DROWNED IN THE MONOCACY RIVER

Earl W. Sauble Another Victim of Deep Water Bathing.

Taneytown was saddened, last Sunday afternoon, as it has not been, for a long while, when the news came to town that Earl W. Sauble, son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Sauble, had been drowned while bathing in the Monocacy, at Morelock's farm, where, he had gone in company with Guy and Edwin Hahn, Ralph and Russell Con-over and Wilbur Mehring. The drowning occurred a very short time after their arrival.

The rest of the party could swim, while Sauble could not, and he was warned to be very careful, as the channel was deep, and that he should not attempt to cross. Not appreciating the full danger, he waded in and suddenly dropped beyond his depth. He made vain struggles to regain his footing and two of his companions made efforts to save him, but were unable to do so.

The alarm was spread and help summoned from town, and with the assistance of John Drenning, who dived, the body was brought to the surface and taken ashore in a boat. Efforts were made at resuscitation, but as nearly two hours had elapsed, there was no hope of success.

The victim was about 19 years old, in the prime of youth, popular, and a very valuable helper on the farm. He was another sudden victim to the diversion that has taken away so many young men under very similar circumstances, which illustrates the great danger of deep water bathing, even to those who are good swimmers.

He is survived by his father and mother, two brothers, Norman and Raymond, and one sister, Miss Ethel, all at home. Expressly all at home. Funeral services were held on Wednesday morning, in the Lutheran church, by his pastor, Rev. L. B. Hafer.

The attendance was very large, from the neighborhood, Baltimore, and other places, and the floral tributes were unusually handsome and numerous. The family has the deep sympathy of a very wide circle of reatives and friends, with whom Earl was a favorite and greatly admired for his many fine youthful qualities.

County C. E. Convention Proceedings.

Two invitations having been received for the next convention, both invitations were accepted in the order given. The next convention to be held at the Bethel Church of God, at Carrollton, and the 1924 convention at the Lutheran Church, Keysville.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted by a rising vote: "Realizing the arrogance of the bootlegger and attending evils, the Carroll County C. E. Union, in session at Deer Park M. P. Church, deplored such lawlessness. We therefore renew our determination to help stop such lawlessness, and to inform such violators that we are on the job to see it through. And be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to each of the county

The Postmaster General has announced that open competitive examinations (Civil Service) will be held July 15, to fill the position of Postmaster at the following named offices in this county. The date of the va-cancy is Sept. 5, in all cases except Woodbine, which was May 25.

Maryland Teachers Scarce.

In the employment of supervising teachers or helping teachers, as provided by the law passed by the last session of the Legislature, the State Board of Education will not this year engage the maximum number authorized by the law. It seems that the Board of Education desires to employ Maryland teachers to the greatest possible extent, and as there is at present a dearth of home talent temporary vacancies will be preferred to the importation of teachers Men teachers continue scarce. Of the 1175 applicants who recently took the State Board's examination hardly one-tenth were men. Five hundred and seventy-five of the applicants. however, were "new" material. The results of the examinations are now being tabulated. According to Mr. Cook. all high school graduates pass- several times this year, for bad treating the examination will also have to take a summer course.

SENATOR FRANCE IS ADVISED. Senator Norris tells him Something About 18th. Amendment.

Senators sometimes hit each other hard, notwithstanding the politeness and dignity that is supposed to characterize the Senate. As an example, last week Senator Norris, of Nebraska, handed Senator France, of Maryland, a pointed reply, during debate over the construction to be placed on the recent address of Secretary of War, Weeks, in Cleveland, when he very strongly advocated abolishing the direct primary system, in which Senator France thought he saw an attack on the 18th. Adendment, and was correspondingly pleased. Senator Norris said in reply, in part; Let me talk just a little about the 18th. Amendment now. The Senator from Maryland thinks in terms of the 18th. Amendment all the time. It bothers him. He puts everything on that saddle. He was opposed to it. Unquestonably he was conscientious in his opposition, I did not vote with the Senator, although I have great respect for his judgment and his opinion on governmental questions; but the Senator has gone wild on the 18th. Amendment. When the President says something that could be by any possomething that could be by any possible construction meant to apply to and bear out the Senator's idea of the 18th. Amendment, he immediately applies it. He does not give it any other application.

The Senator ought not to think so much about the 18th. Amendment. He Court of Appeals, and was promptly ought to realize that it is in the Con-stitution; it is part of our Govern- cision will be handed down in ample ment, and even if the people have made a mistake, why, great God! it is their own Government. They have a ber. The decision will be handed down in ample time to submit the act to a state-wide referendum at the election in November. right to make a mistake if they want to. They have the same power yet to rectify it if they think they have made a mistake. I do not think they have made one in that respect. I do not believe they will make the change that the Senator from Maryland thinks they ought to make; but if we are going to continue to have a gov-ernment, and not have a revolution ator from Maryland ought to submit when, according to the fundamental method laid down by George Washington and his fellows, the Constituton has been amended. It then becomes the law of the submit to submit the submit the submit to submit the submit to submit the submit the submit the submit to submit the submit t ton has been amended. It then becomes the law of the land. If the Senator wants to repeal it, that is a different proposition; but that is no reason, it seems to me, to argue that free government in a free country is a failure, and that the people do not know how to govern themselves, and therefore they ought not to be permitted to nominate their officers: they mitted to nominate their officers; they ought to let somebody select them, and say, "We will give you a choice between these two fellows, and we do never have felt it. On the contrary, I not care which one you take." That is

STATE BONUS ACT BEFORE THE COURTS

Decision to be Announced in Ample Time for Fall Election.

A movement to prevent placing the Soldier Bonus act on the ballot, this fall, on the ground that it is unconstitutional, has been dismissed by Judge Stein of the City Court. The decision holds that if the state can pension judges, teachers and others, it can also pension its soldiers; that it represents a "public purpose" and is not in conflict with either the Federal or state constitution.

After reviewing the authorities bearing upon the case, Judge Stein concluded his opinions as follows:

"Under the act in question the sole law-making power says to the people of Maryland; 'Here is a law complete in all its terms and details. It shall take effect only upon one contingency, that is, that a majority of the people by their vote at the next general elec-tion in November, 1922 say so.'
"This is not and cannot be a surrender of legislative power and cannot be a refusal by the Legislature to carry out any of its sovereign rights or duties, and is certainly not in con-flict with or subversive of our representative form of government."

This decision was taken to the

Senator Williams Opposes Bonus.

Senator Williams, of Mississippi, has contributed a fine bit of sentiment to the very wide discussion over the proposed Bonus bill. The Senator is strongly opposed to the bill, and in this portion of an address in the Sen-from Alabama there, when we were talking about our boys who were in France, that if mine died there I would not wear black, I would dress in white, like a bridegroom; not because he died, but because of the thing for which I thought he was dying. If I am to learn now that one of the things he was fighting for was money I would not have said that, I would have felt sorry that my boy was in the service. Mr. President, there are, after all is said and done, two classes of people in this worldone class of ideals and of vision, seeking all the time, however sinfully Gettysburg, June 22.—The large weak they may be in their conduct, who controls the destinies of mankind, who controls them not so much by arbitrary act of His, but by accepting men themselves, the common common men, as His instrumentality to carry the world finally into accordwith Himself. That is one class of men. The other class of men is the class of men who, whenever they confer a service upon anybody, or even it ought to be worth in dollars. This is one of the things that cannot be measured in dollars. It must be measured in honor, and the man who is not willing to be rewarded in honor is not worthy to be rewarded at all.

Mr. President, whenever a boy goes to fight for an ideal, to save the Union, to save his country, to save civilization, to save democracy, or to save anything, and then comes back and proceeds to collect every week my answer is, the next time you find civilization in danger let it sink.'

