmers are being urged to build feeding floors. Other campaigns for farm improvements are on in Nebraska, Kansas, Minnesota, South Dakota, Kentucky, Ohio and in localities in Texas and Iowa. While many of these are being conducted by building interests, the Division of Public Works and Construction Development of the U.S. Department of Labor is interested in seeing them successfully carried out because the Division realizes such activities on the farms are bound to have a beneficial effect on general business conditions.

The farmers of the country should prevent demoralization. While the found influence in keeping "business mand of America and Europe.-U. S.

Some Extra Money Can Be Realized by Farmers.

Important to Keep Varieties to Be Used for Sirup Production From Mixing With Others-Use Care in Storing Seed Heads.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Good, pure, viable seed of sorgo or sweet sorghum has been greatly in demand the last two years and a little extra money can be realized by farmers in the sorghum belt if they will save the seed from their fodder and sirup sorghum varieties, especially if they have pure strains of such standard varieties as black amber, red amber, orange, sumac, honey, and gooseneck.

In addition to the demand for seed of these varieties for fodder and sirup | Canada and Australia Ask Information production there is a limited demand by sirup producers for the seed of such varieties as Colman, Red X, Collier, and McLean. The average farmer, however, who is growing the sorgos primarily for forage purposes had best confine himself to some one of the first-named varieties.

The importance of keeping the varieties to be used for sirup production from mixing with other varieties is strongly emphasized. The sweet interest in the plan of work is no varieties from which seed for future planting is to be gathered should not but that other countries are eager to be grown near any other sirup or fod- adopt a similar type of organization. der variety. Even then the seed heads should be carefully selected with a view to trueness of type or variety.

With fodder varieties one can go into a field of shocked fodder and with the state and nation in meeting gather the seed in paying quantities by cutting with a knife the heads from administering and directing all phases the bundles or from the individual stalks, if the fodder has not been home economics in the country. bound. The heads can be thrown in piles at the base of the shock, after the practice followed in husking corn from the shock, but this entails considerable waste and it is better to take a team and wagon into the field and throw the heads directly into the wagon box. If the field has been properly rogued and has ripened uniformly it is more economical for two men to work together and by means of a chopping block attached to the wagon box separate the heads from an en- foods in the cheapest possible mantire bundle at one stroke.

The piles of heads should GREATLY IN DEMAND be examined at least every two weeks, and if any signs of heat develop they should be turned with forks to forestall all damage. Where an open shed is not available for the protection of the ricked heads they may be piled in the open and coverd with a arpaulin or with bundles of fodder until they can be thrashed.

Allowing seed designed to be used for planting purposes to be wet by every rain and snow which comes is inexcusable even where wet periods are infrequent and the total amount of moisture likely to be small. Seed intended to be used for feeding purposes will not be injured to any considerable extent by a small amount of moisture, but wet seed, especially during a season when freezing temperatures prevail, will be rendered almost worthless for planting. Freezing temperatures do little injury to dry seed.

FARM PROFITS

Rural Business Men Are Well Able to Take Up Their Share in the "Victorious"

More than ever before the American farmer finds himself in the position of comfort and prosperity which is his just due. Lean years are for him no longer. Last year the average of farm earnings broke all records. Six million farms in 1918 produced crops worth $12,280,000,000.

This year it is estimated that a greater wheat acreage than ever will be sown. Naturally, the farmer is making the most of his opportunities, and with guaranteed wheat prices and high prices for everything he grows, the outlook for him is most encouraging. And Europe will furnish a market for his fat hogs and

It would be interesting, if possible, to assemble comparative statements of the farmers' bank accounts now and five years ago, and the list of mortgages that have been cancelled. And it would be more interesting perhaps to have a statement of the Liberty Bonds now in the hands of these tillers of the soil.

Very soon the farmer will have further opportunity to prove that he is not without loyalty as well developed as any man's. For another loan is almost in sight, a loan that will draw upon us all.

