OPINIONS ON THE BOND ISSUE.

These Oppose the Proposition on Widely Differing Grounds.

(The Record has not offered its columns for a discussion of the Bond issue proposition, but it recognizes the right of tax-payers to express their views, either for, or against, and gives space to the following articles. Should there be others, on either side of the question, we shall endeavor to find room for them, but must hereafter request that they be limited to not over 400 words.—Ed. Record)

I would like to have a few lines in your valuable paper on the bond issue. I am only a farmer, but I think I have a right to my views, as I have to pay taxes. I think the bond issue is a nuisance from start to finish. They have too many school buildings now, and besides they don't learn any-thing in them. If they would teach the children like they did 40 years ago; we learned to spell, and to read and write and cipher, and not a lot of other things that are not intended for children to learn. We have too many school-houses now, and not money enough in the treasury. Let them do without the school houses, and save the country from breaking up. The one-half of the farmers are broke up now, by high taxes, and as for the roads, the more money we pay the worse the roads are, and if we are not to have roads anyway, why pay high taxes? years ago our taxes were not half as high as they are today, when they made roads the old way, with men with shovels and the plow, and we had much better roads than we have

So, if they can't keep the roads on the money they get, let them go down? We had better drive through the mud than have our farms sold for

If it will cost $700,000 for the next 5 years to fix things up, it will cost eight or ten hundred thousand the next 5 years, and where is this country to get to; it is in debt now more than ever, and all to be paid with the taxes? There is no farmer who is in debt at all, who can help but break up, and the man who has his farm paid for will have to work day and night to pay his taxes; and besides, if they are going to break the poor farmers up, anyway, why not do it at once. There is no need in working him to death for 10 or 15 years; do it at once, and then he will hunt another job and maybe he can live as other people. As the whole country is liv-ing off of the poor farmer, so let the farmers stick together and down the bond issue and save this country and the farmers from breaking up.

(For the Record.) Dose the Bond Issue mean consolidated Schools?

Is this the proper time, for such experiments, when the country is trying to get over the waste of war, and readjust itself. I asked a very successful doctor, if he was in favor of closing the small country schools, and consolidate them in the towns, and haul the children to the town schools? He emphatically said, "No, I would rather vote to hang the men that got up such a proposition. A walk of a mile or more is good for any child; they need some such exercise for their

A few years ago, farm papers frequently had articles recommending such schools, and now that some parts of some states have them, you find many complaints against the change, not only from their parents, and taxpayers, but from the children. If an epidemic, such as measies, diphtheria, etc., breaks out in school, nearly every child is infected before the disease has a chance to be checked. It takes about two hours in the morning to gather the children and about the same in the evening to deliver them home; in rainy weather, longer. The children that live back from the main roads, come to the cross roads and lanes and wait in the weather until the team or bus comes to haul them to town; small children are frequently sick from this exposure and long haul. Some friends of the measure are beginning to admit that the long haul is injurious to small children, but excuse the system by saying that children under ten years should not be confined in the school room, and Children must start too early in the morning and get home too late in such as schools and roads should not the evening to help to do any work be made from direct taxes. But difor their parents. BUNDLE DAY FOR NEAR EAST. Give your Old Clothing for Destitute Armenians.

The people of Maryland are about to make another contribution for the work of the Near East in the form of second hand clothing.

Wednesday May 17, has been set apart as Bundle day and places have been selected in various centers Bundle Stations to which clothing may be brought on that day or at any convenient time before. It will be better for all however, if the bundles can be brought in on bundle day. From these centers the bundles will be forwarded to their destination.

Posters announcing the movement and the location of the Bundle Stations will be widely distributed so that the effort may be thoroughly known. Let every one help a little.

There are things that you can spare that will be a great blessing to some one in the destitute region. Find out where your nearest Bundle Station is by looking at the posters. If there is none near you, make a station of your own and ask your neighbors to send the bundles to you.

It will be appreciated if you will notify Mr. Harold F. Pellegrin, 14 W. Franklin St., Baltimore, Md., of the number, weight, and the approximate value of any bundles you send or are able to gather. Mr. Pellegrin will furnish shipping tags and full instructions.

The Bundle Station at Taneytown will be at Mr. C. G. Bowers' store. L. B. HAFER, Chairman for Carroll County

"Counterfeit" Charges are Denied.

Washington, April 26.—Charges that the country is flooded with millions of dollars worth of counterfeit currency, Federal Reserve notes, Government securities and stamps "are wholly without foundation." Secretary Mellon declared tonight in a let-ter to Frank J. Coleman, editor of the Plate Printer.

Mr. Mellon's letter was in response to one from Mr. Coleman submitting at the Secretary's request, evidence upon which such charges were pub-lished in the Plate Printer, a publi-cation of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

and Frinting.

The Treasury Secretary said the data in the national counterfeit detector, submitted by Mr. Coleman, was "entirely misleading" and consisted of all the counterfeits reported since the Civil War, including many that have never been accepted in circulation.

During the fiscal year 1921, he said, counterfeits to the amount of $196,-993 were recovered against a gen-uine circulation of $4,556,328,982, but of the former sum $108,925 was captured before the issues were placed in circulation and $73,546 was raised notes, leaving the amount of counterfeit notes recovered from circulation during the year only $14,522.

If $350,000.00 would build the schools, the county would still have to make an extra tax each year to cover the transportation of children to school. These schools cannot be operated unless the county furnishes transportation. For children under 15, there is nothing that can fill the place of the old-fashioned country school-house, with its ample playground, its spelling-bees, singingschools and debating societies, situated where they should be, near and convenient to the country home. FRUIT KILLED BY APRIL FROSTS

The Damage not as Extensive as that of Last Year.

The unusual, and very heavy frost of last Friday night, falling on wet buds, played havor with the fruit. Lighter frosts, and below freezing temperature on Saturday and Sunday nights, did not help conditions, but the real damage was perhaps largely done on Friday night, as after that the buds were dried out.

The extent of the damage varies according to localities, and according to previous rainfall. In other words, where buds were dry, the damage was lightest. While reports are somewhat conflicting, and likely exaggerated to some extent, it is pretty clear that, so far as Carroll County is concerned, most of the cherries, plums, apricots and strawberries, were killed. Peaches may be on a fifty-fifty basis, while apples, pears and grapes were not so fully destroyed. Taking the county as a whole, the freeze was not as destructive as that of last year.

In Washington and Frederick counties, estimates seem to be that three-fourths of all the fruit was killed. The freeze, coming the second year in succession, sets especially hard on housewives, as well as on dealers, as surplus pantry stocks have dwindled, if not entirely disappeared. Fruit on the hillsides suffered less than in valleys and lowlands. Southern Maryland, the Eastern Shore and Delaware, suffered but light losses, except to strawberries.