STRIKE-BREAKERS SHOT DOWN. Mob of Miners Kill from 30 to 50 in Illinois.

A battle, or rather, a killing, occurred in southern Illinois, this week, when a mob of several thousand union coal miners captured, then shot down or hanged, a lot of strike-breakers. ### GOVERNOR RITCHIE ORDERS WADE TRIAL

An Attempt at Blackmail is Charged by Governor.

A case that has been brewing for some time, came to a head on Monday, when Governor Ritchie announced his decision, and made additional facts public. It has been charged that Dr. J. Hubert Wade, treasurer of the Board of Prison Control, and chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, accepted an automobile as a gift from Samuel Leibowitz, who was interested in the sale of supplies to state prisons, the inference being that Leibowitz's firm would thereby profit from such sales, and that the automobile was a reward for the Wade influ-

These charges have been vigorously denied by both Dr. Wade and Leibowitz, and the case has been before the Governor for his action for the past two weeks. The Governor ordered a trial of the case, held this Friday in the Union Trust building, Attorney Eugene O'Dunne acting as prosecutor. The Governor alleges attempted blackmail. That Leibowitz, Tuesday of last week, offered that he and Dr. Wade and their friends would support, with their money and influence, the Governor for his renomination and election to the office he now holds, or to any other, should he decline to push the case against Wade; but that if he did proceed to bring the case to trial, he (Leibowitz) would expose the Governor for having accepted a gift of whiskey from him.

The Governor accepts the challenge.
He says that in the winter of 1920
Leibowitz called on him at Annapolis with a basket of half-pint bottles of Mt. Vernon whiskey which he asked the Governor to accept; that he did not want to take the gift and told railway transportation has been Leibowitz so, but the latter seemed so skimped for the last several years, disappointed, and so anxious that he accept the gift, that rather than hurt actual decrease instead of an increase. his feelings he accepted it.

Leibowitz threat.

Mr. Leibowitz and his friends have their version of the case, ridiculing the idea that blackmail was attempted, a friend of the former going so far as to say that in so far as he (Leibowitz) may have erred, it was through ignorance on his part, and unfamiliarity with the proprieties, and that even if he gave Dr. Wade an automo-bile, he did not do so for the sake of profit hoped for, but as a favor to a friend.

In the matter of the gift of whiskey to the Governor, some hold that both violated the provisions of the Volstead act—the one in the giving, and the other in accepting. General opinion, however, seems to regard Governor's course in making the whole affair public, as the proper one under all of the circumstances.

Gettysburg College Gets Over Million | public questions. Dollars.

With the announcement at the Alumni Collation on Wednesday, in Gettysburg Academy, that the Million Dollar Endowment drive for Gettysburg College had passed the million dollar mark and was steadily mounting over that figure as reports continued to pour in, two years of patient endeavor on the part of many alumni of college were brought to a close The announcement, made by the Rev. William Sunday, of Chambersburg, general chairman of the alumni districts, was greeted with continued applause by the large gathering of alumni, faculty, members of the graduating class, honorary degree guests and out-of-town members of the Women's League.

The announcement came as a surprise to the majority of those present at the Collation dinner which followed the granting of diplomas to the graduating class and the conferring honorary degrees by the College. Even those in close touch with the drive were not left into the secret that the drive for funds, had really passed the million dollar mark.

Prior to the report of Mr. Sunday, the Rev. Dr. J. B. Baker, who for the past year has been general chairman of the drive in charge of the churches in the Lutheran synods, reported that the drive had not quite reached the The amount he reported $983,436. As this was almost $17,000 less than the goal, those present believed that the drive would have to be continued another year.—Gettysburg

Automobiles Kill More than War.

In 1921 there were more than 1,500,000 of our people killed and injured in automobile accidents-more than six times the number of Americans killed and injured in the World War. Those accidents caused disabilities and property damages amounting to more than $1,000,000,000. With 10,000,000 automobiles in every imaginable state of mechanical fitness on the streets and roads of America today, directed by 10,000,000 drivers of every conceivable shade of expertness and carefulness, the question of safety in motoring has developed into a pro blem which is the subject of much study and discussion all over the United States.

Another Cut in R. R. Wages.

The U. S. Railroad Labor Board, not influenced by strike votes on pre-vious wage cuts, last Friday announced a further cut of nearly $27,000,000 from the annual pay roll of 313,000 employees, clerks, signal men, stationary firemen. Clerks were cut 3 and 4 cents an hour, signalmen 5 cents, and firemen 2 cents. Figures in the decision showed clerks will receive, under the new scale, an average of 58.5 cents an hour compared with 34.5 cents in December 1917, when the Government took over the railroads. The firemen and oilers receive an increase to 49.6 cents.

"That the carriers shall have a fair opportunity to profit by the revival of business in order that they may expand their facilities is absolutely in-dispensable to their efficient service to the American public," the decision said. "Their unpreparedness now to cope with any greatly increased traffic is notorious. Every facility of and, as to milage there has been an

Emory L. Coblentz, Frederick county financier and former State Sena-tor, who, it has been rumored, had been promised the backing of influential party leaders in Baltimore for United States Senator, set gossip at rest yesterday by stating that he had no idea of becoming a candidate, although he admitted the matter had been proposed to him by a number of friends throughout the State. He said his business engagement during the year are such as to absolutely preclude running for any political office.

Secretary Weeks Criticised.

Secretary of War, Weeks, has raised a storm of protest because of a recent speech at Chester, Pa., in which he strongly favored modification of the Volstead Act, and the question is being raised as to whether he represents an Administration policy.

Neither the President nor any other member of his Cabinet except Secretary Fall, however, has any answer to make to the question. Mr. Fall is frankly opposed to Volsteadism. In official circles it is indicated that, in his Chester interview, Mr. Weeks expressed only his own personal views, and it is added that he did not express them for publication, although he does not repudiate any sentiment on the liquir question which was attributed to him by his interviewers.

Great Wheat Crop Prospect.

A production of 855,000,000 bushels of wheat is in prospect according to the forecast made by the U. S. Department of Agriculture from the condition of the wheat crop on June 1. This amount is 60,000,000 bushels greater than the 1921 crop and 56,-000,000 bushels greater than the average crop for the 5 years, 1916-1920.

Both the winter and spring wheat crops have a prospect of exceeding not only last year's crop but the 5-year average as well. The production forecast for winter wheat is 607,000,000 bushels, an amount 20,000,000 bushels greater than the 1921 crop and 41,-000,000 bushels above the average for the period, 1916-1920. The spring wheat production is forecast at 247,-000,000 bushels, an amount 39.000,000 bushels greater than the 1921 and 14,000,000 bushels above the 5year average.

Changing Occupation.

More formers have retired within the past five years than within any previous twenty year period, or it so appears without having exact figures before us. Some have sold their farms and bought property in towns; some have held their farms, and rented them; others have sold, and are renting homes. No doubt the reasons for these changes vary considerably, but in most cases the retirement must mean that farmers have made enough money-or think they haveto "take things easy" hereafter; and it goes without saying that some of them either have wished, or will wish, their farms back again.

The strenuousness of farm work, the difficulty in securing help when needed, and other handicaps connected with farm work, are very discouraging, and it is a proper course to stop hard work, when possible, before one is worn out, especially when a good opportunity presents itself to do so with apparently good financial results; but, with all this, the end is not always as it seems to be.

