CARROLL'S FRUIT HURT BY FREEZE.

Items of Interest to County Farm Operations.

The Westminster raw milk supply now comes from herds that have been tested for Bovine Tuberculosis. Dr. Henderson, Federal T. B. Inspector tested all the herds during the past week and all reactors have been removed for slaughter. This is a movement in the right direction which should have been put on years ago. Dr. Stone was instrumental in getting the testing put across. The other towns in the country should see to it that their milk supply comes from T. B. free herds.

Mr. John Conover Dairy Specialist and spoke in the Farm Bureau meetings at Berrett Thursday, and Manchester Friday nights. "Dairy Herd Improvement" was his subject. Kill the Scrub Bull and keep only high producing cows means economical production of milk.

Due to the freeze last week, the fruit crop of Carroll was cut in half. 1st. Some orchards will not have a peach, and only a few apples. Due to the fact that most orchards are made up of a high percentage of Yorks we will have about a 60 percent apple crop. This variety was not affected much by the freeze. The fruit south of Westminster was not hurt much while the West and North was pretty much

Due to the fact that Georgia has only ½ crop, Virginia 1/3, none in the west. Everybody having any peaches in Carroll should follow the spray service available through the county agent very closely, peaches mean money this year. Get them and get them clean, means spray.

Motor-cycle Rider Killed by Truck.

R. N. Loggins, aged 28 years of Washington was instantly killed, last riday afternoon, when run over by u milk truck owned by the Montgomated by Allen T. Howard, near Bethesda, Montgomery County. Mr. Loggins is said to have lost control of the motor-cycle, and fell off.

Both machines were moving toward Rockville. The motor cycle had just passed the truck and was such a short distance in front that it was impossible for the truck to stop on the sharp incline before running over the When picked up Loggins was dead, his body having been badly crushed. A coroner's jury decided accident unavoidable and the truck driver was released.

Mr. Loggins, was employed in Washington. His widow was Miss Evelyn Evans, daughter of Mr. and William E. Evans, and a niece of Mrs. Lavina Fringer, of Taney-

A Great Meeting in Baltimore.

A great meeting, in the interest of the campaign to raise $500,000 for the endowment of Western Maryland College, will be held in Baltimore, on Friday evening, May 8, at 6:30 o'clock at the Maryland Casualty Building, 40th. St. and Cedar Ave.

We are planning to have an attendance at this meeting of 1,000 interested friends of the College. All former students and all friends of the College are urged to attend. We want to make this a great mass-meeting in the interest of this movement. It will be promotional and inspirational character, and it is not proposed to take subscription at this meeting.

It is a matter of vital interest to all citizens of Carroll County. A movement, which seeks to build up a great college in this county and to into the county hundreds of thousands of dollars from outside the county, ought to stir the pride of every public spirited citizen. We want to get at least 250 persons to go from Carroll County to this meeting.

Anyone, not having an automobile, may call up Mr. Carroll Albaugh, Westminster, Md., the Chairman of the Citizens' Comittee, who will see that a way is provided.

Tickets for the supper will be $1.00, A. N. WARD, Pres. W. N. Col.

The Lincoln Gettysburg Car.

The W. M. R. R., the owner of the car in which President Lincoln rode to Gettysburg, has announced its willingness to donate the car to the Pennsylvania Lincoln Association, and to transport the car to Gettysburg, free of charge. It is in this car in which President Lincoln is believed to have jotted down the sentences of his speech.

The services of the W. M. will also be available for restoring the car to plan is to preserve it as well as place it on exhibition. A number of firms have offered their services for refit-creditors.

Samuel Rea, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, has suggested that the car be shown in towns and cities throughout the State, and has offer-ed to transport the coach without cost over the Pennsylvania lines for that purpose.

Because of the peculiar historical significance attached to the old car, the Lincoln Highway Association plans to exhbit it at the Sesqui-Centennial in Philadelphia next year, after to hothly creditors.

Mr. Miller, by the way, states that he knew nothing of the article until after it appeared in the magazine; that he had always refused to be interviewed with reference to his carerr, and that the information was gathered from various sources.

GRADE CROSSING

United Effort by Railroads to Lessen Number of Accidents,

The Railroads of the country are uniting in efforts to reduce the number of grade crossing accidents, mainly due to automobiles crossing tracks without due care. There are thousands of such accidents every year, that proper care could prevent. Some states have passed laws requiring every car to make a full stop at crossings when the track is not in full sight each way, for a considerable distance.

A campaign of education has been planned by the use of posters, the radio, and by other means, to try to prevent autoists from trying to "beat the train." The campaign will run during the months of June, July, August and September.

As a result of the campaign conducted last year there was an actual reduction from June 1 to September 30 (the period during which the cam-paign was in progress) of fifteen per cent., compared with the corresponding period the preceding year, in the number of persons who lost their lives as a result of highway crossing accidents. At the same time there was an increase of seventeen percent. in the number of motor vehicles in

The railroads are not to blame for these accidents, and it is quite impossible for them to employ watchmen at all crossings. It is up to car and truck drivers not to "take a chance" but to observe the old caution "Stop, Look and Listen."

New School for Gettysburg.

Gettysburg is to have a new 18 class rooms school building for $100,-000, to be ready for opening this Fall. B. E. Starr, formerly of Littlestown, but now of Harrisburg, is the architect for the building and completed plans are to be submitted in the very near future, after which a call for bids will be made.