Farmers' Day Program.

Representative Sydney Anderson, chairman of the joint Commission of Congress, on agricultural inquiry, will be the speaker at the University of Maryland, on Farmers' Day, May 27.

Economy in the production and marketing of farm products will feature the Farmers' Day program this year. Demonstrations of farm methods, which will be numerous, are being planned to meet the present needs of the farmers, according to Dr. Patterson, and will show practices that are profitable under the present depressed condition of the farmers' market. Exhibits and demonstrations will cover practically every phase of farm operation.

Live stock will be given particular emphasis on the program and the demonstrations in this subject explains Dr. Patterson, will be designed to bring out the facts that livestock products have proved important factors during the period of stringency and offer a most profitable means of marketing agricultural crops.

BRYAN SENDS $100. CHECK. Evolution Proponent Charged with Evasive Replies.

Morgantown, W. Va., April 27.— William Jennings Bryan has sent a check for $100 to Dr. R. C. Spangler, professor of botany in West Virginia University, as a reward for answering certain questions on evolution put by Mr. Bryan in a recent address here. Mr. Bryan, in the letter accompanying the check, declared "it is worth $100 to me to see a college professor guilty of cowardly evasion."

Mr. Bryan had challenged any university professor to harmonize the Bible and the principles of evolution, and Dr. Spangler undertook the task. The letter carrying the check was addressed to the Rev. W. O. Baylor, of Morgantown, and said, in part: "Dr. Spangler's letter does not answer a single question that I asked. I asked that any believer in Darwin's hypothesis applied to man would write out a statement of his belief of the Bible doctrines which, in my judgment, are inconsistent with Darwinism. The Maryland Classis of the Reformed Church in the U.S., will convene in the Brunswick Reformed Church Monday evening. While there are approximately 78 ministers and elders in the Classis and provisions have been made for entertaining this number, yet it is not expected all will attend. During the past few weeks the pastor, Rev. R. F. Main and his committees have been putting forth a strong effort to make the visitors' stay in our city, one of pleasure. The visitors will be entertained in the homes of the members and friends and will be breakfasted at the family table. Dinner and supper will be served in the basement of the church.

The Baltimore Sun has the following with reference to the Democratic nomination for Congress in this Second District;

"Miss Risteau, it is generally conceded, will support the candidacy of State Senator Millard E. Tydings, who already has announced his inten-tion of seeking the Democratic nomination. However, Carville D. Benson, former Representative, is expected to contest the nomination with Senator Tydings, in which event there would almost certainly be a warm

The Bible and Atheism in Public Schools.

Mr. Bryan is always right on moral uestions, and usually picks live ones or addresses, and recently, in an article in the Miami (Florida) Herald, he voiced his opposition to the teaching of Darwinism and all forms of atheism in our public schools. He said in part;

"The question is not whether the people, acting through the government, have a right to legislate as to what should be taught in the schools -that question was settled when the Bible was ruled out, as it has been n some States. The only question under consideration is, What shall be ruled out? If the Bible can be excluded, it follows as a matter of course that anything can be excluded or included. If it is argued that the Bible was excluded because the teaching of religion is improper, then it follows that the teaching of irreligon is also improper. If we are to have neutrality in religion, it must, of course, be a real neutrality, and must exclude attacks on the Bible as well as the teachings of the Bible itself. Surely

"My proposition is that the public schools should not be allowed to teach the natural effect of it is to undermine belief in God and belief in the Bible. If Darwin had stated a fact instead of having advanced a hypothesis, those who desired his doctrine taught in the schools would have a stronger position; but it is not a fact. It is merely a hypothesis, and never was anything more. It is a guess with not a single fact in the universe to support it, not a single species havto have developed from any other species. Since the hypothesis is that all species have developed by slow degrees from one or a few invisible

For those classes, of society that live well and are at their ease and affect an easy superiority to the law, the contempt of the people will prove a sufficient deterrent. In these days the designation of "lawless classes" is mounting the social scale. With regard to the Constitution of the United States it is becoming quite fashionable in upper circles to sneer. The conscience of the American people, even that part of the people temporarily confused by alien propaganda, is suffering a revulsion against the degenerative poison and will spew it out.

At the same time, law must redeem itself. The more we turn to the en- power. abling aspect of law the more we will make the right course possible and desirable, and in a society thus organized the repressive influences will become natural and not legal. Energies misdirected bring loss and trouble; rightly directed they bring prosperity and peace.

Preventative Medicine. The tendency of medical science is toward preventative measures. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. Pneumonia, one of the most dangerous diseases that medical men have to contend with, often follows a cold or attack of the grip. The cold prepares the system for the reception and development of the pneumonia germ. The longer the cold hangs on, the greater the danger. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as attack of pneumonia when this remedy may be obtained for a trifle.

ANIMAL FEED IS IMPORTANT

Meat Scrap, Milk and Its Products, Tankage or Fish Scrap Increase Egg Yield.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A great increase in our annual egg production may be expected when poultrymen and farmers in general recognize the importance of animal feeds in the rations for the laying flock. The demonstration of the superiority of feed combinations containing meat scrap, milk and its products, tankage, or fish scrap is one of the most valuable additions to our knowledge of poultry management contributed by the United States Department of Agriculture and various experiment sta-

Practically all experimental tests have shown that these feeds will greatly stimulate egg production, especially during the fall and winter months. The fact that many farmers get no eggs at all during this period may usually be attributed to a lack of essential animal feed. The addition of from 10 to 25 per cent of one of those named would in most cases make a remarkable difference. Which one of these feeds should be used depends upon local conditions and prices. They are of about equal value when the protein content is taken into consideration. The fish meal and tankage have given just as good results as meat scrap. Milk is just as good when available at a low cost, and fresh buttermilk and skim milk produce good results. In some sections condensed buttermilk and semi-solid buttermilk have been fed with success.

In a test extending from November 1 to July 10 on the government for at Beltsville, Md., 30 hens on a ration without meat scrap or any animal feed averaged 74 eggs each. Another flock of 30 hens of the same breed during the same period laid an average of 113 eggs each, the difference of 39 eggs being attributed to the ration which contained meat scrap. Both flocks were was favorable, which made the difference less than it would have been had the birds been kept in pens. In a test made by Purdue university agricultural experiment station animal feeds were shown to have a decided value in the ration of laying bens and pullets. The pullets fed skim milk averaged 140.2 eggs in a year; those fed meat scrap, 135.9 eggs, and those in the check pen that received no animal feed of any kind laid an average of only 61.2 eggs.

