RITCHIE ELECTED BY LARGE VOTE

Democrats Control Both Branches of the Legislature.

The re-election of Governor Ritchie was expected by all who were well posted on the situation. To begin with, Maryland, with the big vote of Baltimore, is normally Democratic by a safe majority of from 15,000 to 20,000. Mr. Armstrong had no element to draw from to counteract this vote. The support of the Ku Klux, naturally alienated from him Catholics, Jews and Negroes. The "wets" were wholly satisfied with Ritchie, and took no chances, while the "drys" saw no encouragement in Armstrong. Had he been strong for the enforcement of the 18th. Amendment, and for a state enforcement act, he would have been a stronger candidate before all the people, in all probability.

The majority for Ritchie in the whole state is about 41,000. His majority in Baltimore City was approximately the same, which shows that the vote in the counties was about equally divided between the two candidates.

The legislature will stand Senate, Democrats 22, Republicans 7; House, Democrats 93, Republicans 25. The only counties with solid Republican delegations are Allegany, Cecil and Garrett.

In the Fifth Judicial district, the vote for Chief Judge was as follows; Counties Thomas Brooks 4787 3079 Anne Arundel 4586 3767 Carroll 5586 3767 Howard 2794 1629

Totals 13167 8475

On the wet and dry question, both sides claim a majority in the Senate, while the wets are claiming a sure majority in the House. Superintendent Crabbe says he is "checking up" the House, and makes no claim at present.

Already Gov. Ritchie is being considered as a Presidential "possibility," on account of his big majority, his very wet attitude, opposition to Ku Klux, and partiality for racing.

General Election Returns.

Porter H. Dale, Republican, was elected to the U. S. Senate, in Vermont, by a tremendous majority over Pollard, Democrat.

Kendrick, Republican, was elected Mayor, in Philadelphia, by a plurality of over 200,000.

Kentucky elected a Democratic Governor, thereby turning the state back to its old-time control. The legislature is also Democratic.

The Republicans gained one Congressman in New York, and increased their majority in the state assembly from 12 to 22. Democrats carried New York City by reduced pluralities.

Miss Mary M. Bartelene (Rep.) was elected Judge of the Circuit Court of Cook County, Ill., the first time in the history of the state for a woman to be elected to such an office.

The result in New Jersey was strongly Republican, the party having elected 7 of the 8 Senators, and 42 of the 60 Assemblymen. The elections this year seem to fix the state solidly in the Republican column for next year.

For the House of Representatives there were seven contests. The Democrats won four—one in Illinois, one in North Carolina and two in New York. The Republicans took three—one in Vermont and two in New York. Their net gain is one over their present majority in the House, where the lineup is now: Republicans, 225; Democrats, 204; Socialists, one; Independent, one; vacancies, three, giving a Republican majority of eighteen.

In normally Democratic territory the Democrats won. Likewise with the Republicans. Normally Kentucky is Democratic; so is Maryland. There were few issues at stake in the thirteen States that will have a definite bearing on 1924. Nowhere is there a sign of any tremendous swing, any startling changes or amazing upsets such as marked the elections of 1922 in the East, West and Northwest.

Little was heard of the Ku Klux Klan outside of Ohio's municipal fights. Taking it by and large over the country, the wet and dry issue seems to have been in the background. The issues of 1924 are yet to be developed, and the tacticians must look farther than Tuesday's results in laying out their plans for battle.

CHRISTMAS CARDS.

The Record office has a line of samples, both of Engraved, and Embossed, Christmas Cards. The engraved cards can be bought in lots from 12 cards up, while the embossed cards come in lots of 50 and upwards. These cards are intended mainly for those who use Christmas Cards in large quantities, such as merchants, bankers, ministers, teachers, etc.

Orders must be given by December 10—not later—and the sooner the better. We can not send samples by mail. Do not delay, if in need of special cards.

County C. E. Rally.

A Christian Endeavor Rally will be held in the M. P. Church, Westminster on Tuesday, Nov. 13, at 7:30. Mr. Vandersall, of Boston, will be the chief speaker. All Endeavors are urged to be present.

Few Women Voters.

The fact that many thousands of women, in Baltimore, do not register and vote, is regarded as strange by some of the rampant suffrage leaders, who seem rather to indorse the view that Baltimore women are recalcitrant in doing their public duty, and to some extent, at least, are not just the right kind of women; that is, of course, by comparison with the more mannish females of other states.

We do not have the figures to verify the statement, but we are of the opinion that women of the state, outside of Baltimore, take largely the same attitude with reference to voting. They did not want the ballot, in the first place, and do not now care to use it. And this is largely the attitude of Southern women, everywhere—they are not ambitious to take part in politics, but are rather strongly inclined toward maintaining the status of women as home-makers, and letting the men do the voting.

Suffrage leaders are no doubt finding this sentiment everywhere, much stronger than they knew, or admitted, when so vigorously demanding "votes for women." It would have been much more sensible to have left the majority of women decide for themselves, whether they desired to vote, instead of having the big question settled because of the say-so of the energetic few who imagined that there could be no freedom, or equality, for women unless they had that right.

The average woman is simply not interested greatly in the study, and puzzle, of politics. It is a game that is full of intricacies and interests, of tricks and curves, of deals and compromises. The whole mess is unfeminine, and there is no inherited talent for it, and very little desire to learn, even should the feminine mind be receptive for such business, which it distinctly is not. Rather than perhaps help to make a bad job worse, the women of Maryland are to be congratulated, rather than censured, for not going largely into the voting business. The most of them who do vote, do it under protest, rather than from choice.

Autoists are Responsible.

The more automobiles there are, the more dangerous our highways are becoming, as a natural consequence, and especially for those who walk on the roads. There seems to be an increasing percentage of autoists who are careless of the laws, and of the rights of others, and especially disregardful of the fact that the roads are for the use of those who walk, as well as for those who drive.

Every day, the papers are full of accidents, and too frequently, of fatalities, due in most cases to some form of law violation, usually failure to observe "right of way," or speed laws. And in many instances, the use of the auto and of booze are combined, with the result that when normal sober sense is absent, death or disaster are very near.

The auto, of course, is here to stay, but it is far from being a properly handled modern invention, and familiarity with it is bringing with it a sort of contempt for safety, both on the part of drivers, and of those whom they may meet on the roads.

Just what ought to be done, or can be done, in the situation, is a big problem. From the very nature of autoing, there is always a large percentage of danger present, even with the most careful operation. When a car has the power to run from 20 to 40 miles per hour on a trackless road, and when any one of a dozen or more things can happen to make such speed dangerous, there is only to be expected that a certain number of accidents, of one kind or another, are sure to happen, every day.

There is no such thing as complete safety in the use of automobiles, or any other motor driven vehicle; and it appears that there is no such condition possible, as drivers always practicing "safety first" measures. The situation is therefore a very serious one, and it seems to us that the fully sane, conscientious, and all-around best people, owe it to themselves, and to the safety of themselves and the general public, to get together and urge, by example and voice, that our public highways be made more safe.

Unless this is done, in connection with law, many excellent people are bound to be directly, or indirectly, responsible for deaths and accidents, as well as loss of property, that will for many years rest heavily as burdens on their consciences, as well as cost them a great deal of money.

Discussing Ages.

About as unprofitable an exercise of conversation as can be imagined, is discussing the ages of persons we know. There are persons who make a specialty of cramming their memory with age-dates, and appear to take pleasure in showing off their accomplishment whenever the opportunity offers, even accompanying their store of valuable knowledge with all sorts of remembered circumstances that act as clinching evidence, when the family Bible is not at hand to refer to as the last Word.

These exhibitions are often not at all connected with the family tree of the exhibitor, and in fact "none of the business" of the expert, but seem to be merely pleasurable exercise, and no doubt held as a valuable entertaining accomplishment.

This age topic is closely allied to the relationship stunt. Animated biographical encyclopedias are found in every community that can trace family connections and alliances down to the 'steenth cousins, with a remarkable degree of accuracy, and to the wonderment of those not so talented; and by the way, the talent is one with its advantages.

The age record information, however, is not so valuable, especially when the matter of age—as it frequently happens—is disagreeable ground with many, and there seems no use in digging up such facts, for any purpose. Neither youthfulness, nor old age, are disgraceful, and really have no interest to anybody save those under discussion; and they, as a rule, can be left handle the information in their own way. Time can be killed more profitably, in almost any other way.

Regulation vs. Destruction.

The Supreme Court of Illinois has rendered an important decision in the case of a motor bus company to operate in competition with electric railways.

The opinion of the court contains certain truths showing the effect of duplicating transportation facilities and destroying real service.

The bus company wanted a franchise to operate in certain towns with considerable population, which was opposed by the electric railroad system connecting those towns.

After a full showing, the lower court held that the operation of the bus line was not a necessary transportation facility, although granted by a public service commission.

On appeal, the Supreme Court holds that it is not the policy of the public utility law of Illinois to promote competition as a means of providing service.

It holds that where one company can serve the public conveniently and efficiently, to grant a competing franchise is to make the public pay more if both companies are to earn a fair return on their investment.

The court says that to authorize bus lines to carry passengers at a lower rate in the same territory where an electric line is charging a reasonable rate is against public interest.

It says a public service commission has no right to make an order regulating a public utility which amounts to a confiscation of its property.—The Manufacturer.

Will the Farmer Quit?

Some sensitive souls appear to be somewhat perturbed by the fear that the farmers of the United States, discouraged by the drop in prices this year, will give up the job of feeding the American people and a lot of other folks.

Well, the farmer has been doing considerable complaining and it must be admitted that he has the best reasons he ever had for complaint, but it is a reflection on his intelligence to say that he will just quit because things have gone a little against him.

One thing seems certain—the prices of farm implements, fertilizer and such other things as the farmers buy must be reduced in price to justify the farmer to continue in agriculture, failing which he will have the best reason imaginable for quitting the job.