Taking a life-time of work as it comes, as a rule-no matter what the occupation-there is not much difference in the summing up of hardships and objectionable features. The mechanic, the merchant, the shop laborer, the monthly salaried man, all find the "hard job" periods, and long for a change to something easier, or more profitable, as he thinks. "Scarcity of help" in some cases, is balanced by new problems equally as hard, in other cases. No man who is compelled to work for a living, has an easy job of it anywhere, and one only finds this out when he changes occupations and living conditions.

The Little Toe Unnecessary.

For quite some time the science of surgery has tended toward claiming, and trying to prove, that the Creator did not make the human body just right, but that certain portions of the body are superfluous, and especially when not acting just right, we are better off without. The latest idea in this direction, is, that the little toe is absolutely unnecessary, according to pedologists, consequently it should be cut off, and thereby permit cornless

In other words, the modern shoe does not harmonize with the build of feet; therefore, the feet should be shaped to suit the fashion in shoes, and the little toe ought to go, first. Just how the bunion is to be disposed of, remains for future invention.

Considering the many thousands of operations for appendicitis, tonsils and adenoids each year, and the various improvements (?) credited to modern surgery, this little toe idea is not preposterous; in fact, it is said that already many "society women" have undergone the amputation and are said to highly recommend it.

A dozen or more races, not American born, including many hyphenated naturalized Americans, regardless of color of skin or objectionable racial preclivities, would presumably not come under the Arkansas ban, which seems like "straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel." The fact is, many states admit full negro children to white schools, when they come under the requirements placed on all, along with all sorts of foreign children, the broad idea being that our public schools are intended, primarily, to educate the young to become good American citizens, and no evil results from these mixed schools are prom-

Another Bonding Proposition.

Birmingham, Alabama, affords, at this writing, an example of prodigality that should illustrate the impracticability of men. With a bonded indebtedness exceeding $11,000,000 there is pending a proposition to issue $7,000,000 more. The purpose of this huge loan does not enter this discussion necessarily, but the avowed object is a worthy one—the schools. It it said the ambitious program of the Board of Education is not intended to be completed at once, but building operations are to be extended over five years. The full amount is to be provided in a single authorization to avoid the uncertainty attending the approval of successive smaller issues.

If the city is able to make the loan at par at five percent, the interest will amount to $350,000 a year. This, added to fixed interest charges on other bonds, would carry the interest cost of Birmingham's bonded debt to more than $1,000,000. Opponents of the bond issue claim they are anxious for improvement of education but insists the same result can be reached without adding to the interest burden. They point out that the present revenue yields a surplus about equal to the interest of the proposed bonds, and by raising by taxation the amount intended for interest the new con- some one thing or two in the national struction would be accomplished without the payment of interest at all There is logic in this plan.

There is an element in the promotion of public bond issues which seems to stand out in this matter—the advancement of selfish ends. There is almost always, for that matter. Smith has land he desires to unload. He finds the market dull and his land unsalable; he at once sees the necessity for a public enterprise to take it off his hands. Jones may have idle money, and these bonds are a safe investment. Brown wants employment. This may assure it temporarily. Any of a dozen reasons my influence the ordinary man. But the real basis for the demand may safely be ascribed to Usury, a desire to keep up the interest rate on bonds. Without public competition for idle money, interest rates on commercial and industrial loans would not remain so high, and production would be cheapened. This in turn would tend to reduce prices in retail trade; for eventually the burden of taxation rests on the ultimate consumer.-Dearborn Independent.

Time to Rally to the National Defense

"As a man thinks, so he is." As a the Unitd States is a state of mind.

Four-fifths of the matter spread on the printed page in this country today is destructive in its tendency. Some of it has revolution as its objective; some a peaceful change in governmental policies; some of it is mere opposition to certain features of the legislative and administrative program of the government. All of it produces the same result; a growing discontent with the existing order and a breaking the Hagerstown & Frederick Railway down of the constructive elements in public and private affairs.

Radicalism was never before so effectively active in this country as it is today. Radicalism which strikes at the fundamentals of traditional Americanism is ten times as busy as conservatism which clings to that which is good in the existing order and opposes experimental remedies for existing abuses believed to be worse than the disease they seek to Maryland.

There are a dozen big organizations with headquarters at Washington, engaged in stirring up discontent. One of these organizations publishes a paper, violently assailing the administration and private business enterprise in the interests of the government ownership cause. The articles and cartoons in this weekly publication, with a circulation mounting well toward two millions, are violent in their appeals to class hatred. > In commenting upon the success of the Community Partnership Policy and the manner in which these securities were sought and the issue oversubscribed, an official of the Company made the following statement:

"In offering, through our Community Partnership Policy, the 7% Preferred Stock of the Company to its patrons, we felt confident that the merits of these securities were fully appreciated by our patrons and our judgment has been confirmed by the fact that hundreds of our customers have availed themselves of the opportunity to become financially interested in this rapidly growing electric light and power business, which is recognized as being of the most permanent and enduring character and in which the principles of a safe and sound investment are so firmly imbedded. The fact that these securities ofnation things, so it is. The funda- fered a Home Investment in a busimental difference between Russia and ness which is efficiently managed by representative men of the several home communities is also recognized as one of the factors which created the demand for this offering and resulting in a large oversubscription.

"The magnitude of the business of our Company has not until recently been fully recognized, and those who are investing in electric utility securities appreciate the fact that electric development is even now only in its infancy with room for constant growth from year to year. The policy Company several years before the change of its name to The Potomac Public Service Company has resulted in an expansion to a point where the Company and its subsidiaries now serve over 16,000 electric light and power customers. The territory covered by this wide range of service extends southward to Front Royal, Virginia; eastward to Mt. Airy and Union Bridge, Carroll County, Maryland; northward to Chambersburg, Pennsylvania and westward to Frostburg, and Mt. Savage, Allegheny county,

"The teritory thus served covers an area of approximately 5,000 square miles and a recent survey made by the Company indicates a total of approximately 34,000 prospective patrons in addition to the thousands already served. It can therefore readily be appreciated that to develop the business to reach with electric service these thousands of prospective users, additional capital will have to be provided from time to time. With this in view it is the plan of the management to still further extend to its patrons through the Community Partnership

Eskimo Ivory Carving.

One of the most widely followed professions in the Far North is that of the ivory carver, and it is not only an industry but a pastime as well, filling many of the long evenings of the lengthy Arctic winter. The Eskimos have never attained the perfection of the Chinese artisans, due partly to the greater crudity of their methods and partly to the fact that they use the ivory of the walrus instead of that of the elephant, but some of their products show nevertheless a great meas ure of artistry.

The stock articles which the Eskimos manufacture are beads, cribbage boards, napkin rings and crochet needles. ANGORAS ARE HIGHLY USEFUL Animal Is Disease Resistant, Thrives on Detrimental Plants and Is Profitable.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) The Angora goat, disease resistant, thriving on the twigs, buds and leaves of brush and other detrimental plants, and supplying excellent meat and highly useful hair and skins, is still unknown to most people of this country which is one of the largest raisers of Angoras in the world. These are a few of the interesting facts brought out in a recent Farmers' Bulletin 1203, The Angora Goat, published by the United States Department of Agriculture, which contains detailed information about these useful animals, from a brief history of their development down to management of goat ranches, the marketing of mohair, and the treatment of diseases

Texas is the leading goat-raising region of the United States, having more Angoras than all other states combined. Conditions of topography, altitude, climate, and price of land have all joined to help make the ranches successful. Open-brush range, similar to that in Texas, makes the remaining part of the Southwest second in Angora ranging. Many fine orchards in the Northwest stand on land that was brushed off by the goats, and there is much land in that region that is adapted for permanent goat ranging. The Ozarks, in southern Missouri and northern Arkansas, contain many bands of Angoras and will support more on a permanent brush-utilizing basis supplemented with winter feeding. Outside the areas where there is typical goat range Angoras may be used for brush-clearing by handling them much as sheep are handled.

