

WAR COLLEGE CAMP AT TANEYTOWN

Not Intended for Public Drills or Demonstrations.

The presence of the War College Camp was enlivened this week, by the presence in the air, of many airplanes humming busily in almost all directions, said to number from 15 to 18, and operating largely between Walkersville and Gettysburg.

There are twelve camps between Gettysburg and Washington, and the work is being done by perhaps 300 officers, ranking from Lieutenant to Colonel. The whole scheme represents a make-believe battlefield, perhaps selected because of its similarity in topography to what may be possibly an actual scene of war in the future. The work includes signal corps communication, and theoretical maneuvering into positions determined upon by staff officers from headquarters in Gettysburg, immediately opposite the entrance to the Gettysburg National cemetery.

The main aviation field is near Walkersville, where 20 planes are in use, going over the battlefield, with the Walkersville encampment as the base. The Camps are scheduled to break up on Saturday, June 7.

The Camp here has been quite attractive for visitors, who however do not gain a great deal of information except in a very general way, there has not been much to see, as the whole plan represents a school for students, and not a spectacular display for the benefit of the public. It is not a drill proposition, but one of actual inside school work, largely of a private character.

The maneuvering is to educate officers and men in the management and movement of troops in time of war. Orders are sent by telephone, radio and courier to the different bodies of men, and reports are received and tabulated daily by umpires, who decide whether the army has advanced or been driven back. The entire field in the front plan extends from north of Emmitsburg and Gettysburg, to Hanover, to Aberdeen, to Havre de Grace.

The maneuvering which will last through tomorrow, will conclude with a critique in which all the officers will participate. The Signal Corps has stretched miles of field telephone wire, and first army headquarters, Walkersville, has been kept in touch with the movements of the troops. Couriers make use of airplanes, motorcycles and automobiles. About 25 airplanes are scattered over eight bases.

S. S. Convention at Mt. Joy.

The annual convention of the Third District Sunday School will be held in Mt. Joy Church Sunday afternoon and evening, June 8. Delegates from all the schools in the district will attend this convention, and it is expected that a large number of people interested in Sunday School work will also attend.

During the afternoon session W. M. Myers, State Sunday School Association Secretary, of Erie, Pa., will be the principal speaker.

The evening session will be started promptly at 7:00 o'clock. Several addresses will be given at this meeting. There will be special music arranged for both the afternoon and evening meetings. A male quartet will sing at the evening session.

Milk Producers Meeting.

The last meeting of the Taneytown local of the Interstate Milk Producers Association, which was held on Tuesday evening in Shriner's Theatre, featured several reels of motion pictures illustrating the method of producing, advertising and consumption of milk.

Mr. James C. Sanders presided over the meeting and Mr. D. A. McCarty, of the Philadelphia Dairy Council, gave an interesting talk on dairy council activities and market conditions. There were over two hundred in attendance.

Sunday School Convention.

The second annual Lutheran Sunday School Convention of the Sunday Schools of the Middle Conference of the Maryland Synod, will be held on Friday, June 6, in the Lutheran Church, at Silver Run, beginning at 9:30 A. M. Three sessions, Morning afternoon and evening. A strong program. Every school in the Conference is asked to send delegates—about 50 schools. Everybody invited.

Only Half of Women Vote.

Only 55 percent of the men and women eligible to vote in Maryland have registered, Dr. G. W. Crabbe, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Maryland, declared in an address at a meeting held in Winchester Hall, Sunday evening.

The Governor of Maryland, in 1923, he said, was elected by the votes of only 21 percent of the adults of the State. And this in spite of the fact that every county was electing its own local officers the same day. Only half of the women vote.

The apathy of the voters and the failure of the more substantial citizens of the State to participate in elections, and especially in the primary elections, was blamed by Dr. Crabbe for governmental difficulties. —Frederick News.

A TRUCK WRECK.

Edgar H. Essig in a Collision near Reisterstown.

While going to Baltimore, last Friday morning with a truck load of marketing, Edgar H. Essig accompanied by James Slick, figured in a head-on collision with an automobile driven by Walter Bosley, of Reisterstown, with the result that both truck and car were practically demolished. Bosley came out on the Reisterstown road from Halbrook Ave., evidently without looking where he was going and jammed into the Essig truck, which was on its proper right of way.

The three men were thrown violently to the ground, Essig escaping with a few bruises, while Slick and Bosley were considerably cut and required the attention of a physician. Ten crates of eggs were smashed up in the wreck, and Mr. Essig was obliged to buy a new truck. Bosley was summoned to appear before the traffic court on the charge of reckless driving and failure to give right of way; but the case appears to have been quickly disposed of, on the ground that no prosecutor appeared against him.

This was a case in which a careful driver, clearly within his rights of the road, was made the victim of heavy expense without any recourse for damages. Evidently, the highways are far from being safe, in such cases, and under the law there is nothing to be done about it.

A Brotherhood Visit.

(For the Record.) The Brotherhood of Third United Brethren Church, Baltimore, numbering 145 made their way in 35 autos to the Bixler United Brethren Church Manse on Sunday morning, June 1st, and rendered a well planned program which inspired all present.

At the close of the service they were invited out on the lawn adjoining the church to participate in a feast well prepared by the ladies of the church.

The Brotherhood goes out once a year to boost a weaker church. They have as their motto, "Boosters." They well deserve recognition. Upon returning to their home city, made a contribution of money. Rev. W. C. Wachter, was the entertaining pastor.

He Didn't Get Enough.

William Whitmore, about 28 years old, of near Baltimore, was arrested by State Officer Dewey Bowman, near New Market, Sunday afternoon, charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, and reckless driving. At a hearing before Justice William E. Falconer, he was fined $125 and costs on the liquor charge and $10 for reckless driving. Unable to pay he was committed to jail for 135 days.

From Plane No. 4 to a short distance beyond New Market, Whitmore crowded nine automobiles off the road several of which ran into ditches along the side of the highway to escape being struck. Observing his condition, one of the automobilists, forced to one side of the road, notified Officer Bowman. The latter started after the reckless driver and halted him near Mt. Carmel Church, between New Market and Frederick. Seeing the officer a companion of Whitmore leaped from the machine and disappeared in an adjoining orchard. Whitmore was very much under the influence of liquor and had no money to pay his fine. Sheriff Albaugh was notified and went after the prisoner.—Thurmont Clarion.

Accident near Hanover.

Returning to York from the funeral of his father, John O. Mehring held at Littleton, on Saturday, Herbert B. Mehring, of 511 Madison Ave., York, was seriously injured when the automobile in which he was riding struck a bridge near Hanover late Saturday night and he was thrown against the top of the car.

Mr. Mehring is in the West Side Sanitarium, York, his entire body in a partially paralyzed state caused by a contusion in the backbone at the base of the skull. His condition is not serious.

The party of which Mr. Mehring was a member was made up of his wife and two sons. Mr. Mehring was at the wheel. The injured man was taken to York in the Mehring auto by a son. No others of the party were injured.

It was first thought that Mr. Mehring's neck had been broken and an X-ray was taken soon after his admission to the West Side. Developments since disproved all such beliefs. —Hanover Record.

The Pioneers of Westminster.

A little booklet under the above title, by Miss Mary B. Shellman, has been published by the Carroll County Society of Baltimore, it being an address delivered by Miss Shellman before a recent meeting of the Society, in Baltimore, to which has been added a number of interesting items from a diary kept by the late Mrs. Katharine Jones Shellman, of Westminster, dating back to early in the present century.

The work contains many heretofore unpublished items of the early days of Westminster, that will be of interest, not only to citizens of that place, but to many Carroll-countians. The work is copy-righted, and is placed on sale at 50c per copy. It is on sale in Taneytown, at R. S. McKinney's Drug Store, and likely at several places in Westminster.

PROPOSED RATES FOR TELEPHONES.

Increased Expenses Given as Justifying Increased Changes.

The C. & P. Telephone Company has issued a detailed statement to the press, a duplicate of that filed with the Public Service Commission, in which is covered the reasons for the increase in rates to subscribers, the first part of which relates to the total investments of the Company in plant, with gross revenue and expenses covering the past five years, showing the rate of return for 1923 to have been 5.01 per cent. on an investment of $27,587,337.

The average investment in each telephone in Maryland is given as $202, an increase in five years from $151.00; and the increase in cost of construction and materials as almost 100 percent more than in 1918.

The item of taxes is covered, showing that in 1914 the Company paid $274,000 and for the present year about $1,000,000; or on each telephone in 1919 paid $3.23, and for 1924 approximately $6.00.

Changes to subscribers are based on the number of telephones in a community. The Taneytown Station rates will be increased, as follows:

Business	Present Rate	New Rate
Individual Line	$3.50	$3.75
Four Party Residence	2.50	3.00
Individual Line	2.50	2.75
Four Party Rural Station	1.75	2.00
Rural Station	1.50	1.75

As we understand the proposition, these rates will also apply to the other exchanges in the county. There are other changes that apply to auxiliary lines and private branches, and to certain service not commonly used, that we do not publish, as so doing might merely confuse, without adding to general information. There are also increases in toll rates, not possible for us to give in small space.

It is proposed that these rates shall go into effect on November 1, depending on the action of the Public Service Commission. (See large adv. in this issue.)

New Farming Region.

The West Texas section, heretofore used largely only for cattlemen and sheepmen—the section that novelists have built many stories on—is now being cut up into small ranches, and hundreds of families are moving in daily, while other hundreds moved during the fall and winter.

The experiment is a big one, financially, and should this first season's crops fail—largely of cotton—many will go broke, but if otherwise, fortunes will be made in a few years. The ground promises to yield well, and half-crops this year will be sufficient to prevent any extreme loss.

Thus far the outlook for the new country is promising. Moisture has fallen in ample quantities and the young crops are growing well. Land values are mounting, too, but nothing like they will if the present crops are profitable.