Because of his price guarantee of $2.26 a bushel, Uncle Sam stands to lose from 50 to 75 cents upon every bushel of wheat harvested next seas-Having given this guarantee to the farmer, he will make it good. That is Uncle Sam's way. But what is Mr. Farmer going to do for Uncle Sam in the Victory Liberty Loan?

In every Liberty Loan to date the farmer, as a class, has bought less bonds than men in other prosperous classes. He has been able meantime to get more sugar and everything else upon which the government put a restriction, than others have.

The big question now, when he stands to cash in at a 25 per cent premium upon his wheat crop, is what is he going to do next Liberty Loan

Some Liberty Loan officials are suggesting that the farmer should buy a $100 bond for each 100 bushels of wheat he sells to the government. He has made the profit and should have no hesitancy in taking a highgrade security in payment for the difference between what the government gets and what he receives for

ROOSEVELT AUTHOR AT NINE

Even at That Early Age, What Future President Had to Say Was Entertaining.

Theodore Roosevelt's first book, like many of his fifty-odd later ones, dealt with natural history, but, unlike his later works, it was written entirely in pencil in an old notebook, an exchange states. Theodore was nine years old at the time. The title of the book is on the first page: "Natural History on Insects. By Theodore Roosevelt, Jr." Under it comes the "preface:" "All these insects are native of North America. Most of the insects are not in other books. I will write about ants first." He did, and what he had to say about them is decidedly entertain-

"Ants are divided into three sorts for every species. These kinds are officer, soldier and worker. There are about one officer to ten soilders and one soldier to two workers." He tells about the common black ant and the brown path ant and various other kinds of ants; he tells about spiders and lady-bugs and fireflies and horned "beetles" and dragon flies and "mi squeto" hawks. "All the insects that a write about in this book," he adds, "inhabit North America. Now and then a friend has told me something about them, but mostly I have gained their habits from obserf-a-tion.'

The author of "natural history on insects" added to his volume a note or a crayfish. "I need not describe the form of a crayfish to you," he writes. "Look at a lobster and you will have its form."

SLOW GROWTH OF GRAMMAR

Interesting to Note Its Progress Since the Days of Chaucer and Shakespeare.

In the days of Chaucer there were undoubtedly differences among writers which made their grammar and spelling seem singular to us; yet crude though they were, the art of literary composition was well advanced.

That, however, was not the greatest age; it came in the Elizabethan period; and while the literary peculiarities of Shakespeare's style were strongly defined, it could not be said in any sense that they revealed lack of knowledge in either grammar or spelling, the standards of that day being suited to the culture of the time.

And a great advance had been made over the days of Chaucer. In the days of Addison, Johnson, Swift, Congreve and Goldsmith we find a great advance with more unity in both grammar and

The authorized version of the Bible in the line of literary workmanship noted the greatest advance of all and reached a point which has not been surpassed if, indeed, equaled.

There was a certain latitude in spelling, it is true, to which we today look back with interested curiosity; but even that was not the result of ignorance, but rather of custom, which allowed the latitude, and it was in no sense a literary disfigurement.-Christian Herald.

Salvation Army.

The Salvation Army is an organiz tion formed upon a quasi-military pattern, for the revival of religion among the masses. It was founded in England by the Methodist evangelist William Booth, about 1865, under the name of the Christian Mission, the present name and organization being adopted about 1878. It has extended to the continent of Europe, to India, Australia and other British posses sions, to the United States, South America and elsewhere. Its work is carried on by means of processions, street singing and preaching, and the like, under the direction of officers entitled generals, majors and captains. Both sexes participate in the services and direction of the body on equal terms. Besides its religious work, it engages in various reformatory and philanthropic enterprises. It has no formulated creed, but its doctrines bear a general resemblance to those common to all Protestant evangelical churches, and especially to those of Methodism.

Just Passing the Time.

