WHY NOT BE ONE WHO DOES?

New Chief Calls on all to Support Law of the Land.

Roy A. Haynes, of Ohio, the new Federal Prohibition Commissioner, has issued a statement in which he leaves no doubt as to his whole-heart-ed indorsement of the 18th. Amendment, and that he means to use every effort to enforce it.

On being pressed for a statement of his platform or policy, he proceed-ed to say that America has spoken in unmistakable language for prohibition-that constitutional provision has been made for it and that laws have been made for its inforcement. The law, he said should be enforced, and "the man or woman or agency which condones its violation, or encourages a sentiment of laxity in regard to its enforcement, is helping to create, consciously or unconsciously, a very serious condition." Certainly, Commissioner Haynes thinks, every good citizen will regard as imperative the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and the law to which it is fundamental.

Speaking then of the "almost insuperable difficulties" under which prohibition has been enforced in the first year, praising highly former Commissioner Kramer and saying that Mr. Kramer and his helpers were pioneers who labored under hardships that always beset pioneers, Commissioner Haynes reiterated his demand for enforcement and for the support of good citizens, saying that "to wink at the breaking of one law and preach observance of another is unpatriotic and un-American." "On that basis," he declared, "I believe former so-called liberals will as vigorously aid in the enforcement of the dry laws as those who always have been dry. Any other policy toward tion will be held this year in Alumni been dry. Any other policy toward law in general means chaos; means Bolshevism."

Commissioner Haynes said that he is a newspaper man by profession and knows the power of the press in molding public opinion, and of other agencies, such as the film and the stage. He, therefore, appealed especially the editorial and news writer, to the cartoonist, to the reporter, to the scenario writer and to the playwright to aid in dry enforcement. State- made to make this meeting a record ments or intimations that the dry laws are easily violated, or should be violated, or are jokes,' are harmful. Mr. Haynes said, not only as against prohibition laws, but as against law in general.

'I wish that we might have in America," Commissioner Haynes said in conclusion, "a revival of regard for Charles G. Woolsey. the sanctity and majesty of the law. I wish that it might be preached by the parents in the home as well as the teacher in the school; by the preacher the stage: hy e citizen and No greater agency. blessing can come to America and the world than this. I want the help of every good loyal citizen. I pledge, God helping me, every ounce of vigor and ability that is in me to this end."

HELD FOR MANSLAUGHTER. Carroll County Autoist is held under Serious Charge.

W. J. Gamber, of Finksburg, this county, was held by a Frederick cor-oner's jury, last Friday, to be re-sponsible for the automobile acci-dent on the Baltimore State road, near West Friendship, June 1, resulting in the death of the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gannon, of Frederick. The verdict was that "the jury finds that the child's death was caused by the collison with W. J Gamber's automobile, who unlawfully failed to give the right of way on the State road in Howard county, Mary-land." He was held in the $1,000 bail for the Howard county grand jury, charged with manslaugh-

At the inquest half a dozen witnesses testified that two wheels of Gannon's car were off the concrete on the right side of the road at the time of the accident. Gannon testified that he pulled far to one side to avoid the accident and when the crash came his front and rear right was off the concrete bed of the road. Gamber admitted that he was slightly on the wrong side of the road. He said he was going up hill at the rate of four or five miles an hour and that he did not have time to get out of the way when Gannon appeared in the opposite direction.

Gamber's car was partly turned by the impact, the front facing a lane leading to a farm house. Sergt. Charles W. Smith after an investigation placed Gamber under arrest. The inquest was held at police head-quarters, with Justice of the Peace J. Graham Johnson acting as coroner. It is the first time that responsibility for death in an automobile accident has been placed on a driver in this county .- Balt. Sun.

Carroll Co. S. S. Convention.

The annual convention of the Car-Hall, Western Maryland College, Tuesday, July 19, three sessions, morning, afternoon and night.

The convention last year brought together at Krider's Reformed church. twice as many people as the building would hold, so this year the committee of arrangements will promise a comfortable chair to everybody, having secured the finest auditorium in the county. Every effort is being breaker both in attendance, interest and helpfulness.

An excellent program is being prepared, full details of which will be announced later. One of the special features all will enjoy will be the congregational singing under the leader-ship of that great musical genius, Dr.

Mosts of Carroll folks will remem-ber the wonderful "sings" conducted by Dr. Woolsey in the Armory during the war drives. He is just as fine in the pulpit; the writer and cartoon- on sacred music and will lead a thirty ist, through the press; the actor on minutes song service at the opening Mr and Mrs. James Christy, noted soloists will also be with us and delight all with their happy gospel

NEW BOND ISSUE FOR COUNTY ROADS Nearly $100,000.00 Ready to be Spent in this Year.

For the purpose of paying the County's portion of the money to be spent this year on lateral roads in Carroll County, the County Commissioners last week sold to McCubbin, Goodrich & Company, of Balitmore, forty-eight \$1000 bonds of the county at \$970 each. The bonds bear $5\frac{1}{2}\%$ interest and five of them will become due in 1924, forty in 1932 and three in 1933, but the Commissioners have the right to redeem any or all of them after the first year by paying the principal, accrued interest and a 5% premium. The bonds bear interest from June 1, 1921.

Under the act of 1920, Chapter 508, whenever the State Roads Commission decides to build a lateral road in any County the County Commissioners of that particular county are required to pay one-half of the cost of the same, and for the pur-pose of raising the money they are authorized to pursue one of four methods to-wit: By assessment on all the taxable property of the county, by an assessment on property directly benefitted by the road, by an assessment on all the property of the district or districts of the county through which the road will be constructed, or by pledging the faith and credit of the county by selling bonds. Inasmuch as the cost all other roads in the county built by the State and the county together has been borne equally by the State and county the County Commissioners of this county decided to issue bonds to raise the money and not raise the same by assessment on property in the dis-trict or districts through which the roads will pass.

The roads selected by the State Roads Commission for construction this year are a part of the Hanover pike near Hampstead; Oakland Mill road near the bridge over the West Branch of the Patapsco Falls, and the Westminster and New Windsor road

The whole amount to be spent in this county this year is $97,650, onehalf of which must be paid by the County Commissioners. The latter have sold bonds amounting to $48,000 and the balance of the $48,825 required to be paid, to-wit, the sum of $2,265, will be paid out of the general assessment for 1921.

Weather and Crop Conditions.

The week ending Tuesday, June 14, was dry and sunshiny, with a mean temperature about 2 degrees above the normal. The cool weather of the preceeding week terminated on the 10th., and was followed by a warm wave from the 11th. to the 13th. There was a change to normal temperature

BOYCOTT AGAINST WORKERS. Cramp's Shipyard Workers are Victims of Terrorism.

