SWARTHMORE CHAUTAUQUA FOR TANEYTOWN.

Engagement Entered into This Week for a Fine Course.

A representative of the Swarthmore Chautauqua Association was in Taneytown, this week, and secured guarantors for a three day's course of splendid attractions—lectures, music, and entertainment. The dates have not yet been selected, but will likely be in October, or early in November. The Swarthmore Service is among the best in the country, and should be a big success in Taneytown.

The local guarantors are J. L. Hunsberger, Rev. G. P. Bready, Rev. L. B. Hafer, Rev. D. J. March, Rev. J. Wilbur Shipley, Rev. H. A. Quinn, S. C. Ott, C. G. Bowers, Reindollar Bros., Co., A. G. Riffe, Motter & Leister, D. J. Hesson, E. A. Newcomer, N. B. Hagan, Koons Brothers, Geo. H. Birnie, Wm. E. Burke, R. S. McKinney, Merle S. Ohler, J. H. Lentz, H. B. Miller, Robt W. Clingan, Mrs. G. May Fouke, Misses Dorothy Harman, Carmen Shoemaker, Emma L. Reaver, Elizabeth Crapster, Elizabeth M. Annan.

The officers are: President, J. L. Hunsberger; Vice-Pres., Rev. H. A. Quinn; Secretary-Treasurer, Rev. L. B. Hafer.

The guarantors are to meet next Friday evening, Oct. 1, at 7:30, at the Birnie Trust Co., for the purpose of completing arrangements.

The Peak of Prices Reached.

Unless there is an unexpected reaction, the peak of high prices, both for merchandise and labor, has been reached, and the descent on the other side started. The turn came sooner than expected, as the best judgment was that prices would break in about six months.

We believe that readjustment will come, now that it has started in so many lines, but that except in the highest prices goods, the reduction will be gradual. The public must not be deceived as to exact facts. Much of the newspaper stuff now going, is largely advertising. The big dealers realize how eager the public is to buy cheaper, that they strain a point to make reductions that will be talked about, with their names prominently mentioned.

Most notices containing the firm names and reduced selling prices, can be regarded in the light of advertising, and with some discount. However, these announcements point the way—the way that has been clearly foreseen by men who take long views ahead, of coming events.

Not only merchandise, but labor costs, must drop. Men who figure on getting the topmost prices for their services, should calmly recognize the situation, and meet it reasonably. Buying cheap, and continuing to sell labor high, can't continue.

Community Shows.

The County Agent and Home Demonstration Agent are much interested in Community Shows. We hope every district in Carroll County will plan having one. The dates chosen for this county are Oct. 11 to 22. The women exhibit all kinds of household products, including household arts, including sewing, embroidery, crocheting, tatting, quilts, rugs, canned goods, jellies and pickles; cookery, including bread, cakes, pies, etc. The men's exhibit will include corn, wheat, potatoes and other vegetables, fruits, etc.

The Maryland Agricultural Society gives $100 to be used in each county for prizes but this amount should be doubled by local contributions.

The arrangements are usually made by a local committee co-operating with the Maryland University through the County Agent and Home Demonstration Agent. The morning of the exhibit is usually spent in judging. In the afternoon the exhibit is open to the public and at night the State University will furnish speakers. An affair of this kind requires the co-operation of all; the church, the school and community. Doesn't your locality have just as good product as any other? Why not show your products and get a chance to see what your neighbor has done. Someone has said the community show is the "Farmer's Show Window." Your merchant is not ashamed to put his best in his show window. Why should you be? Let's fill it up with the choicest products of Carroll County and let the State know that this county is equal to any other. Consult County Agent's office.

Registration, Next Tuesday.

The first day for registration in the county, is next Tuesday, Sept. 28th. The additional dates are Tuesday, Oct. 5; Saturday, Oct. 9; Tuesday, Oct. 12. The Registrars will sit on Oct. 19, but for revision of the lists only, and not for registration.

The hours for registering will be from 9:00 A. M. to 9:00 P. M.

Marriage Licenses.

Joseph C. Lapham and Mabel Irene Shue, both of Hanover, Pa.
Wm. Henry Warehime and Mary G. Miller, both of Manchester.
LeRoy E. Hunt and Mary B. Zepp both of Westminster.
Clyde Paul Eyer and Glova May Stately, both of Woodsboro.

PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES.

Real Differences for Intelligent Voters to Consider.

There is, or was, a tendency on the part of the general public to rather discount the ability of both candidates for the Presidency. There was an attempt made to shelve them with the verdict that both were mediocre—one about as good as the other, and neither the best material in either party; that both were selected with the idea that they were the best men that could be named considering chaotic conditions and factions, in both parties, etc.

If this verdict was near true, at the time of holding the conventions, we believe it is less true now. The fact is, it is a common mistake, of both party leaders and party voters, to conclude that candidates for President must be great party generals, or men so prominently before the public as to constitute, in themselves, party heroes and spell-binders. We have possibly had too many of just this sort of candidates. What the country actually needs, is the conservative type of man, standing squarely before the country as a representative of solid judicial, financial and business sense; with ability enough to surround himself with trained experts as advisers; with a full conception of the power and dignity of the office as it relates to Nationalism and Internationalism, and that the Congress of the United States is the government.

We believe that both candidates have developed since their nomination. There may be differences of opinion as to which has displayed the most strength and ability in their public addresses. Most of our politicians and voters do not read up both sides, but see only the utterances and virtues of the one, and not the other, hence never arrive at the conclusion that both are better men than was at first the opinion.

Perhaps both are men of nearly the same capacity, and perhaps both, in a way, dodge placing themselves squarely on record on every question placed before them—so placed largely in order to cause them to take sides and lose votes. But, the fact remains that both are fit men to lead their parties. The differences that exist, are party differences—party alignments—party trend differences—policies that will be handed down to the candidates to be carried out. These are the considerations that should guide voters.

The kind of Cabinet the candidates will name, has a great deal to do with which candidate should be elected. The kind of general policy he will be committed to, with reference to the various selfish and disturbing influences now before the country, is a vital thing to consider. The man himself, is not so important as either of these.

In order to help differentiate truly between candidates, voters will need to read carefully what both have to say; what the exact differences are between party policies, party alignments on the side, and what the trend of party sympathies have been, and now are.

Republicans Gain in City.

The Baltimore Sun says, in this Friday morning's issue:

"Several salient facts stand out after examination of the figures of the new general registration held on Tuesday and Wednesday, all of which must be as satisfactory to the Democrats and as satisfactory to the Republicans as are the bare totals.

Five days of the registration in the city remain, it is true, but the figures not only show that the Republicans will begin those days with more people on the books—the figures also indicate that the Democrats will begin those days in better shape to make the most of their opportunities.

The first of the facts is that the Republican organization ran circles around the two Democratic organizations—Mahon's and Kelley's.

The second is that, handicapped as the Democrats are by the comparative inefficiency of their organizations, the foreign-born vote is tending against them.

Another outstanding fact, which is gathered not from examination of the figures but from receipt of general information, is that the active suffragists are enrolling rapidly and are tending to the Republicans.

And a fourth fact, apparent from the figures, is that the women are more disposed to refuse to affiliate with either party than the men have been.

As to the first fact, the inefficiency of the Democratic organizations as compared with that of the Republicans, evidence appears in numerous wards. The wards in which the negroes constitute the bulk of the Republican strength were the best wards for the Republicans. That simply means that the Republican workers were on the job at top speed."

"Okeh" Instead of "O. K."

The Ellicott City Times last week, sought to improve "O. K." as a mark of approval, using the word "Okeh" instead, in "have the party okeh." This is a variation from Webster's and common usage, but hardly an improvement, or authorized.

The legislators received a bonus of $25.00 a day for "stationary," in addition to their $5.00 a day and the usual mileage allowance. Some of the members voted against the "bonus"—but likely accepted it

MOST WOMEN WILL VOTE

Registration is the First Act Required for both Men and Women.

More Women are going to vote, than many think. Women themselves who had no desire for the ballot, now see that it is their duty to exercise the responsibility placed upon them, and are taking an interest they did not think they would take—not because they WANT to, but because they OUGHT to.

The first necessary act is REGISTRATION. Voting, without first registering, is not permissible for either men or women. All names of voters, must be "on the books," and this can be done only on certain days.

