BRIEF SKETCHES OF A TRIP TO NORTHERN FLORIDA.

Jacksonville and St. Augustine as Cities Beautiful.

Many subscribers to the Record have requested the editor to write up his recent visit to Florida; but, as such a trip is so common, nowadays, and as many of our readers have made it within recent years, we shall attempt to give only a few brief impressions as they occurred to a first-timer. The rail trip from Baltimore is very simple—only 26 hours to Jacksonville—and as the vestibuled trains are made up of sleepers and dining car, all one needs is reasonably good physical condition and a fairly well supplied pocket book to come out at the other end in good shape for sight-seeing.

It would require some stretch of the imagination to speak of enjoyable scenery along the way, after leaving Richmond. Of course, darkness covers a several hundreds of miles and it may be that we missed the "fine country" because of this; but, what one sees in almost any twenty miles through the Carolinas is the same he sees the whole way—largely a growth of pine that does not promise much for the future in the way of lumber, cotton fields that suffer by comparison with the pictures one sees, and thousands of uninviting, so-called, homes, many of which are about on par with the "shanties" used in connection with construction work in the North, and an attempt at corn farming which looks as though the season was very unfavorable to growth.

Prosperous looking farms and other homes, and busy towns of a thousand thereabouts—so common with us—do not exist. One sees either great stretches of uninviting country, or large or small cities. From Savannah on, the country looks better, and there is more variety to the scenery. However, the country may be better away from the railroad lines.

In Georgia the pine trees look better, and one sees the growth of cypress, and evidences of lumber as a real industry, as well as the introduction of forestry with a commercial prospect. In Georgia one also sees muddy rivers, said to be typical of the rivers of the State, due to clay beds, and palm trees begin to lend beauty to the landscape. But, there are products in this section, after all, that are quite worth while; turpentine, rosin, peanuts, cotton and its many by-products, and no doubt many others.

Northern Florida is perhaps still a little more inviting than Georgia; at any rate farming operations seem more worthwhile, country homes are more substantial and the eye is rested with decidedly more variety in scenery. As a matter of fact, we were told that the corn crop of Florida was worth more than its fruits, and the tobacco industry is one of considerable magnitude, but of the latter we had no evidence. Jacksonville is a wonderful city of over 100,000, beautifully built and surprisingly clean. It is not primarily a city that "lives on" tourists. It is full of wealth of its own earning in a business way. There appears to be an absence of extensive manufacturing concerns and no great amount of heavy whole-selling, but it does a large volume of business, nevertheless, and is up-to-date architecturally and otherwise, and makes the best possible use of its palms and other beautiful trees and plants for the ornamentation of its streets and homes.

Its residential section is great, not only in extent but in appearance, and the streets and sidewalks of the city are par-excellence, as are its parks and squares. Fine hotels, banks and office buildings of the "sky-scraper" variety are distinctly in evidence; and after seeing the number of its excellent restaurants, one almost wonders whether there is any great amount of home cooking done by the residents. In this connection it is but true to say that hotel and restaurant rates, for the same grade of service, are fully twenty-five percent below Baltimore rates.

And the natives—we found them extremely friendly and accommodating, always ready with information—and not extortioners, as we had been led to believe. We have only one doubt as to their moral calibre, and that is with reference to their truthfulness as to the status of temperature and humidity. We could not find a resident who acknowledged that the weather was hot, and did not see a thermometer in the city.

We were disappointed as to oranges. We knew the season was not on yet, but expected to see the groves and the green fruit, at least. The fact is, orange growing as an industry of the State, begins about a hundred miles further south, as oranges have been abandoned since their memorable "freeze out" a dozen or more years ago. We saw a grove at St. Augustine, but it was part of a private estate.

The ostrich and alligator farm held our attention for nearly a half day. The birds were disappointing, simply because our learning along that line had been neglected. They produce the feathers, but the latter get their beauty after being plucked.

The gators however, were all there. From three or four inches after leaving the egg, we saw them up to hideous monsters of sixteen feet. We were particularly fortunate in having the owner of the place for a guide and demonstrator (likely because it

A LOCAL CIVIC LEAGUE.

Taneytown to make an Effort, Toward Improvement Generally.

The effort to form a Civic League for community work, for Taneytown, met with considerable favor, on Monday night, as the Opera House was well filled, to hear the addresses and the program of entertainment. Under the leadership of W. Wallace Reindollar, the following program was rendered.

Chorus Five Boys.
Duet Misses Bankard and Hess.
Chorus Five Young Men.
Readings (2) Miss Clara Hockensmith.
Solo Rev. Seth Russell Downie.
Orchestra Several Selections.

Addresses were made by E. E. Reindollar, Rev. Seth Russell Downie, Rev. H. A. Quinn and Geo. H. Birnie, who set forth the objects of the meeting from different angles, showing the needs of such an organization as the one proposed. Necessarily, the work to be accomplished was generalized, rather than specialized, as the primary object was to make a beginning with the formation of an organization, the main purpose of which will be to cooperate with the town authorities, as well as to focus public sentiment in the direction of a better and more up-to-date Taneytown.

A Special Committee reported the following permanent organization, which was formally elected by the audience.

President, _____; Vice President, Clyde Hesson; Sec'y, Miss Amelia Annan; Treas., J. A. Hemler. Directors: Geo. H. Birnie, Robert S. McKinney, Rev. G. P. Bready, M. A. Koons, Dr. F. H. Seiss. Executive Committee: W. Wallace Reindollar, Walter Crapster, Chas. Arnold, Miss Anna Galt, Miss Mary Brining, Mrs. S. C. Ott.

Among the objects aimed at, as we understand the purposes of the new organization, is to try to secure greater neatness and cleanliness of the town, to urge improvements generally, and get back of all promotion objects that need combined action and energy to put them over; and possibly to provide a play-ground and athletic field, and a small park or square. It is probable, however, that the activities of the organization are largely in embryo, and will depend to a large extent on future developments.

Luther H. Devilbiss has sold his farm of 73 acres, near Union Bridge, to Joseph Bowman, near Roanoke, Va. Mr. Bowman gets possession of the farm April 1, at which time he will move on the farm and make it his home. The farm is a very productive one and is improved with a fine lot of buildings. This is the fifth farm bought by Virginians, near Union Bridge, in the last five weeks.

was Sunday) and came away full enough of gator details to write a good sized book.

A day at St. Augustine gave us a better view of the beauties of Florida, both along the way and in the city itself. The State has magnificent roads, miles and miles being of edge-up red brick, and the rest of edge-up red, practically free from dust and level as a floor—an invitation to tourists, without doubt.

St. Augustine is geographically beautiful, and no illuminated post cards can well exaggerate its possessions. It is distinctly created for visitors with plenty of money to spend. We saw it out of season, almost deserted, but it was charming none the less. The tropical growth there is most luxuriant, and its avenues of palms, and brilliant hued flowers, the vivid greens, its white sand, drives and walks, combined with an ornate architecture matching natural beauty, form a combination that can only be appreciated after being seen. The Spanish moss that hangs from many of the trees in long streamers, adds a weird effect, but seems superfluous to beauty.

St. Augustine is also quite interesting because of its ancient landmarks, settlement having been made there in 1521, and it was more or less a spot of interest and a bone of contention between Spain and various would-be conquerors until 1821, when the territory passed to the United States. Ponce de Leon, four centuries ago, thought he had found the "Fountain of Youth" there, and the spring is still preserved as one of the curiosities. Old Fort Marion is still intact, as it was built before 1700. An old Spanish cathedral, built in 1793-1797, is a mecca for tourists, and "the oldest house in America" is confidently shown, all of which are largely in charge of the Florida Historical Society.

The main hotels are the Ponce de Leon, Alcazar, Munson, Cordova, St. George, Granada, Magnolia, and others. The building material largely used is coquina, a local shell rock formation quarried out on a nearby island. There is also an alligator farm here, said to be larger than the one at Jacksonville.

A too short steamer trip on the St. John's river left us with a strong desire for more of it, and stories of what was to be seen farther south, and on the west coast, caused some regret with the circumstances limiting our visit. While September is several months too soon for a really good time with full enjoyment, still our visit left with us a pretty strong mental picture of how attractive Florida must be to Marylanders, during our disagreeable weather in February and March. However, we had quite a satisfactory time, but do not think it advisable to continue the lecture, as some of our readers are quite likely to know greatly more of the subject than the writer.

THE QUESTION OF HIGHER TAXES.

Voters Should Sift the Real Truth Out of Mere Partisan Argument.

The question of taxation is always an important one, and the more so now that the tax rate and tax bills have considerably increased, just preceding a county election, and we feel like opening up the columns of the Record for something like an open discussion of the various aspects of the subject, but fear that so doing would be taken advantage of—indirectly, at least—by candidates, or their partisan leaders or supporters.

What we desire most to know is public sentiment with reference to what the public needs. The financial statement of the past year, showing the receipts and expenditures of the county, is before us, having for the first time been published in all of the papers of the county—as it always should be. This statement is not always as fully in detail as might be wished, but all items can be had, when desired, by making application at the proper source where they are on public record. This, in itself, is largely the only proper basis of any discussion of the tax problem.

Dealing in generalities, or insinuations, or promises, with the prime object of influencing voters, regardless of facts of record, is not a proper way to discuss the question, because it is likely to lead to misinformation, rather than real information for voters. It would be a misfortune, we think, for mere partisanship to manifest itself and becloud the issues.

However one may regard the size of the bills before us, we must recognize the fact that public expenditures, as well as private, are abnormal. The regular fixed institutions of the country must necessarily be conducted subject to this expense. All new extension work prosecuted now, comes under the same unavoidable high cost. The main question, therefore, must largely be, whether the tax-payers want to continue school building, road and bridge building, or wait awhile, and in the meantime confine public work to the barest necessities?

If there have been unnecessary or extravagant expenditures during the past year, the published statements should show them. If there are expensive plans in prospect for the next few years, they should be pointed out and public sentiment sounded on them. In other words, we will get nowhere because of mere statements that "taxes are too high," without specifying where and how?