Strikers are exercising the boycott in full against the workers in Cramps shipyards, in Philadelphia, who refuse to quit work and uphold the efforts of the strikers. According to reports in Philadelphia newspapers, the situation is extreme and unbearable, and calls for the interference of the police, and resort to radical measures. The families of the "scab" workers are suffering because dealers in food and other necessaries have been warned not to sell to such families, under penalty of the displeasure of the unions, and such consequences as are therein involved.

Meanwhile, the authorities at Cramps' yard are making efforts to take care of the sufferers and are supplying ice, milk and eggs, where sick-ness exists, and it is believed that the efforts to enforce the boycott will be broken in a few days. The Phil-adelphia Ledger says of the situation: "On a hot summer day a child at the gates of death from scarlet fever cries vainly for a bit of ice for an iced drink. His temperature is 105.2 as the fever rages. No member of his family goes for ice. It would be no use. Not a dealer for blocks around would dare sell a pound of ice to them. This was, and is, in Philadelphia. Another child grows weaker day by day because there is no milk. Yes, the dealer has plenty of milk, but he has been warned. He is terrorized. The child's mother has been threatened with horsewhipping if she ventures out. This, too, is in Philadelphia. Eleven such cases have been reported and verified. Scores of families are living in the shadow of brutal terror. Dealers' wagons dare not come and go at these marked homes. Butchers are refusing to sell meat, bakers will not sell a loaf of bread, to certain families.

Why? Because the strike at the Cramp shipyards with the strikers bullying, rioting, slugging, arm-breaking, head-smashing—its campaign of dirty terrorism and threats -has finally culminated in a warning to all dealers not to sell to any member of a family of a present employee at Cramps'.

Starve them out is the latest refinement of the striker and his sym-pathizer. What does it matter if women are horsewhipped, suffering ensues and children hastened to their graves by these tactics? The word has gone out from the strikers that no mercy is to be shown.

This is not Russia. The sooner a very considerable percentage of militant labor gets this into its head the better. If the strikers believe this is are just about to begin.

FOR FREDERICK CO. SCHOOLS. BOARD OF EDUCATION HAS A BUSY DAY

Large Lot of Important Business Acted on by Board.

The regular meeting of the Board of Education was called to order in the office of the Board on Wednesday, June 1st., 1921, at 10:30 A. M. All members were present.

After the reading and approval of the minutes the regular order of business was taken up.

All bills presented to the Board were approved and ordered paid.

Requests for contributions to local funds raised for purposes indicated, were presented to the Board which contributed ten ($10) dollars to the amount already raised in each case, except in the case of the Westminster Intermediate school it agreed to make the contribution ten (10%) percent of the amount raised by the school, which amounted to $19.66.

Brown, Wm. Shamer, $26, Phono-graph; Friendship, Mabel Stouch, $29 Phonograph; Manchester, James Phonograph; Manchester, James Racnk, $51.75; Westminster, Intermediate, $196.64, Miscellaneous.

It was decided to defer further consideration of the coal bids until later in the summer. The bid submitted for the reconstruction of the Taylorsville building was laid before the Board, but it was deemed advisable to defer any action on this matter until the budget has been returned from the County Commissioners. The bill amounting to $23.11 for services rendered presented to the Board by N. C. Erb, which is not a part of the work he was required to do under his contract was authorized to be paid ,but the Board unanimously refuses to pay the sum of Five Hun-dred ($500) Dollars, amount alleged on the contract.

The appointment of a satisfactory janitor for the Myers school was left in the hands of Superintendent Unger and Commissioner Feeser.

The Board authorized Supt. Unger to request the County Commissioners to provide the balance of Two Thousand ($2000) Dollars still owing on budget for the year 1920-21. The appointment of trustees to the Friendship school was made as fol-lows: Harry Close, Thomas Gist, Carroll Owings.

The bid of $163.40 from the Westminster Electric Company on finishing the lighting fixtures at Hampstead was rejected by the Board, and no action was taken with regard to the same.

A delegation representing the Enthe way to win a strike their troubles terprise community appeared before the Board showing that they have a sufficient number of children to justify opening the Enterprise school in September. After careful consideration the Board assured them if a teacher could be secured, the school would be opened.

County Commissioners Asked for Levy of $306,700.

The board of county commissioners have been requested by the school commissioners of Frederick county to levy the sum of $306,700 on the taxable property of the county, according to the school budget for the fiscal year ending July 31, 1922, against the sum of $275,642.04 levied in the budget last year. The difference between the two amounts, the increase over last year, is scattered over a number of items, the greatest jump being in the teachers' salaries.

The sum thought necessary to cover all estimated requirements is $413,-762.96, this figure being an increase of $38,875, over the last budget, when $374,887.96 was estimated as needed from both the county and state.

Probably the largest increase in any one item is in that of elementary teachers' salaries. The amount ask-ed for in the levy of 1921 was $140,-177.04, while the sum of $153,985.00 is requested for the next term, an in-crease of $13,807.96. Salaries for teachers in the county High Schools are also to be increased, the sum of $64,800 being asked for this purpose as against $40,625 last season. The amount for teachers' salaries in the colored schools of the county is also boosted from $15,500 to $17,000.

The sum of $100 is asked this year for auditing and legal services as a-gainst $50 last year. A $75 increase is also asked for traveling expenses for the county school superintendent. The amount allowed for the salary of an attendance officer has been jumped from $600 to $900, and the sum of $900 is asked as against the sum of $150 last year for miscellaneous cost of control.

Salaries of the supervisors of the white schools will be given a slight increase, $500 more being asked this year than last for that purpose. The salaries of colored supervisors will not be changed. One hundred and twenty-five dollars is asked for expenses of colored supervisors this year, none being asked up until this

A $250 increase has been asked in janitors' wages with a $200 increase for his supplies.

The Coal Price Question.

Anthracite operators are not concerned over the statement that the public is looking for lower prices. Some of them are sold up until July 1. One large operator yesterday es-timated that 70 per-cent. of prepared sizes coming to Philadelphia is going into cellars of homes instead of to retail yards or to large consumers. A shortage of stove is expected for several weeks to come.

Mixed reports come from bituminous dealers. Those whose customers are resuming factory operations report better conditions, but others see no improvement. No car shortage is expected when buying begins, since the roads now control their own cars and

Rev. B. E. Petrea, pastor of the Uniontown Lutheran Charge, consisting of Uniontown, Baust, Mt. Union and Winter's churches, has resigned and accepted a call to Wilmington, N.

During the brief period of his pastorate at Uniontown, Rev. Mr. Petrea, has proven to be a minister of ability and energy and has commended himself to the people of the com-munity outside of his charge. He stands well in Conference and Synod. His many friends will regret to lose him from this community.