Grasshoppers are the only present peril of the new country. They have appeared in such numbers at certain points that State aid in coping with them has been obtained. Poison has been distributed by airplane, machine and hand to all corners of the threatened area. These grasshoppers in previous years have eaten the plains clean of green vegetation.

NATIONAL POLITICS NOW WARMING UP

Congress Will Adjourn for Sure on Saturday Night.

Congress will adjourn on Saturday night, both houses having agreed—the House by a vote of 221 to 157 and the Senate by 53 to 36. Senator La Follette wanted merely to take a recess for a month, in order to then take up the agricultural bills and railroad legislation, but his effort was defeated. As La Follette will likely head a third party ticket, his effort is taken to mean a bid for farmer votes.

Senator Brookhart, Iowa, secured renomination in the primaries, held on Tuesday, in a light vote. This is held to show that sentiment in the state, and northwest, is aggressively in favor of distinctively farmer legislation.

The stage is set for the Republican convention in Cleveland, next week. The outlook is that President Coolidge will be nominated by acclamation, though there is possibility of the names of both Johnson and La Follette being presented. The vice-presidency is in doubt, and the convention will have to decide.

For the Democrats, William G. McAdoo is the leader, with Governor Smith, of New York, second. It is pretty strongly conceded that Smith can not win, and that once he is eliminated a combination may be effected strong enough to name a "dark horse" in place of McAdoo—but hardly Senator Underwood. Like in the Republican camp, there is no assured nominee for second place.

A Legion Official Resigns as Protest Against Bonus.

District Deputy Commander, Arthur T. Rush, of Legion Posts of Montgomery and Bucks counties, Penna., has resigned his office as a protest against the passage of the Bonus bill.

Those who were responsible for the pressure brought to bear on "vote-chasing" Senators have hit the disabled soldier squarely between the eyes," said Mr. Rush in a letter to J. Leo Collins, of Pittsburgh, commander of the Legion in Penna.

In commenting on his resignation, Mr. Rush said that hosts of the Legion felt as he did on the question of the Bonus Bill and would resign from the organization. His own post, Jenkintown, will present a resolution protesting against its passage at the next meeting on June 12.

"Of the eighty-eight members of the post," Mr. Rush said, "at least half will resign. Throughout my district, the third largest in the state, with a membership of 2500, there is universal dissatisfaction with the men who put the Bonus Bill over in Washington. Only one post of thirty-five under my jurisdiction, that in Doylestown, has ever placed itself on record as strongly favoring the passage of the bill.

"One used to see the Legion button worn everywhere. Now men are often ashamed to be seen wearing it. Many Legion members, who are not resigning now, will let their membership lapse at the end of the year. The action of the Legion in favoring the Bonus Bill, will mean that eventually every red-blooded man will sever his connection with it."

The placing of more than $1,500,000 of insurance on the life of Rodman Wanamaker during the last month, apportioned among virtually every American and Canadian life insurance company, has made him the most heavily insured man in the world, according to the Philadelphia Association of Life Underwriters.

With a total of $6,000,000 insurance, Mr. Wanamaker leads the list of sixty five American business men who are insured for more than $1,000,000.

Two Catholic Women in Congress.

Mrs. Robert E. Norton, Democratic candidate for Congress from the Twelfth District, of New Jersey, whose election is conceded, will be the second Catholic woman to be elected to Congress. The first was Mrs. Nolan, of California. Incidentally, Mrs. Norton will be the first woman to be elected from an Eastern State.

COOLIDGE SIGNS TAX MEASURE

Will Try to have Amendments made by Next Congress.

President Coolidge signed the new Revenue bill, practically under protest, because it offers some reduction in taxation, but is not an ideal reform of taxation. He especially opposes the inheritance tax features, and the publicity feature he characterizes as unwarranted interference with private financial affairs of individuals.

The President makes no secret of the fact that he signed the new tax law with extreme reluctance and that it in no sense should be regarded "as a permanent expression of Government fiscal policy." He regards it not only as unsatisfactory but "harmful to the future of the country."

He resolved to sign it, however, after receiving a report from Secretary Mellon in which the Treasury agrees that on account of the surplus now in hand there will be no deficit, in all probability, during the coming year and that Congress will have a further opportunity to legislate on taxation before the Treasury faces an actual deficit.

He states that he will use his best efforts to secure changes in the next Congress, in these objectionable features;

First—Because it reduces sur-taxes from 50 percent to 40 percent instead of to 25 percent, as laid down in the Mellon plan.

Second—Because it levies an increase in inheritance taxes as high as 40 percent, which will amount "to practical confiscation of capital."

Third—Because the assessment of a gift tax which the President regards as an invasion of the right of the citizen of "doubtful legality."

Fourth—Because of the enforced publicity of the amount of taxes paid by the individual and the corporation—"an unwarranted interference with the right of the citizen to privacy."

Fifth—Because the new board of tax appeals is made a court of record instead of a tribunal, before which the taxpayer could appear privately and make his case.

Shocking Results of Prohibition.

Have you walked about the downtown district in Minneapolis on a Saturday evening lately? The conditions are shocking. The banks are wide open all evening. There are streams of people hurrying to leave part of their week's wages.

It seems terrible, the amount of money that is laid away in those banks on a Saturday night. Young men and women, middle-aged people even, seem to be depositing their money in savings accounts with a prodigality that is shocking.

In the old days of booze the banks were dark on a Saturday night and the saloons were swarming with wage earners who had just been paid off.

Now the saloon buildings are occupied by restaurants, stores and Greek shining parlors and hair-cleaning establishments. It's awful the amount of money that is being spent for clothes, shoes and food in Minneapolis. The picture shows get their share, too, and the refreshment-vending drug stores.

But the banks, all brilliantly lighted and with extra help working, seem to be taking away most of the wage earners' money.—The Minnetonka (Minn.) Record.

What Is Portland Cement?

Portland cement, instead of being the name of a particular brand of cement, is a commodity, like sterling silver or Paris green, that is produced by many different manufacturers. In the United States there are today some ninety companies making portland cement—now commonly known merely as "cement." Mixed with sand, stone and water it forms concrete, which is in effect "stone that you can mould."

The essential elements of portland cement are lime, silica and alumina. These are obtained in various combinations of raw materials, including cement-rock and limestone, limestone and clay or shale, marl and clay, and blast furnace slag and limestone.

The essential difference between portland cement and the old natural cements is that portland cement is a scientifically manufactured product the chemical constituents of which are carefully pre-determined, while natural cements were made from the rock just as it came from the quarry.

The rock was merely broken into pieces, heated to a comparatively low temperature, and then pulverized. These natural cements depended upon nature for their proportioning and mixing.

For portland cement, specific quantities of different ingredients are proportioned, pulverized and intimately mixed, burned at extreme temperature to hard clinker, and reground to extreme fineness. Standard specifications demand that cement be ground fine enough for at least 78 percent of a given quantity to pass through a sieve with 40,000 holes to the square inch—a sieve that is finer than silk.—Portland Cement Association.

To test the theory that "any bright criminal could prove himself insane and thus escape punishment for his crimes," a Des Moines, Iowa, newspaper reporter played the part of the insane man, was officially adjudged insane by the sanity commission, which remanded him to the state hospital at Clarinda, all in such fine order that the young reporter had difficulty in extricating himself.

Regulating Labor.

Aside from any question of wages and cost of materials, there are four causes for high prices of merchandise that rarely fail to receive their full consideration. They are (1) increase in number of holidays; (2) shorter work days; (3) laws regulating the labor of women and children, and (4) general legislation that in various ways restricts private management of business.

The argument is used that shorter hours and holidays do not curtail output, but rather produces more and better work. It is an argument, but not the fact. In exceptional instances, it may be that reasonable reduced working hours may be reflected in the character of output, but in the large majority of cases lost time means lost work—less output—and consequently higher cost of the finished product, whatever it may be.

Any law that curtails production, or shuts off a supply of labor, or which prevents individual bargaining for labor, inevitably adds to the sale price to the consumer.

If the shorter day argument works with employees, it ought to work with the employer after the same manner. If a farmer can do as much work in eight hours as in twelve, he is quite foolish to work twelve. If a mechanic can do as much work in 44 hours a week, as in 60 hours, employers and managers are unbusiness-like in wanting to keep their plants going the additional 16 hours. Everybody who has practical knowledge of the subject as a whole, knows that the short hour day, or week, is a delusion so far as production is concerned.

Many of the laws regulating labor are based on humanitarian grounds, altogether proper when not overdone. The state has the proper right to stand between the rapacity of a certain class of employers and their work help; to protect children from the inhumanity or greed of parents, as well as protect all classes against the evils of their own ignorance; but, it ought to be known that the consuming public is paying the dollars and cents price for all these "regulations" of labor.

It is, comparatively speaking, only a few years since labor was unregulated; that is, since the state specified who might work and for how long a day. Also, only a few years since labor organizations have held such an influence over working conditions and wages; and these two composite facts seem with us to stay, if not increase in strength. When complaining of "high prices" therefore, it is necessary to go far back of individuals and corporations to find out "when prices are coming down." They are not coming down, ever, to old prices, for the very simple reason that old conditions applying to labor and production are never coming back.

Short hours, holidays, restricted employment of women and children, and state "regulations" must be paid for by that long-suffering individual, the "ultimate consumer."

Vetoes in Defense of Departmental Efficiency.

We are having a pretty extended trial of government by representatives these days, and very little of government by Executives and heads of departments. In fact, the first real trial of our form of government is taking place, in a way, because there has never before been manifest such a spirit for "doing things" regardless of expert judgment and of departmental advice.