The School Board gave the taxpayers of the town a surprise by announcing $75,000 of the amount is available without borrowing and that outstanding bond issues have been so far reduced that whatever remainder may be needed can be borrowed without a referendum vote. Financing looking toward the erection of the building has been quietly going on for several years. The result will be no increase in taxes.

The architect's plans call for thoroughly modern structure with an auditorium and gallery equipped to seat nearly 1000 people, a gymnasium, cafeteria for rural pupils, 18 classrooms and all other equip-ment needed for present-day school The structure will be large enough to take care of the town's needs for many years to come, but will be built to permit enlargement at a later date. It will stand on the Kurtz Memorial playground, a tract of 11 acres donated to. Gettysburg some years ago by William B. Kurtz of Philadelphia, and later made a memorial to his son, who lost his life in the World War. contains football and baseball fields, swimming pool and other equipment needed for school athletic purposes.

Sheriffs, deputy sheriffs, county detectives, constables, police officers of any municipality, State police and highway patrolmen in uniform or who show their badges may inspect motor vehicles in any public garage or repair shop for the purpose of lo-

It presumes that headlights project a dangerous and dazzling light if the top of any main beam of light projected twenty-five feet ahead on an approximate level, strikes any object at a height greater than the distance of the centers of the headlights from the highway.

Illegal headlight sales are prohibited, and light must be equipped with bulbs of twenty-one candlepower. The act also makes provision for the use of parking lights along all high-ways, but cities and boroughs may by ordinance establish zones in which cars may park without lights.

Mechanical devices may be used for precautionary signals and signal-ing is required, either by device or hand, when turning, slowing down, stopping or reversing. Parking along State highways is permissible if at least two wheels of the car are off the improved portion of the roadway. No parking is allowed on sharp curves or turns where there is not an unobstructed view for 500 feet.

Jail Breakers Captured.

The four prisoners who escaped from Westminster jail, last week, were captured in a body in a woods on Isaiah Harner's farm, 4 miles from Littlestown, last Friday shortly before noon. They made no attempt to get away, and are said to have contemplated returning, as they were suffering from want of food.

Mr. Harner had seen the men and suspected who they were, and notified Sheriff Sheeler, of Adams County who in turn reported to the Carroll County authorities. Deputy Sheriff Shipley and State's Attorney Brown took them back to jail.

He also said that ministers ought to pay toward world

USEFUL FACTS FOR FARMERS

Experimental Work Reported by Univ. of Md. Station.

Agricultural research work at the University of Maryland Experiment Station during the past year has been productive of many valuable and interesting results and observa-tions. Some of these which can be put to work for the farmers of the State are pointed out as follows by Dr. H. J. Patterson, director:

Orchard Fruits: In orchard fertilization nitrogen proved of special value to peaches on all soils, and to apples on sandy soils and on all soils when the orchard was in sod. Natrogen was not of much value to apples in cultivated orchards, with cover crops, on heavy soils.

Potatoes: The results obtained in the study of the relation of potato sprouts to seed value would seem to mark a distinct advance in the methods which should be used for selecting and certifying potatoes.

The potato grower who desires to procure high yields and produce high class seed should test the potatoes to determine the character and vigor of the sprouts. A strong, vigorous sprout will not be a guarantee that the tuber is free from all diseases, but it will indicate its ability to resist disease and produce a crop. A weak, spindly sprout indicates that the tuber should be discarded and never used for seed.

In tests to find a variety of late potatoes to substitute for the Mc-Cormick, which is no longer reliable on account of the mosaic disease, comparisons were made with Dakota Red, Michigan Rural Russett, Scotch Rural and Rural New Yorker. The yielding abilities of these varieties stood in the order in which they are named. The Dakota Red can be recommended to yield well under the same conditions and treatment as given the McCormick variety. The tests of varieties of late potatoes would seem to indicate and establish as a rule that the date of planting should be the number of weeks before probable frost required for the given variety to mature. In other words, a variety which requires twelve weeks to mature should be planted about two weeks later than a variety which requires fourteen weeks to mature.

Sweet Potatoes: Tests with sweet potatoes showed that acid soils should be limed for best results. On acid soils lime produced a greater increase in yield than any fertilizer. Appli-cations of both lime and fertilizer, however, are recommended and will prove profitable.

Wheat: The study of environment Wheat: The study of environment factors which influence wheat yields we were told, that our spinach seed have made it possible to classify certain group types or variety families Peidmont Plateau in general is a region where smooth wheats do best and can be recommended for produc-tion. For the Coasted Plain to the ter. east the limestone valleys to the west the bearded or Fulcaster wheats are preferable. Indications are that the difference in behavior is largely due to the relative susceptibility of the varieties to disease.

Wheat following soybeans for hay yields about two bushels more per acre than wheat following corn.

Comparisons of yields of different varieties of wheat grown at the Experiment Station show the striking advantage of the higher yielding varieties. If 100 is taken to represent the yield of all the varieties of wheat grown at the Experiment Station in 1890, the best five varieties in that year would show a relative producing capacity of 114; and the best five now being grown would show a relative yielding capacity of 126. The newest selection, Mammoth Red, would show a yielding capacity of 139. If the entire crop of wheat in Maryland was planted with the best five varieties now established, the total annual production in the State would probably be increased 100,000 bush-Surveys indicate that 70 percent of the farmers of Maryland are using varieties advocated by the Experiment Station.