The third annual commencement exercises by pupils of the elementary schools of this county, were held in come.

Rev. J. U. Asper, well known Lutharan minister, died at his home in Cumberland Co., Pa., on Thursday of last week, of hardening of the arteries, aged nearly 72 years.

He was the son of the late Absalom and Sarah Asper and was ordained a Lutheran minister in Gettysburg on September 11, 1881. Subequently he preached for five years Mount Joy Township, five years in in Westminster, Maryland, fourteen years in Lewistown, Maryland, and nine years in Lemaster, Pa. The weather of the week was favorable for plant growth, rapid ripening of wheat and rye, and farming operations. Crops in general are still in good condition, though beginning to suffer from lack of rain.

ing of these grains will become general in the southern counties between the 15th. and 20th., and to the northward about the 25th. Harvesting of wheat began in the vicinity of Easton on the 8th. Barley was cut in Carroll County, and is a full crop. Heading of oats became general to the eastward of the Blue Ridge mountains.

The growth of corn has been retarded by the dry weather, but the first cultivation has been completed. Early potatoes continue in bloom. Plowing for late potatoes was interrupted by the drying and hardening of the soil.

Pastures have deteriorated from lack of rain, and are now poor to fair. Harvesting of peas has ended in the southern counties and continues to the northward; they are maturing in Western Maryland. Harvesting of strawberries began in Western Maryland; elsewhere over the section the season came to a close.

Setting out of tobacco, tomato, and sell stocks and bonds. sweet potato plants was interrupted by the continued dry weather. Tobacco plants need rain badly.

Buckwheat is being sown in Garret County.

JAMES H. SPENCER, Section Director.

Outlook for Price of Wheat

The low price of wheat is merely a case of over supply, here, as well as in Argentine and Australia; and war. Unless there is an unexpected big crop failure in this country, the outlook is for wheat not to go higher during this year.

An Expensive Virtue.

Declining a cigarette advertisement, this week, cost us just $36.72; and as we did the same trick six months ago, we are beginning to wonder whether our ban on cigarettes isn't a pretty expensive virtue? and whether it isn't drawing pretty fine distinctions to advertise smoking and James C. Hewitt, et. al., tract for chewing tobacco, but not the cigarette?

Hog Cholera Warning.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has sent out warning that hog cholera is reported to exist on the premises of George Knouse, near Patapsco, this county. The card notice contains the following;

Europe is now feeding herself to a hogs; keep people away from your hogs. Use care in moving hogs to Promptly burn or bury the carcass of any animal that dies on your premsame.

> If a hog in your herd appears sick, lose no time in calling a competent person, veterinarian if possible to examine it. If evidence of hog cholera is found in your herd, if there is or has been a possibility of exposure, lose no time in vaccinating. Advise your neighbors of the above noted outbreak. If you know of sick hogs in the county, notify your County Agent.

The petition to open the Priestland have extensi school was laid on the table for further consideration.

The appointments of the qualified and unqualified teachers for the May, as reported to the Anthracite school year of 1921-22 were next considered by the Board and approved, subject to change before the opening of school lars for the necessary repairs to be made to the roof on the Hampstead building was accepted, and Commissioner Allender was authorized to have the same repaired at once.

The Board decided not to order any portable buildings and furniture until the budget has been returned from the County Commissioners. A petition of 143 members of the Woodbine community was placed before the Board requesting the building of a new school to accommodate the community. An additional offer was made from several individuals of land and money for this school. The Board took the whole matter under advisement and appointed Commissioner Glover and Supt. Unger, a committee ,to confer with the Woodbine people, and postpone action until the budget has been returned from the County Commissioners.

A delegation of the Parent-Teacher Association of New Windsor appeared before the Board of request consideration for children in this district, who have no high school opportunities, asking either for transportation to Westminster or the provision of necessary high school facilities in New Windsor. The Board has taken the project under advisement and will give it due consideration at the next meeting of the Board.

"Defective Wiring."

The report on Fire losses, by cause, for the year 1920 shows a tremendous total for "defective wiring, as well as for "electric irons," the latter item being the greatest under the head of losses due to electricity. Those who appear to consider that almost anybody can wire houses, and that there is no danger, are not at the end where they can see results. The heavy loss due to electric irons, is mainly caused by the irons setting fire to ironing boards and clothing, without the current being turned off.

Four New Voting Precincts.

Due to votes for women in Carroll county, it has been necessary to increase the number of voting precincts by four-one each in Freedom, New Windsor, Hampstead and Westminster districts. In each of these precincts, the registered vote exceeds 800.

This will add quite considerably to the cost of elections in the county, and it is quite probable that the holding of a county election, such as this year, with its large number of candidates ,will require still further voting precincts.

Evidently, there is a colored man in the coal pile, somewhere, and everybody is after him, from the President on down. The one big kick, just now, is about the price of coal, and the coal operators are standing the pattest kind of pat, issuing price regulations as though holding omnipotent authority.

Fashion in Spending.

There appears to be a sort of fashionableness, or imitation, in the raising of large sums of money for various purposes, very much the same as is often manifested between individuals in efforts to "keep up" with each other. The "drives" that were so numerous and successful, during the war, appear to have set the fashion for many other things than raising large sums of money for the conduct of the war.

We do not pretend to argue that all of these post war drives are unjustifiable, but we do believe that many of them are largely a means to an end, and that the end is not always as urgent as is claimed; but that the way has been demonstrated how big things can be accomplished, and that both loyalty and pride in organization, are unduly appealed to, to supplement the drive method. Churches and Colleges-the latter especially of the denominational class-appear to have entered a sort of race for more money. A religious denomination, or a college, launches a big financial scheme, perhaps headed by several big subscriptions from millionaires, and every other denomination and college, to which such a plan is at all possible, straightway falls into a procession and tries to accomplish the same thing; for fail-

Nationalization Again.

We are learning why our railroad often abused-honestly, and with the fare has been increased from two cents to 3.6 cents per mile and why freight bills are staggering when compared to those of 1914. Hearings and testimony before the United | States Railroad Labor Board have made these matters plain.

The John Joneses, of Jonesburgs, everywhere, are beginning to see that fair ironing out of differences. They see, also, that "overtime pay" is the bug under the chip in many labor maneuvers. Also, they see that the national wage agreement was a straitjacket for the roads, cut for Thomas Bailey Aldrich's Humorous and fitted on the roads by the United States Railway Administration and rail labor working in sweet accord and perfect understanding.

