THE STATE POLICE FORCE IN ACTIVE SERVICE.

Six Districts Make Up the Patrol Service of State.

Thirty-six members of the Maryland constabulary have graduated from the training school at Glen Burnie, and it is proposed to have each one of them sworn in a deputy sheriff in every county, which will give to each the power of arrest in any county.

This corps of officers has been formed largely to enforce the automobile laws of the state, but it is probable that they will be used to enforce other laws, especially those re-lating to state highways. They have been assigned to various stations throughout the state, and at once go on patrol duty.

The following have been assigned tothe Frederick sub-station with Sergeant Charles W. Smith in charge:
Substation B. Frederick—Srgt. C.
W. Smith, Frederick; Policemen W. A E. Burdette, Damascus; M. A. Isaacs, West Friendship; E. E. Lee Sykesville; B. J. Topper, Emmits-

A parade of the new State police force through all the countries, so that the residents can "size up" the new defenders of the law, is being considered by Automobile Commission-

The new force makes a fine appearance in the natty new uniforms, on new motorcycles and with the erect, military bearig the members learned during the instruction course at Saunders Range.

Commissioner Baughman is anxious that the people of the counties see the entire force and learn something of its value from its appearance and the character of its members. Gov. Ritchie gave the men the following general instructions:

"It makes no difference to me what one class or another class thinks or fears about the purpose for which you are organized, so long as their thoughts or fears are unfounded. You are to protect the men, women and property of the State of Maryland and preserve law and order. Neither capital nor labor is to mean anything to you where your duty under the law is concerned.

"You will deal with two classes of persons-thugs whom you may handle as severely as you like, and the great masses of citizens you meet on the roads who are ordinarily law-abiding citizens, but who may be guilty of infractions of the law. With them you are to be as patient and courteous as possible.

"You go out from here wearing the uniform of the State of Maryland and it lies in your hands whether credit or discredit shall/be brought on it. You represent the State of Maryland as much as I do."

The County's Financial Trouble.

We are not definitely posted as to the tangle in the county's financial situation, one of the unfortunate results of which is the holding up of salaries due the public school teachers. We think it due the public that County Commissioners present the full facts in the case, and until this is done we advise that criticism. and the placing of blame, be withheld. One of the current statements is as follows:

"The embarrassment of the Commissioners has resulted from the expenditure of money for building State Roads in the county. The Littles-town road, Oakland Mills road, New Windsor road and Mt. Airy road cost $283,038.67. Of this amount the State Roads Commission was expected to furnish one-half. When the Legislature of 1920 enacted no State aid road law, but passed instead what is known as the lateral road law, no State aid money was available and consequently the whole $283,038.67 had to be paid by the county."

This one fact seems to be true, and important. There is now due a very large sum in unpaid taxes-much larger than is due at this time of the year, normally. If this large sum was now in the hands of the Commissioners, the deficit, at least as far as the teachers are concerned, would easily be met.

Farmers Own Most Automobiles.

Motor vehicle registrations for the past year in the various States show there are now 9,274,920 passenger cars and trucks in use throughout the United States, one for every 11.8 persons as compared with one for every 13.9 persons a year ago. This is an increase of 1670,904, or 21.9% over Dec. 31, 1919, when there were 7,604,-016 motor vehicles registered.

The gain during the past year was greater than that of any previous year and is considered exceptionally remarkable by officials of the auto mobile industry in view of the adverse business conditions throughout the country during the last part of 1920. The largest previous gain was 1,457,399 in 1919.

Iowa no longer can claim the honor of having more autos according to population than any other State. It has dropped to fourth place, Nebras-ka, South Dakota and California having jumped ahead. Nebraska, the present leader, has one car for every Promoter of Produce Exchange Lodged in Jail.

Several weeks ago, a man giving his name as Preston S. Young came to Westminster, purporting to repre-sent Young's Exchange, of Philadelphia. According to an article in last Sunday's Baltimore Sun, he told the farmers the same story he told in Cecil county, where he is said to have obtained $500.00.

"He said he was manager of Young's Exchange, Philadelphia; that at the solicitation of the Mayor of Atlantic City, he visited that place, and formed an association of 30 leading hotels which agreed to take from Young's Exchange all the country produce it could furnish during a period of five years, and that in order to be in position to supply these hotels it had become necessary for him to secure the co-operation of farmers; that he would erect a receiving sta-tion in Westminster for all the produce furnished in this county.

To each farmer solicited he offered a membership in Young's Exchange upon the payment of a fee of $25. He submitted a price schedule listing almost every known variety of vegetables, meats, butter and eggs and a guaranteed price for the period of

Fortunately for the farmers of the county, he did not get far with his scheme before one of those who had accepted his proposition and paid the fee, discovered that the paper that purported to be a certificate of mempership in Young's Exchange, was in fact an engraved certificate for three shares of stock in the Preston A. Young Co., purported to be a Delaware corporation, signed Preston A. Young, president; L. A. Bright, secbut without any corporate State's Attorney Brown was consulted, and after investigation into the antecedents and history of Young, and the discovery of the facts that the Mayor of Atlantic City had never been in communication with, and had no knowledge of, such a person, Young was arrested and held for court on the charge of obtaining money by false pretense. So far as reported, Paul R. Warehime, Ira Rodkey, Howard Maus and Chas. Maus

Doubtful Stock Investments.

Hagerstown, Md., Feb. 14.—Plans to protect the Hagerstown public from salesmen of gold-brick stock in doubtful companies were discussed Saturday afternoon, at a meeting of the Washington County Bar Association at the Courthouse.

It was brought out during the discussion, it is said, that Hagerstown was a fruitful field for the operations swindlers and get-rich-quick schemes. Large sums in the last few years have been "invested" by men and women in this city and vicinity in enterprises regarded as entirely speculative or worthless, it was

The Bar Association believes that some plan, probably an educational campaign to teach the investors to look before they leap, can be worked out, whereby the monetary loss to the community through investments in wildcat schemes may be materially lessened.—Balt. Sun.

