PROCEEDINGS OF THE SCHOOL BOARD

The Taneytown Building Condemned as Being Unsafe.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education was called to order at 10:15 A. M., in the office of the Board, on Wednesday, June 4, 1924. All Commissioners were pres-

The minutes of the previous meeting were approved as read.

The bills presented to the Board were approved and ordered paid.

The Superintendent read a report of Mr. William Eline, contractor and builder, concerning the condition of the Taneytown school building. The Board decided to abandon the building after this school year, until it is made safe. Commissioner Koons and Superintendent Unger were appointed a committee to see the County Commissioners with respect to plans for a Taneytown school building for the coming year 1924-25.

Miss Blanche E. Roberts was appointed rural supervisor for the coming year 1924-25. The following trustees were appointed: Baile, Clarence Manahan and Clayton Baile; Pine Hill, Roy Smith; Taneytown, Norval Shoemaker; Washington, Joseph Study. The application of Mrs. G. Mae Fouke to be placed on the retirement list, was approved by the Board.

The list of teachers appointments was submitted and approved. Superintendent Unger was authorized to employ another helper for the repair work, whenever it is deemed necessary.

It was decided to put $1200.00 in the budget for a fence to enclose the Graceland grounds. Commissioner Allender and Superintendent Unger were appointed a committee to pur-chase the fence if the County Commissioners grant the funds.

It was decided to have the Graceland building painted by day labor and not by contract, and to have Mr. Yingling superintend the work.

A delegation from Manchester came before the Board requesting that the Manchester school be made a four year high school. The Board approved the establishment of such a high school in Manchester.

The Board authorized Commission-Koons and Superintendent Unger to request the County Commissioners to repair the road to the Fairview

The meeting adjourned at 12 M.

Former Carroll-Countains Ordained.

(For the Record.)
This Saturday, in St. Michael's of Marquette, Mich., will ordain Rev. Regis Boyle, of Pittsburgh, to be priesthood, in the Order of the Most Sacred Cross and Passion of our Lord Jesus Christ. The young cleric is a son of John S. Boyle, of the Steel City; a native of and boyhood-resident in Liberty township, Adams Co,, Penn., near Emmitsburg; in the early 80's, as a single man, employed at and living in Middleburg, Carroll County.

Among the ordinations in Mt. St. Mary's Seminary, near Emmitsburg, Thursday of this week, was that, for the Pittsburgh-diocese, of Rev. Francis J. Wivell, of Wilkesbarre, Penn., son of the late Frank Washington | Mill. Wivell there, and grandson of Anthony Wivell, both natives and two and three generations ago, longtime and prominent residents of north-western Myers' district, No. 3, near Piney Creek Station, Carroll County. With two brothers physicians (Scranton and Pittsburgh), the learned professions are well represented in that outgrowth of the widespread old Wivell family-connection in the northeastern section of this county.

THE FIREMEN'S CARNIVAL.

Don't forget the Carnival next week, Monday to Saturday, for the benefit of the NEW FIRE TRUCK for Taneytown. The town and community needs this Truck for better fire protection; for quicker service, for wider range, and stronger water pressure. The WHOLE DISTRICT, for miles around, will be benefitted. Not ter still, make liberal CASH donations. The BEST WAY of all to DIRECT FOR THE OBJECT IT-SELF. .. The Carnival will be held on the SAUBLE field, instead of the Spangler lot, on account of wet ground. Note change in location.

Consistory Conference.

The Summer meeting of the Consistory Conference of the Reformed Churches of Carroll County will held in the Carroll Charge, St. Benjamin's Church, J. W. Reinecke, pastor, afternoon and evening, of Thursday, June 19. Pastors and consistorymen specially invited, interesting though informal discussions, relating to the activities of the Church.

COUNTY C. E. CONVENTION. Most of the Officers Re-elected for Next Year.

The County C. E. Convention at Keysville, on Thursday, met with a good attendance, despite the bad roads and gloomy skies, and the ad-dresses were inspiring. The program was carried out as published last week. The following officers were elected:

President, Merwyn C. Fuss, Taneytown; Vice-President, Miss Eva Logue, Westminster; Secretary-Treas-urer, Miss Mary Ohler, Taneytown; Temperance Supt., Harry B. Fogle, Uniontown; Missionary Supt., Miss Mabel Alberts, Westminster; Junior Supt., Miss Estella Essig, Taneytown; Alumni Supt., Frank Stewart, Westminster; Pastoral Counsellor, Rev. J. N. Link, Westminster; M. S. P. Supt., Mrs. Herbert Richardson, Woodbine.

The convention was well-cared for, and especially well fed, the local committee having performed its part lavishly in providing eats. The attendance of delegates was only fair, but the church was well filled and could not have accommodated an old-time convention. The theme of the convention was "Go ye therefore and teach all Nations," the addresses emphasiz-ing "service" and the preparation and

Rev. Chalmers Walck Accepts a Call to Frederick.

Reformed Church, Westminster, accepted on Monday a call to become pastor of Grace Reformed Church, Frederick, and will enter upon his new field of duty the latter part of this month or the first of July. His family consists of himself and wife and two daughters.

Immediately after the Sunday morning service at one of the largest congregational meetings the local church has ever had, Rev. Walck was unanimously elected pastor. Monday a committee composed of thirty-five or forty members of the church went Westminster and carried the call to him. His acceptance was a source of much gratification to the commit-

Road Work Resumed.

With the coming of clear weather Monastery Church, in West Hoboken, N. J., Bishop Paul J. Nusbaum, C. P., the State highways in the district composed of Frederick, Montgomery, Howard and Carroll counties and western Baltimore county.

Wednesday the work of pouring concrete on the mile and half of highway from New Windsor toward Oak Orchard by way of Buffalo was begun by Gosnell and Russell, this city. This is part of a highway that will eventually connect Frederick and Westminster through Liberty. The M. J. Grove Lime Company has resumed the laying of concrete on one mile of highway leading off the Baltimore State road at Cooksville and extending toward Hoods

About one-third of this link was constructed before bad weather set in last fall, and the completion of the work is being rushed.

The work of grading and draining has been taken up in earnest on all link of State highways throughout the districts with the exception of one or two where the work is being hampered by right-of-way difficulties .-Frederick News.

As to Advertising Rates.

The American Press, last week, carried an article containing the advertising rates of 57 weeklies in New York state, with the circulation of The rate was given at 15c per inch for two papers, one with a circulation of 735, the other with 833. One paper gives a 20c rate with 690 circulation; another a 30c rate with 775 circulation. Papers with a circulation of from 900 to 1200, have per inch. Others with circulation from 1200 to 1500 have rates varying from 25 cents to 40 cents, while for raise money for any object, is to GIVE circulations from 1600 upwards, the rates vary from 40 cents to 50 cents per inch a week.

These are rates for general advertisers, on contracts, and not for single insertions, legal work, nor for small type composition. The rates applying in Carroll County, for the same classes of advertising and circulation, will not average over half of the New York rates—and yet, some of our good people seem to think "printer's ink" costs too much.

Baltimore Auto Owners Must Pay Their Tax Bills.

Baltimore city had a law passed by the last legislature, about which few are familiar; that all owners of motor cars will have to present receipted tax bills before certificates of registration will be issued by the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles. The law went into effect June 1, and apparently it would be a good law for the whole state. Those who do not pay their tax bills hardly have a right to his own and no one under twenty-one indulge in automobiles.

A GREAT RADIO DEMONSTRATION

First Time in History a Convention is Broadcasted.

The greatness of Radio performance was given its first big demonstration this week, in carrying the proceedings of the Republican National Convention, at Cleveland. The proceedings were sent out by fourteen broadcasting stations, covering every section of the United States so that "listeners in" almost everywhere in this country, could hear, word by word the detailed proceedings of the convention, the noise of the applause and many of the individual voices participating in side remarks and ex-

It was a wonderful boost for radio. In hundreds of newspaper offices, stenographic notes were taken from radios, instead of getting telegraphic reports, thereby placing the small papers on equality with the larger ones maintaining special correspondents and private wires at great cost.