You can't fool this same composite John Jones any more with the rail "living-wage" plea. Down in Tennessee there's a yard-master who gets double the average pay of a preacher, a switchman who draws more than a high school principal, a conductor on a branch line who gets more than a full professor in Vanderbilt University. He hears of an engineer on a "plug" getting more than the Governor of Tennessee. When he hears of another on the Rome branch of the L. and N. R. TIME MAKES A DIFFERENCE

Poets and Musicians of Old Davel ived Hard Lives, but Would Be Rich Today.

A Philadelphia connoisseur has returned from England with a manuscript of Shelley's for which he paid 1,700 pounds (normally about $8,500). It is said that the total amount Shelley received in his lifetime from the publishers of his poetry was about $250. As one reads of the fantastic sums that change hands in the auction room today for books, manuscripts, pictures and other works of art, one is moved to moralize upon the difference a small part of the price would have made to the artist in his lifetime.

Chatterton poisoned himself ere he was eighteen to escape slow starvation, since he was too proud to disclose his utter penury; and now a few words from his hand would bring enough to support him for years! In the last year of Schubert's life six of his songs were sold to a publisher for 20 cents apiece. When he died, not thirty-two years old, his unpublished music was valued at $2 and his estate was appraised at about $12. Septimus Winner of Philadelphia sold "Listen to the Mocking Bird" to the publishers for $35. They are said to have made $3,000,000 out of it! "Lives of great men all remind us" that posterity has succeeded in capitalizing patriarchs who in their time found it hard to live.

PUT IT IN PLEASANT WAY

Rebuke to Correspondent Whose Writing Was Illegible.

It takes a clever man to find a good word to say on every occasion. It is said of Thomas Bailey Aldrich that he once received a letter from his friend, Prof. Edward S. Morse, and found the handwriting wholly illegible. Mr. Aldrich was not at a loss for an answer. In due time there came to Mr. Morse the following reply:

"My Dear Morse-It was very pleasant to receive a letter from you the other day. Perhaps I should have found it pleasanter if I had been able to decipher it. I don't think I mastered anything beyond the date, which I knew, and the signature, at which I guessed

"There is a singular and perpetual charm in a letter of yours-it never grows old, and it never loses its novelty. One can say every morning, as one looks at it, 'Here's a letter of Morse's I haven't read yet. I think I shall take another shy at it today, and maybe I shall be able in the course of a few years to make out what he means by those t's that look like w's, and those i's that haven't any eye brows.' Other letters are read and thrown away and forgotten, but yours are kept forever-unread. One of them will last a reasonable man a lifetime."

Tomorrow

How sweet a consolation there is in that little word "tomorrow!" The poets have given it an unduly melancholy tang-probably because "sorrow" and "borrow" are the only ready rhymes for it. You can never trust

Money Grows

If you had a handful of wheat it would not make you one meal; but if the handful of wheat was planted, the harvest would serve to supply many meals.

The same thing is true with money. The little savings will not purchase much, but planted in a realiable Bank, like ours, they accumulate and with interest added make a sum big enough to be worth while. Money grows. The only question is regarding the safety of the Bank where your money is planted. The Bank must be safe, reliable and honest. Our Bank is that kind.

The financial ability of the adherents to these institutions is surveyed, and their loyalty appealed to, and we have a race, or "drive," for money that only half appeals to the people, and results in giving under protest -for no better reason than this must be done in order to "keep up" with the pace set by somebody else.

The same sort of contest may be in force between the public institutions of states. The so-called "Gray system," operated in the city of Gary, Indiana, for the conduct of public education, has had many imitators. The state road system, now so wide-spread, had to have its start, and the fashion followed. The purchase of autos, trucks and tractors, is largely a fashion-a pace that has been set-and the "keep up" followers are doing the rest, often beyond their financial ability, or real needs.

For poor, easygoing humanity "tomorrow" solves all problems. The Feminine Steam Roller.

Mrs. Smart had studied up on parliamentary usage before going to the regular business meeting of the club and had laid careful plans that she might be elected president. When the meeting was duly opened and nominations for president were in order, the business went something like this:

"Madam president, I nominate for president of this club Mrs. Smart," stated a member, according to the previous arrangement.

"I move that the nominations cease and Mrs. Smart be elected by acclamation," put in the second cog of the machine quickly.

"Do I hear a second to that motion?" the chair asked.

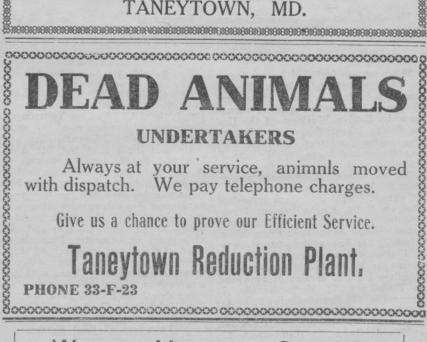

There was a dangerous pause, and no second to the motion. Mrs. Smart glanced hastily about the room. The woman who was to do the seconding was nowhere to be seen. It was a critical moment, but Mrs. Smart rose to the emergency.

"I second the motion, madam president," she stated, as modestly as might be under the circumstances.

NO LONGER OLD AT THIRTY

Women Have Proved Conclusively That Age Is Not at All a Matter of Years.

Perhaps women who are not at all sensitive about their age are still in a minority. But their number is growing. In almost any gathering where women chatter pleasantly and with some intimacy about things which interest them you find at least one woman who cheerfully admits that she is not thirty-five, but forty-five, or that it is a very long time since she was thirty.

One of the tragic conventions which have helped to wreck women's lives is this stupid tradition that at any given age a woman gets old. Years ago most women celebrated their thirtieth birthdays with a sense of depression. With greater common sense, women at least began to see that even after thirty they might enjoy life, and that the games and amusements and joys which are possible at twenty are no less possible at forty.

Today there lingers this ancient superstition that if you have reached a certain age you must not admit the fact. But it will not endure long. Now that we hear of a woman of ninety playing really capable golf, of women past fifty banding themselves together in cheery fashion as golfing veterans, of women of every and any age enjoying life, it will become unfashionable to conceal one's age .--From the Continental Edition of the London Mail.

SURVIVED STORM AT SAMOA

Major General Lejeune One of the American Sailors Who Came Safely Through Hurricane.

Secretary Edwin Denby of the navy is a fan on the history of that branch of the service and never misses an opportunity to expatiate on its glories. He was speaking at a Navy league dinner not long ago and vividly described the events as they occurred when, in 1889, a hurricane caught three of our ships, three German ships and one flying the British flag in the harbor at Apia, Samoa, and sank them all except the Britisher, which managed to get to sea.

He told how the American ships were battered to pieces on the rocks, how the Vandalia sank and her crew rode out the storm in the rigging which still protruded from the water.

