STREET IMPROVEMENT IDEAS. Observations Made on a Wide Tour Through Pennsylvania.

FROM TORONTO, CAN. During a trip to Allentown, Pa., last week, the Editor made such ob-servations as he could, largely while A Handsome Dry City. Comment on on the way, concerning the planting of trees in the various cities and towns, and as the trip included return over a different route, the circuit enabled him to get a general view of a great number of places, small and large; therefore, the conclusions in Toronto is a city in the woods. I do not mean that it is a backwoods city. Far from it. It is one of the most up-to-date cities we have seen. this article will represent a composite and not be confined to any one place. Three distinct facts stand out. The Glorious Toronto. Beautiful for situation and formation. Glorious for total prohibition. Why, you can smell first is that in most cases, and in the it in the air; so sweet, clean, pure uncontaminated by the "brew" and towns that have trees planted twenty or more years ago, there has been but smell, and spue, that always poisons the atmosphere by the presence of the "open" saloon.

little attention paid to systematic planting; the second that now there is manifest a general effort toward saving all street trees; and third, a well established plan for present planting.

Most of the trees have been planted years ago, in the edge of the side-walk back of the curb line. These trees are to be seen by thousands, in laid—with a space around the trunks of the trees to facilitate growth. No doubt many unsightly trees, so plant-ed, have been removed, but life and safety has been given to all others.

There are many places in which the planting has been made outside of the pavement, and outside of the curb, or gutter—not many gutters now, anywhere, but merely a curb with the streets sloping to it—but, by far the greater number of the old planting is on the inside of curb as four to five feet wide, next to the sidewalk and level with it, and with the curb line between that and the the passer by, in contrast with the licensed towns. The blear, sleepy, bloodshot eye, the besotten look is residence streets, and not always on residence streets, and not always on wide streets. towns. Government made and dis-pensed drink and control is a snare and a trap set for the unwary bird, for it will a trap set for the unwary bird,

On this strip of grass, all trees and poles of various kinds are placed, leaving the sidewalk entirely free from obstruction, producing a most pleasing uniformity, and with less first cost than the old curb and gutter idea, as well as adding very greatly to the appearance of the homes.

In some places this plan is carried out with the variation of making a block effect, showing the location of property lines by having solid concrete divisions between the grass plots, and perhaps for additional strength to the curbs, or both; but in both plans the regularity of trees and poles is maintained. We have post card views of both.

There is an atmosphere of quiet, serving and peace that we have not felt in any other city in our travels All travels. All so soothing to the nerves The grass plot plan does not re-quire extra wide streets, for the rea-son that about two feet of the plots on every turn, due in a large meas-ure, I think, to the foliage of the ma-ple troop for the foliage of the mawas formerly taken up with the guting the nip of cooing winter and are ters, so that a five foot plot on each dressing in green, red and yellow, gorgeous in the sunshine. The weathside of the street will decrease the width of the street driveway only has been the very best, but the about six feet, which could easily be spared on most residence streets. There are some streets in Tanevtown that could easily be so remodeled and greatly benefitted in appearance, at comparatively small cost to both the town, and property owner. We would especially call attention to Ephrata, Pa., one of the smaller places, and suggest to the owners of the new homes in Taneytown along the state road extension, that they pay an auto visit to the place and get ideas in the use of hedge and the preparation of lawns. It is a very handsome town, especially the street that is part of the state road from Lancaster to Reading, and about 14 miles distant, as we recall, from Lancaster. The handsomest and most extensive hedge display, is to be found there, and it is well worth seeing and copying that a systematic beautification of this particular Taneytown section may be carried out, and inexpensively.

FIRE PREVENTION ENFORCEMENT PLANS Widespread Effort Being made to Reduce Fire Loss.

All over the country, newspapers are giving publicity to ways of re-ducing fire waste, by reducing the number of fires. As most fires are due to absolute carelessness on the part of individuals, the effort to cause public sentiment to exercise greater care, is a very worthy one. On most premises, town and country, fires are invited, either by maintaining unsafe chimneys and flues, or by accumulating litter near buildings, or by the careless use of matches.

In incorporated towns, these fire invitations are maintained, because the officials do not do their duty by making it a punishable offense for property owners to permit the accumulation of easily ignitable matter near buildings; such as stacks of hay and straw, store boxes and bar-rels piled up, excelsior and straw packing and paper boxes exposed to flying sparks, etc.

This same municipal carelessness is manifested in not exercising and keeping in quickly workable order, the water plugs and fire fighting equipment, giving them a "going ovat least twice a year, and especially before freezing weather sets in. Some towns still permit shingle and other inflammable roofs to be constructed; while the erection of buildings-especially back buildings stated above. The newer plan, in evidence on the more modern streets, everywhere, is that of having a strip of grass from four to five feet wide, next to the idenvalk and level with it and with it is a proper municipal function to see that he does not.

As an excellent means of preventing fire loss, the "clean-up week" is a fine effort. There should be a street committee in every town, and this committee should have the power to order all alleys, back yards and back-buildings, to be cleaned-up, at least every fall, and all litter removed that contributes to fire hazard.

Chimney and flue examinations should also be officially made. No stoves should be permitted to operate that do not discharge into sound chimneys. The use of stove pipes through roofs, side walls or windows, should be banished. Everything that is seen to be a danger, should be removed, and no chance taken, nor any dangerous practice be left to individual convenience, or carelessness.

* Christian Endeavor Rally.

The Christian Endeavorers of Taneytown and surrounding community will hold a rally in Grace Reformed Church, Taneytown, Sunday afternoon next, October 9th., at 2:30

SOME SEASONABLE HINTS. Get Ready now for the Winter Months Near at Hand.

Get your furnaces and stoves in good shape. If you use a hot water system, empty out the old water and fill up with fresh, as fresh water heats quicker. See that all chimneys and flues are clean, and stove pipes sound. The fact is, Summer is over, and winter needs to be prepared for in a good many ways. And coal-that we have been waiting for to come down, but don't-should be bought. The price is ridiculously exorbitant, and somebodyor the whole crowd—is "holding up" the country; but, "the black dia-monds" are not likely to be any cheaper, and perhaps later there may be a short supply.

Wood for fuel is another expensive item. As long as coal is high, and labor scarce and high, wood will also be high. Stoves and furnaces, by the way, are in the same company; so, keeping comfortably warm this winter will be an expensive proposition. But, it will not pay to keep a chilly house in order to save heat. It is better to keep warm, than to have visits from the doctor and undertaker. The coming winter is feared, by many, as it is expected to find many out of employment. This is not like-ly to be the case in the country, where help is scarce; but everywhere work of some kind should be kept going-offered at least-when weath-er conditions permit. Perhaps cord wood can be cut, or preparations made in advance for spring work. There is almost always something that can be done, if help is to be had. Plan for work to be done all winter through.

The state is encouraging tree planting, and offers trees at cost. (See the Record of Sept. 23). Why not secure trees, now, and plant at least around the home, and along roadsides. For desired information write the Board of Forestry, Calvert Building, Baltimore.

25-Poultry Show Plans Progressing.

The program for poultry week, November 15th. to 19., is being rap-idly completed. The Maryland Mid-State Poultry Show is making a sensation in the poultry world on account of the progressive methods employed to make of the show something more than a mere exhibition of poultry. Prominent poultry show enthusiasts from all over the country are taking an interest in the success of the undertaking.

Mr. C. P. Scott, president of the Illinois State Poultry Association, has written the management expressing his interest and approval in the proposed conference of Maryland poultrymen which will be held in Westminster, Wednesday, November 16th.

ing letters asking for details concern-night with a monster massmeeting in the State Armory, addressed by duct Mrs. Deborah Knox Livingstone, of Rhode Island, chairman of the national board of directors for young people's branches. Officers elected for the coming year are Mrs. Mary R. Haslup, of Baltimore, president; Mrs. Rebecca Bowen, Towson, vice-president-at-large; Mrs. Annie D. Starr, Baltimore, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Milton Stewart, Baltimore, recording secretary; Mrs. Catharine A. Lips, Baltimore, treasurer.

Resolutions were adopted urging the necessity of stressing total abstinence education and urging Con-gressmen to vote for the Willis- acres. Campbell Anti-Beer bill and the Fess-Capper Physical Education bill. The two chief resolutions were the following: First, "That Maryland possesses the unenviable distinction of being one of the two States in the Union which still permits racetrack gambling and that we endeavor to pledge candidates for the Legislature before election to enact legislation to banish this menace." Second, "That as respect for law and obedience to its mandates are the chief safeguards of democracy and, indeed, of civilization we deplore the increasing tendency of the press of Baltimore city to flout the Volstead law and to cast scorn and contempt on its defenders. We favor the enactment of an enforcement code for Maryland. We believe principle to be above party and pledge our support to those candidates for the Legislature who are committed to the enactment of such an enforcement code."