In addition, hundreds owning strong radio sets were connected by the use of open telephone lines to thousands of homes not owning radios, the loudspeaking horns making the sounds as audible almost as though spoken directly into the transmitters of the Rev. Chalmers W. Walck, for the phones. It was a wonderful demon-past nine years pastor of St. Paul's stration never heretofore equalled in stration never heretofore equalled in

A PREVENTIVE OF GOITRE. Letter from Frederick County's Health Officer.

To Fathers and Mothers in Frederick County, Md. On May 1, 1924, a new brand of table sale containing enough iodine to protect against simple goitre, will be placed on sale by Michigan salt manufacturers.

That thyroid enlargement, or simple goiter, is usually common in Frederick County, has been known for some time. A survey of school children in Frederick County showed almost half of them to have enlarged thyroid. We believe that the solu-tion of this important health problem has been found in the new brand of salt, a simple, inexpensive and effective protective measure that is within the reach of every one.

Simple goitre is an enlargement of the thyroid gland. It is not a disease; the gland becomes enlarged due to a lack in the food and water of a necessary food element-iodine. Frederick County soil, unlike that of most other states, does not furnish enough iodine to keep the thyroid gland in normal condition, therefore, we must supply this deficiency in some way.

Putting back into our food, supply the iodine that is lacking, will solve Frederick County's simple goitre problem. The new "iodized salt will do this quickly and effectively. It is a preventive—it will not take the place of medical treatment for the diseased thyroid. Ask your grocer for the salt. Use it on the table and for cooking. It looks and tastes exactly like ordinary salt and it costs only a trifle more. It is not a medicine it is not a medicine. _it is only a more complete food and its use can harm no one.

By promptly adopting the new brand of salt and using it for all household purposes you will give to your family the sure protection against simple goitre that every person needs.

DR. E. C. KEFAUVER, Health Officer of Frederick Co.

Higher Prices for Wheat Predicted.

The market experts are beginning to talk of the crop outlook for the year, and the figuring is generally for higher prices, based on smaller acreage and unfavorable weather conditions in many of the wheat growing belts. Strange as it seems to us here in the wet East, the complaint in the wheat states is mostly from drouth.

Spring wheat acreage is said to have been reduced somewhere from 10 to 14 percent. One estimate on the coming crop is placed at 727,000,-000 bushels as against 785,741,000 bushels last year. The same estimat-also indicates better prices for corn this year-perhaps not soon, but in time for the new crop.

Other reports state that the financial situation with western farmers is about on a stand-still, with about a 63 percent estimate that conditions will improve, with fair crops this year, and time to recover from the poor business management during and immediately following the World

The Ice Cream Law.

Mr. A. L. Sullivan, Chief of the Bureau of Food and Drugs of the State Department of Health, has sent a notice to all ice cream manufacturers in the state, informing them of the requirements of the new ice cream law which went into effect, June 1.

The law now requires a butter fat content of from 8 to 10 percent. in the case of plain ice cream and of from 6 to 8 percent in the case of fruit or nut ice cream. Mr. Sulliven requests the manufacturers to examine their formula very carefully to see that sufficient cream is provided to measure up to the standard. In case of doubt, it s suggested that they submit samples to a chemist or consult the Bu-reau of Food and Drugs of the State Department of Health.

Lord's Day Alliance Meeting.

An important meeting of the Lord's Day Alliance, will be held in the M. P. Church, Westminster, Thursday evening, June 19, at 8 o'clock. The speaker of the evening will be Clarence True Wilson, D. D., Washington, General Secretary of the Board of Temperance. A large attendance is desirstrong and timely message.

COOLIDGE AND DAWES NOMINATED.

Convention has Hot Fight for the Vice-Presidency.

The Republican National Convention convened at Cleveland, Ohio, on Tuesday morning. It was not a boisterous convention, and the arrangements in general were and more orderly than usually attend such big gatherings, which in themselves added to the lack of confusion. All of the working plans were carried out per schedule. An organization was soon effected, and Representative Burton, of Ohio, was made temporary chairman, whose duty, it was to make the "key note" address.

His address was rather lengthy, but it was well put together and well pre-sented, and very early called for par-ty harmony and condemned insurgency, during which he used these words. "With some disappointment, as one whose public service has been in a legislative position, truth compells me to say that by far the greater share of our citizenship looks to President Coolidge rather than to Congress, for leadership." The statement brought the convention to its feet, with loud cheering, in which many of the members of Congress, who were hit by the expression, join-

Secretary Mellon, although making no address, was accorded an enthusiastic ovation, as did a woman delegate from Utah who offered a resolution. On the whole for a first day f routine work, it was decidedly satisfactory to those most interested, and rather discouraging to those who predicted a refrigerator affair.

At night, the Resolutions committee got down to work, and unecere-moniously sat down on the Wisconsin delegation that attempted to inject the La Follette doctrines into the party platform, and decided first and last on planks and ideas approved by Coolidge, with but little change.

On Wednesday, permanent organization was formed by naming Frank W. Mondell, of Wyoming, as chairman. Mr. Mondell whooped things up for his party in general, and scored insurgency in particular. His keynote was "Confidence in Coolidge" and throughout his address appealed for a united party and for the election of a Republican Congress that would be Republican after election.

The session was short, as committees were not ready to report. During the day the chief topic of interest in the lobbies was—who to nominate for Vice-President?

At night, the first noisy session was held, and it made up for the two quiet ones. It was a cheering, boisterous crowd full of energy and enthusiasm. The demonstration started when chairman Warren, in presenting the report of the Committee on Resolutions men-

Delegates sprang to their feet and in a few moments, the first parade of the convention began around the hall. The convention managers had the heavy iron standards bearing the names of the States fastened to the floors, but the delegates snatched the tops from the standards which bore the State names and formed a procession. North Carolina was the first, followed by New Jersey, and soon the aisles were crowded with pushing, struggling, whistling, cheering delegates and alternates, all best on whooping it up and each seeking to

The demonstration lasted for half an hour and was participated in by all of the states but Wisconsin. When quiet was restored, Mr. Warren proceeded with the reading of his report but every mention of the President was received with cheering .The main declarations of the platform are as follows:

The restoration of equal economic relations between agriculture and other industries, such as will bring back agricultural prosperity. Rigid enforcement of laws, and observance of the entire constitution, covering the 18th. Amendment. Preservation of all constitutional guarantees, with religious freedom, aimed at the Ku Klux Klan.

Federal legislation to stamp out lynchings, and the protection of all races in their rights. Further progressive legislation, in the matter of Federal tax reduction.

Restricted immigration as necessary for the protection of American born against a flood of European immigra-

Settlement of Foreign debts on the basis of the agreement with Great Britain.

Oposition to government ownership of public utilities. Care of wounded and disabled veterans, and the early enforcement of the bonus law. President Cooldige was nominated Thursday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, receiving all the votes except 34 for La Follette and 10 for Johnson. sin cast 28 votes for La Follette and one for Coolidge.

The real fight was over second place, for which many nominations were made, the leaders being Charles G. Dawes, of Ohio, Judge Kenyson, of Iowa, Ex-Gov. Lowden, of Illinois, and Burton, of Ohio, with Lowden strongy in the lead on second ballot, when his positive declamation was received. The convention then swung over to Dawes on the third ballot, when an effort was also made to nominate Secretary Hoover. The vote stood Dawes ed to hear Dr. Wilson who will have a 682½, Hoover 234½, Kenyson 75, and a few scattering votes for others.

OUTLOOK FOR CROPS.

The Situation Still Very Far From Average Promise.