It has been shown that it is impossible to judge the value of a hen as a layer unless she has been fed a ration that would give her an opportunity to demonstrate her capacity. Pullets that have not yielded profitably because of a ration lacking in animal matter have become profitable layers when the defect in the ration was cor-

Some of Principal Reasons for Smoking Are Improper Trimming and Poor Oil.

Guard against smoking incubator lamps. Not allowing for wick to creep up as it warms, not fitting lamp shade tightly, improper trimming of wick, filling lamp too full, direct draft on lamp and poor grade of oil are the principal reasons for smoking. All of these can be avoided by care.

SEEK CONSTITUTIONAL VIGOR

Good, Strong Birds Are of Great Importance in Building Up Flock of Heavy Layers.

Constitutional vigor is most important in building up a flock of heavy layers. No bird should be used for breeding which ever has been sick. Good, strong, vigorous birds may be used for a number of years; longevity is a real test of constitutional vigor.

Usually Waste of Time to Try to Dispose of Old Fowls-Keep Them for Breeding.

Old geese do not sell well in market, and it is usually a waste of time and money to attempt to so dispose of them. Keep the old ones for breeding purposes, as they will be serviceable for from ten to twenty years, and then sell the young ones at market.

Sentiment in Thousands of Hearts Pleads That They May Never Become Great Highways.

A little gray cottage stands on a hilltop. Below the hill runs the cross road. There is not much travel on the road-it serves to connect two highways.

Oftentimes the crossroad takes its way close to the foot of some deeply wooded knoll and sometimes it goes over a creek, quivering under its icy cover. Then the two ends of the road meet by means of a little bridge, where the hoofbeats of the horse echo loud and the sound of the motor becomes a giant dynamo. Sometimes the crossroad is overarched with trees, as it is below the gray cottage, and the summer sunlight only filters through in patches—such a compelling, mysterious intimacy as there is to the crossroad

The young folks call the crossroad "lovers' lane." The old folks used to call it "lovers' lane" when they were young and drove under the arched branches or jingled over the road in sleighs, while the round moon laid the shadows of the black branches meeting overhead in etchings on the snow.

"Lovers' lane"-every county owns one. There was a lovers' lane in Sangamon county, Illinois, and Abe Lincoln walked along it with Ann Rutledge in the '30s-soldiers sang about "lovers' lane"-may all the little crossroads that now are lovers' lanes never, never become arterial highways!-Chicago Daily News.

EASY TO TELL HIS THOUGHTS

Little Peculiarities of Theodore Vail Revealed Much to Friends and Business Associates.

There was nothing eccentric about Theodore N. Vail, but he had certain little peculiarities of manner. From his biographer, Albert Bigelow Paine, we learn that for one thing he was absent-minded.

Once, says Mr. Paine, when Mr. Vail was starting on one of his many trips to the Pacific coast and had invited his niece to accompany him he turned to her abruptly at the moment of departure: "Well, good-by, Kate," he said, "I'm sorry you're not coming with me."

Her prompt reply that she was gong both startled and amused him.

His thoughts seemed always to require some sort of physical outlet. When listening to anyone he had a habit of making small pencil drawings -curlicues, geometrical shapes and letters carefully shaded. They showed that he was interested in what was being said. When he was not interested he would pull out a handkerchief and fold and refold it on his knee down to the smallest subdivision. Those who knew him could easily tell when he was not enjoying a situation, for then the handkerchief would invariably appear, and the folding continue until the suffering ended .-Youth's Companion.

Scottish Gardeners Valued.

Scottish gardeners are being exported to all parts of the world. A notable instance of the value in which the Scottish gard engagement by a United States millionaire, of a Scotsman for his private grounds, at a salary of $5,000 a year. Not many years ago the man was getting a few dollars a quarter in London. One of the superintendents in a London park can record several instances of his men from across the border getting very high salaries for private establishments on this side of the Atlantic. There is one gardener of Scottish origin in a South London park who says he has "mown the grass" in most corners of the earth, including remote parts of South America. A high percentage of the gardeners in London public parks are Scots, and more than one supervisor can boast of his clan.

Swells' Pride.

Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., made a graceful little speech at the opening of the Grace Dodge hotel in Washington. This hotel, which Mrs. Rockefeller helped to found, is exclusively for women. It has many novel features, among them elaborately equipped rooms where woman guests may launder their own linen.

"Comfortable, even luxurious as our hotel is," said Mrs. Rockefeller, "there are some women who will hesitate to patronize it out of pride. Pride! Such pride reminds me of a story. "'Father, what is a swell?' a little boy once asked. "'A swell, son,' the father answered, 'is a lazy loafer whose sole claim to importance lies in the fact that he once had an ancestor who devoted his life to hard and honest work."

Water 30 Cents a Gallon.

Water isn't quite up to the price of liquor, but it is almost there at Cow Camp, the driest point on the Silver Peak range, near Tonopah, Nev. They are paying 30 cents a gallon for it, and residents are agreeing that it is cheap at the price. There isn't any competition. The water man has a monopoly and no one envies him his job.

The nearest watering place is 11 miles away. For five miles the water is carried in a buckboard drawn by horses. Then the road narrows to a trail and horses are unhitched, the water bags tied over their backs, and the remainder of the trip is slow. It takes about a day to make the trip.

In the old days, when saloons quenched thirsts, there wasn't the demand for water that there is now. -Los Angeles Times.

BLUE RIDGE COLLEGE.

Blue Ridge will engage in a dual debate with Elizabethtown College, on Friday night, April 28. The ques-tion is, "Resolved, that the principle of the open shop should be established in American industries." The affirm-ative composed of Marshall Wolfe, Alton McDaniel, Norman Wilson and Robert Maust, will debate in New Windsor, while the negative team, Miles, Murphy, Wilbur McGolerick, McKinley Coffman and Robert Mc-Kinney, will journey to Elizabethtown and there champion the cause of Labor Unions. This debate will be the last of the season. The other colleges met were Washington and Colby.

Blue Ridge ball tossers won from Bridgewater College, on Saturday, on the local diamond. The final score was 5-2. It was a pitching duel through-out between Bridgewater's pitching race, E. May, and Blue Ridge's stellar moundsman, Peters. It was the wicked bat of Plug Stup that sewed up the game for Blue Ridge. In the sixth with the sacks crowded and two out, Stup picked out one of May's fast ones and drove it into deep center for two bases. He also duplicated this feat in the seventh thus winning the game. It was a big day for Stup, for he also starred at the hot corner. Smith also distinguished himself in the field, and Hitchcock's stop of Wampler's grounder was the greatest ever witnessed in New Windsor. Snyder showed some fast form in the outfield. Meat Flour.