In the counties, the Registration days under the old law, are Tuesday, Sept. 28, and Tuesday, Oct. 5, between the hours of 8:00 A. M., and 7:00 P. M. The new law has added Oct. 9 and 12 for registration, and changed the

All votes will COUNT ALIKE. There will be no distinction between ballots voted by men, and those voted by women, and when the count comes there will be no way to tell whether a ballot was marked by a man, or by a woman.

Women will be required to answer the following questions: Name; residence; postoffice address; age; place of birth; color; time of residence in State, County, and precinct; party affiliation—answer to the latter may be declined, in which case voters are disqualified from voting at primary elections.

An amendment passed the House authorizing women to certify to their age as "over twenty-one," but the Senate adjourned without passing it.

Women will now be doubly interested in reading the newspapers. In reading news relative to "politics"—legislation, registration, voting, the results of elections, etc. READ THE RECORD for all necessary information concerning these matters in Carroll County.

DETOUR BRIDGE OPENED

Double Pipe Creek Spanned by a New Structure.

The new bridge at Detour has been finished and opened for traffic, but the end approaches are not yet fully graded. The opening of the bridge will be hailed with general satisfaction, as the absence of the bridge has been a great inconvenience to the public for a long while.

The new bridge is a three-span iron structure costing about $16,000 and was erected jointly by Carroll and Frederick counties. It was at this bridge, while covered only by a temporary foot way, that Miss Spielman fell into the stream last Spring, and was drowned.

Not Responsible for Minor's Act.

Apparently, a decision has been rendered by Judges Umer and Worthington, of Frederick, that a father can not be held answerable for the act of a minor child, unless the child committed the act while accompanied by the parent. The Middletown Register last week, says:

"The county court gave its decision last Wednesday in favor of the defendant in the suit of M. L. House vs. Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Gano, thus setting aside a decision rendered by Justice Howard M. Jones, of Brunswick, this valley, who had found for the plaintiff and awarded him $58.20 damages. The case was the result of a stone being thrown by a son of Mr. and Mrs. Gano, which broke the large plate glass in the front of the barber shop of House at Brunswick. The appeal was aired before Judges Umer and Worthington on Sept. 7. It was contended by the plaintiff that Gano was bound by oral contract to pay for the glass."

The Hessian Fly in Carroll.

The Hessian Fly is due to die in Carroll County, only if all the farmers get back of the movement and help with the execution. Here's why. Last fall a number of those who planted late had fly; because of this fact, they condemn late planting instead of looking for some other reason. The life history of the insect holds the answer.

The fly emerges from its retreat in September. It lays its eggs on volunteer and early wheat. The egg hatches out a small worm which eats the wheat plant and causes it to die or retards its growth. When the worm gets a certain size it forms a hard shell around itself which looks like a flaxseed. The insect winters in this stage, until early Spring, when the fly emerges, lays its eggs on the wheat which hatches into the worm that does so much damage to our wheat crop.

One can readily see that we have two broods in a year, one in September, one in the Spring. If we catch the September brood by planting late, we miss the Spring brood, providing our neighbor did the same. If he planted early, his Spring brood will fly over and infect your field.

The infection in Carroll is 15% and some as high as 43%. If you count bushels instead of fly, this means something. Will you co-operate? Do not sow until September 27, north of Westminster, and October 1st, south of that line. Several days later will be better. Get your neighbor to do the same.

Chicken Eats $600 Stone.

Davenport, Ia., September 17.—More remarkable than the tale of the goose that laid the golden egg, is the story of the chicken that ate a $600 diamond out of a ring.

H. L. Welbourne recently purchased 150 chickens and put them in a coop behind his shop. While unloading the chickens he struck his ring forcibly against the coop, loosening the stone. Unable to find it in the coop, Welbourne followed with a wholesale slaughter of fowl. The missing diamond was found in the fiftieth bird killed.

Senator Harding will speak in Baltimore, on Sept. 27. It is said that his short trip to the northwest has been so satisfactory, that he will make more speeches on tours than was originally planned.

TOO MANY LIQUOR PERMITS

The Reason Why Liquors are Obtainable in Large Cities.

Washington, Sept. 21.—There were in full effect on Sept. 1, a grand total of 70,714 government permits for the sale or use of intoxicating liquor in one form or another. That amazing figure was contained in a statement made by Dr. A. B. Adams, head of the division of technology of Commissioner Kramer's office, who passes upon and actually issues the liquor permits.

There are 32,960 doctors, in dry America, who possess government permits to write prescriptions calling for not more than a pint of whisky to a patient at a time.

Of the 70,714 government permits of one kind and another, through which the holders are authorized to import, export, manufacture, distill, buy or sell whisky and other intoxicating liquors, there were, on Sept. 1, a total of 3,846 wholesale permits. The wholesale permits compose the spigot of the big booze barrel, and all the other permits, far greater in number but less potent in meaning, form merely the trail of the red herring across the real tracks.

Ninety per cent of those wholesale permits are not necessary. Doctor Adams declared, "I have no hesitancy in stating that when those permits automatically expire, on Dec. 31, next," said Doctor Adams, "less than two-thirds of them will be renewed. Very, very few additional permits will be issued."

"Those wholesalers are the bugaboos of the adequate enforcement of the prohibition law. It is through them that the whisky flows unrestrained. Those wholesalers are supposed to sell liquor only to the holders of other permits—holders of permits authorizing sale and possession of liquor for various purposes.

Some idea of the reasons why the thirsty wayfarer may buy a drink with ease, or carry home a quart of whisky in such cities as New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Baltimore, Chicago, and San Francisco, is revealed by the number of those wholesale permits effective in these particular cities.

New York State leads the list, with the astounding total of 1,579 wholesale permits for wholesale traffic in whisky, regardless of several thousand other permits which authorize "possession." In Pennsylvania, there are 767 wholesale permits; in Illinois, 306; in Kentucky, 206; in California, 163; in Massachusetts, 90, and in Maryland 64.

There are now in bonded warehouses—more than 350 of them—throughout the United States, more than 50,000,000 gallons of whisky, that is "known" whisky—whisky of which the Internal Revenue Department has a record. That immense stock of liquor is whisky alone; it does not include rum, gin, brandy and other such "hard stuff," nor does it take into account the vast stocks of wines, foreign liquors, champagnes, etc.

By virtue of their permits, those 3,846 wholesalers have free and easy access to this ocean of liquor, ostensibly for lawful "nonbeverage" purposes, but actually a majority of them are serving as the great, specially privileged underground pipe line to the bootlegger, the saloon that still thrives under its "near-beer" camouflage, the gay cabaret and the circus-specter baron, who sells in 1001 case lots only.

More in Sorrow than Anger.

"When Bill Hart, or Tom Mix, or Harry Carey, have ramped through four and a half reels, rustling cattle, holding up trains and robbing stage coaches, one may see the redeemed bad man ride into the sunset across the Mexican border while a kind hearted sheriff waves a friendly farewell from the distance. They get away with it in the films. But—"In the days when a cowpuncher earned $30.00 a month instead of being paid $1,000 a week, and when he manicured his nails by scraping the sand out of the bake oven, it was different. If a careless stranger slaughtered somebody else's beef, the owner and his friends usually escorted said stranger beneath a stout cottonwood tree and moved the ground from under him. They took these steps more in sorrow than in anger, for hanging the rustlers did not resurrect the dead steer.

"Neither rustler nor human nature has changed much since those days. Now the rustlers run off with dollars instead of cows. They work with oil stock prospectuses, promises of fifty per cent dividends and assurances of enormous price advances instead of by blotting brands and stampedes. Sooner or later most of them run foul of the law and are captured or chased across the border. But if they have taken your money, putting them in the big stone house at Atlanta, or Leavenworth, won't bring your dollars back.

"If one lets dollars run loose, the rustlers are mighty likely to get at least some of them. The one safe plan is to put them where the rustlers cannot get them. So long as you keep your dollars corralled in Liberty Bonds and Government Savings Securities, they are safe. Charles Ponzi is in jail, but many of the investors to whom he promised 50 per cent profit in three months, have received neither money nor profit. Putting Ponzi in jail did not get their money back, but putting their money into Liberty Bonds would have kept them from losing it."—War Loan Organization, Fifth Federal Reserve Dist.

THE SPECIAL SESSION ENDS WORK IN THREE DAYS

Registering and Voting Laws Are Amended for Women.

The special session of the Legislature very sensibly met on Monday night, after increasing registration and election facilities called for by votes for women. An effort was made to put through other legislation, including ratification of the suffrage amendment, a Prohibition enforcement act, and striking out the age question for women, but all failed. The only additional bills passed were two relating to financial matters connected with the cities of Frederick and Hagerstown.

