OPPOSES SOLDIERS BONUS AT THIS TIME

Secretary Mellon Says it Would be Financial Peril.

An Administration drive against enactment of the soldier-bonus legislation at this time assumed real proportions this week. President Harding, it was learned, has urged Senator Lodge and Representative Mondell, respectively the Senate and the House leaders, to defer action until early in 1922 is possible.

A. W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, sent to Senator Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey, a letter which was read in the Senate, protective more vice vice than did his testing more vigorously than did his predecessors of the Wilson Administration-Secretaries Houston and Glass-against passage of the bill, which now is pending in the Senate.

'The best interests of the veterans cannot in the last analysis be considered separate from the best interests of the country as a whole," Mr. Mellon said, "and I should be derelict in my duty if I failed to give this warning of the inevitable financial consequences of the pending bill.

"Its direct consequences are inescapable. It would so involve grave dangers of renewed inflation, increased commodity prices and unsettled business conditions. The result would be serious injury and loss to the whole community, and in the long run even the veterans themselves would lose far more than they would

Mr. Mellon continued: "The country is under solemn obligation to those who fought its war. Our first concern, of course, should be to make full provision for the needs of disabled veterans. To that object the country is pledged to give without stint of its resources. It would be unfortunate in the extreme, while we are still struggling with that problem, to dissipate our resources in a sweeping plan for cash payments to able-bodied ex-soldiers and sailors."

July 10 and 17, the second and third Sundays, have been designated by the Carroll County Sunday School Association as visitation days. It is suggested that on one or both of these Sundays every School Superintendent and as many other school officers as possible visit some other Sunday School.

The fact that the morning and afternoon sessions are almost equally divided in this county makes this ted to probate and letters testamenteasily possible without any one beeasily possible without any one being compelled to leave his own post Bixler, who received warrant to ap-

Crop Conditions Fair.

General crop conditions in Maryreport of James H. Spencer, section director of the Weather Bureau. Most of the crops have survived the than expected, it is said.

"Harvesting of wheat and rye has legany counties," the report states. Elsewhere over the section harvesting of wheat was finished. Thrashing of wheat and rye became general in Southern Maryland and on the Eastern Shore. The yield of wheat is poor to fair; of rye, good. Oats continue to head well in Western Mary land; elsewhere over the section they are ripening, and cutting has commenced in the southern counties.

"Corn was not injured by the drought; its growth, however, was retarded. It continues in good to excellent condition, is being cultivated and is now growing nicely. In Garrett county it is three feet high. "Early potatoes continue in good to excellent condition in Western Maryland; elsewhere they were injured by the drought. They are being dug the southern counties. Some late potatoes were planted. Pastures continue poor, though improving, except fair to good in Western Maryland. Tobacco, tomato and sweet potato plants are improving. Truck and gardens are in fair to good condition in the southern counties and fruiting elsewhere over the section.'

Congratulations.

Our esteemed neighbor, The American Sentinel, appeared last week, as a seven column paper, the increase in size said to be due to increased demand for space. This is an unusual change at this particular time when weekly papers are either reducing expenses, or discontinuing publication, and the Sentinel is to be congratulated on its enlargement, and general evidence of not being adversely affected by the times.

BAND INSTRUMENTS BURNED. Leysville Orphan's Home Band Suffers Big Loss.

The many friends of the boys' band of Loysville Orphans' Home, will be sorry to learn that it met with a big loss, last Saturday, by fire, when a large automobile truck, carrying approximately $3,000 worth of instru-ments and equipment of the band burned on the Susquehanna trail near the Loganville borough line. The blaze, which ruined the truck and consumed the major portion of its contents, started when the truck's drive shaft broke and pierced the gasoline tank.

The band was on its way to Bonnair to give a concert at a picnic that evening. The band was traveling in a large passenger truck with its equipment loaded upon a smaller truck, which followed. The trucks passed through Loganville and on the hill about one mile south of the borough line the accident which caused the blaze occurred.

The truck was almost immediately enveloped in flames and it was with great difficulty that a small portion of the contents was rescued from the blaze. The machine is a total loss. The band notwithstanding played its engagement at Fissel's Church, using instruments borrowed from nearby bands. The organization also filled several engagements Sunday and Monday, at New Freedom.

Automobile Possibilities.

A Chicago correspondent to the land are fair, according to the crop business section of the Phila. Ledger makes the following startling predictions:

Automobiles made of cotton and drought and the extreme heat better driven by power generated from coal dust are possibilities of the not remote future. Such radical departnot begun at yet in Garrett and Al- ures in the design of automobiles may not come immediately, but until changes almost as startling are made the automobile business continues to suffer depression.

This is the opinion of Roger W. Babson, head of the statistical organization bearing his name. He says, in part. "The principal factor in the decline of the automobile industry has been the steady increase in the price of gasoline. The car of the future will be run by other fuel. Already the use of coal dust has passed the experimental stage. In my opinion it will be used extensively within a short time. The coal dust is blown into the cylinders under pressure and exploded by a spark. slight ash is formed which falls out through the bottom of the cylinder -or rather through the top, for the cylinders of the coal-dust engine are turned upside down. "Lighter cars must be manufactured in order to cut down the cost of manufacture. Steel is too heavy for use in automobile construction and aluminum is too expensive. A composition of cotton, glue and formaldehyde is being used to produce a material that may solve the problem. Paper pulp, formaldehyde and glue are used in making tubs, buckets and other articles. By substituting cotton for paper the strength of the composition is enormously increased. "General business conditions in the United States will not improve before late winter or spring. The buying strike, so called, is still on."

The "Price" Fight.

Last Saturday 90,000 people paid $1,600,000 to see two scientific pugilists hammer each others' bodies for thirteen minutes, at the end of which, one of them was left on the floor bloody and helpless-

Primarily, it was a "price" fight, in which some Sixteen Hundred Thousands of dollars figured. Incidentally, it was a scientific contest for the honor of the "heavy weight championship," in a socalled exhibition of the "manly art of self-defense."

In another sense, it was a legalized exhibition of "clean sport," in which the "personal liberty" of contestants and audience was gratified-and presumably satisfied for "the price."

Some misguided chronic reformers called it an "exhibition of brutality"-in the way they commonly have of misstating the truth -refusing to see in it an inspiring specimen of pugilistic skill-a lesson for the athletic youth of the land to try to imitate.

But, it was a "price" fight and "prize" fight combined, and was conveniently ringed for the Saturday half-holiday crowds, and the Sunday edition newspapers.

Considering the rate at which we are going toward catering to wide-open indulgence in "sports," display of physical charms, and exercise of personal liberties, it is not too extreme to predict that the next big "price fight" will be held on Sunday, in some larger place than Jersey City.

Great is "the price" these days, in America! It dominates questions of right and wrong, fixes moral standards and styles, and is leading the whole country-where?

TEACHERS RESIGN SCHOOLS

Term to 140 Days.

Passing a resolution which provides for the immediate release from contract of all teachers of public schools in Queen Annes county and providing for a school term for white schools 40 days shorter than in normal years, were two of the numerous outstand-ing features of the decision reached by the members of the Board of Education for Queen Annes County at a meeting held when their budget was received from the County Commissioners.

The returned budget showed that last year. the Board of Education had submitted an estimate for $141,434.50 and the County Commissioners appropriated $85,040. Members of the corps of teachers and other county school workers have received no salary checks for the month of June, and the Board of Education in its prepared statement states that no funds are available to pay what was ceived in every mail from teachers. Some who have taught in the county from 10 to 25 years, in tendering their resignations, ask for recom-mendations to enable them to obtain positions in other counties. Those who do not resign will be offered appointments based on the short term of 140 days for white schools, and will be paid in accordance with the shorter term.

the schools in the county will be closed. The term for colored schools is but 100 days. The county commissioners allowed $15,637. less than was asked by the School Board for Grade Crossing Dangers.

