It seems to us that some of our boasted "liberties" should be curtailed, when they are openly against good government, peace, and Americanism. We have been for a long time allowing all sorts of "free speech" propaganda, treating it with the policy, "answer not a fool according to his folly," but the fool and folly business is getting too promiscuous, and it is about time to take the conceit out of it.

Nearly all union organizations have some good in them, especially when they are reasonably and fairly operated; but it is difficult to find any justification in America for the I. W. W. brand. Instead of benefiting and elevating American labor, its chief business seems to be to create agitation and dissatisfaction, where none properly exists. American labor owes it to itself to clean house of undesirable neighbors.

There is no cause for the tax-payers of the county to become befuddled over the tax question, nor to get the idea that they are being overcharged. The only question is as to how increasing county expenditures shall be met; whether promptly, or whether in deferred, interest-bearing, partial payments. As long as the public insists on not putting off improvements, is it not at least questionable policy for them to even consider "putting off" the payments?

"America first," and "God, Home and Country," are good mottoes, these days. The whole world is kin, and our neighbors are just across the big ponds; but, before consideration of neighbors and their quarrels, let us not be so idealistic for the reformation and making-over of the world, and neglect setting our own affairs in order. There always has been those who will do more for others than themselves, but they are not the sort to depend on as examples.

Why Don't They?

It is one of the pronounced symptoms of discontent, and one of the main arguments against employers, by workmen, that the former make too much profit at the expense of the latter. Almost everywhere, it is claimed that capital gets a much greater share of the product of capital and labor combined, than labor gets. The firm selling goods over the counter, is continually being charged by customers with making too much profit.

There is one excellent way of testing these claims, and it is an open way—the way of claimants going into business for themselves, and trying it out.

Every man who works in a shop, cannot start a shop of his own. Every person who buys shoes, cannot open a shoe store. Every man who digs coal in a mine, cannot be a mine owner. But, there is corporation and stock ownership of all these branches of business. The printers in New York, now on a strike, could easily capitalize several large print shops. There can easily be enough of such enterprises opened and operated to try out and confirm, once for all, the claim of too much profit made by business at the expense of labor.

There are thousands of owners now, of all sorts of business, who would gladly "sell out" to their employees. Why not accept the chance? Men who want to sell out stores and factories will not attempt to pick their purchasers—not try to keep any particular classes from getting in on easy profit-making schemes.

Co-operative business is easy to get into. Let any one hundred, or one thousand, workmen go together, and they can likely among themselves contribute all of the capital needed to own and operate a business. Why don't they do it? Until they do, and demonstrate their present argument, how can they know with full assurance that robbery is being practiced on them? Why not try making the pudding, before condemning those who do make it?

Mr. Taft Enjoying Himself.

While our genial Mr. Taft is commonly referred to as our "most useful citizen," and one who enjoys a "wide measure of popularity," he is rarely referred to as a "Presidential possibility," and nobody knows this fact better than the subject of the remarks, nor cares less that such is the truth, if one is to judge by outward appearances.

Mr. Taft used to have other pet names, such as "Jelly fish" and "spineless fat man," usually applied by those who tried to belittle his administration when President, and to charge that he was the good humored victim of misleading partisans. But, it is noticeable that he is being quoted now, by this same once very critical element, and we no longer hear of the lack of initiative, and easy-going indecision, that they were sure characterized him when President.

It is also clear that if the man with the "wonderful smile and chuckle" is playing quietly for a Presidential nomination, he is not consulting many of his party leaders about it. The fact is, Mr. Taft is apparently enjoying himself, and his present position as a man who can talk out, and be quoted, and reveal just what he thinks about things, regardless of what the political world thinks, and this is a pretty good sort of a big man to have at large, even if we cannot always make our wisdom agree with his.

Decisive Action Needed.

The opinion is growing stronger and more general that industrial conditions will not right themselves, normally. Some widespread and decisive action, backed by law and force, would be needed—a sort of rigid military regime—to compel men to work, and to fix the wages therefor, but this would be one of the abnormal ways. Of course, no such action is contemplated; but, force of some kind—either of law or necessity—will eventually be required, and of the two, the first mentioned—would likely leave the least harm in its wake.