Important Notice to Ex-Service Men.

The "Clean Up Squad" will be in Westminster, October 18 and 19. This squad is sent out by the Government to assist soldiers who have claims against the Government, espedially claims for Compensation and Vocational Training. The Carroll County Chapter Red Cross is asked to get a list of all men in the county having claims and it is urged that they send their names and addresses at once to the Chairman of the Red Cross, Westminster, and then come to Westminster on October 18 and 19 and see the "Clean Up Squad." We are asked Vestminster, Wednesday, November 6th. From all over the State are com-resolutions against for details concern-that they may have in regard to their claim. Also their discharge, a certificate from any doctor who may have treated them since their discharge and affidavits from at least two persons stating that the soldier was in good health when he entered the service and that he has been in poor health and unable to follow his former occupation since his discharge. The "Clean Up Squad" states that the failure to bring the papers in reference to claims, discharges, and affidavits is hampering the work and making it impossible to render the assistance they otherwise could. This will be the last and only time these men will be here and no exservice man in the county having a claim should fail to see them.

Toronto is not so picturesquely situated as Montreal surrounded by her majestic hills, but what we miss in scenic beauty we gain in moral atosphere and in temper, touch and tone. The city is laid out on the square. Her tram lines and accomnodations are not the best, but much is promised, as the city has now tak-en control. They are about introducing the finest coaches. One is now on exhibition. Fares are four tickets for twenty-five cents, or seven cents single, same as in Montreal.

The business houses are finely constructed, and many have more of the appearance of a great residential mansion to of a great residential mansion that a store. The Departmental stores are spacious, artistic and well manned. Motor cars jam the busin the business streets, and on some streets streets we have not seen a single have just made the city alive and odd by their presence, and the amusing drummers The band masters and big from North to South on the coast, drummers. They came from nearly every state in the U. S. and from all parts of this Dominion. Their parade is said to be the the best ever said to have been the best ever seen in Toronto. One float cost over $1000 and there were many in the procession, which took one and a half hours to pass a given point.

How willingly and liberally men give for war and worldly pleasures and gratifications, but how grudg-ingly "the mite" for the spread of the gospel for the spread of the gospel for the salvation of men.

Rents are rather higher here than in Montreal, and houses can hardly be had at any price. We spent two weeks at the Missionary Rest Home, on Mimico Beach, until we found our little sunshiny nest, in the home of a widow. All we desire for the wina widow. All we desire for the winter quarters. As it now looks, our work will be here for a season.

Living expenses are slightly less here than Montreal. At the home we met returned Missionaries from Inlia, China, The Canary Islands and South America, and we from Austra-lia and New Zealand, made an interesting company. But as they are all backed and financed by some church or board, they could not understand how we could "carry on."

J. THOMAS WILHIDE,

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Yeiser Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Yeiser, Union Mills, returned home, on Wednesday, from their three months trip Twenty five thousand Odd Fellows to the Pacific Coast, and in passing through Taneytown Mr. Yeiser paid derful trip by auto-over 9000 miles -and took in most of the sights from North to South on the coast, going into Mexico.

Mr. Yeiser was ill for about ten days, at San Jose, Cal., but on the whole both of them stood the experience well, and had very little car trouble and no accidents, though going over all sorts of mountain grades and through deserts. He has promised, when good and rested up, to write us a review of the trip and some of their experiences.

Mr. Yeiser has, during his life, travelled practically over our whole country, and to Cuba; and says that there is no spot, to his mind, equal in all of its advantages, to Carroll county, in little old Maryland, es-pecially for its diversity of products, good water, and general home life advantages.

Sunday School Rally at Middleburg.

The fifth of a series of Sunday School Rallies being held by the Car-roll County Sunday School Associa-tion will be held in the Methodist Episcopal Church, Middleburg, Rev. R. J. All schools attend.

o'clock. Among those taking part on the program will be the State President, George J. Ritterbusch; State Secretary, Spencer E. Sisco; Field Secretary, Carroll M. Wr/ght; the county President, and possibly the State Junior Supt., George R. Smith, while the music will be under the direction of Richard A. Harris, a former State President, who trained the choir of 2000 voices that thrilled the thousands of endeavorers who attended the International Convention held in Baltimore in 1905.

The Liberty Quartette, of Westminster, will render several selections, as will also the choirs of Taneytown. It is seldom that such an array of talent is secured for a rally service, and the church should be packed to overflowing.

At night the same speakers will participate in a rally to be held under the auspices of the society of Sandy Mount Church, as Sandyville.

It will be well for all of these towns to profit by the experience of Taneytown before turning over their highways to state road engineers, and allowing arbitrary new grades to be established, entailing great expense on property owners to take up and relay good sidewalks and curbs. After the state secures control will be too late.

Hanover Mill Burned.

The Hanover Milling Co's mill, in Hanover, was completely destroyed by fire on Wednesday night, entailing a loss estimated at $100,000. The was owned by D. W. Deitrich, mill of Philadelphia, who also owns the former Marker's mill, in this county. The blaze originated on the second floor over the boiler room, and had gained too much headway before an alarm was turned in. The firemen saved much adjoining property and a warehouse containing about $2000, worth of flour in barrels. The heaviest loss is to machinery, and about 5000 bushels of wheat, and a considerable quantity of flour. The loss is reported to be fairly covered by insurance.

ing this conference and all indications point to a large assemblage of interested persons on that day.

Entries for the show have already commenced to arrive. The Armory will be bulging with every variety of fowl. And right here it might be well to say that the poultry breeders of Carroll County should understand that they have just as good opportunities to make a good showing as any section of the country and they must not hang back and think their fowls are not good enough for fast com-pany. Get busy and pick them out. Every school child in Carroll County will have an opportunity to visit the show on Friday, November 18th. Superintendent Unger, of the Board of Education, is co-operating with the management and he has consented to arrange that every child who wishes to visit the show will be excused for that day. Free tickets for the children will be distributed through the schools. Hon. Wade H. D. Warfield has consented to act as chairman of the conference of Maryland poultrymen. Dr. G. Lewis Wetzel has been selected as toastmaster at the High Jinks on Wednesday evening, November 16. The Grangers of the county are co-operating to make Thurs-day, November 17, Farmers' and Poultrymens' day. Governor Ritchie has been invited to be present on Saturday, November 19th., Military day, and it is hoped that he will be able to be present.

Advertising for the Official Catalogue and Poultrymen's Directory should be sent in at once.

Men's Adult Bible Class Parade.

The Carroll County Sunday School Association, under the leadership of Rev. W. C. Parrish, of New Windsor, Superintendent of adult bible class work, is arranging a big parade of the men's bible classes of the Sunday Schools of Carroll County, to be held in Westminster, on Sunday afternoon, October 30, followed by a great mass-meeting for men, to be held, probably in the Armory, and if arrangements can be made a similar meeting in one of the churches for women, each to be addressed by prominent Sunday School workers. This is expected to be a great day in the history of Sunday School work in our county, and all schools in our borders are asked to take note and prepare to take part. Further particulars will be given later.

Frederick county has had such a celebration for several years past, and religious leaders there are unanimous in the opinion that is by far the biggest event of the kind in that county in the year. Last year they had nearly 2000 men in line. Their meeting this year will take place on November 6th.

Mr. Parrish has been very active in this department or religious work and has the honor of having in his school the largest men's bible class in the county, numbering 125 men. Their teacher, Mr. Harry Yingling s a wonderful enthusiast and hopes to bring every one of them to Westminster on that day.

Next Tuesday, Oct. 11, will be the last date for the Registration of Voters, this year. You will want to vote for County officers, so do not fail to qualify.

days, outside of the ordinary, without some form of united effort. The very things we must complain of as infringements on "our rights," are not so much infringements as we think, but merely represent energy and zeal on the part of others who perhaps do not so much "put over" things on us, as they accomplish something for themselves. We are quit apt, therefore, to show our own lack of energy and work in many of our complaints.

Desultory firing and light skirmishes do not win important battles, but it is the co-ordination of forces and mass attacks, properly directed, that brings the victory; and the same truth underlies nearly all of our community successes or failures, and explains why some places get a place on the map of progress and others do

Call it "community spirit," or "cooperation," or whatever you will, it is united harmonious effort, backed often by liberal expenditures of cash, that gets us what we want, and complaining that we are getting left behind is as profitless as it is silly whining-self-convicting.