Three seats down the table from Mr. Denby sat Major General John A. Lejcune, commandant of marines. The secretary of the navy did not know at the time that Gen. Lejeune, then a naval cadet, was one of the lads who hung on to the rigging of the Vandalia through the duration of the storm.

Do you know that nine out of every ten cases of rheumatism are simply rheumatism of the muscles or chronic rheumatism, neither of which require any internal treatment? Mankind Las always loved pictures. Races, without a written language, have left behind them rude carvings and murals to attest the fact. In the spring, say the poets, the spirit of man breaks its bonds. A fellow feels restless and indomitable, fit for anything and free as the wind. He brooks no restraint, not he. He looks upon his good old cap or hat and decides he ought to buy another. And he does. He goes and gets himself a straw hat-a stiff, uncomfortable, unreliable sort of thing that is faithless to every passing breeze. A man can't roll it up and put it in his pocket, he can't throw it into the air, he can't pull it down over his ears, he can't do anything with it except wear it daintily and carefully, until the time comes to smash it in the autumn and go back to the old cloth hat. And that's the best proof of the madness of spring-not love, not blooming flowers, but the new straw hat that leaves a red mark on a fellow's forehead .- San Francisco Call.

CURIOUS OLD GHOST STORIES

Napoleon's Visit to His Mother One of Many That Are Without Adequate Explanation.

Two curious ghost stories connected with Napoleon's death a century ago at St. Helena are told. The first was the emperor's vision of his dead wife. Josephine. Some days before his own death he told Montholon, who was one of his suite: "I have just seen my dear Josephine, but she would not embrace me; she tore herself away when I tried to take her in my arms. She sat over there, where I thought I saw her yesterday. She has not changed, always the same, always entirely devoted to me. She told me that we were about to meet once more, never to part again." It was noted that her name was the last word he uttered when he died.

The second, which is even stranger, is an account of a person closely resembling Napoleon in appearance and gesture who visited Napoleon's mother in Rome about the very hour of the day when he died in St. Helena. The stranger spoke of Napoleon to her as if he had just quitted him, and added: "At this moment he is delivered from his sufferings; he is happy."

Napoleon's mother at once spoke to those about her of this visitor, who was seen by three other persons in her palace, and search was made in Rome for anyone resembling him, without result. She herself was convinced that it was the wraith of Napoleon. There was nothing terrifying in the vision-if it was a vision-but on the contrary, it produced in her a kind of ecstasy. She declared that the mysterious person "was like Napoleon in voice, figure and speech."

What the Interior Decorator Puts First.

While there undoubtedly is an instinctive love for the beautiful in art and nature, the average man or woman does not greatly interest himself or herself in matters of art, says a writer in an Eastern journal. They do not study such subjects or seek information unless they become interested through some prime motive. Once there is created an interest in and a desire for better things, however, they put forth every effort to learn more of those things that tend to beautify the home.

In most cases this interest can be aroused effectively through eye appeal. People must see things with their eyes. Comparatively few persons reason with their minds alone. Imagination and construction by mental process is not a common attribute. That is one of the reasons why the interior decorator is called upon by people who can afford to employ such expert service.

Incidentally, it has been aptly said that if the average interior decorator would descend from the high horse of lofty ideals and absurd fallacy of socalled "class" and let people know he can count dollars in hundreds as well as in thousands, there would be a tremendous impulse and increase of real

Honey and Dear were married and went to visit Honey's parents in a little country town for their honeymoon. When Sunday came they went to church-of course. Honey was not particularly interested in the services, but he managed to stay awake. When the collection baskets started around he reached into his pocket and brought forth a nice, new, bright, shiny penny. Dear caught a glimpse of it.

"Oh, Honey, was it $5 you put in?" "Yes, Dear," Honey answered, and congratulated himself on establishing a reputation for generosity so cheaply. Just before the benediction the parson arose and announced:

"The collection for the morning totaled $4.37."

Married life was off to a flying start.

The Tourmaline.

The crystal, tourmaline, is capable of attracting small bits of paper and straw in much the same way as amber. This attraction is, of course, due to an electrostatic charge.

When the crystal is exposed to sunlight of a low temperature it loses its electrical charge, but regains it upon being heated again. If it has a negative charge at first, it will have a positive charge when it is reheated. Several other precious stones exhibit phenomena along this line, but tourmaline is the most interesting and spectacular of all.

THOMAS J. HAINES, J. WEBSTER EBAUGH, JOHN K. MILLER,

That was the unanimous verdict of the rocking chair brigade as it rocked and knit and gossiped away the summer afternoons on the broad veranda of the Willard Mountain house. "Perfectly scandalous, my dear !" And, no doubt, the sentence was a just one. spoke for themselves. Marion Belmont had arrived only two weeks ago. Two days later had come John Anderson Gray. That much information the hotel register vonched for. Yet in the ridiculous short time since, the two had scraped up an acquaintance, developed it into a flirtation and were now spending hours together, unchaperoned, climbing the mountains, paddling on the lake or occupying the back seat of the hotel bus, with Pete hired to drive them about the countryside

"They didn't come in until twentyfive minutes past eleven last night," whispered Miss Lapham with pursed lips and hinting eyes. "He left her outside her door, which is opposite mine, and I heard them giggling and laughing for quite ten minutes!"

"Yes," went on Mrs. Otis, who, except by the grace of applied chemistry, would have been decidedly whitehaired, "and every morning before breakfast she is down waiting for him on the veranda!" The old ladies knitted faster than ever.

Even little Miss Scobie could not refrain from adding her contribution to the rest, and she was the least gossipy of the whole crew. "I was up In my room getting ready for my nap," she breathed, "when I happened to look out of the window. They were coming up the path by the spruces. And just before they reached the turn they stopped and I think-I am sure he kissed her!'

Meanwhile the shocking pair were idly drifting in and out of pine-scented. beauty-haunted bays of the little mountain lake. Marion Belmont, according to the register, sat lazily back against the cushioned thwart of the canoe, her slim hands folded on the soft sport hat in her lap, her eyes resting dreamily on the tanned face of the man in the stern, John Anderson Gray, according to the register.

"Alan," she said suddenly, "does it seem possible that you have been here nearly two weeks? How the time has flown !'

"It has, indeed, Betty," he replied. "And, hang it all, I have simply got to get back the first of next week." "I know," she said. "And of course

I must. too." "We might as well go together, I suppose," he said. "Wouldn't it look-rather odd?" she asked, hesitatingly. "I am afraid we have come in for considerable discussion as it is from the row of Mrs. Grundies on the veranda!'