The repeal of the "declaration of intention" act, and the "simple ballot," bill, both Republican measures, were also defeated on a close vote. Suffrage was beaten in the House by 50 to 43.

The Registration days for the counties, under the new law, are September 28, October 5, October 9, October 12; and October 19 for revision of the lists only. The hours for registration are from 9:00 A. M. to 9:00 P. M. Election day, hours for voting from 6:00 A. M. to 7:00 P. M.

For Co-operation of Farmers.

The imperative need of strengthening the farm organizations in the State of Maryland will be emphasized at the annual meeting of the Maryland Agricultural Society, in Salisbury, November 9 to 11, according to Dr. Thomas B. Symons, Secretary of the organization and Director of the University of Maryland Extension Service.

"The farmers of Maryland are beginning to realize that in order to keep pace with other sections of the country where co-operative marketing and buying is making rapid strides the local, county and State organizations in Maryland must be strengthened," says Dr. Symons.

"During the past year a noticeable trend toward co-operation has been manifested in the State. Many communities formerly lacking organizations of any kind have been welded together in farmers' clubs or associations. County federations have been formed, uniting local bodies into stronger and more efficient units.

"Maryland farmers want to exert their utmost influence in deciding such questions, they must have active organizations prepared to deal with local situations and properly linked up by adequate representation with national associations. It is expected that the number of vital topics which will be brought up for discussion at the meeting of the Agricultural Society at Salisbury in November will greatly stimulate the organization program in Maryland."

Growth of Ice Cream Business.

The growth of the ice cream business, in this country, is estimated to be second only to the automobile business. It has reached almost unknown proportions, the State of Pennsylvania, alone, producing some 20,000,000 gallons. Its great impetus is thought to be due to prohibition, as well as to the general prosperity of the country.

The "saturation point" of the ice cream market is an unknown quantity at present, new manufacturers entering the field without taking any of the business of the old and old manufacturers enlarging their plants right along without ever reaching the point where the public has enough.

Ice cream is being more and more looked upon as a necessity rather than a luxury, and its use is becoming more and more widespread. Unquestionably, it presents one of the causes of high priced butter.

A woman was arrested in Baltimore last week, for being drunk. She admitted the charge, and said she was "proud of it," as it was a distinction to be drunk, these days.

Reports from the automobile and tire industry cities, are to the effect that the business is at present suffering a depression. This is only the forerunner of a depression likely to hit many manufacturing enterprises—luxuries and expensive products naturally gettings theirs first. In the readjustment of business, the money-spending mania, regardless of prices, must naturally have its limit.

The winter season is not a good time for labor to seek new engagements, but that is likely to be the problem to face, this winter. It is to be hoped that much of the "big pay" for labor has been banked, so that it can be called on to bridge over the troublous times that seem to be ahead. We greatly fear, that "come easy, go easy" has been the popular motto, and that most of those out of a job, will also be out of cash.

It is charged from responsible sources that "the government" is winking at wholesale violations of the liquor laws; that "50 percent of the New York police stand in with the whisky ring; that stealthy deals are no longer necessary, at many places, etc., etc. And be it remembered, that these charges are being made, less than two months before a Presidential election. Which is the more important—investigating the size of campaign contributions, or getting after wholesale violations of an amendment to the Constitution of the U. S.?

"Be Unafraid—But Slow on Promises"

The above caption of a newspaper article caught our attention, recently. It is worthy of consideration in a general way. There are many who pride themselves on speaking out, giving opinions—and opinions are often promise—off-hand, on almost any and every question. They suffer, without knowing it, from a common and serious disease—cock-sureness.

A man who considers his opinion as something of real value, back of which is his reputation for intelligence and the safety of his guidance, is more cautious. There are many who arrive at wise conclusions much more quickly than others, because they have formed the habit of mentally digesting things rapidly on general principles, recognizing from long experience certain danger signals as well as safe spots in the proposition presented, but even such men, in their opinions, are apt to be guarded in their delivery.

Conservation is not a mark of cowardice. True, slowness in making promises may be over-emphasized. Excess of caution is possible—may not lead anywhere, when leading is essential, and promptness a saving virtue; but there should always follow connectedly a responsibility for an opinion, or a promise, and this may require a "slow on promises" attitude that may well be emulated by many who profess a contempt for slowness at all times.

Women and Voting

Eventually, we believe, most women will become interested in politics, and vote. No doubt many will become interested, not for the best of reasons, nor because of the best information; but as many of the men voters, after long years of privilege, are in this same class, the women must be given a fair show before condemned for not being intelligent and honest in their use of their new privilege and obligation.

If there is any one feeling that our of good women should overcome, it is that of repugnance to voting because they thus become associated with the lower classes. This same fact confronts the men, yet the best men do not refrain from voting on this account, and it would be a tremendously unfortunate fact if they did.

Instead of being a deterring influence, it should be the actuating one in voting, to overcome evil with good. If our most intelligent and best qualified women do not vote, then, the 19th. amendment should be repealed as soon as possible.

We feel that this amendment was "put across" under force, and without taking the voice of the people—not even the voice of the women—on the subject. It was forced into the major political question class, at a time when both parties were at sea for big issues, and both feared to deny the insistent demands of vote for women leaders. The question "got to going" at such a rate that party leaders did not get together, and both sides feared to down it.

Just now, both old parties hope to reap party benefit from votes for women, rather than that they favor it. We believe that deep down in the consciences of the wisest men in both parties, the sentiment is against equal suffrage; and this is another prime reason why the good women of the country should vote, and make the strongest possible effort to disprove the opinions of the men.

Sedition.

The explosion in Wall St., last week, which was likely beyond doubt due to a planned terror, must call attention very forcibly to the easy terms with which this country has been disposed to treat sedition in most of its forms. Deporting, jailing and dispersing, the so-called "Reds," once in a while, has been about the extent of punishment administered, and for a long while many thoughtful people have doubted whether this is enough.

The theory that an evil left alone, and unnoticed, is apt to die down because not antagonized, may apply in minor cases; but fire, pestilence, murder, burglary and criminality of the first class, are not evils of this sort. Neither are sedition and anarchy.

This country needs to stage an open warfare against plotters of all sorts against our government and institutions. We do not compel anybody to live here. We do not want anybody to live here, who is unwilling to do so on our terms. We do not want the classes who come here, and stay here, to try to make our laws and principles over to suit their un-American doctrines.

Away with them! Away even with teachers of all the "isms" not conforming to the Constitution of the United States. The privileges of "free speech," the "free press" and "personal liberty," need to be defined over again. We should say to all—"behave yourselves, or get out!" And that would be a mild verdict. Hanging, shooting or electrocution, should be greatly more extensively practiced, we believe, against thousands now here who are making a living by going throughout the country preaching discontent and revolution.

A Greatful Letter.

It is in trying conditions like that related below by Mrs. Geo. L. North of Naples, N. Y. that proves the worth of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. "Two years ago last summer," she says, "our little boy had dysentery. At that time we were living in the country, 8 miles from a doctor. Our son was taken ill suddenly and was about the sickest child I ever saw. He was in terrible pain all the time and passed from one convulsion into another. I sent my husband for the doctor and after he was gone thought of a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy in the cupboard. I gave him some of it and he began to improve at once. By the time the doctor arrived he was out of danger."

Radical Unionism.

There is an element within Union labor circles that plays fair, at least, to the extent of insisting on the carrying out of contracts, and which is not completely obsessed with the principle that "the end justifies the means." It is the element that stands for a strong organization, and against rebellion and insubordination within it. It stands for leadership and cohesion and obedience to leadership. It of course stands for class legislation, and class advantage for labor interest legislation and labor interest advantage—largely regardless of non-union members and their interests.

This would all not be so very objectionable, were it possible to always have good leadership, and reasonably fair demands. Organizing for honest self-protection is a very laudable purpose, and if the proper bounds of class interests be at times overstepped, there could not be a great deal said against it. As a matter of fact, within certain limits, practically everybody is trying to "get the best" of situations, and turn them to their own advantage.

Unfortunately for unionism, the fact has frequently developed, of late, that there is a "radical" element within that maintains no high standard of honor, and which makes "scraps of paper" out of agreements. It is an element that, given the proper chance, overthrows and mutinies against its own rules and leaders—it is but a short step from the uncontrolled mob and "red" rebellion.