The continued wet weather has made insects very bad. Caterpillars reported chewing up the leaves on the apple trees. So many insects never known before is the way the farmers put it. Sussex County, Delaware, reports all vine and garden crops nearly destroyed by the hordes of insects; great damage being done to sweet potato plants. Wheat fields condition irregular—spotty; many good fields abutting many poor ones. Some hardly worth cutting. Highlands crops mostly good. Lowlands show bad color, and choked with weeds. Fly doing some damage. Wheat headed in the southern and central counties. Production this year will be short of last year due large. will be short of last year, due largely to heavy decrease in acreage.

Moderate and desultory planting of corn continues. But not as much as half the acreage has been planted. One of our best correspondents writes that not in 40 years has corn planting been so late in his county.

Reports as to hay vary. Fields mostly weedy. But farmers seem to agree that without more rain the hay crop this year will be a whopper compared with that of 1923 season. Some difficulty reported in saving after cutting. In Harford county prospect is somewhat reduced by bad set of timothy and clover. Clover the scarlet kind—in many counties was never better. Alfalfa, where cut, making good yields. Pastures show up good to excellent.

Much of the rye crop has been cut.

Condition good. Oats planting seriously hampered by the cool, wet weather. Less acre-age may result than last year. Where up, oats is doing well. Barley is making good on a slight-

Bariey is making good on a slightly larger acreage.

Tobacco planting checked by the unseasoned weather. Plants are late; setting out has hardly begun. A larger acreage is expected this year. Wildfire reported in beds in Charles and Prince George's.

Transplanting of tomatoes greatly. Transplanting of tomatoes greatly delayed. Not so many set out yet.

Potatoes only partly planted. On Strawberries ripening under difficulties. On June 2 Maryland was 1145 carloads behind last year, to same date, in her shipments. Delaware 500 carloads behind. Cucumbers, watermelons, canta-loupes, at least three weeks late. Much replanting necessitated. Stands not good. Prospects only fair. Farm labor short and inefficient. Industry and public works absorbing labor from the farms at wages June 1 about 80 men available for

Mile of Concrete Road.

A mile of concrete pavement as or-dinarily constructed, 18 feet wide, will require 2000 cubic yards of concrete. This means that 3400 barrels of portland cement, 1100 cubic yards of stone must be supplied and mixed.

In making 3400 barrels of portland cement some 340 tons of coal, or equivalent quantities of oil or gas, are burned at the cement mill. Approximately 19 tons of gypsum are required to regulate the setting time of the material. To get the cement shipped to the construction job, 13,600 cloth cement sacks are needed-and approximately 13 bales of cotton must be woven into cloth to supply this item. Incidentally, over 60,000,000 cloth cement sacks are lost or destroyed each year and the textile industry is called on to furnish replacements. Back in the cement quarries approximately 400 pounds of dynamite were discharged in blasting loose the raw materials required for the cement for the mile of highway. A government bulletin estimates that 30 gallons of water are needed to mix and cure a square yard of concrete pavement. Over 300,000 gallons of water must be furnished for the mile of road, and over 4,000 tons of concrete go into the project. A good idea of what the highway construction business means to the railroads can be obtained from the requirements of a mile of concrete road. About 32 cars of sand are needed on this job, 46 cars of stone are required, and it takes 17 cars to haul the cement—or 95 cars for the basic mater-Where reinforcing is specified, further transportation is called for, while the water supply is governed by local conditions. In addition to these requirements the drainage, grading, bridge and culvert construction must all be provided for .- Portland Cement Association.

Women, and Home Work.

Some one has figured it out, that if women continue to desert housework at the present rate, within forty-one years there will be virtually no women doing this class of work. This figuring attaches to Pennsylva nia, but no doubt applies to many other states. Sometimes, too "much figuring" is a bad pastime, and the things we worry much about never happen; still, there is enough in the present example to cause our consideration, if not worry.

Just whether it is excess demand for mechanical and office work, or whether women are becoming so no less than the type of Cleveland "mannish" in their habits, is left to and Wilson, have been loyal to their ur conjecture. With women in politics, and in business, as never before, naturally the home-maker proposition becomes less attractive; but, we are rather inclined to the belief that women are acting largely in self-defense. There would likely be more women in househould work and duties, if there were more male heads to real homes.

And, perhaps there is an over-supply of women, and that they are merely subject in their avocations, to the law of supply and demand that controls so many important activities. Whatever maybe the truth about it, the statement first made is worthy of consideration.

Pay Dirt at Home.

A flush of indignation is the emotion the average person experiences when reading of wholesale swindles But second thought naturally brings the reflection that most swindles are due to the greed of the swindled, and that they are served right when they allow their avarice to overflow reason.

When the widow is fleeced out of the insurance money which should have kept herself and her children for want, the indignation is more or less righteous and lasting. Even in such cases as these, however, had the widow consulted and followed the advice of a reputable banker before investing all she had in blue sky stuff, it probably wouldn't have happened.

Loyalty to Party.

In a recent address President Coolidge said: "History shows that there must be party organization if government is to be conducted upon the lines laid down by the Constitution. I don't know of anything that has represented the real ideals of America any better than party loyalty, either on one side or the other. Men of the type of Lincoln and Grant party and desired to have party support and party government for the purpose of giving an efficient administration."

The growing tendency of what is called independence in politics is a bad sign. Instead of building, it destroys; instead of promoting, it retards. To say that the great issues of the day "transcend political parties" is to admit the impotency of government and the failure of a representative republic. The greater the issues, the greater the necessity of political parties. It is the only method of co-ordinating and vitalizing any great issue. ### Mirror Once Thought Magic

The primitive man looking at his own reflection in a still pool beheld a phenomenon he could not explain. He saw something which was not himself, but which must be so closely related to himself that there was no joke in it.

What is known as sympathetic magic always regarded as a close connection existing between a person and his "counterfeit presentment." We know better now, but who is there who can see a looking glass accidentally broken without experiencing a secret feeling of uneasiness?

The smashing of the mirror destroys the reflected image—his counterfeit self or a surface which has borne it, as it has also borne the images of other members of his family. Therefore, he himself, or some member of his family, whispers the lingering voice of despised, forgotten, but inherited belief in sympathetic magic, is in danger. All of which accounts for the superstition that if you break a looking glass there will be a death in the family within the year.-London Mirror.

to Store Flood Waters

The erratic flow of the streams of the intermountain desert country of the West makes extremely difficult the problem of engineering in that region. These streams are characterized by extraordinary fluctuations in discharge, varying from zero to enormous floods, and changes occur at irregular intervals. Owing to such fluctuations the constructing engineers who are building large storage works are forced to plan types of structures that are not common in regions where streams are more dependable.

Out in Nevada the government has built a remarkable dam, known as the Lahontan, in Carson river, to store the floods for irrigation. Carson river is subject to sudden floods, which are occasionally repeated at short intervals. The storage reservoir does not contain the entire flood discharge, so that provision must be made to take care of the surplus.

Enormous spillways are constructed at each end of the dam, which converge toward the middle of the river, where a circular stilling pool of concrete has been built. In the center is a concrete amphitheater, into which the floods are turned and stilled. The wide steps of the spillways serve to check the downrush of the floods as they are turned out of the reservoir to drop back into the river 100 feet below. The capacity of the spillways is 30,000 cubic feet per second, or the flow of a big river.

Worked for Over 700 Years

The oldest company in the world is that which owns the Falun Mine in Sweden. This mine has been worked for 700 years without a break and has never changed hands. The company is called the Stora Kopparbergs Bergslags Aktiebolag, and there is evidence that it was mining copper in the year

In these 700 years the Falun mine has yielded over a ton of gold, 15 tons of silver, and about half a million tons of copper. Now it produces 30,-000 tons of iron pyrites every year. The mine is a huge hole in the ground, nearly a quarter of a mile long, half that distance across, and some 200 feet deep.