"I've an idea," suggested the man. "Let's give them something really worth worrying over. Let's elope!"

strictly tailored suit, small, veil-bound turban and dark shoes and gloves, Mrs. Otis could not refrain from saying, "It would be so lonesome for you here, without Mr. Gray." The other woman started to reply, thought better of it; smiled whimsically, and bent down to the other's ear. "Don't tell a soul," she murmured. "Mr. Gray and I are-eloping !"

Mrs. Otis opened both eyes and mouth. "Eloping!" she cried. "But you are married!"

- Miss Belmont nodded.

"And you're not divorced?"

Again she shook her head. "But we belong to each other," she whispered fatuously, "and that is all that counts!" and, seeing Pete stoop to crank up the bus, she walked airily down the steps and climbed in. Some minutes later, as the White Mountain Express hummed over the rails, two of its passengers exchanged confidences.

"I always maintained, Alan," said one of them, "that the one person to really appreciate youth would be an old, old man, and the one person to enjoy a trousseau and honeymoon would be a wornout mother, tired of the responsibilities of housekeeping and making one gown do the work of three. Well, running away up here and pretending we didn't know each other was somewhat like that. Anyway, it was great! I hope we find mother and children all right."

"My conscience bothers me a little about the other guests-especially those old ladies," admitted her husband. "Perhaps we ought to have told them at the end."

"I don't think so," said Betty thoughtfully. "We will surely never see any of them again. And I really think they almost enjoy being shocked !"

And she was right. It had been the most wonderful summer of their lives for the Rocking Chair Brigade.

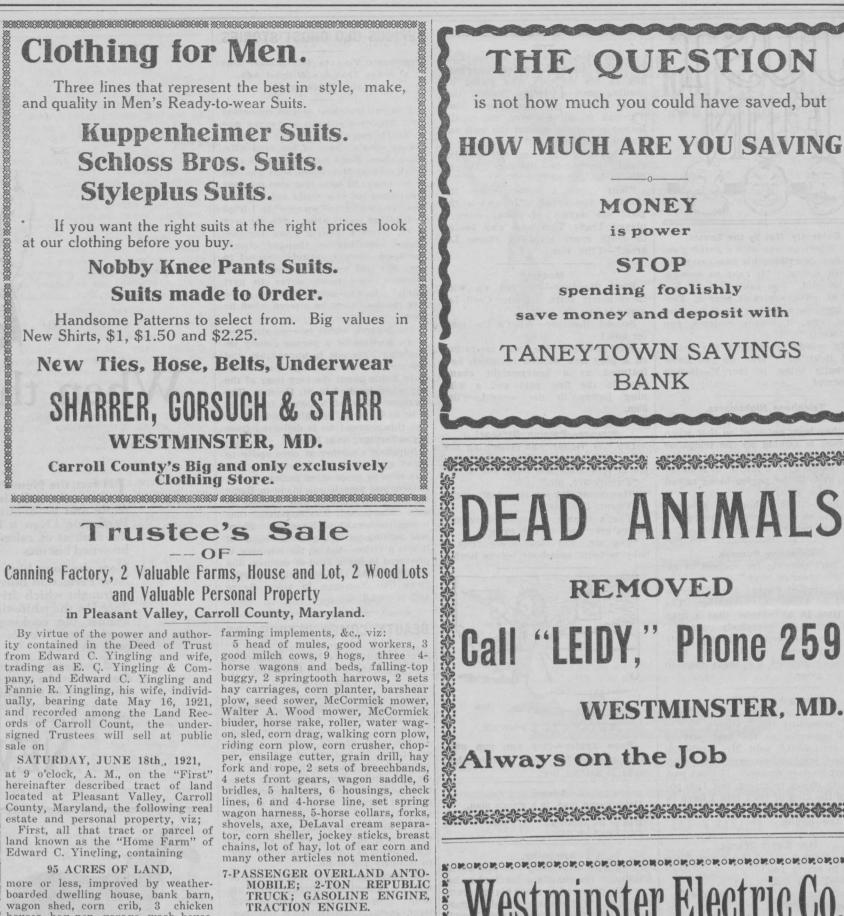

SEA SHELLS AS CURRENCY Were Once Extensively Used as Medium of Exchange Among Indian Tribes Along Seashore.

"Butter tasters" is the name children give to the violet-tinted, worn fragments of clam shells that are to be found on most beaches. These "butter tasters" were an important medium of exchange among the Indian tribes living along the shore in their trading with other natives farther inland.

It can readily be understood that Indians sufficiently adept in the art of chipping arrowheads and other implewagon shed, corn crib, 3 chicken houses, hog pen, garage, wash house. ments of hard flint could easily manusources house, the buildings wash house, property are in first-class repair and condition, with running water at the house and barn. The land is in a high state of cultivation and very productive. This farm is what has been known as the home place of smoke house. The buildings upon this facture rude "money" out of the more attractively colored pieces of these water-worn shells; and this they did, giving to this medium of exchange the name luckahauk, somewhat after the been known as the home place of Edward C. Yingling and located in Pleasant Valley, Carroll County Md. (About 1 acre of land upon style of wampum.

It may be surprising to many, especially to craft workers, to know what really beautiful "stones" these same so-called luckahauks will produce when cut and polished into symmetrical form from pieces of sufficient thickabout 1 acre, more or less, improved by an up-to-date canning factory and ness and showing the rich and beautiful violent coloring that many of them possess.

The person addressed dropped her eyes. "Oh, Mr. Anderson, I mean John, I really, really do!"

And if Mrs. Otis could have overheard the conversation she would not have needed the little episode in the post office to supply her with the information she gave out later to her friends. Chancing to be in the little office immediately in the rear of Miss Belmont's white-lawned figure, she could not help overhearing the latter's inquiry for the mail. "Any letters, please," lifted the low contralto voice, "for Mrs. Brad-er, I mean, Miss Belmont?"

"She isn't using her own name," was the message Mrs. Otis brought her confederates in disseminating scandal. "And she's married!"

"I wonder if he knows," ventured Miss Scobie, who concealed a lurking admiration for the tall, well-knit figure of John Anderson Gray. "If he doesn't, it might be a kindness to let him know before she-er-spoiled his life, or anything like that!"

The idea held an appeal to them all, for, womanlike, they found it easier to blame the woman than the man. And, heads together, they plotted how to drop the news with seeming carelessness to the victim of the lady's charms.

They managed it that very afternoon with what might be called considerable finesse. Miss Scobie was the appointed spokesman. "Oh, Mr. Gray," she said invitingly as that gentleman came out from the office for the moment unaccompanied. "Isn't it a beautiful day? By the way, Miss-Miss Belmont seems so young, you would never think she was married'!'

"Indeed not," agreed the gentleman addressed, most heartily. Then, in surprise, "Married? Married? Oh, no, not married !" And he disappeared suddenly within.