The vetoes of President Coolidge do not so much represent his own individual opinions, as they represent an effort to preserve the advisory relations of the various governmental departments, of which, members of the cabinet are the heads. President Coolidge is not so much a dictator, as that he believes in the opinions of his expert advisers, without whom a President could not operate. The opinion seems to prevail that in the Senate, especially, there are men whose long service gives them better judgment than that of a Secretary of the Treasury, for instance, who may have held his position but a short while. On the surface, this appears a reasonable proposition; but the Secretary of the Treasury—or any other Secretary—gets his facts from men in the departments who have practically been there for life, unknown by name to the general public; men who have studied their work from the ground up, detail by detail, not influenced by politics or by campaigns for re-election.

The departments of the National government represent the administrative machinery, without which our government could not properly function. Just now, industrial blocs and political groups are minimizing the value of the expert machinists, and are running away with former precedents—spending money, for instance, without great regard for that complex study of finance and careful estimates that are so necessary to the ultimate success of all great financial transactions.

Whether Congress will avoid the rocks of its own insurgency, remains to be seen. Perhaps in a few years the whole country will pay a heavy price for the present example of representative government; but, it is a test that must come, and we have the faith that there is enough good sound sense in this country to remedy errors that may be made, though it may require a great deal of effort and united organization to make the power felt.

Which System is Better?

A discussion of the tariff question, free from the bitterness of partisan politics, would be beneficial to every public official and individual voter in this nation. Figures are dry reading and few people, even leaders in public thought, will take the trouble to analyze the wonderful stories that figures tell.

For years we have taken it for granted that the talk about "free trade" Great Britain meant that nation had no tariff, while the term "protective tariff" in the United States meant that people were forced to pay much higher prices for home-made products which could be purchased cheaper if shipped in here from foreign countries.

The facts are that in "free trade" England, the per-capita customs tax is more than four times as high as in our own "tariff ridden" United States. The hideous thing about the English tariff is that it protects, except in a few sporadic cases, not articles manufactured in that country, but customs duties are imposed almost solely upon the necessities of the poor—tea, tobacco, sugar, cocoa, etc., which to the English workmen are as necessary as roast beef.

In other words, there is no tariff to protect the average English workman or industry from ruinous competition of other nations which can produce manufactured articles more cheaply. Instead of putting the tariff on foreign pianos, motor cars and similar articles to protect the home industries and workmen making these products, the English put the tariff on the necessities of life which are shipped in but which do not compete with locally manufactured articles because such products are not made in England.

The United States simply reverses this process and aims to protect industries which must meet the strongest foreign competition, and the highest tariffs are on articles which are not necessities of life.

It should be appreciated that one day's work and one day's wage will pay the American worker's individual proportion of all the customs duties on everything collected in the United States, such customs duties under the Fordney Tariff Bill being 1.4 cent per day per-capita. Prior to that, for many years, they averaged less than 1 cent per day per-capita, a small price to pay for peaceful and profitable employment.

With these facts before us, why can the tariff not be discussed as a business rather than a political issue?—Industrial News Bureau.

Coolidge on the World Court.

President Coolidge in his Memorial Day address at Arlington neatly cut the ground from under the feet of the camoufageurs and smoke-screeners of the World Court. He appealed from the machinations of an implacable Senate cabal to intelligent America. He put the bogus "plans" of Lodge and Pepper on the political scrapheap, where they belong. He elevated the World Court idea over their heads to the true position it holds in intelligent public opinion throughout the country.

Nothing could be plainer or more consistent than the attitude he has maintained on American adhesion to the great tribunal established for the advancement of peace among nations. From the time of his congressional message to the present day he has not receded a single step from his position. Senate obstructionism has not moved him. The playing of petty politics meets only with his contempt.

"More than a year ago President Harding proposed that the Senate should authorize our adherence to the protocol of the Permanent Court of International Justice, with certain conditions. His suggestion has already had my approval. On that I stand."

That is all there is to it so far as President Coolidge is concerned. He has no maudlin illusions about what the World Court can do. He does "not look upon it as a certain guarantee against war," but he realizes that "it would be a method of disposing of troublesome questions, an accumulation of which leads to irritating conditions and results in mutually hostile sentiments." Some of the firmest friends of the tribunal have made for it claims that sensible persons know to be unfounded. President Coolidge simply states the incontrovertible fact that it will be a useful organ in the regulation of international relations, a general clearing house from which we cannot afford to remain aloof.

On the other hand, he does not minimize in any way the fact that American adhesion to the court will incur certain obligations, even sacrifices. But, just as the thirteen original States assumed obligations and made sacrifices to establish a more perfect union and just as the Civil War was fought that union might endure, he believes that any surrender we may make toward unifying the nations of the world for peace will be repaid by the benefits accruing.

He does not seek to escape the burdens involved. He would have the United States shoulder them "without evasion and without fear, in an upright, downright, square, American way." That is his recommendation. That represents his personal feeling on the matter.

But if his recommendation is not accepted, if it develops that American support for the World Court is an impossibility, if the duly constituted machinery of the Government is incapable of reflecting what he believes to be the prevailing public sentiment, if for any reason whatsoever we must still remain aloof, then

"Let us say that. We can accomplish nothing by taking a doubtful or ambiguous position."

Detecting the Bogus

French chemists have perfected new methods of identifying pictures, according to the American Chemical Society. They use groups of red, blue, green or white light to light the picture, and they examine the suspected canvas with the spectrometer. This puts in relief the retouchings, scrapings and changed signatures which constitute a false picture. By employing the ultra-violet ray they make the zinc white and certain varnishes stand out by fluorescence. By scraping off small amounts of paint they have made spectrographic analyses and have been able to determine, for example, in a false Renoir, the presence of a cadmium yellow, when Renoir only used chrome yellow.

Trustees of Church

Insure Pastor's Life
A new idea in church building finance made its appearance in Rochester, N. Y., recently when the trustees of the Baptist temple, who are putting up a combined church and office building in that city, insured the life and health of their pastor, the Rev. Clinton Wunder, for $100,000 for the benefit of the church, the premium to be paid out of the building fund.

Success of the undertaking depends so much upon the Rev. Wunder's energy, initiative and devotion, the trustees explained, that his death or disability would be an irreparable blow to it, and the insurance is taken out to protect the plan, so far as money can do it.

The policy calls for fifteen payments. In the event of the pastor's total disability the church will receive $3,000 a year; in case of the death it will receive the full amount of $100,000.

At the expiration of twelve years, if the church desires to surrender the policy, it will have $50,000 in cash to apply on the payment of its second mortgage bonds, which become due at that time. The premium will amount to approximately $4,000 a year.

Birds May Share Fate of Antelope and Bison

America's effort to preserve her game bird supply has proved a complete failure, according to T. Gilbert Pearson, president of National Association of Audubon Societies. He says that many species of birds are declining so rapidly that they are sure to pass as have the antelope and bison.

"Some time ago," said Mr. Pearson, "Prof. Henry Fairfield Osborne, head of the American Museum of Natural History, issued a widely quoted statement that the animal kingdom is tottering. He said that nothing in the history of creation has paralleled the ravages of the fur and hide trade, which threatens the entire vertebrate kingdom, and he added that final cause of the close of the age of mammals can only be arrested through the creation of sound sentiment and education of the women and children."

"In the same manner the bird kingdom is tottering and will fall unless the National Association of Audubon Societies keeps up its work of arresting the destruction of birds."

Shaking Mop Out Window

In a loud voice she was telling a friend in the subway of a slumming trip she had recently made. "And do you know, my dear," she said, "the people are too lazy to dispose of rubbish in the proper way. They fling it from the windows into the street. It's all your life's worth to walk down there after dark. It's a wonder some one wouldn't teach them better."

"There's a law against it, of course," the friend agreed. "But even people who know also break it. Up where I live it is a common sight to see housewives shaking mops out of the windows over the sidewalks, and that's only one step away, don't you think?"

But the loud-speaking one suddenly became silent. The shot had gone home.—New York Sun and Globe.

Smoothing Concrete

Concrete in the rough was for a long time treated with carborundum or some other abrasive stone to remove from it unsightly surface board marks. Concrete houses where a cement wash or paint is later used are usually treated in this way.

An electric surfacing machine which works dry, that is, without the application of water, performs the task much more quickly and produces a more perfect surface. The cutter discs operate at a speed of 2,000 revolutions, under pressure. One set of cutters will do about 3,000 square feet of surfacing.

The discs revolve only when pressed upon the surface of the concrete, and operate absolutely square to it.

POULTRY

FEEDING BABY CHICKS IS IMPORTANT WORK

Feeding the baby chick is important because of the fact that a good start means good growth, early maturity, and healthy stock, says D. H. Hall, extension poultry specialist at Clemson college, who suggests below when, how, and what to feed the young chicks.

A good many people make a mistake by feeding the baby chicks too early after they are hatched. The chicks can go without food for at least 48 hours after they are hatched. During this period they are allowed time to absorb the yolk material left in their bodies and to put their bodies into condition for receiving other food.

The first food that should be given a baby chick is buttermilk, as it is a good protein and also contains much lactic acid. The lactic acid forms an unfavorable medium for the development of white diarrhea. White diarrhea is one of the most dreaded diseases of baby chicks, and to guard against this disease buttermilk should be kept before the baby chicks at all times.

After the baby chicks have had a drink of buttermilk, the next feed should be given as a soft feed. Hard-boiled infertile eggs mixed with an equal part of cornmeal is a mighty good starter. The eggs furnish protein and the cornmeal furnishes heat and energy. When the eggs cannot be obtained, it is a good idea to start the baby chicks off on one-half pound of meat meal mixed with five pounds of cornmeal, which can be fed damp with buttermilk.