Corn: Variety tests with corn the past year confirmed and emphasized the results previously obtained with southern prolific varieties for silage. These varieties gave from five eight tons more silage per acre than the varieties recommended for mature grain in this section. The difference in grain yield is usually only about five bushels per acre so that the quality of the silage is not materially affected.

Soybeans: The Virginia and Wilson varieties are recommended for Mary-When they are grown for hay they should be seeded at the rate of seven pecks per acre. The first soy-beans grown in Maryland were seed-ed on the Experiment Station farm in 1888. There are now more than 40,000 acres grown in the State each year. The value of the crop from an acre is about three times that received from an acre of wheat. Soybeans should not be grown continuously on the same land for more than two years as diseases will develop which will reduce the yields.

Soybeans for hay should be seeded between May 20 and June 10. To obtain the best yields and quality of feed they should be harvested in from 90 to 105 days after the plants first appear above ground.

UNION COAL LOSING OUT.

Can Not Compete Against the Non-Union Product.

The situation in the Union Coal fields, of Pennsylvania is becoming serious, as the output of the mines competes directly with non-union mines, and the effect is being felt on many financial interests connected with union mines. Two banks closed in the Pittsburg region, on Monday, thought to be handicapped because of the coal situation, and the whole question is being considered serious-

The labor disadvantage of union mines is about thirty-five percent, due to the wage scale signed in February last year, with the result that about two-thirds of the coal business in union fields has gone over to the non-union operators, because of about 40 cents per ton difference in production costs.

A typical example, says the Black Diamond, is the Pittsburgh Coal Company, of Pittsburgh, which owns fifty-eight mines. For the last fifteen months only eighteen mines have been working, and within the last month sixteen mines have been dismantled, meaning a cash loss of millions of dollars, on the inventory. It recently was announced that of the eighteen mines in operation six would be closed down.

To continue in business and fulfill its contracts, the Pittsburgh company went into the non-union fields and purchased 2,000,000 tons of coal at a cheaper price than it could have produced, says the publication.

Of 300. mines in Illinois large enough to merit the term "mine," says the Black Diamond, fewer than one hundred are working today, and of 100,000 Illinois miners, considerably more than 50,000 are out of work, and have been for many months.

The difference in the cost of production in non-union Western Kentucky and union Illionis is so great, says the publication, that the freight differential is wiped out and the nonunion coal enjoys a material price advantage in the Chicago market, which consumes nearly one-fifth of all the bituminous coal produced in the United States.

The union scales, therefore, is not paying the miners, and the mine operators are facing complete paralysis of their business.

Home-makers' Club Meeting.

The April meeting of the Homemakers' Club was especially helpful owing to our having with us County Agent Fuller. As most appropriate for the season, his subject for discussion was "Gardening," what, when, where and how to plant. What to use for forcing the leaf vegetables and how to keep free from the tiny lice which so often destroys our plants.

As a community, we do not grasp the opportunity of real help which we could get from our County Agents just for the asking. Why not join the Home-makers' Club? The dues are only 50 cents a year; dues, just that we may have a little money to do things for our own benefit, a bit selfish perhaps.

Final arrangements were made at this time for the planting of shrubbery around our Soldier's Memorial. This has been under advisement for some time. Most of the labor attend-ing this bit of landscape gardening, as also the arrangement, was the work of Mr. Fuller. The shrubbery is tiny, but very healthy, and will soon grow to make at least one spot of beauty in our midst

The War Not Yet Over.

If it was the world war that is responsible for the tremendously inflated and unequally distributed present prices, then we have not yet safely emerged from the past war period. If it be true that following big wars, a readjustment panic usually comes, er from the trigger and the hand then we have been merely putting off from the knife or the poison bottle. the panic, for there has been no readjustment that is anything like fair and equal.

In our humble opinion, this country has yet to face an adjusting process that may have serious results. There are too many "feet in the trough" for them to be taken out through mere moral suasion, for nobody wants to surrender "the nuts" they came into familarity with during war times; so there may be conflict-a war-still to come, unless some as yet unknown plan can be discovered that will bring peacable readjustment.

For a few years, we have been putting off this trouble through the taxation process and bond issues. We have been indulging in stimulants that are not cures. No one class, nor a dozen classes, can continue to enjoy "war prices" and "war wages" without final payment coming from all classes, and it is from among these "all classes" that protest will finally. come, for the limit of high taxes has about been reached.

When the taxpayers stop paying higher taxes, then look out for trouble, especially if they get together and assert their strength. If they are but it will not help the situationonly bring about further complications, more serious, perhaps, than this country has ever experienced. We fear that the war is actually not

This country must reach a point of something like equalized pay for our many classes of labor and products; and this point must "stay put"-if we ever get it. This thing of organized force continually upsetting values and calculations, must come to a stop for unless it does, we will merely have a never ending procession of unfairness. If there must be a fight along this line, let us have it and be done with it.

Alarming Increase in Crime.

The increase in crime in the United States is alarming, and the population of our jails is the highest since 1916, two-thirds of which are under 21 years of age, and it is this latter fact that furnishes the greatest opportunity for thought. It may be startling, but the American murder record is twice that of Italy, while we have been blaming our foreign population for its "criminal classes."