"Poor man," they murmured, "I am afraid it will go hard with him." And apparently it did go so hard that the very next morning the "poor man," without even waiting for the 'bus, left the hotel, bag in hand, just in time for the nine o'clock train.

A few minutes later the 'bus drove up to the veranda steps. And the waiting row of ladies gasped to see Pete putting in Miss Belmont's trunk. Was she following Mr. Gray? Probably not. More likely she could not bear to stay, knowing her deception had been discovered.

As she came out, very trim in a

Such as are found on the heach are necessarily dull, with no polish, due, of course, to the wear of the sea and sand, but by proper treatment on the laps are brought to a very high polish and look very rich, indeed, being entirely unlike any other "gem." Having considerable hardness, they will wear almost indefinitely when once polished. The colors blend beautifully with silver, either in bright or antique finish, while their heauty is heightened by treatment or embellishment with small baroque or seed pearls, small amethysts or other harmonizing stones.

South American Monopoly.

According to the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, quebracho wood, which is extensively used in tanning, is one of the natural monopolies of South America, as potash was a natural monopoly of Germany and jute is of India. The trade at first was established in quebracho logs, but in the last 25 years the industry of preparing the extract has been built up in South America and is now in a flourishing condition. Quebracho is not indispensable to the tanning industry, but it is a useful reagent, since it produces in a few days results that other tanning materials take weeks or months to accomplish. The importance of quebracho in the war was largely owing to its rapid action, and now that the demand for leather is not so urgent other materials will be used to a greater extent.-Youth's Companion.

Force of Habit.

"Look here, young man," ejaculated the judge to the prisoner at the bar. "How is it that a former soldier is charged with shoplifting? How did you learn such a mean business?" "It's this way, your honor," replied the offender. "In the army I spent most of the time policing the company streets, and I sort of got into the habit of picking up things as I went along."-American Legion Weekly.

"I knew there was going to be trouble as soon as the mule heard the honk of our' new flivver," remarked Farmer Corntossel, ruefully. "How did it affect the mule?"

Again we say not "Making the Social Order Christian," if the committee please. At least these texts selected by the committee do not so teach, for they have no bearing upon the question. Why two texts so widely separated in meaning should be selected to go together under the subject named is incomprehensible. The teacher should therefore ignore the subject chosen and endeavor to bring out the meaning of the texts.

I. Jesus in the Synagogue at Nazareth (Luke 4:16-21).

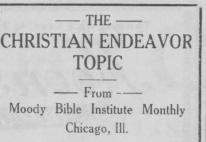

1. His custom was to go to the house of God (v. 16). He now had come back to the town of his boyhood days and entered the place of worship as was His custom.

2. Jesus reading from the Scriptures (vv. 18-19). He opened the book at the sixty-first chapter of Isaiah and read the Scripture passage which set forth His entire mission.

(1) Character of His mission (vv. 18. 19). (a) Preach the gospel to the poor. God has peculiar regard for the poor, and the glory of the gospel is that it comes to the help of the very ones most in need. It puts a ladder at the feet of a man and enables him to climb as high as his ability will permit him. (b) Heal the brokenhearted. How many are the brokenhearted! (c) Preach deliverance to the captives. Those who are in captivity to sin and Satan. Christ can and will deliver (John 8:34-36). (d) Recovering of sight to the blind. Christ not only can open the physical eyes but the eyes of the spirit as well. (e) Set at liberty them that are bruised. Satan has been most mercilessly bruising men, but the Mighty One has come who can set them free. (f) Preach the acceptable year of the Lord. This was the Year of Jubilee which looked forward to the glorious millennial age (Lev. 25:8-13, 50-54).

(2) His endowment (v. 18). The Holy Spirit came upon Christ for the express purpose of fitting Him for His divine mission. Because of this enduement He cannot fail in His glorious work.

(3) His testimony (vv. 20, 21). Having completed the reading, He declared hat the Scripture had f

JUNE 19 Lessons from the Sun and Light Psalms 74:12-17

The distance between the topic and the Scripture given as a basis for it will be apparent to all who compare the two

The first eleven verses of this psalm contain a complaint mingled with prayer. The complaint is made beause of existing conditions of national desolation, but the complaint comes from a believing heart from one who has known something of God's power in the past and who is assured that the necessary help will again come to relieve the present adverse conditions. In the soul of the writer it was night, but the assurance was there, that God would arise for the help of His people as surely as the sun would shine and the light appear on the morrow. This is always the expectation of faith, even amid the darkness of present unpromising conditions, and this is based on the past experiences of God's faithfulness together with His word of promise.

In the verses of our lesson, 12-17, there is a note of confidence and triumph. The remembrance of God's power seems to inspire the confidence of the writer, and he boldly declares the acts of the Lord in the genera-tions past: "Thou brakest the heads of the dragons," "Thou didst divide the sea," "Thou didst cleave the fountain and the flood;" the day is thine the night is thine, the light, the sun, the changing seasons all are thine

As the sun and light impart warmth and energy to the material world, so does God impart spiritual warmth and energy to the trusting soul. As the sun and light purify without becoming defiled, so does God the Holy Spirit purify lives in which He dwells. As the sun and light re-veal obstacles and dangers along the way, so does the light of God's presence point out the perils of our pil-grimage in order that we may avoid or overcome them. As the sun and light surround us day by day, so is God round about His people.

There are many who live in the moon light instead of the sunlight; that is to say they walk by human eason rather than by faith in God and His salvation.

Some good Scriptures bearing up-on this topic will be found in Psalm 27:1: 84:11: Isaiah 60:19; John 8:12; 2 Corinthians 4:6.

TELLS OF 'BUTTERFLY GHOST'

Naturalist Records Appearance of Insect Which Has No Apparent Material Physical Body.

An American naturalist and explorer tells of his first sight of the transparent butterfly-Hoetera pieraof British Guiana, an insect through whose outstretched wings any substance on which it rests can be clearly seen. "As we crossed a swirling creek," says he, "on the trunk of a mighty fallen tree something fluttered ahead. We could not see what it was, Closer we came, and still the object remained indistinct; we seemed to see a butterfly, and yet that appeared impossible. At last we marked it down on a fern frond, and crept up until our eyes were within two feet of it. Nothing was visible but the graceful lacework of the frond until a slanting beam of sunlight struck it; and there, close before us, was the ghost of a butterfly. It spread fully three inches, but was wholly transparent save for three tiny spots of azure near the margin of each wing. As we looked it drifted to a double-headed flower of scarlet; and when it alighted the scarlet of the flower and the green of the leaf were as distinct as if seen through thin mica, and the faint gray haze of the insect's wings was marked only by indistinct veining.'

Beautiful but Short Lived.