The bulletin may be obtained fre by addressing the Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C.

ALFALFA TEA NOT IN FAVOR

Evidence Does Not Show Any Great Advantage to Be Gained by Use of Liquor.

Alfalfa tea, made by pouring boiling water on hay and allowing it to steep for a few hours, or by stirring alfalfa meal into cool water and straining the mixture after several hours, has been highly recommended from time to time for feeding young animals, but the evidence reviewed by the United States Department of Agriculture does not show any great advantage to be gained through the use of this liquor. Some experiment stations have found that pigs made better gains when cornmeal and middlings were mixed with alfalfa tea rather than water, but the additional gains were hardly enough to pay for the increased expense. Calves fed alfalfa tea made poor gains and suffered much from scours. On the whole, the practice of making this tea for live stock should be discouraged, says the department.

HELP EFFICIENCY OF HORSE

Numerous Inquiries Received at Missouri College of Agriculture for Hitches.

Farmers are making use of power in larger units than ever before. Numerous inquiries for three-horse hitches for wagons and five to eight-horse hitches for plows are being received by the Missouri College of Agriculture says J. C. Wooley of the agricultural engineering department. The three-horse load will take but little more of the man's time than the two, but his efficiency has been increased 50 per cent.

Oats Best for Sows.

Oats is a much better grain for prood sows than corn, and a mixture of about equal parts of oats and corn is better than either grain alone. Alfalfa or even clover hay will pay good returns when fed to brood sows.

Alfalfa Bad for Horses. It seems advisable, judging from the results of experiment, not to feed a heavy alfalfa ration with corn to growing horses, particularly to purebreds when seeking the best possible development.

THE POTOMAC PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY

OFFERS TO ITS PATRONS AND THE PUBLIC $300,000 Par Value—7% Cumulative Preferred Stock

BUSINESS:

The Potomac Public Service Company and its subsidiaries generate, transmit and distribute Electric Energy for light and power purposes throughout a territory of approximately 5,000 square miles in Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and Pennsylvania. The population of the territory served is approximately 250,000 inhabitants and the demand for electric service is constantly increasing, this being especially true with industries which are rapidly turning to electricity as its source of power.

PROPERTY:

The Company and its subsidiaries own and operate four Water Power Electric Generating Plants located on the Potomac, Shenandoah and Great Cacapon rivers, approximately 41% of the electric energy developed during the year 1921 having been developed by water power. There are also owned and operated two modern Steam Power Electric Generating Plants, one of which is located near Millville, West Virginia and the other at Security, near Hagerstown, Maryland. In addition to these power plants and the necessary modern high tension transmission lines and transformation stations operated, the Company also owns and operates 118 miles of electric railway with both passenger and freight service, as well as the Gas Service in Frederick, Maryland.

STABILITY:

The electric business is of the most permanent and enduring character and the principles of a safe and sound investment are firmly imbedded therein. Practically speaking, electricity, when once installed, is never discontinued and its use is daily increasing.

SECURITY:

There was reported for the year 1921 earnings applicable to dividends on the outstanding preferred stock of more than three times the amount required.

Really Dangerous One Is Where the Subject Is Not Really Conscious of Being Tired.

Experiments carried out to test the mental effects of loss of sleep have revealed the remarkable fact that there are two distinct phases of fatigue.

The first is one of stimulus, under which work is done rather better than under normal conditions. Then follows a phase of much longer duration in which the body makes good its losses-a period characterized by general loss of accuracy, power of concentration and retentiveness. There is, however, no sense of fatigue during this phase-quite the reverse.

What is called carelessness is often due to this second stage of fatigue. When a man knows he is fatigued, he naturally takes excessive precautions, but when the second stage comes along, he does not feel tired, and consequently carelessness steps in. Some of the famous workers of the world seem to be able to work abnormally long hours and live abnormally long lives. Possibly their bodies supply naturally a fatigue anti-toxin. There is a fortune awaiting the scientist who discovers an anti-toxin to cure ca "ssarss!-London Tit-Bits. !

TURK HAD EYE TO BUSINESS

Edhem Said Bey Got Bevy of Circassian Girls for Far Less Than Purchase Price.

Edhem Said Bey, a Turk who was eeling acutely the servant problem in onstantinople, tells of going to Asia Minor and buying half a dozen servents. He went to the first Circassian village and asked the chief of the delers to exhibit the daughters for

In the evening 15 or 20 girls were ssembled in the town hall with their fathers. They were dressed to show themselves off to advantage. The girls danced to the tune of primitive oriental music composed of a flute and cymbals. Edhem Said Bey carefully noted which girls pleased him the most, motioned them to one side, and called their fathers.

After long bargaining with the fathers the bey went to the market and bought donkeys, buffaloes and silver-mounted arms for a tenth of the price he had agreed upon for the girls. These were then presented to the fathers as payment. A buffalo which the bey had bought for 20 gold pieces, he would offer as a priceless animal to be credited to him in the payment for the girl at five or ten times that price. His object was to make the father think he had received two or three hundred gold pieces for his daughter, although the actual value of the material delivered might be only one-tenth of that amount, so that the father might boast of a high price to his friends.

Free Yourself from Elevator Dockage

Dockage at the elevator is like throwing money to the dogs. It is needless waste of good money-a loss largely avoidable. And it all comes off your PROFIT BUSHEL. It takes 4 out of every 5 bushels you thresh to pay for producing the crop. The fifth bushel is the "pay" bushel. And when you take unclean grain to the elevator and get "docked," the dockage comes right off that fifth bushel.

You can be practically free from dockage, like thousands of other farmers, by "threshing your own" with a

Buttons and Personality. One of those business psychologists -his specialty, we believe, is salesmanship-says that a man can be correctly judged by the third button of his waistcoat. If the button stands out as boldly as the other buttons he is the real thing; but if he caves in at this particular spot and the button is covered by wrinkles in his vest he is deficient in personality and pep and dynamics and all the other latest things that do be out. We wonder if the psychologists are not fooling themselves a great deal. What becomes of this sure test of personality if the man has no waistcoat? We wonder whether Lincoln's third button stood out manfully or was obscured by the wrinkles which, if pictures of him can be depended upon, were a distinctive feature of his dress .- New Bedford Standard.

Add Magnetic Influence.

A strange phenomenon, due, according to scientific authorities, to still unexplained magnetic influences, has for a whole month been observed daily in London, Watches and chronometers have been stopping suddenly. It has been useless to take them to the watchmaker, who could not detect the trouble, nor remedy it. After the lapse of an hour or two, however, the watches begin going again, and all that is needed is to set them at the right hour.

In connection with the general program for the investigation and improvement of housing conditions now being carried out by the bureau of standards, several trips of inspection have been made by members of the staff of that bureau to study improvements in the building of concrete houses. The trip recently made included many projects in the vicinity of Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Chicago and Minneapolis. Great improvements, both in the ordinary uses of the concrete and in the architectural and ornamental effects obtained, were noted on this trip. It seems certain that some style of concrete house will become very common in the near fu-

In New Zealand there is in use an automatic device for telling railway assengers the name of the next station. The names of the various stations are printed on a roll, which is rotated by toothed wheels. A "tripper" is placed about on the track or by its side, between each station, and this is so adjusted as to strike a lever on the passing car. The motion is communicated to the toothed wheels governing the roll bearing the station names, and the ringing of an automatic bell announces to the passengers the fact that the name of the next station is on Wonderful Imagination.