The average town that is "behind the times" is not entitled to a particle of sympathy, nor is the average individual, who, with health and strength and ordinary environments, fails to "get along" in the world. Laziness affects individuals, towns and communities, alike. We may not like the word, but it is the most charitable one that can be used, for if not "laziness" then it is lack of the exercise of wisdom and energy, or something even worse than that.

There is nothing so prevalent, perhaps, as lack of community spirit. We are selfishness personified in most of our dealings and plans. We take it as the chief object in life to look out for self; to get all we can. and keep as much as possible of that which we get; looking neither to the right nor left for the welfare of the community. And in so doing we miss the big truth that when we do help If newspaper reports are to be the community, we as surely help our-

Local Newspaper Advertising.

A Western newspaper editor recently asked this question; "If you had newspaper space to sell, and a payroll to meet, would you sell your space to business men who want it or would you hold it for local people There is but little growth, nowa- who won't take it and who sometimes declare advertising doesn't pay?"

He answered it, further on, by saying; "The people of this town would not have this paper for another issue if it were not for outside advertising. The fact that this advertising space is taken, is a tribute to the paper-to its influence and circulation.'

The question is one that concerns many places, notably smaller communities, the newspaper has a hard struggle for existence. It may be a live sheet, splendidly edited, but the local merchant feels that "everybody know him" and it is not necessary to advertise; that he does about "the same amount of business anyway." He fails to appreciate what it means to his community to spread the news abroad of its doings, of its achievements and of its opportunities r new settlers.

In supporting the newspaper by advertising, the merchant encourages en-terprise on the part of the publisher, and the greater the publicity given the town and district the more rapid the growth.

Thousands of dollars' worth of free advertising is given every year to the community by the local newspa-Every little thing is boosted, per. and people abroad begin to find out what a fine place your town is.

Only in advertising can the local newspaper find reward for its effort. The subscriptions do not more than pay for the cost of publishing and delivering the paper. In supporting the paper by adver-tising, the merchant is contributing not only to his direct benefit, but to the future of the community.

Naturally, if there is not sufficient income from local sources to pay the bills, and leave a fair margin of profit, there can be no question of the justification of the newspaper in accepting advertising from abroad.-Exchange.

Home Town Paper Week.

The "Subscribe for Your Home Town Paper Week" idea is getting a big hold upon the papers of the country, and hardly a copy comes to our desk which does not have something to say about it. Publishers generalmember of the State House of Repre- | ly have been quick to recognize the opportunity to boost for the old served, this is the first conspicuous home town sheet-anchor by which all other home town institutions are kept in a firm and safe position. It is entirely fitting that the local publisher boost his game and that of his fellow-publishers by reminding his readers what the home town paper does and always has done for its town. It is no more than right, and, besides, there is no one else to do it. The newspaper boosts other mericalls the roll for the first time in the torious institutions of the town, and as it comes within that classification, it is justly entitled to be eulogized and popularized just as well as they. Before the week comes-November 7 to 12th.-it will likely be heard of throughout this whole country. It is something to "boost" earnestly and constantly .- The Publishers Auxiliary.

Unemployment and Its Causes.

The daily newspapers are already sounding the warning of the hardships ahead next winter unless the unemployment situation is greatly improved. Yet some of these same papers advocate Free-Trade. The warning is rightly given. The menace of unemployment is to the nation what disease is to the human system. No matter how strong the body is, unless the disease is checked in time, it will claim its victim. So with the nation. Unemployment is an economical disease, a cancer in the political body which, if left unchecked, will eat into the very vitals of our national body. Whereever its sting has been felt there has been hardship and discontent. And what are its causes? Let us take them in sequence.

Unemployment is caused by lack of demand for labor. Lack of demand for labor is caused by curtailment of domestic industries is caused by lack of demand for the products of those industries. When the products of domestic industries are not in demand, there must be substitutes that are being used in their stead. These substitutes are the products of the cheap, ill-paid and ill-fed labor of foreign countries. They are able to replace domestic products in our own markets because of that very cheapness in their manufacture.

If the American manufacturer and producer were to ask American labor to work for the same wages and under the same conditions as the foreign laborer, there would be howls of disapproval on all sides. Yet the advocates of Free-Trade expect our industries to compete with foreign industry. Without some kind of an equalizing process this is impossible. It is a fact that those behind the Free-Trade movement are principally international bankers and traders who put the dollar sign above the national emblem. They want the ports and markets of America open to the dumping of foreign products because their money is invested in foreign securities and industries. They have no thought for America or the success of its industries. The dollar sign is their emblem, and "Cheap Labor" their slogan. They are opposed to a Protective Taric because it aims to equalize the opportunities of foreign competition by levying a duty on imported competitive products sufficient to make up for the difference in cost of production here and abroad. They realize that any law that has for its aim the uplift of labor and industry here will detract from the profits they derive from the cheapness of foreign labor. They urge as an argument against a Protective Tariff the old bugaboo, "Retaliation"-"We cannot sell if we do not buy." But we are not refusing to buy. We are not barring any imports. We welcome

The Out of Work Question.

It would be both untrue and unjust to say that this is generally true of the jobless; but we venture to say that if the example of the young man who took work in a boiler shop, rather than loaf, was followed more generally, workers would thereby greatly help the whole industrial system of the country to get on its feet, and eventually help themselves into a choice of better jobs later.

News and Crimes.

Criminal cases, or scandal, are not necessarily legitimate news of the day. It is not necessary, nor is it decent, to advertise everything of a nauseous character that happens, merely for the sake of satisfying the depraved tastes of those who like such stuff.

Before Judge Latshaw, in Kansas City, last Saturday, R. E. Stout, managing editor of the Kansas City Star, gave this expert testimony:

"When a scandal-and the Arbuckle case certainly is a scandal-reaches the public through the courts in a trial for murder, the newspaper justified in giving its readers the news, carefully and decently writ-ten. When a scandal does not come into contact with the law and the publication would not only injure the persons involved and furnish lascivibe women members and that there are many women who are fully qualified for membership .-- Phila. imports from any nation, provided their importation does not tend to undermine our domestic industries in those same products, and we do not expect other nations to buy our products if doing so will undermine their industries. No nation can take offense at such a stand.

The flooding of our markets with cheap foreign products has become a serious menace. The hardware jobbers of the south and east are hard hit because of their inability to move their stocks of domestic merchandise. The flood of foreign cutlery and hardware has curtailed the demand for the domestic products to such an extent that many of them are undergoing financial difficulties. While this condition exists, the jobbers do not and cannot buy, and their inability to buy makes it impossible for the manufacturers and producers to sell. This curtailment of sales makes it necessary for the manufacturers and producers to curtail their output, and consequently reduce their labor forces. Result-unemployment, hard times, discontent, suffering.

There must be co-operation of the consumer with the producer. Without this, there cannot be a proper economic equilibrium. With a proper Protective Tariff, we have nothing to fear from unemployment this coming winter, for with such a Tariff will come the rehabiliation of American industry and the abolition of bread lines and free employment bureaus. They will then not be necessary .-American Economist.

Future of Brazil.

Brazil, which is almost wholly in the tropics, has the opportunity to upset the belief that no people can reach the very highest civilization in a tropical climate. The census, just completed, credits Brazil with 30,500,000 people, which makes it the second American country in point of population. Some modern men of science maintain that when means have been found to utilize the heat of the sun as mechanical energy the tropics will become centers of production and therefore of civilization. If that should be true, what country could match Brazil, with its great resources of minerals, timber and land, and its great navigable rivers?

EFFICIENT FLUORID

Recently Discovered Insecticide for Fowls Is Cheaply and Quickly Applied.

(Prepared by the United States Depart-ment of Agriculture.)

Nothing has given so much satisfaction in getting rid of chicken lice as sodium fluorid, used by poultry specialists in the United States Department of Agriculture. It kills adults and young lice, including the young which emerge from eggs present at the time of treatment.

Sodium fluorid can be obtained in two forms known as commercial, and as chemically pure. Both of these are in the dry state, the first being a dry powder and the second in small crystals, somewhat lumpy. While the chemically pure material is effective, It is not so easily applied by the dusting method as the more finely powdered commercial form, and furthermore, it costs more. The commercial grade should contain 90 to 98 per cent sodium fluorid.

This material is the sodium salt of the chemical element known as fluorin, and hence is a compound very similar to ordinary table salt, which is known chemically as sodium chlorid. In asking for sodium fluorid, therefore, it is important that the name, "fluorid," be carefully stated to the druggist.