Men dig for iron pyrites 1,000 feet below-its level and there are 18 miles of galleries containing nearly 3,000 separate chambers. A descent into these depths is a strange and rather terrifying experience. First the visitor must don heavy black serge overalls and a wide-brimmed black hat. He is given an acetylene torch shaped something like a kettle.

The visitor makes his way down a path of duckboards. The air grows colder and colder, and at the end of ten minutes he must walk warily in case he slips on the ice. The galleries are fearsome places with holes 800 feet deep, into which the visitor might fall if it were not for the red flares burnt by the guides.

Once he had a fight on with a great oil company. A conference was arranged, and the representative of the company had prepared an imposing array of figures showing this gentle man how badly they had beaten him. The statement included a paragraph to the effect that the company had 2,700 gas users in a certain town. As a matter of fact, the number was less than 500. The old oil man ran down the list, commenting pithily on the various items. When he came to this particular town he ran his finger along it and said: "Say, if the girl had hif that pianer another lick you'd have had 27,000, wouldn't you?"-Kansas City Star.

Now Doctor Jim's eyebrow mustache was one of his prides. But so conclusive was her argument that now he is going without it and his few friends who are next to the story are complimenting the girl on her rare

Salt From Earth Floors

In a Southern woman's recollections of Civil war times, a novel means of obtaining salt resorted to in those days is described.

"A common practice," she says, "on the part of people who sadly missed salt as an ingredient of their food, was to dig up the earth floors of the smokehouses and by a sort of distilling process get out of the earth the salt that had dripped from the pork and other meats that had been cured in the smokehouses." This made a fairly good substitute for the salt that could no longer be obtained from the closed channels of commerce .-- Indus-

RAISING CHICKS FOR BEST EGG PRODUCERS

Arrangements must be made to raise chicks to replenish the poultry flocks. Pullets are the most profitable part of the laying flock, and a well-balanced laying flock should consist of at least half pullets; which allows careful culling of the hens during the summer and fall before the pullets are matured, according to the United States Department of Agriculture.

Baby chicks need especially careful attention in breeding and feeding during the first weeks of their lives, which should be followed by careful and regular attention throughout their growing period. Early hatched chicks are by far the most profitable whether grown to maturity for laying or sold as poultry flesh.

The brooder house and stove heater which are used for caring for the chicks during the first few weeks of their lives, must be in working order before the chicks arrive. The most common style of brooding is the use of a stove brooder in a colony house, keeping from 350 to 500 chicks in a flock in each house, and placing the houses about 150 feet apart on a good grass range. A house 10x14 feet makes a suitable colony house which can be easily moved if built on runners. Chicks brooded in the winter will do better in a larger house, about 10x20, partitioned so that one side is used for a brooder stove and the other for a cool exercising room. Wire netting should be placed in the corners of the brooder house to prevent the chicks huddling and crowding in the Chicks should not be fed for the first 36 to 48 hours, after which they should be supplied regularly four or five times daily with easily digested feed which contains little waste material. They should be fed sparingly until about the fifth day; then they can be put on full ration. An excellent feed can be made of infertile eggs taken from the incubator, boiled for 15 minutes, chopped and mixed with dry mash of equal parts of cracker meal, bran and cornmeal, using a sufficient amount of the grain to make a dry, crumbly mixture. Middlings can be used in place of the cracker meal. Dry rolled oats are excellent for chicks and can be used as one feed, the other two or three feeds being the commercial chick

At two weeks of age the chicks can be given a dry mash, in a hopper, consisting of 4 parts by weight of rolled oats, 2 parts bran, 2 parts cornmeal, 1 part high-grade meat scrap, 1 part middlings and 1/2 part dried buttermilk. Commercial chick feed should be fed three times daily in addition to the dry

Milk is an excellent feed for chicks and should be provided either as a liquid or in the dry form to secure best growth. If liquid milk is avail-When the chicks are one month old they should be fed a coarser or intermediate chick grain, and at about two months of age the scratch feed can be changed to equal parts of wheat and cracked corn. This should be fed two or three times a day.

Concrete Floors Avert

Dampness in Quarters Many farmers who in former years lost money in poultry raising are now making it a success, all because they are learning that clean, dry quarters for poultry keep the flocks healthy and result in larger egg production and better birds for the market.

A chicken coop with a floor that is likely to become muddy in wet weather and to become a source of dust in dry weather is not conducive to healthy poultry.

Concrete floors are now being laid in chicken coops in increasing numbers. The farmer has found that these floors save his flock in many ways by prevention of mud and dust and by checking the rat menace. Concrete floors prevent rats burrowing under the coops if the floors are surrounded by a low concrete wall about 18 inches high. And if rats do enter the coops through the doors there is no chance for them to burrow into the ground to build nests. Exclusion of rats means a great saving of eggs and young chicks.

A good, practical hen house floor is one two inches thick, made of a "rich" concrete mixture, in which three parts of sand are used to one part of portland cement. This floor should be well smoothed over with a trowel.

Before laying a concrete floor a satisfactory base should be made to give adequate provision for drainage. An eight-inch fill of coarse crushed rock or cinders makes a good base for a concrete hen house floor.

Cleanliness Important

Nowhere is cleanliness more important than in the rearing of little chicks. Their lungs and entire organisms may be stunted and permanently weakened by compelling them to sleep in filthy quarters, breathing impure air night after night. Clean out the brooders and coops often, every day if possible, and give them a good sunning and airing. Nothing is more health-giving and inexpensive than pure air, for chicks as well as old

Earliest Patriotic Song

The earliest patriotic song in America which L. C. Elson has been able to unearth is a "liberty song" advertised in the Boston Chronicle of October 16, 1763. Mrs. Marcy Warren, wife of Gen. James Warren of Plymouth, Mass., wrote the words. The tune was Boyces "Hearts of Oak." Mrs. Warren began the old American custom of setting patriotic verses to an English melody. "Yankee Doodle" antedated this song, but, says Mr. Elson, not as an American patriotic work, for originally it was a song in derision of the Americans. The Americans admired the tune, even though it was used against them. Early in our national career Americans appropriated the tune of "God Save the King." As early as 1779 the melody was adapted to American use, a set of patriotic verses having been written to it and published in the "Pennsylvania Pack." An "Ode for the Fourth of July" was written to the same tune, and became very popular. During the last quarter of the Eighteenth century "Washington's March" was the leading instrumental work of the American repertoire.

She Knew Sheep

A young city woman went out to teach a country school. The class in arithmetic was before her. She said: "Now, children, if there are ten sheep on one side of a wall and one jumps over, how many sheep will be

Then up piped a little tow-headed daughter of a farmer:

"No sheep, teacher; no sheep."

"Oh! oh!" cried the young city woman reproachfully. "You are not so stupid as that! Think again. If there were ten sheep on one side of the wall and one sheep jumped over, nine sheep would be left. Don't you

"No! no! no!" persisted the child. "If one sheep jumped over all the others would jump after. My father keeps

Then, seeing the puzzled look on the teacher's face, the little tow-head explained apologetically: "You know 'rithmetic, but I know sheep."-Charleston News.

r. essure of Steam

Modern steam boiler practice is catching up with pure science. Some engineers may have remembered at high school or college learning something of what is called the "critical temperature" or "critical pressure" of a gas, the former being the temperature above which the gas might not be condensed at any pressure, and the latter being the pressure when the critical temperature was attained. All this was considered "pure science" or "high-brow stuff" with no application to practical affairs. But the critical temperature and critical pressure of steam are only 706 degrees Fahrenheit and 3,200 pounds a square inch, and boilers are now being used at pressures of more than 1,000 pounds with the tendency toward higher and higher pressures. Many interesting things happen to both water and steam when near the critical point and now practical engineers are beginning to take keen interest in what was formerly thought fit only for laboratory dis-

And Boggs wondered why his wife treated him so coolly after the visltors had gone.

Kept Them Awake

"Ain't got no Shakespearean actors now like what we had in the old days," declared Hank Hayfoot, a prominent member of the grocery lyceum.