The cost of production must be reduced, and this must be done by the interests which look to the farmers for sales—the manufacturers of agricultural implements, producers of fertilizers and other farming essentials.

The American farmer is not a quitter, although a few of his number drift into the towns in the hope of bettering themselves, just as the city man goes from one town to another for the same purpose. The farmer has just as much grit as the manufacturer or merchant, and he will see this thing through to better days.—Frederick News.

Two Christmas Ideas.

Two Christmas notices have come to this office, one from a religious journal, another from a Board of Commerce. Both show a touch of conscience toward the prevailing secularization of Christmas to which The Dearborn Independent was the first to call attention several years ago. The Continent discusses the matter of Christmas cards, advising that definite request be made for cards related to the Christmas fact and the Christmas sentiment. The card manufacturers who have surrendered to the trend of "jazzing" Christmas simply fell in with a deliberate alien program (fell unwittingly in some cases) to destroy the significance of the Festival of Christ's Nativity. Those who innocently assisted this program will be first to supply the demand for legitimate Christmas cards which The Continent suggests be made.

The Detroit Board of Commerce, through its Retail Merchants' Association, lends its influence toward the correction of an abuse which has nothing to excuse it. The letter is so pertinent that extracts are here given:

"Will you co-operate with the Retail Merchants' Association in its endeavor to eliminate the so-called word 'Xmas' from all advertising, letters, or any other forms of publicity or communication? We are making this direct appeal to the reputable stores and advertisers of Detroit in the hope that we may eliminate the so-called word and drop it forever into oblivion. Christmas is without doubt the most universally observed holiday of the American people, and just why this so-called word should have sprung into such prominent misuse, we are unable to ascertain. We are convinced that Detroit business men will willingly establish a rule in their places of business beginning this date that the word 'Christmas' must be spelled out in full in every instance. At the meeting of our Board of Directors this matter was brought up and by a unanimous vote it was decided to make a city-wide campaign to eliminate the word 'Xmas' from all advertising."

Both suggestions are right and can be objectionable only to those who have nothing whatever to do with the Festival itself.—Dearborn Independent.

Words of Wisdom.

The real man is one who always finds excuses for others, but never for himself.

Some men are like pyramids, which are very broad where they touch the ground, but grow narrow as they reach the sky.

There are many people who think that Sunday is a sponge to wipe out all the sins of the week.

The truest self-respect is not to think of self.

Flowers are the sweetest things that God ever made, and forgot to put a soul into.

"I can forgive, but I cannot forget," is only another way of saying, "I cannot forgive."

What we call wisdom is the result, not the residuum, of all the wisdom of past ages.

Reason can tell us how love affects us, but cannot tell us what love is.

Refinement which carries us away from our fellowmen is not God's refinement.

The mother's heart is the child's school-room.

Selfishness is that detestable vice which no one will forgive in others, and no one is without in himself.

The elect are those who will, and the non-elect those who won't.

Success is full of promise till men get it; and then it is a last year's nest, from which the birds have flown.

In the morning we carry the world like Atlas; at noon we stoop and bend beneath it; and at night it crushes us flat to the ground.

The philosophy of one century is the common sense of the next.

In New Guinea Old People Are Summarily Dispatched.

Community Refuses to Allow Them to Become a Burden and They Are Put Away With Expedition.

Tribal law and custom in New Guinea and the Bismarck archipelago, particularly in the matter of killing, is constantly coming into conflict with the white man's law and offers one of the most difficult problems that the white administrator is faced with solving. The general attitude of Melanesians in regard to old people is a case in point. As old people approach decrepitude, they become a burden upon the village and every opportunity is taken to get rid of them. In some of the islands farther south off Australia, a general day is appointed for their ceremonial burial. Whether they happen to be dead or not makes no difference. Sometimes the old people actually march off to their own funerals, accepting their fate as the inevitable conclusion of old age; they even consider that it is the duty of affectionate children to honor them by thus putting a dramatic end to their lives, after they have passed the period of their usefulness. They are placed in a grave with tremendous ceremony, the whole village taking part, and the earth is firmly stamped down over them, to the beating of many drums. In the Bismarck archipelago, old people are occasionally taken into the bush, shut up in some isolated hut with a small supply of food and thus abandoned to slow death by starvation.

A peculiar case once presented itself for settlement on the west coast of New Ireland. A boy of nine was brought in for trial, accused of the murder of his grandmother. He had been taken aside, so he said, by a party of the elders of his village, who said:

"Why, you are growing up now to be a big fellow! It is certainly shameful that you should be a drain on the food stock of the village. We have altogether too many people dependent on us here. There are yourself and a great many other boys like you, and then there is that grandmother of yours. She does nothing but eat and eat, and it has finally come down to this: We have not enough food for all you people who loaf on the community. If your grandmother was dead, we might be able to find enough food for you."

Pointing her out where she lay, a withered old crow, asleep on the ground a hundred yards away, they handed the ax to the boy and told him that if he struck just where the front bone on her neck stuck out, and struck hard enough, she would instantly be killed. Terrified by the ordeal he had just been subjected to, dragged away from his playmates and confronted with the sinister and lowering elders, he took the ax, rushed over to the old woman and killed her as he had been instructed, with one blow. He was then promptly handed over to the police by the chiefs, who seized on the occasion thus to rid themselves of two drains on their food supply.—From On Crime and Punishment in New Guinea, by R. W. Clendon, in Asia Magazine.

Bees Never Sting Some People.

Jack Beater asks this question in Adventure Magazine. He says:

"I never had much fear of bees even as a kid. One Fourth of July when I was about fourteen, I experimented with several bee hives and some cannon crackers. The operation is simple. Slip up to the hive and insert the cannon crackers in the main entrance, light, and run like —. Only I forgot to run. Well, the bees came out of the hive all right and I believe, they stung every one within a half-mile but me. Why?"

"Another time I was raking a hayfield with a two-horse rake, one of those wide affairs. The rake raked up a nice-sized nest of ground bees. The field was fenced and the gate was barely wide enough for a team to pass through. The team passed through all right, but the hayrake and I didn't. No sir, we stopped real sudden like. The horses were a mass of bees and I was very well covered myself. There were bees on my neck so thick I had to claw them off. But not one stung me. Why?"

King Tut's Discoveries.

Mr. Howard Carter, the American archaeological expert, who recently uncovered for the late Lord Carnarvon the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen in the Valley of the Kings, is no amateur, but a graduate of the school of experience. In 1903 he was inspector general of the antiquities of upper Egypt and was entrusted by Mr. Theodore Davies, a wealthy patron of archaeology, with the direction of some excavations that disclosed the tomb of Thutmose III. In the same year the tomb of Queen Hatshepsut was cleared out by him on a Davies' endowment. Under a Davies' commission, Mr. Carter discovered the last resting place of Queen Ti, mother of King Akhnaton, predecessor of Tut-Ankh-Amen. He gave up his government post in 1904 to prosecute his recent search.

Did it ever occur to you how necessary the Pennsylvania Railroad System and other railroads are to your well being? How essential to the convenience and comfort of yourself and family?

Did you ever stop to think of what the railroads have done to facilitate your business prosperity or enhance the development and growth of your community, in its relations to other sections of the country?

Did it ever occur to you, that every dollar expended in the purchase of transportation is an interest-paying investment, yielding abundant returns in better railroad service, greater prosperity, growth, and development of every interest?

As the irrigation of the ground makes fruitful the soil, so the success of the railroads radiates progress and prosperity.

WHAT YOUR CO-OPERATION MEANS

Railroads cannot expand alone. They require your help your co-operation, your friendly attitude to attain the aims they have in view—to achieve the best results for the people—the highest type of transportation service.

Without your co-operation, progress is shackled and the best efforts of the railroads come to naught.

HATCHING GUINEAS IS HARD

Young Fowls Are Tender at First and Must Be Kept Out of Wet—Varied Ration Best.

Young guineas sometimes appear to be deformed when first hatched, and as a rule the apparent deformity is simply the result of a slow hatch. When chicken hens or incubators are used, it is an easy matter to give the eggs proper attention. Guinea hens if not controlled will drag the young guineas around through the grass in all kinds of weather, and the result can easily be imagined. Of course, young guineas need exercise, but they are very tender at first and should be kept out of wet grass or rain. They are far less apt to take gapes if kept dry. It is the same with chicks and turkeys.

During the first few days after guineas are hatched they have to be fed quite frequently. We feed a little every two hours. Dry bread, finely crumbled with a little chopped "greens," such as lettuce or onions, will always give good results. A little coarse sand is sprinkled over the feed at first, but this is not necessary after they have learned to eat grit whenever required. However, sharp sand and other grit should always be provided. Boiled eggs are not suitable food for young guineas, as they are almost sure to cause constipation. After they are a few days old they will eat oatmeal dry, or cornbread. A varied ration is better than any one feed. When they are a few weeks old they will eat cracked corn, whole wheat or whatever chicks will eat. When they are a month old they should not be fed more than three or four times a day, and if they have good range, a very little feed each time will be sufficient. In fact, they could get along on two feeds a day, but we like to teach them to come home for feed. They are great foragers, and if there are any grain fields near, they will make regular trips to pick up what they can find among the stubble. Guineaes, both old and young, are good bug-catchers and they will not injure garden crops as chickens are apt to do, because they rarely scratch unless grain is thrown among litter.—Poultry Tribune.

RATION FOR YOUNG TURKEYS

Fowls Are Finicky About Food and Refuse Anything Not Already Familiar to Them.

Young turkeys are very particular about their food and will not usually touch any food that is not already familiar to them. For this reason the articles of food that they will need as they grow older are supplied from the first. Do not feed until the poults are at least twenty-four hours old, and then be careful not to overfeed.