The qualities of meat flour, a new food that is being made in New Zealand, were described to a meeting of farmers and others held in a New Zealand town. The speaker said that re-cently at a dinner 18 persons sat down to a meal composed entirely of meatflour dishes, and only a little over halfa-pound of meat flour was used in its preparation. It was excellent for invalids and bore a high food value. It could be exported easily and compactly, and would keep, so far as present tests went, for two years without the slightest sign of deterioration. It took three pounds of meat to produce one pound of the flour, which was at present being readily sold at five shillings ($1.25) a pound and was found exceedcyly economical in the household at

The negro urban population of the United States is now, in round numbers, about 3,500,000, and even more when towns and villages of less than 2.500 inhabitants are included; that is, one-third of the negroes of the | United States are now living in villages, towns and cities. The larger part of the increase in negro urban population has been due to migration. In the last five years some 500,000 negroes have moved from rural districts into the towns and cities. PEOPLE ARE BUILDING HOMES

That There Is a Steady Gain in That Direction Is Shown by Recently Published Figures.

It is a matter of importance that the scope of home-building operations in this country is attaining large proportions. Statistics show a steady gain in this department of the building industry and indications are at present that, as the spring and summer advance, there will be still greater activities of this nature.

Home ownership not only encourages saving but it has a pronounced stabilizing effect on the character, habits and mental processes of the owner. To him particularly might be applied the words of Theodore Roosevelt, who said: "The habit of saving money while it stiffens the will also brightens the energies. If you would be sure that you are beginning right, begin

Much has been said and written about the housing shortage in this country and the menace which has thus been fostered. Many evils both economic and social are resulting from the overcrowded conditions, particularly in the larger cities of the country. Many people are compelled to find existence in quarters which represent a step backward in their standard of living. This is contrary to the fundamentals of human nature, for mankind has always insisted upon progressing toward better living standards.

STATE IS RETRIEVING ERROR

Towns and Villages Throughout Pennsylvania Busily at Work Replacing Destroyed Trees.

Pennsylvania has planted 34,000,000 ful if it happen to be a favored one, trees throughout the commonwealth but in practice very rarely favored and has 16,000,000 in nurseries await- and more remarkable, as a general ing the opportune moment for plant- rule, for biting east winds than geniing," said a prominent Philadelphia al breezes. Autumn is the mellower official. "Pennsylvania is hard at season, and what we lose in flowers work trying to bring back the state to | we more than gain in fruits. Fontelle, its original condition of forestry, in so at the age of ninety, being asked what far as forests can be maintained in was the happiest time of his life, said the present-day scale of living. It is he did not know that he had ever been true that Pennsylvania will never have | much happier than he then was, but the luxurious growth existing when that perhaps his best years had been William Penn first arrived. It per- those when he was between fifty-five haps does not need so many trees as and seventy-five, and Dr. Johnson once flourished throughout the state, placed the pleasures of old age far but it does need trees, and it is out to higher than these of youth. True, in other states will do. Also, what is being done in Pennsylvania shows the have so long found life to be an affair foolishness of destroying trees merely for the sake of cutting them down. that we have become like the people There was never need for stripping who live under Vesuvius, and chance the towns and villages of the state of their foliage, but that was done, and today the people are paying the penalty for the sins of some of our pioneers. Even at the rate of planting which is now going on, it would take get Pennsylvania back to the condition of only half a Earth and Trees Contrast.

Look out of your window and view your own and your neighbor's lawns. They are so nice and level, and you like them that way. But nature doesn't, for look at your trees. Your lawn is horizontal, yet your trees rise in the opposite direction, vertically straight up into the air. Doesn't it seem that nature insists upon contrast? It does and, in fact, contrast is one of her principles in landscape building. And with that we have learned another principle the master landscape architect follows in his

Coolies Are Odd Thieves.

Odd cases of offense by Chinese found in the records of the international settlement of Shanghai, including the theft of a steamroller, and in another case that of a sawmill, have been surpassed by three coolies recently charged with stealing 15 tons of sand and 30 tons of gravel, 30 tons of granite blocks and 25,000 tiles.

It was alleged that all the material had been removed surreptitiously from a contractor's yard, but the court held that there was not sufficient evidence to convict and the defendants were discharged.

Building.

If you are thinking of building a home, here's a tip:

Experts estimate that the average usable life of a frame building is twenty-five years. A brick building lasts thirty-five years. A stone or concrete building is good for 50 or 100

Divide the cost of the kind of home you are going to build by the number of years it'll last as shown above, and you know how much the value shrinks

Speed of Train Limited.

A high-grade passenger locomotive can be run at the rate of 112 miles an hour on a heavy rail, straight track, if ballasted by a train behind it to keep it from jumping the track. The heavier the engine and train, the more smoothly they ride. In actual practice, on account of curves and switches, the big coal consumption at high speed and the frictional wear on the equipment, a speed of 50 miles an hour is not often exceeded over any considerable distance. Expense and danger forbid a greater speed.

HELD SECRET OF HAPPINESS

John Wesley's Nearly Ninety Years Passed With Remarkably Few Periods of Depression.

There was John Wesley. His "Journal," with its record of indefatigable abor, is one of the cheeriest books in he language. What a rare good time he had! When he was eighty-seven he could say, "I do not remember to have felt lowness of spirits for a quarter of an hour since I was born." For more than sixty years this indefatigable pleasure-seeker had been doing as he pleased. Up every day in time to preach at five o'clock in the morning; then over the hills or through the pleasant lanes to preach again at the time lazy citizens were ready for breakfast: off again, on horseback, or by chaise or in a lumbering stage coach, for more preaching. . . . Now and then facing a mob, or being wet through in a thunder storm, or stopping to get information in regard to some old ruin. Between sermons he refreshed his mind with all sorts and conditions of books. On the pleasant road to Chatham he reads Tasso's "Jerusalem Delivered." On the road to Aberdeen he loses himself delightedly in the misty sublimities of Ossian. "Orlando Furioso" is good Saturday reading. The eager octogenarian confesses that "Astolpho's shield and horn and voyage to the moon, the lance that unhorses everyone, the all-penetrating sword, and I know not how many impenetrable helmets and shields" are rather too much for his sober English imagination. Still, they missionary journeys. - Samuel Mc-

Chord Crothers, in "Among Friends."

Modern Writer Takes Issue With Others Who Have Dubbed It the Best Period of Life.

Following is from "The Way of All Flesh," by Samuel Butler-not the Seventeenth century poet, but the Nineteenth century novelist:

"To me it seems that youth is like "In the past 22 years the state of spring, an overpraised season—delightold age we live under the shadow of "What Pennsylvania is now doing, death, which, like a sword of Damocles, of being rather frightened than hurt, it without much misgiving."

Fireworks in History.