A bright boy was asked by his governess to write a description of his (imaginary) travels in Italy. She was rather staggered, however, when she read: "After sailing about Venice on a gorgonzola and being disappointed in the smallness of the boasted Bridge of Size,' I went on to Rome. Again I was disappointed. The Coliseum there compared unfavorably with the one in London. The macaroni fields were white for harvest, but the spaghetti was only just in bloom. There was nothing on at the Vaticombs, as the pope no longer lives underground.'

All Must Make Sacrifices.

Would we codify the laws that should reign in households, and whose daily transgression annoys and mortifies us and degrades our household life, we must learn to adorn every day with sacrifices. Good manners are made up of petty sacrifices. Temperance, courage, love are made up of the same jewels.-Emerson.

Automatic Refrigerators Save Foods

Refrigerators are not bought these days as they used to be, when all we wanted to know was whether an "ice box" was "big enough" to hold all the things we wished to chuck into it.

Today we are modern. We want to know if a refrigerator is or is NOT an "ice-cater"; 've want to know if our foods will keep COLD, sweet and wholesome for the entire family; we want to know that we are getting not only the most scientifically-built but the BEST-built, and the MOST-ECONOMICAL refrigerator on the market. Also we want a "good-looking" refrigerator.

That's why we recommend The Automatic

We are also Agents for the Famous White Frost, the all-white round Refrigerator. We also handle two lower priced lines—four lines in all—so you can buy just what you want, to suit your purse.

Mary Ellen's Fortune

By JANE OSBORN

Čerovo de de la constantidad de

Mary Ellen was leaning eagerly forward, carefully pushing aside the white ruffled curtains, lips parted, eye alert for a glimpse of the first thrush that was singing as if his little life depended upon carrying the news of spring to every living thing.

Mary Ellen drank in his rhapsody enviously. She did so want to be happy and carefree, even for a little while. But she could not, for death had laid a heavy burden upon her conscientious heart. She must be head of the house since her father's death, for her mother was frail, and the two little sisters were a great responsibility.

She hurriedly gathered up her work to make up for lost time in listening to the thrush; the little ones must have their dainty white dress. "Oh, if I could only make some moneyjust a little would help," she sighed. She was thinking of the eggs she must buy at 50 cents a dozen.

Mary Ellen had a secret. She had been saving the eggshells, carefully emptied, and was painting them for table decorations. A thought inspired her. She would take some of her prettiest shells, show them to the baker and ask him to save shells for er, and hastened to the bakery where Mr. Bower was not busy. He admired the grotesque faces and was vastly amused at the brownies glued to the sides of the egg which was surmounted by a cute paper cap.

"Bless my soul! Miss Lane, you've solved a problem that was vexing me -my window," he declared, drawing Mary Ellen's box to him. "Now look suppose you help me. furnish enough of these, and I'll pay you for them, besides putting in some of my stuff for the work.

"Oh, Mr. Bower, I'd love it," and she turned enthusiastically to the window. "Why, I know already what we could do. I had intended to roast a nice chicken, make a lot of these little brownie figures climbing around over the platter, and have maple sugar cups out of the shells-

"You're a genius, girl! Why couldn't I roast a turkey-

"Oh, and I'd get out grandmother's old well-an'-tree--'

"Why, those Sheffield silver meat platters with the gravy well in the end; they called them well-and-trees. I'll polish it up, and that will be the center. Then, Mr. Bower, if you're sure they'd be safe, I'll bring over some other old things and we'll make a gorgeous window. I'll color the eggs and fix everything." "My window usually costs me from $50 to $100. Now, you look around, figure on what you want to do and ask my help when you need it. I'll give you $25 for yourself if you can keep the expenses down to about $50," Mary Ellen was in the seventh heaven of delight. She asked for measurements of the window, went outside to get perspective, walked up and down on each side of the street to get effect, roughly sketched the window on a card, noting her findings, oblivious to the admiring gaze of Mr. Bower, who was chuckling to himself: "A sure find—she's a natural window trimmer!"

She came back, her blue eyes dancing with enthusiasm. "Oh, I know its going to be the very nicest work I ever did. Of course, I'll have to have help-

"Fine! Clinton, my son, is coming Mary Ellen's face fell. "I thought you'd help me; you're so good to understand and-

Mr. Bower smiled. "Now, you go ahead and get your plans up. If the young man won't do, then I wiil." Mary Ellen grasped her box of preclous shells and hurried home. It could remain a secret no longer; mother must be told, for it would take time and work to do all she meant to do.

Mrs. Lane listened, at first wearily; then she caught the infection of her daughter's happiness. She forgot her misery in seeing the cunning figures take shape. She cut and fluted paper frills, insisted on polishing the silver and doing all she could to save the time of Mary Ellen.

When all was ready Mary Ellen asked Mr. Bower to come and inspect the work. They had it staged in their little parlor. She was disappointed to find Clinton at home, and Mr. Bower insisted that he come, too, though he was secretly amused that Mary Ellen did not assent cordially. And Clint, who had watched her expressive face, was determined not to be left out.

Mary Ellen had become very fond of Mr. Bower, who treated her like a daughter, and she laughed and blushed with delight at his unstinted praise, declaring, "Now all we've got to do. Clint, is for you youngsters to transfer this to the store window."

"It really ought to be done overnight," said Mary Ellen, "and mother says, Mr. Bower, if you'll lend your car she'll come as critic."

"Just the thing," declared Clint. "Dad and your mother can supervise. I'll be chore boy and you the artistic

And when the curtain rolled up a few days later, the Bower display was the artistic top-notcher in window trimming. The wonderful table with its old silver, its delectable viands, the beautifully browned turkey on the old Lane well-and-tree platter, the inimitable brownies climbing all over things, the eggshell favors, the two beautiful dolls dressed as waitresses and the rabbits fenced off in a corner were all exclaimed over by children and grownups alike. It surely pulled the trade. Mary Ellen and her mother were kept more than busy making decorations for customers.

"We've just got to have Mary Ellen in the business!" declared Mr. Bower to Clint as they reckoned up the profits on the window. "She's so fond of you, dad that she'll hardly look at me," complained Clint. His father laughed delightedly. "She's bashful. You tell her you'll be as nice a man as your dad when you're as old. For if you don't brace up and marry her, I'll disinherit you and make her my business partner."

CARPENTER BEE WORKS HARD

Only Point Against Insect Is That It Has Little to Show for Its Industry.

An interesting creature is the carpenter bee, whose scientific name is Xylocopa. This little animal possesses the ferocious look of the bumblebee, but, it seems, does not sting, as does that bete noir of the small boy in the country. I Hadra Company The carpenter bee bears a patch on its forehead, whereby it may be dis-tinguished from the bumblebee. This creature has a liking for paling fences and porches. As a general thing, it begins carpentering work on the underside of a bit of timber, so that the rain cannot enter its house when com-

This industrious insect does not follow the line of least resistance which might lead it to soft or decayed timbers. It invariably selects a firm joist and begins on this to bore a hole. The implements are, of course, the capable jaws of the bee, and the job is a hard and tedious one. Most of the work is done by the female bee, because the house is built so that she may have a place to lay her eggs and hatch her young. When the hole has been dug to the proper depth and an egg is laid, she covers it with a wall of earth or clay. Then she lays another egg and partitions this off. In good time her labors are finished. Then the heat of summer hatches out the little bees and they dig their way to the outside. The carpenter bee is said to be one of the most remarkable examples of patience and industry in the insect world. The only fault is that she does not store honey.-New York Herald.