A satisfactory first feed is a small amount of finely crumbled boiled egg, shell included. This is given three to six times a day for a week. After the second day a supply of clean water and fine grit should always be available. A sprinkle of fine chick feed is given along with the crumbled egg, since grain forms a large part of the ration, being fed three times daily from the second to the sixth week. This grain may be a good, clean commercial chick feed or a mixture of fine cracked corn, cracked wheat and oatmeal. In addition allow the poults to range where they can get plenty of green feed and insects. Their feeding place and quarters should be as far from the hen yard as possible as a precaution against disease. After the turkeys are a month or six weeks old, mixed whole grains should be added to the chick feed and may replace it as soon as the turkeys are found to take the larger grain. The mixture may consist of wheat, corn, or oats. Feeding twice or even once a day is usually sufficient from this time on.

POULTRY NOTES

The busy hen is the laying hen.

The less exercise market fowls get the more quickly they will fatten.

When milk is used as the sole drink for chickens no other animal protein is necessary.

Most of the losses of baby chicks is due to the fact that they are improperly fed during the first few days.

Meat scraps and also tankage will help fill the egg basket. Add 10 per cent of either to the grain ration.

Success or failure in the turkey business depends largely on the selection of breeding stock. Health and vigor should be the first considerations.

A good layer may be described as a hen having a soft, red comb and wattles, an intelligent head, good capacity, plenty of vigor, carrying a small amount of fat, a soft pliable skin, and well faded color.

COMPOSED SONG AT AGE OF 6

Camille Saint-Saens Was One of the Most Interesting Figures in Modern Music.

All the world of music was saddened in December, 1921, by the announcement of the death of Saint-Saens, France's most distinguished living composer and one of the most interesting of all modern musicians.

In the sacred opera, "Samson and Delilah," Caruso, in the role of "Samson," made one of the most sensational successes, and to him is due largely the recent popularity in America of this, Saint-Saens' greatest opera.

Camille Saint-Saens (1835-1921) is one of the most interesting figures in modern music. He was a "wonder child," for at the age of two years he began lessons and in six months had completed a whole piano course, under the tutelage of his aunt.

At seven he was admitted to the Paris Conservatoire as a pupil of the famous Halevy in piano, and later of Benoist in organ and of Charles Gounod in composition. When he was ten he played so remarkably well that his mother invited a group of prominent musicians to hear him, and in the same year, at their suggestion, he gave his first concert, playing Bach, Handel, Mozart and Beethoven.

All Europe raved over his genius. He played brilliantly in concert in all parts of Europe and England for more than 20 years.

At six years he had composed some little dances and a song, "Le Soir." At sixteen he wrote a symphony. In the history of music there is not a more versatile name than his. From this time on he composed all sorts of music, cantatas, chamber music, piano concertos, organ music, symphonies, symphonic poems and songs.—The Delinctor.

SOOT USED AS EXPLOSIVE

Will Blast Away Coal and Rock Almost as Effectively as Dynamite—Soaked in Liquid Oxygen.

We scarcely think of soot as an explosive yet it is now being used as such, and soot cartridges will blast away coal or rock quite as effectively as dynamite.

Of course, the soot has to be prepared for its new purpose, and this is done by soaking it in liquid oxygen. The finely divided carbon of which the soot is made up absorbs large amounts of oxygen, and the cartridge explodes owing to the instantaneous combustion of the carbon in contact with the oxygen.

A cartridge contains two ounces of lampblack, and this absorbs seven ounces of liquid oxygen, which is made quite cheaply from liquid air by allowing the nitrogen, which evaporates at a lower temperature, to boil away, leaving the liquid oxygen behind.

The advantages of the new explosive are many. It can be made at the spot where it is to be used, and is perfectly safe till the liquid oxygen is poured into the hole where the soot cartridge has been placed. No poisonous gases are set free by the explosion, and if the cartridge fails to explode it ceases to be a source of danger in about twenty minutes, when the oxygen has all evaporated and the cartridge is merely soot.

Gift of the Nile.

Africa is especially dependent upon irrigation and it has been pointed out that modern engineers have not devised any essentially new method of supplying thirsty lands with water. Reference may be made to the statement of Herodotus that Egypt is the gift of the Nile and mention may be made of the latest conclusion as to the source of the Nile floods. The observations of Lyons have finally demonstrated that the rains falling in the immense basin of the White Nile are of no importance to Egypt. From June to August the Nile rises and afterward sinks until once more the floods come down in the Blue Nile from Abyssinia. Egypt is simply an irrigated valley 780 miles long, and, apart from the delta, which is 100 miles long, this valley is nowhere more than 15 miles wide and in some spots is less than a mile.

A New Contraption.

They were giving a dinner party and the coachman had come in to help wait at table. Several guests had suffered from his lack of experience, and in serving peas he approached a very deaf old lady and inquired:

"Peas, mum?"

No answer.

"Peas, mum?" (Louder.)

The old lady saw that some one was speaking to her, and lifted her ear trumpet to the questioner. The coachman, seeing the large end of the trumpet directed toward him, thought:

"It must be a new way of takin' 'em, but I s'pose she likes 'em that way."

And down the trumpet went the peas.

Overlooked.

Two contractors, of a type unfortunately too familiar, were talking of some buildings which had collapsed before they were finished.

"Well, Billerton," said one, "you always have better luck than I do."

"Better luck? How's that?"

"Why, my row of new houses blew down in last week's wind, you know, while yours weren't harmed. All were built the same—same woodwork, same mortar, same everything."

"Yes," said the other, "but you forgot that mine had been papered."

BUILD POSTS TO STAND BIG PULL

Corner Must Be Constructed to Resist Much Greater Strain Than Other Parts.

WIRE IS STRETCHED TIGHTLY

Device Shown in Illustration is Made of Reinforced Concrete With a Vertical Section—Lumber Forms Necessary.

The corner post of a fence must be constructed to stand a much greater strain than any other part of the fence. Woven wire fencing when properly erected is stretched very tightly; sometimes ordinary woven wire fencing 42 inches high, bears a tension of several thousand pounds. When this tension is transmitted to the corner post from two angles it means that the post has to be unusually solidly anchored if it is to resist the strain.

A Reinforced Concrete Corner Post.

A very substantial type of corner post is shown in the illustration. It is made of reinforced concrete with a vertical section 12 inches square and two wings, each six inches thick, extending in the direction of the two lines of fence which meet at the corner.

Forms Are Necessary.

To make such a post, forms are necessary and the first step is the excavation to provide room for them. Ordinary one-inch lumber is good for form use in work of this kind, since it can be braced with little difficulty. The forms are put together so that the post, wings and all, is cast in one operation. The reinforcing for the vertical part consists of seven steel rods, nine-sixteenths of an inch in diameter, arranged on the two outside faces of the post at intervals of about three inches, with about one inch space between the bars and the inner surface. Similar bars extend down through the post into the lower part of the wings, two bars being used for each wing.

Rich Mixture Used.

The concrete mixture used is one part cement, two parts of well-graded sand and three parts of pebbles or broken stone, with no particle larger than one inch in diameter. This is a rather "rich mixture," but since strength is the principal requirement it is the proper one to use.

No strain should be put on the post until it has hardened for at least four weeks. During this time it should be thoroughly wetted at least once every day so the concrete may attain its maximum strength.

FIGHT AGAINST TUBERCULOSIS

Huron County, Ohio, Dairymen Financed Their Own Campaign Against Tuberculosis.

In Lyme township, Huron county, Ohio, owners of dairy cattle organized an association through which they financed their own campaign against tuberculosis when state and federal indemnity funds had run out. The members were assessed $2 a head for grades and $4 a head for purebreds, one-fourth being used for organization work and the rest for paying indemnities. The association has tested 83 herds containing 682 cattle, 26 of which reacted. The owners of the reactors received the salvage value of the animals and a straight indemnity of $20 a head for grades. For purebreds the indemnity was doubled. About 85 per cent of the herds in the township were tested.

FEED COWS AS INDIVIDUALS

Trouble Results When an Owner Doesn't Know How to Care for High-Producing Cow.

When a high-producing cow falls into the hands of an owner who doesn't know how to feed for milk production, trouble results. The basic principles which govern the feeding of dairy cows are easy to understand and simple to follow. It is necessary to feed the cows as individuals and make certain that the ration is ample to care for the animal's body requirements, and to leave a surplus of nourishment for producing milk. More dairy cows are underfed than are overfed. When the ration is balanced, and composed largely of first quality silage, cases of overfeeding are rare.

MRS. FANNIE BUCKWALTER.

(The following is a portion of the account of Mrs. Buckwalter's death (formerly Mrs. Fannie Steiner) taken from the Brit. Iowa, News-Tribune. Her death occurred Oct. 17.—Ed.)

"Mrs. Buckwalter was a noble character. She was a woman of many friends. Her sunny disposition and her love of associations will long be remembered by her acquaintances. Although nearing her seventy-first birthday, she kept spry and active and never slowed up in her activities of doing good and carrying sunshine to scatter broadcast wherever she was.

Mrs. Buckwalter in early life joined the German Reformed Church but since coming to Britt affiliated with the Methodist Church. She was also a member of many societies organized to offer comfort to sufferers most notable among them being the Home Missionary Society, the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, the Woman's Relief Corps, the Rebekah and Order of the Eastern Star lodges. Her activity in these organizations can best be attested by those associated with her in membership.

Ann Frances Haugh was born at Taneytown, Maryland, Dec. 6, 1852. She was near her seventy-first birthday at death. When a young woman she united in marriage with O. E. Steiner, who died a young man leaving her a widow with three children. The children are Mrs. G. A. Robinson, Britt, Iowa; Mrs. E. E. Hoffmaster, Nora Springs, and Miss Frances Steiner, Cedar Rapids.

Some years after the death of Mr. Steiner, the deceased united in marriage to a Mr. Nichols. He, too, died a few years later and deceased was widowed for a second time. On March 5, 1908, she married D. P. Buckwalter, who died on January 18, 1921, leaving her a widow for a third time. Besides the children there are six grand-children and one great-grand-child surviving.