"This is the repressed school," retorted the city fellow who happened to be present. "You're thinking about the old-style robust school. All those fellows could do was to rant around and bellow."

"Well, they kept us awake, anyhow."

Novelists Best Tenants

"We like to have tenants who re ceive as few callers as possible," said the manager of a big office building, according to Fred Kelly, writing in the Nation's Business. "Those who have a stream of people coming all day long help to congest the elevator service. "On this basis a high-priced surgeon is more desirable than a dealer in cheap building lots, for fewer people are able to consult the surgeon than might wish to talk about the lots. The ideal tenant, though, would be a novelquiet place to work and didn't let any of his friends know where he was. His name was not in the building directory and he didn't even receive mail there. I don't believe he had a single caller the eleven months he was with us. I'd like to manage a building for hard-working novelists."

Composer of "The Rosary" Ethelbert Nevin composed "The Rosary." He was born in Vineacre, near Pittsburgh, Pa., in 1862. He began to attract attention when ten years old by his excellent piano playing and when he was twelve he was sent to Dresden, Germany, to study.

After returning from Germany he settled in Boston and became a wellknown teacher and concert player, but in 1893 the charm of Europe, especially Italy, was too strong to be resisted, and the next seven years were spent abroad, says the Detroit News. The influence of southern Europe is very evident in the dreamy, romantic tone of much of his later music. In 1900 he became a music instructor at Yale university and was in this work when stricken with heart failure. He died in 1901.

Few modern composers have excelled Nevin in perfection of melody, critics say. While "The Rosary" is his masterpiece, "Narcissus" has received no small amount of popularity. Other compositions by Nevin are "Water Sketches," "Day in Venice" and "'Twas

Flea's Wonderful Eyesight

Fleas have far better sight than men. A German scientist who has been investigating fleas makes this disclosure, saying their sight is so sharp that when a man is sleeping at night under a blanket in a darkened room his body glows to a flea as brightly as a red-hot stove appears to a man in a darkened room.

Man is far behind many animals in both sight and hearing, the scientist finds; the human ear catches only a small percentage of the myriad tone waves and as human eyes do not react to ultra-violet beams much is lost to man which reaches eyes of a lower order.

WRITER TELLS GOOD POINTS OF ARMY ANT

Indians Find Insects Good Louse Exterminators.

Everybody has heard a lot of the horrible tales about the "army" or "driver" ants; how they sweep across the country in vast glistening sheets several hundred yards wide and devour every live thing in their path, pulling down and swarming over wild beasts and reptiles alike, each taking a mouthful and passing on; how more than one brutal criminal—in fiction has finally met his just deserts amidst gruesome details at their hands, or rather jaws. Tosh. All of it. As a matter of fact the army ants-there are several species-are not bad fellows at all, writes Gordon MacCreagh in Adventure. I venture to assert that nobody in all Amazonas has ever seen a column of them more than a foot in width. I have seen dozens of their trails as wide as eight inches, but never more. It is true they run to three-quarters of an inch in length and that they can bite a piece of flesh out with each nip, as well as sting like a hornet; but no beast that is able to get up and hop need ever be eaten up by a column of army ants.

No, bugs are what the army ant is out for. Worms, beetles, fat caterpillars, sweet things-and, of course, criminals bound to trees. It is common for an Indian, meeting a column, to lay a honey trail to his hut, gather up his brats and his string of baccalhao and clear out for the afternoon. The ants come in thankfully and delouse that hut with a thoroughness which would be a shining example to any firm of bug exterminators at $10 a room; and with sundown they return peacefully home. Mr. Injun re-night in months. Sometimes they happen along without any honey trail. I have camped in a deserted hut to take a siesta while the afternoon sun passed over, and have been awakened by the yell of "Carralho: Formigas malefiscas!" and have realized the next second that the poignant words meant malignant ants. Upon that occasion I waited not went with speed and sat me down in deep water-and began to understand then why that perfectly good hut had been desepted. With sundown the

But it was canned grub that evening; for the formigas had eaten up a big potful of dinner. But at that there are worse ants in Amazonas than the army ant.

Imagination Stirred by Problems of Great Spaces

I have no doubt star gazing is a fine occupation, for it leads you within the borders of the unattainable. But map gazing, to which I became addicted early, brings the problems of the great spaces of the earth into stimulating and directive contact with sane curiosity and gives an honest precision to one's imaginative faculty, writes Joseph Conrad in the National Geographic Magazine. And the honest maps of the Nineteenth century nourished in me a passionate interest in the truth of geographical facts and a desire for precise knowledge which was extended later to other subjects. From the middle of the Eighteenth century on, the business of map making had been growing into an honest occupation, registering the hard-won knowledge, but also, in a scientific spirit, recording the geographical ignorance of its time. And it was Africa, the continent out of which the Romans used to say some new thing was always coming, that got cleared of the dull imaginary wonders of the Dark ages, which were replaced by exciting spaces of white paper. Regions unknown! My imagination could depict to itself these worthy, adventurous men nibbling at the edges, attacking from north and south and east and west, conquering a bit of truth here and a bit of truth there and sometimes swallowed up by the mystery their hearts were so persistently set on unveiling.

"Brush" Used for Removing Deposits From Ship's Hull

It is reported that an Australian company has introduced in England an ingenious method of cleaning the outside of the hull of a ship. The invention has been in successful operation for a number of years in Australia enters and spends his first peaceful and has been tried at Southampton and Plymouth. The apparatus is mounted upon a suitable frame, which can be suspended from the side of a boat. It consists of a cylindrical brush about five or six feet in length, held in a framework which also supports an electric motor and a propeller. The purpose of the propeller is to keep the brush pressed against the side of the ship. The case carrying the apparatus conupon the order of my going, but just | tains also a four-cylinder petroleum motor directly coupled to a dynamo. The current produced serves to raise and lower the carrying frame as well as to drive the propeller and brush. peons ventured back to collect our As the appliance operates under water the motor and gearing are inclosed in a water-tight box. The machine is capable of removing the thickest deposits and can thoroughly clean the hull of an 8.000-ton ship in from six to seven hours.

Lightning Bores Iron

During an electrical storm in Ohio an official of a lumber company sitting in his office was startled by a loud report like the discharge of a gun, and, looking up at the ceiling, noticed a blaze. On examination he found that there was a hole large enough to insert his little finger in the fron gas pipe. The lightning had come in over the electric wires, jumped off on to the gas pipe, which they crossed at right angles, bored through the iron and ignit 'the escaping r

Soundproof Booths

Soundproof telephone booths are constructed by various firms, and owing to the principle involved in their makeup it is said that not the least sound can escape from them while the telephone is being used.

The walls of the booth are built of five layers of thin wood, with the grain crossed each time, and the layers are glued together, the whole then being covered with a special soundproof compound.

Inasmuch as the whole is made in six dismountable panels a booth can be set up in a short time and panels are not too large to be taken in through an ordinary door. Insulated openings are left in the partitions beforehand, so that there is no need of boring holes to install telephone or electric light wires.

BEN BLOWER

HAT Ben Blower has is always a little bit better than every one else has." When people said that Mr. Blower was spending the weekend in the country with a clab acquaintance whose wife had heard of Mr. Blower but had not met him. Her husband introduced, that Saturday night at dinner, a brisk little man in a black coat that somehow suggested the cut of a robin's tail feathers.

"My husband says that you made a very quick run up from town," Mr. Blower's hostess began.

"Ah, well-my motah, you see," he exploded with his own special pronunciation of words ending in the let-

"You have a fast car?" "New York to Boston in five houahs," said he.

"But Priscilla married John Alden. history tells us," she questioned, hurrying to the rescue of the Puritan

"History doesn't know everything," said Mr. Blower haughtily. So it went. He told his hostess that he had made and spent sums equal to any fortune. "You never hear of my income," he explained, "because I spend it on purpose to avoid the income tax." His children were all of the "genius type," his clothes were made in England; his friends were only of the best; and she was made to feel that he refrained from telling her his brand of cigarettes and politics only because such a declaration on his part would be used as advertising and campaign material.