What the unionists call "collective bargaining," by an attorney, seems likely not to be interfered with, as belonging to individual rights. In equity, there seems to be as much justice in "collective bargaining" with labor as the commodity, as the same thing conducted with the products of labor, by dealers or capitalists. But, this is so only in the plainest and most open sense—in only the most law-abiding and manly independent way. Men have the right to agree together, as to their pay, just as employees have the right to agree together as to well they will grant the pay, or not; and as long as both sides are decent and law-abiding over it there is not much to be said.

"Take it or leave it" is a business maxim of long standing. The merchant offers, the customer accepts, or refuses, and no harm is done. The merchant does not say "you shall buy at my price; the customer does not say "you must sell at my offer," and then enter into a fist fight; but, each side remains within his rights, and eventually the law of supply and demand, competition, and what we have always known as the laws of business, prevents serious antagonism.

It is only when force—an effort at compulsion—unfriendly use of power—steps in, that business and labor and, production and consumption—all of which ought to be exacting friends looking after their best interests—become fighting enemies. This is the condition of the present. Not a quiet dependence on "collective bargaining," but demands backed by force that bargains shall be one-sided and accepted, or no bargain shall be made with anybody else.

Of course, this condition is going to have an end. It must have. Values can not be kept on rising, with the sky as the limit. Business can not be conducted on uncertainties. Everything must get down to, and back to, a fair cost and price. If necessity must do it, then there must be a fight, the end based on the survival of the strongest, and a long period of aggravated bad feeling and personal conflict, and the loser the practical servant of the winner—worse off than if he had made a compromise when better feeling existed.

This, of course, is taking for granted that men will still feel and act as though it is necessary for them to work for, and earn, a living; and that, rather than no bread at all, it will become necessary to accept the half-loaf. That, when it becomes plain that necessities can not be forced on others, resultant necessities will be accepted by the losers. Many things in life are a sort of gamble, and all should be willing to play the game with something like the gambler's fortitude, rather than run amuck.

Return Railroads to Owners.

Sentiment in this country unquestionably is—overwhelmingly in favor of a return of the railways to private ownership under proper supervision. There is no room for doubt on that score, although a vigorous effort has been made to create opinion in favor of nationalization of the railways, along with other industries. Nothing is to be gained by postponing indefinitely the adoption of a railway program. We know, in substance, what the country wants and Congress should proceed as expeditiously as may be to carry out the will of the people.

The operation of the railways of the country is primarily a business proposition and should be treated as such. There was too much politics in the regulation of the transportation companies before the war. The railway managers were largely to blame as they brought down upon themselves the public wrath that prompted every newly-elected legislator to father a sheaf of bills aimed at the railways. The result of that antagonism was a flood of regulatory laws that finally became oppressive to the point of confiscation.

A more intelligent view of the railway question has developed in recent years. There is abroad in this country a spirit of live and let live which should make possible an adjustment that will be satisfactory to the public and fair to the owners of the roads. It is important that the railway managers and the business world in general should know without delay just what to expect. We can not hope to have business in this country get down to a firm post-war basis so long as the fate of the transportation systems is hanging in the air. The railways should be turned back promptly to their owners for operation at the maximum of business efficiency and economy and under such supervision as will guarantee protection to them and to the public.—Indianapolis Star.

Constipation.

The beginning of almost every serious disorder is constipation. If you want to enjoy good health keep your bowels regular. This is best accomplished by proper diet and exercise, but sometimes a medicine is needed, and when that is the case you will find Chamberlain's Tablets are excellent. They are mild and gentle in their action, easy and pleasant to take. Give them a trial. They only cost a quarter.

OFFERS EVERYBODY A CHANCE

Philanthropic Seattle Man Throws Open Hall for Absolutely Free and Uninterrupted Speech.

A philanthropic fight promoter—one of the enterprising gentlemen who has been in the habit of putting on a boxing match every week or two—is much annoyed at the spasmodic interference of the officers of the law in his business affairs, and is proposing to throw open his hall for a weekly forum of free and uninterrupted speech, in place of the boxing bouts.