Grade Crossings continue to serve as the scene of tragedies. The astonishing part of many such accidents is that they are directly attributable to the carelessness of the automobilist or other wayfarer who fails to observe the approach of a train in spite of warnings applied by the railroads. Fifteen per-cent. of all such accidents occur in the face of a warning from the crossing watchman, and more than half would be avoided if drivers would obey the "Stop, Look and Listen"

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is campaigning against carelessness, not only by providing warnings, but also by listing those who, at crossfail to observe ordinary precautions and notifying them of their remissness. It is possible that those who are thus notified will practice more care; but it seems strange that Baltimore and Ohio should be forced to call the attention of those who cross its tracks to the fact that trains run on the tracks.

Carelessness is not lightly excusable when it causes suffering to others, and it should not be excusable in cases when only the one at fault will suffer. One would like to think that prudence can become a national vir-

FREDERICK'S TAX RATE.

Queen Annes County Cuts School Fixed at $1.41 on the $100.00 a Reduction of 37 Cents.

The much discussed tax rate in Frederick county has been fixed at $1.41, or a cut of 37 cents on the $100.00. There has been perhaps more discussion and interest shown in Frederick, than in any other county in the state, over taxes and school appropriations.

The rate was computed on a basis of $40,424,909, an increase of about $832,000 over last year's basis. The rate will yield the county a revenue $648,302.30, against $744,431.21

In compiling the budget the Commissioners made a reduction of $96,-128.91 over last year. Last year the public school system was voted an appropriation of $255,299.88, and for the Walkersville school building, a capital expense, the sum of $15,000. This year the schools get $281,855 for general purposes, as compared with $255,299.88 the previous year, making an increase of $29,553.12. But with due on June 15.

an increase of $29,553.12. But with this increase the County Commissioners cut the budget of the Board of Education $24,845, the sum asked for being $306,700.

Around the school budget there developed a heated controversy between the backers of an improved school system and the faction not in favor of free high school education. School officials claimed that the budget provided for a sum of money needed to maintain a high standard of efficiency and that any cutting would seriously The probability is that many of handicap the usccessful operation of the schools the coming year.

Sesqui-Centennial in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia's plan for a Sesqui-Centennial of the signing of the Declaration of Independence set for 1926 was laid before President Harding. Wednesday, by John Wanamak-Mr. Wanamaker, who took luncheon at the White House, found the President wholly in sympathy with the idea as a means of bringing the nations of the world together and promoting good will among them.

Although the President gave no definite promise that the Administration was ready to pledge itself to the promotion of the exposition, Mr. Wanamaker came away from the White House confident that President Harding can be depended upon in due course to give the proposal his hearty support.

The visit of Mr. Wanamaker was co-incidental with a meeting in Philadelphia at which a resolution was adopted and will be introduced in the House by Representative Darrow, of now $12 to $16.

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION. Appropriations, and Various other Important Acts.

The regular meeting of the Board of Education was called to order in the office of the Board, on Wednesday, June 29, at 7:30 P. M. Commissioners Koons and Glover were absent.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

The list of bills as presented to the Board was approved and ordered paid. After a very thorough consideration of disallowances made by the County Commissioners, the following recommendations have been approved-That the Board-

1-Purchase no light plants for Myers and Hampstead. 2—Stop all repair work. 3—Purchase no oil for floors.

4-Cancel all scholarships to the Supt. Unger reported to the Board that Miss Ethel Brown of the Westminster High School, and Miss Eleanor Linthicum, of the Mt. Airy High School, had been appointed by the faculties of these schools to the Normal School scholarshhips given by the Board of Education. The Board directed Supt. Unger to inform these nominees that as the County Commissioners had refused to allow the necessary amounts to cover the cost of the scholarships, it would be necessary to cancel these appointments.

A report of the additional costs for road and curb on the purchase of the B. & O. property at Mt. Airy, was made, and the Board directed Supt. Unger to refer the whole matter to Com. Glover for final adjustment.

The bid of William H. Saylor amounting to $2354.96 for the rebuilding of the Taylorsville building, was rejected in view of the fact that the Board is unable to undertake work at that point to exceed $2000, the amount allowed in the budget by the County Commissioners. The Board, threfore, authorized Supt. Unger to communicate with Mr. Saylor and in case he can see his way to reduce his bid to $2000, the same will be granted to him.

No bids were received for the completion of the Pleasant Gap building. Unger was authorized to proceed to secure bids for the installa-tion of the heat plant in the Graceland building, Westminster. It was decided, in view of the fact that the amount in the budget allowed by the County Commissioners for repairs was reduced to such small limitations, that no further repairs be made anywhere than has already been authorized. This to include the preparation of the second room at Meadow Branch for school use this winter; the roof having already been

Supt. Unger reported to the Board that five portable buildings had been purchased, which was approved ,and authority was given to purchase furniture and equipment for these buildings, for the new Myers consolidated school, and also for such schools as have been closed and are likely to be opened.

The resignation of Miss Adda Mai Cummings, who had been appointed as rural supervisor for Carroll County, was accepted. The Board deemed it advisable to raise the tuitions as follows: High School now $25 to $40; Elementary A report showing the further changes in the appointment of teachers was laid before the Board for its approval. The request for a contribution for the Westminster High School, relative to the senior class book, was disapproved by the Board, largely in view of the fact that the budg t has been cut to such an extent that the Board cannot help out in matters of this kind.

After very careful consideration the Board determined to approve the arrangement made by the authorities of Blue Ridge College with Superintendent Unger for the establishment of a two year's high school in conjunction with the preparatory school of Blue Ridge College, to include the following conditions:

1—The first 2 years of high school education to be offered at present. 2-The courses offered to be as follows: First year, Mathematics, English, Latin, History. Second year, Mathematics, English, Latin, Biolo-

SENATOR KNOX SOUNDS WARNING.

Sees Danger in Radical Remedies Born of Foreign IIIs.

Senator Knox, of Pennsylvania, in an address on July 4, delivered in Independence Square, Philadelphia, sounded a timely warning against present threatened dangers to this country. After referring to the significance of the day's celebration, the Senator said:

"We would not live vassals of any law, we could not live a conglomerate of loosely knit independent States; we could not live half slave, half free, and slavery had to go. Can we live a polyglot people?

"We ourselves at the time of our independence were largely of one language, one literature, race, one language, one literature, one set of ideals and aspirations. We are now of many races, many languages, many ideals and aspirations. We were originally traditional and seasoned in self-govern-

"Today there are coming to us, by the millions, peoples from races un-traditioned and unseasoned in selfgovernment, peoples unfamiliar with and largely unappreciative of its good, and untutored to tolerate and meet its evils.

"Mighty ferments are at work amongst us governmentally and socially. Just as the commingling of members of different races from different climes with different customs of life, expose each of the individuals to new and strange bodily ailments and diseases, so the intimate actions and reactions of diverse race members bring novel theories of government and social and economic life Were their new theories tried, had they been effectively used by any race, had any people or nation risen to wealth, power and happiness under them, we might hope that adjustment thereof to our environment would make them tolerable. But such are not the facts.

"These strangs doctrines came primarily from races unskilled in selfgovernment, untaught in the funda-mentals of free government, unedu-cated in the basic discord between liberty and license. Their doctrines were born of the ills of the lands from which they came. They are radical remedies, sometimes self-anni-hilating to those using them, for ailments unfamiliar to our system of government and life.

"We standing here in this sanctuary, before this altar, can neither utter nor think this blasphemy. To us, and for us, God has set up this one Government founded on the equality of man. Our feet must not depart from the paths He has marked for us. Ours is the duty to keep the faith untainted. We shall not wander after false gods.

"Our fathers fought physical foes tle with foes of the mind and heart, we must combat the diseased mind and conquer. And be not, fellow citizens, I beseech you, deceived or lulled into that false security which brings destruction. The enemy is alert, active, cruel, relentless. He plans, he works always. Your welfare, your happiness, your liberties are at stake.

"Being alert against insidious foes, I believe we can and are assimiliat-ing those who have sought refuge here from the oppression of other lands. To them, America has for many years been a land of promise. flowing with milk and honey. America has filled their thoughts by day and their dreams by night. It has been to them a land of freedom, equality and justice. It has been to them all their own country was not. "These honest men and women have become a part of our citizenry and are doing their part in the great experiment of welding together one great and homogeneous nation the lovers of human liberty from all lands. With vigilance and devotion let us, all united, serve our country.