SWINDLER SUSPECT ARRESTED MENTAL STATES OF THE SUSPENDENCE OF THE SUSP WHY DO THEY DO

Why do intelligent people pay money to strangers, on attractive looking propositions, on the mere say-so of the stranger?

Why do people take the word of a cleverly written advertising scheme, send their money on a printed and pictured description, often without making any inquiry from home dealers with reference to the cost of the same article?

Why is it almost always taken for granted that one can "do better" away from home, than at home, in making a deal?

Why do people usually suspect that the home dealer is "gouging" them, even though they are aware of many cases in which "sent off for" things were unsatisfactory?

Why do people often pay more for old things, at a public sale, than new things can be bought for out of the store?

Why do people subscribe for newspapers, yet fail to take the advice and warning contained in them, as to dishonest schemes exposed?

Industries in the Detroit district steadily are adding to their working forces or calling back employes to re-open plants. The change in conditions is sufficient to indicate that the low point of the depression period has been passed.

Resumption of industrial operations in Monongahela river district is noticeable. The Pittsburgh Steel Co.'s Alicia No. 1 coal plant has resumed work on a 50 per-cent basis following resumption of work at the steel company's Monessen mills. INCOME TAX FACTS

Posted About.

Frequent inquiries are received by collectors of internal revenue from storekeepers and other business men as to whether the taxpayer in busi-Cotton is also moving to market, ness for himself may deduct from his gross earnings an amount of salary re low, to buy commodities and set paid to himself. Wages or salary drawn by a taxpayer from his own business are more in the nature of a charge out of profits than a charge against profits. If deductible they would merely be added to his income and the effect would be to take money out of one pocket and put it in another. Therefore, claims for such deductions are not allowable.

Salaries paid to minor children employed in the conduct of a taxpayer's business are not allowable deductions. If, however, a son or daughter has attained majority, or is allowed free use of their earnings without restriction, a reasonable amount paid as compensation for their services may be claimed.

A farmer who employs a man to assist in the operation of his farm may deduct from gross income the amount paid for such services. Likewise, if he employs a woman whose entire time is occupied in taking care of the milk, cream, butter, and churns, or if her services are devoted entirely to the preparation and serving of meals furnished farm laborers and in caring for their rooms, the compensation paid her is an allowable deduction. If, however, she is employed solely in hold, no deduction can be made.

In arriving at net income upon which the tax is assessed, deductions may be made for ordinary and necessary business expenses The revenue act specifically prohibits the deductions of personal, family, or living expenses. Such expenses include rent for a home, wages of servants, cost of food and clothing for the family, education of children, "and all items connected with the maintenance, wellbeing, and pleasure of the taxpayers and his family."

Protecting Young Trees.

Experienced gardenerers keep a compost heap going in one corner of the garden from one year's end to an other; and all surplus manure and sod are placed in it. As a consequence. these gardenerers always have a supply of good loam for preparing spe-cial plant beds or top-dressing a piece of land for the growing of lettuce or other intensive crop. If there is a particularly good young apple tree or two in some part of the garden, do not fail to clean the grass or weeds away from its base and protect the trunk from mice and rabbits with fly screen or closely-woven galvanized wire. Thousands of young apple trees are lost every winter, in certain sections, from being gnawed by field mice and rabbits. As a rule. the mice work just at the surface of the ground, especially where grass and rubbish is left around the roots of the trees. Rabbits are more likely to gnaw the bark from the trunk above the ground, especially while there is a deep snow and they are prevented from getting green food on the ground. For this reason the protectors should extend at least 2 feet above ground and 2 inches under ground.

Fruit trees that have borne during the last year should be gone over during the early winter, and all mummified fruits removed and burned. Any suckers or shoots which have grown up from the roots or on the trunk of the trees should be trimmed off It also is a good plan to give the trees a thorough spraying with limesulphur solution to kill scale insects.

SHORTAGE OF TIMBER

A Serious Situation Confronting Lumber and Paper Supply.

The Record received, this week, a letter from Gifford Pinchot, who has a National reputation as a "conservationist" of the country's natural resources, notably timber. Mr. Pinchot has given the topic very wide study, and while he is not always agreed with, the evidence he produces s apt to be approximately correct.

pulp and lumber, which made such circles. The nearest approach to any trouble during the war, threatens to recur in even more serious form, and that steps must be taken to meet it.

Here is the situation: The United States consists of 29 wood-importing States, which cannot supply their own needs; 16 wood-exporting States, which for the moment cut more than they use; and 3 States about evenly balanced. By far the larger part of our agriculture, our industries, our newspapers, our people, and our political power are in the wood-importing States. Your own State of Maryland is one

Five-sixths of our original timber is gone. Forest devastation has converted timberlands as large as the forests of all Europe (excluding Russia) into barren, idle waste, and this desolation is spreading at the rate of three million acres a year.
We are cutting what is left four times faster than it is being reproduced. Moreover, when our own forests are exhausted, we cannot look to other countries for wood to keep our industries alive. We must grow our own or go without.

Within ten years at the most, the Southern States, which now supply the larger part of the lumber Mary-land uses, will be unable to do more than fill their own needs. After that our industries must depend upon wood from Washington, Oregon, and California, which contain a full half of all our remaining timber.

Four-fifths of the standing timber in America is in private hands. It is being destroyed as rapidly as ever; and concentration of ownership keeps pace with forest destruction. Half of the privately owned timber is held by 250 owners. In the State of Washington, for example, five holders own nearly half the privately owned standing timber in the State. This control in a few hands, the Forest Service tells us, "will steadily increase as timber depletion continues, approaching a natural monopoly in character."