After being fed either of the above mixtures for one week the chicks should be gradually weaned off to the regular mash and scratch feeds. A good scratch feed consists of the following:

1 part pinhead oats
2 parts cracked wheat
4 parts cracked corn

The above should be fed as a scratch feed and the baby chicks allowed to scratch in the litter for it. The dry mash should contain the following parts:

40 pounds cornmeal
20 pounds wheat middlings
10 pounds wheat bran
10 pounds finely ground oats
15 pounds meat scraps
5 pounds peanut meal or soy bean meal

The above scratch and mash feeds can be fed to the baby chicks until they are three months old. After the chicks are three months old they can be placed on the regular scratch feed and mash.

Leg Weakness in Chicks

From Lack of Vitamins

Feeding is a factor in prevention of poultry disease. A ration should be fed that contains not only the proper amount of fat, carbohydrates, and proteins, but also the essential vitamins. Vitamins are best supplied by green feed. Green feed should be given to the birds daily. A disease known as nutritional disease results from lack of the proper vitamins, but more important than this is the danger of lowering the resistance of the fowls and thus making them susceptible to more serious diseases, says W. R. Hinshaw, instructor in bacteriology, Kansas State Agricultural college.

Young chicks are especially susceptible to the deficiency disease caused by lack of vitamin D. Weak legs result from the lack of this vitamin, and this can be corrected by giving small quantities of cod liver oil. Direct sunlight has the same effect as cod liver oil in correcting this condition, so that sunlight may be considered a factor in health feeding. When direct sunlight is available nutritional rickets or weak legs can be prevented if the chicks are allowed to get plenty of it, according to Mr. Hinshaw.

Poultry Notes

Successful poultry raisers hatch early for winter-laying pullets.

If the turkey hen wants to wean the brood early, there's little use to interfere by cooping them together. In such a case the hen is likely to kill or maim part or all of the brood.

In getting the machine ready for the eggs, be sure that the incubator is running evenly and maintaining a uniform temperature. The machine should be run for several days before the eggs are placed in it.

Do not brood too many chicks in one flock, because it does not pay to raise too many chicks under one stove. If a great number is to be brooded it will be cheaper in the end to buy another stove.

Give a flying start to little chicks by feeding them chick grit and sour milk or buttermilk when they are first hatched.

Incubators should be of good construction and run where drafts, sudden temperature changes and direct sunlight cannot reach them.

Baby chicks hatched out during April must receive the best kind of food to keep them growing, for it will take a little pushing to mature them before winter.

The New Telephone Rates

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City has presented to the Public Service Commission a new schedule of rates for telephone service throughout the State of Maryland effective November 1, 1924. Only moderate increases in charges are involved.

Telephone rates are subject to regulation by the Public Service Commission, and by November 1st the Commission will have ample time in which to inquire into the situation in the interests of the public. The Company will cooperate in every way that will assist the Commission in considering whether the increases in charges are reasonable and fair.

The Proposed Changes

The following is a summary of the principal rates proposed:

TANEYTOWN

CLASS OF SERVICE	New Rates Per Month
BUSINESS:
Individual Line	$3.75
Four Party	3.00
Rural Station	2.75
Service Station	.91 ² / ₃
Extension Station, Flat	1.00
RESIDENCE:
Individual Line	$2.75
Two Party	2.00
Four Party	1.75
Rural Station	.53 ¹ / ₃
Service Station	.75
Extension Station, Flat	.75

There are also certain changes in rates for Private Branch Exchange service, Toll service, etc. Information concerning these changes will be furnished upon request.

We realize that the success of our undertaking depends on public understanding and good will, and we assure our patrons that in proposing these new rates, we are asking for no more than a fair return on the property used in furnishing the telephone service of the State.

These rates are clearly necessary to enable the company to continue to provide the public in the State of Maryland with an efficient telephone service and to attract the additional capital required to provide for extensions and betterments to meet the growing demands of the public in an adequate manner.

Woman Witness Gets Lawyer All Tangled Up

The lawyer for the defense was conducting a cross-examination. The witness was a woman, and in reply to the first two or three questions she always qualified with "They say," or "I've heard," until the lawyer cautioned her.

"Now, madam, hearsay testimony is not acceptable in this court. If you cannot answer a question from your own personal knowledge, then you cannot answer it at all. We do not want to find out what you have heard about the case, but what you actually know at first hand."

Then the lawyer continued with the preliminary questions.

"You live here in Curryvale, I believe?"

"Yes, sir."

"How long have you lived here?"

"About five years."

"Where did you live before that?"

Old Documents Indicate Chinese Found America

In 1761 the distinguished sinologist, De Guignes, published a paper which he had found in the works of early Chinese historians, in which appeared the statement that in the Fifth century certain travelers of their race had discovered a country which they called "Fu-sang," which from the distance and direction described by them appears to have been northwest America. The original document, according to the author of "Fu-sang, or the Discovery of America by Chinese Priests in the Fifth Century," was the report of the priest-missionary, Hsüi-Shin, in the year 499 A. D., who returned from a long journey to the East. The report was entered in the year book of the Chinese empire, and while the evidence offered is limited, it has every appearance of being a serious state document.

Archie Bell, in his "Sunset Canada: British Columbia and Beyond," says there is a history of Vancouver Island that is clouded in the vapor and incense of China. The stranger or the "native" of Vancouver Island quickly and constantly observes the resemblance of the Indians to the Chinese and Japanese. Merely circumstantial evidence would point to very early visits of Chinese voyagers to this coast—whether intent on voyages of discovery, or in ships driven across the Pacific by storms is a matter of speculation. Chinese junks and vessels were blown across the Pacific as late as the last century, and the sailors captured and enslaved by the Indians—Detroit News.

A Deep Plot

The minister of a certain church called upon a woman, a member of his congregation, and, finding no one at home, slipped a card through the letter box, after scribbling upon it the words, "Sorry to find you out."

When the woman returned home, Mary, the maid, met her at the door and presented the card with a whispered: "Here, mum; I took charge of this. It would never do for the master to know the minister's found you out."

MELROSE.

We should not complain about the abundance of rain, as parts of Minnesota, near the Great Lakes, claim five snows for the month of May.

Highway Cops are making their rounds on our State roads. And they are needed. Already one chauffeur paid a fine for speeding.

Those who were the guests of Mrs. Benniah Banker and sister, on Sunday, were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lemmon and five children, of near Taneytown; Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Banker and children, Edna, Renus, Raymond and Jessie B., of Ebbvale, and Miss Minnie Shaffer.

On Saturday afternoon a queerly-built automobile hustled up to the Melrose garage for oil and gas. Soon a curious crowd gathered. Your correspondent among the number. The machine built funnel-shaped with the aid of wood and galvanized sheet iron built on a Ford chassis, certainly did not cost a fortune, the owner vying with Henry Ford in building a cheap car, and speed! The owner, a Pennsylvania man, built it himself, not 1,500 separate pieces, as is reported constitutes a complete Ford, but it was geared high the owner declaring he can go sixty miles an hour with ease.

On Sunday, June 1, was a great day at the U. B. Church in Bachman's Valley, when the Otterbein Brotherhood of the 3rd. U. B. Church, of Baltimore, sent a crowd of 150 of their "Christian Boosters Club," including an orchestra of about 24 members on a visit. These "Boosters" gathered at 6:30 in the morning at their church to have prayer and praise services for an hour before starting on their auto pilgrimage to Bixler's Church. It is said the procession of cars, including others in line, was nearly a mile in length. Their first stop was at Green Mount, where a new church is in the course of erection, the cornerstone having been laid a week ago.

After a season of music and instrumental, and prayer, they went on to Bixler's U. B. Church, where a large, enthusiastic crowd welcomed the visitors. The church was crowded, standing room being at a premium, when the 150 "Christian Boosters" had their program of singing, orchestra music, and a general revival to reclaim those outside the fold of Christ. After the services, so impressive that time will never erase from the lives of those present, a sumptuous repast was prepared and set out by the Ladies' Aid Society before the visitors on the spacious lawn of the church, and, after asking a blessing on the food and on the generous-hearted people of "the Valley of Maryland," all did ample justice to the good things for the innerman. Besides a thank-offering in words, a generous contribution was given to the Ladies' Aid Society for their untiring efforts in making these services the success they deserved to be. Much credit is due, Rev. W. W. Wachtel, minister of Bixler's congregation for his pains-taking efforts to bring about the success of the meeting.

It is very encouraging to both church members and Sunday School workers that there were three Union Sunday Schools organized in public school-houses within a radius of five miles, Wentz's, Krideler's and Deep Run, recently, and all have a good attendance every Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Becker, visited at the home of Chester Geiman and family, on Sunday last.

Miss Grace Myers, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Myers, of W. King St., and George Noel, of Charles St., were married last Saturday morning, at St. Paul's Lutheran parsonage, by Rev. H. C. Bergstresser. The bride was a teacher in the public school and the bridegroom is employed in the silk mill. They were married at 4:00 A. M., and left on the 5:15 train for Washington.

Another and very pretty wedding took place in St. Paul's Lutheran Church, on Tuesday evening, at 6:00 o'clock, when Miss Ruth N. Carbaugh, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Carbaugh, of Hanover, became the bride of Dr. Luther S. Staub, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Staub, Lombard St., this place. The ceremony was performed by the groom's pastor, Rev. H. C. Bergstresser. The bride party entered the church to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march, played by Mrs. Stanley Staub, Stanley Staub sang "O Promise Me." HARNEY.

Decoration services were held in this place, on last Saturday evening. Quite a large crowd of people were present, and being unable to secure a band for the evening the parade was not as large as in previous years; but the young people and children are to be congratulated on the interest they showed in taking part in the parade and placing flowers on the graves of our fallen heroes. While we admit that the march was not quite up to our standard, this slight defect was more than made up at the services in the church. Good music by the choir and a special solo by Prof. Elmer Shilt, were some of the features. But most notable of all was the address delivered by Rev. Dewey Ritter of the U. B. Church. We have heard many remarks that it was equal to if not better, than any that has ever been delivered in this place; and taking all things into consideration, we can say that our services were very good, and well attended.