The business of making fireworks and the business of setting off elaborate displays are sometimes called "the art of pyrotechny," the word "pyrotechny" being compounded of two Greek words meaning "fire art." There is an extensive literature on the sub-

References may be found in the writings of Manilius and Vespicus to the fact that fireworks were set off in connection with the circus in ancient Rome, and Claudianus, who wrote in the Fourth century, mentions "whirling wheels and fountains of fire" in connection with the celebration of certain festivals. Fireworks, and which should not be confounded with mere bonfires, were set off as spectacles and ceremonies during the reign of Henry VII, Henry VIII, Elizabeth and other English monarchs. In those early English days dragons spouting fire were a popular form of fireworks. In a book written on the subject in 1648 there is a reference to "trees and fountains of fire sent high up into Barley Basis of Weight.

During the reign of Henry VIII standards of length and weight were established with actual grains of wheat and barley as a basis. Three barley corns were an inch, and from that was built up our table of inches, feet, ells (yards), perch and acre. One restriction was that the barley corn must be dry and taken from the middle of the car and laid end to end. Under this same system 30 grains of wheat made a pennyweight, and from that as a basis they worked out the Troy pound in which 12 ounces still make a pound. Originally the sizes of shoes were based upon grains of barley, and it is said that these are the same today as in the early days. There were 13 grains of barley to each size. "Furlong" is an old English word meaning "furrow long" and is based upon the length a furrow would be in a square ten-acre field.

Protein Foods.

When we eat protein we consume in reality 18 or 20 substances, known as amino acids, each one of which may have quite special functions in nutrition. Some proteins are deficient in certain of these acids which are lacking in the proteins of corn and grain, and for that reason peanuts are an excellent supplement to a cereal diet, whether in the form of a meal or press cake fed with corn and cereal feeds to animals or as a supplement to wheat protein when used with wheat flour in bread making.

POSTAGE METER MACHINE DOES AWAY WITH WASTE. -A postage meter machine, first of its kind authorized by the United States Postoffice department for metering and printing postage directly on mail, was recently put into effect in the mailing department of one of the great banks of New York city.

The postage meter is licensed for use under special rules issued by the United States Postoffice department. Permit to use the meter must be secured from the third assistant postmaster general, division of classification, Washington, D. C. Application must be made through the local postmaster on postoffice form.

The machines are leased to users by the manufacturers. The lessee purchases the amount of postage and the postoffice department marks the amount on the register of the machine. For example, should $100 worth of postage be bought, the meter would be placed at 5,000, which would designate the amount in value of two-cent stamps. When these are used the meter is then taken back to the postoffice to be reset at the amount desired by the user.

The register door is locked and sealed by the postoffice after each setting. Each meter prints impressions corresponding to the denomination and color of the adhesive stamp for which it takes the place.

The inventor says that it is mechanically impossible to waste metered postage, as the register will not record unless an imprint is made on a piece of mail. A set of interchangeable steel type for the date and hour of mailing is furnished with each meter. With stamps many thousands of dollars are wasted annu-

How Hardened-Steel Wheels of Glass Cutters May Be Sharpened With Little Trouble.

The hardened-steel wheels of glass utters can be sharpened without renoving from the handle, in the followng manner: Hold the cutter against n emery wheel so that an angular face the former is parallel with the grinding wheel. The handle will be round away at the point far enough o bring the cutter into contact with he emery wheel, but this will not reaken it, as, when cutting glass, pres sure is applied to it from the opposite direction. After rough-grinding the cutter it should be held in contact with a wet grindstone to insure a mooth, fine edge. Caution should be used in the rough-grinding operation. Dip the cutter in cold water frequently to prevent it from getting too hot and losing the temper. The cutter will revolve when it comes in contact with the grinding wheel and will be ground evenly.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Why Crow Is Called Criminal. The Agricultural department issued a biography of the crow in which it

"Its ability to commit such misdeeds as pulling corn and stealing eggs and fruit and to get away unscathed is little short of marvelous. Much of the crow's success in life is due to cooperation, and the social instinct of the species has its highest expression in the winter roosts, which are sometimes frequented by hundreds of thousands of crows. From these roosts daily flights of many miles are made in search of food. "The insect food of the crow includes wireworms, cutworms, white grubs and grasshoppers, and during outbreaks of these insects the crow renders good service. But chiefly because of its destruction of beneficial wild birds and their eggs the crow must be classed as a criminal."

How Regions Got Name.

Ultima Thule (Uppermost Thule) was a name given in ancient times by the inhabitants of southern Europe to the remote regions of the unknown north. The Greek navigator Pytheas made a voyage along the coast of Britain and wrote an account of what | WM. he learned about the Shetland islands and Orkney islands and possibly the north mainland, calling the region Thule. The name became vague in its application, especially under the form Ultima Thule.

Norway, Iceland, etc., bore the title in their turn, and many strange superstitions were current regarding the

The Pretty Girls of Remington

OTHER TRANSPORT OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPERT

By LILLIACE M. MITCHELL

1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate. The State bank of Remington had just installed a machine which obviated human adding and subtractingone which totaled a column of figures in neat little typewritten letters, much to the astonishment of the older men of the village, who declared that "it can't be done."

The company who made the machine suggested that they send some one up to their school for two or three weeks to learn how to operate the machine efficiently. And, of course, there was no one but Ed Collins to go.

Ed Collins was the only one who worked in the bank except the president.

Ed Collins was delighted at the prospect of going.

He rushed right down Main street as fast as he could to tell Anna about it. He felt confident that she would be quite as delighted as he. But she wasn't. She was sweeping the front porch, which was already speckless. Her hair was in a soft coil at the back of her head and there were slight puffs over each ear. Her crisp blue apron had a perky bow of white lawn holding it together at the back, and her cheeks were pink from the exercise of sweeping.

Altogether she was a pretty sightpink and blue and creamy skin topped by golden hair. She was not beauti-

There were at least half a dozen girls prettier in Remington than she, but some way or other Anna and Ed had always "gone together," as the folks in Remington said.

Ed was thinking about all of this as he sat in the living room of his aunt's tiny flat on the next Saturday morn-

He had applied himself to the work at the school and had learned all that he needed to know for the bank work and was ready to start home again. When his aunt had suggested staying in the city until Sunday night he had eagerly accepted the invitation. He had been dumfounded when he had first seen the vast numbers of pretty girls that lived in the city. He had heard vaguely that city girls were "lookers," as the Remington boys said, but these girls in this neighborhood were absolutely stunning.

There was one upstairs that he had seen several times in his short stay, and he had wished that his aunt would introduce them. This girl was a pretty blonde, whose hair was always waved and dressed in the latest way.