Thirty years ago Mrs. Buckwalter came to Britt and purchased a tract of land in Ortel township. A few years later she went to Nachusa, Illinois, where she resided a short time and then returned to Britt to live out her life."

In Remembrance of my wife and mother, MARY J. FOX, who departed this life five years ago, November 14, 1918.

Mother dear, mother kind, Has gone and left us all behind, For all of us she did her best, Till God granted her eternal rest.

Five long years my heart has bled; I cannot ease the pain, My aching heart will always ache Until in Heaven we meet again.

Asleep in Jesus. Nobody knows my longing, But few have seen me weep; I shed my tears from an aching heart While others are fast asleep.

A happy home we once enjoyed; How sweet the memory still; But death has left a vacant chair This world can never fill.

Although we cannot clasp your hand Your face we cannot see; But let this little token show We still remember thee.

By her HUSBAND and CHILDREN.

In Loving Remembrance of our wife and mother, BARBARA THOMSON, who died one year ago, Nov. 11, 1922.

I often sit and think of you When I am all alone, For memory is the only thing That grief can call its own.

Nobly at her post she stood, My dear wife, kind and true, Beloved by all her friends so well And kind to all she knew.

BY HER HUSBAND.

Alone our mother traveled far Through death and sickness to the star That shone in her golden stair When everlasting life is there.

To meet her Saviour on the strand When angels took her by the hand, Alone, oh, no, she's not alone, For Jesus claims her as his own.

BY HER CHILDREN.

In Memoriam of my dear sister MRS. BARBARA THOMSON, who departed this life one year ago today, November 11, 1922.

When the Angels brought the message That my sister had to go, None but those who had lost one, Could my grief and sorrow know.

Although she died a year ago It seems but just a day Yet her memory is as dear to me As the day she passed away.

Help me, Lord, to bear my sorrow, Help me to put my trust in Thee, Till I meet my loving sister, In that bright eternity.

The rolling stream of life rolls on, But still the vacant chair, Recalls the love, the voice, the smile, Of one who once sat there.

By her sister, MRS. HENRY HAWK.

A Tribute of love to the sacred memory of our precious and only daughter, EDNA R. who departed this life, November 7, 1918.

Five years have passed, dear daughter, Since death came and took you from us, But thoughts of your love and devotion, Are still remembered by us.

The rose that was fairest and sweetest, And the one we most cherished and loved Is the kind that God wants in his garden So he transplanted our dear Edna above.

Sometimes, some day our eyes shall see The face we loved so well, Some day her hand shall clasp in ours And never say farewell.

By her Loving Parents, MR. and MRS. CHARLES WELK and BROTHER, WALTER.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to extend thanks to friends and neighbors, who so kindly assisted during the illness and death of our mother—Mrs. B. F. Bowers.

THE FAMILY.

A Family Reunion.

Mrs. John Harman entertained to dinner, at the Central Hotel, Taneytown, on last Sunday, Nov. 4, 1923, her brother, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Greene of Baltimore; and her sisters, Mrs. John E. Hammond, Mrs. John White, Mrs. John Power, and Mr. and Mrs. John Kelly and daughter, Jane; Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Bowersox and family, of Hanover; Mrs. Charles Albaugh and sons, of Walkersville; and her niece, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Utz, of Glyndon. All had a general good time together.

An Optimist.

A German shoemaker left the gas turned on his shop one night, and upon arriving in the morning struck a match to light it. There was a terrific explosion and the shoemaker was blown out through the door and almost to the middle of the street. A passer by rushed to his assistance and after helping him to arise, inquired if he was injured. The little German gazed at his place of business, which was now burning quite briskly, and said: "No, I ain't hurt. But I go out shut in time. Eh?"—Boston Congregationalist.

Two by Two.

In a Sunday school class in a western town the young woman in charge asked: "And how did Noah spend his time in the ark?"

"Fishin'," was the suggestion of a boy pupil.

"A very reasonable suggestion," said the teacher.

"But," continued the boy, "he couldn't have caught much."

"What makes you think that?" "Because," answered the lad, knowingly, "because, you see, he had only two worms with him."—Harper's Magazine.

Rest in Peace.

Here lie the remains of Percival Sapp. He drove his car with a girl in his lap. Lies slumbering here, one William Blake.

He heard the bell but had no brake. Beneath this stone lies William Raines Ice on the hill, he had no chains. Here lies the body of William Jay; He died maintaining his right of way. John Smith lies here without his shoes He drove his car while filled with booze.

Here's Mary Jane—but not alive— She made her ford do thirty-five.

The Summer "Drop" Over.

As the evenings lengthen, and the busy times have let up a bit, and we have more time for reading and planning, why not start up The Record again, that we forgot about, and left "run out" because we were "too busy to read" anyway? The "summer drop" that every paper expects, is over. Now jump in and help us to come back to normal fall and winter status. Perhaps some friend of yours has a case to fit the one we mention. Won't you help us to get him or her, on the list again?

Why Horses are Shod.

The horses which run at large in the plains country go barefoot, yet they have foot-health. It is only under the artificial conditions imposed by man that the horse requires shoes. A good deal of this necessity for shoes arises from hard pavements and roads which the horse is worked on. But there is another reason. The stabled horse does not get at night a foot dew-bath. He needs that dew-bath. The moisture can be supplied, and sometimes is, by packing the foot each night in wet clay, a method so wasteful of labor that it is only resorted to in exceptional cases, usually when the need is acutely manifest.

To maintain healthy condition and durable texture, the horse's hoof must have moisture. This the dew-bath, enjoyed by the pastured horse throughout the night, effectively supplies. Night dew is recognized by horsemen as the best of all medicine for hoofs. Soaking in, it invigorates the whole structure. The hoof becomes much tougher, more rounded, and better spread. It is not uncommon for horses which are pastured at night through the summer season to stand up under daily work without being shod. The horse which runs constantly in pasture develops sound, tough hoofs, which, though lacking shoes, do not chip, or crack.—Our Dumb Animals.

Will Good Varnish Turn White?

See the answer to this question in our show window.

Three well-known Outside Spar Varnishes and three well-known Floor Varnishes, and VALSPAR are immersed in water on a black panel. Watch Valspar—and the others. All are widely advertised not to turn white—and Valspar will not.

The only fair test is on a black panel as clear Varnish on a light panel deceives the eye.

VALSPAR will wear and wear and wear. It pays to buy the best.

TESTING STRESS ON PLANES

"Accelerometer" Registers Information of Value to Builder, as Well as Showing Pilot's Ability.

Not long ago the national advisory committee for aeronautics undertook to obtain information about the stresses that are produced in maneuvering an airplane. At the beginning of a series of experiments it was observed that, when the plane was flying a straight and level course, a spring balance with a one-pound weight attached to it would register just one pound. If the craft was put into a turn or made to rise, the apparent weight of the one-pound object increased to two or three pounds, while on a downward dip the spring balance would indicate less than one pound or even zero. Based upon the conclusions of these tests, an instrument, which has been called an "accelerometer," was designed, to detect and record the variation and relative magnitude of the forces that tend to set up stresses in an airplane structure when in flight. In doing this, says Popular Mechanics Magazine, it also gives an unbiased record of the relative ability of pilots in handling their machines in the air, and in making a satisfactory landing.

Gypsies Today Rigidly Observe the "Laws" That Have Been Their Guidance for Centuries.

The gypsies of Great Britain have some very peculiar customs, which are very rigidly observed.

No gypsy regards the dog as other than an unclean servant. One of them licking a frying pan, the utensil was straightway put into the embers to burn away the evil. Another, more strict, drove a stake through the bottom of a bucket from which his dog had lapped a drink.

There is no gainsaying the true gypsy's regard for these ancient customs. He is terrified at the slightest departure from proper methods and precautions. His women must not act in the slack manner of the gals around them. An engaged girl, for instance, must sit outside the camp circle when suitors are announced. She is not in the market, and other girls are.

The love story of a gypsy is a public affair—that is according to custom, not to any fear of moral lapse. It seems rather odd that with all these laws the gypsies should not regard the church marriage with great favor. They look upon such as merely a whim—and the strictly orthodox have a great objection to going into the presence of corpses.

Reduction in Spots.

Skinnem had invented a new hair restorer, and had sent a large number of sample bottles out to various well known people in the hope of securing some testimonials for advertising purposes.

"I don't know whether to publish this testimonial or not," he said to a friend who was calling upon him as he was opening the letters.

"What does it say?" inquired the other.

"Well, it says," said the proud inventor, "Before I used your hair restorer I had three bald patches. Now I have only one."—Minneapolis Tribune.

ADDED TO VALUE OF RADIO

Galena Detector Said to Have Made Concerts Practically as "Clear as a Crystal."

Radio has brought new life to the worn out phrase "clear as a crystal." In the early days of the radiophone it was difficult to get a tube set which functioned without annoying the listener with scratches and sandy noises. This difficulty has partly vanished, due to better design or receivers and more tuning knowledge on the part of the radio public. Perhaps the first person who heard a flawless radio concert rushed out immediately afterward to broadcast the information to his friends. If so he probably described the reception by saying that it was as "clear as a crystal!"

He referred to the old meaning of the phrase, which likens the object, compared to the perfect lucidity of a soothsayer's glass ball or crystal. Many amateurs have used the phrase in its old meaning, and it is only lately that the newer application has been understood. In a reflex receiver, where vacuum tubes are used in connection with the galena detector, the reception is remarkably distinct and free from annoying tube noises. The galena detector is responsible of course, and when a radio enthusiast says his reflex receiver is as "clear as a crystal" he means it.—New York Times.