It is evident that the most necessary step, if we are to escape a tim-ber famine, is to stop forest devastation on privately owned timberlands, and keep them growing trees.'

Barn Destroyed by Fire.

The barn and wagon shed on Oscar liner's farm, on stone road near Pleasant Valley, was destroyed by fire early Monday morning, with most of its contents consisting of two horses, self-binder, manure spreader, farming implements, lot of chickens, harness, etc., belonging to the tenant, G. W. Stonesifer, Jr. One horse and a two horse wagon were saved.

The fire was caused by an exploding lantern and burned very rapidly. The other buildings, except the dwelling, were partly burned. Mr. Hiner is said to have $1200. insurance in the Dug Hill Company, while Mr. Stone-sifer was partly insured. The actual loss is greatly in excess of the insurance.

DEBTS EUROPEAN COUNTRIES OWE TO THE U. S.

No Sentiment That These Loans Should be Cancelled.

In some quarters the plan has been agitated that the war debts of foreign countries to the United States, The letter was not sent specially for publication, but a portion of it is reproduced for its general interest, as it will explain, to some extent, the letter was not sent specially for any such action in administrative of any such action in administrative such idea, considered at all, is, that certain outlying foreign possessions might be "swapped" with this country in liquidation of debts, but even this has not gone further than the speculative stage. These immense debts are likely to remain as a sourse of international trouble, for years, and will unquestionably enter into the business relations between countries; but, unless the debtors become actually bankrupt, it seems to be the present plan for loans to be eventually paid in installments covering many years, interest as well as principal.

The debt of Great Britain to us is given as approximately $4,275,000,-

The debt of France is something less, but would require payment of about $185,000,000 a year for 50

Italy owes the United States about $1,700,000,000. Belgium owes about $350,000,000, comparatively small amount, but the country is very small.

The debt of Russia, which seems less likely to be collectible than any other, is about $200,000,000. Other countries owe us smaller amounts; and strangely enough it appears that we have been continuing to add to some of our foreign loans until almost the present time, Secretary Houston promising, only this week, to discontinue making loans, until the Judiciary committee of the Senate had time to give individual cases full ex-

Hard Time Getting a Pastor.

The Gettysburg Compiler says:
"The York Springs Lutheran charge composed of York Springs church, Chestnut Grove church and Lower Bermudian church, have been with the present of the prese out a pastor since the removal of Rev. Gladfelter to Abbottstown. Without any intention to be pulling in separate ways, but through some misunderstanding, the York Springs church elected Rev. Howard Hilner, and Chestnut Grove and Lower Ber-mudian elected Rev. F. H. Dauberspeck, and after the thing was done found out they had elected not the same minister; so it looks like it may be up to one of the elected to refuse a half charge in order that the other can get a whole charge.

Only several months before this, the same congregations elected Rev. H. O. Harner, but owing to some mixup in the situation, Rev. Harner withdrew his name before the formal call was extended, and has since been elected to the Rossville, Pa., charge.

Lard Substitutes.

It is remarkable what headway lard substitutes have made in the last ten years. They now consitute an industry that reaches into the hundreds of million of dollars a year. In addition to the peanut, the soy bean and cotton seed, oil is extracted from the cocoanut, from sunflower seed, from corn, sesame and other vegetable growths. Of all the oils that of cotton seed leads.

The development of this industry is making the farmer and the Chicago packer worry. The Mississippi Valley farmer not long ago was feeding $1.50 a bushel corn to the hog in order to make the 11 per-cent of the animal that becomes lard. It looks as ib the bacon hog will come into his own hereafter, and that the great American porker will be more meat and less fat. At least, vegetable oils and now fish oils have created a problem for the Chicago pork packer and the corn farmer. "Fattening the hog for market" probably will decline decidedly or go out of custom.

It is a good thing for us, to hear "the other side," some times, even when it does not agree with our side. We are willing to be pretty grasping, especially when there is no opposition, and when we hear the objections to our aims pretty emphatically, we are apt to go a little slow, if not stop

All countries want Germany to "pay up" but none of them are willing to let her do business and make money so she can pay up. All are ready to sell to Germany if she has disposing of personal property, and the money with which to buy, but none are ready to buy her goods, for money. Very promising, isn't it, for Germany to pay up?

As was to be expected, now that the county has spent a large sum of money for roads and schools, the fact is made capital of as showing some sort of incompetency for which the County Commissioners are responsible, and comparisons are made with the "low tax rate" of a few years ago, intended to show the horrible example of changing from one party to another in the conduct of the countv's business.

The Westminster Times strongly advocates a county hospital, but states in its last issue that the proposition is antagonized because of Baltimore hospitals being so convenient. The facts in the situation are, that the Baltimore hospitals are over-crowded with cases, and every one of them has a "waiting list;" also, it looks as though before many years, sick cases, not specially needing surgical treatment, will have to be segregated in order to receive prompt and full medical treatment, which means that Baltimore hospitals, even by enlarging, can not possibly meet all the demands made on them.

Racing and Gambling.

The opinions expressed by a large number of Maryland's weekly papers, in the Baltimore American of Wedesday of last week, almost unanimously against race track gambling, without question represents majority sentiment within the circulation of these papers. While some may say, these opinions are merely "personal," there is not the slightest possibility of editors widely misrepresenting their neighborhoods, on this, or any other moral issue.

There are, of course, a few gamblers everywhere, and some who do not care enough about such evils to antagonize them; but wherever there is an intelligent citizenship, there the feeling is strong that all are "their brothers' keeper" and that christian case. duty compels outspokenness against evil in any and every form, wherever it may appear. It is not strange, therefore, that testimony has already been published to counteract, and minimize, the evidence presented by the weeklies.