The ladies' festival held in the hall, on the same evening, was also liberally patronized.

There seems to be an unusual amount of sore throat, making the rounds in this community, at present. Murray O. Fuss has been on the sick list, during the week, but is better at this writing.

MRS. SUDIE A. K. FLOHR.
Mrs. Sudie A. K. Flohr, widow of Martin C. Flohr, died at her home in Washington, D. C., May 27, aged 54 years, 7 months and 12 days.

Funeral was held at Rocky Ridge Church of the Brethren, on May 30. Services by Dr. J. A. Garber, Washington.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. C. L. Nay, and one son, M. Carroll Flohr, of Washington; and the following brother and sisters, Jesse W. Kolb, of Frederick; Mrs. E. H. Koons, Hagerstown, and Mrs. E. D. Diller, Detour, Maryland.

MR. BENJ. F. WELTY.
Mr. Benjamin F. Welty, one of the most widely known citizens of Waynesboro, Pa., died last Saturday, in his 76th year. He is survived by his second wife, who was Mrs. Mary Sherfy Myers, of Keymar. Seven children, two sisters and two step-children.

In 1905 Mr. Welty married Mrs. Mary Sherfy Myers who now survives, with two step-children, Mrs. H. C. Reese, of Linwood, Md., and J. Howard Myers, of Niagara Falls, N. Y. Two surviving sisters are Mrs. Clara Senseney, of Union Bridge, Md., and Mrs. Ida Delaplaine, near Lindon Mills, Waynesboro. Eleven grandchildren and six step-grandchildren survive.

MR. SAMUEL J. RENNER.
Mr. Samuel J. Renner died suddenly last Saturday afternoon from a stroke of apoplexy. He had been shaved in R. W. Clingan's shop, then got into his car to go home, and while trying to start the car became ill. His condition was noticed and he was carried into Hotel Carroll, and died in a few minutes.

He had been ill during the winter, with a stroke, followed by erysipelas—the first serious illness of his life—but had been up and going around for the past two weeks, even making a trip to Baltimore in his car. His age was 67 years, 5 months, 9 days.

Mr. Renner had lived in Taneytown district nearly all of his life, during most of the time since manhood being engaged in buying up market produce—huckstering, so-called. For a short while he lived in Littlestown, where he was in the hardware business. His wife, who died years ago, was a daughter of Joshua Koutz.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Daniel Null, of Taneytown, and Mrs. George H. Hammond, of Baltimore. Funeral services were held from the home of his sister, Mrs. Null, Tuesday afternoon, in charge of Rev. W. V. Garrett, followed by services in the Lutheran Church, and interment in the Lutheran cemetery.

He was a member of three lodges; Moose, Odd Fellows and Knights of Pythias, the Odd Fellow service being rendered at the grave. The bearers were six of his nephews.

Western Maryland College.

The attention of our readers is directed to the advertisement of Western Maryland College appearing in this issue. This college has made a record for thoroughness and excellence not surpassed by any in the state. During the past year, it has received the highest rating for colleges by the standardizing agencies, and it is now in every respect a Standard A-1 college. Its beautiful location in the highlands of Maryland, its fine equipment in buildings and grounds, its high-grade faculty, its modern courses of study, make it an attractive place to get an education.

A new dormitory, costing $150,000 and a new athletic field, built at a cost of $50,000 and considered one of the best fields in the eastern part of the United States, are features. The college plant has now a value of $1,500,000 and it is proposed to augment this by at least that much more.

The college offers eight courses leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts. Courses may be elected which prepare for the schools of law, medicine, and engineering, and which admit to the best professional schools of the United States. A four year course in Home Economics leading to a degree is offered. In addition to the regular courses offered, there are supplementary courses, in Music, Speech and Education. Completion of the last named course secures a certificate of the State Board of Education. A regular unit of the Reserve Officer's Training Corps is established at the college, the Government supplying the Professor of Military Science and Tactics and uniform and equipment.

We commend this institution to our readers who may be considering sending their sons and daughters away to college. The college opens Monday, September 15th., for its fifty-eighth year. Students are advised to register in advance.

Petain Grows Roses
Marshal Petain, one of the outstanding figures of the World war, has been awarded a medal by the French Agricultural society for developing a new species of blue roses. This rose, it was said, may be kept flowering for weeks. The marshal bought an abandoned farm on the Riviera, southeastern France, just after the war and his success with roses has been phenomenal. Perfume makers are organizing to market the Petain brands.

Anthracite Substitute
Construction of an oven that turns lignite into a substance with heating properties similar to anthracite has resulted from experiments conducted by the bureau of mines co-operating with the University of North Dakota and the Canadian government. Four years ago congress appropriated $100,000 to carry on our experiments. Lignite charcoal should be available in periods of hard coal famine that may occur in the future.

Built Own Guillotine
Isador Hespel, nicknamed "the Jackal," was for many years the executioner in the French penal settlement at Cayenne, French Guiana. Recently he killed a convict in a quarrel and was himself sentenced to be beheaded. Not having much confidence in his successor he petitioned to be allowed to build his own guillotine, which favor the government granted.

Keyhole in Demand
Peter was no different from other boys. Sometimes when his sister's friend would call he would entertain him in the drawing-room until Dolly came downstairs.

One night the young man asked the youngster if he ever peeped through the keyhole while he and the boy's sister were in the drawing-room.

With a sudden burst of candor, Peter answered: "Sure, when mother isn't there first!"—Boston Post.

Improved Golf Shaft
After several years of experimentation a new golf shaft, made entirely of hickory and comprising nine sections, has been invented. It is claimed to be "duffer proof"—in other words, as nearly unbreakable as a golf shaft of a light material can be made.

LIKES IT STRONG

A judge on a certain circuit was accustomed to doze during the speeches of counsel. On one occasion counsel was addressing him on the subject of certain town commissioners' rights to obtain water from a river, water being scarce at the time. During his speech he made use of the words, "But my lord, we must have water—we must have water." Whereupon the judge woke up, exclaiming: "Well, just a little; I like it fairly strong."

Women Enlist in National War Against Germ-carrying Flies; Provide Millions of "Swatters"

Every fly swatted at this season of the year probably would have been the founder of a dynasty if allowed to live out its allotted time. The genius of Flydom, the Napoleon who will lead his armies, laden with the deadly germs to destroy the purity of milk and pollute clean and wholesome food, is crawling about the upper wall of your kitchen today, a harmless, easily destroyed youth. Swat him! With one stroke you will wipe out pages and pages of history and the millions of his offspring will be nothing but the might-have-beens of fiction. Swat him! Talent takes strange twists and the puny little fellow they gave up for dead as a baby may develop into a Gladstone. Caesar was anemic in his youth—probably, and Scipio, as a child, had to hold on tight to the railings when the wind blew. Swat the fly irrespective of sentimentality. If you swat at him and by some seemingly providential intervention of a swinging door you miss him, you may imagine that Fate has decreed he should be spared. Like a whimsical Caribbean you may choose to let this particular fellow survive because you've taken a fancy to him. High purpose should know no sentimentality. Don't cultivate intimacies among even the most engaging flies. Swat one, swat all. A million and a half fly swatters are being distributed just now throughout the country by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company as a part of the health campaign of their welfare division. Definite realization of the disease danger from flies is evidenced in this annual distribution. A thorough-going fly-swattling campaign at this season of the year is fostered by private and public health agencies. It has many times the value now that it would have later. Swat the flies! Swat them now.

The Benefit of Lightning Rods.

EXTRACT FROM ADDRESS MADE BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE MUTUAL INSURANCE COMPANIES' UNION OF INDIANA, AT MEETING HELD AT INDIANAPOLIS, IND, FEB. 7-8, 1924.

"The National Board of Fire Underwriters have taken up this problem (preventing loss) in a particular way, and especially to determine the benefit, if any, of the use of lightning rods. Their report is astounding. They make the statement that '99% of the fires caused by lightning can be prevented by the use of properly installed lightning rods.' The fire losses caused by lightning total annually $30,000,000, which is appalling." Here follows reports from 33 Insurance Companies showing heavy losses to unrodded buildings, by comparison with rodded losses.

(Extracts from Article "Lightning the Incendiary," Published in "Safeguarding America Against Fire," July, 1921.)

The experience of eighteen Ontario companies shows an average efficiency of lightning rods over a four-year period of 97.2%, and in investigations made by Prof. W. H. Day it was found that a Michigan company had losses 1,168 times as great on unrodded as on rodded buildings.

The records compiled by the National Board of Fire Underwriters through its Actuarial Bureau show a total LIGHTNING damage in the United States of $39,828,489 for the five years, 1915 to 1919 inclusive, practically all of it being upon unrodded buildings. Among all occupancies LIGHTNING stood sixth on the list of major fire causes; on farms alone it was responsible for more destruction than any other hazard.

The annual RECORDED loss from lightning averages nearly $10,000,000 and each year it kills more people than the railroads of the country, according to a report recently issued by the Industrial Commission of Wisconsin. This report further states that during 1920 there were 232 lightning fires in unprotected buildings in Wisconsin, with a property loss of $958,825 and fourteen such fires in poorly rodded buildings wherein the loss was $64,185. Upon investigating the rodded buildings that had been struck by lightning, it was found that there were vital defects in the materials used or in the installation, or in both. The more common defects discovered were:

- 1.—Lack of grounding to permanent moisture.
- 2.—Insufficient number of points.
- 3.—Lack of points at chimneys, cupolas, ventilators, spires, gables, dormers and other elevations.
- 4.—Underweight materials.
- 5.—Points and connections not mechanically or electrically secure.
- 6.—Failure to connect down spouts, door tracks and other metal parts to the rodding system.
- 7.—Running metal clothes lines from trees to building.
- 8.—Constructing silos and other additions without extending the rodding system.
- 9.—The rusting, corroding and breaking of conductors.