"I want every guy that has anything to say to come over and say it," said the promoter, according to the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, "and I'll give him ten minutes to spiel, and then he must shut his trap. I don't care what he is; any kind of a nut can come over and say right out what is on his chest. My luck has been so bad, and my spirits so depressed, that I want a laugh, and I believe a nut gathering of this kind would equal anything the Orpheum circuit or Pantages or the best of them ever put on. You know, nature keeps playing jokes on humanity all the time; she mixes together some queer patterns in heads, and a lot of fellows can't help what they think; some have a hunch for one thing and some for another; I suppose we could get a few startling facts on anything from religion to chess in these verbal tournaments. And it will be absolutely free; I might pass the hat around at the close of the entertainment to square me on the hall rent, but for the rest I wouldn't want a cent to pay outside of the entertainment I get out of it. As soon as I can pull a jazz band together to fit in with the speckmaking I will announce the details, and we will be sure in for a summer's entertainment, if the sheriff don't close us up."

HOMESICK FOR ARCTIC SNOWS

No Affectation About the Longing for Far North That Is Experienced by Explorers.

If you are of ordinary health and strength, if you are young enough to be adaptable and independent enough to shake off the influence of books and belief, you can find good reason to be as content and comfortable in the North as anywhere on earth. If you remember that all of us who have spent more than a year "living in the country," are quite of the Eskimo opinion that no food on earth is better than caribou meat, and if you have any experience in your life as a hunter anywhere, you will realize that in the evenings when we sit in these warm snow houses, feasting with keen appetites on unlimited quantities of boiled ribs, we have all the creature comforts.

What we lack, if we feel any lack at all, will be possibly the presence of friends far away, or the chance to hear opera or see the movies. At any rate, it is true that today in the movie infested city I long for more snow house evenings after caribou hunts as I never in the North longed for clubs or concerts or orange groves. And this is not peculiar to me. The men who have hunted with me are nearly all of the same mind—they are either in the North now, on the way back there by whaling ship, or eating their hearts out because they cannot go.—Vilhjalmar Stefansson in Harper's Magazine.

Probably Envious.

"After a few months in other states, I was returning to Indianapolis," remarked a traveling salesman, "and I don't mind telling you I was glad to be getting back home. As I sat down beside the stranger I told him how good it was to be back in the land of cornfields.

"So we started to talk about the beauty spots of Mother Nature. It is nothing more than natural for any Hoosier to talk about his own state. And I had to ask him whether he had ever been in Brown county.

"The stranger looked out of the car window a minute, saying softly to himself: 'Brown county, Brown county.' When he looked around at me again he said:

"Yes, I have been there. That's the place where the squirrels have to carry a lunch with them when they go across the county, is it not?"—Indianapolis News.

Flowers of Poland.

According to an English newspaper correspondent who recently reported a journey he had made from Paris to the Polish capital, the most impressive spectacle that he saw was the mantle of blossoms, clustered profusely, which fringed the highways and byways about Warsaw. "All the wars of Poland," he writes, "could not check the new life that came riding through her borders at the head of the advancing spring; sprays of lilac found place in the gray caps of Polish lancers, tulips and chestnut leaves, tokens of the new dawn, in the garb of peer and peasant. Everywhere was spring yielding back a measure of her everlasting rights." But the flowers never took much notice of the war even "at the front."

Runs News Stand Without Hands.

There is a boy running a news stand in Union square, New York city, who has no hands. He opens and closes his stand, opens and folds his papers and passes them out to customers without delay or difficulty, and makes change like an expert.

Lou Young is his name. He lost both hands in an explosion when thirteen years old, but that handicap did not hinder him from going into business and making a success of it.

"The cripple who has spunk is as good as anyone else," he says.

HOUSEHOLD BUDGETS HELP TO SAVE MONEY

Valuable Plan Described in Folder Which May be Had for Asking—System Makes Wise Spending a Certainty.

Household budgets with accounting columns attached are now on hand to be distributed to progressive women who desire to know where the money goes in order to stay its going. Just as balancing one's meals is conducive to the physical well-being of the family, so apportioning the monthly income to suit the monthly expenditures makes a household healthier financially, it is claimed by experts in home economics.

Instead of the dreaded conference at the end of each month when husband and wife rack their brains to know where all the dollars have gone, in neat little figures totaled at the bottom of long columns one finds just how much went for food, for clothing, for rent, for recreation, for charity, for doctor's bills. And best of all, there is the savings column which records what is left for the education of the boy and girl or for the washing machine and vacuum cleaner which will eliminate so many weary hours.