It was during a season of hard times at Cripple Creek, the streets were crowded with idle miners, and the city authorities, taking advantage of the fact, had a good amount of work done putting in sewers and paving streets. Mulligan, who toiled in the mines at other times, was not above earning a little extra money whenever possible, and had taken over a job at digging ditches. One morning his friend chanced to pass him as he was laboriously shoveling earth. "Hello, Mulligan! What are yez doin' there?" The workman leaned on his spade and made a long pause before answering: "Oh, Oi t'ought Oi would work just whoile Oi was oidle, boy."

Rain Parasols.

Parasols are of ancient lineage, but before umbrellas became common an article resembling a parasol was used by the ladies to keep off the rain. These were called "quitasols," a name derived from the Spanish; they were of oiled muslin, were of various colors and were imported from India by way of England. After these came umbrellas, which were also made of oiled linen, but the linen was coarse and the umbrella large and bulky. In 1771 a noted doctor and a famous preacher tried to introduce the fashion of using umbrellas, to keep off the sun, but "they were scouted in the public gazettes as a ridiculous effeminacy."

One often hears the expression, "My child caught a severe cold which developed into diphtheria," when the truth was that the cold had simply left the little one particularly susceptible to the wandering diphtheria germ. If your child has a cold when diphtheria is prevalent you should take him out of school and keep him off the street until fully recovered, as there is a hundred times more dearger. there is a hundred times more danger of his taking diphtheria when he has a cold. When Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given it quickly cures the cold and lessens the danger of diphtheria or any other germ disease being contracted.

GREAT AUK'S EGG?

Maybe, but Nevertheless, It Arrived at the Breakfast Table in a Scramble.

By MARGARET MANNING.

Professor Ferdinand Brinckhofen wandered into the kitchen of his summer bungalow, on the Maine shore. His wife was washing the dinner

"Ellen, my dear," he said, "Doctor Cavendish, of the Natural History museum, will be here this afternoon. Can you get up a meal for him? He has to start back tomorrow morning.'

"I suppose so, Ferdinand," answered his wife, a little tartly. "You know, of course, that we haven't much in the house to offer a guest. However, I'll do my best, and if he will be satisfied with it he's welcome. Why is he coming all this distance just to spend the night with us?"

Professor Brinckhofen put his arm round his wife's waist and kissed

"I know you're busy, Ellen," he said. "Next summer we'll get a maid." And he wandered out, while his wife or do something to it! Never trust a went on washing. She dried the last plate and set it aside.

"I wonder just why Doctor Cavendish is coming here for one night," she said to herself.

Professor Brinckhofen engaged a rowboat and pulled round to the railroad terminal, where he arrived just in time to greet Doctor Cavendish as his visitor stepped out of his car.

"Well, what did you think of my letter?" he asked, after the customary greetings had been interchanged.

Doctor Cavendish took his friend by the arm. "My dear old enthusiast," he answered, "to be frank with you,

Good Heaven, Brinckhofen, It Is! It Is!"

I am sceptical—wholly sceptical. It sounds too good to be true. If you had told me that you had discovered a buried Indian village or a dozen asteroids I would have accepted your word without question. But a great auk's egg-no, my friend. You have probably mistaken the egg of a crested grebe or tufted puffin for that of the auk."

"But the great auk did range as far south as Maine in the last century!" cried the professor.

"And the last specimen was shot

"No, Cavendish, in 1912. I tell you it was an auk. I shot the brooding bird, but it fell into the water and drifted out to sea before I could get a boat. But the egg—it was an auk's egg, and it was warm. I took it home and I'm incubating it."

"What does Mrs. Brinckhofen think

"She doesn't know anything about it, of course. I don't believe in telling my wife a professional secret. And the joke of it is"-he nudged Cavendish in the ribs-"it's incubating with a clutch of eggs that she set out last week under one of our hens. It couldn't be safer anywhere."

"Show me!" said Cavendish sceptically, and they entered the rowboat and, a few minutes later, rounded the point of land behind which the Brinckhofens had their bungalow.

"There was where I shot her," said the professor, pointing to the high, towering cliff. "I didn't mean to, eithe er, but I was so excited that I couldn't bear to think of her getting away, Now, before we do anything else we'll go straight to the clutch."