Weird Power of X-Rays. In a lecture before the Royal institute in London there was described an experiment in which the X-rays were caused to reveal the structure, almost invisible, of an alloy of gold and sodium, which is a silver-white, soft metal, fusing at a temperature of between 206 degrees and 207 degrees Fahrenheit. When allowed to solidify slowly and then cut in sections, the alloy of gold and sodium appears perfectly uniform to the eye. but when exposed to the X-rays the actual structure is shown, because sodium is transparent to the rays, while gold is opaque to them. In this way it was discovered that the sodium was distributed in crystalline plates, while the gold was concentrated between these plates, which traversed the solid mass both vertically and horizontally. Manchu Prince Sees First Auto.

In sharp contrast to the establishing of an 800-mile mail and passenger airplane service by China and its interest in other modern activities, is the experience of a party of Americans on a trip from Peking to the Ming eastern tombs by automobile. A Manchu prince, who met them at the tombs, was greatly frightened when the American automobile, the first he had ever seen, appeared. He could not overcome his terror sufficiently to accept an invitation to ride, and withdrew to a safe distance. The members of his bodyguard, armed with broadswords and even bows and ar rows, were both terrified and fascinated by the car .-- Popular Mechanics

HOW=

FAMOUS COLORED CHECKS CAME TO POPULAR FAVOR. -Sir Walter Scott's black-andwhite tweed trousers figured in a paper dealing with the de signing and coloring of Scotch tweeds read at a textile congress held at Hawick some time ago. The famous author was one of the earliest wearers of tweed, and the first pieces were made in the black-and-white de-

Colored checks were introduced by accident. A manufacturer had a number of pieces and the white was so impure and dirty-looking that they could not be sold. Then someone suggested that if the pieces were dyed brown the defect would be covered. The suggestion was acted upon and a new check of black and brown was the result.

The new color was sent to London and sold rapidly. It was a short step to dye black and green and black and blue, and to make broken checks, and the trade increased amazingly.

It was now possible for a lady to have a reversible skirt made up in such a way that she might appear at one time in a modest blue and at another in the tartan of her clan.

VICTIM OF OWN HANDIWORK

How Maker of Boston Stocks Came to Be First to Undergo the Punishment.

When Boston was a little Puritan village, the favorite mode of punishment for small misdemeanors was to place the culprit in the stocks. By a curious chance the first person to be 30 punished after the stocks were constructed was the carpenter who made them. The record relates that "Edward Palmer, for his extortion, taking 1 pound, 11 shillings, 7 pence for the plank and woodwork of Boston stocks, is fined 5 pounds and censured to be set an hour in the stocks."

They dealt in strange punitive measures in those days. It was the practice, in the case of persons guilty of "exhorbitancy of the tongue in rayling and scolding," either to gag the offender or set him-more frequently her-in a ducking-stool to be dipped three times in some convenient pond. Another measure was to place the guilty party's tongue in a cleft stick, and in this manner to stand him up to the ridicule of the public.

How High Birds Fly.

Astronomical methods have been successfully applied to the solution of a mooted question as to the height of night flights of migrating birds. Two telescopes were placed at measured distances apart (from ten to twenty-one feet), on an east and west line, and with them two observers simultaneously watched the moon. The track of birds flying across the face of the moon were noted by each observer independently on a lunar chart, ready at his side. The tracks, being projected from separate points of observation, of course, were not identical in position and their distance apart furmished the basis for a calculation of the "parallax" of the flying birds. Two sets of observations in one case were made, in May and October. The deducted heights above the ground varied from 1,400 to 5,400 feet. The last, however was an extreme case, most of the measures running from 1,500 to 2,500 or 3,000 feet.

How "Gophers" Are Classed.

The name "gopher," which is applied to quite a variety of creatures in various sections of the American continent, is a corruption of the French "gaufre," maning a honeycomb. It was applied by the early French settlers to a number of burrowing animals from their habit of honeycombing the earth.

In Canada and Illinois the name is today applied to the gray burrowing squirrel and in Wisconsin to the gray striped squirrel which, in this section, called a chipmunk. In Missouri a gopher is a brown pouched rat. In Georgia he is a snake, and in Florida he is a turtle. Minnesota is called the Gopher state from the fact that the striped squirrel was formerly found there in great numbers.

How Machine Cuts Mortar.

A special machine, which is intended for cutting out the mortar between bricks, is described with illustration in a late issue of Popular Mechanics Magazine. It consists of a small wheel which is operated at 3,500 revolutions per minute by a flexible shaft from a one-fourth horsepower electric me-A case, partly covering the wheel, extends down to form a handle, and a safety guard is provided to protect the operator's hands from flying bits of mortar. Wheels of various thicknesses are supplied so that they may be changed to fit layers of mortar of different width.

How to Solder Aluminum.

To solder aluminum, first make a soldering bit from a piece of 5% or 14 inches round or square aluminum. Next, tin the parts to be soldered with a composition of 81 per cent tin, 16 per cent aluminum, and 3 per cent cop-

After the copper has fused, the aluminum should be added little by little, stirring the mixture thoroughly all the time. The tin and a small portion of tallow should be added. Do not overheat the composition .-- Popular Science Monthly.

Those of the Right Hand Quicker and More Accurate Than Those of the Left.

The fingers of your right hand are quicker and more accurate than those of your left, says the Popular Science Monthly. The ring finger of your left hand shows a burst of speed whenever it can work with the forefinger of your right hand; and it slows down noticeably when it must team with the middle finger of your left hand.

Two fingers working together are faster than one going it alone. And a combination of two fingers on opposite hands is faster than two fingers on the same hand.

Practice, while it increases the speed of all fingers, tends to increase the rate of the slow ones more than the fast ones, thus overcoming the handicap of the ones that lag naturally.

If you are a typist or planist, perhaps you have already discovered some of these facts about the workings of your hands. They were conclusively demonstrated by a series of tests conducted at the Carnegie Institute of Technology by Esther L. Gatewood.

Hindus' Love of Jewelry.

The ruling passion of the natives of India is an inordinate love of jewelry. Every Hindu as soon as he has accumulated any surplus cash, immediately converts the same into gaudy and often expensive ornaments for himself, his wife and children.

Every Hindu wears earrings and, on great occasions, as many as half a dozen pairs. Poor people who cannot afford gold pass copper wires through their ears and noses. In some districts married men wear silver rings on their toes, and another fashion is to have tied on the upper arm a gold box containing a charm to avert bad luck. It is the women, however, who appear in the greatest splendor. It is not uncommon to see a woman attending some festival or other with decorations in her hair, her ears, her nose, around her forehead, her neck, her arms, her wrists, her fingers, about her breast and neck, and around her knees, calves, ankles and toes.

Origin of "Fifty-Fifty."

"Fifty-fifty" originated in the theater box office. It developed back in the old days before engagements for various companies were arranged from New York by owners of chains of theaters. Then each company had to look out for its own engagements and made the best deal it could for a division of the receipts with the owner of the theater, explains the Detroit News. "Sixty-forty" was a good deal the "forty" going to the house. More often it was a "sixty-five-thirty-five"

So the adoption of "fifty-fifty" as an expression to indicate an absolutely even division of anything, whether in or out of the theater, was a perfectly natural development.

One Good Effect of Sermon.

A southern revival meeting was in progress. The parson was in an ecstatic state of reform. "Brudders and sistahs, I wants to warn you against de heinous crime ob shooting craps fuddermo' I wants to warn you 'bout de heinous crime ob stealing wa-At this juncture a darky in the back of the tent rose up, snapped his fingers, and sat down again. "Wharfo', brudder, does yo' rise up and snap yo' fingahs at my adjurations?" "You jes' reminds me, pahson, whar all I lef' ma jackknife," was the penitent response.

One Method of Ghost-Baiting.