There is a very strong probability that the racing interests will be given ample opportunity to make a good case, in at least one, or more of the city papers. Letting the present law world seems naught but evil; he stand, will likely be the argument-"the state needs the money."

might as well stay, for a while at

But, in the long run, this argument does not pay, and is never right. One never knows when he is free from a danger. Distances are much shorter than fifty years ago-the whole country/is getting smaller, as it were, because the people and their interests are growing closer together. A practice that is wrong in Harford and Prince Georges counties, is wrong for the people of Carroll and Frederick counties, even though not indulged

The Public Sale.

The public sale, as we know it in this section, is not a country-wide institution. In many parts of the west, such an event as a public sale of household effects, is unknown. * The "second hand" man, and the auction rooms, get the goods, such as may not be sold privately, and the seller is prevented from receiving the benefit of competitive bidding, except such as may come from competition (or collusion) between the dealers.

The public sale plan is much the best. The offering of property in a community in which it is in general use, and wanted, establishes a fairly satisfactory market price, and the "bidding" competition often results in higher prices than are represented chinery by too much eating, drinking by actual value; in fact, it is not unusual for articles to bring more than was originally paid for them, and sometimes more than the "new" price.

There is also the advantage of seeing the purchase before it is "fixed up," and the recommendation of the owner is usually to be depended on, which in the matter of live stock is worth a great deal. Even bad weather, which is a chance to be taken, rarely causes a poor sale; and when there is proper advertising, and the articles are in good condition, results are usually satisfactory to the seller.

On the whole, the public sale is a very fair and satisfactory means of universal, at least in towns and the

An Unfortunate Truth.

Good arguments are sometimes weakened by the lack of consistency on the part of those advancing them. Before one can drive home a truth, or fact, the armor of the driver should be sound-he should practice his preaching, and those he defends should also be impregnable to comebacks. There is hardly any satisfying answer to a taunt that uncovers one's own wrong practices.

Church officials, or heads, as a rule, do not advise chance schemes for making money, but nevertheless permit it when carried on by members; and no doubt honestly enough consider that almost any means "for the good of the church" can be carried on without harm. We have never been able to see the question in that light, but believe it to be a clear case in which the "appearance of evil" should be avoided.

This occurs very pointedly in the matter of race-track and other forms of wholesale gambling, when the statement is made that many of those who are strongly opposed to these forms, nevertheless engage in "raffles" and "drawings," perhaps for the benfit of a church, or religious society. The argument "we need the money" is just as defensible for the state and its race track receipts, as it is for the receipts of a church from schemes of chance. In principle, there is little difference between the two practices.

The "ends" to be benefitted are very different, of course, but this difference does not make the "means" justifiable. The church must go strictly out of the gambling business, before it can exert its full weight influence against race gambling. In both cases there is a small investment, or chance, with the hope of getting a larger sum in return; and the danger of attendant consequences -the "playing for money" featurethe "gamble" is propagated in either

Let him get out and show "them" how "they" ought to do the things he has prescribed for them to do. Let him, instead of bemoaning a decadence, exert an influence. If he would impress his lesson, let him teach it in the most effectual way-by the cogent force of personal example.

We are prone to sit in judgment on foreign peoples and to give Pharisee thanks that our ways are not as their ways. We pity them for their inferiority, though the pity may not take the form of helping them up to a status on a level with our own. Pity, that springs to no action of alleviation, is the cheapest of emotions. It is a sentimental indulgence that accomplishes no good when it merely begins and ends with the sentiment. A real pity distinguishes between compassion and condescension; it is able to imagine another's plight, and to take another's place, and to feel as another feels in a given set of circumstances; and from that feeling springs the deed that brings relief.

That kind of pity is now reaching out to take in the earth, and it is bringing nations together against the force of politics or the schemes of militarists to divide them. It defies the fallacious programs of those who under the guise of "communism" are proposing that a few shall keep and many shall go without. That hollow deception stands exposed.

It is all one word. Hurt it in any place and in every part there is a sensitive reaction. More and more for all the setbacks and all the disheartening sequelae of the worst of wars, men are seeking out the good in other men, signaling to one another, discovering and proclaiming their need of brotherhood. The world is sick of turning gardens into fields of battle. the wonder is that the plan is not killing instead of cultivating a field or a friendship; it is tired of suspicion, jealousy, the song of hate. It wants in all parts much the same things, for under the surface human nature is strangely similar. "Let us this awful thing?" be gentle, because we know so little." Let us be kind, because the need of one is the need of every one, and the reatest need is for a friend.—Phila.

Is Life Blood of Business.

The year 1921, in the opinion of the Bureau of Advertising, will be a productive year for newspapers. It will be a year in which the important men of any organization will be the salesmen, and as newspaper advertising ranks as one of the most efficient salesmen in the country its position should be secure.

Today the buyer controls the market, whereas the seller controlled it a year ago. Hit-or-miss advertising will miss more ferquently than it will hit. It will take definite, concentrated, persistent advertising appeal to sell goods, and this is a situation to which the newspaper logically adapts itself.

Sellers who seek to do business at a profit must find the markets where most of their customers are and cultivate these markets. Again, that means more newspaper advertising.

"Newspaper reading is a universal daily habit; newspaper advertising, therefore, reaches every day virtually all who buy. Newspaper advertising is the life blood of local trade because it touches all consumer sources in every community. It gives the national advertiser the same opportunity for complete consumer appeal in any locality.

Newspaper advertising cuts selling costs because it entails no waste in locality of circulation. Manufactures use it to cover markets where it is profitable to do business. Newspaper advertising insures quick thorough and economical dealer distribution and dealer good will, because retailers are willing to sell products advertised direct to their own customers.-Thos. H. Moore, in Newspaper-

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a Favorite.

BACHELUNS KNOWN TO FAME

List Is Not Overlong, but There Have Been Some Great Men Who. Remained Single.