Neither can the increase in crime be blamed on prohibition, for most of our young criminals have not been habituated to drink-the Leopold-Loeb class has been growing, as well as the "spoiled boy" class, and it is It strikes one pleasurably to think the home, and its closely allied institutions, that must be looked to for the solution. Perhaps it is too much financially able to invest, and went money to spend, and not enough leg- to the expense of telling him of an op-

And even when a criminal-especially a young one—is apprehended under our laws, we straightway urge youth as an excuse, and the law penalty is avoided; so, we must face the truth that there is rottenness, unhealthy idealism, and rank carelessness, growing up right in the midst of every community, that is being restraints of our youth. The Phila delphia Ledger comments at length on the figures of crime, then says;

"Our police efficiency, compared with Europe, is not high, and we are giving our police too much to handle. Yet we cannot blame crime increase upon the policeman. There has been no lack of law, and every crime stirs our lawmakers to new efforts. The Leopold-Loeb case brought a flood of such attempts. Chicago's McClintock-Shepherd affair is causing more emands for further restrictions upon hospitals and laboratories where disease germs are examined or studied. Ours is a mania for trying to cure ocial ills, new or old, by a mass of laws, regulations, ordinances, societies, committees and commissions. No for us. It quickens us, and it makes country has more laws. None is making more laws. They go upon the statute books of States and Nation in literal thousands every year. Our Federal, State and municipal "Thou-Shalt-Nots" total millions of

Most of these are aimed at the symptoms of the crime-disease instead of at its causes. We seem to forget that character cannot be enacted by Congress or decreed by General Assembly. In its final analysis our trouble comes back to the home and the parent, to the church and the school. Home and parent have left too much to the school and church. The school, in the matter of traditional moralities, has left too much to the church. Finally, the mass of Americans have left too muct to the law. The public, in a kind of dazed desperation, demands and gets-more and more laws.

There is no occasion for wild alarm but there is need for recognition that character is character; that from it flow actions good or evil; that laws do not make character and that train-ing and discipline in home, church and school do make it. Men cannot be made good by law alone. Some thing more than law must stiffen mental and moral fiber, keep the fing-

The Dearborn Independent gives the following, as an example:

"You take up your morning's mail. In a plain white, seemingly harmless envelope you discover a circular. It starts out by citing how $100 invest-ed in. the Such-and-Such Company (always one of the great industrial enterprises of the country) in a comparatively short time netted the lucky investor $10,000 to $100,000.

It is a never-failing earmark of promotion literature that it tells of a million or so, made by somebody or other, who "got in on the ground floor" of This-or-That Company. Nearly always the instances cited are exaggerated beyond reason, the facts are distorted and the appeal is written with a complete understanding of the cupidity of human nature.

At the bottom of the circular you read of a new industrial venture which is going to make its initial stockholders inordinately wealthy. All you have to do is fill out the accompanying coupon and a block of stock will be reserved for you. If this is your first circular holding out promises of great fortune with the least expenditure of effort and money, take notice; you have been placed upon the Sucker List and your mail henceforth will be heavy and your pocketbook lighter if you listen to the glittering promises held forth."

The Gladsome Season.

When a warm sun shines in April young and old are of one mind. The desire to get outdoors is universal. While the call may differ widely, it is fostered by lack of parental and other to the open air. To the farmer it says to plow and get ready to put in the crops. To the suburbanite it may mean cleaning off the garden patch. To others it spells golf. To the school-boy the ballground beckons. When it is pleasant to be outdoors we feel that it is good to' be alive. A warm sun compensates for, a lot of cold and stormy days. In fact, the winter enables us to appreciate the change. Did we have an equable climate, were the weather always pleasant, we might weary of the monotony. We would grow slothful as do those who live in tropical lands. A measure of frost is good us prize the more the opposite when it comes.

In modern life there is so much individuality that we might forget how our forebears lived, did not the spring urge remind us that we have not outgrown entirely the delight with which they welcomed the return of the sun so that they might emerge from their caves or cease from shivering in the trees. We have overcome many of the unpleasant features of life of a few thousand years ago, but we believe the joy with which we welcome the passing of winter is a resurgence of the feeling that beat in the breast of some long ago barbaric grand-daddy in the forests of Europe or looking out on an. Asiatic landscape. He could be warm again without effort and was glad.

In this age, while we may greet the return of the sun for a different reason, we are glad, too.—Frederick

Scientists Now Know

Composition of Atom Fifty years ago, remarks Sir Oliver Lodge, we did not know the atom had a structure; but it has now delivered up its secret, and is found to consist of very minute and concentrated electric charges revolving round a nucleus, as the planets revolve round the sun. The discovery is quite recent that the same system of law and order that reigns through the heavens holds equally in the interior of the atom, so that there is an atomic astronomy growing up before our eyes, leading us to wonder if there is any limit to smallness any more than there is any limit to bigness, says the London Mail.

Among all these immensities man may appear insignificant and hampered by his animal ancestry. He has much to contend against and overcome. Sometimes he' seems evil and ugly, but he is immature. He is in the process of making.

They chatted for some minutes on a variety of subjects, and at last Owen, wishing to get away before the subject of the debt was raised, said: "What's the time, old man?"