As they parted for the night she said wearily, "I hope you rest well."

"I always rest well," said he. And she dragged herself up to bed thinking that the blower habit might be harmless and amusing for half an hour in one's club; for a longer period it became quite a different matter.

His sole purpose in life is to gorge himself and fatten upon the unsuspecting or adventurous who by their own folly become entangled in his web, an exquisite, airy abode of silvered threads when viewed from the outside, but a carnal house filled with horrors to those imprisoned within.

Before the dupe has penetrated very deeply into the web, a nauseous sense of fear oppresses him, but he laughs k away and ventures forth gay-hearted, confident of his craftiness to break the bonds and go free whenever he may be so inclined.

But his quest of riches and pleasures must be continued. The spider has assured himself that his fondest desires shall be realized. Even now the sticky web is clinging to the victim's feet, shutting out the light from his eyes and smothering his breath.

When at last he comprehends he is imprisoned, it is not without dismay that he finds himself in a hopeless condition, terrified to the core of his fluttering heart as he tugs and pulls with desperation to break the silken threads being spun around him and slowly strangling him to death.

At the spider's behest the fool has played fast and loose in the sunniest days of his existence. Having been so bound up with the one master-thought that he could falsify and pilfer without being suspected, gamble with money that was not his own, delude his trustful wife and his employer, he awakens with a start to find himself in a house of many winding stairways from which he cannot possibly escape. ### The Romance of Words

"MAYOR"

ONE of the most interesting and best-phrased explanations of this title occurs in a book written, strange as it may seem, in 1655-Vorstegan's "Restitution of Decayed Intelligence."

"This honorable name of office," says the author, "in the chief and most famous city in our realm is written in divers' waies. Some writ it 'major.' some 'mayor' and some 'Maire.' And because major in Latin signifieth greater or bigger, some, not looking any further, will needs from thence make it major. But, seeing the names of sheriff and alderman cannot be drawn from the Latin, why should it be thought that mayor cometh from major? Certain it is that as the other names of office are not derived from the Latin, no more is this. For the etymology thereof we are to note that in our own English to 'may' is as much as to say a 'haver' or possessor of mightone that hath and may use authority."

Zoning Operates to the Benefit of Entire City

The justice and legality of zoning under police or community power and the impracticability of zoning when attempted through property condemnation were emphasized at the national conference on city planning at Springfield, Mass. It appears to be difficult for some property owners to grasp the fact that zoning, in addition to its usefulness in stabilizing real estate values, is primarily a public welfare measure, and that its benefits are too numerous and too general to leave any occasion whatever for particular compensation through condemnation proceedings.

The legality of zoning, wherever it has been tried under reasonable conditions, has been established beyond doubt. The principle has been upheld, on two separate occasions, by the United States Supreme court, in one instance the approval of the high court being given where a zoning ordinance was retroactive. The principle goes back to the inherent right of the people of a state "to pass laws for the public safety, health, morals and general welfare." Exercise of the right is simply community power. It is known also as police power, although the police are in no way directly connected with it. Zoning authorities point out that this power is that which the state may use for protection against fire or the spread of disease. The high court of the nation has held that this power may embrace regulations aimed at promotion of public convenience and prosperity.

How zoning has to do with both public safety and prosperity may be readily seen. Through regulations governing the location of buildings and certain kinds of business and the nature of structure that may be erected in the various districts or zones, there come to be both protection of property values and insurance against unhealthful conditions. Plenty of light, air and sunshine are just as essential to physical wellbeing as is freedom from dirt, smoke and other unwholesome things that may be associated with commercial or industrial plants. In setting aside certain districts for residences and for industrial and commercial establishments, zoning operates to the benefit of all concerned. Zoning is one of the fairest and most promising features of modern city development

Realize That Beauty Pays

"European cities have taught me never to apologize for beauty as an element in city planning," J. C. Nichols told Kansas City realtors who recently gathered at a dinner in Kansas City for a report on critical observance of Old World cities fashioned by the centuries.

"European cities realize that heauty pays, like commerce; that distinction in a city is a hold on the people," continued Mr. Nichols, who always has stressed the practical side of city planning. "Not costly ornamentation, not extravagance but beauty that is born in orderly lines, in stretches of uniform cornices, in artistic little shop fronts, in the play and sparkle of fountains, in the parks and free spaces. In vistas and in public buildings enhanced by proper placing. It is such things that make people love the old

A plea was voiced by Mr. Nichols for action that would make Kansas is the fluid which comes from the City distinctive among American cities, and for a cultural development that would remove any temptation for families of this region to remove with their children to either coast for "advantages,"-Kansas City Star.

Each State to Give Tree

The latest effort in tree planting under the auspices of the Forestry association is the new national arboretum in Washington, in which each state in the Union will be represented. Seeds from the trees with a history are being collected from every state.

In the long list of famous trees to be represented in the arboretum are the Lincoln hackberry at Decorah, Ia.; the Washington horse chestnut at Bath, Pa., presented to General Brown by George Washington; the Sir Joseph Hooker oak at Chico, Cal.; the Washington walnut at Maplewood, N. J.; the mulberry tree at Spartansburg, N. C.: the Rathbone elm at Marietta, O.: the Bartram cypress at Philadelphia, Pa.; the De Soto oak at Tampa, Fla.; the Whittier elm at Haverhill. Mass.; General Grant's tree, Chicago; the Webster tree at Franklin, N. H .: the battle ground oak and new oak at Guilford, N. ### Good Street Tree

As a street shade tree the white ash has fine possibilities, says the American Tree association of Washington. D. C., which will send you a tree bulletin for a two-cent stamp for postage. Its comparatively light foliage makes it especially desirable for streets, as the open crown permits the passage of sunlight and free circulation of air. The tree develops a round, graceful top and it grows fairly rapidly. The Carolina poplar will grow in dark crowded streets.

HOW=

TO DECIDE ON THE BEST CURTAIN GOODS TO BUY .-Although springtime ordinarily blooms in the show windows much earlier than it does on the hilltops, even show window springtime doesn't come too early for one to begin thinking of the things that count in buying curtain cloth, says the Kansas City

Briefly, these "things that count" are only two in numbersuitability and durability. But the terms are inclusive enough also to call to mind such essentials as texture, color and design.

A suitable curtain cloth is one which harmonizes with the spirit of the room it is to drape. Heavy silks and velvets, so luxurious and exquisite in a large room of formal tone, are, for instance, quite out of place in a cottage or country home. And the checked gingham so charming for the informal nook would be just as out of place in the pretentious drawing room.

But design as well as material is a factor in suitability. Chintz of generous sized pattern, for example, is undesirable for a small room, or for the large room with figured wallpaper and great variety of furniture. For such a room, the only suitable choices, in fact, are either entirely plain curtains, or those of quite subdued pattern.

Durability has to do mostly with texture, and with coloring, which should be fast both to light and to washing.

Test for color fastness of the curtain cloth you contemplate buying by placing a sample under a small piece of flat window glass, one-half of which has been covered with black paint or black paper. Leave the sample under the glass in the bright sunlight for several days. You can tell the extent to which light will fade the material by comparing the portion under the clear glass to the portion that has been protected by the black

To test the cloth's fastness to washing you can simply launder a small piece of it.