Who is the most famous bachelor in history? While, as is natural to expect, a large majority of the notables of the past have been married men, there have been a few who have attained prominence in the world of art, of science, of statesmanship and in war without the aid of a "better half."

One who had as much claim as any other to the distinction of most eminent bachelor is Michelangelo, one of the greatest figures of the past. Voltaire, scientist and statesman, is another great man who remained single.

In the realm of warfare few of the really great have remained bachelors. Perhaps the most eminent is Lord Kitchener, who was so laregly responsible for England's military strength in the World war.

Eliminating these few the list presents a more complicating problem to one who would pick the greatest. There are several others of about equal prominence. Among the painters Raphael stands out as one of the greatest to die unmarried. Chopin and Beethoven achieved fame in the realm of music without the inspiration of a helpmate.

Several modern writers, poets and essayists achieved prominence by themselves. Charles Lamb, Alexander Pope, Walt Whitman, Phillips Brooks, Henry James, Whittier and Swinburne head the list. -

Petrarch was an unmarried historian, and Cecil Rhodes, also single, attained great prominence. Few men have become famous as statesman without marrying before the end of their career. President Buchanan was a notable exception.

NO QUARREL ON THAT POINT

Father and Small Daughter in Complete Agreement Concerning Classification of Relatives.

There lived with an eminent divine his two sisters, Mary and Jane. One morning he was deeply engrossed in a new treatise he was preparing, when his young daughter was brought to him by her governess.

"I have to report Miss Ellen for a terrible thing. She called her Aunt Mary a-a-a d-d fool!" said the

"How terrible!" responded the divine. "Did you call your Aunt Mary "No, father. I didn't," faltered the youngster. "I called her a fool-but not a-a-a d-d fool." "Well, even that is very wicked of you," he replied, "but as you did not use that awful adjective I will forgive you. You may go." And he returned to his writing. The youngster, however, did not go. "Please, father," she said, presently,

"I didn't call Aunt Mary a d-d fool, I called her a fool. But-I-I did call Aunt Jane a d-d fool!"
"Yes, yes!" he mumbled, without looking up from his work; "I quite agree. That is the precise distinction between them that I usually make myself!"-London Tit-Bits.

"Pain Points."

On every human body there are four million "pain points" connected by nerves with the brain. They are, of course, distributed very unevenly. They are placed close together at the tips of the fingers and are furthest apart in the back. Anyone can test this for himself. If you will place two needles one quarter of an inch apart by sticking them into a piece of cardboard you will have a very effective instrument for making tests. Put your finger on these two points and you will, of course, feel both of them. Now apply them to the small of your back and you will feel but one point. In other words, the nerve centers in your back at this point are more than a quarter of an inch apart.-Boys'

Finds Pleasure in Thinking. Thinking after a while becomes the most pleasurable thing in the world.

Give me a satchel and a fishing rod. and I could hie myself off and keep busy at thinking forever. I don't need anybody to amuse me. It is the same way with my friend, John Burroughs, the naturalist. We can derive the most satisfying kind of joy from thinking and thinking and thinking.

The man who doesn't make up his mind to cultivate the habit of thinking misses the greatest pleasure in life. He not only misses the greatest pleasure, but he cannot make the most of himself .- Thomas A. Edison.

Bees Eaten for Revenge.

Bees are usually employed as manufacturers of honey, which is everywhere considered a delicious food, but there are places where the bees themselves serve as a food.

The negroes of Guiana, when stung by a bee, proceed to catch as many as they can and in revenge eat them. It would be interesting to know what happens as an effect of the sting thus taken internally.

In Ceylon the natives hold a torch under the bee swarm hanging to a tree, catch them as they drop, then carry them home, boil them and eat them.-Popular Science Monthly.

Florida Facts and Features.

Florida and flowers are inseparable. The name brings memories of old Ponce de Leon and his search for the fountain of youth. The magic of sun-shine and the odor of flowers lure multitudes to the state each year. Many come for a short visit and stay life. Thousands find renewed health and vigor and become ardent advocates of the fabled fountain of The orange blossom is the youth. state flower; the state's motto, "In God We Trust." Orange cultivation is one of the state's big industries, and God has wonderfully blessed the commonwealth and its people.

As to size, Florida compares well with her larger sisters, requiring a journey of 450 miles from north to south-nearly half the distance from New York to Chicago, the average width of the Peninsula State being 100 miles. The coast line of 1200 miles exceeds that of any other state in the Union. Many good harbors are to be found, especially on the gult coast. Several rivers are navigable for large boats. Over 30,000 fresh water lakes grace her bosom, the largest of which is Okeechobee, with an area of 650 square miles. The impression of many is that the whole state is composed of swamps and lowlands. This impression is removed many rolling hills, the highest point reaching an elevation of 274 feet above the sea. The lands along the coast have been formed from the ocean and by the action of lime se creting organisms. This strange formation is still going on, as is seen in the growth of the Florida Keys at the extreme south end of the state.

Those who come to Florida the first time usually come because of climate. But after a winter's stay many of them not only return annually, finally become permanent residents. The State possesses one of the most equable and healthful climates in the world. Temperatures seldom fall below 32°, and summer temperatures rarely exceed 90°. The average annual winter temperature is 60°; the average summer temperature. There are on the average 250 clear Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ohler spent days in the year. An afternoon news-Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. paper of St. Petersburg makes the standing offer of a free issue of its paper any day the Sun does not shine until press time, about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The records is 57 free issues in 10 years. Florida is rich in phosphate rock, found in almost every county and exported to Europe for fertilizer. It is first among the states in the production of fuller's earth. The citrus fruit industry is fast forging ahead. The state produces four-fifths of the grape fruit The state pro grown in America, and nearly all the pineapples. The forests of the state are very valuable, estimated to cover 25,000,000 acres. The city of Tampa stands among the first in America in the manufacture of cigars. Florida coasts and streams furnish an abundance of fish, providing a large food supply, as well as many an hour of sport for the winter visitor. Verily, this great state is a producer of more valuable products than alligators, rattlesnakes, mosquitoes, with the ever-present piccaninny ready to be devoured, as depicted on postcards, and newspapers are correct in protesting against such methods of advertisement for the state.-By W. E.