Farmers are now very much interested in foreknowing the future, with reference to the price of wheat. This isn't new, at all, and it wouldn't be a good thing for the country, if they knew. To hold wheat for six months without selling a bushel, would be just as bad as selling all of it now; and one or the other is just about what would happen, if they knew the

At this stage of a very big and precarious general situation, it will be best for everybody to be normally good-natured, reasonably conservative, moderately optimistic, not a radical alarmist, not foolishly wasteful of money, nor too grasping for big interest. Homes or Unions-Which?

Women are said to be actively engaged, at many places, trying to overcome the influence of labor leaders who stand in the way of wage settlements on a lower scale. The women and children of the country are vitally interested in steady incomes, rather than in strikes, lay-offs and closed shops. The labor leaders are interested in agitation and strikes, for the reason that their own jobs depend on managing the workers, and having them obey union rules.

Just as soon as the leaders cannot show their worth in securing higher wages, or maintaining present wages just so soon will they lose their fat jobs besides. They have apparently chosen to resist all reductions in pay, though demanding reductions in their expenses; and, having taken this step -unwisely, we believe, for labor-are riding for a fall.

That "winter is coming" is a reflection that should cause serious consideration on the part of laborers, everywhere. Fealty to unionism, and honest efforts to foster returns for labor, is one thing; but, the deflation of prices, the withholding of capital from building and buying, and from the avenues of trade generally, is quite another thing; and the latter is just as much an individual right as the former.

Just now, unionism must decide be. tween the maintenance of home, and obedience to what promises to be misleading and impracticable advice. It is a question that needs to be studied out with the home folks, then let common-sense decide.

Unions are all right and proper, but they must be just, and not assume to be immune from natural laws, nor to exist solely on the basis of force. When good-feeling and cooperation is destroyed between employer and employed, an essential to happiness and prosperity is absent.

Justice Taft.

in nagging President Harding's ad- left, that they must look out for cars ministration, and who may be a little peeved because their own bigness has not as vet been signally recognized, nationally, by their party.

As a matter of fact, the popularity of the appointment has been tried out, for the past year, by the whole country, and his formal appointment has been accepted as a matter of course, and as entirely acceptable. The Philadelphia Ledger, in commenting on the appointment, says;

"Mr. Harding's selection falls upon his Republican predecessor be cause, in the President's own words "he is the outstanding figure in the United States that comes within the scope of my choice." The field of availabilities was carefully scrutinized. More than one eminent lawyer came within the range of possibilities. But measuring one consideration with another, the President decided there was no candidate so well equipped in point of reputation, pestige, learning and legal experience as William Howard Taft.

Mr. Harding is happy to think the approval of the country and of the American legal fraternity will be prompt, enthusiastic and universal. It is the first time on record that a former President of the United States has been appointed to the Supreme Court bench. Mr. Taft will be the tenth Chief Justice and the third Ohioan to occupy the blue-ribbon post of the law in this country. Salmon P. Chase, Chief Justice from 1864 to 1873, was from President Harding's State, as was his successor, Morrison R. Waite, who presided over the Supreme Court from 1874 to 1888.'

Farmers and Union Labor.

In a recent issue. The Record editorially stated that the effort of Mr. Gompers to interest farmers in the Union Labor, would fail, and that the interests of farmers and unionists were not only not identical, but in actual conflict, and that farmers were not only manufacturers, but capitalists. In the June 29 issue of the Philadelphia Ledger, former President Taft discussed the same proposition, and largely from the same point of view. He said in part;

"Of course, there are farmers and farmers. A farmer whose farm is in that doubtful belt where a good crop is an exception and who is dependent on exceptionally high prices to make his farming pay, is in a hopeless state of complaint with things as they are and is an admirable recruit for any party which is radical in its program. Debs, Town-ley, Howat and the I. W. W. can lead such members of the agricultural craft without difficulty. But a farmer who makes a real living of his farm is in his way a capitalist. He is interested in securing labor at reasonable prices because what he has to pay in wages is an important factor in the cost to him of what he has to to jump over the fence on the best sell. When he is told that railway rates for his wheat and grain have to be raised because of the high wages that the railway brotherhoods have exacted from the railroads, his views of the power of organized labor are sympathetic. Of not altogether course, the tenant farmer is not likely to be quite so conservative as the man who owns and runs his farm. Yet he, too, is affected injuriously by too high wages and rates In the conflict of interest between groups of our people, the safety of the republic lies in a sound public opinion, the resultant not alone of the views of the contending factions, but of other groups not selfishly interested in the particular issue, whose views are impartial and look only to the general good. Mr. Gompers' suggestion that organized labor and the farmers permanently unite against the rest of the country is fortunateimpracticable. Great economic and political issues in this country will not be settled that way.'

Child Victims of Automobiles.

A large percentage of the many automobile accidents consist of cases in which children are run over. It happens frequently that a child will suddenly dart into the street in front of a motor car. This is apt to happen when a ball is thrown or hit into the highway, but often some vagrant impulse of the child mind leads a little fellow to make a bee line across the thoroughfare in pursuit of some objective known only to him.

The fact that the little one was clearly the cause of his own misfortune does not make the outcome any easier for the parents. And so great numbers of homes are at this moment suffering the loss of their hopes. and must bear the weight of a lifelong sorrow, on account of the fleeting suggestion that sent their offspring darting into the path of a fly-

A child's training must equip it to meet the perils of the life about him. It is not much use to teach him to brush his teeth and to chew his food slowly, unless he is also trained to deal with the perils existing on the street in front of his house. Every child has a right to some free swing, in which he can throw balls and run bases and play tag to his heart's content. But millions of While some profess to doubt the children have no playground but the profoundness of Judge Taft's legal streets and any well travelled thorknowledge, and also claim that his oughfare is too perilous for use for a appointment to the Supreme Court playground as things now are. The was "political," it is significant that homes and schools must drill it into these objections are mainly raised by the children until they know it as Republicans who seem to be engaged | well as their right hand from their

when they venture into the streets.

Automobile drivers should reflect that they run a chance of creating a lifelong sorrow for others and unending regret for themselves, if they run over a child, even if the latter is to blame. They should consider that a child may at any moment run out from behind a standing automobile and when passing through towns should go slowly enough so they can stop if a youngster does something unexpected.

Within three weeks three children two of them mere babies, have been killed in or near Frederick county as a result of automobile accidents. Poor, little innocent victims, they were; one giving her life because the operator of the machine that was responsible was drunk, according to report. What a horrible thing to have the lives of these little ones snuffffed out simply because of some body's recklessness or carelessness. No fonder the public becomes incensed.-Frederick News.

Prices Will Come Down.

The following recently appeared as an advertisement in a city paper, over the name of a shoe retailer. The same bits of wisdom, with variations, would apply to the weekly paper subscription price outlook.

Use of Large Trucks.

Road builders should feel encouraged at the news that the larger trucks are proving less popular than once seemed probable. The enormous vehicles with capacities in excess of five tons are more economical to operate than two or more smaller ones with an equivalent total capacity, provided that the large units can be kept in continuous use. Fortunately for the roads, they usually cannot, and the smaller units are coming into their own.

This is important because it has been determined, according to the Burean of Public Roads, that a truck with solid tires when passing over a one-inch obstruction can deliver a blow seven times greater than the load by itself would cause. This being the case, it is obvious that modern roads will prove exceedingly costly if built strong enough to endure the treatment which the big trucks daily administer. Pneumatic tires, however, open a loophole of safety for the roads, for the impact delivered through them is seldom greater than 11/4 times the load on the wheels .- Balt. Sun.

INVARIABLY SEEK HIGH POINT

Writer Who Claims to Know Points Out Error to Which Lost Persons Are Inclined.

The recent discovery of the skeleton of a lost child on the summit of the highest mountain in the Bennachie group in Aberdeenshire holds no mystery for an Australian bushman.

The skeleton is supposed to be that of a two-year-old child lost seven years ago from a farm two miles away, and at the time of the disappearance there were apparently a number of theories put forward for the loss-that the child had been stolen by gypsies, eaten alive by pigs or carried away by an eagle. But had a man experienced in the behavior of lost children been asked what was likely to have become of the lost infant he would have said, "Search all the highest points within a few miles, and on one of them, unless he has perished on the way, you will find the lost child."