This fact is worth serious consideration. It is a tremendous National danger looming up for the future. It is this, because the "radical" element in labor unions is largely a foreign element, and not in full sympathy with the best of American laws and principles. There are a lot of very dangerous individuals within the ranks of unionism.

The President and Union Labor.

A pertinent question has been raised by the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce. It asks the President of the United States why he gives recognition to organized labor but gives no recognition to the vast body of labor outside of the American Federation of Labor and such bodies. It has forwarded resolutions to President Wilson calling attention to the fact that he has called a conference, to be held in Washington on October 6, "for the purpose of discussing the labor situation in the country and the possibility of formulating plans for the development of a new relationship between capital and labor." The call states "there will be twenty-two representatives of the general public and an equivalent number of representatives of various bodies of organized employees."

The protest says: "It is well known that the number of employees in this country who are not organized greatly exceeds those who belong to labor organizations. It seems to us unfair and unwise that labor representatives should be confined to those connected with such organizations." It goes on to say that "the great body of workmen who are not affiliated with organized labor, who faithfully served the nation in its time of need, should be recognized in such a gathering. * * * Such men are in a position to consider the problems of the employer from the standpoint of the actual worker rather than that of the organizer who is not engaged in actual labor."

It declares this conference as planned will not fairly represent the labor of the United States.

"The importance of this," it continues, "is emphasized by our experience in this district during and since the war. No large industrial district is the nation has such an enviable record of large production, freedom from strikes and industrial unrest as the Pittsburgh district. This is to a large extent, we believe, due to the fact that perhaps in no similar district approaching it in size is there so small a proportion of workers identified with labor organizations. Notwithstanding this, in no similar district were the workmen better paid, better treated or more prosperous."

"There is a very large number of intelligent industrious, conservative and patriotic workmen all over the country who are capable of considering the questions which will come before such a conference in a broad, unselfish spirit, and who by their experience can materially aid in settling the questions that now confront us."

"We suggest that, if a definite number of delegates were allotted to certain districts or trades to represent the workmen affiliated with each other in these trades, or in the manufacture of special products but not included in any of the accredited labor organizations or federations, an equitable selection could be made by a popular vote taken in each company or plant working hours, the final representatives being selected by these electors from among their own number."

The protest is just. In recognizing only the members of organized labor to speak for labor the government promotes unionism. Labor's spokesmen do not labor. They organize and talk.

There are more than 44,000,000 persons in America engaged in gainful occupations. The majority of them may be classed as labor. There are more than 105,000,000 persons in this country. Organized labor has a membership of about 4,000,000. That is a decided minority of labor. It is a very small percentage compared with the public at large, which receives only the same proportion of representation as organized labor. In effect, the government, by recognizing organized labor and ignoring unorganized labor, boosts the unions at the expense of those opposed to unions. This tends to create a labor monopoly controlled by the leaders of organized labor.

The federal laws prohibit monopoly. The government's action in this instance, and in various other labor cases, promotes labor monopoly.—Richard Spillane, in Phila. Ledger.

Keep Well and Be Happy.

If you would be happy you must keep your bowels regular. One or two of Chamberlain's Tablets taken immediately after supper will cause a gentle movement of the bowels on the following morning. Try it.

WHEN IN DANGER OF FIRE

Walk, but Don't Run, in Burning Building or in Business Frenzy—Keep Cool.

When some one shouts "Fire!" in a theater those most likely to be trampled down are those who start a wild stampede. Those who keep their heads and act rationally stand better chance of escaping injury," remarks Forbes Magazine. The cry of "Fire!" was recently raised in the business world and started a stampede in many quarters. Now, it cannot be doubted that the war time frenzied boom has reached its zenith, and that prices are moving downward. It remains to be seen, however, whether it was wise to attempt to force goods on the market at greatly reduced prices and to cancel orders for fresh supplies on the assumption that producers would also cut their prices drastically in a mad effort to get from under. It is worth noting that woolen, shoe, silk, and certain other manufacturers promptly curtailed operations, thus refusing to gamble to the limit in futures. If production be curtailed on all sides, then some merchants may find that they overplayed the cancellation game. Goods cannot be produced for some little time at any tremendously lower cost than formerly because it takes time for raw materials, labor, taxes and other expenses to fall drastically.

The advice prominently printed on New York theater programs is: "In case of fire walk to the nearest exit. Don't run."

This advice might be worth heeding by the business community at this moment.

RECOGNIZES VALUE OF PEAT

Its Use for Commercial Purposes Is Becoming More Understood Throughout the World.

Peat is extensively used as fuel in northern Europe and as fertilizer in the United States. In Europe gas, charcoal, coke and a number of valuable by-products are produced from it.

Owing to the scarcity of raw materials in Europe, peat and moss are employed also as substitutes for absorbent cotton in the preparation of surgical dressings, for wool and for cotton and woolen cloth. In the United States peat is utilized chiefly as fertilizer filler, as stable litter and as an absorbent for the uncrystallized residues of beet and cane sugar refineries in the manufacture of stock feed.

Peat has long been used in fertilizing the soil, having been either applied as a direct fertilizer or used as a filler for commercial fertilizer. Analysis of the peats of the United States show an average nitrogen content of about 2 per cent, a proportion somewhat higher than that found in some commercial fertilizers.

The value of peat in soil fertilization is found in its nitrogen content and in the beneficial mechanical effect it produces upon certain lands. Black, thoroughly decomposed peats are most satisfactory for fertilizer, as such peats are generally heavier and more compact and contain more nitrogen and less fibrous material than the brown types.

Beautifying the Roadside.

Along the dusty pike, a few miles north of Chillicothe, a farmer and his wife for years have beautified the roadway near their home by planting flowers outside the fence. Instead of permitting the weeds and rank grass to fringe the roadway, they have set apart about a hundred feet of space for the flowers, have given them rich soil in which to grow, cared for them so they are fresh and vigorous during the season, and have watched them flourish and grow until the picket fence is nearly hidden by them.—Ohio State Journal.

Get a Garden!

Instances of extreme old age are more common among those who exercise themselves with gardening than any other employment.

The Rubber-Tired Goral.

Among the strange animals that came under the observation of Mr. Roy Chapman Andrews, who conducted an expedition into farther China under the auspices of the American Museum of Natural History, was the goral, a mountain goat of extraordinary ability.

I have seen a goral, says the explorer, run at full speed down the face of a cliff that appeared to be almost perpendicular. The dogs did not venture to follow it. As the animal landed on a protecting rock, it would bounce off as if made of rubber and leap eight or ten feet to a narrow ledge that did not seem large enough to support a rabbit.—Youth's Companion.

Deer Climb Up Ladders.

The three miles of concrete-lined flume which brings water to the Cherry creek power house on the Hetch Hetchy project lies in a territory abounding in deer. When water was first turned into the flume there was a good deal of trouble with deer which got into it and could not get out unaided. As many as thirty to forty deer have been taken out of the flume in a single month. To relieve this condition deer ladders made of planks were built in the flume line at intervals. The ladders extend below the water as well as above, so that the deer can find a footing on which to climb out. Since the ladders were put in there has been no further trouble with the deer.

Conservation

"Ma, can't I have some little brothers and sisters to play with?" asked the lonesome little chicken of the sedate old hen. "No, Augustus," replied the thoughtful hen, "not while eggs are 70 cents a dozen."

That's conservation. A little tough on Augustus, but it had to be done. The war has taught us all the lesson of conservation. It has taught us how to save. It was a good, wholesome lesson and it should not be forgotten, now that the war is over. A good bank like ours is a friend to every saver. Deposit your funds with us and accept our banking facilities.

Chronic Catarrh.

Our manner of living makes us very susceptible to colds and a succession of colds causes chronic catarrh a loathsome disease with which it is estimated that ninety-five percent of our adult population are afflicted. If you would avoid chronic catarrh you must avoid colds or having contracted a cold get rid of it as quickly as possible. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is highly recommended as a cure for colds and can be depended upon.

Why Judges Should Visit Prisons.

Lord Phillimore, late Lord Justice of appeal, holds that it is part of the duty of judges to visit prisons from time to time. "In this way," he said to an interviewer, "a judge gets to know what prison is like, and what the punishment he metes out entails to those he has to sentence."

Lord Phillimore has been on the treadmill and has seen men working on it. The suggestion recently put to an American judge, that judges on of imprisonment by way of apprenticeship, he characterizes as too topsyturvy to be considered.—Continental Edition of the London Mail.

Why Judges Dons Black Cap.