CALLED CURSE OF SCOTLAND

Pugh, in The Lutheran.

Why the Nine of Diamonde Got Bad Reputation in That Country la Uncertain.

It appears to have been with the family of the earl of Stair that the nine of diamonds got the name of "The Curse of Scotland." On their gallon. armorial coat can be seen the nine lozenges.

It was also said that the curse of Scotland referred to the belief that every ninth king of Scotland was a curse to his country. But on looking up the history of the earl of Stair it is found that he is the eldest son of James Dalrymple, Viscount Stair, the president of the court of sessions in Scotland and the greatest lawyer the country has produced. This first earl, as Sir John Dalrymple, was one of the persons of importance chosen to offer the crown of Scotland to William and Mary at the revolution. As secretary of state he was the prime instrument in causing the massacre of Glencoe, which covered his name with infamy, and did not leave that of his royal master untarnished.

He was largely instrumental in bringing about the union of Scotland with England, though he did not live to see this effected, dying on January

BEAUTY IN COMMON THINGS

Kitchen Garden Will Furnish Really Exquisite Ornaments for the Living Room Flower Vases.

Have you ever thought of going to the kitchen garden to find something wherewith to fill your flower vases, when nothing can be found in your garden proper? asks a writer in Christian Science Monitor. Why wander aimlessly around that said garden, just because it is a flower garden, when a little farther on in the kitchen garden that gorgeous blaze of pale lemon color is just the thing to go with your deep-blue jars and jugs. "But," you will probably say, "that's cauliflower gone to seed, and who ever heard of decorating a drawing room with cauli-

Prejudice, mere prejudice! Cast it to the winds, you will never regret it, and go and cut spray after spray of those delicate lemon blossoms, being careful to strip the leaves from the stems, then collect all the deep-blue Chinese jars and wedgwood jugs you can muster, arrange the cabbage flowers therein, and, judiciously placed on chests, window sills and bureaus, their effect will be absolutely charming.

The blossoms seem to arrange themselves, each spray standing out clearly from the parent stem, not all falling together as laburnum has a way of doing, when one tries to arrange it in vases. A combination of warm-gray stone walls, old prints, pale blue and mauve chintzes, and the pale-clear lemon of cauliflower blossoms in blue jars in quite delightful, though other color schemes would give an equally happy effect.

Ant Engineers. It has been found that the population of an ant hill has solved many complicated mining problems. Thousands of ants working instinctively perform miraculous engineering feats with amazing efficiency and without profiteering. Each ant finds its own work and the team work when the big problems must be solved is surprisingly efficient. When one shift of workers tires or must stop for food or rest its place is taken by other workers equally skillful so that not a moment is lost. When an ant becomes covered with dirt others immediately clean it by washing and brushing. During their mining operations in digging holes and removing stones an ant is often injured, whereupon others rush to its assistance and carry it to a quieter gallery where first aid may be administered. The resourcefulness of these little engineers has been found to anticipate many of our recent efficiency methods.-Boys' Life.

THE STORY OF THE "ELECTRIC"

Last Spring we spent one of the coldest nights of the season in a Philadelphia hotel where a sales convention of The R. L. Dollings Company was in session. Just around the corner a terrific fire was raging. Flames leaped high and the firemen worked all night, with the thermometer at zero, in their heroic effort to save the surrounding buildings. In the sales meeting the following morning, a very concrete of the practicability of the electric truck was brought home to us. Two fire trucks-one operated by gas, the other by electricity-stood side side at the big fire. The gas truck chugged away all the night long to keep its engine from freezing; the current was cut off the electric truck as soon as it reached the fire and there it stood costing the city of Philadelphia not a cent, while its neighbor was burning gas at the rate of 30c a

The electric truck is economical to operate, as in the case cited above. The same thing is true in local delivery, as the current may be cut off, with no time lost, at each stop. Electric current is much cheaper today than when the electric truck was first put on the market. It has been proved from actual experience during the past year that the cost, in cluding all fixture charges and the prevailing driver's wage, was only $15.00 a day for operating a 5-ton electric truck.

The electric truck is easy to keep in repair. The Dollings industry re-ferred to in the first of these series spent only $3.00 for repairs on five electric trucks in three months.

The electric truck has very great endurance. A truck run over a high embankment and smashed was repaired and back on the street within three weeks. During the severe blizzard of 1914, when the snow reached an average depth of 22% inches in the streets of Philadelphia, the Curtis Publishing Company, who use electric trucks exclusively, found that out of a possible 1980 truck hours the total delay due to mechanical break-down did not exceed 45 minutes, making an efficiency for their entire fleet

The electric trucks used by this concern and many other representative firms of the country, such as the Pennsylvania Railroad, the American Railway Express Company, etc., etc. are manufactured by a Dollings in-

LESSON FOR FEBRUARY 20

THE WISE AND FOOLISH VIRGINS.

LESSON TEXT-Matt, 25:1-13. GOLDEN TEXT-Watch therefore; for ye know neither the day nor the hour wherein the Son of Man cometh-Matt.

REFERENCE MATERIAL - Matt. 7:24-27; 24:1-51; Eph. 6:10-20; I Tim. 6:17-19. PRIMARY TOPIC—Being Ready. JUNIOR TOPIC-Being Ready, INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC -Christian Watchfulness.

This lesson is a part of the well known Olivet discourse, giving a prophetic view of the course of time from its utterance, just before the crucifixion to the second advent of Christ. The order of events in that time are, roughly speaking, as follows:

1. The moral condition of the world during Christ's absence (24:1-14). This is the period covered by the parable of chapter 13.