Clock Comparatively New. The modern clock is a comparatively new invention, and is credited to a German inventor, named Hendy de Vick, A. D. 1364. The fundamentals of De Vick's clock were identical with those of today, with the exception that he did not find out the use of the pendulum, but regulated his clock by means of balance wheels. Charles V of France was much interested in this new clock and commanded De Vick to come to Paris and install a clock in the large turret of his palace in Paris.

Flea Season. Have you a little flea in your home? If you have not you're not in the scratching these days. If you have, don't try to camouflage by calling it a "sand flea," because it is just plain dog and cat flea. That's what H. F. Dietz, assistant state entomologist, says. Fleas are beginning to become numerous. It takes a flea only a little time to be a great-great-grandfather, Dietz said. The flea question has become so engaging that the entomology division of the state conservation department has prepared a bulletin on how to wage war on the flea. It will be ready for distribution soon, but one has to go some to get a jump ahead of a flea.—Indianapolis News.

Playgrounds in Mexico City. The public playgrounds presented to the City of Mexico by the American colony as their gift on the occasion of the centennial celebration of 1921, apart from their intrinsic value, have been the means of providing thousands of little ones with undreamed-of luxury. Excellently equipped and capably managed and sustained by an international association, they have succeeded in so impressing the local authorities that two more playgrounds have been laid out and completed.

Bigger Demand for Diamonds. According to reports to the Commerce department, the United States is now taking in about $800,000 a month in cut or partly cut diamonds, as compared with $400,000 a year ago. The change has increased employment in the Amsterdam cutting establishment and has made the market much more active and hopeful.

Flowers Were for Jim

By JANE OSBORN

(© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Ever since Jim had arrived at the hospital, weather-beaten, tanned and much in need of a shave, and incidentally with a wrenched knee that had to go in plaster cast and a dislocated shoulder, he had been the favorite of the men's ward. If he had been a little boy instead of six foot of rugged, honest manhood he would have gone in the children's ward and been known as "nurse's pet."

No one knew much about "Jim." Obviously a man who earned his living with his muscle, he had been brought in one night in forlorn condition by Dr. Robinson, who had said that the man had no friends in town and might not be able to pay his bills for several weeks. He showed no more than a professional interest in the case.

He had been duly scrubbed and brushed and shaved and was quite a different looking individual as he lay there in his plaster casts, but much of the tan lingered and a sort of hardy roughness that made him look decidedly out of place in a hospital bed.

Right from the first "Jim" had become a favorite, and the men's ward seemed to be a brighter place because of his presence.

"It will seem queer when he's all better and up and dressed," said a nurse to one of her companions sitting at the desk where she had been making up charts. "We've all treated him like a nice big boy—and that's just what he seems to be. Perhaps we've petted him a bit too much, bringing him funny papers and puzzles just as if he was a child."

"One often does get a jolt when a patient recovers, and stands up all dressed," said the second nurse. "It's funny about Jim. It isn't that he makes an effort to be jolly. It just seems to be his personality."

"Everybody likes him," said the other. "Even Dr. Martha Yates, who is usually so dreadfully professional in the men's ward, stops and jollies him. She treats him as if he was one of the youngsters in the children's ward—brings him little games and things, pats him on the shoulder when she passes and calls him 'Jim' just the way we all do."

It was true that Dr. Martha Yates' usual attitude when she made her rounds—save in the children's ward—was exaggeratedly professional. Perhaps this formality was necessary to offset a little too much youth and a little too much prettiness. Martha had taken her career as a sort of legacy from her father. At his death his work seemed so far from completion that Martha felt it was her duty to turn from dances and country club activities, from thought of an early marriage—perhaps any marriage at all—to take her medical training.

Every day in her work, however, she had little reminders of her father's skill and large-heartedness that made it all seem worth while. His old patients were forever telling her of incidents in his career showing a generosity and fortitude that she had perhaps never fully appreciated during his lifetime.

And today it was the florist. She had stopped at his shop to buy a half dozen jonquills for her office desk, and the proprietor of the florist shop had stopped his work in his greenhouse to tell of the devotion her father had shown during the illness of his children, many years ago, when he was struggling along hardly making both ends meet in his nursery business. And Dr. Yates had refused to send any bill, and even when the florist had prospered, the doctor had never accepted any back payment for the years of service that he had done.

"Perhaps I ought to have insisted more," said the florist. "But now I am going to insist on this one thing: Whenever you want any flowers you come in here and pick out just what you want and they will be yours. Get them as often as you like. You just know people who want them. Now, for instance, we are having an extra big yield of roses—don't know why, but they seem to be coming to flower a little sooner than we expected. Suppose you let me send you five or six dozen. I could sell them cheap, but I'd rather you'd take them. If you don't want them yourself perhaps you know some one that does."

Dr. Martha Yates thought for a moment. She said she would take them with her to the hospital. She'd leave two dozen in the children's and two dozen in the women's ward and another dozen she would give to Jim. She remembered that Jim had been especially delighted with a single rose that she had left at his bedside the day before and had been fondling it that very morning—faded and dried as it was. Surely, he must be very fond of roses, and probably in all his life he had never been able to buy a dozen of them out of season.

"I've brought some roses for Jim," Dr. Martha Yates told the nurse in charge of the ward when she returned. "Is he awake?"

"Yes," said the nurse, "and I'm so glad you have. He's been very uncomfortable, though you couldn't get him to admit it. You know Dr. Robinson had to change the cast today and—well, any one but Sunny Jim would have made a fuss about it. And the poor thing—having no friends or anything. I'm so glad you brought the roses today."

So Dr. Martha Yates went to Jim's narrow cot and no one in the ward seemed to feel the least bit jealous or slighted when she put the whole glorious dozen on his table. For Jim was as popular with the other patients as with the nurses and doctors.

Jim looked up quickly straight into the eyes of Martha Yates and for just one moment she felt a little uncomfortable—wondered if after all she ought to have brought him the flowers. His eyes had never looked that way before—they seemed so bright and clear, from beneath lids that betrayed the recent suffering that he would have been loath to admit. He stretched out one large hand, still strong and showing a peculiar pallor overlying the sunburn that had not yet disappeared, and with this hand he took Dr. Martha's small hand in his.

"Thank you, doctor," he said. "You don't know how I shall treasure them." Dr. Martha Yates had gone away in confusion that she had with difficulty concealed. Suddenly it seemed as if Jim, who had seemed only a fine overgrown boy, had been transformed into a man, strong and virile in spite of his present prostration. She was half sorry that she had taken him the flowers—perhaps it had been very unprofessional. But the nurses had not seemed to think it inappropriate. To them Jim was still plain Jim. Perhaps they had not seen the look, so strong and clear, beneath those tired eyelids.

Jim was quick to recover and within the week he was allowed to get up and sit in a chair for a few hours. And the next day Dr. Robinson whisked him off, stopping with him at the office just long enough to pay in new banknotes the fee for board in the ward. The nurses were vexed with Dr. Robinson for he had not told them of his intention of taking Jim away, and only the little nurse who happened to be in the ward at the time had an opportunity to say good-by to him, and she had been so surprised at his sudden departure, in a baggy, ill-fitting suit and ulster that the doctor brought for him, that she had not asked him where he was going or invited him to revisit the hospital and his many friends there.

"Jim's gone," the nurses told Dr. Martha Yates when she came that day.

For a moment Martha started. She, too, seemed to regret not having had an opportunity to say good-by or to have found out a little more about this mysterious optimist who had so brightened the atmosphere of the hospital during his brief stay.

But when she reached her office that night she found a man waiting for her in the waiting room, though it was an hour before office hours. It was, in fact, her customary dinner hour. The man was indeed Jim, though he now wore clothes that fitted perfectly, and it was not until Martha had stood looking at him for a full minute that she was quite sure of his identity. And in that minute Jim stood holding the hand she had offered to him.

"Who in the world are you?" she asked when they had sat down in the dim light of the waiting room. "You're not the simple workingman we all took you to be. You—"

"I'm James Bradley, Jr.," said Jim simply. "You know my father. I believe he's president of the board of trustees of the hospital." Of course Martha knew him. It was James Bradley who had contributed more than half of the funds that had supported the hospital for many years past.

"I've been away from home a good many years. No one remembers me. This summer, you know, there was some criticism of the hospital. It was said that a poor man didn't get a show—that the ward patients were neglected. You know, of course. My father was annoyed and grieved. He felt sure it wasn't true. Still he wanted to prove the falseness of it all. I was off roughing it with him in the mountains. Father and I always spend a month together every summer. And one day I lost my footing in the mountains up there—and took a jolly header. I wasn't so very badly hurt. Father suggested that since I had to come down to civilization to get mended I should come to this hospital and that I should do a little spying on the side. So we got in touch with Dr. Robinson, who let it be understood that I was just any one. And you know what I learned—I learned that the men in that ward are as decently and as well treated as they would be in private rooms, and I learned to admire the nurses and—it's all coming out in a report my father will have ready for the next meeting of the board of trustees."

"In the meantime," James Bradley drew his stiff office chair close to that of Dr. Martha. "In the meantime I learned to love you. I know your heart is in your work—but it's such a big heart! Can't you let me share a little of it, too?"

Dr. Martha Yates looked into Jim's eyes and she knew she was not deserting the ideals of her father when she told Jim she would put her whole heart into his keeping.

Ten Great Books.

The ten most important books in the world, according to H. G. Wells, are: Isaiah, St. Mark, "The Great Learning," the Koran, Plato's "Republic," Aristotle's "Natural History," Marco Polo's "Travels," Copernicus' "The Revolutions of the Heavens," Bacon's "The New Atlantis," Darwin's "Origin of Species."

"The Great Learning" is a product of one or more of the disciples of Confucius. Wells includes it as representing the literature of a people and an epoch. This is his method in compiling the list. He does not urge literary value or any other quality.

Good for Old Ladies.

The other day a woman, ninety-two years old, went to the Old Ladies' home at Terre Haute. She was so brisk and cheery, despite her deafness, Later she was visited by one of her old neighbors, who asked her how she liked the home.