Her skin was marvelous-a pink and white punctuated by soft red lips. She had never looked at him directly, but he had felt that she knew he was

She was a fairly young girl, probably not more than seventeen. That she was yet in high school he knew. for he saw her carrying books in and out in a dainty fashion.

"Ed, there's the postman. Run down and get the mail for me," called his aunt from the back of the flat.

Ed felt annoyed at her use of the third person. It made him seem such Couldn't women ever realize that a fellow was a man by the time he was working and earning a living?

He rose and moved toward the front door. There was another little tinkle of the bell as he opened the front door and looking down he saw a girl's figure wrapped in a dressing gown of blue velvet ahead of him.

He was about to step back and wait until she had returned to her apartment, but the postman's call, "Registered letter to sign for," made him continue his descent.

He saw now by the golden hair that it was the girl from upstairs who wore the blue gown. She was trailing down slowly. Her mother's voice from above came:

"Belle, was that the post?" Belle! What a wonderful name. How fitting Ed had had enough

French in the Remington high school to recall that Belle translates into the English word pretty. He ambled downstairs a little quicker.

The idea flashed into his mind that Belle was a far more attractive name than was Anna.

"There's two cents due on this letter, miss," said the postman, with his eyes on the pile of letters in his hand. "Well, by gosh!" came the high voice of the girl, who seemed to be angry from her tone, "why didn't you say so before I leaped 'way down

Ed grinned as he thought of the languorous descent which she characterized as "leaping." Small towns might be slow, but-Belle had turned to go back for the required two cents.

Her front hair was done up in some remarkable way in metal wavers, Cold cream had been lavishly smeared on her face and still lay there waiting to be rubbed or washed off.

No vestige of color marked her face, neither the lips, which were a mere pale pink in color, nor the cheeks, which were undeniably white.

"Guess I'll go back tonight," he said to his aunt as he handed her the mail. "Well, just as you like," said his aunt. "Belle, stop in when you're dressed. I want you to meet my nephew." She dropped her voice as the door closed. "She's such a pretty girl," she said to Ed.

Ed looked at her sharply, but there was no smile on her lips. She had seen only the back of Belle. And then Ed grinned.

STILL HAS FLAME OF GENIUS

Sarah Bernhardt Has World's Applause in Refusing to Leave Her Work and Retire.

Many criticize Bernhardt for being still in harness. The reason for this is plain-I mean her action, not the criticism. As long as managers and audiences continue to pay her thousands of dollars a week the fact is indisputable that there is still a place for her on the world's stage—and this

Furthermore, she is of unique value in the scheme of things and still has the flame of genius. She can summon the imagination and vision that no other woman can—she still can point the way to a glowing and glorious vista. And one must remember it is not only her weight of years she overcomes, but the loss of a leg. Characteristically she will not wear an artificial leg, since it cannot restore the grace of movement for which she was famous. She prefers nothing to a halting substitute.

In today's paper is this: Sarah Bernhardt at seventy-seven, has asked the French council for a 25-year lease on the theater which bears her name. The council is willing to grant a ten-year lease, but they look unfavorably upon an extension of 25 years.

It reminds me of a story told me of her by De Mak, her leading man for ten years. On one of her American tours a fortune-teller told her she'd die at ninety-five, at which Sarah threw up her hands and exclaimed: "Why hurry me? I have plans for 25 years!" This is true. Her schedule usually published in some paper is always made out for at least five years. What her actual plans are is ever a rk secret. Like Brer Fox, she says nothing; just lays low .- Arthur Row, in Leslie's Weekly.

Science and the Supernatural. The attitude of scientific men toward so-called supernatural phe nomena was expressed by Sir Richard Gregory in his presidential address before the British association for the advancement of science, in the following words:

"When phenomena belonging to the natural world are made subjects of supernatural revelation or uncritical inquiry, science has the right to present an attitude of suspicion toward them. Its only interest in mysteries is to discover the natural meaning of them. It does not need messages from the spirit world to acquire a few elementary facts relating to the stellar universe, and it must ask for resistless evidence before observations contrary to all natural law are accepted as scientific truth.

"If there are circumstances in which matter may be divested of mass, fairies may be photographed, lucky charms may determine physical events, magnetic people disturb compass needles, and so on, by all means let them be investigated, but the burden of proof is upon those who believe in them, and every witness will be challenged at the bar of scientific opinion."

Abner's Anodyne.

All the neighbors wondered how Abner Allen and his wife got along. She was generally conceded to be a cantankerous sort, but so far as anyone knew, Abner had never been heard to utter a complaint. Then Abner died and Hezekiah Billings felt at liberty to tell the story.

"Abner did complain - sort of just once," he said. "We was loggin' an' Abner was sort of limpin' aroun' and sayin' how his shoes hurt him. So I ast him why in tarnation he wore shoes that was too small and Abner sez, sez he:

"'Well,' he sez, 'I always buys 'em too small. When I got on tight shoes,' sez Abner, 'I forget all my other troubles.' Yessir, that's the only time I ever reely heard Abner criticize his wife."-American Legion Weekly.

Farm Power P

3-2 PLOW CAPACITY

The Moline is a 3-2 plow tractor that does all belt and field work, including cultivating, with ONE MAN. It is the correct farm power unit.

Records of performance made by owners with this tractor show that it eliminates an average of 4.7 horses per farm and saves on the yearly cost of crop production. That much money saveu is just that much money made, in addition to the regular profit made from crop income.

If you want to make a profitable investment in farm power, come in and look at the MOLINE. And remember that-

If desired you can use the "drag behind" or horse-drawn implements you now have with the Moline tractor the same as with other types of tractors.

This Tractor is reduced to $1000.00 including Plows, Self-starter and Electric Moline 3000-lb. Truck: it will pay you to get prices and have it demonstrated INTERMEDIATEAND SENIOR TOPIC. Our Response to the Call for Service.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC.

I. Isaiah's Vision of Glory (vv. 1-4). So definite was this vision that the prophet remembered the very time of its occurrence. It meant so much to him that he could ever look back to it as a day when his ministry took on a new meaning. 1. He Saw the Lord on His Throne (v. 1). Though the death of Uzziah left Judah's throne empty it was made clear to the prophet that the throne of God was occupied. The Lord was high and lifted up, showing that He is above all kingdoms. This was a peculiar preparation of Isaiah for his work. The one who has really seen God can never be the same again; life has a fuller meaning ever afterward.