If the Record can be of public service along this line, it will be glad to lend its aid. All of us should be "from Missouri" on the tax question, and not be deceived by either side in the debate that is bound to be precipitated for more or less mere partisan advantage.

PROTESTANT MINISTERS

Meet and Organize Carroll County
Ministerial Association.

Last Monday morning, there was a meeting of all the Protestant Ministers of Carroll county held in the Firemen's hall, Westminster, at 10:30. About twenty-five clergymen were present, and some who could not be there sent letters expressing their hearty desire to co-operate in every way. The meeting was due to a notice sent by a committee composed of Revs. Day, Read, Walck and Hetrick, of Westminster. Rev. Day called the meeting to order, and nominated Rev. Walck as temporary chairman. As soon as this was passed upon by the Association, there was a call for voluntary prayer that God might bless the endeavor to organize such a helpful and needful society, composed of the spiritual leaders of the county.

Then followed the election of officers, with the following result: President, Rev. L. B. Hafer, Taneytown; Vice-President, Rev. J. S. Adams, Silver Run; Secretary, Rev. Paul L. Powles, Westminster; Treasurer, Rev. N. C. Clough, Finksburg. It was then moved and carried that the association meet on the last Monday of each month, at 10 A. M., the place to be in Firemen's hall, if convenient, or elsewhere, if invited. A collection was taken by the treasurer, to defray the expenses already incurred.

The President then appointed the following committees: Program—Revs. Day, Read and Yoder. To draft a constitution—Revs. Walck, Hetrick, Day, Powles and Clough. This latter committee will meet at the same place on next Monday, at 10 A. M. A vote of thanks was extended Rev. Day for his untiring efforts in bringing about this meeting. The meeting was closed with prayer by Rev. Hetrick.

There was a remarkable spirit of brotherhood and good feeling throughout the meeting and we feel sure that this association is going to prove a benefit not only to the clergy but to the laity as well. The next meeting will take place on Monday, October 27th, inst., at 10 A. M.

A Narrow Escape.

As Uriah Foglesong was bringing a four-horse load of wheat to the Reindollar Company's warehouse, on Tuesday morning, and just about to cross the railroad track, the south-bound mail pulled into the station causing the horses to turn short, resulting in the complete wrecking of the front wheels of the wagon. Fortunately, no further damage was done. Mr. Foglesong was on the wagon but could not see the approaching train because of cars standing on the track next to the street. Had he been a few seconds further advanced, the chances are he would have been killed, and his team and wagon destroyed.

This crossing is a dangerous one, and safety gates should long ago have been placed there. As there is always more or less congestion of traffic at the crossing, with accompanying confusion and noise, made more dangerous now by the large use of motor vehicles, and no flagman, the public simply takes a chance for safety in using the track crossing, not only during the day, but at night.

Poultrymen to Organize.

At a meeting held in the County Agent's office in Westminster, two weeks ago, it was decided to hold another meeting, on Oct. 4, at 8 P. M., for the purpose of adopting a constitution and by-laws.

The exhibition in conjunction with the county exhibit and rally, will be taken up. This is a very important question. If you are a producer of poultry products or a fancier, it is up to you to be present and help boost the county in your line of products. The meeting will be in the County Agent's office, Times Bldg, Westminster.

DEMOBILIZATION COMPLETE.

Now Comes the Question Whether the Ban on Liquors Will End.

The War Department in a statement made on Monday, announces that with the discharge of 10,000 emergency officers, the demobilization of the U. S. Army is now complete, or in other words it has been reduced to a peace strength as fixed by law.

The Attorney General of the U. S. has decided that war-time prohibition must last until the army is demobilized and "the termination of the war," and that this means not until peace has been fully declared and the treaty ratified.

A report is current that the President will lift the ban on liquors, without waiting for the ratification of the treaty, taking the ground that we are at war only technically. Action on the question may be expected in a few days.

Two Independent Candidates.

Frederick county republicans are not a happy family, these days, as the primary election failed to satisfy all of the aspirants for office. Three "independent" candidates have announced themselves: George Kaufman, for State Senator; Marion C. Miller, for Sheriff, and it is reported that other like announcements are brewing. All that is required is a petition with 200 signers to secure a place on the official ballot.

A third independent, S. Fenton Harris, for County Treasurer, has announced his withdrawal, after scoring the bosses who ran the primary. Fenton was defeated by 16 votes at the primary, due to the activity of the county organization against him.

Proceedings of the Orphans' Court.

Monday, Sept. 29, 1919.—Lavina J. Humbert and M. Theodore Yeiser, executors of Reuben J. Humbert, deceased, received an order to sell personal property and reported sale of personal property.

Clayton N. Copenhaver, surviving executor of Isiah Copenhaver, deceased, reported sale of personal property and settled his first and final account.

Letters of administration on the estate of Clara J. Lum, deceased, were granted to Samuel H. Spangler, who received warrant to appraise and an order to notify creditors.

Letters of administration pendente lite on the estate of Fredricka Niner, deceased, were granted unto Francis Neal Parke and Michael E. Walsh, who received warrant to appraise.

Tuesday, Sept. 30th., 1919.—The sale of real estate of Nettie A. Ecker, deceased, was finally ratified and confirmed.

James B. Bentz, executor of William L. Kump, deceased, reported sale of real estate on which the Court granted an order nisi.

Samuel H. Spangler, administrator of Clara J. Lum, deceased, returned inventories of personal property and real estate and received an order to sell personal property.

The Union Bridge Banking and Trust Co. and Jesse Reiser, executors of Samuel Raymond Senseney, deceased, settled their first account.

Elizabeth E. Barnes, executrix of Levi Barnes, deceased, returned inventories of personal property, debts and money and received an order to sell personal property.

The last will and testament of Lucinda Brown, deceased, was admitted to probate and letters of administration with the will annexed were granted unto John W. Lacy, who received warrants to appraise and an order to notify creditors.

The gate receipts in Cincinnati, on Wednesday, to see the first championship ball game between the Cincinnati and Chicago clubs, amounted to within a fraction of $100,000.

THE PRESIDENT ILL.

Nervous Collapse Follows His Work
For League of Nations.

President Wilson sustained a complete nervous breakdown, on his tour, and came home without completing it, on orders from his physician. Since his return to the White House he has steadily improved, but is yet far from a well man, and may not for some time be able to engage in very active work. His efforts here for the Peace League, following his strenuous tour in France, were too much for his vitality, and that he is likely not to fully recover from the strain, seems to be general opinion.

Newspaper reports of the President's sickness, vary all the way from the intimation that he is seriously ill, to that he is camouflaging in order to attract sympathy for the League of Nations, and that if sick at all, it is over disappointment. At any rate, several specialists have been called in, and it is highly probable that his illness is both real and serious.

All of the latest reports are that his illness is important, and that his first improvement on reaching home has been followed by a condition not so satisfactory. Still, it has not been given out that his illness is regarded as critical, but that complete rest will bring about recovery in due time.

Chas. F. C. Bowman and wife, to John H. Bowman and wife, 27 square perches, for $10.

Eli W. Burgoon and wife, to David O. Reed and wife, 2 tracts, for $5000.

Chas. W. Richards and wife, to Geo. H. Richards, 2 roods and 5 square perches, for $5.00.

Harry R. DeVries et al., to B. Frank Dorsey et al., 1/2 acre, for $5.00.

Wm. H. Mellor and wife, to Chas. L. Bell, 2 acres and 1 square perch, for $2200.

Ephraim M. Reed and wife, to David L. Hoseler, 7 1/2 acres, for $5.00.

Registration, October 7.

Next Tuesday, October 7, is the last date for registration, this year. Keep this in mind, and qualify yourself for voting at the November election. Everybody, duly qualified, should exercise his privilege, and duty, as a citizen, without any special solicitation or argument. The man who votes, and does it intelligently, is helping to safeguard our political system. The one who does not, is not a good citizen.

Treaty Not To Be Amended.

The first vote on textual amendments to the Peace Treaty, known as the Fall Amendments, were defeated in the Senate, on Thursday, which likely means that no amendments will be made. The vote, however, shows that there will be sufficient strength to reject the whole Treaty, as it stands, as a two-thirds vote is required for ratification; but it is believed that some of those voting for the amendments will not vote against the Treaty. The vote on the amendments does not indicate the full voting strength for "reservations" which will come up later.

To Honorably Discharged Soldiers.

Any resident of Carroll County, who served in the military service of the United States during the late war between the Allies and the Central Powers of Europe, and who was honorably discharged therefrom, may have said discharge recorded in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Carroll County, free of charge, upon presentation of the same.

EDWARD O. CASH,
Clerk of the Circuit Court for Carroll County.

Marriage Licenses.

Harry C. Hunter, and Lena Viola Barnes, both of Westminster.

Chas. V. Mitten and Emma Irene Masenhimer, both of Westminster district.

Jesse Luther Leppo and Edna May Burns, both of Hanover, Pa.

Clifton Russell Fritz and Thelma Fields, both of New Windsor.

Myron Lewis Stouffer and Mazie Irene Kaufman, both of Middleburg.

Wm. Harman Snyder and Hilda Mabel Myers, both of Silver Run.

THE NATION-WIDE STRIKE IS APPARENTLY FAILING

The Steel Industry Going Ahead
Without Union Men.

The much heralded general strike in the steel industry, and sympathetic strikes in connection therewith, scheduled for Monday of this week, have so far not accomplished great results. It is apparent that peaceful strikers, where men are quietly left free to take the places of strikers, meets with failure so far as forcing up wages is concerned. In other words, the market for labor will take care of itself where there is no forcible interference, other than is caused by one lot of men quitting their jobs quietly.

During the week, Judge E. H. Gary, chairman of the U. S. Steel Corporation, was before the Senate Committee of Investigation, and gave the Corporation's side of the controversy, claiming that the steel workers were among the best paid men in the country, and that the strike was forced by leaders against the wishes of the majority of workers. He gave figures stating the pay for each class of work, and a general defense of the plans of the corporation, and stated positively that it would never agree to the "closed shop" demand, as so doing would represent the death of manufacturing industry.