They climbed the hill and entered the little garden of the bungalow. In one corner was the hen house, and, in the center, seated upon a clutch of eggs surrounded with straw, was a gray hen, which looked at them with malignant eyes and half opened her beak as though to protect her trea

"Shoo!" said Profesor Brinckhofen, and the hen slowly rose and retired a few paces, where it crouched with flapping wings and an irace expression. Professor Brinckhofen plunged his hand into the clutch and drew out the precious egg. It was a little larger than that of a goose.

Good heavens, Brinckhofen, it is! It is!" yelled Doctor Cavendish, and, carefully replacing it, he seized his friend round the waist, and the two graybeards executed a dance.

Mrs. Brinckhofen watched them out of the kitchen window. "I suppose that is Doctor Cavendish," she said pityingly. "I wonder why they are dancing in the hen-She sat down and meditated upon | Companion.

the subject until the men came in. Then she welcomed Doctor Cavendish with smiles

"Come, Cavendish, I want to show you my laboratory," said Brinckhofen. dragging his friend away as soon as he decently could. They went into the professor's little bare room and began discussing the great discovery. "Of course it goes to the museum, Brinckhofen," said Cavendish. "It will be worth a thousand dollars to

"A thousand dollars!" exclaimed the professor. "You are joking, Cavendish. Why, the egg alone would bring that at auction."

"Yes, yes, I'm speaking about the egg," said Doctor Cavendish irritably. What are you speaking about?"

"Why, the auk, of course. Don't you know that I put it there so that it would hatch? Why, we'll have a real live bird, Cavendish. I shall sell ft to the Zoological society, and I'll patch up the egg after it has hatched out, and I'll let you have that for a thousand. And the bird will lay more eggs, and I'll get a thousand apiece for those too, and-"

"I say," interposed Cavendish, "remember it isn't hatched yet. If I were you I would tell Mrs. Brinckhofen about it.'

"Tell Mrs. Brinckhofen! Why, she'd tell the neighbors and they'd steal it woman. No, it is safest just where it

They argued with some lack of equanimity until dinner time, when Mrs. Brinckhofen ejected them into the dining room.

"Hum! I'm hungry as a bear," said Doctor Cavendish, pulling his napkin across knees. "What have we here? Scrambled eggs? Fine!"

"I don't know whether you like scrambled goose eggs," said Mrs. Brinckhofen.' "They say they're very nice. I found one under our biddy-it must have been laid by one of Mr. Giles's geese, for it wasn't there last time I looked. So I thought that as we hadn't many eggs I'd try what it tasted like."

"Woman!" gasped the professor, springing to his feet, "do you mean to say you-you scrambled that egg?" "Yes, dear," said Mrs. Brinckhofen sweetly.

(Copyright, 1912, by W. G. Chapman.) HOT BREAKFAST MEANS MUCH

Success or Failure of the Day Depends to a Large Extent on First Meal.

When a singularly successful business man was asked the secret of getting on in the world, he modestly said his wife deserved most of the credit, as she always had a good breakfast ready for him every day in the year, served punctually and piping hot. He further said that poor food, especially in the morning, was responsible for many business failures, for the man who sets out on a cold morning with cold, indifferent food in his stomach is ill-prepared for the business battle. It takes time and planning, but it pays to serve good breakfasts. It means getting up early enough to insure against rushing about and fretting when things go wrong, but the wise woman counts it no sacrifice to send her husband off cheery and well There are plenty of ways in which a woman without help may manage, and even if she keeps a maid she will find plenty to oversee and correct day after day. The women who rise early to get breakfast for their husbands unite in saying there are possibilities in the early morning hours realized later in the day. When other women are sleepily getting up, the thrifty housekeepers have their morning work done and are ready to get the children off to school. There would be fewer failures in school work if all children were sent to the school room well fed in the morning. If they were aroused in time to dress leisurely and eat a hearty breakfast there would be fewer cases of nervous prostration among teachers. A cup of hot cocoa, a poached egg, good toast and well-cooked cerceal served to the entire family in the morning and eaten in a leisurely manner would rob hospitals of many patients and give doctors and surgeons extra vacations every year.