2. The appearance of the Antichrist (24:15-26).

3. The great advent (24:27-31), in which there will be mighty convulsions of nature, the mourning of the earth's tribes, and the gathering of the elect.

4. Warnings to God's people in view of the great advent (24:32-51), the time of advent unknown and unex-

5. Instructions to saints in view of the unexpectedness of His coming (25:

6. The judgment of the nations (25: 31-46).

The present lesson is one of the two parables designed for the instruction of the saints in view of the coming of the Christ. It has a continuous application in the present time (I Thess. 4:16-18; Titus 2:11-13).

1. The Foolish Virgins Took Lamps But No Oil With Them. (v. 3).

1. Lamps signify Christian profes-Spirit (Zech. 4). Having the lamps and no oil shows that they were professors of religion without possessing its reality. As soon as a man is regenerated the Holy Spirit takes up His abode with Him. The proof that one is a child of God is that he has the Holy Spirit dwelling within him. "If any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of His." (Rom. 8:9). The foolish virgins may have been of good moral character, but they were unregenerated.

2. The wise virgins possessed both lamps and oil (v. 4). They made a profession and backed it with a real life of righteousness. These are the true believers. Both the wise and the foolish virgins slumbered and slept. Their eyes had grown heavy and they fell under the spell of sleep (v. 5). This shows that as the Christian age lengthened the real and professing church would cease looking for the coming of the Lord. It is unspeakably sad that so many even of God's saints, wise virgins, should give up the expectancy of the return of the Lord.

II. The Coming Bridegroom (vv. 6-

1. The midnight cry (v. 6). In the midst of the night when all were asleep the cry was made, "Behold the bridegroom cometh, go ye out to meet him." How sad it is that the church has lost her hope, is not waking and watching for the return of her Lord!

2. Activity of the virgins (v. 7). They all arose and trimmed their lamps. There will be great activity when the Lord comes, on the part of both the real Christians and those who only make a profession. The professing Christians will then realize that they lack that which is essential to entrance to the marriage feast.

3 .The foolish request the wise to share their oil (vv. 8, 9). The revelation of Christ will make manifest the genuineness of our religion and expose the folly of mere profession. When the Lord comes it will be too late to mend one's ways.

4. The wise enter to the marriage (v. 10). While the foolish were seeking to amend their ways trying to buy oil, the bridegroom came and those who were ready were admitted to the marriage.

5. The pitiful position of the foolish (v. 11). They begged the Lord to open the door that they might enter to the marriage feast. No one can open that door but the Lord.

6. The awful judgment (v. 12). The Lord declares "I know you not." Those who put off the personal contact with Jesus until that day shall be shut out from the presence of Christ.

III. The Solemn Obligation (v. 13). "Watch, for ye know not the day nor the hour wherein the Son of man com-

No One Absolute.

God has made no one absolute. The rich depend on the poor, as well as the poor on the rich. The world is but a magnificent building, all the stones are gradually cemented together. No one subsists by himself alone.—Feltham.

Must Deal With Sin.

We may forget or ignore Him, or keep our minds from dwelling on the thought of Him; we cannot be entering into peace with Him while sin is kept undealt with, cherished in our hearts.

February 20 New Work Our Committees May Do Revelation 3:7-13

Committees are necessary in the diversified activities of young people's work. They form the channels through which the life of the society should Unless there is life these channels are mechanical and superfluous.

The first consideration then is the life of the society. The words of our Scripture text, "Behold I have set before thee an open door," were spoken to a company of people who had life, the Christ-life. They possessed a measure of strength, they kept His Word, they did not deny His name. This involved suffering, but from it they did not shrink. Three qualities are here presented: Strength for labor; stead-fastness to His Word; sacrifice for His name. Now apply these qualities as a test to the life of that company of people with which you are identified. Does your society, or league, stand the test? If so, the same Lord who spoke to this church in Philadelphia sets before you an open door, and no man can shut it; but if strength for labor, steadfastness to His Word. and willingness to sacrifice for His name are lacking, then the call is to prayer, to heart-searching, and to re-The new work our committees may do will depend upon the work already undertaken, and the results achieved. We are to serve God with the mind as well as the heart. This includes thoughtfulness, mental effort, discussion and discernment. Consider carefully what are the present needs of the society members, and what are the pressing requirements of the com-munity. Is the spiritual life of the ociety at low ebb? If so, launch a Bible study campaign, hold a ten minute prayer service before the reg-ular meeting. Consider the delinquent members; arrange for a system of visitation; plan for a prayer service in the homes of those who are shut in by reason of sickness or acci-Consult with the pastor as to methods of service whereby the needs of the neighborhood or parish my be sion (Matt. 5:16), and oil, the Holy met. Of course, there will be opposition to this, the opposition of in-At this point the promise of verse 12 comes to our help. There is great incentive in it. The promise is "to him that overcometh." It is never easy to overcome. Sin, Satan and circumstances, combine against it, but He that is for us is stonger than all the powers arrayed against us. Cleansed by His blood, united to Him in a living spiritual union, strengthened and sustained by Him in all things, we overcome, and are "more than conquerors through him that loved us."

> How New Cotton Picker Works. A great many elaborate devices have been invented for the purpose of assisting the cotton picker in the gathering of the boll from the plant. But what is probably the simplest of all has been recently invented, consisting of a piece of flexible metal that is adjustable to fit the finger. It fits securely over the first joint of the finger, one to each finger. On the inside it has five small cleats to give tenacity. Experienced pickers declare that with a set of these pickers they increase their capacity from 20 to 50 per cent. The inventor is A. A. Ross of Oklahoma City, a practical cotton picker himself. In addition to increasing the capacity of the worker, it also prevents pricking of fingers on cotton burs, a frequent and trying accompaniment of cotton picking under the

Why Chinese Cut Their Queues. With the fall of the Manchu dynasty came the wholesale barbering of queues. The barbers of China were very busy people, and their art is now developing to that of the normal tonsorial stage.