In countries like Australia, where there are still vast tracts of partially settled country, the danger of "getting bushed," as it is called, is still a real

It is not always children who get "bushed," either. But, adult or child, unless the lost person has bush experience, he seems to lose his head at once and begins to walk and walk.

If the country is flat, the lost person walks in a circle; if it is mountainous, he mounts and mounts as high as he can get. He seems to get demented as he grows more exhausted and the realization of his probable fate becomes more clear. An hour or two before he succumbs he gets rid of his clothes. The majority of lost people are found naked.

It may happen that somebody who reads this article may one day be lost. Here, then is a piece of advice from one with a right to give it.

Directly you realize that you are lost sit down until the first panic has departed. Remember that your first censideration is to reserve your strength.

You will be tempted to go up hill, to see, to get into freer spaces. Don't do this. Go down hill. All rivers flow downward; you will find water in the valleys. Most settlements are in the valleys. And going down hill eats up less strength than climbing up hill.-London Mail.

WHERE HOTELS ARE UNKNOWN

Traveler in Mongolia Made Welcome in Any Tent, Conforming to Simple Rules of Etiquette.

Travelers on the steppes of Mongolia are welcome to stay in any tent in any village they encounter. Every Mongolian is hospitality itself, providing the traveler has judgment enough to conform to the simple rules of etiquette. Of course, he will have to tie down beside the lambs and calves of the household, just as do the members of the family.

From whatever side of a tent the traveler approaches he must be sure to ride up to it from the front. When he is within a short distance he must stop and shout "nohoi," which means dog. This is a safety measure, because the dogs are wolf-like and fierce. The people hurry out to call off the dogs, and if he is on foot he keeps them back, as best he can, with a

Once a traveler enters a tent he says "mendu," or greeting. As dogs do not attack inside a tent it is an insult to carry a stick inside. He sits at the left side of the fire-place, with his feet curled up under him. If he can't do this he sits with his feet stretched toward the door. Then he exchanges snuff boxes with the family. When he leaves, next morning, he bows and smiles, as the Mongols have no custom equivalent to hand-shaking and good-by.

Life's "Fits" and "Misfits."

Many would have to do a bit of thinking before they replied to the question at the head of this paragraph. Yet the answer can be easily found. It depends on whether you are a "fit" or a "misfit" in life, remarks a writer in London Answers.

Each of us has certain gifts and qualities which were intended to fit us into the scheme of life, so that we might live happily, contentedly and profitably, and by justifying our existence be glad that we were born. But if we have missed our niche, been pushed into the wrong one, or persist in putting ourselves into the wrong one, then we can't be really glad that we were born. The misfit in life might as well have missed life. The misfit is one who doesn't know what his gift is, or, knowing, doesn't use it. Many, too, persist in trying to live, literally, on a half or quarter gift, instead of using their talents to the full.

Many Had Idea of Velocipede.

The velocipede was the father of the bicycle. The list of those who claimed to have made the invention would fill a column, and a page would hardly accommodate all those who devised the improvements which made the velocipede a really useful means of locomotion.

Milwaukee's Shade Trees. Milwaukee has 82,392 shade trees on its streets and boulevards. This does not include trees in the city parks or on private property. The varieties are: Elm, 45 per cent; soft maple, 18; box elder, 9; basswood, 7; ash, 5; poplar, 4. The forestry department favors elm. Beginning April 1, the department will plant 3,000 trees, of which 2,000 will be elm, 500 norway maple and 250 each ash and basswood. The trees are planted 35 to 40 feet apart, no tree being planted less than 20 feet from a corner. The cost is assessed to the property owner. The city specifles the variety to be used on each street, so as to obtain uniformity.

Look After the Trees Now.

Industrial communities are prone to undervalue the products of natureuntil it is too late. A fine tree is the product of from 20 to 50 years of growth. It cannot be hurrled; nature will not hasten her steps at man's wish. No amount of money can speed the development of any tree beyond a certain pace, though money can provide good conditions for growth. To save a tree, therefore, is to save something which only a generation or more can replace.

Model English Towns.

The model industrial town idea, originated some years ago in the United States, is to be applied to a system of industrial garden cities which in time will rim the city of London. The project is an attempt to solve London's housing problem and at the same time prevent overwhelming congestion in the cities.

Blind Men Good Piano Tuners.

It is a proverb of modern science that loss of one sense quickens the perception of another. It is the acute development of other senses which makes it possible for the blind to get about with increasing ease; it is the same truth which has given rise to the seeming paradox of the blind leading the blind about London in a fog.

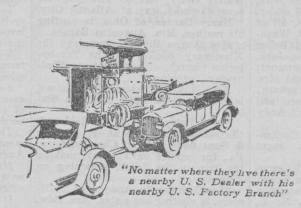

But whatever of scientific fact is behind these things, it is certain from practical experience that the blind are excellent piano tuners. The New York Association for the Blind reports that many blind men coming under its care have become extremely proficient tuners, and that the number has grown to such an extent that the Blind Tuners' Guild of New York has been chartered, and monthly meetings are held. The present report of the guild shows that the amount of business has increased steadily as the skill of the members became known.

Cascara Bark.

A shipment of five tons of cascara bark from the coast valleys of British Columbia has revealed the fact that the only known supply of this valuable medicinal bark, in large quantities, is in British Columbia, the forests in Washington and Oregon having been completely stripped. Owing to the depredations of Japanese loggers, who ship to American and British drug firms, this valuable provincial asset is in danger of being exterminated, and steps are being taken to protect this valuable herb in order that it may be properly cultivated and in time become an established industry of British Columbia.-Scientific American.

Valuable Material From Waste.

A new Australian material, named "Keltona," is stated to be worked up entirely from vegetable waste, and is suggested as a promising means of utilizing large quantities of sawdust. The composition is recommended especially for veneers and wall panels, but also for chair backs and other parts of furniture, and for many other purposes. It is said to give excellent imitations of marble. It takes nails readily, is easily sawed and worked with tools, can be polished with sandpaper, and may be shaped by bend-

UNION BRIDGE.

The "glorious Fourth" was a ban- and continued the next. ner day in this community. Everybody was here. From dawn to midnight, every minute was busy and when the weary head was gently laid upon its welcome pillow, the slumber song, "Oh, how tired I am," soon brought sweet dreams. Baseball games were won by our boys, of course. Headed by our band, the parade was well worth seeing. The greased pig made a run to a cellar on the campus. 2500 bottles of pop were sold and ice cream, gallons of it, helped to keep the crowds cool. The fireworks were beautiful. Altogether it was glorious.

One Dollar Saved Represents Ten Dollars Earned.

The average man does not save to exceed ten per-cent of his earnings. He must spend nine dollars in living expenses for every dollar saved. That being the case he can not be too careful about unnecessary expenses. Very often a few cents properly invested, like buying seeds for his garden, will save several dollars outlay later on. J. M.

Tombaugh, of Hagerstown. The church was attractively decorated with plants and foliage carrying out a color scheme of green and white. The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. E. Ray Englar, of New York, was attired in a gown of Ivory Satin veiled in lace with court train of satin. Her veil was of tulle and caught with a band of orange blossoms. The bride carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and was attended by her sister, Miss Vivian Englar, of Linwood, as match and carried a large bouquet of orchids, sweet peas and pink snap

Mr. Englar's bestman was Mr. Rouse, of Baltimore. The ushers were: Messrs E. McClure Rouzer, George M. Englar and John F. Buffington, of Baltimore, and Edgar G. Barnes, of New Windsor. The bride's cousin, Miss Margaret Snader, of New Windsor, rendered the music accompanied on the violin by Mr. David Englar, of Baltimore. A large reception followed at the bride's home which was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and smilax. The guests included many relatives and friends from out of town. Mr. and Mrs. Englar left for an extended northern trip and will be at home after July 15th., at 2410 Shirley Avc., Baltimore, Md.