The London Daily Express says that the bishop of London may like this, or he may not. Anyway, it is true: A correspondent tells me that the other day he was in a part of Kent where there is an interesting thatched cottage reputed to be 600 years old, and haunted. The tenants told him that on the first night of their occupation their dogs showed the greatest reluctance to enter the bedroom. Ultimately one was persuaded to sleep there, and in the middle of the night he awoke and growled furiously. Still growling, he advanced with bristling hackles toward an old Jacobean cupboard in the corner. Obviously there was something uncanny about. "What did you do?"

asked my friend at this point. "I stuck the bishop of London's picture on the door," said the mistress of the house, triumphantly. "That did it."

Odd Name for Legislature.

The first legislature of the state of California is known in the political history of that commonwealth as "the Legislature of a Thousand Drinks." There are various theories as to how it earned this sobriquet, the most popular being that it is simply an allusion to the well-known tendency exhibited by the early Californians to find in the goblet everything from a mode of entertaining potential constituents to a balm for the defeated candidate.

But the term probably originated, not from this far-flung custom, but from a man named Green, who conducted a saloon near the state house in San Jose, where the body met. When the legislature adjourned it was his custom to meet the lawmakers at the door and call out, "Come on, boys, let's take a thousand drinks!"

Reached His Destination.

The steep stairway called "Breakneck Steps," connecting the upper and lower towns of Quebec, has been the scene, according to old inhabitants, of incidents both tragic and ludicrous. One approaches this stairway (even with its Twentieth century improvements) in tight-lipped apprehension, writes a recent visitor to the French-Canadian city. But in the old days, at the height of its dangerous career, to reach the bottom without accident was an achievement.

The tale is still being told of the gentleman who tripped on the second step, fell, but slid to safety, bearing on his back a lady, who at his tripping had also tripped and in her plight clutched the gentleman's knotted tippet. At the bottom of the stairway the gentleman politely doffed his hat and said:

"Pardon me, madame, but this is as far as I go!"

Peculiar Indian Custom.

It is an inviolable covenant within the Navajo Indian nation that after the marriage a son-in-law must never set eyes on his mother-in-law, and vice versa, a mother-in-law must never see her son-in-law. The daughters-in-law are not mentioned.

According to Navajo traditions, a Navajo girl is considered the property of her parents until she marries. Prior to her marriage a contract is made between the father of the girl and the destined bridegroom. When a Navajo woman marries she becomes free and may leave her husband for sufficient cause. A warrior of one clan must marry a maiden of one of the 51 others, and vice versa. The descent of the clans is passed along by the female line.

LESSON FOR JUNE 25

REVIEW: JUDAH'S PROSPERITY AND ADVERSITY

GOLDEN TEXT-"Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord."—Ps. 33:12.
PRIMARY AND JUNIOR TOPIC—Men Who Obeyed God.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC

True and False Leaders of Judah. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC -Some Lessons From Judah's History.

I. Central Thought of Each Lesson Gathered Around the Key Words of the Day's Lesson Subject, Namely, Prosperity and Adversity.

A good outline is the following from Crannell's Pocket Lessons:

1. Judah's Prosperity. Based on-(1) Reliance on God, lesson 1. (2) Courageous Venture for God,

(3) Business Methods for God,

(5) The Law and Leadership of God, lesson 7. (6) Wise Leadership Back to God,

(4) The Vision of God, lesson 5.

2. Judah's Adversity. Due to-(1) Presuming Upon God's Blessing, lesson 4.

Jesson 12 II. Golden Text Review.

Assign the texts to your class the preceding Sunday and ask them to show how the lesson illumines the text, or ask the class to prepare on all the texts and have the members of the class draw the text and give the answer.

III. Character Study or Portrait Re-

Assign the following characters the Sunday before: Asa, Joash, Jehoiada, Uzziah, Isaiah, Hezekiah, Hilkiah, Jeremiah, Baruch, Jehoiakim, Ebedmelech. Zedekiah.

IV. The Summary Method. This method calls for the salient facts of each lesson with a statement of its outstanding teaching. Note the following suggestions:

Lesson 1. Asa cleared the land of idolatry and called upon Judah to seek the Lord. Because he rested upon the Lord, God gave him victory over his enemies.

Lesson 2. Athaliah attempted to destroy the seed royal and then usurp the throne. Jeholada checkmated her by hiding away Joash for six years. At an appointed time Joash was crowned king and the usurper slain. Every attempt to thwart God's pur-

Lesson 3. Jesus arose from the dead, showed himself to His disciples and sent them forth as witnesses for Him. Certainty of the resurrection of Christ is essential to witness for Him.

Lesson 4. Uzziah made a notable civic and military record; but in his pride he presumptuously intruded into the priest's office. As a judgment God smote him with leprosy. "Pride goeth before destruction, and a haughty spirit before a fall."

Lesson 5, Isalah's vision of God brought him to a sense of his sinfulness. Man's supreme need today is a vision of God. Lesson 6. Isaiah foresaw the end of all strife in the world through the establishment of Christ's kingdom. Peace and restoration shall come to the earth when Christ shall come and remove from men's hearts the cause for strife.

Lesson 7. Hezekiah led his people back to God. This he did by means of the passover feast. The only way for a sinning and divided people to get back to God and be united is around the crucified Lord. Lesson 8. Through the repairing of the temple the law of God was found. When it was read before the king it brought penitent sorrow. God accepted his penitence and postponed the evil day.

Lesson 9. Jeremiah was arrested and brought to trial because he boldly proclaimed God's word to the nation. The one whom God calls to proclaim His word should faithfully discharge his duty regardless of what men may Lesson 10. Jehoiakim tried to destroy God's Word by burning it. Trying to destroy God's Word will not avert His judgments.

Lesson 11. Because of Jeremiah's tidelity to God he was cast into prison. Casting the prophet into the dungeon will not turn aside God's judgments.

Lesson 12. Nebuchadnezzar captured Jerusalem and carried away the people captives. Though God's judgments tarry they eventually fall.

In His Steps.

For even hereunto were ye called: because Christ also suffered for us. leaving us an example, that ye should follow his steps.—I Peter 2:21.

Trusting Men.

The man who trusts men will make fewer mistakes than he who distrusts them .-- Cavour.

June 25 "Duties: What They Are and How to Do Them"

Ephesians 4:25-32; 5:1, 2

The fourth and fifth chapters of Ephesians deal with the walk of the believer. The opening words of both chapters are an appeal to "walk worthy of the calling wherewith ye were called." What that calling is may be seen in the preceding chapters. Out from among the world, God has chosen and called a people for his Son. These chosen and called ones are raised from the death of sin and quickened into newness of life just as really as Christ was raised from the tomb (Eph. 2:4-9). Being so quickened and raised, they form a new creation and are God's own workmanship, the product of his grace and power (2:10). They are "made nigh" to God "through the blood of Christ," and are given access to the Father through the work of the Holy Spirit. They form the spiritual temple which God inhabits (2:22). They are called saints and beloved children. Their destiny is shown in 2:7. These things never would have been known apart from revelation. They belong to the things which eye hath not seen nor ear heard, neither have entered the heart of man. They are the things revealed by the Spirit (1 Cor. 2-9, 10). Those who know these things never have time or thought for another gospel which is not another (Gal. 1:6, 7). They realize that they have been created anew in Christ, unto good works, prepared by God for them to walk in. They believe in the Scripture "to every man his work," but for the artificial "social gospel," so called, they have no heart.

PUT BIBLE ABOVE ALL ELSE

Writer's Poetic Description of King David's Love of the Scriptures of His Day.