In the early part of the Seventeenth century, when the Manchu Tartars invaded the country, they found the men wearing long hair tied in a knot upon their heads. But on the conquest of the country the inhabitants were compelled to adopt the queue, or long pigtail, often greatly lengthened artificially by employing long strands of black silk thread.

To celebrate the fall of this dynastic rule the Chinese were eager to have their queues removed, after the lapse of three centuries.-Popular Science Monthly.

How Ages May Be Compared.

Study of the relation between the total length of life and the time required to reach maturity has brought out an interesting comparison between man and horses. A horse at five years old is said to be, comparatively, as old as a man at twenty, and doubtless may be expected to behave, according to equine standards, after the manner of the average college student following human standards. A tenyear-old horse resembles, so far as age and experience go, a man of forty, while a horse that has attained the ripe age of thirty-five is comparable with a man of ninety.-New York Evening Post.

Why Dignitaries Are Saluted. Because in days gone by a port or warships fired their guns on the approach of important and friendly strangers to show that they had such faith in the visitors' peaceful intentions that they didn't think it neces. sary to keep their pieces of ordnance loaded.

POOR BLOOD IS JUST LIKE SLOW POISON

Makes You Feel Lazy and Discouraged. You Get Nothing Done.

PEPTO-MANGAN PURIFIES

Tone Up Your Blood with It. Notice the Difference with Rich Red Blood in Your Veins

The man or woman or the child with a sickly-looking complexion, a pale wan face has blood that is filled with poison. Instead of rich red blood coursing through their veins they are trying to get along with blood that it weak and thin. It doesn't life-giving qualities through the body. You see those men and women every day. They are so tired. Their shoulders droop. They slouch. It is all they can do to get around.

As soon as you begin to feel that way take Pepto-Mangan, the wellknown blood tonic. It will clear away the poisons and make your blood rich with red corpuscles.

Pepto-Mangan is prepared in both liquid and tablet form. One has the same medicinal value as the other. Take either kind you prefer. But be sure you get the genuine Pepto-Mangan—"Gude's." The full name, "Gude's Pepto-Mangan,' should be on the package.

weather, when some protection should be provided, mature geese do not usually need a house. Some kind of shelter, such as a shed open on the south side, a poultry house, or a barn, is usually provided. The goose house should be kept clean and plenty of clean straw provided for the floor.

DIFFERENT KINDS OF GEESE

Toulouse Is Most Popular on Account of Large Size-Emden and Chinese Are Liked.

The Toulouse is the giant of the geese family. It is a native of France. Its ordinary weight is from 15 to 20 pounds, but it is not uncommon to find specimens weighing from 25 to 30 pounds. This is the typical gray goose, but beneath and behind these body feathers are white areas in the plu-

It is said by those who have had experience with this breed that young geese during the first year lay from 15 to 25 eggs, when older they may lay from 25 to 40.

The Emden is a popular breed in some places. The bodies of the birds are snowy white, the legs and bills yellow. They have good type and conformation. In size it is the same as standard for the Toulouse, though it is said a smaller number of Emden reach this standard than the Tou-

The Emden, when well bred, properly fed and prepared, makes a carcass that sells well on the market, But it is said that many breeders in this country have not given much attention to fine quality:

There are two varieties of Chinese geese, Brown and White. This breed has different characteristics from the others mentioned. The birds stand more erect and have longer and slenderer necks than the others. The Brown Chinese have at the base of the bill a peculiar dark-colored knob. The Brown is considered the most prolific of all the geese. The standard weight for the gander is 15 pounds, goose 12 pounds. The female is said to lay from 40 to 50 eggs, sometimes more. A large per cent of the eggs are generally fertile.

The African is not at all common in this country. The color of this breed is dark gray on the back and light beneath. There is a dark stripe on the neck that extends well down the back. The bill is black and has a knob something like that of the Brown Chinese.

The color of the eggs is orange. The geese of this breed lay better than Emden, but not so well as the Toulouse. The carcasses of old birds are rather hard to prepare for market. The skin is dark and there is down and also pin feathers that give the carcass a poor appearance on the

TUBERCULOSIS IN CHICKENS

Disease Is Quite Common and Is Caused by Quarters Being Poorly Ventilated and Lighted.

Tuberculosis in poultry results in a loss of weight. The birds may look all right for a time, but they will be found to be light. Mr. Barton, of the North Dakota Agricultural college, states that in the later stages the birds become weak, often they cannot fly onto the roosts, but sit in a corner, and after a little die. According to Mr. Barton, this disease is quite common, affecting turkeys as well as chickens. One way to tell if the birds have tuberculosis is to cut them open. If the bird is light in weight and the liver is enlarged and spotted it may be quite safe to say that it has been suffering from tuberculosis.

He states that small quarters, poorly ventilated, poorly lighted, and damp are conducive to the spread of the disease. The best remedy is to dispose of all infected birds and if the flock is badly infected to dispose of all the birds; then thoroughly clean the house and yards, disinfect and start over again with tuberculosis-free birds. Mr. Barton recommends a disinfectant made up in the ratio of one ounce of creolin and one ounce of carbolic acid to one gallon of water.

Edmund P. Crowe, a Missouri editor, delivered a lecture in the Opera House, Tuesday evening, for the benefit of the High School. Mr. Crowe's lecture was a very entertaining mixture of wit and fine sentiments, entitled "Salmagundi," which should leave a good impress wherever heard. Unfortunately his audience was rather small. Tonight (Friday) a humorous lecture will be given for the benefit of the school.