Strikes occurred pretty generally all over the country, but in most instances the works have continued with little interruption, but with smaller forces of help.

Mr. Gary brushed aside the charges of union leaders that the corporation had mistreated its men with the statement that in no basic industry in the world were the men better treated or paid higher wages. Reverting at the end of the day to his general view of the situation, Judge Gary said:

"The general public now requires increased production. That may even necessitate increased hours, up to the limit set by the willingness of workers and their health. But there is no use of talking about increased wages and decreased production and at the same time roaring about rising prices. I'm in favor of high wages, but there comes a time when there is a limit."

"In my view prices are too high right now. The right way to do is to lower them first and decrease wages last. That is the policy of the steel industry."

Judge Gary gave way for an hour to several employes of the corporation's mills, who told the committee they knew of no reason for the strike. All agreed that the men who voluntarily responded to the strike call were mostly foreigners.

Great Unrest in Europe.

The League of Nations, if operating now, would have a considerable supply of difficult problems to handle, all ready-made. The probability is that it would be the busiest court in the world, and its existence would invite cases not thought of now. There is hardly a country in Europe without a "case" on hand.

Diplomatic relations have been severed between Belgium and Holland. Cause, dissatisfaction over the new boundary lines of the former.

The Serbian frontier has been ordered closed for a period of fifteen days, between Italy and Serbia. Cause, Italy is dissatisfied with boundary settlements, and wants Fiume to be an Italian city.

Greece wants a union between Greece and Thrace, and an appeal is being made to President Wilson to support such a union.

Russia has a variety of conflicts, armed and otherwise, too numerous to mention, even if it would be possible to do so.

China and Japan are on the verge of war over the Shantung settlement, which is quite likely to develop into something big.

The following is one of the dispatches cabled from Paris to the United States, this week:

"Never was confidence throughout Europe in the workability of the League of Nations less than at the present time. It may be debated seriously in the American Senate, it may be defended by Premier Clemenceau and his highly efficient aide, Capt. Andre Tardieu, or by Premier Lloyd George, but that does not hide the fact, apparent to everyone who mingles in political and diplomatic circles here, who comes in contact not only with French opinion but with the Italians, Jugo-Slavs, Greeks and Rumanians, that the League cannot and will not function in the way that its promoters insist that it will and that even if it should be set in motion it probably will break down of its own weight under the first of its own great essays to solve."

Italy is facing a crisis. The parliament has been dissolved and a new election ordered. The chief trouble has grown out of the settlement at the Peace Conference. The part that President Wilson had in the settlement appears to have been the centre of the debate in the parliament.

Unusual demands for cents kept the Philadelphia mint working at full capacity in September and resulted in an enormous output, the total coinage for the month being 58,878,000 pieces, of which 44,671,000 were cents. The output also included 380,000 quarters, 2,640,000 dimes and 7,767,000 five-cent pieces.

Recently, in testimony before the Senate committee in interstate commerce, Samuel Gompers predicted that union labor would defy and resist a law forbidding railroad employees to strike. Well, if the unions are to select what laws they will obey, and to defy the rest, we might about as well adjourn the Congress. Turn the whole business over to the unions.

The Business of Citizenship.

To be a citizen means more than is generally understood. It is to be a component part of the city, or community. It means that we are related to every part and element of the community, and that they and we have reciprocal obligations. Generally speaking, people look upon citizenship as conferring simply a privilege, but not implying an obligation. We as citizens feel free to do as we please, and that is the generally accepted meaning of liberty. But how can it be so when we are parts of a great whole—the community or the State?

The truth of the matter is that we and those about us, whether in larger or smaller circles, have gone into business together. It is the business of living together, of being citizens together—the business of citizenship. It must be conducted as any other business ought to be conducted, honestly, intelligently, industriously. Every man must fill his place and do his part. He must be as much concerned about contributing his rightful share to the common weal as he is about drawing his share of the profits.

The numerous troubles in the business world of today are largely due to the lack of the "square deal." Men forget that they are partners, even if they have never signed together an express contract. For a man to want his rightful share out of the business is fair and just, but then he ought to see clearly what his share is, and to be equally sure that he recognizes the other man's share. For a man to start out with the idea of "getting all that he can" without asking whether he is at the same time giving a fair chance to the man with whom he deals, is as dishonest, essentially, as to form a partnership, by express agreement, and then try all the time to "do" his partner.

This world has an ample supply of the necessities of life for all the people in it, if each will help both in production and distribution of its products. It is when greed enters and controls us that trouble begins. We are not satisfied with enough. To be "a bit above the rest," is the aim of such a large number, and so we are going on, nobody being able to predict just what we are coming to. Let us realize that we are in business together, and all do our best to make the business prosper—the business of citizenship. Let us be willing to work industriously at the business a reasonable number of hours each day, and with reasonable allowances, each working day of the year. Let us put our best into the business, whatever may be our particular task. Let us want our share of the profits, but be satisfied with our share, and be as anxious to see all our partners—neighbors, friends, fellow-citizens—get their full dues as we are to secure ours. If we follow any other course there is bound to be trouble for all.

Does Liberty Pay?

It may not seem reasonable at first thought to say that people are better off financially when they are free in the use of money—within sensible limits, of course—than when they pinch the dollars so hard, but it is true. "There is that scattereth and yet increaseth; there is that withholdeth more than is mete, but it tendeth to poverty."

That statement is old by thousands of years, but it is absolutely true. Why is it that some communities as a whole acquire the reputation of being "close"? Is it in these places that men have acquired the largest fortunes? Careful investigation will prove it to be otherwise. There will be found in them people who have accumulated a considerable amount of worldly goods, but never will you find such a community one of special advance in enterprise.

To make a live community, people must be willing to invest money, to spend money and to give money and if these things are done wisely there will be a liberal return for the sowing—more money to invest, to spend and to give away. All of these ways of using money are parts and incidents of a normal life, and whoever tries to avoid any one of them, limits his usefulness, his enjoyment and his rewards.

During the late war people gave more money than ever before. The amounts were not so large as they seemed, but they seemed large in the aggregate and in comparison with what we had given before. Was there any evidence that the people were poorer because of the giving? All the while the bank accounts were increasing by leaps and bounds. Even now, with all the talk about the high cost of living, if all were willing, and made an honest effort to adjust the income of those who work for a fixed wage and those who have limited resources, there would be abundant comfort for everybody. It is a real question whether half the people who talk about the high cost of living, are really anxious for the cost to be reduced.

But, whatever may be said about that, the fact remains that a large investment makes a better income for workmen, for merchants, for business in general, and in turn more money to invest. The same is exactly true of judicious expenditure of money, and in smaller proportion it is true of the gift of money.

If people could only know this, or believe it when the facts are brought before their minds, our activities in the advancement of the community would be largely multiplied. We would have a more beautiful community, more comfortable homes, more need of begging for the church—in fact, a marvelous advance in every direction. There is no lesson that we ought to learn more thoroughly than this, that liberality does pay. "With what measure ye mete it shall be measured to you again."

Crowded Schools.

With the war closed and the country more nearly on a normal basis, we are having a wonderful advance in the interest of education. The clamor for better school facilities in local places is only an indication of a condition which is general. Most of the colleges and universities, as well as the public schools, have now opened and nearly all reporting the largest enrollments in their history. If any school is not prospering this year it is due to local conditions.

From some of the leading institutions, hundreds upon hundreds of students have been turned away. At one boys school that we know, two stenographers have been busy for weeks writing letters to applicants who can not be taken in. On the opening day at the Wharton School of Finance, at the University of Pennsylvania, students stood in line for hours, the line extending out of the building and far down the street, waiting a chance to get to the registration window, and after all that many of them had to go away disappointed.

What does all this mean? Simply that people are seeing more clearly the need of education in all the walks of life, and are coming to see the tremendous advantage of the person who is specially equipped over the person without educational advantage.

But, another thing is worthy of note. The last institution mentioned above is really a great school of business; and that indicates the direction in which people are turning in education. They know that the field will yield larger financial returns than many others that might be entered. With all this rush for things that pay, is it hard to foresee that we are in danger of a great dearth of men who are broadly trained to be thinkers and leaders among men?

With regard to the rewards for those who seek education, we need to learn the lesson which is badly needed in all the walks of life just now, that we must be fair and equitable in our dealing with all men who have spent their time and their money preparing for life's work, whether they deal with contracts, accounts and cash, or whether they have to do with matters personal, intellectual and spiritual, which more vitally touch the interests of men.

Something to Think About.

A Lancaster correspondent for the North American, Philadelphia, asks the question below and gives the comments in regard to the time of some of our school work in these days. He says:

Why is it that the high schools in every township, and millions spent in education throughout our country, you can scarcely ever find a boy or girl reading Dickens, Scott, Thackeray or the poets? The present generation seems to find satisfaction in literary slush, and a Shakespearean actor would starve to death while Charlie Chaplin enjoys fifteen times a greater income than any one of the men who are helping to conclude a perpetual treaty of peace.

A Lancaster county girl, the graduate of a local high school, lost a position she held for a short while as sales clerk in a general store, for the reason that she couldn't for the soul of her figure how much nine and three-fourths dozen of eggs were worth at 52 cents a dozen. She had no more idea of fractions than a tadpole had of oratory. Are the teachers, students, parents or the children at fault in this age of moving pictures, chewing gum, automobile extravagance, wholesale amusements, movements towards the city, strikes, dope indulgence, fads and fancies, indecency of dress, moral indifference and world wide discontent?

Why is it that some books, centuries old still live? It is because they are more than ordinary books. Out of the volumes that come off the printing presses not one in a hundred will be known to any considerable extent twenty-five years after this. Yet in any public library the calls are generally for "the things that perish" rather than for "the things that remain." Learn to appreciate the books that give real culture rather than those which afford temporary fascination.

Do the Strike Leaders Mean Revolution?