From the woman's division comes encouraging news that women of the Fifth Federal Reserve District are in rapidly increasing numbers making known their desire to place the conduct of the household on a business basis. The day has come, it is claimed, when the housewife sees the family income as a whole, and when upon her shoulders is placed an equal share with her husband of the responsibility of making the family income provide for the family needs.

The budget is based on annual incomes ranging from $900 to $5,000. It is prepared for the average family and since, after all, there is no average family, the items must be considered flexible, to be bent to the individual need. An estimate has been made of the amounts of money which should be spent for the necessities and luxuries of life.

Announcement has been made that budgets may be had by addressing a request to the Woman's Division of the War Loan Organization, Richmond, Va.

Order Of Turning Worm

The founding of the "Order of the Turning Worm," by present victims of the H. C. L. is proposed by Burt Leston Taylor, Chicago "collyerist." Consistent thrift and saving, best practiced by investment in War Savings Stamps and other government securities, will enable any "worm" to rise right up and smite high costs or any other enemy.

Thriftiness begets niftiness—A War Savings certificate does it.

Better buy those War Savings Stamps while you are thinking about it.

LONE SOLDIER HALTS ADVANCE OF GERMANS

Planted Machine Gun in Abandoned Tank and Mowed Down Huns Like Hay Before Sickle.

There is a regular soldier still in France who is going to get the Congressional Medal of Honor. To him was given the supreme honor of breaking up a German attack all by himself, an attack, if it had been successful, that would have decided the fortunes of the battle in favor of the Hun.

And he it noted that he could have very well said to himself on that occasion that he "could not afford" to remain where he was, a target for the whole German army.

He could have very easily placed himself in the attitude some people have taken toward the Liberty loans and the War Savings campaign. He was just an American army corporal, a Yankee non-com, but he didn't try to shirk any responsibility.

It happened near Verdun, in the 27-day battle of the Argonne. The regiment to which the corporal belonged was pretty badly shot up. The Huns had thrown out smoke screens and were attacking the Americans hard. The lone soldier was falling back with the others when he sighted a disabled French tank and a German machine gun. He planted that Hun rapid firer in the French tank and got busy. From his station he commanded a hill top over which the Boche must advance. As they came on in battalion formation he "swept them down" to use his own words, "like hay in front of a sickle."

He had no one with him to feed that unfamiliar machine gun, remember. The water jacket on the gun boiled dry from the stream of bullets that kept spurting into the German masses. He emptied his canteen of water into the jacket and cooled it off a bit, and went methodically to work again, killing Germans. All the time he was firing German cartridges collected from behind the tank.

He was on the job and doing what he had been trained to do, and what America sent him over to do. Finally the Huns called for a barrage to get that lone gunner in the smashed tank. They sent over something like 200 six-inch shells in an effort to put him and that gun out of action. "None landed," he reports.

That sort of American spirit is needed now to make the coming generation a prosperous and thrifty one. To make America solid before the world for all time to come, each one of us must "stand his ground" and do his part in this work of reconstruction.

We can no more afford to ignore the principles of thrift and saving and the splendid opportunity our government offers for saving and investment, than could the soldiers of America on French battlefields. We have a task to take care of that is ours and ours alone in this work of reconstruction and thrift.

The point to this story is that he had the $24.

There are scores who complain vociferously and frequently that the road to wealth is always blocked.

Where is the man so poorly paid in the United States today that he cannot save a fraction of his earnings? Accumulation of the smallest sums will in time provide for the purchase of a War Savings Stamp, which immediately begins working for you

RED CROSS GIVES FULL ACCOUNTING

War Council Tells How Millions Contributed by Public Were Used For Relief.

BIG TASK IS DESCRIBED

In Twenty Months $154,000,000 Was Spent Overseas and $119,000,000 in the United States.

Washington, (Special.)—Through a complete report of the work of the American Red Cross in the war by Chairman Henry P. Davison, on behalf of the war council, the organization on the eve of its annual enrollment of members during the Third Red Cross Roll Call, November 2 to 11, has rendered an accounting of the many millions given it by the American people to help our fighting men and our allies. The statement is, in part, as follows:

"The war council of the American Red Cross is now prepared to make a complete accounting to the American people of money contributed and expended, as well as the work done by the American Red Cross during the period in which the war council was in control of its affairs. The war council was appointed May 19, 1919, and went out of existence February 28, 1919.