If the proper methods are followed emarkable control is obtained. One thorough application of sodium fluorid to all fowls will destroy completely all the lice present. It is essential, however, to see that treatment is thorough, and that every fowl is treated. It may be applied in two forms -as a dry dust and as a dip. In the dust form the action of sodium fluorid is comparatively slow; hence, if examned the next day after treating, or even two or three days later, a few lice may be found, but the material persists, and after four or five days all lice disappear. It kills, too, all lice emerging from eggs on the feathers. For best results small amounts of the material should be placed on different parts of the infested fowls.

Specialists have found what they call the "pinch method" to be entirely effective against lice, and to have the advantage of economy of time and material. The material is placed in an open vessel on a table, the fowl is held by the wings or legs in one hand, while with the other hand a small pinch of chemical is placed among the feathers next to the skin in this way: One pinch on the head, one on the neck, two on the back, one on the breast, one below the vent, one on the tail, one on either thigh, and one scattered on the underside of each wing spread. Each pinch can be distributed somewhat by pushing the

EGGS FROM BACK YARD FLOCK

Owner Should Be Satisfied With No Less Than Ten Dozen Eggs Per Hen, Say Experts.

(Prepared by the United States Depart-ment of Agriculture.)

The average novice can reasonably expect to get an average of at least ten dozen eggs per hen a year from his small flock in the back yard, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. On the basis of two hens to each member of the family this will give 20 dozen eggs a year to each person, which amount is about half way between the general average of farm and city consumption. No back-yard poultry keeper should be satisfied with less than this. He should try, however, to get as much more as possible.

To provide an egg a day for each person two hens would have to lay 183 eggs each a year. This is by no means an impossible average for small flocks. It is perhaps not too much to say that in case, where the person attending the flock is in a position to look after the wants of the birds three or more times a day an average of better than thirteen dozen eggs per hen can be secured if the hens are mature and in good condition at the start, and have the vitality to carry them through a year of heavy laying.

For the farm the average of 100 eggs per hen is advised as the lowest that should be accepted as satisfactory, while for the back yard 120 is insisted upon as the lowest average, although in general the conditions in back yards are less favorable to poultry keeping than on farms.

WHY CULLING IS PROFITABLE

Unculled Flock of 992 Hens Laid 3,576 Eggs in Week and 3,520 With 79 Taken Out.

An unculled flock of 992 hens laid 3,576 eggs in the week before being culled. Seventy-nine weak layers were cast out. The culled flock of 913 came right back the next week with a record of 3,520 eggs, while the 79 cull living under precisely similar conditions, and doing their very best, were laying only 85 eggs. The market value of the eggs layed by the culls was around $3.50. The cost of feed alone for them at a cent a day for each hen was $5.53 for the week. Figures like these, say the poultry specialists at the university farm, show the importance of keeping only the best layers. Lessons driven home in the farm bureau's and extension division's campaign for frequent culling of flocks should put thousands of dollars in the pockets of poultry raisers.

The More Annoying and Common Motor Troubles are Avoidable

F your motor overheats fre-I quently, misses, gives off vile-smelling exhaust fumes, requires frequent carburetor adjustments, carbonizes quickly at valve seats and spark plugs, it is probable that impure gasoline is the cause.

Have you ever really considered the reason for using a certain type of gasoline in your motor-or do you simply go to a dealer and ask for "Gas"?

The improved "Standard" Motor Gasoline has certain definite advantages that make it the superior of any other. These improvements were made possible principally by the long experience of our refining experts and our access to practically every needed source and grade of crude petroleum.

It is for these reasons that we are able to produce consistently a well-balanced gasoline -gasoline that is not lacking in any essential factor. It insures a maximum of motor efficiency, cleanliness of combustion, smooth, strong pulling power and long mileage, because it is the well-balanced, all-'round fuel.

"Standard" Motor Gasoline is the best you can buy-and it costs no more. Now obtainable wherever you motor.

thumb and fingers among the feathers as the material is released. It is advisable when dusting to hold the chickens over a large shallow pan, as in this way the amount of material ordinarily lost is recovered.

The material may be applied with a shaker, but this method has disadvantages when compared with the pinch method. The material is shaken into the feathers with one hand while the feathers are opened with the other. A second person is needed to hold and turn the fowl. In this method the amount of sodium fluorid used may be reduced by adding some finely powdered material such as road dust or flour. Fowls should be turned into the open as fast as dusted to prevent possible injury from breathing the dust. For young chickens, young turkeys, and indeed all newly hatched fowls the dusting method is recommended rather than dipping. This applies also to sick fowls.

The common objections to dipping poultry to rid them of lice have been overcome by the specialists by using the sodium fluerid solution. In general the dipping method is applied to the South and to summer treatments in the North. A rather warm, sunny day is preferred so fowls will dry quickly. Windy weather should be

GEESE ARE QUITE PECULIAR

Different From Other Fowls as They Must Be Mated Previous to Breeding Season.

Geese are peculiar animals. They ought to be mated several months prior to the breeding season to obtain the best results; therefore breeding stock should be bought in the fall, and all changes in matings made then. Matings are not changed from year to year unless results are unsatisfactory. And this is the peculiar feature of it. If the matings are changed, it is necessary, usually, to keep the previously mated geese so far apart they cannot hear each other.

Keep lime always in reach, plenty of gravel or grit and a good dry dust bath for the fowls.

Give the growing stock all they want to eat. They won't pay unless they grow, and they can't grow unless well fed.

Separate the males and females. Both will stand the hot summer weather better if separated, and the eggs will also keep better. * * *

* * *

Hens need fresh water as much as do horses. During these hot summer days they will suffer greatly unless they have constant access to it.

The farmer who fails to save some of his choicest second-growth clover for the hens during the winter will miss one of the best egg-producing feeds we have.

O God, what a weight of sorrow Must we, the lonely ones, bear-The silent room, the empty bed, And the lonely, vacant chair

Tenderly we nursed and cared for him, Trying in vain to restore his health, Hour by hour we saw him fade, And slowly sink away; Yet in our hearts we often prayed That he might longer stay.

How long he struggled against disease How long he lingered, racked with pain and suffering hard to bear. Through suffering be breathed not a mur-mur For the comforter stood by his side, And said fear not I am with thee, With me thou shalt ever abide.

By his wife and daughter. NELLIE and MAUDE MOSER. - × In Memory of my dear husband, HOWARD A. FROCK, who died three years ago, Oct. 6, 1918.

Days of love forever ended, Past and vanished from my sight; Nothing left but desolation, Turning midday into night.

I miss his kind and loving voice; I miss his thoughtful care; My life is sad and dreary now. Because he is not here.

He left a memory fair and sweet; It's fragrance can never die; His life was short, but still complete, When God called him on high. HIS WIFE.

The annual fall outing of the college was held on the afternoon of October 4, in Hibbert's meadow near town. Almost all of the students and a number of the professors with members of their families partici-pated. After the hike to the grounds contests were staged on the green. A shoe race, bag race, ball throwing were some of the games, the winners of which were awarded prizes. The students were divided into groups bearing the names of well known colleges, of which Johns Hopkins won first place. Supper was served on the grounds ,and the only thing to mar the day's fun was a shower which abruptly terminated the sports and caused all to make a hasty retreat to town.

The college quartet sang several selections at the rally service in the Methodist Church, of New Windsor, last Sunday evening. An address

Silk Stockings Condemmed

While fashion decrees the flimsiest of silk hosiery, prosaic medical science recommends the move substantial and homely cotton variety from a standpoint of health. That's what Dr. Harry N. Robinson, skin specialists, in charge of this depart-ment at the University Hospital, avers.

Dr. Robinson declared that he heartily recommended the thick cot-ton stocking for women in spite of the whims of vogue.

"Since the short-skirts era, when it was quite the thing to display shapely calves encased in the dainti-est of silk hosiery, the homely rib-bed cotton stocking had fallen altogether into disrepute," he explained. 'Members of the fair sex whose hos iery was frequently considered the most distinctive part of their attire insisted on the lace clock effect and other designs that were often dangerous from the defective dyes which they contained."

Dr. Robinson declared that several cases have been known of legs becoming ungraceful after silk stockings had been worn, due to dye infections.

"Most of the brilliantly colored hose that has recently been adopted is not as reliable as the old standard conservative colors," Dr. Robinson continued. "There has been so much experimenting with the dyes that the conventional black and white are by far the safer for general wear." Dr. Robinson declared that he considered the cotton stocking, which was accepted as a stock utility for many preceding generations, should be highly recommended from every standpoint.

"The cotton hose is sensible above all and retains the warmth of the leg at the proper degree in cold weather. It should be worn continuously throughout the day to pre

Great Body of Americans Need Education Concerning Proper Usage of Public Places.