2. He Saw the Seraphims Above (vv. 2, 3). Just who these beings are we do not know. The word signifies "flery," "burning." They were glorious beings whose business was to wait upon the Lord, to go on errands for Him. They had six wings-two for flight; two to cover their face, showing reverence; and two to cover their feet, showing humility. These three pairs show that reverence and humility are of equal value before God, with activity. The song of the seraphims shows that they saw holiness as God's supreme attribute. The thrice "holy" perhaps refers to the Trinity. The first choir sang, "Holy, holy, holy," and the second choir responded to this by saying, "The whole earth is full of His glory."

3. The Manifestation of Majesty (v. 4). "The posts of the door moved at the voice of him that cried, and the house was filled with smoke." The smoke, no doubt, signified God's wrath against man's sinfulness (see Psalms

11. Isalah's Conviction of Sin (v. 6). The vision of God brought the prophet to see himself. It is only in the light of God's holiness that we see our unholiness. When Peter got a glimpse of who Christ was he begged Him to depart from him, saying, "Depart from me; for I am a sinful man, O lord" (Luke 5:8). The prophet not only realized that he was a sinner, but that the nation was a nation of sinners. What the world needs today above all things is a vision of God.

III. Isaiah's Cleansing From Sin

(vv. 6, 7). The taking of the coal from the altar shows that it was connected with sacrifice. The fire that consumed the sacrifice was holy fire. When a sinner gets a vision of God in Christ, the Holy Spirit applies the merits of Christ's shed blood and cleanses from came the call. Men must be cleansed from sin before they shall be called to God's service. Though God has many angelic beings who willingly go on errands for Him, yet He has errands upon which only cleansed human beings can go. The only ones who can really declare the gospel of God's grace are those who have experienced its saving power. God is asking this same question of men and women. Isaiah readily responded to his call by dedicating himself to the task. He said, "Here am I; send me."

V. Isaiah's Commission (vv. 9-13). 1. The Sending (vv. 9, 10). He had a most discouraging task before him. He is assured that the people will hear his message, but be unmoved by it. They will even increase in blindness and deafness to the divine warnings-they will neither be converted nor healed. Such a hopeless task would only be undertaken by one who had had a vision of God.

2. The Encouaragement (vv. 11-18). Facing this discouraging outlook the -prophet raised the inquiry, "Lord, how long?" The Lord in His reply assured him that it would not last forever. The land would be desolate, the cities without inhabitants, and the houses without occupants; but as the oak retains its vital substance even long after it has been cut down, so from Judah shall a remnant be saved. The holy seed is the substance which shall constitute the basis of the kingdom which shall come when David's son shall be king.

Must Look to Jesus.

If I want to repent, if I want to change my mind and get more and more determined to be good, I must look at Jesus Christ, I must notice how perfectly faultless, perfectly loving, perfectly patient, perfectly ready to spend Himself in the service of others, He is .- The Bishop of London.

The Deceitful Tongue. For the rich men thereof are full of violence, and the inhabitants thereof have spoken lies, and their tongue is deceitful in their mouth.-Micah 6:12.

April 30 Applying Religion to Everyday Life Joshua 22:1-6

Compliance with the counsel of Joshua as given in the fifth verse of our Scripture lesson would certainly have led to the application of religion to everyday life on the part of the tribes to whom the counsel was given. Bible history shows that they did not heed this counsel but departed altogether from it to their own confusion and condemnation.

Christianity is a life rather than a religion. There is in God a life that is communicable, there is in man capacity to receive that life. When received, man becomes a child of God, or in other words, a Christian. This life is renewed by the Holy Spirit through fellowship with God. It is independent of religious forms although it uses forms to express it-The man who lives in its purifying power cannot avoid its application to the external as well as in-ternal affairs of life. In the realms of industry, society, philanthropy and morality, this life must control. If anything hinders its course or prevents its expression, the Spirit is grieved and the man becomes unhappy. The divine Comforter becomes a discomforter until the grievous thing is confessed and put away.

Then again joy reigns. There are many imitations of this life nearly all apearing under the name or form of religion. Most of them are gotten up of men while the life of which we speak comes down from God. Human philosophies are different from divine revelations. The divine plan or provision is as far above that of men as heaven is above the earth. The greatest temp-tation with which a Christian man contends is that of being lured from his proper sphere in Christ, and becoming a man of the world. And the greatest triumph of a Christian man is to resist this temptation, and abide in Christ. Religious activities can never take the place of real Christ-likeness. One of the outstanding needs of the present day is that of an infusion of life into the things that are called religious. fruit for which God looks from a Christian is the fruit of union with Christian is the fruit of thion with Christ, the good works that glorify God. There may be little noise yet much fruit. Religious activities are being fed with "pep," but the life of God in the soul can be fed only with the hidden manna, the bread of life sent down from heaven. In the strength of this food one may toil and labor serve and sacrifice and do and labor, serve and sacrifice and do it all joyfully. The true Christian is concerned not with doing some extraordinary thing, but in doing ordinary things in an extraordinary way. This is the best method of applying true religion to everyday life.

PATCHING UP KING'S SPEECH

ish Parliamentary Authorities a "Bad Fifteen Minutes."

William Cobbett, who used to complain of the bad grammar and the indifferent English of the king's speeches to parliament, surely never contemplated the omission which marked the king's speech at the opening of the recent session. The speech Immediately following his cleansing itself was remarkably short—139 words all told-and it came to a sudden stop without the usual invocation of God's blessing on the labors of parliament. When the king had departed, the officials were horrified at the omission; and hastily sent up a verbal addition to the press. Some of the newspapers used it and some did not. Nor was this all, for when the lord chancellor in the house of lords and the speaker in the house of commons read out the speech at the afternoon sitting, the invocation was there, but the words were different from those supplied earlier in the day. The secret history of all these changes would make interesting matter for a modern Pepys.

Future Monarch Reared Simply.

In an article describing the training of the fourteen-year-old prince of the Asturias, King Alfonso's heir, the Madrid Heraldo says he is being brought up in the atmosphere of home life that his parents love. Queen Victoria, as well as King Alfonso, dislikes all forms of ceremonial, and the prince is being trained as simply as possible. He has many tutors with whom he visits factories, dockyards, engineering works, newspaper offices, museums and all centers of culture and activity. The customs of the Spanish court have prevented him from entering a university or military college, but he will probably be sent later on to a military academy.

The prince is fair with blue eyes, and for this reason he has the appearance of a "foreigner," for Spain is a country of dark-eyed people. But those who speak of his foreign appearance maintain that he is thoroughly Sanish. He speaks English and French fluently and takes an active interest in science and art.-London

Prominent Manufacturer Believes Congestion in Large Cities Is in Nature of an Evil.

Have the great industrial centers of the United States reached their maximum growth? A leading manufacturer believes that they have, that the time has come to break up the congestion of workers in large cities, and to get back to the small communities with industry. His theory is that the massing of industrial workers in a large city is bad for the country, and that anything which is bad for the country is in the long run bad for industry. He announces that he has demonstrated to his own satisfaction that industries can be taken to the people who live close to the soil, and that he expects to expand his own industrial activities along this line.