After further consideration the Board decided to accept the offer of the Union Mills community, amounting to $1050.00 for the Union Mills school property, with the understand-ing that the same is to be preserved

The application of the community of Lineboro, for a new furnace for their school, accompanied by a contribution of $50 and the necessary excavating and cementing for installation, was refused by the Board on the ground that no funds were available, but it agreed to instal one of the furnaces now in the Graceland building without any expense to the Lineboro community, except that all excavations and the necessary cementing for its proper installation be done by the community.

Roman Beauties Well Knew the Value of Time Spent at the Toilette Table.

The toilette of the Roman beauty was a vastly important affair. The maids who assisted in it were usually trook slaves and the length of time devoted to it may be judged from the fact that, like beauties of France so many centuries later, the Roman woman often had the poets and the philosophers of the day to divert her during its progress, a favor of which they seem to have been less appreciative than their descendants in France.

The equipment for the toilette was both elaborate and complete. Combs, mirrors of burnished bronze, bottles for perfumes and boxes for rouge and whitening preparations are all to be found in collections of Roman toilette articles, and many are the harsh words on the subject of the feminine toilette to be found in the wrifings of their masculine contemporaries who disapproved of charm in their women, yet seem with masculine inconsistency to have disapproved equally of women without charm.

Watch and Wait.

While it is true that we never know what trouble or disaster may befall us, we likewise never know what great opportunity is going to come into our lives from an unexpected quarter. If we read the lives of the men of our country who have risen from poverty and obscurity to the greatest heights of success, we find that there were certain times in their lives when great opportunities presented themselves, that much of the success of these men was due to the fact that they were able to take advantage of such opportunities when they came.

How often have we witnessed the unhappy spectacle of some man failing to rise to the complete possibilities of opportunity as a result of thriftless-Thriftless habits will undermine any character and eventually lead to ruin.

Another Victory for Machinery. From Lyons, France, comes the report that a machine has been developed for making raised embroidery in gold and silver. It is stated that the stitch is a copy of an ancient form of embroidery and gives an impression of handwork, and is also the first machine that has been successful in using the metallic thread. WASHINGTON HAD RIGHT IDEA Disposition of the Farm Buildings at Mount Vernon Little Short of Ideal Arrangement.

A survey of the attempts of many modern farmers to create a humanizing atmosphere around the farm house shows that this effect is accomplished by psychological barriers, screens and inclosures. The work appliances of the farm are necessarily in such close proximity to the house that exclusion is done by suggestion, rather than by actual shutting out of every scintilla of farm work. The low wall, the hedge, the clump of trees, running vines, are mental screens. We can peer over or around, but we do not.

Farm Buildings Screened.

Roofs and outlines of farm buildings are visible, but lost to sense in the competing humanism this side of the barriers.

The scattered situation of the various farm buildings and yards about the ordinary farm house, often at every angle, produces the serious difficulties of the detaching process. George Washington, the farmer, disposed his barns, outbuildings, yards and gardens, at the wings of his Mount Vernon house. The rear was left open and free for stretching lawn. sky above, tall tree foliage at sides, sky at end of vista, meadow land dropping out of sight. The front was "laid down handsomely in grass," as George Washington described the lawn; while the Potomac river, a real moving picture, ran among the oaks on the river bank.

FUTURE CITY WILL BE CLEAN

Declaration That Electricity Will Make Busy Centers of Population Desirable Living Places.

Dr. Charles A. Steinmetz, "electrical will be illegal to build a fire in the limits of the cities of the future, which will be smokeless and dustless. He made this prediction at a dinner of the Bala-Cynwyd Neighborhood club in Philadelphia. He painted a word picture of a present-day city in the throes of an "electricity strike," and showed how a city depends on electricity in transportation and manufac-

"But," said Doctor Steinmetz, "although we are absolutely dependent on our electricity today, we have still only begun to use it. In the city present methods of manufacture will be replaced with electrical methods. The present city, with its dust and smoke, will be unknown. It will be against the law to have a fire in the city limits. Life then will be worth living in

Heat Seeps Out of Walls. Engineers find it takes two or three times as much fuel as it should to heat the ordinary dwelling. That is because houses frequently are not built to conserve heat, or for any purpose but to sell.

The way to heat a room economically is to insulate it. Most persons know that air space in walls conserves heat. But this is true only if the walls hold dead air. Most walls and ceilings aren't tight enough. Hot air goes through them like water through a net.

Banking up lower walls of houses with dry leaves and earth still is practiced in cold states, particularly in the country. But most city and town houses can be made tighter with little effort. The insulation of walls and ceilings can be improved, and much coal saved.

It's worth considering in places where fuel is scarce or costly. An examination of many houses will show. that the occupants literally are trying to "heat all outdoors."

Drive for Building.

In the belief that business and industry of all kinds depend to a large extent for success on a resumption of building activity throughout the country, a group of business men in St. Paul, Minn., are launching a campaign for more construction.

SALVAGERS DID GOOD WORK

Recovering Disabled Ships During the World War Was Matter of Highest Heroism.

Landlubbers link salvaging ships and cargoes to easy deals in treasure trove, but the skippers of the salvaging ships would tell them that salvage is sweaty and poorly paid exertion. They do not regard themselves as adventurers of romance. They are divers of seagoing ambulances. They are marine surgeons, who operate on sick or disabled craft, says the Spokane Spokesman Review.

Salvaging before the war was a matter-of-fact trade, but during the war it became a business fraught with extraordinary dangers. The maritime belligerents had to save every damaged or sunken ship that they could, and the salvager was almost as indispensable to winning the war as was the man-o'-war.

At the Dardanelles five vessels were sunk near shore, and yet all were salvaged expeditiously by the Liverpool

In June of 1917 the salvagers recovered four good-sized steamers in ten days that had been sunk in the English channel. They salvaged Beattie's flagship and the Britannia and the Asturias; the submarine K-13 after its crew had been submerged two and a half days; the wrecks off Ostend and Zee-

The salvaging boats had at one and the same time to act as machine shop, power house, pumping station and tug. They worked in a single spot, where they were target for every German submarine anywhere around. They showed a heroism beyond praise.

THE SHADOW FOLK OF TAHITA

Pretty Legend Full of the Peculiar Romance of the Fascinating South Seas.

We were in the land of the Little People of the Shadows. We had been told that we must offer them all our possessions, but that they would take for themselves only the shadows of the things they wanted. So we put slender sticks on the ground, all along the open side of our room, between the high tree-roots, and hung on them our tapa garments, our necklaces and ornaments of feathers and of pearl and of green jade-stone. One precious thing we could not offer them, and that was the bracelet of iridescent pearl-shell set with cat's eves of the sea. It had been put on my sweetheart's arm when she was a little girl, and now she could not take it off.

We hoped the Little People of the Shadows would understand that the bracelet also would have been offered them if it had been possible. I feared -and resolved to stay awake, to protect my sweetheart if they did not understand, but I was tired and soon fell asleep on the soft mesa beside her warm body.

Suddenly I awoke. The Ribbons of Light were all about, going and coming, rolling and unrolling, lighting up the open spaces, where hundreds of the Little People were carrying off the shadows of all the ornaments we had hung on the slender sticks. They were dancing in the light of the Rolling Ribbons, and the place where my sweetheart had been lying was no longer warm. She was dancing in the midst of the Little People. . . . I saw my sweet-heart—my full-bodied woman, my beautiful one, the Flower of the Mountain-becoming smaller and smaller. . She became as a little child.

As the bracelet of shining pearl slipped from her tiny wrist, the Little People picked it up and hung it on one of the slender sticks, where its cat's eye glowed. Soon, as they danced, my sweetheart, was no larger than the other Little People and was among them.

The Ribbons of Light rolled away among the trees and all was dark again. The Shadow Folk were gone; my sweetheart was gone to be with the souls of all the other people who have been lost in the forests of purple Orohena.-From the Shadow Folk: A Tahitian Legend, by E. Lloyd Sechrist, in Asia Magazine.