Theories About Rainfall.

While we in this country have been suffering for some years from a lack of rain, some parts of Europe appear, according to statistics, to be getting more rain every year.

Observations at the Observatory of Paris show that from 1804 to 1824 the average yearly rainfall was 502 milli meters (an inch is about 25 millime ters). In the next twenty years the average was 507; then from 1845 to 1872 there was an increase to 525; in the next twenty years it was 553, and in the last nineteen years the average has grown to 584 millimeters—about 231/2 inches.

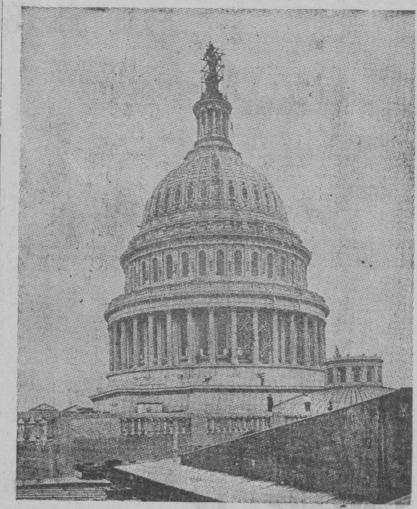

The commonest theory to account for this is that the smoke and dust rising from a large city favor the condensation of moisture. But this theory runs counter to the experience of London, the smokiest city of Eu rope, where no such increased rain fall is recorded.

And in some of the mountainous re gions of France the increase has been as much as 73 per cent., as compared with thirty years ago.

Worse and More of It.

The dome of the United States Capitol at Washington is kept in excellent condition by painting it every few years. For this work forty painters are steadily employed for three months' time. Over five thousand gallons of paint are required for one coat. The reason for painting the Capitol dome at regular intervals is to prevent disintegration of metallic surface.

BOY "DROPPED INTO MONEY"

New York Youngster Found Floors of Deserted House Fairly Strewn With Bank Notes.

A coal chute may be a prosaic substitute for Aladdin's lamp, but one found by a New York boy delivered the goods as satisfactorily as ever did the old oil burner of "Arabian Nights" fame, observes the Kansas City Star. Vincent Mastag'lio had been dazzling his playmates with great rolls of $10 bank notes and pockets full of jewelry for several days when the police learned of his suddenly acquired riches and took him into juvenile court, where he told of discovering his treasure trove.

He was playing in a New York East side street the other day when he fell through a coal hole. There wasn't much in the cellar to excite his interest, so he tried the upper floors of the house, which he found to be deserted. There, he told the police, he found rooms with their floors strewn with money; $5 and $10 bills had been wadded and thrown in every corner, and jewelry littered the dressing tables.

Investigation by the police verified the boy's statement. They learned that the house had been occupied by Mrs. James Sandham, a recluse ninety years old, who had died a few days before. The boy was the first person to enter the house after the woman had been removed to a hospital, and the money, thought to be rents from her tenants, had lain where she had thrown it on the floor as she received it.

"This tribe, resembling Anglo-Saxons, lives in the district of Sung Pan. It is described to me as consisting of large men whose bravery is considered a marvel by the Chinese. "They never run away," a Chinese friend told me. "They love to fight."

The new fruit has been produced by crossing the grape fruit with the tangerine orange and it is called the tangelo. CHRIST OUR SAVIOR.