The average, thinking, soft-hearted but hard-headed American is full of sympathy for the oppressed, the dispossessed and the exploited, whether at home or abroad. On occasion he will and does fight for them. Casuists can quote documents which no one reads until doomsday; but the ordinary man knows that America fought in the sixties to free the slaves, fought Spain to free Cuba and fought in this war to smash the most formidable menace to freedom the world ever saw. What America wants to get out of this peace tangle is, chiefly, liberty and prosperity for the poverty-cursed and despot-ridden of the Old World.

There is another thing that Americans will fight for, and that is Americanism! They will fight quicker for that than for the liberation of any set victims of a specific tyranny. Why? Because they profoundly and rightly believe that in secure and triumphant Americanism lies by far the greatest—perhaps the only—hope of the human race for assured freedom and progress in the future.

This is a truth that the men in charge of the steel strike should take deeply to heart. If they could by any means convince the American people that their fellows in the strike were oppressed or exploited, then they would have with them the immense force of American public opinion. But the day they permit the American people to become convinced that they are in reality aiming a blow at Americanism, they must make up their minds to fight the whole American people, if need be, to a finish. Judge Gary and the steel chiefs become mere intermediaries in the struggle.

The strike leaders have gone the wrong way about it to convince the American people of the justice of their cause. Their refusal to wait for the President's Conference was like one litigant starting a fist fight with another litigant on the steps of a courthouse about to open. That alienated sympathy and aroused suspicion. What could suffer from a fortnight's delay?

Next the men put in charge of the strike do not command public confidence. Mr. Carl W. Ackerman's exposure of the previous activities and opinions of Secretary Foster compel the public to ask whether he is striking for better labor conditions or against established government? To an argument for better labor conditions the American public is always willing to listen; but for any proposition to paralyze or upset what we believe to be the most responsive set of democratic institutions in the world the American public has nothing but police repression.

That is one question which, in this day of flux and blatant Bolshevism and shaking national structures, we will not even debate!

As to the grievances of the men, a Senate committee is about to make inquiry. This is a wise move. There is a widespread opinion that the strikers are largely foreigners; that the American citizens in the works either have not or do not want to strike; that the wage conditions of the workers are so good that the salaried, "unorganized" man learns of them with envy. We are even told that the foreign element which figures in the ranks of the strikers are not there intelligently and unwillingly, but simply because they are led by the nose by organizers.

All these reports should be confirmed or contradicted by the Senate investigation. They will play a great part in bringing about that decisive judgment, the final verdict of the American public.—Phila. Ledger.

"Let the Paper Do It."

The other day several prominent citizens of Yazoo City were discussing a local situation and thought something should be done. After it was found that it was unpleasant, unprofitable and risky for any direct action to be taken by any individual or civic group, it was the consensus of opinion it was an opportune time for the newspaper to jump in with both feet and force the desired action.

Their isn't anything strange about such proceedings as this, comments the Yazoo (Miss.) Sentinel. There is hardly a week passes but the mail brings a letter to the editor from some one asking him to "jump on" somebody and nearly always the writer wants his own name kept secret. If the newspaper were to do all that is asked of it, by these people, it would be a growing, snarling thing—and would accomplish nothing. The newspapers are ever ready to oppose wrongs, or fight for the right, to demand practical reforms, to praise the worthy and to blame the unworthy. They are unafraid. But the truth is, most of the demands that the paper "jump in with both feet and force action" are selfish propositions and are usually urged by the people who themselves are unwilling to do exactly what they request the newspaper to do.—Publishers' Auxiliary.

Congress has enacted a special law to provide an extra war risk insurance payment of $100 a month for Henry Bitter, Dubuque, Iowa, the only American soldier in the war who lost both eyes and hands.

Saw George Eliot's Ghost.

The death of Mrs. Katherine Macquoid, the veteran novelist, at the great age of ninety-three, severs another of the few remaining links with the Victorian past. A contemporary of George Eliot, Mrs. Macquoid used to tell how she once saw the famous writer in a vision.

When George Eliot went to live at Chelsea Mrs. Macquoid proposed to go and call on her. But before she could do so a remarkable and tragic thing happened.

One night Mrs. Macquoid awoke suddenly, and saw the figure of George Eliot standing between the bed and the wall. The apparition was distinct and unmistakable. On the following evening Mrs. Macquoid learned of George Eliot's death.

Things Looking Up in Serbia.

There are many evidences of bettering conditions in Belgrade, Serbia. Belgrade university opened a short time ago. The American Red Cross is now erecting barracks to house the students during the summer.

In the spirit of the people there is a marked change for the better in the last few months. Social gatherings are more frequent, and a few moving picture theaters are in operation. Shops in the city are gradually re-filling with stocks. Prices are high. Reports from the interior indicate a large grain harvest with a possible surplus for export in South Serbia. These reports have had encouraging effect on life in the capital.

China to Make Cement.

The cement requirements of North China will probably soon be supplied by domestic production. One large concern is said to control this industry in North China, and its plant is located at Tangshan, a small town about 100 miles northeast of Tientsin, on the Peking-Mukden railway. It is equipped with modern machinery, and secures its supply of limestone on the site of the works.

CAR JUST KEPT ON MOVING

Lucky for Sleeping Occupants That the Road Had Been Cut Up by Heavy Wagon.

I recall a funny motoring incident that might have turned out decidedly otherwise if it had not been for a mere chance, writes a correspondent. It occurred in the country during the early spring.

A young fellow and his sister were returning in the wee small hours from a dance in a neighboring town. He was driving a flyover. They were both very tired, and finally they both dropped off to sleep.

It so happened that late the day before a heavy farm wagon had passed that way, leaving deep ruts in the mud, and during the evening these had frozen solid. The car got into these ruts and ran along them with no one guiding it for some time. The tracks turned several corners and finally turned into a farmyard and went into the barn.

The fly turned the corners and followed the tracks into the yard. It was going straight on and would have smashed into the barn door had not the girl waked in time to see the building looming up just in front of them. Realizing the situation immediately, she jammed on the brake and stopped the car a few feet from the closed door.

I am assured that this is a perfectly true story.

KNOWS NO NORTH OR SOUTH

Southern Doughboy Who Fought in France Is Strong for the Appellation "Yank."

The mouleker, Yank, is going to stick. Just read what this fellow, who was born south of Mason and Dixon's line, writes:

"I come from a line of 'rebels' who boast that they did not surrender. Until I was quite a husky chap I believed that 'd— Yankee' was one word and 'Republican' its synonym, and knew the 'rebel yell' as a varsity boy knows his college yell. Before the war I wore a slouch hat, rode horseback and shot squirrels. I still say 'cawn bread, think Dixie should be our national air, that Robert E. Lee was the world's greatest general, and Jefferson Davis, suh, the world's greatest statesman."

"But, speaking for myself and a not overly small bunch of fellow 'rebels,' I am exactly satisfied with the honest, hard-fisted, firm-jawed and seemingly inevitable nickname of Yank, and say, with one of the papers back home:

"Let Yank be the official battle name of our boys, and the 'rebel yell' their official battle cry."

In truth, the South and the North are welded.—Stars and Stripes.

Cutting the Nation's Tire Bill.

Forty makes of motor tires were submitted to the bureau of standards by the office of the quartermaster general," writes Thomas H. Uzzell in Everybody's. "They were given laboratory 'durability runs,' after which they were autopsied by the rubber specialists. Their carcasses were cut up and the pieces boiled, roasted, stretched. The results were discouraging. Even the best of them seemed to suffer from improper 'toughening.'

"So into their little rubber-mill went the experts, with notes furnished them by the tire manufacturers, and proceeded to make up some tire rubber which had the proper degree of toughness. They succeeded. They passed out the word: 'The trouble is that you makers are not sifting your zinc oxide before mixing it with the rubber compound.'

"The makers began to sift. Better tires resulted. Some $30,000,000 were saved to the government. And today you are enjoying a cut in your tire bill by getting better tires—a result of that experiment with zinc oxide."

Successful Woman Trapper.

Trapping predatory animals is scarcely the kind of occupation in which a woman might be expected to distinguish herself, even with the great extension of the range of feminine activities to which we have been accustomed lately. Mrs. Ada Tingley of Idaho, is reported, however, by the North-western division of the United States biological survey, to be so successful in this employment that her male rivals are finding it hard to keep up with her records. Her victims are mainly coyotes, bob-cats, wolves, lynxes and mountain lions. At 8:30 every morning Mrs. Tingley mounts her cayuse and rides off to her traps, of which she runs six lines, of 50 each. She uses a fish bait prepared by a secret formula. On occasion she can use a .32 caliber rifle with almost perfect accuracy.

Make Big Gun by Shrinking Liner.

In making a 12-inch gun at an eastern arsenal the liner tube, 36 feet long, was finished and rifled before being shrunk into place. Customarily the liner is fine-bored and rifled after the shrinkage operation, and this is declared to be the first time a gun of such large size was ever assembled after the tube was finished.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Johannesburg Now Metropolis.

Johannesburg, with a population of 263,274, is the largest and most cosmopolitan city in South Africa. The tastes of the people are varied, ranging from the simplest requirements on the part of the natives to the most cultivated wants. Music of some form is one of the means of satisfying these wants.

More than 32,871,000 tins of Velvet Tobacco were sent to the boys in France—enough, if placed end to end, to reach 2340 miles or nearly from New York to Breast. How much it helped them, their friendly letters testify.

IT'S NOT YOUR HEART IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS

Kidney disease is no respecter of persons. A majority of the ill-afflicting people today can be traced back to kidney trouble. The kidneys are the most important organs of the body. They are the filters, the purifiers, of your blood. Kidney disease is usually indicated by weariness, sleeplessness, nervousness, despondency, backache, stomach trouble, pain in loins and lower abdomen, gall stones, gravel, rheumatism, sciatica and lumbago. All these derangements are nature's signals to warn you that the kidneys need help. You should use GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules immediately. The soothing, healing oil stimulates the kidneys, relieves inflammations and destroys the germs which have caused it. Do not wait until tomorrow. Go to your druggist today and insist on GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. In twenty-four hours you should feel health and vigor returning and will bless the day you first heard of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil. After you feel that you have cured yourself, continue to take one or two capsules each day, so as to keep in first-class condition and ward off the danger of other attacks. Ask for the original imported GOLD MEDAL brand. Three sizes. Money refunded if they do not help you.