And this was her answer: "Well, this is the nicest, friendliest bunch of people I ever met. I think every woman ought to live at an old ladies' home for a time just to learn that every one loved her at sight."

PARKS OF DISTINCT WORTH

Boost Property Value—Wise City Planning Also Factor of Health, Authority Says.

Dr. George F. Kunz of New York, president of the American Scenic and Historical Preservation society, produced a mass of evidence to show how greatly the presence of any beautiful natural feature such as a park increases the value of surrounding property in dollars and cents. After discussing the case of Central park, Doctor Kunz continued:

"If, when the plans for the city of New York above Tenth street were being prepared, there had been a landscape architect, or some one with judgment, he could have used the various ponds for small lakes, he would not have eradicated every hill, but would here and there have given us a small park, and would not have laid out the city on the lines of a checkerboard, with a loss of both beauty and accessibility."

"Instead of giving us a few avenues and many streets, he would have reversed the order and given us many avenues and fewer streets, with the result that traffic would not have been rendered difficult for many years and almost impossible as it is today. Moreover, as the sun rises in the east and sets in the west, it would have meant that two or three times as many homes as now would have had sunlight all the day, whereas at the present time in many of the side streets the sun is never seen and the streets are filled with ice, and the death rate of the entire city has been notably increased by the little knowledge shown of what New York was to be in the future."—New York Times.

PLEA FOR WELL-KEPT ROADS

Neglected Streets Not Alone Unhealthful, but Create Bad Impression on the Visitor.

There are 15,450 "incorporated places" in America. Of these 15,450 cities, towns and villages only 2,500 exceed a population of 2,500 people each; yet these 2,800 "urban places" contain 54,000,000 people, while 12,000 "rural places" contain 9,000,000. Nearly all the 9,000,000 residents of the 12,000 "rural places" live on unpaved streets, and the same holds true of a large percentage of the residents of "urban places." There are no statistics to show how many miles of streets there are in the 15,400 "incorporated places," so that we cannot estimate accurately the percentage of unpaved streets.

Even without such statistics to indicate the extent of unpaved streets, it would be evident enough to any one who travels much that most of our small towns are inadequately paved. Mud half the year and dust the other half are characteristics of their streets.

When we grow unduly elated over our progress in paving our highways such facts as these should bring us to earth—yes, literally to earth—to the dirt streets that are typical of most of our small towns and villages and also of many of our larger cities.

What the City Needs.

A revival of morality and old-fashioned honesty is the most urgent need of our American life today.

The explanation offered of the horrible condition in Russia is that men could not keep up with the rapid developments of civilization and, dropping behind the procession, they are slowly reverting to barbarism.

Our trouble in America is that in the midst of the wonderful scientific and mechanical development of 1922 integrity of character is too lightly esteemed and dishonesty in public life is too easily condoned by the voters.

Our municipal voters have quite frequently demonstrated that their standard of accountability has changed but little from that of the men who acclaimed Robin Hood as a hero about five and a half centuries ago. It mattered not to them that he was a thief and an outlaw, so long as he gave to the poor a part of what he stole.—Commercial Bulletin.

Home-Owning Always Worth While.

Owning a home is one of the most satisfactory forms of investment which can possibly be undertaken. As with an investment of any kind, it should be entered into only after due and sufficient thought, and one must be careful not to undertake more than can be performed. Ordinarily, however, the objective to be gained is of sufficient importance to justify considerable effort, and even making great sacrifices to accomplish the ownership of a home will be worth while in the end.

Why Atmosphere Changes Have Effect on Twinkling Stars

There are several reasons why stars twinkle. One is that these bodies are so extremely distant that not even the most powerful telescope can show them to have a visible disk, like the planets. Their light, consequently, is a mere point, so minute as to be susceptible of interference by the various and unequal densities of the atmosphere. Hence, atmosphere changes have a marked effect upon the twinkling. For example, it is found to increase as the temperature falls and the barometer rises. An experience of nearly forty years showed M. Montigny that with the quantity of moisture in the air the twinkling of the stars increased so markedly as to serve for a useful prognostic of rain. Cycloidal conditions generally are found to promote it, whilst it is extremely sensitive to magnetic disturbances. Humboldt on one occasion in the tropics found that the stars shone with a mild and planetary light; their scintillation was scarcely sensible at the horizon. This, it is apparent, was due to the great homogeneity of the atmosphere; whereas the extremely fine pencil of light from the stars was not interfered with by unequally dense strata.

WHY

Atmosphere Changes Have Effect on Twinkling Stars

There are several reasons why stars twinkle. One is that these bodies are so extremely distant that not even the most powerful telescope can show them to have a visible disk, like the planets. Their light, consequently, is a mere point, so minute as to be susceptible of interference by the various and unequal densities of the atmosphere. Hence, atmosphere changes have a marked effect upon the twinkling. For example, it is found to increase as the temperature falls and the barometer rises. An experience of nearly forty years showed M. #### USE GOLD LEAF AS MEDICINE

Indian Natives Make Peculiar Uses of Precious Metal—Refuse to Trade It.

Curious and interesting facts regarding India's passion for gold, and the strange uses to which the natives put the precious metal, have been gathered. Instead of utilizing her wealth to promote trade, India burles hers, or most of it. At present, it seems, much of the gold dug from the earth in South Africa is, by a fresh digging operation, deposited again beneath the soil in the south of Asia.

India has other queer uses for gold. The natives of some parts of India take gold leaves as medicine, while others, piously inclined, gild the domes of their temples with it. Thousands of dollars' worth of gold go into the making of windows and other trimmings in the palaces of the princes of the country.

Why We Raise Hand in Yawning.

There are a number of odd superstitions with regard to yawning. Most people remember having been corrected at some time or other for not placing a hand over the mouth to cover up a yawn.

This arose from a quaint belief of years ago when people were more superstitious than they are today—that there was a danger of the devil jumping into the open mouth when in the act of yawning.

Among many races it is still believed that he who yawns much is possessed of an evil spirit. When a Hindu yawns, he snaps his thumbs and repeats the name of one of his deities. To neglect this means misfortune.

When a Moslem yawns, he puts the back of his left hand over the open mouth and says "I seek refuge in Allah from Satan."

To yawn in the midst of prayers is considered a bad omen. It is better, according to ancient superstition, to begin the prayer again, from the beginning.

Why £ Sign Is Used.

Originally both "£" and "lb." meant the same thing, "one pound," from the Latin word, "libra." The old system of money had what we should call a "silver standard," the standard being one pound's weight of silver, which was cut up into coins. Twenty "shillings" or two hundred and forty pence—went to the pound's weight of equivalent of the modern shillings or pence—want to the pound's weight of silver. As the gold standard came in, these values were altered, but the old term of "libra" for the pound was kept. Then some distinction had to be made in the sign for weight and value, and so in the former case lb., the first and third letters, were taken for the contraction, while in the latter the initial L with a stroke through it was used.

Why the Word "Cigar" Is Spanish.

The word cigar is Spanish, and is derived from cigarra, the Spanish name for grasshopper. When the Spaniards first introduced tobacco into Spain from the island of Cuba, they cultivated the plant in their gardens, which in Spanish are called cigarrals. Each grew his tobacco in his cigarral. When one offered a smoke to a friend, he would say: "Es de mi cigarral," that is, "It is from my garden." Soon the expression came to be: "Este cigarro es de mi cigarral," "this cigar is from my garden." The grasshopper (cigarra) was very common in Spain and cigarral meant the place where the cigarra sings.

Why Does Watch Spring Break?

The spontaneous breaking of watch springs is believed to occur chiefly in the summer months. From the repair records of two firms for several years it is found that the breakages are most numerous during the season of frequent thunderstorms. Further experiments indicate that it is moisture instead of heat that plays the chief part. It is suggested that the springs may be weakened by rusting spots, and in 56 samples, sealed up in equal division in a jar containing moist air, and one containing dry air, 17 springs broke, all in the jar of moist air. The liability to break was greatly reduced by the application of oil.

A Small Start often Leads to a Big Finish.

In this respect many a wealthy man remembers the penny bank of his boyhood,

Money kept in a teapot pours no interest.

It is much better to put it in a bank and let it "brew there."

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 11

SOME MISSIONARY TEACHINGS OF THE PSALMS

LESSON TEXT—Ps. 47, 67, 100.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Let the people praise Thee, O God, let all the people praise Thee."—Ps. 67:3.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Everybody Praising God.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Everybody Serving God.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—All Nations Called to Serve Jehovah.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Missionary Hymns of the Old Testament.

The Jewish people were called to be missionaries to the other nations. The Psalter, their hymn book, is saturated with the spirit of God's grace to the world. Its dominant note is the call to come back to God.

I. A Call to Recognize God's Power (Ps. 47).

Man's first sin was to cast off God. Such abyssal darkness followed that the race has gone on in ignorance of its Creator and Benefactor. The first and primary need of the missionary is to get the heathen to know God. They must come to know Him not only as a mighty King, but as a personal, tender-hearted being, looking out over the world with compassion, desiring to save and bless man, His only creature in His image and likeness. Oh, that the heathen knew God as their true and great King whose mighty power He desires to use in salvation and blessing to all! Let us make this known to the ends of the earth!

II. A Call for the Nations to Return to God (Ps. 67).

The central theme of this psalm is the universal diffusion of God's grace. The order of thought in this psalm is that which shall be carried out by the Lord in the completion of His work of grace in the world.

1. God's Blessing Upon Israel (vv. 1, 2). This blessing is necessary in order that Israel may be fitted to make known God's way to the nations. This grace will be poured out upon Israel in the full coming of Pentecost. When this grace is poured out there will be such missionary activity as has hitherto been unknown. When Israel, like her national representative Paul, shall go forth in such power of the Holy Spirit in witnessing for Christ, truly nations shall be born in a day. That which shall be manifested by Israel for their God-appointed task is needed by the church in her witnessing. She needs the Spirit of God to fit her to preach the gospel to the heathen.