Rogers pulled out his watch and, regarding it with a frown, replied: "Well, it's about time that you repaid that money.' "Oh," exclaimed Owen in alarm, "I had no idea that it was as late as that. I must be off. Good-by, old

"Rod in Pickle"

The annual slaughter resultant from the British shooting season has long made the brine tub necessary as a means of eliminating loss and waste. To rural Britain the third Sunday in November was long known as "Salting Sunday." In by-gone days the saltings along the Essex coast were valuable properties, for salt being then obtained by evaporation only, the deposit from the tidal waters year after year, amounted to no small quantity. Year after year to the saltings came the farmers in their big lumbering wagons, bent on exchanging their surplus live stock for the necessary preservative at the then current rate of one sheep for two bushels of salt. It can be understood from this how the spilling of salt came to be regarded with superstitious feelings, and to to be deemed unlucky. Another old saying: "I have a rod in pickle for you," also originated about this time. Children in those days were sternly dealt with, and a bundle of twigs was quite often kept in soak in the family brine-tub in order to render it supple.

Leaders in Glass Making

The name of Chance is inseparably connected with scientific glass making, the world over. This name represents the best in connection with microscopes, telescopes, laboratory ware, and, in fact, wherever glass of high quality is employed. This great British firm, which celebrated its hundred years of existence last year, has a romantic record in glass-making. The Crystal palace, originally erected in Hyde park, was glazed with 100,000 square feet of Chance's sheet glass. Until the war they were the only British manufacturers of optical glass, and the large astronomical telescopes of many of the world's biggest observatories are fitted with their lenses. Lighthouses, too, on all the coasts of the world flash their beams from prisms produced at the well-known Smethwick works .- London Times.

DUCK RAISING IS WORTH CONSIDERING

The average farm has all the facilities which are necessary for the raising of a goodly number of ducks and with a little outlay may add considerably to the farm income from that

Duck raising in some sections of the country has become a greatly specialized industry. It is hardly advisable for the average person to go into it extensively, at least not until he has become acquainted with handling ducks on a smaller scale. However, ducks do afford a side line to the regular poultry business of the farm that is worthy of the consideration of the average person.

The houses which are needed for ducks are simple affairs. They are plain and comfortable and need very little furnishings. Generally on every farm there is a small shed or building that can be used for this purpose. Warmth is not essential to the extent that is necessary with hens, but if it is dry and protected it will generally serve the purpose. Ducks should not be closely confined.

Artificial incubation and brooding are used almost entirely by the large producers of ducks, but under most farm conditions the incubation and brooding will be mostly done by hens or by ducks. Before the hens are put on the eggs and again before the ducklings are given to her she should be thoroughly dusted with insecticides. The nest should be watched for lice and treated as may be necessary.

The feed of the ducks in nature is both vegetable and animal. In the wild state they get a great deal of their food along the creeks and marshes. This type of food needs to be imitated to some extent. The duck has no crop like the chicken, the food passing directly to the gizzard and as a consequence they are not fitted for as much hard food as chickens. In fact, a large number of the professional raisers depends largely on soft foods. However, under farm conditions where the ducks have free range the problem is not so difficult and most of the additional feed will be grains. Feed that is adapted to producing growth on chickens will answer the purpose for ducklings without going to the expense and inconvenience of mixing additional rations. The main difference that will be noted by the beginner is that the ducklings make a faster growth and therefore they will consume a larger amount of food.

Sick Fowls Afterwards

Are Usually Worthless When a fowl becomes ailing and emaciated it most often denotes either a tubercular condition or coccidiosis. Such hens, should they recover, are poor layers and are apt to pass their weaknesses to their offspring. Seldom will they get well and fatten to marketable condition, so it is a moneysaving method to kill and burn their

As the majority of poultry diseases are contagious, retaining such birds menaces the present health of the flock, as well as the vigor of future ones. Often one sees an emaciated hen walking stiff-legged about a henhouse. Such birds almost always die without human aid, but while alive very likely infect other fowls as well as the yard where the remainder of the flock runs. Whole flocks are often devastated through the owner's neglect of destroying worthless individual

If flock owners realized that through ignoring such present menaces they are inviting weakly flocks in ensuing years, more importance would be placed on the necessity for immediately killing and burning hens or growing stock that becomes ailing, especially those which get decidedly poor in flesh, an almost unfailing tubercular indication.

In warm weather the hens can be dipped in a solution of sodium fluoride made by dissolving an ounce of the material in a gallon of water.

Salt in excess is poisonous to chickens. If salty water is thrown where chickens can drink it or if salt is mixed with the feed in quantity chickens may | "cob money."

Few Have, or Acquire, Good Thinking Habits

The average man works about eight hours a day, or is supposed to. The rest of the time is divided about equally, so the theory runs, between recreation and sleep.

Of the 16 waking hours how many are devoted to thinking? Psychologists tell us that a tenth is a liberal allowance, and, in actual practice, from that down. Only a little more than an hour and a half out of the twenty-four occupied in thinking!

Thinking is one of the most difficult and trying of occupations, says Collier's. Were this not so it is probable that we might spend more time at it. To prove this, try to concentrate your mind on the book you have just read; on the lecture you have recently listened to; on the important interview you have just had. Try to remember and recount to yourself, item by item, just as much as you can of the thing you read or listened to. It will tire you out. Unless you have trained yourself to the task your mind will wander-you will lose the thread.

Psychologists recommend the cultivation of thinking habits; they recommend less reading and more thinking about what you have read and heard

"As we do this well or ill," says John Stuart Mill, "so will we discharge well or ill the duties of our several callings."