The mental make-up of men and women who scatter papers along the highroads, who trample down growing crops, who break down farmers' fences, and who are responsible for surrounding our woodland streams with a beadwork of tomato cans is quite easy to understand. Such people are merely primitive individualists. They have not yet advanced in civilization to a point where they can visualize the property rights of others.

There is another group of wayfarers which, though allied closely to the first, we both dislike and cannot understand. This is the group which not only scatters refuse over private lands, but also leaves a trail, which he who runs may read, over the land belonging to cities, states and the nation. A public park, whether it be but a triangle of grass at the intersection of three village streets, or a rolling meadow land set down in the heart of a great city, or a forest reserve of a hundred thousand acres of the national domain, is property to which each and every one of us has an Inalienable right. To scatter trash over a bit of green in the heart of a city or to slash off the top of a pine tree in a national park is to damage part of the common land to which every citizen is heir.

We can understand how a man can disregard the rights of a neighbor, but it is not so easy to understand how a man can destroy the beauty of land which is his own and his children's. If we are to continue to build parks in our cities and set aside wildernesses for our recreation, we must also build up, in the mind and heart of every citizen, a spirit of jealousy for the beauty of these green

Perhaps the present generation of Americans is already past the cure, but there is another generation of citizens in the making, and, if we are wise, we will do for them what the forestry association has been doing in the city of Washington. If we catch Young America young enough, our parks of tomorrow may be as pop bottleless as the beech-shaded of Hampstead heath .-- The Outlook.

RUTHLESS WORK OF HUNTERS MENUS OF TOWN AND FARM

Lovers of Wild Life Aroused Over the Wholesale Slaughter of Large Antelope Herd.

Indignation has been aroused among those interested in the conservation of wild animals, over the slaughter by hunters of at least half the antelope in a large herd that makes its home in the open country northwest of Swift Current, Saskatchewan.

The herd lived unmolested for years and at its maximum numbered 300 animals. Hunters began to make clandestine raids on the herd last fall and kept up their depredations during the winter. At the opening of spring not more than 150 antelope were left.

Prong-horn antelope, once rivals of the bison in number on the plains of North America, have been almost exterminated. This is one of the few wild herds remaining on the continent. When the Hudson's Bay company was the sovereign power on the prairies the land which is now rapidly selling to farm settlers swarmed with antelope. Now only a few hundreds are left of the hosts.

The antelope of the United States have shared the fate of those of Canada. Except for a few fugitive bands in desert wastes all the wild antelope have disappeared. The greatest herd left on the continent is in Yellowstone park under government protection. Small herds also are flourishing in government parks in Montana and Oklahoma. Antelope are prolific and multiply rapidly under favorable conditions.

The Canadian government has been notified of the decimation of the Swift Current herd by hunters and asked to take immediate steps to save the antelope from extermination.

INSIST ON CLOSED WINDOWS

Antipathy of Europeans to Anything Like Fresh Air Strikes Americans as Astonishing.

The most difficult thing for an American traveling in Europe, outside of England, is to have a window opened in the dining room of a hotel or on a train. I saw an aged French baron at Mentone enter the dining room of a hotel with two valets and a tame waiter who was engaged specially to keep out the slightest draught.

It is pretty warm in the south of France in May and the sun was striking on the glass sides of the dining room, but the baron felt a chill. The waiter went to each window and plugged up imaginary crevices with serviettes and a mallet, but still his patron called out at intervals: "Il y a un courant d'air." The two valets at his side fed him with the choicest tidbits from the table, but he was not satisfied. Just before I left the energetic waiter found a keyhole which had not been used for a quarter of a century and plugged it up.

When I was at the Krupp factory in Essen in May, the chief engineer took me from one building to another in a fine limousine car belonging to one The Society for Electrical Develop- of the directors. It was a very hot ment, dissatisfied with a recent re-day and I suggested that we might have a window opened. The chief engineer tried them all without success, and then spoke to the chauffeur. He said they had never been opened since the car came from the factory. The director had only had it two years, he added .- New York Times.

EACH HAS PLACE IN LODGE

Statistics Supplied by Department of Agriculture Reveal Rural Conditions Notably Satisfactory.

"How are the folks on the farm faring?" is a question that is answered with a "Very well, thank you," by the Department of Agriculture at Washington. Looking into the average American farm method of living, the department finds that the farmers are as generously supplied with meat as any other class of people, observes Gus Karger in the Cincinnati Times-Star. Strangely enough, they don't use eggs as abundantly as the folks elsewhere, but they use more milk, even where there are fewer than the average number of children.

Except in Southern states, where "quick" breads are often preferred, wheat bread is the staple. A relatively large proportion of starchy vegetables is consumed and a relatively small quantity of the green and succulent kinds, in spite of the fact that farm families have the best opportunities for growing vegetables at home. The studies of the home economics division of the Department of Agriculture "bear out the general impression," the report states, that on the average the farmers' families have an abundant diet, with enough different kinds of food to insure good health. Whether the food is well cooked and attractively served the studies do not show. The fact that almost twice as much cooking fat was used by the farm families as by the general average indicates that farm housewives are inclined to cook too many foods by frying. The only recommendation is that it would be well for the farmers to use more eggs, more coarse cereals, and a greater variety of vegetables and fruits, especially more green vegetables.

FINEST TRAINING FOR YOUTH Business Man Tells Why He Would

Have His Son Get Full Newspaper Experience.

"Journalism teaches that results alone count, that excuses and equivocations are failures," writes Henry Scott, vice president of a paper com-"There is a discipline in big pany. newspaper offices that does not exist in the average business, and that discipline is based on the motto, 'No excuses.' It is accepted in ordinary business that when a man is told to do something he usually expects detailed instructions. 'Where do I go, what do I do, how do I do it, what do I ask, and what will I do then,' are the questions that show their utter helplessness and lack of action.

"On the other hand a reporter gets this training as no one else does. He learns to lean on his own initiative. He gets an assignment, plans his campaign and then carries it out without asking any questions. When an obstacle comes up in the path of the average young man he stops and yells for help. But a newspaper man learns to either go through it, knock it down or skim around it in a hurry. He has learned that excuses can't be cashed at the bank.

According to Custom, the Occupants of Indian Tepee Have Their Alloted Space.

As there are six different ways of building camp fires, it should be explained that my friends built theirs according to the Ojibway custom; that is, in the so-called "lodge fashion," by placing the sticks upright, leaning them together, and crossing them over one another in the manner of lodge poles. When the fire was lighted, the windshields formed a perfect draft to carry the smoke up through the permanently open flue in the apex of the structure, and one soon realized that of all tents or dwellings, no healthier abode was ever contrived by man. Indeed, if the stupid, meddlesome agents of civilization had been wise enough to have left the Indians in their tepees, instead of forcing them to live in houses-the ventilation of which was never understood-they would have been spared at least one of civilization's diseasestuberculosis-and many more tribesmen would have been alive today.

On entering an Indian tepee one usually finds the first space on the right of the doorway occupied by the woodpile; the next by the wife; the third, by the baby, and the fourth by the husband. Opposite these, on the other side of the fire, the older children are ranged. To the visitor is allotted the warmest place in the lodge, the place of honor, farthest from and directly opposite the doorway. When the dogs are allowed in the tepee, they know their place to be the first space on the left, between the entrance and the children.-Arthur Heming in World's Work.

Reginald Trautschold, writer of the report, remarks that "a large proportion of electric fires, if not the majority, are caused by careless disregard of quite caused by careless the equite obviously necessary precautions, such as leaving an electric flattron with the current turned on upon an inflammable ironing-board." Though fires resulting from such causes usually cause only trifling damage, it is easy to see how they may result in very serious conflagrations.

The House and its Site. Most houses should appear to have some connection with the surrounding landscape and should be built of some suitable material. Stone, brick, marble or wood may each be inappropriate to some surroundings. Have you not seen, perhaps, a white marble house situated where a brown wooden one should be built? Or white garden furniture placed on a lawn where the house was finished in tones of brown? These scattered white spots produce a very unpleasant sensation. Geography plays an important part in the color and material of a house.

Flats Supplanting Dwellings. The single dwelling with a front and back yard is giving way, even in the smaller cities of the United States, to the modern apartment house, according to a report of 1920 building operations issued by the United States hamber of commerce. The proportion of multi-family dwellings was largest in the small citles.

Misunderstood the Doctor.

Lawrence, age ten, had been slightly ailing for a few days, but not ill enough to affect his appetite seriously.