After returning home, he grew worse and the end came quickly.

He leaves a widow, who was Miss Louisa Erb, and one son, Charles Casper Hahn, who resides at Tyrone, Pa. The funeral will be held on Saturday, with interment at Tyrone.

In Sad, but Loving Remembrance of my dear husband,

HOWARD A. FROCK, who died at Camp Meade, one year ago, Oct. 6th., 1918.

Oh, how sad is this day to me, dear husband; The day on which you died, And ever will memory cling to thee, Until I rest by your side.

My heart has been crushed and wounded; My life has been lonely and sad. With only the presence of your dear face Could ever make me glad.

My heart is sad and lonely now; My grief too deep to tell. But time will come—I care not when— That I may with you dwell.

By His Loving Wife.

WHY LAMB AND MINT SAUCE

English Writer Goes Far Back to Trace Custom So Popular in That Country.

Lamb is the only meat with which mint sauce is partaken, and England is the only country where the custom is practiced.

The latter fact seems to disprove the idea that it originated with the Jews, else it would have been adopted in other countries where the race predominates to an even greater extent than in our own. Hence, also, it could not have originated or been associated with the "bitter herbs" which were eaten with the Paschal lamb.

When one remembers what are the vegetables usually eaten with lamb, we get a clue to mint sauce. And it is one that leads us to what is probably the true reason of its combination with lamb. New potatoes and green peas are the adjuncts immemorial time has led us to associate with the flesh of the lamb. These, our forbears decided, were provocative of indigestion, and therefore an adjunct must be introduced to correct this tendency.

Mint during all ages has been associated with such an office. The Latin poets have broken into song regarding its merits, and the giver of a feast never thought of laying the meat on the table until the boards had been scoured with this herb. So, in addition to being a corrective, mint had a reputation as an appetizer. Gerarde says, "The smell of mint doth stir up the mind and the taste to a greedy desire of meat."—London Tit-Bits.

FOODS NO LONGER IN USE

Vegetables and Meats, Familiar in the Middle Ages, Have Disappeared From Modern Menu.

If the art of cooking has declined, it is in part due to the changing fashions in food. For instance, in Germany in the middle ages many vegetables were eaten which have long since disappeared from the table, such as violet leaves, mixed with young nettles, and green wheat, and boiled hemp seed. Salads were made of mallow leaves, celery roots, and purslane, mixed with salt and pepper, for oil was almost unknown. Olive oil was considered to smack of effeminacy and Italian luxury. Horseradish sauce was used instead.

The origin of sauerkraut is lost in antiquity. But it was certainly made by the German hausfrau long before cauliflowers or artichokes or potatoes were known. The potato revolutionized the fare of the poor, who had formerly to rely on the roots of wild plants. The variety of meats was larger, including beavers, and in Berne bears were kept for food. Spices and aromatics were much sought after and far more used for cooking. Ginger and nutmegs were used to flavor many dishes that have now vanished from our tables.

Honored His Great Foe.

The Crystal palace, home of the British Imperial War museum, was the scene in its earliest infancy of a touching incident apparently unrecorded by any of Wellington's biographers. According to "Le Palais de Cristal," a French weekly published in London at the time of the great exhibition, "one day in April, when our workmen were busily engaged unpacking exhibits in the French section, the duke of Wellington appeared, in company with his daughter, the marchioness of Douro. He was expressing his interest in several products of French industry, when the workmen happened to open a case containing a statue of Napoleon. The duke stopped his conversation, removed his hat, and bowed his head. It was easy to see, both by the attitude of his body and the expression of his face, that the old soldier was deeply moved. There fell upon all present one of those deep spells of silence which imply more than an ocean of words."

HABILIMENTS OF HUMANITY.

"There is no reason for putting on sackcloth and ashes."

"Not exactly. But just the same I'm wearing mended clothes and tending my furnace."

A Good Light When You Need It

When you're in need of a light, you want a good light and a Lantern that you can depend upon.

Our stock of Lanterns is as complete as we can make it—Lanterns for every purpose—for the Buggy, for the auto, and Lanterns for general utility around the house garage or barn.

Light your way with one of these and you'll have no trouble. We also carry a complete stock of extra Globes.

'Twas Said:

—by the proprietor, "did you show that account to Ardup again today?"

"Yes, sir," answered the bookkeeper.

"And did you tell him it has been on the slate long enough and I'd like to rub it in?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, what did he say?"

"He said it looked as if you were trying to rub it in."

Which reminds us to again call to your attention our Monthly Credit System of Payments, which makes it a simple matter for you to have your purchases charged to your account, and we send you an itemized bill at the end of each month. You look over the bill to see if it's right, send us your check for the amount and there's never any question about rubbing it in or out on the books. Come in and ask us to explain the credit system in detail.

Advice Worth While. "You must follow my advice, Mr. Poorly," said the great specialist. "You must stop worrying. If anything comes to worry you, cast it aside; forget it."

"Thanks so much, doctor," said his patient, wringing the doctor's honest palm, "I'll bear this in mind when your bill comes."

A Virgin Field. "Is it true that poets sometimes receive $300 from a magazine for a single sonnet?" asked Songerleigh.

"It is so stated on good authority."

"Then I'll have to revise my touch system."

"Your touch system?"

"Yes. It never occurred to me that I might be able to borrow money from a poet."

Touch and Go. Anent the saying, "Touch and go," You've noticed, I'll be bound, That when a fellow makes a touch He doesn't hang around.

Could Charge Bigger Fee. "I guess that young doctor hasn't been practicing long."

"Why do you think that?"

"He told a friend of mine he was suffering from 'loss of appetite,' whereas an older doctor would have called it 'anorexia.'"

Explaining Her Position. "And are you a good needlewoman and renovator, and willing to be useful?"

"Madam, I am afraid there is some misunderstanding. I am a lady's maid—not a useful maid."—London Punch.

Foolish Investments. "You never talk about your investments."

"No I can't brag about the ones I make and I'm too proud to go around admitting the glorious chances to get rich that I could have had, but turned down."

A Sad Prediction. Fortune Teller—You are going to be visited by a dark lady.

Female Patron—Visited? Oh, dear! And I thought the new cook I hired at the intelligence office this afternoon looked like a stayer.

The Intelligent Horse. "The horse is an intelligent animal."

"Very. It never walks into a man's office when he's busy and insists on talking over a lot of unimportant matters with him."

An Agreeable Surprise. "About three years ago when I was suffering from a severe cold on my lungs and coughed most of the time, night and day, I tried a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and was surprised at the promptness with which it gave me relief," writes Mrs. James Brown, Clark Mills, N. Y.

Many another has been surprised and pleased with the prompt relief afforded by this remedy.

ELEPHANT MADE NO WHIMPER

Under Pain of Having Tooth Drawn With Stoicism That Would Shame Many Humans.

It does not require much imagination to realize that pulling an elephant's tooth is something of an engineering as well as a dental job.

An example of this was when Albert, one of the biggest elephants in the Ringling herd at Madison Square garden, New York, had refused to eat and the circus veterinary found a great tooth cavity which was beyond remedy by filling.

The tooth that was giving Albert so much discomfort was as large as a man's fist. After a liberal dose of cocaine had been injected, forceps as big as ice tongs were clamped to the tooth, a rope attached to the forceps, and a squad of trainers made ready to supply the pulling power.

At a given signal the trainers gave a tremendous pull, and out came the huge tooth.

In this sort of dental work the unknown quantity lies in what the elephant will do. Albert had been taken out of the menagerie to prevent panic among the rest of the herd in case he developed an inclination to object to the process. However, he underwent the ordeal calmly, and as soon as his jaw

NASH TRUCKS --- AND --- Some of Their Superior Features

NASH TRUCKS, in both the two-wheel drives and the famous NASH-QUAD, four-wheel drive, have made an enviable record. On the two-wheel drive it is impossible to spin either drive wheel without spinning the other, because of their "FAMOUS LOCKING DIFFERENTIAL DEVICE," which instantly locks both drive wheels together, when one or the other slips in a ditch, or encounters mud.

Think of the advantages this gives the driver of a Nash Truck. Think of the saving in Tires, with this method, over the ordinary truck, that allows one wheel to spin and burn the tire, while the other stands helpless on firm footing.

NASH TRUCKS are built extra heavy; they are powerful, and are unusually economical. It is said of the Nash Truck, "that it is the easiest handling Truck on the road, no matter how the price comparison may run."

NASH TRUCKS are fully electrically equipped, with both starter and lights.

To the Huckster, to the Farmer, to the Contractor, to the Fruit Grower, or to any who may be interested in transportation by Truck, and especially to that vast army of men, who, with small investment, can earn from $15.00 to $40.00 per day, doing hauling, we would say that to purchase a Truck before becoming thoroughly acquainted with the Superiority of NASH TRUCKS, would be to do an injustice to themselves, and to the business in which they were engaged.

Write, or call for, NASH TRUCK Literature, or for a NASH TRUCK Demonstration.

Carroll County Taxes.

To the Taxpayers of Carroll County:—

As a public servant and a citizen of Carroll County seeking further preferment at the hands of the electorate of the County, I call attention through the press and public utterances to the fifty per-cent. advance in our County tax rate this year, notwithstanding the fact that our taxable basis increased over six millions dollars since 1917.

My statements have accomplished my intentions, viz: To bring the great advance in our tax rate fairly and squarely to the notice of every taxpayer and citizen of our county, and letters that have come to me from every section of the county and from men identified with both political parties, prove conclusively to me that the question of taxation, which concerns every citizen vitally, is uppermost in the minds of our people at this time, and is the most important issue in the campaign in Carroll county this year.