SPECIAL PRICE ON LIGHTNING RODS.

40 wires gauge No. 17 complete on building for 25c per foot. No extra charge for tubes and points. Horse vane and white or blue balls free. This is one of the heaviest cable rods ever put up in this part of the country and the lowest price.

TERMS—3 percent off for cash, or 6 months without interest; after that time, interest will be charged.

There have already been 6 unrodded barns struck by lightning and burned this Spring in my territory. Our lightning experts say the reason we have so many buildings hit, is that we have no timber or trees standing around in the fields to be hit. Now, owners of property, I do this for your benefit, not mine. Please cut this out for future reference, as it will be in the paper only once, as printer's ink is too high to use much of it.

By JANE OSBORN

(©, 1924, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

A thin partition separated the desk of Matilda Fain from that of Tom Matthews, and for nearly seven hours a day on five days and a few hours more on Saturday they worked with only four or five feet of intervening space between them. Yet Matilda never had heard that a man named Matthews was working for the J. & T. Co., from which she received her weekly wage, nor had Tom Matthews ever chanced upon the unimportant information that the concern for which he worked employed a cataloguer named Matilda Fain.

Matilda came just before nine and left just after five. Tom Matthews, being a head of one of the innumerable "departments" at J. & T.'s, came never earlier than a quarter after nine—after the mere wage-earners assembled—and departed some half hour or hour after they had left. So they never chanced to meet in the main corridor or elevator.

Then something very unexpected happened. It was toward the middle of May, and a rumor started about that there was going to be a midyear bonus. Business had been picking up tremendously, and some of the men higher up had decided that it was only fair to let the workers get some benefit of this turn of events right then and there, and not to have to wait until the usual Christmas bonus.

"Of course it isn't going to happen," said Jane Grace to Matilda. "But if it did happen, what would you do with the money? They say it will be 15 per cent of our wages since Christmas anyway—maybe more. I tell you I'd buy some clothes for summer. What would you do?"

"I suppose I ought to save it—" suggested Matilda.

"You're not engaged, are you?" asked Jane. "Time enough to begin to save when you get engaged. If you save before hand and never spend a sou on your clothes the chances are you never will get engaged. Take my advice, Matilda, and get some new clothes."

"I might," suggested Matilda, "but there are so many things that would give me more happiness."

"I don't believe it," said Jane Grace. "Tell me what you have in mind."

"Well, I could go back to Bradford, for one thing," said Matilda. "Not to stay, but just to see the old town and the people I used to know. You know that is quite a trip, and I have never been able to go before since I came eight years ago. It isn't as if anyone very dear was still there, but I still rather like the old place."

"Well, you must like it a lot if you'd rather go there for a week or so than to have some good-looking clothes."

It got to be the fad during those days when the rumor still persisted that there was really going to be a June bonus for employees of J. & T.'s to plan how to spend this unexpected increase. And almost always such planning was prefaced with a "Of course we aren't going to get it." But the fact was that they did.

So while Jane Grace was busy spending all, or nearly all, of her twenty-five per cent bonus on new clothes, Matilda put hers in the bank, ready to use to defray the expense of a trip back to Bradford when she took her vacation in July. Only a little of it went to buy a few additional bits of apparel. Going back to Bradford was worth more than all the pretty clothes in the world.

Matilda had especially arranged to take her two weeks off the middle of July, because that was the time of the Bradford reunion. Every year for one week Bradford bade her old citizens return. It was a sort of "Boost Bradford" week. Sometimes the governor would come for a day, there would be a big outdoor supper, some fireworks, the governor's speech, if he had come, and a half dozen other speeches from important citizens of Bradford—or some of Bradford's sons who had made good since their departure.

It was a queer little town, was Bradford, but somehow it seemed to be tremendously pleased with itself, and those who had lived there always did seem to carry with them a hankering to return.

It was the second day of the Bradford reunion. Matilda was staying with a second or third cousin whom she had never known very well, but who now appeared more than eager to have Matilda spend the time with her. Matilda, had, of course, made it perfectly clear that she intended to pay board. And the cousin had accepted the arrangement, protesting that she would a hundred times rather take her for nothing.

Matilda had gone "up street" one morning. There she had encountered an old friend of hers—she had gone to school with Ruth, and Ruth had stayed there in Bradford and had married one of the boys and now lived a sheltered, prosperous existence. Two babies, a car of her own, a garden—not to mention a house and a husband—gave her a possible advantage over Matilda, who had left Bradford because she wanted to "make good" and was still working as a catalogue clerk.

Ruth picked Matilda up in her car and carried her about to do her errands. It was time for the morning express to come in, and Ruth persuaded Matilda to stay with her while she "sort of waited around near the station to see who was coming." Seven or eight men and women alighted, carrying important-looking baggage—obviously all coming some distance to the Bradford reunion.

One of them was Tom Matthews. "Hello, there, Tom," Ruth hailed him, almost running him down in her effort to attract his attention.

Then she offered to carry him to the hotel, and asked him to sit in the back with Matilda. She had one of the children in the front who had refused to be budged.

Introductions were necessary because, as Ruth explained, Matilda left just before Tom Matthews arrived. Tom had stayed but two years, but had been in that time perfectly absorbed by Bradford, so that now he came back to reunions when he could with as much enthusiasm as though he had been bred in the bone of Bradford.

"I hear you're making a great name for yourself in the city," Ruth encouraged, and Tom looked pleased and did not deny the charge. Then remembering Matilda, she said: "Matilda here is doing big things, too. What is it you do, Tilda, dear?" she queried. "It's funny you and Tom have never run across each other in the city. You'd think there'd be a Bradford club or something."

"The city is a pretty big place," commented Tom wisely. "It is as long as all the way across this county and half way through the next. Matilda, here—that is, Miss Fain—and I probably have never passed within a mile of each other." Then Ruth noticed that Tom was looking with something like admiration at the girl at his side.

"I am sure I hope we'll see each other in the city after we have become acquainted here in Bradford," he was saying, and Ruth decided to give her undivided attention to driving the car.

A few blocks more and she had deposited Tom Matthews at the hotel.

The next morning, after the big outdoor supper with the dance following, Ruth chanced to meet Matilda, and Matilda in the course of a ten minutes' conversation mentioned Mr. Matthews no less than fifteen times. Apparently she had given him most of her dances the night before. She had thought his speech on "Success" was an inspiration. So Ruth decided it was time to step in and do the dainty match-making trick. After the baseball game that afternoon there were no plans for the evening. She asked Matilda to come to dinner. "I'll get Tom Matthews to come, too," she said. "You can borrow the car later and take a spin around the county. It's kind of hard for me and Jim to leave home for long after dinner—on account of the children." Which was a rank lie, as they had two trusty servants with whom they were perfectly willing to leave their offspring.

At all events Matilda and Tom did borrow the car, and it was well toward midnight when Jim heard Tom come back with it to the garage.

The next morning Matilda came to see Ruth shortly after breakfast. She had something so perfectly thrilling to tell Ruth. Tom Matthews had asked her to marry him. He wanted his answer right away. He'd always planned to marry a Bradford girl. And Matilda was pretty sure that she'd say yes, even though it had all been so sudden.

"I was just wondering what sort of business he's in," said Matilda. "He's barely mentioned it to me—not that I care."

"He's one of the heads of the J. & T. Co.—vice president or something. I guess he's done very well." "The J. & T. Co.," echoed Matilda. "Well, I never." But she made no further explanation.

So Matilda came back from her trip to Bradford engaged. Yes, she was engaged without spending her bonus for clothes. Well, it sometimes happened that way, reflected Jane Grace, in the office. Still, it seemed like an awful waste of money to go eight or nine hundred miles away to get a proposal from a man who'd been almost rubbing elbows for a year.

French Word "Bloc" Was Coined at Dreyfus Trial

Bloc is a French word, and was coined in France by M. Waldeck-Rousseau in 1899. The word means a coalition of minority. How the World Votes," by Seymour and Frary, thus explains the formation of the French bloc:

"The place of a center party was for a long time held by a remarkable coalition of parties called the bloc. The group was welded together (in 1899) by the heat of the Dreyfus trial in order to protect the republic, and was the first sign in France of a party in the Anglo-American sense, with a definite program and a strong organization. Its ministries ruled France for upwards of fifteen years."

The agricultural bloc was the first coalition in the United States to receive the name. It commenced activities of the spring of 1921. Some claim it originated in a senate smoking room conversation between two or three senators who were of the opinion that the needs of the farmers were not adequately cared for in the organization legislative program for the session.—Detroit News.

Great Riches

"How was your speech received at the club?" asked one of Chumley's friends.

"Why, they congratulated me heartily. In fact, one of the members came to me and told me that when I sat down he said to himself that it was the best thing I had ever done."

EZEKIEL ENCOURAGES THE EXILES

LESSON TEXT—Ezek. 34:1-30.
GOLDEN TEXT—"I will seek that which was lost, and bring again that which was driven away."—Ezek. 34:16.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Ezekiel Preaching to the Exiles.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Lord Seeking His Scattered People.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Ezekiel's Mission to the Exiles.

Ezekiel prophesied in the land of captivity. The latter part of Jeremiah's ministry was contemporaneous with that of Ezekiel. The purpose of his ministry was:

1. To Keep Before the Minds of the Captives That They Were in Captivity Because of the Sins of the Nation (Ezek. 14:23).

2. To Show That God Was Righteous in His Visitation of Judgment Upon Them (Ezek. 7:8, 9).

3. To Sustain Their Faith by Assuring Them of Their National Restoration, the Punishment of Their Enemies and the Final Exalted Place of Israel Among the Nations When Messiah Should Reign (Ezek. 34:20-31).