Has Own Idea of "Progress." A different idea of progress from that usually held is given by A. Edward Newton, who, in the Atlantic Monthly, writes: "I was dining once in London, quite informally, with a great electrical engineer, a very trig maid in attendance. On the table near my host's right hand was a small block of white marble and a tiny silver mallet. When he wanted the maid he struck the marble a resounding blow. I was somewhat amused and asked him if he had ever heard of a push-button for the same purpose. 'My boy, I have,' was his reply, 'but I get enough of electrical devices in the city; I don't want a single one of them in my own home. I've not yet come to using gas; prefer candles; they are not so like ly to get out of order. I hate this pushing a dimple and waiting for something to happen. When I make a noise myself I begin to feel a sense of progress that's what we stand for in this country'-with a knowing wink-'prog-

"Safety Net" Worked Well.

The thrilling rescue of a four-yearold boy occurred in Brooklyn a short time ago. The boy had his tonsils and adenoids removed and was on the third floor of a hospital. The nurse left the ward for three minutes and when she returned she missed the child. The little patient had climbed to one of the windows, squeezed through the bars and was hanging outside. The flutter of the child's nightie attracted the attention of passersby. Two young men stripped off their coats, knotted them together by the sleeves, and stretched them out as a makeshift saftey net. A moment later the boy's grasp on the window ledge relaxed and he went hurtling down. But the safety net proved effective and he dropped into it unin-

Old Almond Trees Bear Well. That age is one of the assets of an almond orchard in point of bearing is claimed by Edward Wyckoff, pioneer resident of the Woodland district, who has on display in the board of trade rooms limbs from almond trees on his place planted in 1857 by his brother, David Wyckoff, former sheriff of Yolo county, writes a Woodland (Calif.) correspondent. Though 64 years of age, the orchard is the best bearing in the valley and the trees are strong and virile. Records of the production are being kept for grandchildren that they may make some comparisons of crops when the orchard reaches the century mark.

People Lacking Curiosity.

If there is a skeleton in your closet, rest assured that the few inhabitants of Easter island, 2,300 miles off the coast of Chile and the easternmost inhabited Polynesian island, will make no effort to bring it forth into the light as one traveler says of them that they are not curious enough to turn around on the dock to look at the boat that calls there about once in eighteen months. Gigantic statues, stone houses and sculptured rocks, relics of an ancient people, are found on the island. -National Geographic Society Bulletin.

The Girl of the Wilderness

Q communication

By R. RAY BAKER

The old man leaned forward and rested a hand on a knee of his son, They sat before a fireplace in which a Enapping blaze was struggling against a fall chill. They were smoking pipes and apparently enjoying each other's company, as cronies do; and they were cronies.

The old man? He was not that when one came to a closer inspection. He looked old, seated as he had been in the shadows, for his silver hair was all that was really distinct in the dusk. There were wrinkles, but not deep. One would take it he had led a free and easy life, until gradually the impression formed that there was something about him denoting a sorrow. Possibly it was his eyes.

"It's up to you, Paul," he said in a voice that was singularly soft and pleasing. "I would not try to argue you out of this marriage, but I want to warn you and be sure you are not making a mistake-as I did once." The last four words preceded a deep sigh, and the father leaned back again in the shadow, to watch the glow from the fireplace play about the handsome, clean-cut face of his son.

"I am sure, father," the son said, with a note of finality, "I love this girl of the wildnerness. You should see her romp through the woods, her cheeks aglow with health. You should see her paddle a canoe, and dive and swim. And yet she is as retiring and reserved as the most demure society belle, when the occasion requires it."

"But your station in life," his father hesitated. "This girl cannot be your social equal. You say she and her mother live in a shanty in the woods near Cedar Creek, where you spent your vacation. They must be crude people, it seems to me."

The son was on the point of making an angry retort, but he checked it. "She's as good, and a lot better than most of the girls in my station. of life," he said. "Her English is perfect, and she has a conversing knowledge on a wide range of topics. I did not see her mother, for I never could get Anne to invite me to their home. In fact, it is not her mother, Anne told me. Rather, it is her adopted aunt. Anne is really the daughter of the sister of the husband of the sister of the woman she calls mother -if you can grasp that. Anyhow, she's no blood relation, but they love each other like mother and daughter. It seems that each is all the other has.

"They live in the woods from choice. Anne's father was wealthy and left a large amount of money to his daughter; and Anne insists on sharing It with the woman she now calls mother. Because they love the woods and choose to live in them-that does not indicate a low station, does it? And what if it does? I love Anne."

"It all sounds very rosy this love talk," observed his father, and there was a touch of bitterness in his voice, "but it doesn't always work out that way. Look at my own case. I don't care to talk of it as a rule, but it's a sample of what one gets for marrying beneath his level. Your mother was a lovable, good girl, but she had not been educated in my ways of thinking. In many ways the case parallels yours. Your mother would not get along in the society to which I was accustomed. Like this girl you think you love, she was fond of the woods and she wanted me to spend my life in them. I could not reconcile myself to it, because I love the noise and bustle of the city. The silence of the woods drives me frantic. But I consented to try it, and built a habitation in the woods; not a modern structure, as I desired, but a rustic log house to suit your mother's fancy. I could not endure the solitude and finally one night we quarreled; and a terrible quarrel it was! It was raining, and thunder and lightning punctuated every sentence that was uttered. In fairness to your mother, whom I loved in spite of our incompatibility, I must say that I did most of the quarreling. She simply sat and looked into my face with those gentle blue eyes and let me rave. I never told you this before, because-because it was pretty hard for me; but now, when you are considering a step that It almost identical, I cannot refrain from bringing it up as an example. But it is hard.

The silver hair was buried in the man's arms.

"The next morning I left the house with you," he went on, more composed. You cannot remember it, for you were only a year and a half old and I had to carry you in my arms. I sneaked out of the cabbin with you bundled in a blanket before Ethel, your mother, was awake. I did not return for three months, and when I did, repentant, I found nothing but ashes to mark the spot where we had tried to live. And never was I able to get a trace of your mother, though I believe she perished in the Frisco earthquake.

"So you see, my son, what marrying beneath my station did to me. You see what may be the consequences for you-of marrying one of those natureloving spirits. It sounds well, but it works out differently.

The son was silent several minutes. "I know you mean well, father," he finally said, and this time it was his hand that stretched forth and touched the other's shoulder. "But : love this girl, I am sure of it, and, besides, I love nature, too, so we ought to get along. Now I must be going, for I have an engagement with Carl.

We want to discuss old college days." He left, and for a time the man with silver hair smoked and silently watched the fireplace flames; and two or three tears crept into his eyes.

It was Paul's wedding day, and he was on his way to claim his bride from the forest. His father was with

"I said my say, and you've made your choice, son," he said. "It is t'or you to decide. And of course I'm going to be present when my son is married, even if it should be in the center of the African jungles."

So they packed traveling bags and took a train for the wilderness. At Cedar Creek they disembarked and set out on foot through a path in the

"Does smell rather good," admitted, the elder man as they trudged along inhaling ozone from the pine trees. "It's the first time I've been in the woods since-since that night."

Two hours' walking brought them to a clearing, where a log house sent a thin wreath of smoke heavenward. It was a small hut, but it looked inviting, an island in a sea of flowers

'This is the place," Paul announced. "I had never seen it, but I received good directions in my last letter." His, face was lighted up expectantly.

From the door of the hut romped a laughing girl, clad in a blue blouse. short khaki skirt and leggings. In the doorway behind her appeared a tall, handsome brunette of middle.

Paul clasped his sweetheart in his arms and they remained embraced for several minutes. Suddenly the girl broke away.

"I must introduce you to mother, and I must meet your father," she said and turned toward the hut, to stop dead still, amazement shining from her big bright eyes.

"Well, would you look at mother!" she cried, and Paul turned to stare in astonishment that equaled or surpassed hers.

For Paul's father and Anne's mother had followed the example of the young people and were hugigng each other tightly, while she repeated over and over the one word, "George," and he was saying "Ethel."

NEW ATOMS EVERY MINUTE

Old Idea That They Were Immutable and Unchanging Has Been Proved to Be Wrong.

The birth of an atom is just as important an event as the birth of a world. If not more so, for everything in the universe is composed of atoms, even the worlds themselves. Not long ago atoms were thought to be immutable and unchanging, but the amazing truth has just been disclosed that new atoms are born every minute. just as among the faraway stars new worlds are being born, says a writer in the Edinburgh Review.