Glass Flowers Close

Imitation of Nature

Marvelous artificial blooms that resemble nature's finest specimens in every respect except scent, are now being made by expert glassblowers. Every part of the flower or plant is faithfully reproduced, from the long, delicate stems and colored petals to the almost invisible pollen.

The first thing which the maker of these wonderful blooms does is to blow the petals from glass as thin and fragile as tissue paper. The glass petals are then shaped and colored exactly like the natural ones. Some of the rarer plants cannot be easily reproduced, and often several experiments have to be carried out with different colors before a really good imitation is obtained.

These glass flowers are used extensively in museums, both to show details of plant or flower formation and as backgrounds for displaying specimens of birds and beasts.

Antiquity and Whiskers

Tradition says that Adam wore a full beard. That is quite a natural supposition since that was before the time of razor advertisements. Beautifully executed bas reliefs have left no doubt that the early Persian kings cultivated whiskers. In fact, for further adornment they plaited them with golden thread. The Winged Bulls of Assyria are but types of those The Chinese are a shaven people; the Egyptians were the same. But the Mohammedans are bearded, and Saladin's son, Turkish historians tell us, wept for fear when he saw the shaven envoys of the Crusaders. The world is, and always has been, divided into shavers and bearded. The greatest benefactor of barbers in the world's history was Alexander. He, who shaved himself to preserve his youth, shaved his army to prevent the enemy seizing their beards.

Venetian Glass

Venice has long led the world in the manufacture of beautiful glassware. Glass works were early established in that city and the taking of Constantinople in 1204 gave the Venetians the opportunity of acquiring additional knowledge of the art. During the Fourteenth century beads, false stones, and imitations of jewels, rather than cups and the like, seem to have been the chief productions of the Venice workman. Venetian glass is usually of extreme thinness, being nearly always blown, and there is an endless variety to be found in the shapes and in the application of color. Glass-blowing, like throwing clay on the potter's wheel, induces beautiful curved forms and strength of substance.

of the Trout Streams."

The "cob dollar" was a Spanish dollar which at one time had wide circulation in the United States. In 1778, when the articles of confederation were adopted, the cob or Spanish dollar was used in practically all business transactions throughout the colonies. Owing to its convenience it was adopted with slight change as our standard dollar. Even the dollar sign originated on these cob dollars coined in Spain and her American colonies. The smaller Spanish coins representing fractions of the cob dollar were called

Your Last Name

IS IT SILLIMAN?

THE Silliman family in the United States was founded by Daniel Silliman who came from Holland. The tradition is, however, that the family originated in Italy and there is enough in the sound of the name to bear out this tradition. One of Daniel Silliman's descendants was Gold Selleck Silliman, a brigadier general in the Revolution and his son was Benjamin Silliman, born in 1779, who was a well known American chemist. He founded the American Journal of Science and art. His son Benjamin Silliman, born in 1816, was a chemist and physicist also well known.

Strange and Strang-These names are sometimes merely different forms of the same surname, but there is reason to believe that Strange sometimes has a different origin. There is a surname Lestrange, originally L'estrange, and Strange is sometimes derived from this, with the meaning of stranger or foreigner. However, Strang usually is from Strong, Strang being the peculiar north of England way of pronouncing that adjective. In this case it is merely a descriptive surname.

Sir Robert Strange, an eminent line engraver who was born in Orkney, in 1721, was a member of a distinguished Scotch family whose name is sometimes spelled Strang or Strange.

Thibaut-As a surname this is derived from the first name that in France has the forms Theudobald, Thiebault, Thiebaud and Tibaut, and in England Theodebald and Theobald. (@ by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

TOWN JUDGED BY ITS HOTELS

Point That They Are an Asset or a Detriment Would Seem to Be Well Taken.

One of the western counties, its leading newspaper says, will have completed by the end of 1923 some of the best roads in Kentucky. The result will be increased business. "What," asks the newspaper, "should we do with the added opportunity good roads will create?" The answer is in part as follows: "We should have a campaign to promote courtesy to all who come this way. . . . Princeton should not allow anyone to enter the city and leave without a desire to return. . . . His going away dissatisfied will insure against his sending another here." Large cities depend greatly upon the quality of their hotels for popularity. The hotels are not municipal enterprises. They are, if good, assets of the municipality. If they are inadequate in size or in equipment, and if the fare they offer is not up to reasonable requirements, the city suffers severely in reputation. The village tavern which was like a private home accommodating wayfarers has, in most county capitals, given place to a hotel in which there is no visible effort to live up to community standards of kitchen management and household supervision. The result is that travelers, whether "drumming" for mercantile establishments or touring for pleasure, are little attracted to smalltown hotels. Small towns and cities cannot compete with large cities in the size and the gilded splendor of their hotels. There should be no effort in that direction. Better a modest hotel, modestly equipped, and a table the guest will remember and compliment, than a pretentious hotel built at ruinous cost, operated at a loss to stockholders whose investment reflects civic pride, not business judgment, and giving the guest nothing to enjoy or re-

BENEFIT IN OWNING HOME

call but indifferent imitation of large

Man With Stake in the Community Cannot Help but Be a Better Citizen.