The custom of putting on a black cap—really a square piece of black cloth—observed by judges when sentencing a prisoner to death is a relic of the ancient days when covering the head was a sign of mourning. The judge, therefore, in putting on the black cap, is assuming mourning in view of the fact that he is about to pronounce the forfeit of a life.—London Tit-Bits.

How to Extinguish Burning Oil.

A fire which water has no power to extinguish is soon caused by the overturning of a kerosene lamp. In every house where kerosene is burned a bucket of sand should be kept in a place accessible to all the inmates, for it will instantly extinguish burning oil.

HOW

CLOTHES AIDED COL. LAWRENCE TO UNITE TRIBES.

In at least one part of the world, and in one important phase of the conflict, it now comes out that clothes played an important part in "winning the war" and these were the clothes in which Colonel Lawrence united the desert tribes against the Turks. It may even be argued that without the clothes the fact could hardly have been accomplished. "The magnificent Bedouin costumes that Lawrence wore much of the time," says Lowell Thomas in Asia, "were not a theatrical pose. They were a carefully worked out part of his plan for complete Arab mastery." Knowing the Arabs as he did, the young English archeologist had found that the adoption of Arab dress carried the wearer much further into the confidence of the Arabs; but that it must be done completely or not at all, for the Englishman in Arab kit must needs live up to his costume and seem as familiar with Arab life and etiquette as if he had been born to it. It was no splendid masquerade of an adventurous being, as many readers have probably imagined, but rather, as Colonel Lawrence has himself described it, like an "actor in a foreign theater, playing a part day and night and for an anxious stake." The part had to be "composed" as well as costumed; the audience was an audience of expert observers; and if the actor had at any point failed in his part the Bedouin tribes could hardly have been held together. Wearing Arab costume himself whenever he was with the tribes, he advised officers unacquainted with Bedouin customs to wear their uniforms. Hats, however, were always better discarded in favor of the Arab headcloth, for Bedouins have a very general prejudice against hats.

DO WITHOUT ANY DENTISTS

How the Natives of Africa Preserve Their Teeth in Practical State of Perfection.

There is a common idea that the diet and climatic conditions of the negroes are the cause of their having beautiful teeth, but some authorities dispute this.

Thus, in some parts of Africa, when an infant has gone through the "teething period," his mouth is rinsed out with an infusion of the leaves of a native tree possessing a constituent which causes the gums to shrink, so tightening the teeth.

The natives living near the source of the Nile employ the roots of a pod-bearing plant to relieve toothache, while another tribe uses an infusion of kasso seeds for the same purpose.

The toothbrush, as used in this country, is, of course, unknown to the savages, but many of them have an effective substitute. They use a piece of wood from certain trees, which contain beneficial qualities. Further, this stick is free from the great objection to brushes. It can be renewed at frequent intervals, and is thus always fresh and wholesome—a great advantage over the toothbrush of civilized races.

How Big Things Are Lost.

Everywhere we see people jeopardizing the big things for the little. While attending to some little pica-yune detail that ought to be left to a clerk, stenographer, or office boy, men lose some great advantage they might have gained had they been free to attend to it, just as short-sighted economists will lose a chance to make $100 in the future in trying to save 50 cents today. They do not realize that a small coin close to the eye can shut out the sight of a gold eagle.

The great thing is to get the right perspective, not to emphasize the wrong thing. The man whose head is buried in details cannot plan large things.

It is a great art to know what to leave undone, to know how to weed out the less important things and to spend one's energies in doing the things which will count.—Orison Swett Marden in Chicago Daily News.

How to Kill Flies on Ceiling.

Flies that take refuge on the ceiling, at night or in cool weather, may be captured without difficulty. The handle is sawed from an old broom, and a tin lid is attached to the end by driving a large tack through it into the stick. The tack should be driven firmly to make the lid rest solidly and prevent leakage. The lid is partly filled with kerosene and is held for a few seconds against the ceiling directly under a fly. The insect, becoming more or less torpid with the cold, will be further stupefied by the fumes of the oil and will drop into the lid.

How Ancient Dandies Slept.

According to a Greek writer, effeminate dandies in ancient Greece sometimes slept on beds of sponge. Fashionable people in Athens slept under coverlets of dressed peacock skins with feathers on. Cushions of pink and purple were used for their heads.

How Some Coffee Is Made.

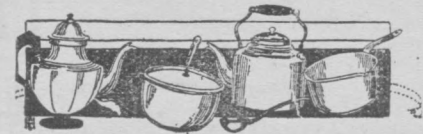

In coffee-growing countries a suffusion of the leaves of the plant is held by many to be superior to that made from berries.

Why Old Shoes Are Thrown.

Throwing old shoes after a bridal couple dates back to the Old Testament, the Detroit News observes. When a man transferred a piece of property he took off his shoe and handed it to the purchaser to seal the bargain. In the marriage ceremony it has come to mean that the parents give up all dominion over their daughter.

In ancient times, when the young man was unable to arrange with the parents for the purchase of the girl, he would run off with her and hide. Many times he employed the help of a trusted friend. From these incidents comes the well-known custom of the wedding journey of hidden destination. The trusted friend of long ago is the best man of today, who still helps with the arrangements of the marriage.

Why Show Was Not Success.

David Belasco, at a dinner in New York, found himself seated opposite a brother play producer.

"Well, Bill," he said genially, "how's the new show going?"

"Only so-so, Dave; only so-so."

"Sorry to hear that Bill."

"Oh, there's a reason for it. You see, we produced on Friday—an unlucky day, you know. Then there was the car strike; that hit us where we lived. And we'd hardly recovered from the blow when Lent came on. Of course, Dave, business always falls off in Lent."

Mr. Belasco gave a loud laugh. "Bill," he said "I'll tell you what's the trouble with that show of yours. You brought it out too soon after the San Francisco earthquake."

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

Yes, of course, this gold is wheat—the second biggest crop ever harvested, and almost without exception A1 grain. There's a message for every farmer in A. B. Macdonald's big Country Gentleman story of this large-scale success, entitled Rain-Made Gold.

This is just one of a number of striking articles in next week's issue of the oldest, biggest and best farm weekly printed. J. Sidney Cates tells a fascinating story of abandoned farms and blueberries in New England; Philip Rose has an illuminating study of Plows; Stuart Blythe adds to his splendid "cooperation" series; E. V. Wilcox continues his Farming With Water; Clyde Marquis points the connection between ships and soils; John R. MacMahon talks of farmer rule in Canada—and there are several other equally helpful and stimulating stories. Add to this art work unique in the farm-paper field, catchy humor, handy farm mechanics and a generous lot of the best fiction that's written these days and you will have some idea of 1/2 of the unmatched bargain you will get if you send me just $1.00 TODAY!

Reduction in Prices of Ford Products The War is over and War Prices Must Go!

The following prices on Ford products are effective September 22, 1920:

CHASSIS $360.

Runabout $395 with dual electric starting and lighting system $465

Touring Car $440 with dual electric starting and lighting system $510

Coupe $745 with dual electric starting and lighting system and demountable rims.

Sedan $795 with dual electric starting and lighting system and demountable rims.

Truck Chassis $545 with pneumatic tires and demountable rims.

Tractor $790.

These prices are f. o. b. Detroit.

The Ford Motor Company makes this reduction in the face of the fact that they have on hand immediate orders for 146,065 Cars and Tractors. The Company will suffer a temporary loss while using up the material bought at high prices. They are willing to make the sacrifice in order to bring business back to a going condition as quickly as possible and maintain the momentum of the buying power of the country. Henry Ford says: "The war is over and it is time war prices were over. There is no sense or wisdom in trying to maintain an artificial standard of value. For the best interest of all it is time a real practical effort was made to bring the business of the country and the life of the country down to regular pre-war standards."

We are at your command, with regular Ford efficiency in service and eagerness, to fill your orders."

Caught!

By CORONA REMINGTON

(© 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

He was plunging through the woods in his usual carefree manner when suddenly he came upon her crouched almost at his feet.

"You startled me." His voice sounded somewhat pained.

"Nothing to the way you startled me," she flashed back.

"Do you know that it's dangerous for you to be out here this near dark?" he went on, unmoved by her nettled tones.

"Why?" she asked, her eyes growing big.

"Because snakes abound in this place at this time of year and you might get bitten. How can you see where you're putting your foot in all this underbrush and it nearly night?"

"I didn't know that," she answered, her face paling slightly.

"Well, now I've told you, you must go home at once. Come, I'll see you there."