"It was the practice of the war council to give complete publicity to its policies and finances, but it is only now that a picture of the war period as a whole can be presented. It is the feeling of the war council that a report in this summarized form should be made directly to the public which provided the money and gave the effort which made the American Red Cross a success.

"A statement of the American Red Cross effort and finances since the war council relinquished its control will be made to the public through the executive committee, and it is important, therefore, that the fact that this report covers the period only until March 1, should be carefully noted."

Following are certain round figures covering American Red Cross participation in the war, as revealed by the war council's report:

Of the $400,000,000 in money and supplies, contributed to the American Red Cross during the twenty months the war council was in existence, $233,000,000 was allotted to national headquarters, while $137,000,000 went to the chapters to finance their activities. Expenditures in the twenty months totalled $273,000,000, divided as follows: By national headquarters in France, $57,000,000; elsewhere overseas, $64,000,000; in the United States, $48,000,000; by chapters in the United States, $43,000,000; cost of chapter-produced articles distributed in France, $25,000,000, elsewhere overseas, $8,000,000; in the United States, $28,000,000, making total expenditures in France, $82,000,000, elsewhere overseas, $72,000,000; in the United States, $119,000,000.

To the Voters of Carroll Co.

The time is drawing near for you to vote for a candidate for Carroll County Commissioner. No doubt you are asking yourselves the question, "For whom shall I vote and for what does he stand?" As this is an important question, I feel that it is my duty to let you know where I stand on some of the important questions which will come before the Board of County Commissioners during the term of the man now about to be elected, so that you may have an opportunity to judge for yourselves who would make the better Commissioner.

I have been asked the question, "Where do I stand on the school question?"

I am in favor of keeping open the primary schools all over the county for as long a term as it is possible to do with the money that is appropriated for school purposes, and to secure the best teachers that can be obtained, and for that purpose to pay reasonable salaries to the teachers. I am in favor of building high school buildings in parts of the county where they are demanded, at a reasonable price. I am not in favor of running the county in debt to do so. I think every boy and girl should have an opportunity to attend a high school if he or she desires to do so.

At this time I do not think that we are in a position to close the primary schools at different parts of each district and haul the little children four or five miles over the rough roads to a high school, when they can obtain the same within walking distance of their homes.

I have been asked the question, "What do I think of building more State Aid Roads?"

In reply, will say that I am in favor of building as many miles of State Aid Roads as the tax-payers of the county wish, provided it can be done without increasing the tax rate. This is a matter in which the tax-payers should have some say, I think. I am also in favor of keeping the county dirt roads in the very best possible condition that can be done.

If elected Commissioner I promise the people the best business administration that it is possible to give, and to reduce the tax rate as soon as normal conditions are restored, thus making that possible.

GOVERNMENT ALLOWS POINTS

Miss Harriet Smith, Y. W. C. A. Student Secretary in China, Relates Amazing Story of How 20,000 Students Organized Themselves.

MISS HARRIET SMITH Of Chinese Y. W. C. A.

By BERNICE GRISWOLD.
Miss Harriet Smith, for ten years a student secretary of the Young Women's Christian Association in Shanghai, China, relates the amazing story of how 20,000 Chinese students organized themselves to oust the militarists from Government offices in Peking and how they succeeded in becoming the leaders of China.

Fearing that China was not to be protected from the aggression of other nations by the Peace Treaty, as she had expected to be, some 20,000 students, all of them between the ages of twelve and twenty-one years and including 8,000 girls organized themselves into the Chinese Students' Patriotic Society immediately after the publication of the first draft of the Peace Treaty to fight for Chinese rights.

Their first move was to strike from school or, rather, from lectures, as they remained in their respective schools and spent so many hours daily in private study. They then organized into bands for getting out propaganda literature and for public speaking in the country and small towns and in the tea shops in poorer districts of the cities in order that they might reach the vast numbers of people who could not read.

Immediately upon organizing, the students published their demands, four in number: (1) that the militarists, who as a party were pro-Japanese and practically controlled the Government at Peking, be put out of office; (2) that Shantung be returned to China; (3) that the twenty-one demands made by Japan in 1915 be cancelled; (4) that there be freedom of speech and of the press. They also insisted that the Chinese constitution be finished.