The great value in owning a home is the new outlook the home owner has on life. Instead of being merely a renter, a more or less dissatisfied member of a large floating population, with the signing of the mortgages he becomes a citizen, a factor in his community, the owner of something in whose growth and development he can take honest pride. The result is that he finds his ambitions clarified and focussed now that he has a definite, tangible object for which to work. He has assumed certain responsibilities, and in their discharge he takes not only interest but genuine pride.

A great business man, on being asked advice he would give man starting out in life, replied "Get in debt." By this he meant that the assumption of financial obligations with a definite object in view furnished the necessary balancing influence which would steady a man and set him a mark to achieve. There is no doubt that the purchase of a home makes a man a better citizen and more ambitious to succeed in his business; it puts him in a class to which it is a privflege to belong—the class which is the responsible element in the community -the great and steady growing class of home-owning citizens.

City of Good Neighbors. In book II of Mary S. Haviland's 'Modern Physiology, Hygiene and Health," we read:

"I suppose no city ever had a more marked character or a greater influence than the city of Athens, which was a center of beauty and culture for the whole ancient world.

"And the reason was that it was a city of good neighbors.

"It is said that every Athenian, when he came of age to vote, took a solemn oath not only never to injure his city in any way, but to serve and work for it so that he might leave it a better, finer city than he found it.

"And the Athenians lived up to this promise so well that even today, after hundreds and hundreds of years, we admire the wonderful city of Athens."

Water Works Makes Money.

Warren's (Ohio) municipal water works showed a balance of more than $90,000 in its treasury for the year of 1922, after all expenses had been paid, a report issued by City Auditor George T. Hecklinger shows. The surplus was turned over to the sinking fund and was used in the redemption of outstanding city bonds.

Unreasonable to Expect. The late director of the special branch of service at Scotland Yard, Sir Basil Thompson, tells a story apropos of the peculiar reactions of war. It happened at Shoeburyness, where a live shell fell in the mud in the midst of a class of young gunners. "Lie down, gentlemen," shouted the instructor, and no one moved. When the shell had been rendered harmless, he asked why they had not obeyed orders; they might all have been blown to pieces. One of them faltered, "Well, sir, it was so muddy."

Peas Should Be in All Gardens

Several Other Standard Vegetables Are Entitled to Good Attention.

Peas ought to be in every garden the whole season through. Alaska for the earliest, Fillbasket to follow Alaska, and possibly Gradus or Nott's Excelsior will more than supply you with early varieties. Main crop varieties to furnish you peas to can for winter include Dwarf Champion, which is far and away the best variety for the small

The biggest and best sweet pepper is considered to be the Chinese Giant. Ruby King is another well known mango pepper but usually not as good as the Chinese Giant. Then among the hot peppers there is Red Cayenne, and a little of this pepper will go a long

Among the pumpkins one of my favorites is the Cushaw, says a writer in the Successful Farming. Some classify it among the squash, for it has the shape of a squash in some measure, but it makes a pie like pumpkin. Sugar, and Buff Pie or Quaker Pie are first-class pumpkins, and, by the way, it is a mistake not to have pumpkins to put away for winter, so plant enough.

Table Queen Squash. There is a new squash, commonly termed Table Queen, which ought to be in every garden. It is a small individual size, fine baker and a good keeper. Plant these and one larger late variety and you can even get along without sweet potatoes if you find them hard to grow.

The early squash comes along at a time when your appetite is just set for them. The White Bush Scallop and the Summer Bush Crookneck varieties are standards.

Radishes are usually about the first things out in a garden, or at least radishes generally make the first returns. Besides the early ones such as Early Bird, Scarlet Turnip, and all those, have a few summer radishes such as Icicle or Chartier, and try just a few of those winter radishes, such as Chinese Rose Winter, one of the best, or Celestial, or Scarlet China.

With tomatoes for the home garden you will make no mistake with Earliara, Chalk's Jewel, New Stone, and Ponderosa.

Turnips in Abundance.

Turnips in abundance will be had from one or two ounces of early seed, or if you eat as few as some of us, a packet or so of early seed. White Milan, Sarly Snowball are good early varieties. Late varieties, of which you should plant in order to store plenty for winter, include White Egg, or the old standby, Purple-top Strap Leaf.

In addition to these standard vegetables you are going to lose half the fun and good of your garden if you fail to raise some of the special crops such as salsify, endive, kohl-rabi, okra, parsley, kale and the many other odds and ends that after all make a variety of foods that not only please the appetite but return dividends in health.

Oiled Paper Wrappers

to Control Apple Scald

The use of oiled paper wrappers, developed recently by the bureau of plant industry, United States Department of Agriculture, to control scald in boxed apples, has now become common among apple growers. These wrappers have not controlled apple scald completely, but they have caused such a marked reduction in this trouble that the trade recognizes them as an essential part of the industry.

Another method of using oiled paper developed by the department is in the shredded form for the prevention of scald in barreled apples. Paper in this form was tried out for some time experimentally and last year a number of commercial growers in the East used it to a small extent. It has been found that 11/2 pounds of the shredded oiled paper, well distributed through the barrel, produces fairly satisfactory re-

Believe Legumes Enrich

Soil by Using Nitrogen The clovers, alfalfa, beans, peas, in fact all the legumes, are believed to enrich the soil by taking part of their nitrogen from the air and leaving large stores of this element of plant growth in the soil for following crops. This is true if the legume be inoculated with a bacteria which forms nodules on the roots of the plant as they gather nitrogen from the air. The species of bacteria generally differ for the different legumes. This makes it necessary usually to inoculate the seed or soil for a legume the first time it is grown in a field. There are a few exceptions to this rule, such as alfalfa after sweet clover.