The criticism of the Republican press was fully anticipated. That an attempt to justify and defend the methods that have been responsible for this burden being forced on our people would be made, was only to be expected. The personalities which were resorted to will not detract from the subject in question, and the fact remains that the people of Carroll county are decrying the fifty per-cent. increase in the tax rate feeling that they have been imposed upon, and I feel they are justified in their contentions or complaints.

In 1917 our taxable basis was $21,746,666. This brought in a revenue of $191,368.95 and from bonds and securities our County Treasurer secured $5,301.83 more, and from banks and corporations $29,182.92, making the total receipts from the levy of 1917, $225,853.70.

In 1919 we found our taxable basis $28,415,924—an increase in two years of $6,669,258. This, at the old tax rate of 82 cents, would have yielded $233,010.57 and together with receipts from bonds, banks and corporations amounting to $47,765.12, would have made a total of $280,775.69—an advance in our income of $54,921.99 over the levy of 1917.

This was a sum ample to have taken care of all fixed charges and to have provided interest and sinking fund, for any necessary permanent betterments. This does not mean a bond issue, because our Commissioners have the power to borrow money to meet emergencies when warranted. Instead of pursuing this course, the tax rate was increased 41 cents, which will give additional revenue of $116,505.28, making the total income from the 1919 levy $397,280.97, thus increasing the receipts from all taxes $171,427.27.

With this great increase, we find deplorable conditions over the County brought about by lack of business methods, unfulfilled pledges and personal animosities—all at the expense of the taxpayers.

I call attention to a paragraph of my original letter on taxation, reading as follows: "I am certain the same results could have been accomplished without a single dollar increase, if other and more business-like methods had been employed and thereby our taxpayers would have been saved this heavy burden of increased taxation." I stand squarely on this statement.

Knowing the people of Carroll County as I do, I am most positive the course I have outlined would have met their hearty approval, whereas present conditions are condemned by the great army of taxpayers, and justly so.

Carroll County is one of the most prosperous Counties of our State. I mention this fact to emphasize the following statement: The average increase in the tax rate of the twenty-three counties in the State is only a fraction over eight cents. In four counties, Caroline, Charles, Prince Georges and Worcester, the tax rate decreased, and in Dorchester, Howard and Talbot the rate remained unchanged. Then why should the taxpayers of Carroll county be compelled to pay an advance of thirty-three cents more than the average advance in the entire twenty-three Counties?

High taxes are not only a burden, but mean lower land values. The methods that are now being pursued in our County must ultimately bring about damaging results.

My appeal to the people of Carroll county in 1915 was made wholly on taxation, and for a business demonstration of public affairs. Our State tax rate which came directly before me, as your representative in the Senate, did not increase, notwithstanding the fact that there were unusual and extraordinary demands made upon the revenues of the State.

I now say to the citizens of our County, that I will use all the energy and power within me to see that our county taxes are equalized and put on a fair basis, consistent with the betterments to which our people are entitled, and which they are demanding, and which they should have.

NIGHT AND DAY CAMP IS LIFE SAVING STATION

Tuberculosis kills 150,000 persons in the United States every year. These two women escaped. They are shown in the Night and Day Camp conducted by the St. Louis Society for the Relief and Prevention of Tuberculosis. They are among the fortunate ones because they knew how to take care of themselves when this great menace threatened them. They knew that the cure lies in plenty of fresh air, even if the temperature is away below freezing, sunlight, good food and rest under proper medical supervision. Tuberculosis is not only curable but is preventable as well. The prevention lies largely in right living, in building up a strong bodily resistance. Eight out of ten persons are infected at some time in their lives, according to figures of the National Tuberculosis Association, the leading agency in the United States in the fight upon this disease. This organization is sponsor for the annual Red Cross Christmas Seal sale, from which the funds to carry on the work throughout the year are chiefly derived.

RURALITES HAVE BIG HEALTH ADVANTAGE

Abundance of Fresh Air and Sunlight Do Much to Check Ravages of Tuberculosis.

DANGER IN CLOSED WINDOWS.

National Tuberculosis Association, Which Sponsors the Annual Sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals, Reports 150,000 Deaths Each Year From the Disease.

People who live in the smaller towns and on farms have a great health advantage over the city dwellers in that they have ever an abundant supply of fresh air and sunlight.

These two gifts of nature, so lavishly bestowed, are not always appreciated to their fullest extent. They are two of the strongest weapons against the menace of tuberculosis, or consumption, as it is sometimes called.

But consumption is not unknown in the rural districts. The death rate is sometimes as great in these sections as in the more crowded localities, chiefly because of carelessness or indifference to laws of health.

Few, indeed, are the farm houses or the homes in the smaller cities and villages that cannot have an outdoor sleeping porch. On the contrary, we often find that the windows of sleeping rooms in the home are shut tight in the mistaken belief that night air is harmful.

This paves the way for disease, especially tuberculosis, which generally attacks the lungs.

White Plague Kills 150,000 a Year.

The white plague claimed 150,000 lives last year in the United States. More than 1,000,000 Americans are suffering from it today. These figures are compiled from reports of experts all over the country and sent to the National Tuberculosis Association, the leading agency in the country to combat this disease. This organization is sponsor for the Red Cross Christmas Seal sale, from which its financial support is chiefly derived.

As medical science has proved consumption is both preventable and curable, the suffering caused by this disease is largely unnecessary. Most tuberculosis victims are between the ages of eighteen and forty-five.

Causes Half Billion Loss Annually. These are the years when people are most active, the years of their greatest production. The snuffing out of these lives just when they are at the height of their usefulness means an annual loss to the country of nearly half a billion dollars.

Fresh air is the cheapest of medicines. Outdoor sleeping porches are not only for the sick. They help well folks to keep well, and the country dweller can have this aid to healthy living at far less inconvenience than his city neighbor.

You can help directly by seeing that you and your family are living under the most healthful conditions possible.

WHY Hun Advance Was Halted by U. S. Marines

The Germans made a great mistake in prejudging the possible effectiveness of American rifle fire, Robert G. Skerrett, in Leslie's, writes. They had learned from experience that French and English troops generally used their small arms only when within a range of 200 yards. It took our marines to teach them what the rifle could do at 1,000 yards and less. Two regiments of them at Chateau-Thierry smashed the best of the kaiser's soldiery and halted for all time the confident thrust of a greatly superior force. The Teutons advanced in smooth columns and pushed determinedly forward across a waving wheat field, bent upon overcoming Hill 165, which was held by our sea soldiers.

The marines, trained to keen observation upon the rifle range—nearly all of them wearing a marksman's badge or, better, the emblem of the sharpshooter—did not wait for the gray-coated masses to come closer. With deliberateness those sea soldiers set their sights and aimed their pieces with the same intent to score that they had shown in the calm periods of their practice upon the rifle ranges at Paris island, Mare island, Quantico and elsewhere. Without cease, their rifles snapped, and following their fire came the support of artillery. Machine guns ground out their grim torrent of bullets, adding to the toll exacted by the riflemen. Caught in a bewildering storm of scattering shrapnel, machine-gun fire and the amazingly accurate leaden hail from our rifles, the Germans realized that a further advance meant suicide. Their lines hesitated, stopped and then broke desperately for cover, while the marines savagely raked the woods and ravines to which the Teutons had fled. This effectually ended any hope on the part of the foe that they might make further progress by infiltration.

RUBBER FROM RABBIT BRUSH

How New Source of Supply May Soon Be Secured—Result of Wartime Experiments.

Recent experiments by two Western university professors have shown that rabbit brush is a probable commercial source of rubber. The investigation so far reported is only a preliminary quantitative examination, begun quietly some months ago as a war measure, but continued to prevent vitiating valuable information partly developed.

It has not yet been announced to be commercially profitable, though in Utah alone there is said to be between 500 and 1,000 square miles of the brush, and a great deal more land that could be made to grow the plant. It grows artificially by planting and cultivation, without irrigation. In average Utah weather conditions, a harvest could be taken every four or five years, at a light expense for seeding and harvesting.

Under irrigation the yield could probably be increased four-fold, it is estimated. The quantity of rubber in the plant seems to vary directly with the amount of alkali in the soil, up to a certain limit; thus the less value the soil is for agricultural purposes, the more valuable for producing rubber.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

How Airplanes Can Be Employed.

Lookouts in a very broken country, cut up by deep canyons or where mountain ridges obstruct the view, or in a flat country that affords no good points of vantage, are often unable to pick up all fires quickly by the rising smoke, or to locate them accurately. For precise location the system in use depends on triangulation through reports telephoned from separate observation points. Airplanes would use wireless in reporting fires, as they have done in communicating with the artillery, and would locate fires by co-ordinates in the same way that gunfire in war is directed to a particular spot or object.

From the army standpoint, the use of air craft in protecting the national forests affords a valuable opportunity for training fliers and developing further the possibilities of aircraft and the art of flying.

How Forests Will Be Restored.

The restoration of the devastated forests on the western front is to be undertaken by Norway. According to the tentative plan, it is proposed to plant a belt of Norwegian trees from the Belgian frontier to the Ardennes. So great is the destructive power of shell fire that where large woods once stood nothing now remains but a few scattered stumps. In Thiepval wood scarcely a trunk is standing, while High wood and Delville wood are place-names rather than collections of trees. Vast areas in the forest of Mormal are denuded of timber, while throughout the Somme area living trees are the exception and not the rule.

How Conservation Saves Wool.

As a result of a wool-saving campaign conducted by home demonstration agents co-operating with the state agricultural college in Iowa last year, 9,742 reports show a total saving of $308,904.17, and that 3,706½ yards of unused wool cloth were put to advantageous work. Activities included recutting of 21,089 garments and such work as repairing collars, cuffs, binding worn edges, and replacing buttons on 16,552 articles of apparel.

AS STYLES CHANGE

Women Who Can Sew Manage to Keep Step With Fashion.

Interesting Little Frock of Taffeta or Printed Foulard Offered as Early Spring Model.

Each season's styles have such a way of overlapping that the average woman just about completes her wardrobe when along comes information as to what is to be worn in the season immediately to come.