Already certain kinds of atoms can be produced in the laboratory, and such a busines would become immensely popular if gold and silver could be created in the same way. This is not an idle dream, as might be thought, for already it has been discovered that all atoms are composed of the same kind of material-positively electrified particles and minute negative electric charges. All that re-mains is to learn how to put these quantities together in the proper amounts, just as chemists now but the proper atoms together and producethough ofttimes under uncommercial conditions - synthetic rubber, silk, steel, artificial dyes and the many other miracles of the laboratory.

To understand how certain atoms have already been produced in the laboratory it is necessary to remember that there are about ninety different kinds of atoms, corresponding to the elements of which all other substances are made, and that all atoms contain equal amounts of positive and negative electricity. Just as solar systems consist of planets revolving about a central sun and are held together by the force of gravitation, so do atoms consist of negative electrical charges, revolving around a central, positively charged nucleus, held together by the forces of electrical attraction.

Much Work for Little Result. One of the legends of antiquity credits a man known to Cicero with having put the Iliad of Homer into a nut shell. When the legend was 1,700 years old Huet, the great French scholar, tested it to amuse his pupil.

the French heir.

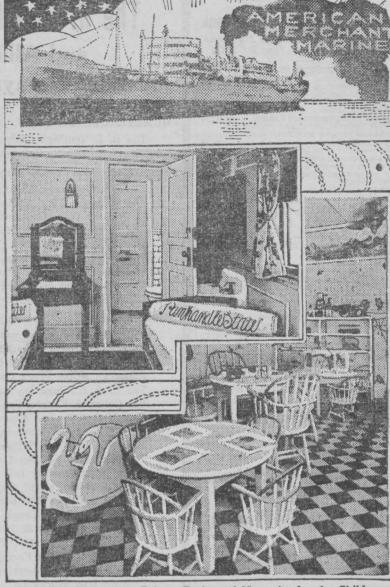

He took a piece of firm but pliant paper, ten inches long and eight inches wide. By writing tiny characters with a fine pen he found that he could get thirty verses of the Iliad into a line and 250 lines to the page, 7,500 verses in all. Thus, by using both sides of the paper, he could write 15,000 verses on it, the number composing the Iliad. The paper when folded up fitted into a walnut shell, and so the possibility of the feat of Cicero's friend was

New York Business Man Adopted Stern Methods in Dealing With Wayward Young Son.

A new method of correcting the youth who had started to go astray was tried out the other afternoon by a big business man. He had caught his fifteen-year-old son pilfering articles from the house, and the boy had also been in trouble in the private school he was attending.

The father confided with a personal friend, a high official of the police department.

"Bring your son down to my office in headquarters at five o'clock this afternoon and when I get through with him I don't think he will trouble you again," said the policeman.

At five o'clock father and son were on hand. They were then taken to the rogues' gallery, finger print and cell rooms, where the boy was told what would befall him eventually if he did not mend his ways. After ten minutes in a cell and a lecture before half a dozen detectives who were about, the boy was taken home, with the parting information from the police and his father that the next time he did anything wrong he would land down in Center street, to go through all the things that befall criminals, and that it would be in earnest the next time. The boy indicated he was cured .-New York Sun.

First Woman on Lunacy Board. Clarice M. She points out that she has held four such appointments, the first one being made by Judge Otto A. Rosalsky on February 19, 1919, and the latest one by Judge Mulqueen in February of this

Robert Bruce's Heart!

During excavations at Melrose abbey carried out by the office of works. there have been unearthed a number of stone coffins, and also a leaden casket, inclosing a heart. The discovery of this casket has aroused speculation as to whether the heart which it contains is that of Robert Bruce, the famous king of Scotland. The casket was found, however, in that part of the abbey grounds where the chapter house stood, in which Bruce's heart is said to have been buried .-London Times.

convenience and satisfaction of cooking with the New Perfection until you have actually done so.

It's a relief, especially in warm weather, to be rid of carrying coal, wood and ashes, sweeping up litter and blacking the stove. And then you don't have to "rush the fire" on baking days and heat up the kitchen. Two burners on the New Perfection will give you all the heat needed for any kind of baking. You can regulate the heat produced by each burner, warm something gently on one and roast over another in a New Perfection oven.

LESSON FOR JULY 10

SAUL THE PHARISEE.

LESSON TEXT-Acts 7:54-8:3; 22:3, 4;

GOLDEN TEXT-Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners; of whom I am chief.—I Tim. 1:15.

REFERENCE MATERIAL-I Cor. 15:9; Gal. 1:13; Phil. 3:4-6; I Tim. 1:13.

PRIMARY TOPIC-Going to School in Jerusalem.-Acts 22:3, 4; 5:34. JUNIOR TOPIC - Saul Persecuting INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC -A Young Pharisee.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC -Saul Persecuting the Church 1.. Saul's Training as a Pharisee

(Acts 22:3,4; 26:4,5). 1. Taught to love his own nation. "I am a Jew." The Pharisees were the nationalists of their day. Those who are intelligently loyal to their own nation can more effectively help others. 2. Taught to love God's law. "Taught according to the perfect manner of the law of the fathers." Love for the Holy Scriptures is a valuable asset in life. One may misinterpret it and dangerously misapply it; but if he has love in his heart for it there is hope of getting him to come into right relationship to it.

3. Was "zealous toward God." The root of the word "zealous" signifies "to boil." It means a passion for God and His work. It was zeal for God that made Saul think of and plan for his work. This zeal for God expressed itself in persecution of the Christians whom he regarded as doing that which was contrary to God's law and purpose. He spared neither age nor sex, even to imprisonment and death (Acts 22:4).

In his conscientiousness he opposed Jesus, for he regarded Him as an impostor. Saul is to be commended in that he responded to his conscience, but he is to be condemned for his attitude toward Jesus; for there was overwhelming evidence that Jesus was God's Son and came in fulfillment of the Scriptures. The resurrection of Christ was such an outstanding miracle—a proof of the Deity of Christ, that there was no room left for doubt. III. Stephen's Martyrdom (Acts 7: 54; 8:3). In order to understand the significance of his martyrdom we must obtain a synthetic view of his life.

1. Who Stephen was (6:1-7). He was one of the seven who were appointed to look after the temporali- an act of intelligent faith and a reasties of the church.

2. Why Stephen was opposed (6:8and by the Holy Spirit wrought miracles. These mighty works aroused the people. The following features characterized him; (1) Wisdom, nch means common sense; (2) grace, which means beauty of character; (3) power. He had the ability to do wonders and great signs and speak the truth effectively. The men of the opposing synagogues were not able to "withstand the wisdom and the Spirit by which he spake." They arrested and brought him before the great council. Even here they could not silence him by argument, so they decided to do it by violence. 3. Stephen stoned (7:54-60). Before the council he made a magnificent defense. This he did by tracing the history of Israel from the call of Abraham to the crucifixion of Christ. His aim in this review was to show that God never had been localized and that the temple was but a small part of God's plan. In his address he did not speak against the temple, but showed that God did not in the fullest sense dwell in it at any time. He proved this from Scripture (Isa. 61: 1, 2; I Kings 8-27). In his conclusion he declared that the Jews had always been a stiff-necked people, resisting the Holy Spirit, and now their stubbornness had reached its culmination in the betrayal, rejection and murder of the Son of God. This charge cut to the heart. His arguments were unanswerable. Being unwilling to answer him and at the same time to accept the truth presented, their anger was stirred to its highest pitch; so their only answer was stones. They gnashed upon him as a mad dog. In this hour of trial God gave him a wonderful vision. He was permitted to see into heaven itself, and there he got sight of the glorified Son of Man standing at the right hand of God.

4. Shephen's burial (8:1-3). His death is described as a falling asleep. This is really all that death is to the Christian. Devout men buried him, making great lamentation over him.

Power of Prayer.

"There are five outlets of powerthrough our life, our lips, our service, our money, our prayer. And by all odds the greatest of these is the outlet through prayer. . . The greatest thing anyone can do for God and for man is to pray."-S. D. Gordon.