LESSON TEXTS—John 1:35-51; Matthew 50:7, 25; John 3:16; Romans 8:31, 32, GOLDEN TEXT—God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on him should not perish, but have everlasting life.—John 3:16. PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus our friend and

JUNIOR TOPIC-What Jesus does for INTERMEDIATE TOPIC-Our Lord

I. Who Jesus is (John 1:35-51). It is absolutely indispensable that every pupil regardless of age should know clearly who Jesus is and what he came into the world for. It should be the ardent desire of every teacher to make so clear the person and work of Christ that the pupils may accept him as their Saviour. Nothing short of his Deity and vicarious atonement will avail for salvation. What he is set forth to be is through personal testimony. For the most part that which he was found to be is through personal investigation. 1. The Lamb of God (v. 36). John testified that he is the Lamb of Godthe world's sin bearer. The word used and the idea conveyed carry us back to Isaiah 53 and forward to Jesus on the cross, bearing our sins in his own body. Christ had been definitely pointed out to John by the Holy Spirit (vv. 83, 84).

2. The Messiah (v. 41). At the invitation of Jesus, the disciples went and abode with him for a day. As a result of that day with Jesus they testified that he is the Messiah. He is that one whom God had anointed to be the Saviour of men.

3. The Son of God. (v. 49). Nathanael was interested through the testimony of a friend. Philip told him that he had found Jesus of Nazareth, of whom Moses had written. He knew that Nazareth was not the birthplace of the Messiah, therefore he inquired: "Can any good thing come out of Nazareth?" At the invitation of Philip he made a personal investigation. As a result he testified that Jesus was the Son of God, the King of Israel.

4. The Son of Man (v. 51). This is Christ's own testimony. It shows that he is the Messiah who, according to Daniel's prediction (Dan. 7:13), would appear in divine glory and establish a universal and eternal kingdom. In this testimony of Jesus is foreshadowed the union of man and God, and through him the establishment of a medium of communication between earth and heaven. This is the reality of Jacob's vision at Bethel (Gen. 28:

II. His Mission in the World (Matt. 20:27, 28; John 3:16).

He came to give his life a ransom for many. The world was lost in sin -about to perish. Christ voluntarily gave his life-died instead of the sim-

1. The world is dying like the Israelites, because bitten by the serpent

2 Christ, like the brazen serpent, has been lifted up upon the cross as the remedy for sin (John 3:14, 15).

3. As the Israelites must look up to the uplifted serpent, so those who would be saved must believe on Jesus Christ (John 3:16). While looking by faith to the crucified Christ saves from the death-sting of the serpent, a neglect or refusal to believe on him means to perish.

4. This provision was made by God. It emanated from his love (John 3: 16). "For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son."

III. What He Gives (Rom. 8:31, 32). God gave his Son to save a dying world. Those who accept his Son have God on their side. He that spared his Son will freely give all things to those who receive him. He even makes all things work together for good to them who love him (Rom. 8:28).

Obedience Required.

The Bible rings with one long demand for obedience. The key word of the book of Deuteronomy is "Observe and do." The burden of our Lord's farewell discourse is, "If ye love me, keep my commandments." We must not question or reply or excuse ourselves. We must not pick and choose our way. We must not think that obedience in one direction will compensate for disobedience in some other particular. God gives one command at a time; if we obey this he will flood our soul with blessing, and lead us forward into new paths and pastures. But if we refuse we shall remain stagnant and waterlogged, make no progress in Christian experience, and lack both power and joy.-F. B. Meyer.

God's Love.

Those who love God are encompassed with gladness on every side, because in every passing moment they see and feel a Father's love, and nothing of this world can take it away or lessen it.-Lear.

Every Man.

Depend upon this truth, that every man is the worse looked upon, and the less trusted, for being thought to have no religion; in spite of all the pompous and specious epithets he may assume.-Chesterfield.

How to Give God's Day to Godlike Deeds Exodus 20:8-11

If "God is love," then Godlike deeds will be deeds of love. Now, "Love seeketh not her own." It is written in Isaiah 58:13 that "if thou call the Sabbath a delight, not doing thine own ways nor finding thine own words, then shalt thou delight thyself in the Lord." The words, "thine own," are thrice repeated. This gives the key to the situation. Godlike deeds involve unselfishness, thought for others, the ministries of love and kindness to those shut in or cast down. Every live society of young people should see to it that this kind of work has a place in its organized activities. Pure religion, in its outward expression, is this: "to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep oneself unspotted from the world." This is the highest form of outward worship and service. See James 1:27