Fortunately during the past two or three seasons there have been very few radical style changes, and the woman who can sew and has ideas of her own can usually manage to keep step with Dame Fashion in a reasonably satisfactory manner.

The little frock shown in the sketch is offered as an early spring model, but it is not sufficiently extreme to demand classification with any particular season. It may easily be made at home, using a pretty printed silk. A draped dress of this kind is becoming to nearly all figures. The tunic or overskirt is draped exactly alike back and front, the only flare being over each hip. The bodice material is drawn safely about the figure, made over a fitted lining, of course, and fastens at one side and on the shoulder. The left side is usually preferred for the closing, unless the woman for whom the gown is intended is left-handed.

The sleeves are exceptionally smart. As will be seen, they fit the arms closely, are wrist length, and a row of buttons extends from shoulder to wrist.

SAPPHIRES IN FRONT RANK

Precious Stone Said to Be in Forefront Compared With Other Expensive Fashionable Gems.

That person, man, woman or bolshevist, who wishes to be in it, to use the English equivalent for the French phrase, will wear sapphires. Such is the edict of fashion. One reason for this is that it has been comparatively easy to imitate the ruby, hitherto enthroned as the show gem, says the New York Times. Another probably is that the sapphire has been somewhat neglected, and it is prudent to get rid of accumulated stock.

As an incident of the edict demobilizing the ruby and calling the sapphire to the colors, we are told that diamonds and pearls are still the most expensive and most fashionable jewels. The latter part of this statement is tautology in its crudest form. As if anything could be the most expensive and avoid being the most fashionable. Still another interesting bit of this jewel gossip states that diamonds and pearls have increased 100 per cent in price since the war began, proving that they are worthy associates of King Coal. The information probably will serve to halt those who have been considering burning their surplus diamonds in the furnace to conserve the coal supply. And it also seems that the most aristocratic of gems feels the ebb and flow of the tide of labor, for it is said that the South African field has been confronted with a labor shortage. Such statements are truly alarming and probably will set many to hoarding diamonds, but news is news and must be given out.

Window Decolletage.

Window decolletage is one of the new things in afternoon frocks. A bodice so constructed shows an oval opening in the front some three inches below the round neckline, and on each sleeve two or three inches above the short elbow sleeves.

The Secret of a Superlative Tire

The whole question of a super-tire is a matter of principles. For there is nothing exclusive in the industry. No patents, no secret formulas prevent a conscientious maker from building the best.

But cost and competition modify ideals. The Brunswick idea is to pay perfection's price and get it.

That has been the Brunswick policy since 1845. And it accounts for the growing preference for Brunswick Tires. Motorists expect the utmost from a tire bearing the name of Brunswick—and get it.

You, too, will be convinced by your first Brunswick, that here is an extraordinary tire, and that more money cannot buy a better.

Better tires of their type are impossible—or better tubes. That we guarantee.

GAVE THANKS FOR ARMISTICE OF DEEP HISTORIC INTEREST

Fervent Gratitude to God Was First Thought of the Gallant Defenders of Verdun.

The artillery fire died out, and there was a pause that seemed like the sudden end of the world. Then from the 40 bells, high in the towers of the old cathedral at Verdun, pealed forth those silvery tones that proclaimed again, "Peace on earth." The armistice had come.

Slowly the great doors of the cathedral opened and in rushed 600 allied soldiers. Doctor Maurer of the Red Triangle, says a writer in Association Men, quietly walked to the altar rail and knelt there. Captains, lieutenants and soldiers reached for the bell ropes, and he feared the opportunity for religious service was lost. But they saw the lonely figure and came into the choir space. As he rose all was quiet.

"Boys," he said, "I believe we all want to sing and that we ought to sing the Doxology."

At its close Doctor Maurer raised his hands, and Mohammedans, Catholics, Protestants and Jews bowed their heads and fell on their knees. Amid the ruins 600 soldiers knelt—Mohammedans bumping their heads on the stones, Catholics devoutly crossing themselves, and Jews and Protestants with hands clasped, faces shining and eyes lifted.

Doctor Maurer led in that ever-wonderful prayer, "Our Father Which Art in Heaven." He then suggested that the Americans sing, "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," while the English sang "God Save the King." At the close of the singing the French soldiers pushed forward and sang, as only Frenchmen can sing, the "Marseillaise."

The French general came forward and took Doctor Maurer's hands. "I want to thank you," he said, "for lending these men on this occasion of grace to offer praise to God for the deliverance of France and for the safety of the world."

Possibility of Recovery of King John's Lost Treasures Causes Some Stir in England.

The idea of making use of the electric apparatus used in locating ores to discover King John's lost treasure has been put forward by Capt. Hugh Polard in an English paper. He recalls the fact that, several years ago, Sir William Hope informed the Society of Antiquaries that the ford of the Wash where the treasure was lost in the thirteenth century was reclaimed in the seventeenth, and that the land lies between Walpole and Long Sutton in Lincolnshire. Now this treasure of King John's is of extraordinary interest. Not only did it contain loot from half the castles and churches of England and John's own jewels, but the crown of King Alfred as well. At the close of the seventeenth century King Alfred's jewel, now in the Ashmolean museum, was found some distance north of the site of Athelney abbey in Somersetshire. The gem is made of pure gold and contains colored stones covered by a thick crystal, through which is seen the miniature of a man clothed in a green Saxon tunic. It is formed of enameled mosaic on a blue ground. The man is seated on a throne with a crown on his head and holds a fleur-de-lis in each hand. Round the edge are the words in Anglo-Saxon: "Alfred had me worked." Some say the figure represents Alfred himself. If so, perhaps the crown which the gem depicts is the one which the elements wrenched from the unworthy hands of John all that long time ago, and the one which, it is to be hoped, the twentieth century will recover.

Hand-Made Music.

"Do you think our oratorical friend was sincere when he asked the crowd not to interrupt him by demonstrations of approval?"

"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum; "there are men who would rather listen to their own voice than to applause."

FIGHTING TUBERCULOSIS.

The National Tuberculosis Association has launched an extensive educational campaign. A recent health survey revealed a yearly death rate in the United States of 150,000 and there are today 1,000,000 active cases.

LESSON FOR OCTOBER 5

JOHN AND PETER BECOME DISCIPLES OF JESUS.

LESSON TEXT—John 1:29-42.
GOLDEN TEXT—Jesus said unto him, Follow me.—John 1:43.
ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Matt. 9:9; Mark 2:13-17; John 1:43-51.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Finding the best friend.
JUNIOR TOPIC—John and Peter decide to follow Jesus.
INTERMEDIATE TOPIC—Becoming disciples of Jesus.
SENIOR AND ADULT TOPIC—Claims of Christ upon all men.

I. John the Baptist Testifies to His Disciples Concerning Jesus (vv. 29-34).

1. Jesus as the Lamb of God (v. 29). "Lamb" was familiar to the Jewish mind. It denoted a substitutionary sacrifice for sin. Christ was the true lamb to which every sacrificial offering pointed. He was the lamb which Israel showed should be brought to the slaughter (Isa. 53:7), upon whom the Lord laid man's iniquity. Christ was God's lamb because he was the one set apart from the foundation of the world to make atonement for man's sins (1 Pet. 1:18-20). John invited his disciples to behold the Lamb of God.

2. The Baptizer with the Holy Ghost (vv. 30-35).

The Spirit descended upon him as Isaiah said (Isa. 11:2). John then knew for a certainty that he was the baptizer with the Holy Ghost. The Same Holy Spirit will be given to all who ask for him (Luke 11:13).

3. Jesus is the Son of God (v. 34). Being the son of God he is one in nature with God.

II. Two Disciples Following Jesus (vv. 35-37).

As a result of the Baptist's testimony, two of the disciples leave him and follow Jesus. At John's request they looked. This look was sufficient to induce them to follow Jesus. A sincere look upon Jesus is always sufficient. John did not become envious of Christ's success, but rejoiced in it (John 3:28-29). All Sunday school teachers should so witness that the pupils will look to and follow Jesus. This is the whole method, the sum and substance of salvation.

III. The Disciples Abiding With Jesus (vv. 38, 39).

Seeing the disciples following him, Jesus made inquiry as to their object. Their reply showed the desire to go apart privately where they could disclose their hearts to him. He invited them to his abode, where for the remainder of that day they enjoyed sweet intercourse with him.

IV. The Disciples Bringing Others to Jesus (vv. 40-42).

Having found by experience what fellowship with Jesus means, they go at once and tell others of their priceless treasure.

1. Andrew brings Peter (vv. 40-42). Peter was Andrew's brother. A true brother who has found Christ will go and tell his brethren. The proper place to begin witnessing for Christ is among one's kinsfolk (Luke 8:39).

(2) Phillip brings Nathaniel (vv. 43-45). He witnessed to him concerning the messiahship of Jesus. He told them that Christ was he of whom Moses and the prophets did speak. Christ is the sum and substance of the Old Testament.

The disciples invited others to come and see. They knew that if they would but put Jesus to the test they would believe. Christianity courts investigation (John 7:17).

When Life Grows Broader.

God does not count prosperity as we count it. Our sense of proportion is largely shaped by our experiences. When life is quiet and sheltered, and the stream runs smoothly, we notice every ripple and magnify every small obstruction. We are fully occupied with our work, our small worries. Then comes some grief, calamity, or new responsibility which suddenly changes everything. Our old interests are dwarfed and look so petty that we wonder that we ever allowed such trifles to burden our souls. By such experiences life grows broader and higher and takes on new values. We have new standards of measurement for our fellow men as well as ourselves.

The Bible.

God might, of course, have given us a literally divine book, written by his finger on tables of stone. We find that he chose to give us instead a library of books by human authors, with very different styles and characteristics. I cannot help connecting it with the equally obvious act that he did not reveal himself by an angel, or millions of angels, but by a man who worked in a carpenter's shop.—Rev. J. H. Moulton, D.D.

Cheerfulness.