His idea is that instead of hous ing a large industry in a single large plant or group of plants in a city it can be broken up into small units, and each unit can be successfully operated in a small town, where it will provide employment for the class of people who leave small towns for the industrial opportunities of the cities, and town. Ask for also part-time employment for farmers who are now unable to make a satisfactory living on small farms. The water power available in many small towns will provide the power for the factory, and the factory will provide power for the town's utilities. In this way, he believes, the towns can be made attractive enough to hold the workers, and the whole scheme will save them from the unwholesome life in packed cities.

KEEP TOWN LOOKING RIGHT

Appearance Is Inseparably Connected With Business Success and Prosperity of Community.

The physical appearance of a town has much to do with its business suc ces and progress. People are not attracted to a disorderly town. It looks like the kind of a place where inefficiency is the rule. Visitors have the feeling that that spirit would prevail in the stores in their dealing with the public. But a town whose business and home buildings are kept in good repair and well painted, looks like a spirit of order and system and enterprise must make it a good place to Repairs.

There are some folks everywhere whose instinct is to slip along as easily as possible. They realize that their real estate is getting to look a little run down, but their motto is, "Never do today what you can put off until tomorrow." 4790元的原文的模型的 中国 1850年

Every time anyone gets out and straightens up a leaning fence, or repairs some tumbledown building, or paints a house that is getting to look shabby, he helps his home town take a step toward progress. His desire for improvement spurs on his different neighbors, and soon the whole street begins to have a new air of alertness and success.-Louisville (Texas) En- tionery terprise.

What Zoning Does.

Some of the things that zoning laws do for a city are summarized by Charles B. Ball: Zoning substitutes method for chance, symmetry for confusion, progression for patch work, and order for great expense. Zoning is a flexible harness in which city expansion works; it may be adjusted in case it galls or frets at any

"To city people graveyards do not mean much," stated Miss Eaton, "but to the countryman-it holds his loved ones. It is where he goes for his Sunday afternoon stroll, or his afterchurch smoke, and it should be beautiful. That is what I mean to make it."

"They were all earned by my brush," replied the artist. "Then there are more fools in the world than I imagined."

"clean-up" day procession, and will falling from the hat, a wide brimmed rection, next Monday. The authorities take the position that they can afford to help make the town "cleaner, brighter and healthier, by removing all rubbish."

The sidewalks on the South side of Emmitsburg St., are being raised to situation, at Mrs. Martha Fringer's, where the front porch is a step lower than the sidewalk. When the work is finished, the appearance of the property, at least, will be very good.

A declamation contest between representatives of the high-schools of this county will be held in the Armory Westminster, this Friday evening. These schools will be represented; Westminster, Mt. Airy, Union Bridge Hampstead, Sykesville and Taneytown. Miss Mildred Bostian will represent Taneytown. A cup will be awarded the winner, to be left in the winner's school until the contest of next year.

"That terrible road," or worse, is what they all say when coming here from Littlestown, or Hanover, over the direct road; and nine-tenths of them go back by way of Westminster. Friends by the dozen and pep by the The remarkable thing-is, that there are not more mishaps trying to navigate the road, and that there are not damage suits against the county. To the average stranger, the maintenance of such a piece of road between two large towns, is a mystery. Everybody will be glad when the news can be published that the work of rebuilding the road has actually commenced.

Saturday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. William Rentzell had as their company, Mr. and Mrs. A. Groff and Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher, of near Hagerstown. They remained until shortly after noon, on Sunday, when they left for home. Mr. Groff and his friend, Wilbur Fair, called on W. S. Clingan and wife, Saturday evening, and also spent some time with Birnie Fair and wife, and with Mrs. Laura Vaughn. Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Clingan spent Saturday evening with her mother, Mrs. Rentzell, and her company, and other neighbors visited her Sunday afternoon.

Although sunshine has been plentiful, this week, the air refuses to become Spring-like, and still carries a winterish tang.

The porch on Chas. E. H. Shriner's remodeled apartment house, on Middle St., is by far the longest in town, the continuous length of it on three sides of the building being 150 feet.

Mrs. Carrie Mayers, of Littlestown, is acting as housekeeper for her brother, Dr. F. T. Elliot, while Mrs. Elliot visits relatives in the vicinity of Pittsburg, in company with her aunt, Mrs. D. N. Carson, of Florida.

Her Costume only a Hat.

And now we get from Paris that a lady snake charmer has appeared at mission, good for the week of May 23-28, to the "Days of '49" celebration in Sacramento, Cal. The attractions as it may appear, and as showing the folly of taking snap judgment, the costume is described even by the French Anthony Comstock, as modest More modest than the costume of the British and American flapper, seems Williamsport, Md., has joined the to be the verdict. It appears that, co-operate with residents in that di- creation, fell yard after yard of rich black lace, completely concealing the figure of the snake charmer and reaching to the ankles. Only one shoulder was visible and on this was glued a single red rose to harmonize with a rose on the hat.

"The lesson," said the snake charmer, "is one of simplicity.. I step from my bath put on my hat and I am Emmitsburg St., are being raised to completely and comfortable dressed." conform to the street grade, and a Seemingly, the war with all its sufficient seemingly. very good job is being made of a bad ferings, has not left France without her imanigation and her daring, to say nothing of her passion to lead the world down the wildest avenues of dress construction.

Youthful Logic.

"Tommy, this is the last piece of mince pie you are going to have," said his mother. Tommy scowled as black as thun-

"There was a little boy like you," his mother continued, "who ate so much mince pie that he finally Yes, he burst from eating too much mince pie.

"No," said Tommy, "there's not such a thing as too much mince pie."
"Then," said his mother, "why did he burst?"

"There wasn't enough boy," Tommy answered.—Los Angeles Times.

The Why of Success.

Say! You've known guys who always had Jack,

They're always contented an' wearin' good clothes, vacations an' seein' swell shows? Well, ole Bill Jones was one o' them

Never excited nor acted too wise.

So, one day I asked him how he managed to do it.

He said, "The plan's simple, anyone can see thru it,

"I put a few dollars to work every week.

"They work while I work, also while I sleep, "And say, old pardner! I've always found out

'Not to look for a ship If you don't send one out." Open a Bank account, and get in the Bill Jones class.

Stenographers in the service of the United States Government lose $6,000,000 worth of the government's time each year rouging their checks and lips, according to efficiency experts of the Treasury Department. This is figured on a basis of 40,000 girls on the government payroll as stenograpers and typists receiving $1,200 a year and upward.