In his mother's absence, the grandmother had been carefully dieting him, much to his annoyance. Finally, in desperation, Lawrence appealed to the family physician for a list of foods he might safely eat. The physician named a long list of light foods, and Lawrence's joy was unbounded. However, the fates were against him and a "horrible conspiracy" was revealed at the next meal, when he learned that the doctor meant that not all of the list, but only a few articles from the list were to be eaten at one meal. He had anticipated a meal consisting of each and everything the doctor had named.

Iowa Community Brought Ingenuity to Bear to Secure Supply of Suitable Drinking Water.

A rural school in Iowa, situated in a locality where suitable water for drinking purposes is to be procured only by driving a well to a considerable depth, met the situation by conserving the wash from the roof of the schoolLouse, passing it through a filter and holding it for use in a brick, underground tank provided with a tight curb. The filter is filled with layers of charcoal, sand, and screened gravel of small size which have been placed in the container in the order named. The water which comes from this "well" is highly colored but it is exceedingly cold and palatable. From a sanitary standpoint it is perfectly healthful. Before this means of procuring water for drinking purposes was installed the school children either went without water or were compelled to bring it a considerable distance.-Utica Globe.

COMPARES WELL WITH CITY

Average American Small Town, in Fact, Is Definitely More Pleasurable Abiding Place.

The churches in nearly every small town are centers of wholesome activ-Ity, nor is society in any of them like Insipid gaucherie pictured to us as typical in an imaginary town of a "best seller." Small talk may predominate at any gathering, but that is true in the city, and there may be a lack of the super-refinements of manner and of dress, but whether that is to the credit or the discredit of the small town is at least debatable. As for brains and enterprise and energy, why, the small town in America is their breeding ground. It is from the small towns and the farms that the cities of America draw their vitality. How many of the men and women whose names are found in "Who's Who in America" are or were small-town people? Most of them. And those who left the small town for the city did so, as a rule, not because there was lack of beauty, of refinement or of taste at home, but because they sought larger opportunity. The smali town is not gross, nor unlovely. It, speaking collectively, is the cherished shiding place of millions of Americans who compare in every worthy attribute with the inhabitants of cities. and whose faults and virtues are inherently the faults and virtues of America itself .-- Exchange.

FACTS OF HISTORIC INTEREST Revealed by Extensive Excavations

on Sites of Revolutionary Camps on the Hudson Heights.

Three years of excavating on sites of Revolutionary camps in the Hudson highlands, near West Point, has enabled a commission of the New York Historical society to establish interesting historical facts that have long been in dispute.

The chief source of information has been refuse heaps of the armed camps of Washington, and many facts have been learned merely from examining the buttons in the old dumps. Examination of cooking utensils and cutlery, broken pottery and other imperishable articles has aided the commission. The buttons, still showing the insignia after a century and a half, show that ten Massachusetts regiments, five from Connecticut and one from Rhode Island, occupied the main fortress in the highlands. Buttons worn in one camp by Connecticut soldiers bore an imprint in honor of the birth of the French dauphin, showing that the soldiers were in camp after 1781.

Similar investigation on the sites of British camps show their troops lived in much more luxury than the men who won independence for America. Silver buckles, china, and much broken glass from rum containers tell the story of the invaders' rations. The Revolutionary troops used hand-forged forks, pewter spoons, and left no broken glass.

The excavations have also revealed the extent of certain fortifications, and forts have been discovered of which there was no record

THIS RIDE A REAL THRILLER

Ascent by Elevator to Summit of Alpine Peak Worth Going Long Journey to Take.

For years one of the most thrilling incidents of a visit to the Alps has been the ascent of the Jungfrau on the cog-rail road that starts from Kleine Scheidegg, at an elevation of 6,711 feet and climbs the mountainside at the startling grade of 25 per cent, or an angle of about 22 degrees, till it reaches Jungfraujoch, at an elevation of 11,339 feet.

In an illustrated article in Populas Mechanics Magazine is told how it is now proposed to add to this wonderful experience in mountain climbing a still further thrill, by comparison with which the former will appear quite insipid. From the present end of the track the mountain soars another 2,206 feet to the summit at an elevation of 13,547 feet. By means of excavations and tunnels the track will be extended until it reaches a spot in the center of the conical summit directly below its highest point. From the end of this tunnel a shaft will be bored vertically to the summit itself, and in this shaft passenger elevators will be installed, so that Alpine mountaineers will end their long thrilling railroad climb with an elevator trip like an exaggerated ride to the top of the Woolworth building in New York city. The climax will find them landed at the extreme summit of one of the highest peaks in

HOW =ANIMALS ARE DIRECTED IN THE MOVING PICTURES. -Patience and subterfuge are the chief essentials in directing animals for the movies, according to Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars, curator of reptiles of the Bronx zoological park in New York. "Violence is never necessary, and therefore inexcusable." he says. "You can get any effect you want by simple trickery." Doctor Ditmars, in co-operation with Charles Urban, movie producer, is now filming the Fables of La Fontaine-those delightful old animal stories which subtly illustrate human frailties -using the animals of the zoo as actors. To make the fables effective, the animals must portray humor and tragedy, pleasure and anger, and various other emotions quite as convincingly as human screen stars. And they do.

"Suppose we want to photograph a scene which shows the elephant presiding over a meeting of the other animals," said Doctor Ditmars. "According to the scenario, the elephant asks the monkey what fault he has to find with himself, and the monkey can find none. 'I can swing from high limbs,' he boasts, 'and run fast; but I feel sorry for the bear. He is big and clumsy and very slow, I'm told.' The elephant then turns to the bear and asks him what complaint he has to make concerning himself. The bear does not share the monkey's view. He is strong and can crush his enemies beneath his giant paws, and he gets a splendid rest cure every winter: but there is the poor little fox. He feels sorry for him. The fox, however, feels sorry for one of his neighbors, and so it goes on clear around the circle of animals, illustrating the human tendency to excuse one's own faults while decrying the sins of one's neighbors.

"Finally, the elephant becomes disgusted. He must register great anger and contempt, turning wrathfully from one side of the animal group to the other. We got that by placing a man the elephant liked on one side of him and another whom he hated on the other. It was as simple as that.

"We get a bear to stand on his hind legs by placing on a roof or ledge above him (out of the camera's view, of course) a man who holds an apple in his hand. Food is the great bait. You can always get a satisfactory response with it. Really, it is a case of directing the food and letting the animal follow his natural bent."

WHY _____ Physical Exercise Is Among the Necessities.

Physical exercise is necessary. It is as important as food, fresh air and sleep; without it health is impossible. By "exercise" we mean making movements other than the purposeful movements of ordinary life. Brushing the hair, raising food to the mouth, getting up and sitting down are done for a purpose and are of course exercise of a sort, but we do not do them with the idea of developing our muscles, expanding our chests, or quickening our circulations.

The impulse to take exercise is instinctive in the young. During childhood it finds expression in playing and romping; during youth and early adult life, in sports and athletic contests. It is not necessary to urge young people to take that kind of exercise; rather, it is necessary to utter a word of warning against excess. The young man of the present day is in greater danger of overtaxing his heart and other organs by excess in athletics than he is of letting them spoil for want of sufficient exercise. It is the business man or the professional man who has passed his fortieth birthday that needs exercise and that usually thinks he is too busy to take it.

A favorite argument of the brain worker who is advised to walk, or to play golf, or to take some other form of regular exercise, is that he has exhausted his vitality by brain work. and that the use of his muscles beyond the absolute needs of daily life would exhaust still further his life forces.

That is not so, for the brain is fatigued only because it is fed with blood that circulates sluggishly and that is already so loaded with toxins that it cannot take away those that result from intellectual work. A brisk walk would fill the brain worker's lungs with air, quicken his circulation, oxygenate his blood and unload it of its toxins, squeeze the stagnant lymph out of his muscles, empty his liver of its poisons and quicken all his excretory functions. Then his brain would be bathed with fresh, pure blood, and the "cobwebs" would be washed away. -Youth's Companion.

BACK TO THE LAND MOVEMENT

Why the Checking of the March to the Cities Is Probably Only Temporary.

The tide of population which has been rushing from the country to the city has been temporarily checked; in fact it is receding in the other direc tion at the present time. Farmers and farm laborers, lured to town by inflated wartime wages, are returning to their rural haunts, now that their source of high living has gone. With them are going unemployed city laborers, largely foreigners, and some city business men who have heard the siren call of the countryside.

This movement, which started with the demobilization of our troops, and was accelerated by the shutting down of "war babies" has received added impetus from the general business If you're anxious to add to your SAVINGS, Just live on a little bit less. ### City Planning.

Primarily, city planning deals with real estate, with the streets which the people own, and with the ground on which they have erected their homes and places of business. We must realize that city real estate carries with it obligations as well as benefits. When citizens buy property they buy more than just so many feet of ground. They buy location, transportation, gas, electric light service, neighbors, good streets, proximity to parks or boulevards.