Better to be small and shine, than to be great and cast a shadow. Cheerfulness is God's medicine. Everybody ought to bathe in it. Grim care, anxiety and all the rest of life can be scoured off with the oil of cheerfulness.

Love Never Tires.

Love is indefatigable; it never tires. Love is inexhaustible; it lives and is born again of itself, and the more it pours itself forth, the more it abounds.—De Lamennais.

WISELY FEATHERED NESTS

SOLVING WAR PROBLEMS TAUGHT PEOPLE THRIFT

Country Urged to Keep Benefits Gained Through Lesson of Saving Learned Last Year.

Fellowship in the fastest growing society in the United States is open to everybody. In every state in the union it is gaining members daily, since it is a society in which the good of the country is served as well as that of the individual.

From all walks of life its millions of ever increasing members come. No one can be a member and keep the pledge he takes without receiving lasting benefits and aiding the United States of America to maintain the proud place it has already attained—the peer of any nation that has ever existed.

When the treasury department of the United States began the attempt to solve the financial problems that beset the country as it was entering the war, the United States was a debtor nation. Only on understanding that it is the greatest creditor nation in the world today can one realize what an achievement has been won. Without a direct tax on the people money has been raised to pay for the successful termination of the war, and this cost more than $20,000,000,000. Beside this enormous amount of money there is now more money in the banks than before.

This, of course, was done through the Liberty Loans, principally. But these loans have ceased, and those at the head of the nation's finances are seeking to clinch the lesson already learned, and are urging the permanent establishment of War Savings Societies.

The Treasury Department is doing a service for the small investor in accepting so small an amount as twenty-five cents and giving the same security that the holder of a $10,000 Liberty Bond enjoys—the entire resources of the United States of America. Could anything be more safe?

CAN CHOP OVERHEAD

We joined with glee to celebrate the birthday anniversary of Washington, who, when a boy, chopped down his father's cherry tree, and later, though but still a youth, surveyed the trackless forest waste, and always practiced simple truth in every project he embraced. Then when the Revolution broke out George stepped bravely to the fore and threw aside our foreign yoke, and saw us safely through the war. No adjectival flourish here could tell in full his epic life, but this we know and hold it dear, he won our nation's primal strife; he fought, he built, he sagely taught, he loved this land of liberty, and what his sacrifice then bought is handed on to you and me. To him we owe unyielding debt, to keep our nation's honor bright, and emulate him so that yet we travel holding Freedom's light; we cannot all chop cherry bark, but we can chop the "overhead," and, cutting out some costly lark, buy W. S. S. instead.

A thrifty man is safe from worry. Buy wisely, save intelligently, and invest in Thrift and War Savings Stamps.

Spend wisely, avoid waste, save intelligently, invest in Thrift and War Savings Stamps—and success is already yours.

SAID EVERY SOLDIER KEPT TRENCH SHOVEL

Engineer After Viewing Battlefield Makes Interesting Commentary—Could Find Everything But One Trophy He Wanted.

An eminent engineer recently returned to Washington after traversing on government business much of the western front. He went over the battle area before the army salvage corps had removed the signs of conflict.

"I saw pretty nearly everything there," he said. "Lots of rifles, bayonets, machine guns, helmets, soldiers' packs, water bottles, and even handkerchiefs and socks all over the ground."

"I didn't want any of them. Because I'm an engineer, I'd set my heart on a trench shovel. I'd seen thousands of them back of the lines, but I wanted one from the battlefield. I looked and looked, without finding one lying around loose. Wherever there was a shovel, the man who'd used it was lying beside it."

"Then I understood. The soldier, dislodged from a position, might lose his pack, his extra clothing, even his rifle, in his escape, but he never let go his shovel."

"He knew he had to have it, to dig himself in again."
War Savings Stamps are trench shovels for digging in against adversity.

CARRY ON!

Uncle Sam is releasing from his service the men who went "over there" to free the world from autocracy. Thousands of soldiers are daily receiving their honorable discharges; they pocket their pay, bid farewell to their comrades and salve forth—civilians.

There is one army, however, which must not be demobilized. That is the army of War Savings Stamps buyers. More recruits are needed to carry on the campaign of readjustment which follows the signing of the armistice.

The army of fighters has achieved its purpose.

The army of savers must remain in "action."

A Little Talk About Surplus

"SURPLUS" IS MORE THAN A RAINY-DAY FUND. IT IS AN EVIDENCE OF GOOD MANAGEMENT.

In the case of a Bank, a railroad, or a business institution, a large surplus means that the management is wise enough not to distribute all the profits in the form of dividends, but to reserve a portion for future use—it may be for emergencies, or it may be simply to invest in material, real estate, or something else requiring capital, and the possession of a surplus renders it unnecessary to borrow the money.

Every individual ought to have a surplus in the form of a savings account. It is exactly the same with the individual as with the corporation—his surplus indicates that his personal expenses have been kept so well within his income that there is something left over. It also shows that he has not used it all up in "dividends" of pleasure, but like a wise business man has "salted" some of it down for the future.

How much "surplus" have you? If you have never started a surplus fund, do so at once and keep adding to it. This Bank pays interest on "surplus accounts."

Miss Anne Winemiller returned home, on Thursday, from Frederick Hospital, where she had been for appendix trouble. She is getting along nicely.

Theo. M. Buffington has taken a position in the office of the Carroll Record, and will have charge of the subscription accounts, and other detail office work.

John N. Mark, of Harrisburg, for many years a well known citizen of this county, paid our office a visit, on Monday, and left his subscription for a year to the Record.

Rev. J. S. Cuddy, Chaplain at Edgewood Arsenal, was in town, on Wednesday. He looks well, and quite soldierly, but will welcome his discharge from the service.

Those who spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. J. D. Clingan, and Mrs. Geo. Rodgers, were: Mr. and Mrs. Newton Troxell, Levi Frock and Miss Nettie Clingan, of Taneytown; Mrs. Maggie Fridinger, of Hanover, Pa. Also, Nellie and Russell Frock, of the Hoffman Orphanage.

The objects and efforts of the new Civic League for Taneytown are apt to be wholly in the direction of town betterment. This being the case, the effort should be boosted and encouraged, rather than criticised. It will require everybody, all working harmoniously, to make needed improvements. Let us all see what we can do!

Rev. L. B. Hafer acted as news Editor of the Record, last week, and this week has supplied the articles on the editorial page, thereby helping the editor to take a little trip to Florida, feeling that the Record was in good hands while he was away. Our sincere thanks are due Mr. Hafer for his good work and his time. While both he and Dr. Downie have so recently demonstrated "what they can do" along this line, perhaps the regular editor has placed himself in a bad position to gain his ends should he go on "a strike" for more pay, by showing where "strike breakers" may be had.

An editorial in last week's Emmitsburg Chronicle, sounds as though it may have been written by its former editor. In speaking of the bad condition of the streets of the town, it says: "Stranger, if you suffer from dyspepsia, include Emmitsburg in your itinerary; you'll be cured of your ailment, or bite your tongue off, crack your lower ribs or wreck your headgear. Come on! Be a sport." To this, we will add that if the "shaking up" treatment there is not sufficiently complete, come to Taneytown and try our east Baltimore street course, or the one at the end of York St.

The price of lard has dropped 8 cents in a week. Other pork products show a slight decrease, but cured bacon still remains firm. A tumble in pork prices is expected with the opening of the butchering season.

Surprise Birthday Party.

(For The Record.) A very delightful surprise party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Myers, near Frizzellburg, along the State Road, in honor of their daughter Lolo, it being her 16th birthday. She was taken by complete surprise. The evening was spent in music and various games. Miss Lolo received many pretty and useful presents.

Those present were: Joel Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lawyer, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Milton Lawyer, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Weybright, Mr. and Mrs. — Wantz, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Haines, Mr. and Mrs. Clift on Null, Mrs. Margie Heltebride, Mrs. Emory Wantz, Mrs. Florence Leatherwood; Misses Lolo Myers, May Leatherwood, Edna Weybright, Roberta Heltebride, Ruthetta and Loretta Wantz, Elma and Hilda Myers, Messrs. Lloyd and Wilbur Wantz, Daniel Heltebride, John and Earl Schaeffer, Jesse Unger, Paul, Sterling and Ralph Robinson, Norman Weybright, Stratford, Dalmar, Earl and Tolbert Lawyer.

Constipation.

The beginning of almost every serious disorder is constipation. If you want to enjoy good health keep your bowels regular. This is best accomplished by proper diet and exercise, but sometimes a medicine is needed, and when that is the case you will find Chamberlain's Tablets are excellent. They are mild and gentle in their action, easy and pleasant to take. Give them a trial. They only cost a quarter.

Tomatoes Make Good Preserves.

Thrifty housekeepers in localities where fruit has been high priced and scarce this summer are turning to their old friend, the tomato, to increase their preserve supply. Made by the following recipe, which is recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture, tomato preserves are a real delicacy.

The pear or cherry varieties of tomato are best for preserves. Other kinds may be used, but these grow easily and abundantly and make a much more attractive preserve. Immerse the ripe tomatoes, a few at a time, in boiling water for a few minutes only. Remove the skins carefully so as not to break the tomatoes. Weigh them and place them in a preserving kettle with as many pounds of granulated sugar as there are tomatoes.

Prepare green ginger root by carefully scraping off the skin and shaving the root to small bits. Add one level teaspoon of these ginger shavings to each 2 pounds of tomatoes. Let the contents of the kettle come to a boil and boil for 10 minutes. Remove the tomatoes from the sirup and spread them upon a flat dish to cool. This will keep them from coming to pieces. When cool, return them to the boiling sirup and boil gently until they are the desired thickness. Put into jars while hot, adding a slice of lemon to each jar before sealing.—U. S. Agriculture Dept.

Nine of the appointments of Mayor Broening, among them William James Heaps, for City Librarian—who is well known in this county—have been refused confirmation by the city council. The Democrats evidently mean to take advantage of their confirming power, and to control, as far as possible, city appointments. We have not learned, in detail, the objections on which the actions of the council were based.