This does not exclude the more public activities in church and school, but rather gives zest and freshness to them. Nor does it mean the exclusion of bodily rest and renewing, but it does mean that selfish pleasure shall not dominate; that such things as "joy riding" and all that goes with it, shall have no place in our plans and practices. It has been well said that "one may have Sunday recreation for the body and yet have no Sab-bath for the soul. If even iron, con-stantly used, will break at last under strain, how can the soul stand the tests of life unless it finds its rest in

In the last analysis, Godlike deeds on the one day in seven will be largely determined by the disposition of our souls during the other six days. A mere formal religion in the soul will mere formal religion in the soul will lead to a perfunctory service only. A vital experience of God's grace in the forgiveness of sins, and the renewing of the life by the Holy Spirit, will issue in a service of wisdom and love. Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh, the hands move, the intellect plans and the will decides.

It was on this first day of the week

It was on this first day of the week that our Lord arose from the dead. If we have been united to Him, if we can say the words of Galatians 2:20 from the heart, there will be no difficulty in keeping that day in such a way as to please Him. His Spirit within will move us to acts of love and mercy and will also give the strength to perform them.

NOT ABOVE CARRYING BUNDLE

Spirit Shown by New York Man May Explain Why He Has Become a Millionaire.

The following story, which suggests that some millionaires are no more printed in Forbes Magazine: A Broadway (New York city) street car conductor was about to forbid a man carrying a huge roll of carpet to enter his car-the bundle was so huge that the conductor feared it would block the aisle. The bearer of the burden, however, smiled at him so amiably and deposited his long parcel promptly at the far corner of the platform that the conductor hadn't the heart to remonstrate. This was at Thirty-third street, opposite a department store, At Forty-second street the passenger shouldered his bundle and walked off. He carried it to one of New York's newest skyscrapers and immediately proceeded to lay it upon the floor of one of the reception rooms there.

He was the owner of the skyscraper! He was Irving T. Bush, millionpire creator of the famous Bush terminal, a veritable city within the city of Brooklyn, owner of a large shipyard and of other projects.

To friends who chaffed him, Mr. Bush explained that the rug caught his fancy while in the store, and he particularly wished to have it laid down before a reception that was to be held at the Buyers' club (in the Bush building) that day. But as the store could not make immediate delivery, why, the only and the natural thing for him to do was to shoulder it himself. The spectacle of a millionaire lugging along such a burden in a street car and in the street did not strike this particular millionaire as in any way funny.

"No one ever loved you half as well as I do," he said to her.

She made no answer. "How did you come to love me?" he pleaded. Still the girl refused to speak, although she smiled encouragingly at this.

"Your name is written on my heart. The world is dark without you. I've built a bungalow for you and me. Let us fly to an isle in the tropic sea. The kiss you gave me set my heart on

The girl was not offended. She scowled a little, but not at him. She seemed in deep thought. Suddenly she looked into his pleading orbs. "No," she said. "Nothing like that."

"My Oola-loola girl. When-The girl shook her head and left the counter. The young salesman had been naming the latest popular songs. Doesn't sound like a national anthem epidemic, does it?

HAD GLIMPSE INTO FUTURE

Man in Seventeenth Century Saw Wondrous Possibilities in the Development of the World.

One hundred and four years ago, at this season, the war of 1812 was practically over. Peace was signed, at Ghent, on the evening of December 24, 1814; and then things moved fast, according to existing standards. On December 26, one of the American secretaries left Ghent for London, and on January 2, 1815, he left England for New York, where he arrived some time "stuck up" than the rest of us, is in February, and his news was immediately delivered to the citizens by printed handbills. Other cities, however, had to remain in ignorance during the time it would take a fast rider to urge his galloping horse over the roads between them and New York. The telegraph was not yet invented, although Joseph Glanvil, a seventeenth century preacher with an interest in the possibilities of invention, had told the Royal society that "to confer, at the distance of the Indies, by sympathetic conveyances, may be as usual to future times as to us in literary correspondence." Glanvil, by the way, also told the Royal society that "to those who come after us, it may be as ordinary to buy a pair of wings to fly into the remotest regions, as now a pair of boots to ride a journey."