"That's very nice of you, but I'm perfectly satisfied where I am," she returned coolly, making no attempt to rise.

"I'll stay until you change your mind," he said quietly.

"Oh, please go," she begged.

He paid no attention to her remark, but went on good-naturedly: "Guess I'd better introduce myself. We seem to be in for quite a siege of it."

"Don't, please," she said pettishly. "I don't even want to know who you are."

"All right," he smiled as he lit a cigar and dropped carelessly at her kill my father and mother and we'd all be disgraced," she pleaded.

The man seemed to debate with himself while the sprite eagerly watched him.

"Where do you live?" he asked at last.

"Kensington. 348 Watagua avenue."

"I live in Kensington, too," he went on. "You'll have to let me come and call, say, twice a week for two months. That's the only demand I make. In the meanwhile, let's take the melon to camp and I'll leave you before we get in sight; then you need never tell of your misadventure."

"You're really too lenient," the sprite smiled happily, "and I agree to the conditions absolutely and promise never, never to do it again."

When they parted at the edge of the clearing where the tent was pitched he handed her the melon and turned to go.

"By the way," he said over his shoulder, "when are you going back to town?"

"Tomorrow," she answered ruefully.

"All right. Tomorrow'll be Saturday. See you Sunday." He raised his hat and in a second the bushes had closed behind him.

The two months sped swiftly by and with little coaxing the man managed to prolong his inflected fine through the winter and into the spring. With the summer the girl went back to camp and he to the old farm house nearby. Naturally they spent most of their time together, and one day when they were rambling through the woods picking berries the man stopped suddenly.

"Do you remember?" he said.

"Remember what?" she asked.

It was a year ago today at this very spot.

The girl blushed, but asked bravely: "What was?"

"That I met you after you'd stolen the—"

"Don't say 'stolen,'" she broke in. "Say 'slipped.'"

At the end of the sentence her voice shook and for some unaccountable reason she burst into tears again. This time the man did not hesitate to administer the proper consolation, nor did the girl protest. After a pause he spoke:

"Dearest, I have a dreadful confession to make and I know you'll never forgive me for doing it, but I felt it was my only chance of ever seeing you again."

"Tell me, quickly; what have you done?" she demanded.

"Why—why—that wasn't my watermelon you—strayed away from the patch last year. In fact, I haven't the least idea who owns that piece of land and, what's more, I don't care a rap!"

TOO MUCH STRAIN ON MAYOR

Dusky Official in Danger of Forgetting His Position in View of Chance for Wealth.

Sailors lounging along the rail of an American destroyer that was anchored in a small Philippine harbor were throwing pennies into the water for a crowd of dusky, naked youngsters to dive for. It was a lively scene. No sooner was a penny thrown into the water than a native boy dived and brought it to the surface. Many times a penny did not reach the bottom before a boy caught it.

On the wharf, the native mayor, surrounded by his native townsmen, was awaiting the arrival of the American naval officer to whom he was going to tender a grand reception. He watched the diving with keen interest.

A reckless sailor had begun throwing quarters and then half dollars into the water. Then some one threw overboard, one after another, a handful of big, glistening silver dollars. What a scrambling! It seemed as if every boy in the town was either in the air or in the water.

Suddenly a dusky messenger came dashing breathlessly down the wharf, and shouted to the group of sailors: "Will you lads please stop throwing those dollars? The mayor's getting nervous; he's already taken off his coat!"—Youth's Companion.

Salmon Leap Eighteen Feet.

The little Indian village of Awilgate on the Bulkley river in British Columbia is famous for its leaping salmon. Helen de Cury Lett in Travels, tells about them. "Here over a great rock which almost blocked their way, salmon were leaping. A leap of eighteen feet is necessary," she says. Old-time packers and guides, the old Hudson's bay post, Indian dogs and burying grounds, ancient totem poles—these are at Awilgate also. All fishermen will sympathize as they read of the "large fish that we could see quite plainly as they swam toward the edge of the pool"—and these were rainbow trout! There was an ancient bridge there once, and upon it ten squaws were made "to dance to test whether it was safe for a horse to cross while the flimsy structure swung to and fro above the boiling water."

Guiding Child's Play.

Grown people often fail to realize how children delight in their companionship. Every mother should employ care and insight as well as love for her child when she selects his occupations. Shown an eager desire to enter the child's world, he will welcome her with countless suggestions. It is the mother's privilege to modify these ideas, to make a quiet occupation more attractive than a noisy one, to offer materials that are large and easily handled when little fingers show signs of restlessness, or to direct active games when repression becomes unkind.

After the Coffee.

Prof. Puntolini wished to train his son, a high school freshman, to speak Latin, but the boy persisted in making his replies in Italian.

"But why do you not reply in Latin? Is it not your mother tongue?"

"Dear father, when I am able to choose between the mother and the daughter I, as a rule, choose the daughter."—Bulletin of Italian Society.

Man of Ability.

"So you want a job? What have you been trained to do?"

"Dig ditches, keep accounts, drive a horse and automobile, handle money, carpentry, telegraphy, machinist, superintend construction."

"Oh, efficiency expert, huh?"

"No, ex-private."

"Hired."—Home Sector.

Experienced.

"The court scene in this play is the last word in realism."

"The spectators are supernumeraries, though."

"Perhaps, but they are professional spectators. I understand they were drafted from a local courtroom where a breach of promise suit was being tried."

Maybe So.

"The man always starts by telling the girl that he is absolutely unworthy of her."

"Well?"

"Most marriages start out all right. And maybe if he stuck to that theory more marriages would turn out better."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Practical Part.

"These people are right who are saying it is time for a man to assert himself and be master in his own house."

"That's right. Here, take one of these cigars home."

"Thanks, but my wife won't allow me to smoke indoors."

NOT SO FOOLISH.

"Jack is telling around that you are worth your weight in gold."

"Foolish boy! Who's he telling it to?"

"His creditors."

PHONE COMPANY WILL MAKE BIG IMPROVEMENTS

$3,000,000 Program Scheduled For Maryland

Approximately $3,000,000 will be spent in the immediate future in extending telephone plant facilities and improving the service in Maryland. This announcement by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, following closely upon the establishment of new rates by the Public Service Commission, indicates clearly the steps the Company is taking to bring the service up to the highest standards of efficiency.

F. S. Whitman, division manager of the C. & P., said that the Company expects to spend $10,000,000 on improvements in the next three years. The new rates enable the Company to go ahead with a comprehensive program, he said, and projects totaling $3,000,000 have already been approved and operations started in many cases. A good deal now depends on the Company's ability to get the materials needed, but every possible effort is being made to secure them.

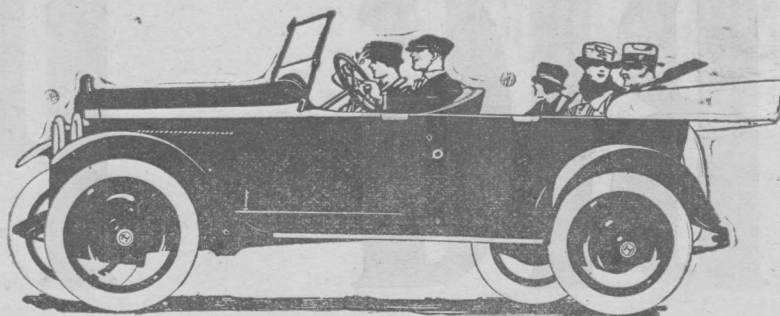

The construction schedule is a lengthy one. In Cumberland, the growing requirements of the city will be met by extensive additions to the underground and overhead cable systems. Cumberland's population has been jumping rapidly and it is expected to double within the next four years. To take care of the increased demand for telephone service, the Company's plant is now being enlarged by a pole line, 15,210 feet of overhead cable and approximately 7,800 feet of underground cable. Several other branch cable and pole lines will be needed later.

In Hagerstown, increased facilities will be provided by the installation of a new switchboard section and 500 additional subscriber lines, bringing the total number of lines which can be served up to 2,600. The present method of handling toll calls will be changed and improved, and audible ringing apparatus will be installed. In Montgomery County, repairs will be made on the toll lines between Washington and Frederick, Gaithersburg and Damascus and Gaithersburg and Poolesville.

Some of the more important projects to be undertaken in and near Baltimore are building and equipping a new central office, equipping a school for student operators, new cables and extensions in various parts of the city and its suburbs, and the equipment of a new central office at St. Helena.