An immense amount of literature was put out, much of it in the new phonetic script which is being launched in China, so that the uneducated classes might learn what was happening. Students lectured everywhere on the demands, stirring the people to patriotism. When many of them were arrested while parading in the streets of Peking they formed an Association of Imprisoned Students within the prison and refused to be released, picketing the stockade themselves when Government guards were taken away, until the Government submitted a proper apology for having imprisoned them in the beginning.

ing to keep the railroad employees at their posts and explaining that it was patriotism for them and for water works and electric light employees to continue to work. At the end of that week the students had won the first point and the militarists were out of power.

When suffrage in any form finally comes to China Miss Smith feels that it will be granted to both men and women because of the way women are helping to build things up now. Women students took an active part in all of this bloodless revolution. They had their places on all of the councils. Their part of the work was to translate much of the literature into phonetic script and when a boycott was declared on Japanese goods to begin production of goods in China.

"All of the students threw away their straw hats—purely Japanese products—at the beginning of their movement, and the women students set about making white duck hats, which were called patriotic hats and immediately became very popular. Then they began devoting themselves to the making of parasols and of talcum powder. Some of them paraded, but none was arrested.

"China is the last country in the world to fear class feeling and antipathy, which seems to be gripping the rest of the world," Miss Smith says. "In China there is a wonderful social solidarity. People get together, not so much by localities, but by trades and professions. Every one belongs to a guild, and these guilds are wonderfully organized, as the Chinese have a genius for organization. Despite poor lines of communication, lack of railroads and telephones, these guilds hold closely together. Yet their organization has nothing to do with caste.

"With a leadership as highly organized as that of the students a great amount can be done. Leading men of China interpret the student movement as very significant—the forming of a new national party. It is the duty of all Christian organizations in China to give these students, who are now the leaders of the Government, every possible bit of aid and inspiration, as they need more than human help to bring China out of her difficulties successfully. The Y. W. C. A. is doing what it can to help the women students. All of these students have given up their vacations and are working hard throughout the summer."

Miss Smith has seen China change, within ten years, from one of the oldest and most rigid monarchies of the world into a republic. She saw the first republican flags go up and feels that China has accomplished a great deal, fighting all the time as she has, against the great odds of Japanese and European aggression in addition to the old monarchistic party. Given time, China will become one of the great republics of the world, she says.

Miss Smith lives in Richmond, Va., and is home on a year's furlough. She expects to return to China in the spring.

A Little Talk About Surplus

"SURPLUS" IS MORE THAN A RAINY-DAY FUND. IT IS AN EVIDENCE OF GOOD MANAGEMENT.

In the case of a Bank, a railroad, or a business institution, a large surplus means that the management is wise enough not to distribute all the profits in the form of dividends, but to reserve a portion for future use—it may be for emergencies, or it may be simply to invest in material, real estate, or something else requiring capital, and the possession of a surplus renders it unnecessary to borrow the money.

Every individual ought to have a surplus in the form of a savings account. It is exactly the same with the individual as with the corporation—his surplus indicates that his personal expenses have been kept so well within his income that there is something left over. It also shows that he has not used it all up in "dividends" of pleasure, but like a wise business man has "salted" some of it down for the future.

How much "surplus" have you? If you have never started a surplus fund, do so at once and keep adding to it. This Bank pays interest on "surplus accounts."

Try One Brunswick Then Decide

The best way to know for yourself the superiority of the Brunswick Tire is to buy one and compare it.

That is, if the very name of Brunswick isn't sufficient proof to you, as it is to most men, that here is an extraordinary tire.

Thousands of men who have known the name of Brunswick for years, realize that a Brunswick Tire has to be the best—for a mediocre product could never bear this historic name.

Long before the Overland Trail became famous, the House of Brunswick was established. It was one of the chief users of rubber for fifty years before automobiles came into use.

No concern with such a history could afford to offer anything but the best. For reputations are built slowly, but can be quickly destroyed.

This is a practical guarantee that Brunswick Tires offer more than the usual, yet at no added cost.

Get your first one now. You'll not be satisfied until you have ALL Brunswicks.

LESSON FOR OCTOBER 26

A LESSON IN TRUST.

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 14:22-33.
GOLDEN TEXT—I believe; help thou mine unbelief.—Mark 9:24.
ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Mark 5:23-
24; 26-48; Luke 7:11-23.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Help in the storm.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus comes to the help of his disciples.
INTERMEDIATE TOPIC—Help when most needed.
SENIOR AND ADULT TOPIC—An ever-present helper.