Of the countless millions of butterflies and moths, the most see light in June and are dead before the end of August. Some are born to live but four weeks. A straggling few last the winter through. But on the construction of all these creatures of a month or a year, the same infinite creative pains have been lavished.

In the eye of a butterfly are a thousand or more perfect lenses. On the wings of a large butterfly a million and a half feathery shingles of microscopic proportions are laid in perfect order. So small are they that they look like dust when brushed off the hand. The patterns of the wings are due to the arrangement of these feathery scales. The colors are due in part to pigments in the scales, and in part to the reflection of light from delicate ridges and striations on each microscopic scale.

Honey in History.

Honey played its part in the drinks of our ancestors. Caucer tells of a drink called "clarre," which was made of ale and honey. The Romans drnk "mulsum," which was wine and honey. Two old English drinks which cheered and stimulated the people who made England a first-class power, and which gave consolation to early English colonists in America. were "sack mead" and "metheglin." Sack mead was made of honey, hops and brandy, and metheglin was made by compounding honey, hops and yeast.

Much adulteration of honey has been practiced. Counterfeit honey has been made from the sirup of sugar cane and glucose, elm leaves being boiled with these things to give them a honey flavor. Starch, gelatin and many other substances have been used as adulterants .-- Exchange.

II. The Judgment of the Nations (Matt. 25:34-40).

The biblical unit here is verses 31-46. One cannot intelligently teach the verses selected without their setting; so it would be better to take a survey of the whole.

This judgment should be carefully distinguished from what is popularly called "General Judgment." The Bible speaks of different judgments, differing in respect to the subjects, the place, the time, and the results of the judgment. Note the following particulars:

1. The Judge (v. 31). The Son of Man in glory.

2. The time (v. 31). It is when the Lord shall come in His glory accompanied by His glorious retinue of angels.

3. The place (v. 31). It will be on the throne of His glory. This throne will be most surely in the land of Israel. The prophecy of Joel, third chapter, and Zechariah 14:1-5 make it to be in or near Jerusalem.

4. The people judged (vv. 32-45). These people will be the living nations upon the earth after the church has been translated (I Thess. 4: 16, 17). These nations are the ones to whom the gospel of the kingdom shall be preached just prior to the coming of the Lord (see Matt. 24:14). The preachers of this gospel will be Jews (Rev. 7; Rom. 11).

5. The issue of the judgment (v. 46; cf. 34-41). The sheep enter upon the inheritance of a prepared kingdom (v. 34). The goats go into an everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels. Their destiny is fixed (v. 46).

Hope and Pray.

Let us hope and pray that those who teach and those who worship in the temples of God may never be out of touch with the saints above or the sinners below. When we get out of touch with humanity, we are never in very close touch with Divinity .-- Uncle Henry's Sayings.

On Giving.

He that hath two coats, let him impart to him that hath none; and he that hath meat, let him do likewise .--Luke 3:11.

Nobody wears more fur lining or higher astrakhan hats than the cab drivers.

These men comport themselves with a dignity equaled by no single other class of men in the world, unless it be by the priests of the Greek church. A long black plush garment, tight at the collar and belted at the waist by a bath robe cord, envelopes them from head to foot. Because it is lined with fur, this garment makes a man look far bigger than he really is. And the high conical astrakan cap, like a curly dunce cap, adds to his stature.

Many of the drivers are said to belong to a curlous religious sect originating in Russia, a sect involving celibacy. They spurn friendship with women as likely to decrease their love for their horses.

Whether this is true or not, it is certain that the cab drivers are the most picturesque figures in Bucharest, outshining even the corseted and rouged Roumanian army officers.

Long Pigeon Flight.

One of the longest pigeon flights on record will be attempted from Edmonton, Alberta, to San Antonio, Tex. Arrangements for the flight have been made between the Edmonton Homing club and the San Antonio Homing club. The distance is 2,000 miles.

Between 40 and 50 homing pigeons will be shipped from San Antonio and liberated there by W. Lees, president of the Edmonton Homing club.

The longest flight on record, according to information, was from Rome to Liverpool, a distance of more than a thousand miles, over difficult country.-Brooklyn Eagle.

France Testing New Roads.

Contrary to past practice, composition road surfaces are being put down by the French highway authorities in the Rhone valley. At Givors a test is being made of two miles of an Italian composition. This has a cement basis and is guaranteed for 15 years. The road authorities have expressed their willingness to experiment with competitive types of road material. Of 33,000 miles of roads that required repairs at the time of the armistice, 13,620 miles have been greatly improved, and 2,200 miles have been completely repaired.-Compressed Air Magazine.

Taneytown Baseball Notes.

The Statewood team, fortified with imported players visited Taneytown last Saturday afternoon and captured a game 8 to 5, strictly on the merits of better all-around playing. The visitors banged Duncan all over the lot, while Taneytown very accommodatingly threw in a lot of errors at opportune times. It was the first defeat of the season for the home team on its own ground. The score was: Statewood 2--0--0--3--0--1--0--0-2=8 Tanevt'n 0-0-0-2-0-3-0-0=5On Wednesday afternoon, Taney-town played New Windsor on the home ground, and defeated the visitors in a well played game, score 7 to 4. RECALLS OLD SIX-DAY RACES

Death of "Lepper" Hughes Brings Back Period of Sports That Once Held Full Sway.

The death a few days ago of "Lepper" Hughes, one of the old guard of the six-day go-as-you-please races which were conducted annually in the old Madison Square garden, recalls a period when that portion of the metropolitan public which hates to go to bed before daylight pursued one of its fads to the limit, remarks the New York Herald.

These six-day grinds drew great crowds. Many persons virtually lived the entire week in the foul atmosphere of the dingy old building and watched the men as they walked or trotted their way wearily round and round the area. Prize money was big and the contests had an international flavor, the English champion, Charlie Rowell, being a participant on more than one occasion, and the winner of one competition important from a prize money viewpoint.

"Lepper" Hughes and Paddy Fitzgerald of Long Island City were invariably on hand when these so-called endurance tests were decided, and each had a devoted following. Both were tall and slim in build, while Rowell was stocky, and had a short, quick stride which rolled the miles behind him in a way which made it difficult for his competitors to keep near him. England has long been famous for the quality of her distance runners, and Rowell was one of her very best. The death of Hughes will also recall to many the New York of the days when there was not much life after dark north of Twenty-third street and the out-of-town visitor eager to see the sights had to content himself with what the Bowery and Sixth avenue afforded.

Decorum.

"When you mention that you saw a lady of your acquaintance on the street, does your wife ask you to describe what she wore?" "Certainly not," replied Mr. Meekton. "These days it wouldn't be considered a proper question."