City planning is merely a co-ordination and conservation of these different elements which make up the value of property thus purchased by citizens contemplating residence in a given locality. A plan for a city, therefore, is quite like a plan for a residence. The latter has merely to do with an individual home, the former with a larger home-the city .--Exchange.

Towns With Zoning Regulations. Sixty-seven cities of this country are reported to have some kind of zoning regulations now in effect, and 20 cities have complete comprehensive zone ordinances limiting the use of property, heights of buildings and area of lot that may be covered in every block within the city limits. Among cities adopting zoning during the last year are Milwaukee, Berkeley, Washington, D. C., Omaha, East Orange, Yonkers, Brockton, East Cleveland and a number of smaller cities.

The hot gases are caused to traverse a specially constructed oven, in which the wood is suitably arranged, by which means the temperature of the wood is raised to about 500 degrees, which carbonizes without burning or igniting it. Many ovens of this type were installed during the war, in Algeria and Tunis, with the object of furnishing a substitute for anthracite coal, which was very scarce and dear, for use in enriching low-grade gas for motor purposes .-- Popular Mechanics Magazine.

"Good Neighbors."

Mrs., Merriweather and her four small children lived in a little house in -- street, where the neighbors were exceedingly friendly over the back fence, and made many back-door calls. Mrs. M. began to worry about the children and their surroundings as they grew older, and moved to another part of the town. Shortly after moving away Geraldine met one of the old neighbors who inquired as to how she liked her new home and the neighbors. Geraldine, being only seven and honest, replied:

"We like our new home all right, but we haven't any good neighbors now-they all stay home and mind their own business."-Indianapolis News.

Daniel Boone's Mark.

That Daniel Boone, famed mentucky hunter, made an expedition into Wayne and Lincoln county during his career is the belief of a party of lumberjacks who recently discovered the name "D. Boone" chiseled in a large rock at the mouth of a cave on Pond Fork of Four Mile creek, Lincoln county, near the Wayne line. The forms of the letters are said to correspond with the name of Boone which is found carved in the rocks of Kentucky. The rock bearing the name in Lincoln county is located in a remote and wild section.-Huntington (W. Va.) Advertiser.

Why "Sentence Hymns."

From a practice of earlier days when hymn books were scarce. In order that all the congregation might be able to join in the singing, the pastor would read aloud the first two lines, which were then sung, and the reading and singing would continue alternately to the end of the hymn. This practice is still continued in some of the rural churches of the South.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC -Experience in Ephesus. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC -Planing the Confer of Pa--Planting the Gospel in a Center of Pa-ganism,

I. John's Disciples Become Christians (vv. 1-7).

These twelve disciples had only been taught the baptism of repentance as a preparation for the kingdom of God. Paul taught them to believe in Christ, that is, to receive Him as the One who had on the cross provided redemption for them.

II. Paul Preaching in Ephesus (vv. 8-10).

1. In the Jewish synagogue (v. 8). His message is characterized by: (1) boldness. He realized that God had sent Him and that His authority was back of Him. (2) Reason. He reasoned with them. God's message is never sentimental nor arbitrary, but in accord with the highest reason. (3) Persuasion. It is not enough to come boldly with a reasonable message; it must be accompanied by persuasion. (4) Concerning the kingdom of God. He did not discourse on current events, literature, or philosophy, but upon the message of salvation through Christ.

ASSAS

2. In the schoolhouse of Tyrannus (vv. 9, 10). Paul's earnest preach-ing only hardened the Jews. When the they came out and spoke openly against this way of salvation in Christ, Paul separated the disciples house of Tyrannus.

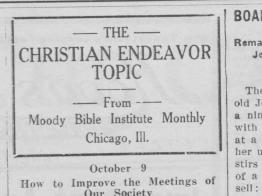

III. God Working Miracles by Paul (vv. 11-16).

So wonderfully did he manifest His power that handkerchiefs and aprons brought from Paul's body healed the sick and cast out evil spirits from those whose lives had been made wretched by them.

IV. A Glorious Awakening (vv. 17-41).

1. Fear fell upon all (v. 17). News of the casting out of these evil spirits created impressions favorable to Christianity.

2. It brought to the front those who Professed faith in Christ while not living right lives (v. 18). They believed, but had not broken from sin. 3. Gave up the practice of black arts (v. 19). This means forms of jugglery by use of charms and magiwords. All such are in opposition to the will of God; therefore no one can have fellowship with God and practice them. They proved the genuineness of their actions by publicly burning their books. Though this was an expensive thing-valued at about $12,500—they did not try to sell the books and get their money back. When you find you have been in a wrong business, make a clean sweep of things; burn up your books on Shist Spiritualism, Christian Science, etc.; empty your whisky and beer into the wer, and have a tobacco party similar to the Boston tea party. 4. Uproar of the Silversmiths at Ephesus (vv. 23-41). (1) The occa-sion (1) The pow-er of the gospel in destroying the infame. infamous business of Demetrius and his fellows. It was clear to them that idolatry was tottering before the power of the gospel. They were not interested particularly in the matter from a religious standpoint, but because it was undermining the principal business of the city. (2) The method (vv. 25-29). Demetrius, a leading to vo. 25-29). leading business man, whose business was the stay of others of a similar nature, called a meeting and stated that much people had turned from idolatry and that the market for their wares was materially weakening. He appealed to his fellows (a) on the ground of business, saying "This, our craft, is in danger of being set at naught," (v. 27). (b) On the ground of religious prejudice. He said "The temple of the great goddess Diana should be despised" (v. 27). He became quite religious when he saw that his business was being interfered with. His speech gained his end; the whole crowd was enraged and yelled in unison, "Great is Diana of the Ephesians." The mob was quieted by the tact and good judgment of the

Our Society

Matthew 18:19, 20; John 4:23, 24 The Scripture verses given with this topic emphasize prayer and worship. Certainly these two factors en-ter into the success of the meetings ter into the success of the meetings of our society. Together with wit-nessing, or testimony, they may be regarded as the essentials. Any gathering of Christian people per-meated and dominated by the spirit of prayer and worship and witness-ing, brings blessing and uplift to those present. Ready assent will be given to the above assertion. The given to the above assertion. The problem before us is that of pro-duction. How shall we have such meetings? There is only one answer. The meeting collectively is what the members are individually. If God is real to the individual heart, the meeting will be reverent and worshipful. If the individual members pray in public, and if the lesson has been learned to "brighten the corner where you are," there will be testimonies to the grace of God and the triumphs of Christian experience. As a direct and specific answer to the question, "How to improve the meetings of our society," the follow-

(1) Be punctual. Carelessness at this point is a great detriment to the success of any meeting. The Prayer Meeting Committee should guard this point jealously. (2) Be prayerful. Come in the spirit of prayer. Guard against undue levity and lightness. While not sup pressing the natural spontaneity in friendly greetings, one must watch against that which may divert the heart from God and make prayer a matter of strain and unreality.

(3) Be pointed. This applies to participation in the meeting, whether in prayer, reading or testimony. Preparation will be necessary here. Think carefully concerning the topic. Meditate upon it. Meditation has been defined as attention with intention. Look back over your experience. Remember the encouraging from them and retired to the school- things, the help received in sermon or song or in Sunday School lesson, or conversation with others, and re-late them to the topic. Your testi-mony will then have both point and power.

(4) Be persistent. If you fail in our effort, do not be discouraged, or urnod aside. Be persistent and insistent in the power of faith, remem-bering that "practice makes perfect." By and by you will be giving a greator and ever greater measure of help, thereby constantly improving the meetings of your society.

Sait Makers of Bali.

"May the sea never lose its salt!" prays the Balinese, who likes his rice salted. (Bali is an island near Java, under Dutch protection.) On a wellleveled, sandy plot the salt makers work in the $un, scattering sea water from light bowls, skillfully fashioned from palm leaves. When the sun has absorbed the moisture, the laborers carefully skim off the surface sand, carry it to the thatched huts at the edge of the plot and put it into vats filled with water. After the sand has settled in the bottom of the vats, they draw off the brine into shallow vessels of coconut wood, which they set out in the sun. In a few hours nothing remains but pure salt. The salt gained through this primitive process is deemed very precious by the Balinese, who will sell his treasures for salt when money will not tempt him. But then money is of little value on Bali. High finance is unknown among the simple, agricultural people, and trade is still largely a matter of bar-

BOARDING WITH ONE'S WIFE

Remarkable Plan Adopted by Shrewd Jersey Man May Have Something to Recommend It.