The storm-tossed disciples on the sea at night is an example of the struggling followers of the Lord in the darkness of the present age, as they are tossed by the tempests of the evil one.

I. The Disciples on the Storm-tossed Sea (vv. 22-24).

1. They were sent across the sea by Christ (v. 22). Doubtless his reason for this was to keep them from entanglement in the movements of the people to make him king, for in John 6:14, 15 it is shown that the people were so excited by the feeding of the five thousand that they were about to make him king by force. Though they were somewhat unwilling to go, it was a mercy for him to constrain them.

2. Christ dismissed the multitude (v. 22). This may be taken as typical of his rejection of the nation whose rulers had already rejected him.

3. Christ praying alone in the mountain (v. 23). Temptation to earthly honor and power had come to him, therefore he went to the Father in prayer for relief and strength. The need of prayer is greatest at such times. While his prayer was in part for himself, yet it was for his disciples. According to Mark 6:48, he saw from the mountain top the disciples toiling on the storm-tossed sea. We are never out of his sight as we struggle against the storms of life, and he ever lives to make intercession for us.

II. Jesus Walking on the Sea (vv. 25-27).

1. It was in the fourth watch of the night (v. 25). He did not come to them immediately, but waited till almost dawn. It was, however, the darkest part of the night, and physical danger was great, but their perplexity of mind was greater. They knew that the Lord had sent them, but why should they be in such straits if he sent them? A stormy sea is no evidence that we are not in the Lord's appointed way. The disciples' concern should be to obey the commands of the Lord, being assured that while doing his will he will protect them.

2. The disciples alarmed at his coming (v. 26). It was the coming of their best friend to deliver them from danger. He comes to us today in such ways that sometimes we are affrighted.

3. Jesus' words of comfort and good cheer (v. 27). In the midst of their distress they heard the Master's words, "Be of good cheer; it is I, be not afraid." This changed their fear into joy.

III. Peter's Venture and Failure (vv. 28-33).

As soon as Peter recognized the voice of Jesus he cried, "Bid me come to thee on the water." Jesus said, "Come." Peter obeyed, and for a time he walked upon the waves without sinking. His simple faith linked him with divine power and he was upheld; but as soon as he took his eyes off his Lord and considered the raging sea he began to sink. If we will but keep our eyes on the Lord instead of the waves we can outstride the storms of life. When Peter began to sink, he did the sensible thing; he cried to the Lord for help. Jesus reached forth his hand and saved him. He has never lost one who honestly cried for help. When Jesus entered the ship the wind ceased. The people worshipped him as the Son of God. No ship can go down with Jesus on board.

Hath Not Where to Lay His Head.

People are to be pitied who have no home. John Howard Payne in Paris, homeless and miserably, uttered the universal longing of the human heart when in a cold and dreary garret he wrote the words of "Home, Sweet Home." There are many people in the world who are driven from pillar to post, and who can say of no spot on earth, "This is my home." Think particularly of him who had come from his Father's House to this inhospitable earth and who said, "The foxes have holes, and the birds of the air have nests, but the Son of Man hath not where to lay his head."

Sublime Sentiment.

"Beware," said Lavater, "of him who hates the laugh of a child." "I love God and little children," was the simple yet sublime sentiment of Richter.—Mrs. Sigourney.

The Heart of the Believer.

The heart of the believer is the home of God. The church of the Lord Jesus is his holy temple. He dwells here by his Holy Spirit, and makes known through the church, to the principalities and the powers in the heavenly places, his manifold wisdom. This is a superlative honor. It brings with a supreme obligation.

One Thing at a Time.
The shortest way to do many things is to do only one thing at a time.—Cecil.

October 26
Christianity and the Health of China

— "Preaching," "teaching," "healing"—these words describe in large measure the earth ministry of our Lord. They also fulfill the prophecy of Isaiah found in verse 18 of our Scripture lesson. Thus was the Master accredited as the promised Messiah. The works that I do, bear witness of me that the Father hath sent me (John 5:36).