I. Indictment of the False Shepherds (vv. 1-19).

Israel's ruined condition resulted from the failure of the rulers to properly care for the people of Israel, God's sheep. Their sin was that:

1. They Exploited the People Instead of Shepherding Them (vv. 1-3). The shepherds were appointed to feed the flock but instead of that they fed themselves, even devouring the sheep and clothing themselves with the wool thereof.

2. They Failed to Minister to the Sick, the Diseased and Wounded (v. 4). It is not enough that the shepherds refrain from doing evil to the sheep. They are expected to strengthen the weak and bind up the wounds of those that have been injured.

3. They Did Not Search Out the Lost Sheep (vv. 5-9). Sheep left to themselves wander away. The sheep are not expected to look after themselves but to be cared for by the shepherd. In their scattered condition they became the prey of wild beasts. None sought after them though they had wandered through the mountains and over the hills.

4. The Lord Held the Priests and Rulers of Israel Responsible for This Condition (v. 10). The Lord always holds those responsible who have been set over his children.

II. Israel to Be Restored (vv. 11-22). Though the rulers have so wretchedly failed, the almighty God will come to the rescue of His people.

1. He Will Search and Seek Them Out (vv. 11, 12). Though Israel be scattered throughout the nations, the divine shepherd will deliver them from every place where they have been scattered.

2. Will Bring Them Into Their Own Land (v. 13). This was partly fulfilled in the return of the remnant under Ezra and Nehemiah, but the real fulfillment awaits the future.

3. Will Feed Them (vv. 13, 14). He will not only satisfy them with food. He will cause them to lie down in perfect contentment and security (vv. 14, 15).

4. Shall No More Be a Prey (v. 22). Though God's chosen people have been scattered through the mountains and over the hills of the nations and have been a prey to the rapacious greed of the many nations, God will one day deliver his sheep and will judge the false shepherds.

III. The Coming Good Shepherd (vv. 23-31).

The instrument through which this great deliverance is to be wrought is the Messiah Himself.

1. He Will Make a Covenant of Peace (v. 25). This condition of peace will be brought about by the presence of the Lord among them. The world and Israel will only know actual peace when the Prince of Peace shall come and rule over the whole earth.

2. Evil Beasts Removed (v. 25). The redemption which awaits Israel and the world will not only affect God's children and their rulers but will bring about peace even among the animals, so that His children can sleep in peace and quiet even in the woods.

3. Showers of Blessing Come Down (v. 28).

God's chosen people shall be a blessing to the world, according to His original purpose for them. When these blessings are poured out, it shall be known that they flow from Jesus Christ, the good Shepherd. The purpose of Israel's choice was that the world might be blessed through them (Gen. 12:1-3).

Christian Courtesy
1 Peter 3:8-13

This paragraph of five Scripture verses contains an appeal for unity, mutual compassion, brotherly love, pity, courtesy and Christian forbearance. To these qualities of heart and life Christian believers are called, and by their cultivation the fulness of spiritual blessing is inherited and enjoyed.

The word "finally" indicates that the apostle has a concluding message for his readers. The word "all" includes the various classes mentioned in 2:18; 3:1; and 3:7, namely: "servants," "wives," "husbands." Beginning with 2:11 and continuing to 3:7, there are words of exhortation and counsel addressed to each of these three classes. Then, commencing with our Scripture lesson in 3:8-13, the appeal is to all these classes regarded as a unit.

The word "courtesy" is in the Revised Version rendered by the word "humble-minded." This may be regarded as an interpretation, as well as a translation. Politeness is more than formality. Politeness may be very formal, a mere observance of the proprieties required for the occasion. Courtesy is politeness springing from kindness of heart and humbleness of mind. In the matter of speech, it involves restraint. If one would be courteous, "let him refrain his tongue from evil and his lips that they speak no guile." In other words, guard your speech, resist the tendency to vulgarity and the use of coarse slang expressions. Cultivate that which is pure and good. This will not be a limitation, but a part of the process of spiritual culture and development which every true Christian believer should earnestly desire. Gentleness and graciousness of speech are conspicuous Christ-like characteristics.

Courtesy is manifested likewise in action. In addition to the words, "Let him refrain his tongue from evil," we read in this same Scripture lesson, "Let him turn from evil and do good; let him seek peace and pursue it." The same kindness of heart and humbleness of mind which determines courtesy of speech also gives rise to courtesy in action.

How shall these qualities of kindness and humility be obtained? The answer is not far removed. Look in this same epistle at the words written in 1:18, 19, then in verse 3 of the same chapter. The content of these verses can be summed up in two words, namely, redemption and regeneration. Here, then, is the answer to the question of attainment, the redemption that is in Christ Jesus and the regeneration of the Holy Spirit.

Stock for Indian Arrow
Required to Be Perfect

Every plains teepee had hanging in it a bunch of slender sticks seasoning for arrows.

If particular in the materials for his bow the brave was even more so where arrow stock was concerned. Any available hardwood, if straight and free from knots, served. When seasoned, the shaft was meticulously scraped and smoothed and feathered with various pinions. The Arapahoes and Cheyenne usually used those of the wild turkey, softened in tepid water, split and glued with a glue made from a large muscle at the back of the neck of the buffalo, writes Frank H. Huston in "Adventure."

The glue was less susceptible to climatic variations than any other used by the tribes. The final touch was given by placing an individual mark upon the shaft to identify the person who made the kill, whether of human or brute game.

Heads were made from flint, obsidian, odd bits of iron and even old barrel hoops, until, toward the last of the bow and arrow days, traders carried in iron ones made in eastern and English manufacturing towns, shipped in barrels.

Spain's Gift to Britain

Spain has recently made England a present of a model of the Santa Maria, the ship in which Columbus sailed to America, and the gift recalls others given at various times by one country to another.

Everybody has heard of the famous Liberty statue in New York. This was presented to America by France in 1884.

Some years ago the French government presented a Sevres vase to the British museum. It is a magnificent specimen and very valuable.

Ancient weapons, such as guns, swords and so on, are fairly common gifts from one country to another. That which is known as "Queen Elizabeth's pocket pistol" was a gift to Great Britain from the Netherlands. It was cast as long ago as 1544.—London Tit-Bits.

Points on Tree Planting in City Given in Bulletin

A new Farmers' Bulletin, No. 1208, "Trees for Town and City Streets," by F. L. Mulford, horticulturist, issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, describes in detail the various oaks for street use in different regions, as well as about 100 other trees or varieties. Elms are given second place in desirability for city streets, and sycamores third. Maples are considered less desirable than the Lombardy poplar most varieties of poplar are not recommended.

Before ornamental tree-planting for town or city streets is undertaken, a number of important points must be given attention. Trees native to one part of the United States may not thrive in another region. Some trees are objectionable because their roots penetrate defective sewers, while others grow their roots so near the surface that they have a tendency to heave or crack sidewalks.

Only vigorous trees that will withstand the dust and smoke of a city should be planted to ornament the streets. The root system should be hardy, not easily affected by unusual soil conditions, by restricted feeding areas, or by root pruning in case street improvements are made. The shape of the top of the tree when full-grown should be suited to the width of the street. The foliage should not be too dense, and should be of a pleasing texture and color.

Where there is a lack of sunshine in winter it is desirable to admit all the light possible by using only deciduous trees. The bulletin gives a table showing the differences in fall coloring and the date of dropping of all foliage. Narrow streets, it is pointed out, should be planted with tall, slender trees like the Lombardy poplar or small trees. Broad streets may be planted with spreading trees.

In the heart of a city, where the greatest difficulty is experienced in getting trees to grow, the alantus will probably thrive when nearly all other kinds fail. The sycamore and the London plane are also good. The Carolina poplar will frequently grow in such places, and its use may sometimes be warranted. Consultation with the nearest state agricultural experiment station or with the United States Department of Agriculture would be advisable before deciding upon extensive tree-planting.

Tenants' Basement Garage

No American motorist who drives in the busy district of any big city has failed to realize the seriousness of the parking problem which the tremendous popularity of the motor car has created in recent years. Streets, laid out before motor vehicles were dreamed of, prove utterly inadequate for accommodating the cars which the public would like to park in the business district. That some solution must be found at an early day is manifest. Of peculiar interest, therefore, is the practical solution which has been worked out by the management of a new office building in Los Angeles housing thousands of persons, a large number of whom use motor cars. Not only has provision been made for tenants of the building, but for patrons of these tenants as well, thereby giving occupants of this big structure a decided advantage over those in other buildings.

In the construction of this skyscraper an underground garage was built at the rear of the lot and adjoining the office building. This fireproof storage space accommodates nearly 200 cars and is reached from the street by broad ramps. Stalls in the garage rent for $20 per month. Here a moderate temperature obtains at all times and a car and its contents are safe from exposure to the elements and also from thieves.—Popular Mechanics.

How to Figure Repair Costs

One of the most complete and concise paragraphs ever printed for the advice of the prospective home owner regarding maintenance costs and expenses of home ownership appears in the recently issued pamphlet titled "How to Own Your Own Home," prepared by the division of building and housing, Department of Commerce. It advises:

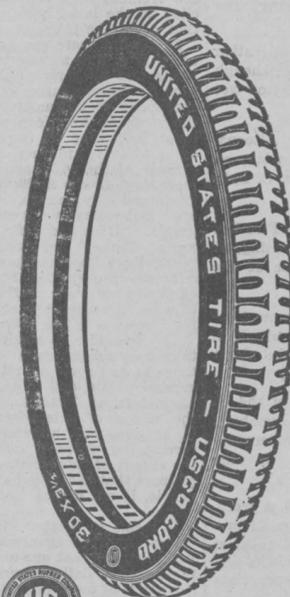

"In addition to payments on principal and interest on a home, allowance must be made for some or all of the following expenses: (a) Renewals and repairs, (b) property tax and special assessments, (c) insurance, (d) water tax or rent, (e) accessories and (f) improvements. In addition to the above, some owners add in the interest which they would otherwise receive on the amount of their cash payment or equity."