How the Sap Runs An authority on tree surgery, describes the process of the formation or elaboration of maple sap as follows: "Moisture in the soil dissolves and holds in solution certain mineral ele-This moisture, so charged finds its way into the roots of the trees and then into the wood, in which it ascends to the leaves, through which it passes and from which a very large portion is evaporated, or 'transpired,' according to the term used to describe the process. It is estimated that a very large tree, bearing a big top, 'tranpires' one hundred and fifty tons of water in a season. From the time the moisture enters the roots until it passes through the leaves it is termed 'crude' sap. Air, charged with carbonic acid gas, also passes through the leaves; and, meeting with the crude sap, yields to it the carbonic acid and emerges as pure air, while the crude sap, with its load of carbon, becomes transformed into what is known as 'elaborated' sap. In this form it finds Its way back into the trunk of the tree. where it is conveyed in the wood, here and there wherever needed, into the inner layer of the bark, which is called the cambium. There it is transformed into the wood which forms the season's growth. This elaborated sap tapped tree and is made into sirup and sugar. It is, therefore, the sap on the downward journey that we use for sugar making."

How Tree Limb Tells Weather

A peeled spruce limb, attached to the door of an office in the United States Forest Service's Forest Products laboratory at Madison, Wis., indicates humidity changes with very nearly the accuracy of a scientific in-

During the months when artificial heat is used, it bends far to the left. During the warmer months, when the windows are open and the air of the room is moister, it becomes nearly upright. These changes cause its tip to move through a distance of 30 inches. describing an arc of about 80 degrees. Dates indicated on a chart along this arc show its position at different times of the year. This remarkable action arises from the presence of compression wood along what orginally was its under side. Compression wood is found on the under side of limbs and on the lower side of leaning trunks of all cone-producing trees. It is the action of this wood that causes the limbs of standing dead trees to curve down during protracted dry weather. Moist weather swells the compression wood, straightening the limbs. - Popular Science Monthly.

How Flies Spend Winter

It is a remarkable fact that scientists have never so far been able to determine for certain whether the common housefly survives the winter in the adult stage. It has always popularly been supposed that flies pass the winter in cracks and crevices and the following spring lay eggs, thus perpetuating the species. But the notion has no evidence to support it. No fly has ever been known to live from fall to spring.

THE RETURN AND THE REBUILD-ING OF THE TEMPLE

LESSON TEXT—Ezra 1:1-11; 3:8-6:22. GOLDEN TEXT—"Comfort ye, comfort ye my people, saith your God."—Isa. 40:1.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Building a House JUNIOR TOPIC-Love for God's House.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOP-IC—The Rebunding of the Temple.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOP-IC—Significance of the Return.

I. The Return From Captivity Predicted (Jer. 29:10-14).

It seems that false prophets were flourishing in Babylon, telling the people that they would speedily be restored to their own land. To counteract this the Lord moved Jeremiah to send a letter to the captives in Babyion (Jer. 29:1-9). In this letter he advised them to settle down and quietly pursue their regular callings of life and not to be led astray by false proph-

1. The Length of the Captivity (v. 10). Their coming back was to be "after seventy years." From Daniel 9:2 it is clear that seventy years means a definite time. It dates from the time when the first company was taken captive among which Daniel was found. II. The Prediction of Captivity Fulfilled (Ezra 1:1-11).

1. The Proclamation of Cyrus (vv. 1-4). This was not by accident, but that the word of the Lord might be fulfilled (v. 1). God never forgets. What He has promised He will do. It was by divine initiation—the Lord stirred up the spirit of Cyrus. In his proclamation he ordered that all who desired should go back and build the house of the Lord God, and those who lacked this inclination should lend assistance by making gifts of silver, gold and beasts.

2. The Response to Cyrus' Proclamation (vv. 5, 6). The company which returned was largely made up of representatives of Judah and Benjamin.

3. Royal Favors (vv. 7-11). Cyrus brought forth the vessels of the house of the Lord which Nebuchadnezzar had carried away from Jerusalem and placed in the house of his gods. This, no doubt, greatly encouraged the Jews, for there were 5,400 vessels returned. III. The Temple Rebuilt (Ezra 3:8-

(2) The priests with trumpets (v. 10). These trumpets were made of silver and were used in calling the people together .

(3) The Levites with symbols (v. 10). These were to furnish the instrumental music of the sanctuary, in accordance with the arrangements made by David (I Chron. 15:10-21).

(4) They sang together by course (v. 11). This means that they sang to one another responsively. The one company sang, "The Lord is good." The other responded, "For his mercy endureth forever.'

(5) Mingled weeping and shouting (vv. 12, 13). Some of the older men, who had seen the magnificent and glorious temple of Solomon, which had been destroyed, wept much when they saw how far short the present foundations came from the former temple.

2. The Building Hindered (Ezra 4). The leading adversaries were the Samaritans, a mongrel people, the offspring of the poor Jews who were left in Palestine and the foreign people who were sent into Palestine after the Jews were taken captive.

(1) An unintelligent pessimism (Ezra 3:13). Under the circumstances this was a glorious beginning and gave promise of great things for the future. Therefore it was no credit to the priests, Levites and chief of the fathers to mar this occasion with their weeping.

(2) Worldly compromise (Ezra 4:2, 3). They said, "Let us build with you, for we seek your God." This is Satan's most common and effective method to-

(3) Open opposition by the world (Ezra 4 14-24). When refused a part in the work open opposition was resorted to.

3. The Temple Finished (Ezra 5:1-6; 6:15). Through the ministry of the Prophets Haggai and Zechariah the people were encouraged to resume the work of building the temple.

IV. The Temple Dedicated (Ezra

Memories: A Blessing or a Curse Proverbs 11:7; Luke 15:17; 16:25 The memories of the past may be either pleasant or painful. As Paul looked back over a life of service and sacrifice, he could say, "I have fought a good fight; I have kept the faith." This contributed to his happiness and his hope. The poet has put the same truth into the following words: "When I am dying, how glad I shall

That the lamp of my life has been blazed out for Thee. I shall not mind in whatever I gave, Labor or money, one sinner to save. I shall not mind that the way has been rough, That thy feet led the way was enough When I am dying, how glad I shall be That the lamp of my life has been blazed out for Thee."

The salvation of God makes provision for memory as it does every other faculty. It is written, "I have blotted out, as a thick cloud, thy transgressions, and, as a cloud, thy sin" (Isa. 44:22). Not only so, but the same grace that puts away our sins, supplies the necessary in-centive for a holy life and for good works. Such blessings, of course, have much to do with memory and Unforgiven sin is bound to assert itself some time. It may be so hidden in the depth of our consciousness as to be covered over for the time being, but it will not remain covered. Twenty years after committing a great sin against Joseph, his brethren were brought face to face with their sin by a combination of circumstances which they had not foreseen. Look at their words in Genesis 42:21, and be assured that unforgiven sin will some day disclose itself. If not in this present life, there will be a time when the words, "Son, remember," will be heard. Better look at Isaiah 44:22 again and compare it with Acts 13:38, 39 and Ephesians

Bronze Statue Mystery to Pioneer of Oregon Trail

"It's a small world after all," said Ezra Meeker, oldest living pioneer of the Oregon trail, as he gazed the other day on a bronze statue of himself that was uncovered in a small art shop in Vienna and brought to this country by A. Weil, an Englishman. The romance and mystery surrounding the statue were heightened by Mr. Meeker's declaration that he had not posed for the piece, did not know it was in existence and could not offer an explanation for its presence so far away from the Old West in which he spent his early days. "There are my oxen," said the pioneer as he examined the base of the miniature statue with a magnifying glass. "Look how that horn turns down; how well I remember that."

He found that even the improvised cloth feed bin, used in going over the pioneer trails, was depicted true to life. The statue itself is Mr. Meeker in miniature. The broad-brimmed hat, the beaded Indian vest, even the gauntlets, the pioneer recognized at a

Mr. Weil was unable to satisfy Mr. Meeker's curiosity regarding the original of the statue. The method of casting bronze in Austria is familiar to Mr. Weil, he said, and could not be duplicated easily outside of the country. Mr. Weil is sure it was produced in Vienna. The sculptor's name, inscribed on the base, is C. Curtz, but the name does not offer any clew to the origin of the piece.