Notwithstanding the proof of His Messiahship he was rejected by those whom he came to bless (John 1:11 and 15:24). Then he steadfastly set his face to go to Jerusalem (Luke 9:51) that he might fulfill the greater mission expressed in the words, "The Son of Man came to give his life a ransom for many" (Matt. 20:28). Having accomplished our redemption, he charged his followers to bear witness of Him even to "the uttermost parts."

The message is a spiritual one, but access for the message can be gained through the body, hence medical missions and the matter of health. The work of the true Christian missionary is an inward work, it is to open a spring of divine life in the souls of men, to bring them, through the message of the gospel, into the life and light and liberty of the sons of God. To turn from this is cruel. Broken health and bodily pain are a serious misfortune, but a sinful soul, ungiven and uncleansed by the blood of Christ, is fatal.

A clean soul wants a clean body, a clean body does not always want a clean soul. In proportion as men and women in China and elsewhere are made new creatures in Christ, will bodily health be promoted and the death rate decreased.

In The Christian Herald, issue of August 16, there is an article under the title of "Helping the World to Health." It will be found valuable for this present topic. It records an interview with Henry P. Davidson, formerly director of the American Red Cross and now chairman of the Board of Governors of the League of Red Cross Societies of the World. One paragraph is very striking and also bears on our topic. It expresses the aim of the Red Cross activities of the future in these words: "The world now needs more than remedial agencies. It needs highly concentrated and strongly supported preventive activities that can control, minimize or eradicate, as nearly as is humanly possible those ills of humanity we have been helping to relieve. In brief we intend to make the Red Cross the emblem of health." This is a cause for rejoicing, especially as one remembers that apart from the cross to which He bore our sins in His own body, such an organization as the Red Cross Society would never have come into being.

Diamond Setting.

The following method of setting diamonds has been found to be the best: First drill the hole for the diamond to the usual depth, a little deeper than the greatest dimensions of the stone. The drilling should be done without lubricant, as oil of any kind tends to prevent the splter from flowing smoothly.

This being done, the hole should be closed in slightly, just enough to make it out of round. The splter is now poured into the hole, filling it completely, and the diamond, held in a pair of tweezers, is pushed into the liquid splter in the hole until it strikes the bottom. In doing this an amount of splter equal to the displacement of the diamond is pushed out of the hole, and when this drop of splter makes its appearance it is certain that there are no vacant spots under the stone.

After the splter has cooled the end of the rod in which the diamond is located can be shaped up in the customary manner. The fact that the hole is slightly out of round prevents the core of splter from working out of the end of the rod.

Introduced Lilac to Europe.

There are men who in a lesser sphere have been givers of gifts which are enjoyed by millions, though their own names may have slipped out of the memory of the world, says the Boston Transcript.

Such a man was Ogier Ghisla de Busbecq. He was born in the pleasant town of Comines, in Flanders, now half French, half Belgian, with the River Lys between, almost four hundred years ago and educated in that university at Louvain which now, alas, is laid low. Busbecq was a collector, and when he was sent by the Emperor Ferdinand as ambassador to the Sultan Suleiman the Magnificent, on his return brought manuscript and coins and plants home to Vienna. And among these plants was the lilac.

Ancient Battle Standards.

It is probable that the first flag was carried by the Saracens in their battles with the Crusaders, the latter adopting the idea, which thus spread over Europe. Long before that there had been national standards, however, as the ancient Egyptians carried before their hosts the figure of a sacred animal on a spear. A stuffed cat impaled on a stick was the forerunner of the banners now used. In the days of the old Persian empire a blacksmith's apron was carried aloft at the head of the army, while the standard of the Turks was a horse's tail.

We have sent out, this week, a large number of notices of subscriptions expiring in November. As heretofore explained, these notices are not "duns." Then such a frolic of games will these mysterious folks uncover as to bewilder their mundane guests. Hist! A great secret! A deep dark secret! U. B. Church—Harney: Bible school at 9 and preaching at 10 A. M. Town: Bible school at 1:30 and preaching at 2:30 P. M. Sermon subject: "Self Consecration." Disturbing Business Condition. If it is true, as is charged, that the War Department is not only selling millions of pounds of sugar to Europe, as well as many other articles, "so as not to disturb market conditions in this country," then it seems to us that in the interest of suffering consumers, "market conditions" need "disturbing." Business for the manufacturers, is not the only business in this country that needs looking after; the business of just ordinary living, is getting to be a business of considerable importance among common people.