In addition to these, there are scores of operations to be undertaken in other parts of the State that are of lesser magnitude, but of first importance to the communities where the improvements will be made.

LESSON FOR OCTOBER 3

THE BIRTH AND CHILDHOOD OF JESUS.

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 2: 1-15.
GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt call his name Jesus; for he shall save his people from their sins.—Matt. 1: 21.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Isa. 7: 14-16;
Micah, 5: 2; Luke 1 and 2.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Wise Men Visit
the Child Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Child Jesus Escapes From a Wicked King.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC
—The Coming of the King.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC
—The King Comes as a Little Child.

Since we now have six months of study in the Gospel according to Matthew, every teacher should grasp the book as a whole and present each lesson in its relation to the central purpose of the book. The central theme of Matthew is Jesus Christ the King—the fulfiller of the Messianic hope.

I. The Birth of the King (1: 18-25).

The Messiah was to be the seed of a woman—the son of a virgin (Gen. 3: 15; Isa. 7: 14). This was fulfilled in the birth of Jesus. The genealogy as given in Matthew 1: 1-17 shows his legal right to the throne; but had he been that only, he could not have been the Savior from sin. He must be both human and divine (Isa. 9: 7). The Messiah was begotten by the Holy Ghost and born of the Virgin Mary, thus becoming Immanuel, which term means in all its fullness, God for us; God with us; God in us.

II. The Magi Seek Israel's King (2: 1, 2).

The King had a most heartless reception. The kingdom was not ready for him. His advent was heralded by a star which guided souls from a foreign nation to seek and worship him, pouring out their gifts to him. These wise men were either Arabian or Persian astrologers, students of the stars. The appearance of an unusual star attracted their attention. Perhaps they were acquainted with the famous prophecy of Balaam (Num. 24: 17). Doubtless through the influence of the Jews who remained in Chaldea, or the direct influence of Daniel extending to this time, they had become acquainted with the hope of a Messiah. The light they had was dim, but they lived up to the best they had. To those who act upon the best light they have, God always gives more. To those who refuse to act upon the knowledge given, God not only refuses to give more, but brings into confusion that which they already possess (Matt. 25: 28).

III. Herod Seeking to Kill the King (vv. 3-8).

The news brought by the Magi struck terror to Herod's heart. He was not alone in this, for all Jerusalem was troubled with him. The news ought to have brought joy. A glimpse at the social customs in and about Jerusalem at that time, will enable us to understand why this news brought uneasiness to the people. They were living in the greatest of luxury. Fine dresses, sumptuous feasts, fine houses, etc., led to gross immorality. We can thus readily see why Herod and all Jerusalem should be troubled. They did not want a Savior who would save them from their sins; they wanted to continue in them. Herod demanded of the priests and scribes information as to where Christ should be born. They soon were able to tell him, showing that they had a technical knowledge of the Scriptures, but no heart for the Savior set forth therein. The luxuriousness of the wealthy, the frivolities of the fashion-loving, and the gross immoralities to which they lead, make Jesus Christ unwelcome in many quarters today.

IV. The King Found (vv. 9-12).

The Magi having obtained the desired information, started immediately to find the King. As soon as they left the city, the star which had guided them from the East appeared again to lead them on. When they found him, they worshiped him. Note God's overruling providence in all this. Hundreds of years before, the Prophet said that Christ should come forth from Bethlehem (Micah 5: 2). God so ordered that Mary should be brought to the city to give birth to Christ. God ordered that the Magi should depart another way, thereby defeating Herod's wicked purpose. The gifts of these wise men, God put into the hands of Joseph and Mary before going to Egypt. Doubtless they served a good purpose in meeting their expenses during their stay there.

V. The King Protected (vv. 13-15).

To escape Herod's wicked aim, God directed Joseph to take Mary and the child Jesus and flee to Egypt. In obedience to the heavenly vision, he went and remained until Herod's death.

In Giving Alms.

In giving of thine alms inquire not so much into the person, as his necessity. God looks not so much on the merits of him that requires, as to the manner of him that relieves. If the man deserve not, thou hast given to humanity.—Quarles.

Think of Our Own Sins.

So long as we are full of self we are shocked at the faults of others. Let us think often of our own sins, and we shall be lenient to the sins of others.—Fenelon.

— THE — CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR TOPIC

— From —
Moody Bible Institute Monthly
Chicago, Ill.

September 26.
Inspiring Stories from Foreign Mission Fields.

A recent visitor to The Moody Bible Institute was Rev. Wm. Haas, late of the Africa Inland Mission. Mr. Haas has penetrated the continent from Mombasa to the mouth of the Congo, journeying into the Southern French Sudan, establishing mission stations in a tribe of 2,000,000 utterly unreached pagans.

The work of evangelizing this portion of Africa proceeds on a somewhat different line than is usually employed. About forty Baptist churches located in the central states of the United States, all of them pre-millennial in doctrine, are interested in the pioneer venture. Each church commissions and sends out its own missionary being responsible for his entire support, and to which alone he is responsible. Missionary administration on the field council, but the responsibility of each missionary, as above stated is to the church sending them out.

Mr. Haas is in America seeking volunteers for this great and needy field, hard-pressed from the north by the Mohammedan advance. May God bless this and every sincere effort, to make Jesus Christ known in these unreached fields of the "Dark Continent." Any churches interested in Mr. Haas and his mission can communicate with him through The Moody Bible Institute.

A certain brand of cigarettes is advertised in every city and town in Japan. It is the most popular brand of cigarettes in the country, not because of its superior quality but because it is backed by American capital which has brought it to the attention of the smoking public by prodigious advertising. A Japanese Christian statesman, pointing one day to this advertisement remarked:

"If America would put as much capital into the advertising of Christianity as they put into the advertising of that cigarette they would have the gospel of Jesus Christ in every hamlet of this Empire within five years."

"The Christian missionary is a human phenomenon without parallel in history. * * * He carries no arms is clad with no civil authority; has very little money; and is usually alone * * * And yet he succeeds everywhere. * * * He reproduces in savage soil the best morality which civilized lands know."—William Olney, in Fitchett's Unrealized Logic of Religion.

O solitary worker, in the wastes of heathendom,
How mighty is the power behind thy work!

To make His Kingdom come
God's love and wisdom in thy message lurk.

Men do not love one another. The reason is that men have yet to learn that God's way of dealing with social problems is the best way and that His solution is the only solution. God works from within outwardly. The principles of Christianity and of brotherhood will never be generally practiced before men are actuated by divine impulses and love.

The second law of Christ to love our neighbors as ourselves. This is the only real solution of sociological problems, but this can never be done before supreme love for God fills men's hearts to overflowing. God's first commandment must come first. The second will not work if put first. God's order is the saving order of society. If men would only love God, it would be easier for them to love one another.

Audited.

The Daughter—Why, whatever makes you say Ferdinand hasn't a hundred dollars to his name? He told me he had an uncounted fortune.

The Old Man—Mebbe he had when he told you, but since then I've counted it.

Prehistoric Love Taps.

Old Doc Bonechisel—Gee, but you're beat up some! Upper cave gang get you?"

Mr. Skinpants, the Handsome Bachelor—Now! Didn't you know this is leap year? Half a dozen women proposed to me all at once.

Taking a Chance.

"I want a pound of butter."
"The best?"
"What was the last I had?"
"The best."
"Give me a pound of the other."—Tyrifans, Christiania.

Retort Matrimonial.

She—You can't accuse me of ever helping you to make a fool of yourself.

He—I don't know about that. You said yes when I asked you to marry me.

Efficiency.

"I hope you don't object to cats, Bridget?"

"Oh, no, mum. I find 'em a great help with the dishwashing."—Brown-ing's Magazine.

Took It Pleasantly.

"I heard father laughing instead of storming. Then he doesn't consider your suit unfavorably after all."

"I dunno. He said it was a good joke."

MONEY PROBLEM IS UNSOLVED

German Reichsbank Director Says No body Can Predict When Improvement May Be Expected.

Berlin.—All the currency theorists in the world would be unable to give a definite, positive, answer to the question when an improvement might be expected in Germany's huge paper circulation. Director Von Glasenapp of the Reichsbank has told the Associated Press correspondent.

The bank statement showed that the paper in circulation July 15 totaled 53,447,000,000 marks. This was a decline of 198,000,000 marks as compared with the previous week.