2. The Conversion of the Heathen (vv. 3-5). Thanksgiving will be given for salvation offered and accepted. Not only this, but there will be rejoicing in the experience of salvation. They will rejoice in the fact now that the great and righteous God rules the earth. The new-born soul rejoices in knowing that a dispensation of justice tempered with mercy has been ushered in. What gladness will be in the hearts of men in the day when Christ reigns!

3. Restoration of Blessings Upon the Earth (vv. 6, 7). When man cast off God a curse was placed upon the earth which limited its fruitfulness. Immediately upon man's return to God this curse will pass away from the earth. The supreme obstacle to prosperity is man's rebellion against God. Let the nations return to God and He will send His blessing upon them. The only way to bring back peace and prosperity is by the preaching of the gospel. Man must be called back to God. The supreme need of the world is not a league of nations, but a return to God; because God will remain separate from the nations as long as they are in rebellion against Him.

III. A Call to Recognize the Goodness of God (Ps. 100).

Praise should go up to God because He is God. Being God He created us, sustains us and saves us. For His unchanging mercy and goodness praise should be continually ascribed to Him.

What Life Consists Of.
"A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of things which he possesseth." In these words Jesus strikes at the popular error of all ages—the belief that life consists in things. For nothing are we under deeper obligation to Christianity than for this, that it corrects our easy views of life. Since the first man started heavenward, there have been two conflicting ideals of life; one teaches that life's values are in the things we get and keep; the other holds that the chief end of man is to develop his highest powers, to live in fear of that which is beneath him, and in reverence for that which is above him.—Rev. C. C. Albertson, D. D.

Neglected Children.
It is often difficult to tell which are more neglected—the children of the very rich or the children of the very poor.—Kenneth D. Miller.

Love for the Home.
The first indication of domestic happiness is the love of one's home.—Montlosier.

Breaks or Hardens the Heart.
Contact with the world either breaks or hardens the heart.—Chamfort.

THE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR TOPIC

November 11
Courage Needed Today; For What? Joshua 1:1-9

The book of Joshua is a record of conflict and conquest. Some failures and defeats are recorded, which were due to distrust and disobedience, but the note of victory is dominant. The victories achieved resulted from courage, courage born of faith in the promise, the presence, and the power of God.

The verses should be read carefully, with special attention given to the words, "courage" and "strength." How many times in these nine verses is Joshua enjoined to be courageous and strong? What promise lay behind this command? What was his only equipment for the task assigned him? Was it not the Word of God and obedience to it? Meditate on this, remembering that for the task of today, the equipment is similar. It would be well to memorize verse 8, because of its quickening and vitalizing power. Let this Word of God dwell in you richly; get hold of it, and let it get hold of you. There is no substitute for His Word; human ideals, standards, mottoes and maxims are all "weak and beggarly elements in comparison with the Word of God. Read Psalm 19:7-11, to verify this.

Courage is needed today to stand firm for the supremacy, sufficiency and authority of the Bible, as God's written Word. We are in the midst of a great spiritual conflict between the powers of light and darkness, touching this very matter.

Courage is needed today, to pray and intercede for a great spiritual revival, which shall beat back the waves of unbelief, infidelity and rationalism, that have come in like a flood.

Courage is needed today for a life of separation, sacrifice and service. This courage which is so closely related to victory, springs from faith in the promise, the presence, and the power of God given to His obedient people.

KNOW WHY YOUR HEAD ACHES.

Sick headache is not a disease but only an indication that you have allowed your bowels to become clogged up—constipated.

It tells you that you are bilious—that your blood is impure, your kidneys are not working right and that worse may follow if you don't look out.

There's a way to stop headaches—get rid of the cause. Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup has been successfully used for correcting stomach and liver troubles for nearly three quarters of a century and is still doing it.

You owe it to yourself to try Thacher's. If the first bottle does not give satisfaction your money will be refunded. You can get it in Taneytown from Robt. S. McKinney, Druggist.

RETAIN DRESS OF ANCESTORS

Costumes in Yucatan Are Much the Same Now as They Were in the Long Ago.

The modern Yucatan laborer has retained the dress of his ancestor, wearing crude sandals, white flaring trousers, a white jacket with a row of pockets along the bottom seam, and a colored apron wound around his hips and tucked in at the waist. The trousers are made of white duck, while cheaper trousers, work shirts and jackets are made from coarse, unbleached sheeting, locally known as "manta cruda." The apron contains a little more than a yard of cloth, and is made of ticking.

The working women wear white dresses made from such materials as bleached sheeting, cambric and long-cloth, and usually trimmed around the neck, armholes and bottom with stamped flowered strips which are made especially for this trade. White drill and cotton are used for suitings for men's clothing, blue drill principally for suits of railway employees, dock laborers and mechanics, and other articles for purposes similar to those of other countries.

No statistics of the imports of cotton piecegoods are available, but local conditions tend to give it considerable importance and volume. The natives of Yucatan take particular pride in the neatness and cleanliness of their clothing, the extent to which this is carried out being dependent largely on the economic conditions prevailing in the state.

Novel Motor Canoe.

It is reported that a western man has built a most unusual water craft in the form of a motor canoe. He took an ordinary canoe and placed in the bow a detachable motorboat arrangement which pulls the canoe forward when the motor is operating reversely. At the stern of the canoe he rigged up an airplane propeller, which is driven by a separate engine. In order to insure safety, pontoons were fastened on either side of the craft, and the steering gear of both motors was placed within easy reach near the center of the canoe.

You can tell her by her cellar, By the way she keeps her brooms, Or by peeping at the keeping Of her back and unused rooms.

TASTY DISHES

A NICE way to serve cabbage, when one has plenty of time for its preparation is

Cabbage Rolls.

Boil a small cabbage in salted water until the leaves are soft enough to roll without breaking. Drain and when cool enough to handle, cut the leaves into six-inch squares. Mix one pound of chopped steak, one cupful of uncooked rice, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt, one minced onion and a beaten egg, with a few dashes of cayenne pepper. Put a heaping teaspoonful of the mixture on a square of cabbage and roll into rolls the size of a finger. Have ready a large kettle of boiling water well salted, into it put a perforated kettle or colander in which the rolls may be placed to keep from touching the bottom of the kettle, as they burn quickly. See that the rolls are covered with water and cook covered for forty-five minutes or until the rice is done. Serve with drawn butter sauce.

Deviled Tongue Mold.

Take one pound of cold boiled smoked tongue chopped coarsely, two hard-cooked eggs, one tablespoonful of mustard pickle and one large sour pickle also chopped. Add one tablespoonful of mustard and three of mayonnaise. Soak two tablespoonfuls of gelatin in two tablespoonfuls of cold water, and when softened add two cupfuls of boiling water. When the gelatin is cool and begins to stiffen add to it the tongue mixture and pour all into a wet mold. Let harden in a cold place and serve with parsley as a garnish.

Kipperd Herring Salad.

Take one smoked herring, boil five minutes in water to cover. Drain, bone and shred it. To one-half cupful of the shredded fish add two cupfuls of diced celery, one green pepper chopped, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, one-eighth of a teaspoonful each of onion salt, pepper and paprika, one chopped hard-cooked egg, and enough mayonnaise to moisten well. Arrange on beds of lettuce and serve with more mayonnaise.

THE PHANTOM

By GRACE E. HALL

A THOUSAND times I've said good-bye to you, And turned away from every common thought That formed the vital tie that once we knew, With all the wondrous, joyous hours it brought.

A thousand times I've said a last farewell To memories of laughter, moods and tone, Have bade them lift their tantalizing spell And leave my soul in stillness—though alone.

I close the door against the whispering night, And bid my heart give o'er its drear refrain, But lo! you stand between me and the light And all those sad good-bys have been in vain.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

OUR CURIOSITY

THERE are two kinds of curiosity, morbid and intelligent.

The one is useless—even harmful. The other is the driving force that is behind all science and all progress.

A man gets out of an automobile in a busy street to pump up a tire. A hundred people gather round to watch him. The same people will stand around a man who has fallen and injured himself, gaping at him, and interfering with those who want to aid him. They gain nothing by being there. They have seen hundreds of tires pumped up—scores of men fall down. Their curiosity only breeds rudeness and idleness.

Intelligent curiosity is born in the human being. It prompts the baby to pull his rattle to pieces, and later on to punch a hole in his drum to see what is inside that makes the noise.

It finds its fullest development in the painful investigations of the scientist, seeking to solve the riddle of the universe.

Finding out how things work is almost all of useful knowledge.

The man who is indifferent to his surroundings is not going very far on his journey in this world.

He needs curiosity. It is important that he should gratify it. He ought to be curious about the growth of the tree, the manner in which buildings are put up, or battleships are put together—the movements of the stars in their courses.

He ought to cherish an abiding thirst for knowledge—knowledge about everything. Such a man will get an education whether or not he ever sees the inside of a college building. His curiosity, rightly directed, will force him to know things—and knowing things is education.

The child who asks countless questions should be encouraged. Moreover his curiosity should be employed as a means of educating him. It should be fed, and developed, and made greater as the years go by.

And presently it will send him out into the world determined to find out things for himself. When he reaches that stage his parents and teachers can stop worrying about him.

He will get along.

The Young Lady Across the Way

The young lady across the way says that in her opinion the saloon will never come back, but she notices that the bar association is maintaining its organization, and she supposes it still has hopes.

The Tie That Binds

THE UNITED STATES is a nation of far reaching relationships. Urged onward by new opportunities in a land of boundless resources, families have separated more than in any other land. Few men live where their fathers or grandfathers lived. Domestic ties stretch between communities widely scattered.

Commerce and industry, too, have the same spread of interests.