Jay Walking Ordered

In many large cities pedestrians are subject to arrest for crossing streets except at regular crossings. In Greece, however, at stated intervals jay walking has been requested by the authorities. This was whenever the town became crowded with refugees and their regular citizens were asked to jay walk to avoid rubbing against the crowds of refugees who were suspected of carrying typhus germs. The sidewalks swarmed with women and children begging charity.

TANEYTOWN LOCALS

Brief Items of Local News of Special Interest to Our Home Readers.

The schools of this county will close today, Friday, for the Summer.

Miss Elizabeth Annan, of Washington, is at her home here, on her summer vacation.

Mrs. Chas. H. Mayers, of Littlestown, is visiting at the home of her brother, Dr. Francis T. Elliot.

Airplanes have been plentiful, as flies, this week, possibly reconnoitering over the make-believe battlefield.

Miss Blanche Stouffer, of Hagerstown, Md., spent Friday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Stouffer.

A heavy drop in apples throughout this section, is reported, but a fair sized crop is likely, with favorable later conditions.

The Baccalaureate sermon to the High School graduates will be delivered in the Lutheran Church, on Sunday night, by Rev. W. V. Garrett.

The Reindollar Co., is installing new Fairbanks Scales, suitable for weighing heavy truck loads, or loads of any kind, from a bushel of coal up to 15 tons.

Prof. J. L. Hunsberger has commenced work on the foundation of the new house he will build this Summer, on one of his recently purchased lots in the East-end extension of Baltimore St.

Robert C. Thomson, of York, spent Decoration Day in Taneytown. "Bob" is in the cigar business in York, and doing well. He occasionally takes the time to come back to his old home and renew acquaintances of his boyhood days.

Attention is called to a first page article concerning the proposed advance in telephone rates. To the majority of subscribers, it appears that the advance will be 25c per month, which is not very much to anyone who has actual benefit from telephone service.

Burgess S. Miller has settled the debate over the number of days in May, in which rain fell, the exact number being 17 with 9 partly cloudy and only 5 clear all day. For years, he has kept a diary, which sometimes comes into play, as in the present instance.

The Taneytown High School Commencement will be held next Wednesday evening, June 11, at 8 o'clock, in the Reformed Church. The address to the graduates will be delivered by Rev. James H. Straughn, of Washington. A program of recitations and music will be rendered.

Miss Naomi Royer and Josephine Evans will not return as teachers to the High School, this Fall, as they have made other plans. It is also reported that Mrs. G. May Fouke will retire, after rendering many years of splendid service for the benefit of the young people of Taneytown.

(For the Record.) The obituary last week, of the 25 years' renowned eloquent preacher, Rev. James (secularly Edward, Spalding, O. S. B., Littlestown, native, rector of the new congregation of St. Benedict, Canton, Ohio, aright might have added that (two-fold) maternally he was a second cousin of Miss Mary T., Jos. Augustine and Pius L. Hemler, of Taneytown district.—W. A. G.

Among others who spent Decoration Day in Taneytown, were: Mr. and Mrs. Guy A. Ourand, Mr. and Mrs. George Mitten, and Miss Grace Witherow and Wm. W. Witherow, of Washington; Rev. and Mrs. Chas. W. Hess, of Brunswick; Mrs. John D. Forney, Misses Beulah Forney, Ethel Sauerhammer and Margaret Shreeve, and Mrs. Margaret Nulton, of Philadelphia; Mrs. W. F. Clingan, of York.

The Decoration Day exercises were attended by large numbers of people, but the parade feature is growing smaller each year. Those who should show their interest in keeping alive the significance of the day, seem to prefer doing so without much exertion on their part, as though "parading" is beneath their dignity. Sometimes it is worth while to do things that seem common, in order to emphasize greater things.

On account of a very large amount of job work, requiring several weeks time, and the use of the press on which we do book work, it was impossible for us to get out the advertising program for the Fire Company, a fact that we very much regretted. We make this statement for the information of those who may not know why the work is being done elsewhere. As much as we would like to, we can not always accommodate all patrons, on short notice.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Reid, of Hanover, spent last Sunday in town.

Miss Lulu Benner has returned to her home here, after visiting relatives in the vicinity of Liberty, Frederick county.

Mrs. Ida B. Koontz, arrived in town on Thursday evening, and expects to spend some time here during the summer.

Corn planting and field cultivation progressed rapidly, this week, though in many places the ground is too wet for good work.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Fox, Altoona, visited Taneytown, on Thursday, on their way to Washington, D. C. Both are looking well.

The regular meeting of the Fire Co., will be held next Monday evening, at 8 o'clock. A full attendance of the members is requested.

The vote last week for the most attractive yard was in favor of Mrs. Walter A. Bower; and for the nicest flowers, Mrs. Chas. G. Boyd.

Rev. T. D. Ritter, pastor of the U. B. Church, baptized six new members, by immersion, last Sunday afternoon, the ceremony taking place in the creek near Wm. Copenhaver's.

The P. O. S. of A. Camp has erected a flag staff at the Soldiers' Memorial, on which it is proposed to hoist the flag on all National holidays, and perhaps on other special appropriate occasions.

A reception was held on Wednesday evening of this week, in honor of the marriage of C. Edgar Hockensmith and wife, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Hockensmith, on York St. About 78 persons were present to enjoy the occasion.

(For the Record.) Those who spent Sunday with Emory Snyder and family were: Clifford Hahn, wife and daughter, Mary, of Harney; Calvin Hahn, wife and daughter, Elizabeth, of Keysville; Mrs. Alice Hahn, Mrs. Birnie Babylon, of Taneytown; Miss Mildred Brendle, of Littlestown; also Miss Velma and Mary Ella Cutsail, and Melvin Shanbrook, all of Kumps.

(For the Record.) The Misses Edna and Bernice Shriver, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. D. Edw. Shriver, Hanover, Pa., will leave Tuesday, June 10, for California, where they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Barton, Melrose Park Hollywood. Places of interest at which they will spend some time are: The Grand Canyons, Arizona, San Francisco, Yellow Stone Park, Salt Lake City, Colorado Springs and Denver, Colorado.

A closing notice was published by the merchants of Taneytown several weeks ago, that may be worth while repeating. The Dry Goods and Hardware stores close every Wednesday afternoon, during the months of June, July and August, for the entire half day; while the Grocery stores, and barber shop close on Wednesday's from noon until 6:00 o'clock. Stores close the entire day, January 1, July 4, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas, except that the Grocery stores open on the last named days long enough in the morning to sell oysters and ice cream for the day. In addition, the Dry Goods and Hardware stores close Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights, all the year round.

Insuring Old Autos.

One of the big Fire Insurance Companies thus informs its agents about the insurance disability of old cars; "The saturation point widely heralded for a number of years and still laughed at by manufacturers, is almost here, in our humble opinion—that is, as far as the United States is concerned. Already the second-hand market is overstocked, with no relief in sight. Without means to dispose of second-hand cars, the market for new cars fall, except to replace those cars which have been abandoned or junked or destroyed for one reason or another. This replacement figure is far under the present production; there can be only one result and we will have to be sure of your assistance to meet that result."

The "result" mentioned includes the fact that some companies have retired from the field of auto insurance; others are insuring practically only new cars, while others are trying hard to insure low enough to approach actual sale value, regardless of the value owners may place on cars

Fire Done Away With

The four new ocean-going dredges designed by the United States Engineering corps to clean American harbors of sand and silt are said to be the only human habitations since the dawn of civilization in which fire in some form is not used or needed. Everything is done by electricity.

Each vessel is 288 feet long and is propelled by electricity from generators driven by oil engines. All control is direct from the bridge, without reference to the engine-room.

Fifty-six electric motors operate the dredging machinery and do all the work of the ship—from weighing the anchor to driving the electric fans that ventilate the crew's quarters.

LAST PAGE EDITORIAL.

Horrible "Funny" Pictures.

Pages and pages of the presumably valuable space of many of our big dailies are taken up with presumably "funny" pictures. There must be enjoyment in these artistic jim-jams on the part of somebody—or else, the department managers of these papers are tremendously mistaken. We incline to the latter view, and suggest that a vote be taken on the subject.

Just what there can be "funny" in using frog and monkey faces, mule heads and all sorts of distorted figures as representative of even queer specimens of humanity, is placing the taste of American readers on a lower level than we can possibly imagine to exist anywhere.

Some of the wit that passes as explanatory of the freak drawings, is crude and silly enough, but the latter are indescribably and absolutely idiotic. "Mutt and Jeff" and "Bringing up Father" are classics in the "funny" art line that have made other bread-winner artists frantic in their efforts to get their stuff by; and that they do, is evidence that all of the fools are not in the artist class.

The postoffice to some extent aims to confine publishers to legitimate articles having some actual value to the general public, and to protect readers against fraud, lotteries, and at least the boldest of indecency; but, the P. O. D. does not, apparently, dare to involve the "freedom" of the press to the extent of establishing a ban on pictures that are libelous of classes of people, if not actual individuals by name.

It seems to us that the field of "moral uplift" organizations is not yet filled, and that one aiming to clear the pages of daily papers of the horrid strips of pictures that daily offend the eyes and sensibilities of clear-brained readers, ought to be popular, as well as have hundreds of thousands of supporters; and we commend the idea to such publications as the Literary Digest, and others of that class that seem to specialize on registering public sentiment on leading questions, to try their hand on these daily newspaper pictorial art features

Suitor—I hope my proposal for the hand of your daughter hasn't taken you by surprise, sir.