"We shall certainly do all in our power to prevent further undue inflation of currency," he said. "As for Germany, there are only two ways and none other will avail. They are expressible in two words—work and thrift. Increased production will benefit both exchange and exportation. From that and a nation-wide return to frugal habits alone is an improvement in the paper money situation expectable."

HELD DEAD, RETURNS RICH

Dentist Surprises His Maryland Relatives After 23 Years' Absence in Alaska.

Cumberland, Md.—Dr. Thomas McElfish, dentist, who left for Alaska 23 years ago and was given up for dead, surprised relatives by appearing, a vigorous, wealthy man.

Doctor McElfish at one time practiced in Martinsburg, W. Va. He went to Alaska with Mr. and Mrs. C. Gilpin Lashley in search of gold. The Lashleys soon returned.

Doctor McElfish prospected and accumulated wealth, which was lost in an investment. Since then he has acquired a fortune in trapping. He is so enamored of outdoor life that he has pitched a tent near Flintstone, where he will remain several weeks before returning to Alaska.

One Shot Was Enough.

Stearns, Ky.—Scott Tate, substantial citizen, surrendered to authorities at Whitley City, telling them he had killed Bill Calhoun at Indian Head. Tate was released on his own recognizance. Reports from Indian Head say that Calhoun appeared at a mine tiple, commanding every one to shell out all their belongings. He is said to have emphasized his demands by promiscuous shooting. Tate fired once, the ball striking Calhoun in the temple.

No Shots Fired in This Duel.

Lexington, Ky.—For once a duel has been fought in Kentucky and no shots were fired. J. Franklin Wallace, attorney, was late going to a magistrate's court and found he had lost his suit by default. Wallace expressed his opinion of the court. Deputy Sheriff Frank Hall objected to Wallace's remarks. Wallace issued a challenge for a duel, and laying aside his gun, Hall went outside and the duel was fought with fists.

TANEYTOWN LOCAL COLUMN

Brief Items of Local News of Special Interest to Our Home Readers.

The past two weeks have been the driest period of the whole summer.

The three dwellings on Baltimore St., extended, are all under roof, and well on the way to completion.

William Kehn was taken to the County Home, on Tuesday. He has been very much ailing, recently.

Miss Rowenna Brennenman, of Lancaster, Pa., is spending some time with Rev. and Mrs. Guy P. Brady.

Theo. E. Feeser has greatly improved his George St. property by building a large front porch and concrete steps.

The Hanover Fair attracted a good many Taneytowners this week. It was generally reported to have been a good exhibition.

Apples and pears are very plentiful in this neighborhood, and of excellent quality. The sweet potato crop is short in yield, likely due to too much rain.

The "No Trespass" list is commenced in our issue of this week. Notice of it should have been given last week, but was forgotten. The cost, per name, is 25c.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Currens and son, Donald, and Mr. and Mrs. Geary Bowers and children, Viola, Mary and Donald, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Reaver, last Sunday.

Miss L. M. Sherman left at this office, on Monday, a pair of twin apples, large and perfect, weighing 21 ounces. They came from the orchard of Harry Formwalt, along the state road.

Keep the Registrars busy, next Tuesday, and do not take up their time unnecessarily. Getting registered is not paying a social call, nor going shopping. Make the event as short as possible, then make room for somebody else.

Maurice Moser and wife, Frank Null, Joseph Brown, David Little, and wife, Milton Reaver and family, all spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Greenberry Null. Mr. Null has been bed fast for five months, and is no better at this writing.

Richard S. Hill returned home, last Sunday, from a two week's visit to his daughter, Mrs. Charles Conover, at Centre Mills, Pa., who has been critically ill after passing through a very extensive surgical operation. She is slowly improving.

Wm. F. Kehn, of Baltimore, who has been visiting his daughter, Mrs. George I. Harman, was in town, on Wednesday, calling on old friends. He has not been here, for years. He has a good position as one of the caretakers at Greenmount cemetery.

Westminster is in trouble with its electric lights. The plant is not able to supply current enough for both houses and streets. Sometimes it is the houses that are dark, and sometimes the streets. Taneytown had better hold on to its gas plant if electric lights are so uncertain.

The Hampstead baseball club, assisted by "Ty" Cobb, "Babe" Ruth, "Lefty" Russell, and others, captured a game from the Taneytown club, last Saturday, by the score 18 to 3, sad to relate. We asked a man who saw the game, how it happened? His reply was, "The Hampstead fellers always knocked the ball where there wasn't nobody, and the Taneytown fellers always knocked it where there was somebody." A very good explanation.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Formwalt entertained to dinner, on last Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Flickinger and sons, Charles and Glenn, of St. Michael, Neb.; Wm. Long and Charles Lutz, of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Grant Flickinger and daughters, Myrtle and Carrie; Mrs. John Flickinger and daughter, Madeline, of Hanover; Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Mrs. Samuel H. Mehrling was taken to Frederick Hospital, Monday evening, and was operated on at night, when it was found that she had a bad case of appendicitis. She was taken ill Saturday night. At present, she is reported to be getting long very well.

A mild form of grip is epidemic in Baltimore, and throughout the State. It is of a catarrhal character, and while not very serious, Dr. C. Mampson Jones, Commissioner of Health, advises people to take care of themselves in order to help prevent the development of a more serious outbreak.

All persons interested in holding a Community Show, in Taneytown, of exhibits from home and farm, are requested to meet at the Record office, this Saturday evening at 8:00 o'clock. Come together and talk the project over, and decide the question, one way or another. Other towns make a big success of such shows. Why not Taneytown?

The Housing Problem in Taneytown.

How to find room for necessary workers and mechanics and for the young families so greatly needed in any town is a present problem for Taneytown. It is a fact not to be denied, that Taneytown is rapidly becoming an "Old Folks Home," and we say this without intending any disrespect for those who come here, largely, to live retired. They have a right to come, and are welcome. They buy houses, pay their way, are good citizens, and we want them.

But, the town must have active young workers, and homes must be provided for them, for as a rule they are not yet able to buy, or build, for themselves. What is the town going to do about it?

We often lament the absence of factories. We say we need "manufacturing enterprises." True, but we must first have more dwelling houses. If a large factory wanted to locate here, ever so eagerly, within six months, that would require a large force of husky male help, it would have to be turned away. We neither have this help, nor the houses in which it might live, if brought here.

Within ten years past, the corporate limits of the town show a decrease of 24 in population, although we have more houses within the limits than ten years ago. These houses are all occupied. The explanation of the losses in population is, that our families are smaller. Younger people, with families, have been gradually crowded out by elderly people with smaller families.

The question is, will the business men of the town—those who depend for business on keeping here the families of working people—permit the situation to continue to drift along as it has, for another ten years, or more, or will they devise a plan for building more houses for rent?

There is an ever increasing shortage of male help—mechanics, handy-men, professional men—of all kinds. They are in the position, right now, of their not being able to come to town, if they wanted to. It is a serious situation, and big question, that confronts the town, not only now, but its future, and we ask again—What is the town going to do about it?

To a great extent, this same shortage of dwellings prevails in most towns. The legislature of New Jersey has recognized this, in exempting from taxation for a period of five years, all dwellings erected for renters. Exemption from State, county and municipal taxation, would materially help the building of houses, for rent, as an investment. Building them in blocks, would also be a help. Building them, as a help to other business, is worth considering.

The Baltimore baseball team again won the pennant in the International League closely pressed by Toronto, with Buffalo a good third.

FEISAL HAS CAUSTIC TONGUE

Arabian Potentate's Comments on European Men and Measures Interesting in the Extreme.

The oriental tact and personal charm of Emir Feisal did much to win friends for the Arabian cause in Paris. No one ever came away from him in an angry mood. The Emir was very witty and many stories are told of his clever retorts to acquaintances in Paris. On one occasion a correspondent asked him to give his opinion of modern statesmen as a result of his acquaintance with them at the peace conference. He replied, "They are like modern paintings. They should be hung in a gallery and be viewed from a distance." Another time at a meeting of the council of ten, M. Pichon referred to the claims of France in Syria, which he said were based on the Crusades. Emir Feisal turned toward him and inquired mildly, "I am not a great student of history, but would you kindly tell me which one of us won the Crusades?"

Mr. Balfour once tried to find out what Emir Feisal thought of the British government. He succeeded. "It reminds me of a caravan in the desert. You see an impressive string of dromedaries in the distance trekking single file across the shifting sands. When you first overtake them, you observe that the last camel is tied to the tail of the next in line. When you reach the head of the column, you find that a little donkey is leading the whole string."—Asia Magazine.