How to Serve God.

Serve the Lord with gladness. Enter into His gates with thanksgiving, and into His courts with praise; be thankful unto Him and bless His name. For the Lord is good -Psalms 100:2, 4. 5.

July 10 What Is Our Reasonable Service? Romans 12:1-8.

The question, "What is our reasonable service?" should be preceded by another, namely, "What are the mercies of God?" These mercies constitute the basis of an appeal to consecration, character and conduct. A hearty response to this appeal may be regarded as our reasonable ser-

Devotion to God and service to Him is usually determined by our delight in God and His work for us. The mercies of God in His redeeming work are displayed in the preceding chapters of this epistle. We stood before God, guilty and without excuse (3:19). Acknowledging our need we discovered a righteousness provided for us, to be received by faith in Jesus Christ (3:21). In view of this righteousness received by faith, we are justified and enter into peace, the peace of a righteous acquittal made possible by the propitiation on the cross (3:25), and made actual in experience by faith (5:1). Furthermore, it is revealed that the Cross not only secured our righteous forgiveness, but that it separated us from the power of the old life. On its death side, the Cross detaches us from the first Adam, fallen and corrupt; and on the resurrection side, the Cross attaches us to the second Adam, our risen and victorious Lord. We died with Christ, we received in Him the judgment of death, and in dear Son (Col. 1:13.) All these gracious matters constitute "the mercies of God," and these mercies are the foundation on which an appeal is made to believers to dedicate themselves to God. This is our "reasonable service" and ought 11. Saul Thoroughly Conscientious to be regarded as a requirement and are translated out of the kingdom of darkness into the kingdom of God's responsibility. This reasonable service involves both an act and an attitude. There going." should be on the part of every Christian an intelligent act or dedication to God." My son give me thine heart." "Yield yourselves unto God as those that are alive from the "Present your bodies a living sacrifice." It does not matter what this act may be called or named, but it does matter that it be performed. In a quiet, intelligent and sincere spirit there should be an acknowledgment of God's right to possess that which He has purchased. "Ye are not your own" is the plain declaration of Scripture. This truth is acknowledged the dedication of one's self unto the Lord.

It is not a matter of feeling but onable requirement (Rom. 6:13).

Our reasonable service also in-15). In his work he testified of Christ cludes the matter of attitude, and this enters closely into the daily life. The great struggle of the Christian is to maintain the attitude of dedication and yieldedness to God. It brings to the Anostl naving done all to stand." As long as the life is properly adjusted to the will of done all to stand." God as made known by his Word and spirit, so long will the divine life be manifested through us and this is the practical result of our reasonable serf vice. As another has well said, "God gave himself for us, God gave himself to us, and God wants to give himself through us." As He does this the world about us is blessed. The measure of this blessing is determined largely by the act and the attitude involved in our reasonable

A Bad Combination.

Almost Universal Belief in Marvelous Properties Attached to the Various Precious Stones.

The ancients attributed marvelous properties to many of the precious stones. There is a significance attached to the various stones in making birthday, engagement and wedding presents. The different months and the stones sacred to them, with their respective meanings, follow:

January, garnet; constancy and fidelity in every engagement. February, amethyst; preventive against violent passions. March, bloodstone; courage, wisdom and firmness in affection. April, sapphire; free from enchantment, denotes repentance. May, emerald; discovers false friends and insures true love. June, agate; insures long life, health and prosperity. July, ruby; discovers poison, corrects evils resulting from mistaken friendship.

August, sardonyx; insures conjugal felicity.

September, chrysolite; free from evil passions and sadness of the mind. October, opal; denotes hope, sharpens the sight and faith of the posses-

DECLARE QUOITS OLD GAME

Many There Are Who Say It Is Descended From the Ancient Sport of Discus Throwing.

There have been international matches between quoiters and in the '60s wide publicity was given in the newspapers to a quoit match between Billy Hodson, the champion of all England, and Jimmy McLaren, who was the champion of the United States. McLaren was a resident of Newark, N. J., and was a Scotchman by birth. But he represented the Stars and Stripes. The gentlemen played themselves to a tie and concluded that neither was the better player.

There are writers on the game of quoits, and advocates of the game who are not writers, who insist that this game is descended from ancient discus throwing, and the enthusiastic quoiters who believe that their game had this classic origin will tell you that the statue of "The Discus Thrower," by Myron, copies and pictures of which you have seen, really represents a Greek youth playing at quoits when that game was young and when it represented strength in hurling rather than skill in putting.

"Rapid Transit" in the Old Days. An illustration of the more or less rapid transit facilities between the "villages" of Brooklyn and Flushing as late as 1819 is seen in the announcement of the stage driver who begs "to inform his friends in the city of New York and the village of Brooklyn, Newtown and Flushing that, notwithstanding the opposition which has lately been set up against him, he still continues to run his stage between the villages of Brooklyn and Flushing in an equal if not superior manner to that which he has been in the habit for many years past. He has improved his team with an additional span of very fine horses which enable him to perform his route in a space of 90 minutes, being a distance of 12 miles. Those who wish seats in the above-mentioned stage will please apply at W. & E. W. Nichol's store, No. 8 Fulton Slip, New York; John Bedell's, Brooklyn, and Samuel Lowerre's, Flushing. Fare from Brooklyn to Newtown, 371/2 cents, to Flushing, 50 cents."

Old Agricultural Impiement. The hoe is probably one of the oldest of agricultural implements. When primitive man found a well-formed limb of a tree with a sharp crook he had a hoe for the cutting, and it was with such hoes as these that the Indians planted their large fields of corn, and prepared the soil for the planting. There probably was not much "hilling-up" done and less weed cutting. There was a little, for effort was made to keep the weeds down until the corn was high enough to shade the ground. Hoeing was soon finished, and the crop was left to itself until the ears were filling, when the children were sent out to the fields to scare the birds away. Farmers today know what damage a flock of blackbirds will do in a cornfield, and what must have been the strength of the flocks when nearly the whole continent was a wilderness?

Naturally Indignant.

Melvin failed to receive much benefit from his Sunday school lesson. His two older brothers took him to Sunday school, and after it was over neglected to look for him. He was discovered crying by a neighbor and taken home. When he arrived home his indignation toward his brothers was terrible to witness. He stamped his foot and said, "You took me down there and losed me!"

It was organized at William and Mary college December 5, 1776, as a secret social club and literary society. It has become an honorary fraternity to which men and women are elected on a basis of scholarship.

Strange Booze Concoctions.

That the human beings of today have cast-iron stomachs is almost proven by a survey of fancy drinks being indulged in by the "rumsoaks' of the age, and among whom a new drink has been introduced, called "stroke de lightning," more commonly known as an ordinary French toilet water.

In the sheriff's office in the court house reposes a small bottle, plastered with fancy labels, and said to have at one time contained this new preparation. At least one poor man is known to have "gone wrong" from too much toilet water,-the owner of the bottle in the sheriff's desk,-he being granted leave of absence in the "calaboose" while he recovered from his "tear."

Jamaica Ginger and varnish, properly mixed, is said to be wonderful as a chaser, while a few drops of alcohol in a glass of any common soft drink will make your hair stand Lots of such mixtures are being introduced in Frederick just now and those who ply their trade along this line are "cleaning up."

The head of the list is still held by plain Jamaica Ginger, with small chance of its being overtaken unless its manufacture is stopped. In Frederick its a cinch that booze is being sold, the number of drunks arrested being proof of that fact but the main question is to find out where its sold.

Whether any real whisky is being sold or not is a mystery, yet unsolved, for little proof is obtainable along this line. The purchasers of whisky must either buy it as an investment or get "soused" and go home, for good whiskey is never found on the drunks taken by the authorities .-

Biliousness and Constipation. "For years I was troubled with biliousness and constipation, which made life miserable for me. My ap-petite failed me. I lost my usual force and vitality. Pepsin preparations and cathartics only made matters worse I do not know where I should have been today had I not tried Chamberlain's Tablets. The tablets relieve the ill feeling at once, strengthen the digestive functions, helping the system to do its work naturally," writes Mrs. Rosa Potts, Birmingham, Ala.