Though the nation is a federation of states, their boundaries form no barriers to trade. In business and social life, as well as in government, the nation has become a great community.

Hence there is a natural demand for telephone service that has no narrower boundaries than those of the country itself. Such a nation-wide service can be given only through an organization having a uniform policy by means of which all its distant activities can be joined together.

The Bell System provides such a service to meet the needs of a united people.

Mrs. Mary Kump and sister, Mrs. Thomas, have moved into one of the apartments in the Shriner building, on Middle St.

Charles A. Koons living with Noah H. Babylon, near Baust Church, hauled in 350 bushels of corn, and unloaded 250 in five hours. Who can beat it?

Rev. C. E. Rice, who preached in the Lutheran Church, last Sunday, is not a candidate for the pastorate of the church, and requested that his name be not used in that connection.

The election officials had an all night job, Tuesday night. The second precinct finished about 6 A. M., but the first precinct failed to tally up until about 10 A. M., Wednesday.

Miss Isabel Sittig, daughter of Mrs. Levi D. Frock, was married on October 22, to Dr. T. F. Shaw, a surgeon, and is located at Salem, Mass. Her friends here extend their best wishes for her future happiness.

(For the Record.) Those who spent Sunday with Cleve Weishaar and family, were: Mr. Wm. Weishaar and wife, Bernice Crabbs, Roy Crabbs and son, Earl; Mary Grace and Clara Weishaar, Wm. Weishaar, Jr., and Joe Cook.

Mrs. N. B. Hagan, in looking over a lot of old-time keep-sakes, a few days ago, came across a piece of the wedding cake, boxed by her husband, at the time of their wedding, thirty-eight years ago. The cake is in an excellent state of preservation.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Starnes, of Hultsville, Cal., recently celebrated their tenth wedding anniversary. Among those who attended the event were Mr. and Mrs. Leslie H. Koons and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred M. Zollick-offer, of El Centro, formerly of Carroll county. Many presents were received and an enjoyable time was spent by all.

D. J. Hesson, (Dem.) carried Taneytown district for Senator, by 33 votes; while Chas. B. Kephart (Rep.) for County Treasurer, had a majority of 410 votes. As the Republican majority for Armstrong was 361, the vote of Mr. Hesson was extraordinary, while that for Kephart was complimentary showing that Taneytown voters are very liberally disposed toward "home" candidates.

The Neuman ice cream truck slipped off the road and upset, on Monday evening, on the Harney road near Piney Creek Church, where the turn is made to Chas. B. Kephart's. This is a dangerous spot, as the road is too narrow at a curve, and a deep gutter should be shut off with a guard rail. The load of ice cream was distributed over the landscape, but neither the driver nor truck were seriously hurt.

The frescoing of the Lutheran Church was completed, on Wednesday, and a force of men and women of the congregation, by much good work this week, placed the lower floor in a practically finished condition. Only a little painting and varnishing remains to be done, in addition to securing metal shields for the steam radiators, to complete the entire work that has been on hand for about seven weeks.

(For the Record.) Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Frock and family entertained, on Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Gebelein and son, Conrad, Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Kirk, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Beittler, Mrs. J. Allen Beittler, Miss Frances Channey, Miss Catharine Devan, all of Baltimore; J. J. Beittler, of New York; Mrs. Joseph Haines, of Hagers-town; Mrs. Sarah Frock, Harvey Frock and daughter, Madge, of Keyville; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Frock and daughter, Doris and son, Herbert, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eckard and daughters, Mildred and Evelyn, Amy and Fred Eckard, all of Kump; George Fowler, of Littlestown.

Harold Lockard, who is said to have quite a record as a "human fly" and movie stunt actor, who started from Baltimore, Thursday morning of last week in an attempt to break the world's non-stop record for a motor car, passed through Taneytown toward Westminster, Saturday morning. Mr. Lockard, who was hand-cuffed to the car, was to drive night and day without stop for sleep or rest for five days and nights and one hour. The stunt was, of course, largely an advertisement of the car, and his reward is a purse of $3000. His car was accompanied by another car, and also by a trained nurse the greater part of the time.

R. S. McKinney's new electric drug store sign, is one of the attractions on Baltimore St.

The automobile "given away" by the baseball club, last Saturday, is said to have gone to a Washingtonian.

Mrs. Bernice Fair, who is at Frederick Hospital, is reported to be recovering in a satisfactory way, from an operation.

Harvey R. Frock made the editor a donation of a lot of extra fine turnips, the largest weighing 4 1/4 lbs. Not the overgrown worthless variety, but good ones.

The weather, the past week, has been unfavorable for outdoor work for farmers, who are anxious to get the corn crop housed before real winter sets in.

Usually, our electric lights have the habit of "going off" in a tired sort of way, but on Thursday night they departed with a suddenness almost equal to a "bang."

Nobody understands the dangers of our Railroad crossing better than Senator Hesson; likewise, he may be able to have some interesting conferences with the Public Service Commission, over matters of local interest.

The Seventh Annual Roll-call of the Red Cross, in our District, will be in charge of Miss Amelia Annan. Our treasury had a heavy drain at the time of the earthquake in Japan, and it is hoped that many will renew their membership.

The annual election of officers of the Taneytown Branch of the Red Cross, will be held at the Public Library, Nov. 17, at 7 P. M., sharp. At this time the report will be read, and it is hoped that as many people as possible will be on hand.

Wm. L. Angell left on Thursday evening, for Elkhorn, Wisconsin, after spending several months here, and in this section on a visit to relatives. He spends his time between two homes—Elkhorn, Wis., and Morrison, Ill. His friends and relatives here always welcome his visits.

The open season for hunting rabbits and partridges, commences on Saturday. We have never seen a time when farmers are so positive against hunting, and those who do so without permission, are apt to get into trouble with the law. See our Special Notices, as well as list of advertisers against trespassing.

Merwyn C. Fuss went to Washington, on Thursday, for the body of Mrs. J. J. Weaver, of Uniontown, who died suddenly, Oct. 22, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Fox. Burial took place in the afternoon, in Uniontown. Dr. Weaver, who had been in a Baltimore hospital, is improving, and was at the burial.

A Trip to Virginia.

(For the Record.)

Perhaps our friends will be interested in an account of our trip. We left Taneytown Oct 17 for Baltimore, to see my brother, John Forney, stayed there all night and left the next morning for Virginia. Went through Washington, to Richmond, then took the Southern train to Green Bay. There my brother, Samuel, met us and we drove 3 miles to his place where we stayed one week with them. My brother is farming, the principal crop is tobacco. They grow a large quantity and get good prices for it. They have fine tobacco, and sweet potatoes. I never saw nicer ones than they grow. He sent us a box of the finest potatoes, and they can beat Carroll County for raising sweet potatoes.

We left Green Bay, on October 26, for Cheava, accompanied by brother Samuel and wife to their children, Mrs. John East and Thomas Forney, by auto driven by Mr. Glasco. One hundred miles further on through Prince Edward Co., through to Brittonville, to Prosperity, to Keysville, into Charlotte Co., to Charlotte Court House; through the Bush mountains to Harrisburg, where we had supper. From there to Brookneal, then to Longland, when we were in Pittsylvania Co.

Then we went to Gretna, and after passing through Gretna at 10 P. M., we had engine trouble and had to stay there till 2:00 A. M., and then had to walk 5 miles to Cheava. It was 4:00 A. M., when arrived. We found them all in bed, but nevertheless we had a good time. They got up and got us a fine breakfast which we all enjoyed after spending the night with no sleep.

Then we stayed with our niece and nephew till Monday morning, when Tom took us to Chatham, where we took the train for Washington. Through the mountains the scenery was beautiful. We got to Washington at 8:05 P. M., left at 9:35 P. M., got to Baltimore at 10:45 P. M., and went to Mr. and Mrs. Ronenberg's, and stayed there till Wednesday, when we returned home.

MR. and MRS. JACOB FORNEY.

Wage Increase and Farming.

Artificial and abnormal wage increases stimulate increase of labor-saving machinery in business, industries and on the farms.

George E. Roberts, in the National City Bank bulletin, says:

"As between the farmers and wage-earners, a rise of wages without any corresponding rise in the prices of farm products means that to the extent that the wage-earners consume each other's products they pay for the rise themselves, while in the case of the farmer as a normal consumer, his purchases will be reduced and the falling off will affect the industries unfavorably. The same is true of all classes except the particular wage-earners whose wages have been increased.

Moreover, in the long run if the compensation of the farmer remains below the level of that in the other industries, there will be a shift of labor from the farms to the industries until higher prices for farm products or lower compensation in the other industries restores the equilibrium. Meanwhile, however, a general rise of wages, which has the effect of diminishing the compensation of the farmer, can be neither justified in morals nor made permanent. And of course the same would be true of any arbitrary effort to force wages below the normal level of compensation, cost of living considered."

Taneytown Home-Makers Club.

The regular meeting of the Taneytown Home-makers Club will be held on Saturday, November 17, at 2:00 P. M.

The subject of the meeting will be Christmas Suggestions. The meeting will be in charge of the clothing leaders. Please bring with you something you have made for Christmas or something you wish to make and tell us how to do it.

Notice the day of meeting has been changed from Thursday to Saturday during the winter.

Collecting Small Bills.

How easy it is to put off paying a small bill. Somehow it doesn't seem a bit impressive to the debtor. For generally a man who owes small bills, owes them because he has larger bills that are worrying him. And of course, sometimes a small bill, being small, is just overlooked.

But here is one way to apply the medicine, without blistering the patient and he'll realize that it's no trouble to pay that little bill.

A seed company in the South sent out letters, enclosing a notice printed on post card size stock. It said "U-O-US—$5.65—Thank you."

Here are a few more phrases that might come in handy.

We O. U. Thanks. U. O. US money. Let's all be happy. R. S. V. P.

Why not try this stunt on some of your bills that you've sent to the morgue?—Exchange.