The story of the seventy-five-yearold Jersey man who has just renewed a nine-year signed contract to board with his wife (her age is forty-five) at a fixed figure, and not to speak to her unless the house is burning down. stirs in old-timers' minds the refrain of a favorite song of Sol Smith Rus-

Oh, Ol'd like to know Who runs this show: Is it me or Flannigan, the lodger? But, really, there isn't any lodger in the Jersey case, nor any "starboarder," but the husband. The children are grown up. Three sons support the mother. If the aged father pays his board, he has no further responsibilities. And he has still a good job and is content. Also his wife is content.

Our reasonable guess it that she is a mighty good housekeeper, observes the Brooklyn Eagle. Nine years with no complaint possible, without contract-breaking, and a renewal at the end of the term is excellent evidence of that. There are no flies on her coffee and none in it. The steak is broiled and not fried. The bacon and chops are done to a turn. Even the hash must be eatable. Beds are properly aired and carefully made up. The boarder doesn't have to wait half an hour when he wants to take a bath. Hot water is available at all hours. Smoking in your room is permitted, probably encouraged.

Perhaps the habit of speaking to a wife, or having a wife speak to you has its disadvantages. It often develops acrimony, sometimes alimony. Every sociological experiment, such as the Jersey one, is entitled to be judged on its merits. The human race must live and learn by experimentation.

A discovery which, it is claimed, will form one of the fundamental sources for a history of the Roman empire under Augustus has been made recently by Doctor Oliverio, an Italian savant in Cyrene, the ancient Greek colony in Africa, founded in the Seventh century.

A Morning Post correspondent, writing from Cyrene, says that excavations at Bengasi-the ancient Berenice, which stood in the midst of the gardens of the Hesperides, near the mouth of the River Lethe-have resulted in the unearthing of a block of marble eight feet long, one face of which bears a flawless Greek inscription of over one hundred lines; the translation of a letter from Augustus on the government and administration of jus tice in Cydenaica, giving a wonderful insight into the financial and judicial conditions of the country at that time. Other interesting finds are a sanctuary dedicated to Eastern divinities, probably of the time of Julian the Apostate, with a remarkably well-preserved black marble statue of an Egyptian goddess. An extensive Ptolemaic cemetery also has been located. At Apollonia, a Christian basilica of the Fifth century is being excavated, and at Merdj, the ancient Barce, some Cufic inscriptions have been found which are held to be of great importance when the history of the Arab conquest comes to be written.

Australian Cattle Stations.

ter-Asia Magazine.

Afghan camels are practically the only means of transport in Central Australia. The North South railway runs at present from Port Augusta, near, Adelaide, to Oodnadatta, but beyond Oodnadatta the sandy nature of parts of the country makes it impossible to use motors or wagons. Central Australia is by no means a desert; it is a land of wonderful possibilities for raising horses and cattle. In many parts the vegetation is luxurious but the country is so thinly populated that enormous areas are owned by a few people. One man owns 4,000 square miles-more than half the area of Wales. When central Australia is opened up and irrigated it may well become one of the most prosperous parts of Australia.

Stretch Tired Muscles.

Here are a few suggestions for building up the nerves. Sleep always on a low pillow, drink fresh, pure, undiluted cod liver oil, eat eggs, cranberries, apples, maple sugar, onions, beans and celery. Sleep at least eight hours during the 24 and nine hours will be better.

If you are tired you can pull yourself out of that state. When tired and fatigued take a few minutes off and literally stretch out of tiredness and into a state of vigor and vitality. Lie flat on your back, slip your toes under the foot of the bed or any place where they may be held firm, and pull up as hard as you can without rising from that flat position. Do this several times and then, after a brief rest, repeat the treatment.

Fight Plant Diseases.

While continual effort is being made to introduce promising new plants into the United States, the various branches of the Department of Agriculture are striving to avoid making additions to the imported insects and plant diseases that are already costing millions of dollars yearly. Foreign countries have listed several thousand insects of troublesome kind, with many plant diseases that are not yet included among these immigrants. Besides special quarantines and plant inspections the further precaution is being taken of restricting the numbers of the plants introduced and growing for a considerable time in greenhouses or under conditions of isolation, to make sure that all pests have been removed. After it is made certain that the plants are thoroughly freed from insects and diseases, they are propagated more extensively, and are distributed in the usual way to growers for experiment.

Aid for Struggling Authors.

Here is an item from the New York Globe of interest to impecunious writers: "It is not generally known that the Authors' league has a fund for authors who are in distress. Recently the league learned that a young woman who had won considerable distinction and prominence as a writer had through a series of misfortunes and through illness been reduced to dire distress. A representative called to see her and found her on the verge of a physical and nervous collapse, due to actual starvation. Immediate means were supplied her, and in order to give her an opportunity to regain her health and to get her back to her work a substantial amount was raised among the members to carry her through this period of enforced inactivity.

how you'll take to a pipe—and P.A.!

Before you're a day older you want to let the idea slip under your hat that this is the open season to start something with a joy'us jimmy pipe-and some Prince Albert!

Me-o-my,

Because, a pipe packed with Prince Albert satisfies a man as he was never satisfied before—and keeps him satisfied! And, you can prove it! Why-P. A.'s force and fragrance and ______ its freedom from bite and parch (cut out by our exclusive patented process) are a revelation to the man who never could get acquainted with a pipe! P. A. has made a pipe a thing of joy to four men where one was smoked before!

Ever roll up a cigarette with Prince Albert? Man, man-but you've got a party coming your way! Talk about a cigarette smoke; we tell you it's a peach!

Prince Albert is sold in toppy red bags, tidy red tins, handsome pound and half pound tin humidors and inthe pound crystal glass humid or with sponge moistener top.

Taneytown Baseball Notes.

The home club won from Woodsboro, last Saturday by a score of 6 to 4 in a hard fought contest on the home ground. Both teams were somewhat padded up for the fray, and fortunately for Taneytown it clinched the game in the first inning before Crum, the Woodsboro pitcher, got to going right.

Bonsack pitched his usual good game for Taneytown, and struck out 10 men to his opponents four. Taneytown made 10 hits and Woodsboro 4. The game should have been 6 to 2 as two of the runs made by Woodsboro were unearned. Not many errors were made by either side, but the few cost runs. Bonsack gave 4 passes to first, that helped Woodsboro to its scores. The score by innings was as follows: Taneytown 5-0-0-0-1-0-0-x=6

0 - 0 - 0 - 2 - 0 - 0 - 0 - 2 - 0 = 4Woodsboro Some say the name of Woodsboro's pitcher, was not Crum, and that he was from New Jersey, specially imported for the occasion. Anway, our boys fortunately took his meas-ure in the first inning, even if they

Messrs David and Horace Null and Mrs. Sallie Thomas, of Cranberry Valley; Russell Walker and family, and Mr. Arter and family, of of Taneytown, spent Sunday with rying around $50,000 insurance on Mrs. Greeenberry Null.

The suggestion made in the Record, last week, that the planting and care of trees be regulated, favorably, has been received with general approval, so far as we have heard. Another article on the subject appears on first page of this issue.

(For the Record.) Those who visited Mrs. Sarah Keefer, were: Mr. and Mrs. Will Hossler, of Frederick Co.; Mrs. Mary Warner and daughter, Kate, of Greenville, Ohio, and Missouri Keefer, of York, Pa. Mrs. Hossler and Mrs. Warner are sisters of Mrs. Keefer.

(For The Record.) Those who spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hawk, at Kump, were: Harry Feeser and wife, and son, Harry; Theodore Feeser, of near Harney; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Feeser and Mrs. Laura Fair, of Taneytown; Herbert Bankard, Mrs. William A. Bankart, Catherine and Virginia Myers, of near Littlestown.

James W. LeGore was one of the many who attended the baseball game, last Saturday. He looks very well, considering his long illness, and goes about quite a lot in his car on fine days. He is being waited on by Wm. P. Mohler, a former resident of Taneytown, who also saw the Woodsboro boys, lose in a hard fought game.

The first "scrap" among the spectators at a ball game in Taneytown, this summer, was during the game last Saturday. Two of the "rooters," one from Woodsboro and the other from Ladiesburg, had a short setto. but aside from the excitement caused, no great damage was done. It is a matter of congratulation, likely tions.

their members. This insurance is claimed to be insurance at practical cost, there being no paid officers, as it is under the jurisdiction of the Supreme Lodge K. of P., at Indianapolis, Ind., and part of their duties is to supervise and manage the Insurance Department. Fraternal Insurance is what the young man of today should investigate, as it is unquestionably the cheapest insurance he can carry.