Human Decoy for Wolf

The Russian hunter's method of killing wolves is interesting. A great hefty peasant, with yellow hair, snub nose, red face and shining blue eyes, brought an immense wolf's skin to me once and I asked him how he obtained it, says Francesca M. Wilson in the Manchester Guardian. He was standing at the window of his izba one late afternoon, he said, when he saw a wolf walking through the village street. He seized his gun, called a friend and they went in pursuit. The wolf stopped on the top of a hill outside the village and looked at them. To prevent it from running away the second man went down on all fours and moved toward the wolf. He looked, in his heavy sheepskin shuba, for all the world like an animal and the wolf ran back to attack him. When it had come to a convenient distance the hunter shot it.

was Writer Objects to Sweet Mannered Persons

To ordinary human beings few persons are so annoying as those with a consistently sweet manner, says a writer in the London Times. The invariably cheerful are trying in their hearty way; they are easier to bear with equanimity than the invariably sweet.

A robust cheerfulness may easily be put down to insensibility. When our own more delicate nerves and senses are suffering, we may wring consolation and a heartening pride out of comparing ourselves with those who suffer so little that they can keep up their spirits. But about a sweet manner there is always a hint of accusation. It lays claim both to suffering more acute than our own and to superiority to suffering. So far from admitting that pituita is molestathat a cold in the head is a nuisanceit takes toothache but as a call for more sweetness. Wet through, chilled to the bone, even undisguisably rednosed, it is still sweet. The fixity of it becomes maddening. The grave, sweet eye, the sweet smile on the mouth, the slight tilt of the head to one side, the measured and sugared voice, the unalterably sweet and hopeful sentiments, all seem to accuse our more natural selves of being creatures of a lower grade.

We long to bring the sweet one down to our own level, to irritate them somehow into an exhibition of common human crossness or unfairness. And, failing, we take refuge behind the charge that there can be nothing direct and honest left behind the confirmed manner. Sincerity must obviously have long deserted the character that can thus hide itself behind a mask. The sweetness, we vow, is all a pretense, a pretty covering for un-, thinkable depths of guilt and selfishness and hatred. Only fools, of which there are plenty, could be taken in by

Onlooker Dreams of the Origin of Round Cheeses

The damaged brig has for neighbor a bark of humbler degree, a river barge in course of lading with the round cheeses of the country. Tossed from one to another, they pass with mathematical precision through the hands of three stout Dutchmen, before reaching their allotted berth. The onlooker sets about counting them mechanically, till, speculating whose enviably robust appetites they are destined to satisfy, he loses count. . . Of the quiet, level meadows, he dreams where these golden discs had their remote origin. From thence his fancy flies to Alpine pastures, where the cattle feed amid the ceaseless music of their bells. And then to a vale amongst the mountains; it is late evening; he is seated in a garden, in the cool darkness. And out of the darkness and the distance there comes a faint peal, as of a carillon miles away. Closer and closer it draws; surely a chime of bells. But how brought nearer? Not a footfall can he hear, but still the chime advances. Only when it is all but abreast | than April 1, 1925. of where he is seated does he catch the muffled tread of many a hoof upon the road, deep in dust, and know that the kine are pacing homeward, bringing an echo of the mountain's music to the bosom of the plain.-Harry Christopher Minchin, in Talks and

When Wood Duck Nests

Far from its natural element, water, and often a mile or more from the nearest watercourse, the wood duck, unlike other members of its family, usually builds its nest. However, the difficulty of transporting the family from the nest to the feeding grounds is solved in a truly remarkable way. No sooner are the eggs hatched, and the ducklings, about the size of bumblebees, than each parent bird takes a little one in its bill, wriggles through the opening in the chestnut tree or white oak which harbors the nest, and, with a quick glance lest some enemy may lurk near, flies swiftly overland to creek or water hole. Here the tiny burdens are dropped gently into the water. Without previous swimming lessons, these newly hatched mites dart over the surface of the water for the cover of marshgrass or lilypad, where they hide until the return of their parents with more of their brothers and sisters.

Highest Points

The maximum difference in the elevation of land in the United States is 14,777 feet, according to the United States Department of the Interior. Mount Whitney, the highest point, 14,-501 feet above sea level and a point in Death valley is 276 feet below sea level. These two places are both in California and are less than ninety miles apart. This difference is small, however, as compared with that in Asia, says the Compressed Air Magazine. Mount Everest rises 29,002 feet above sea level, whereas the shores of the Dead sea are 1,290 feet below sea level—a total difference of 30,292 feet. In Europe the difference between the highest and lowest land points is about 15,868 feet.

In these days, especially, when the whole country seems "insurgent," and lacking in devotion to union of thought and harmonious action, seems more than ever that those still sane and dependable—old-fashioned in their integrity—should assert the power they have, in their own homes, and demand that only safe and sound reading matter shall come in. We can not afford to be so up-todate as to cut loose from the anchors that have represented safety in the past. There must still be sound foundations under us, and the institutions of our country. There has not yet been invented, substitutes for sterling honesty and plain common sense; nor has any new plan or course been established to take the place of sound morals and the Golden Rule. We lose, almost every time, when we go off after glittering generalities and half-baked promises; when we wife, who survives him, was Miss compromise with morality and general right doing; when we live and care only for self, and take no thought of the responsibility that rests on all of us to have our share in making the world about us better. Taking the real view of the life we live, we must conclude that we are preachers and teachers all; and if we do this, we must guard our homes, and other homes, even in the matter of the sort of popular literature that we patronize. There are evils in this direction that we cannot avoid; but, there is usually the "lesser evil" to choose. It is growing more and more difficult to pick clean and generally wholesome newspapers, but the effort is worth the trial, even to going to the extent of personally protesting to managing editors against the glarobjectionable. Public sentiment cannot be successfully operated against, for long; but the difficult thing is to focus sentiment into a known power and make it an aggressive force-a force demanding the consideration, and final ac-knowledgement, from those who produce reading matter for our daily and weekly consumption.

Congress Has Adjourned.

President Coolidge, last Saturday vetoed the Postal salaries increase bill that would have cost the Postoffice Department $75,000,000 a year. The bill would have increased the salaries of Postmasters and Carriers pretty generally. The President acmpanied his veto with a lengthy letter to Congress defending his action. He considered it extravagance, and not possible to finance without a heavy tax through the means of increased postal rates on the public. Congress adjourned last Saturday night, with the Senate keeping up its record for crankiness, with the result that the urgency deficiency bill was defeated, including provisions for paying the bonus to soldiers, and the Navy bill, on which both houses had agreed. The defeats were due to Senators killing time in debate, and refusing to agree to a vote until they had been heard, which consumed all of the time until the gavel fell.

President Coolidge says he will put the operation of the bonus compensation law in effect, at once, despite the failure to provide funds; that, while he opposed the law, he will see that it is promptly placed in opera-

Apparently, Republicans, Demo-crats and Insergents are all pleased with results, especially on the session having furnished all sides with campaign issues—which was one of the main objects of the session.

Is Your Birth Registered?

Scarcely a week passes without an urgent request being received at the State Department of Health from somebody who is in a great hurry to find out whether his birth was duly registered. The latest call came from a man in Western Maryland who was getting ready to sail for Europe and who needed the information in order to secure his passport. Luckily for his peace of mind, the information was available. But Dr. F. V. Beitler, chief of the Bureau of Vital Statistics, tells of another man, a Baltimorean, who was going on a business trip to China, and who sought similar information without any results. So far as records were concerned, he had never been born. Both parents were dead, and so as their old family physician, but fortunately for the young man, the testimony of an older brother, given under oath before a notary, was accepted, and the passport was granted. Every local registrar in the state, could tell similar stories of the requests received each year, for such information, to prove the right to property, to establish inheritances, and for many other purposes.

Whenever a birth is recorded, the State Department of Health sends a card to the parents certifying that fact. These cards should be put away very carefully because they may be needed throughout the entire life of the individual, to establish certain