In the days of King David the Bible was a scanty book; yet he loved it well, and found daily wonders in it. Genesis, with its sublime narration of how God made the worlds, with its glimpses of patriarchal piety, and dark disclosures of gigantic sin; Exodus, with its glorious marchings through that great wilderness, its thrilling memorials of Jehovah's outstretched arm, and the volume of the written law; Leviticus, through whose flickering vistas David's eye discerned the shadows of better things to come; Numbers, with its natural history of the heart of man; Deuteronomy, with its vindication of the ways of God; Joshua and Judges, with their chapters of providence, their stirring ine! dents, and peaceful episodes; the memoir of Job, so fraught with spiritual experience; and the domestic annals of Ruth, which told to her grand. son such a tale of divine foreknowledge and love and care, all converging on himself, or rather on David's son and David's Lord; these were David's Bible, and he desired it beyond all his

UNPLEASANT LADY TO MEET

In Greek Mythology, Mere Sight of Medusa Turned the Beholder Into Stone.

The Gorgons were three monstrous females who figure to some extent in Greek mythology, particularly the G rgon Medusa, who was slain by the great hero Perseus. She was originally a beautiful girl whose hair was her principal charm, but she dared to vie in beauty with Minerva, and the resentful goddess changed her form in revenge. She had enormous swine-like teeth, sharp claws and, instead of hair, a head of live serpents. Her aspect was so frightful that the sight of her turned beholders to stone, and her cave was surrounded by the petrified forms of men and animals which had chanced to catch sight of her.

Perseus was sent to destroy her by King Polydectes of Seriphus. As e enjoyed the favor of Minerva and Mercury, these two deities aided him in his enterprise, Minerva lending him her shield and Mercury his winged sandals. He approached the Gorgon while she slept and, taking care not to look directly at her, but guided by her image reflected in the polished shield, cut off her head and gave it

Mason and Dixon Line.

The Mason and Dixon line, in United States history, is a line popularly regarded as dividing the slaveholding from the non-slaveholding states. In reality, it ran for more than one-third of its length between two slave States, Maryland and Delaware. It was run by two English engineers, Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon, between the years 1764 and 1767, for the purpose of settling the disputed boundaries between Maryland on the one side and Pennsylvania and Delaware on the other. The work was done with such skill and accuracy that a revision in 1849, with instruments of much greater precision, disclosed no error of importance.

CIVIC DUTY OF IMPORTANCE

Writer of Authority Calls Attention to Need of Co-Operation for the General Good.

Are the people in your community, as a general thing, genuinely interested in public affairs? Or are they so absorbed in their own concerns that they give little thought to civic problems and issues? Is their prevailing spirit one of hearty neighborliness? Do they co-operate to maintain a pleasant community life?

Are they free from the snobbishness of wealth? Are they tolerant in regard to religious questions? Do they frown upon petty gossip and all scandalmongering?

Have they a proper pride in the appearance of their homes and streets, so that the neighborhood maintains an attractive appearance? Or is their attitude in regard to this-as in regard to compliance with public-health regulations—one of indifference?

These are questions of more than academic interest to you. They bear directly on your welfare, and in especial on the future well-being of your children.

It goes without saying that you wish to see those children grow to be efficient and worthy men and women. Do not forget that the kind of community in which they are reared is bound to play a part in determining the kind of men and women they shall

Do not think that if the life of your community is an inferior life your children will be unaffected by it. They are certain to absorb something of its spirit to their lasting hurt. Whereas, if it is a superior life the benefit to them will be equally lasting.

Now ask yourself whether, as a member of the community, you are helping to raise or to lower commu-·nity standards. Put to yourself regarding yourself the same questions I have put to you regarding the community as a whole.-H. Addington Bruce in the Chicago Daily News.

The Flyless City.

The flyless city is the dream of health officials. McPherson, Kan., with a population well under ten thousand, plans to realize the dream next summer by the enforcement of an ordinance enacted by the city commission, which offers an example to every community which makes the well-being and comfort of its citizens one of the oremost considerations.

The commission, after studying the problem from all angles, has ruled that no resident of McPherson shall e allowed to keep more than one horse, cow or hog within the corporate limits. All barns, stables, chicken houses and even dog houses must be cleaned three times a week and the refuse removed outside the city, where means will be available for its destruction. Every merchant must place wire flytraps at the front and rear entrances of his place of business and all citizens must take similar precautions in their homes under penalty of incurring a fine.-Providence Jour-

Might Learn From Athenians.

To have a grownup body of citizens in a town it is essential that local loyalty, local interest, local pride, augmented by local service, be inculcated and assigned their tasks.

Why not recall the spirit and mode of ancient Athens in her period of highest civic power and grace? The Athenian youth, on reaching his majority at eighteen years, was intrusted with a citizen's weapons, the shield and spear. He took his citizen oath at a public meeting in the temple of Dionysius, where solemn rites to Zeus and the local divinities were observed in connection with a drama. Among the new Athenian citizen pledges was "Not to leave my town in a this: worse but in a better condition than I found it."-Quincy L. Wood, in the Chicago Daily News.

Petunias Single and Double.

Because of the ease and facility with which all of the single-flowered varieties of the petunia can be grown from seed, this plant commands attention as a worthy candidate for the summer flower garden. The young plants grow rapidly and come into bloom early, and in addition to this they furnish a continuous wealth of blossoms until destroyed by frost. The large-flowered strains are very beautiful and of great variety.

For the best results the seeds of all sorts should be sown in a gentle hotbed, coldframe, or in fine soil in a box placed in a sunny window before or by the time freezing weather is over.-United States Department of Agriculture.

Landscape Beauty Enlists an Aid. The state of Michigan is embarking on a gigantic tree-planting campaign not reforestation, but beautifying the roads of the state. It is pleasing to note that there is one commonwealth which is recegnizing a long-felt need in this country. When a nation begins to recognize itself as a landscape. as well as farm land and town sites its soul is beginning to a vaken. Beauty of nature costs little, aside from some common sense planning and patient execution. Here's hoping that more states may follow Michigan's example.

Announcement has been made that an examination will be held, July 15, at Westminster, to fill the office of Postmaster at Taneytown, where a vacancy will exist on Sept. 5. This examination will be "open and competitive" but it likely means, in effect, for Republicans only. Postmaster Burke has made a very good record, and has been especially attentive and accommodating; but Taneytown has not had, in the past forty years, a postmaster who served more than two terms, irrespective of the excellence of his service.

Following the custom of many years past the churches of Taneytown will hold union services on the Sunday evenings of July. A new departure this year will be to give the evenings, with one exception, to visiting speakers, who will speak on matters in which all the churches are interested. The schedule for the month will be as follows:

July 2, G. W. Crabbs, Esq., will speak in the interest of the work of the Anti-Saloon League, in the Presbyterian Church.

July 9, Rev. G. P. Bready will preach in the United Brethren church. July 16, Rev. Dr. Alexander Mitchell will give an address, illustrated by lantern slides showing views of Near East Relief work, in the United Brethren Church.

July 23, Rev. Dr. W. W. Davis will speak on Sabbath observance and the work of The Lord's Day Alliance, in the Lutheran Church.

July 30, a special missionary service will be held in the Reformed Church, with an address by Mrs. Murray E. Ness, of Baust Church. It has been agreed to hold all of these services at 8:00 P. M.

Gov't May Run Railroads.

Should a general strike occur in July, the U. S. government will run the railroads, even to the extent of using the army. The strike threat by the unions is regarded as a direct challenge to the government itself, rather than to the railroads; and many hold to the opinion that its purpose is to compel full government ownership, or at least full govern-ment operation, in the near future.

It is still the belief of government officials that there will be no general strike following the recent wage cuts, but if it comes the government 6-23-tf