Recalls Wasted Time.

"I happened to be late at a meeting the other day and somebody asked who Ann Brown was and I didn't say a word and I happened to think just then that somebody is always late to everything and that somebody is always early to everything. If I give a formal dinner party somebody always comes early when I'm in the dining room giving my final orders to the butler, and then again after everything is all ready I have to wait 15 minutes for a tardy guest and get real fussy but must not show it. The Boche was a typical wide foreheaded Boche, with big horn-rimmed spectacles and a lager rotundity. It was possibly that rotundity which had prevented him getting away with the others when the British troops scared off the German party that was trying to cut their wire. He was a valuable prisoner, too, for he spoke English like a native. He had been, he told them, a professor of German in England for Spend Your Money a native. He had been, he told them, many years.—Capt. R. F. W. Rees.

The Bowersox sale, last Saturday, was largely attended, and prices generally ranged much higher than a few years ago. There is still a fair demand for buggies, in spite of the increased use of autos.

Attention is called to the first page article on a memorial to Taneytown District soldier boys. This should appeal to the patriotism of the whole district, and especially to the many families personally interested.

The customary notices are up for the nomination of town officers, on Friday evening, April 18. It has been quite a long time since any considerable interest has been manifested, in either nominations or elections; but once each year the chance to do so is as free as the dust that now afflicts us.

The following pupils of Clear View school were present every-day during the month of March: Harry Clingan, Helen Chambers, Edgar Chambers, Madge Frock, Tolbert Stonesifer, Neva Brower, David Stonesifer, Elsie Foreman Robert Smith, Ellen Wagoner, Paul Shorb, Edna Smith, Earl Frock and John Harman.

The Electric Light Ordinance No. 94, approved March 3, provides that unless work on the line is commenced within six months, and light and power be supplied within the corporate limits of Taneytown within one year, or be withheld for a year, the privileges granted under the ordinance shall cease. The planting of poles and the care of the streets in doing so, are provided for; but the question of charges, and character of service, are apparently left uncovered. The ordinance is limited to twentyfive years.

Taneytown may be "finished" but we do not like to think so. The fact is, right now is a good time to "ginger up" by cleaning up and making improvements and seeing that the other fellow makes his. The junk yard on Baltimore street is still with us-is it to be forever? Who knows?

Admiral Sims Returns Home.

New York, April 7.—The convoy system, which many naval men had termed impracticable, overcame the German submarine menace and fig-ured tremendously in the winning of the war, Rear-Admiral William Sims, commander-in-chief of the American Navy's forces in European waters, declared today on his ar-rival here abroad the British liner

Depth charges and listening devices, he said, contributed materially unbroken to success in maintaining practically unbroken the transatlant-ic "bridge" of transports and supply ships essential to the Allied victory, as did the "magnificent work" of the merchant seamen, who "took their cargoes across convoy or no convoy."

But it was the convoying scheme, worked out to a fine detail by the combined fleets of the associated powers, officer asserted, which made possible the transportation and supplying of the great American force whose appearance in battle with the Allies turned the tide against the German invaders on the western front.

Germany was winning the war, the Rear-Admiral stated, when he arrived in England the day after the Unit-ed States became a belligerent. Teu-ton interference with Allied shipping he added, was a serious problem, solved only when conferences of the British, American and Allied commands worked out and put into practice the system of protecting vital ships, which prevailed until the cessation of hostilities.

When he left the Mauretania, whose progress into the harbor was marked a reception as picturesque as it was eloquent of the nation's and city's tribute to a home-coming victor, the Rear-Admiral boarded the naval yacht Aramis and stepped into the circle of his family. Greeting his wife, three children and three sisters, the officer chatted happily, declaring that his greatest regret in connection with the war was his inability to have his family with him, a hardship which he shared with 5,000 officers under his command.