THE TIME HAS COME!!

Western Maryland's Opportunity Depends Upon Carroll County!

CAMPAIGN TO RAISE $375,000 FOR ENDOWMENT TO MEET THE CONDITIONAL APPROPRIATION OF THE STATE OF MARYLAND OF $125,000 FOR A BUILDING AND THE CONDITIONAL GIFT OF THE GENERAL EDUCATION BOARD OF $125,000 FOR ENDOWMENT, WILL BE PUT ON MAY 11-18. EVERY FRIEND OF THE COLLEGE IS INVITED TO HELP.

The purpose of the campaign may be briefly stated:

By Act of the Legislature of 1924, the State of Maryland made an appropriation of $125,000 for a building, provided the College should raise additional endowment to the amount of $250,000.

The General Education Board of New York City (the Rockefeller Foundation) announces a conditional gift of $125,000 to Western Maryland College provided the College raises additional endowment to the anount of $375,000, which with their gift means a total additional endowment of $500,000. This condition, if met, will bring a total endowment of the college up to $800,000, and will place Western Maryland College in the front rank of American colleges. In other words, raising $375,000 secures the State's appropriation of $125,000 and the Rockefeller gift of $125,000, a total of $250,000.

A great movement is on throughout the State of Maryland and elsewhere to put this campaign across. Alumni and Friends of the College recognize the challenge of the present situation as an opportunity to produce a Greater Western Maryland College, and they are preparing to meet the challenge.

Hundreds of Thousand of Dollars will come from outside Carroll County. Our county must do its part in recognition of the worth of a great college to our community and because Western Maryland College is a Carroll County institution. Our local pride is at stake.

If this campaign is successful, the place of Western Maryland College among the great American Colleges will be forever established. Why should not Carroll County be the seat of one of the really great colleges of this country? This campaign will determine this. The Rockefeller Foundation says to us practically: "You have an opportunity to produce a great college. We will give you $125,000 to help you to do this!"

One Hundred Thousand Dollars is the apportionment for Carroll County, - about one-fifth of the entire amount we expect to raise in this campaign.

Next week a Citizen's Committee of One Hundred will be published in these columns.

The fight is on and we are sure to win!

Our Letter Box

Under this heading we will be glad to publish letters from former Carroll-countians, who are now away from home; and especially letters from those whose home was Taneytown. These letters are very interesting, to many, and we should be glad to publish one or more each week. On account of their length, it is not always convenient to use letters on first page, and will hereafter use the 4th. or 5th. page.

LETTER FROM DETROIT, MICH.

Ever since I read those letters from Messrs Cover and Sweigart, I have been thinking of adding my little to their reminiscences of Detour, or Double Pipe Creek, as it was called when I began my career of teaching in the Public Schools of Carroll County. Brother Sweigart's reference to the trip he and Brother Cover took, made me wonder if it were not the same animal Dan Cover and I drove to the wedding reception at John Miller's, on a stormy night, with the mud about 6 inches deep. I'll never forget the time we had getting home, sometimes in the road, and then in the gutter alongside the road. It was nearly morning when we got home, it having taken us several hours to drive less than a mile. There are a lot of things I could call the mind of W. F. to, that occurred during the three years that I taught school at Double Pipe Creek, among them some of the jokes he played on the boys of the little town, for Will was mighty tricky in his younger day; to the crowd (known as Connie Eyler's gang) who occasionaloysters and drank home-made wine, we used to catch in the creek every Spring, and the trouble we had in securing a place to hold the sessions of the school the last year I taught

I wonder if any of the older residents of the village remembers the election of 1884, and how sore we Republicans felt when it was decided that Cleveland was elected. The late J. W. Weant, who was an ardent Democrat, and with the late Lewis Cash, (both of whom were my school trustees) was one of the leaders of his party in Middleburg District, did ot hesitate a bit in letting us know his party had won, for when I went down for the mail on the morning after the final decision was made, he was up on the large stone in front of his store, clapping his arms up and down and crowing like a rooster. No Republican who heard and saw him, had to think twice as to what he

That story about Lewis Cash, told in Mr. Cover's letter, reminds me of the reception I received from him when I applied to him for his con-sent to teach the school. It was in the Spring of the year, and I found him in the barnyard, engaged in hauling out manure. I stated my business, and he gave me a good looking over, and finally said, "Well, you are big enough, so that the boys won't carry you out, and ugly enough so that the girls will not fall in love with you, so I guess you can have my consent." Both he and Mr. Weant proved to be mighty good friends to me, and with the other trustee, Dr. Diller, stood by me nobly. In all my ten years of teaching, there are no three men who served as Trustees of the different schools I taught, (and there were some other mighty good men among the number) whose memory I revere more. Their support in those early days meant more to me than they ever knew, for I was only 19 years old when I first went to Double Pipe Creek, to teach, and those first eight weeks seemed like so many years to me.

I often wonder what has become of the pupils of that first school of mine. Some, I know, have passed away, others occupy important positions in the business world, and I suppose that there are not over a half dozen who are still living in that neighborhood. Well, that was forty ago, and many things have happened since then, that no one ever thought

Before closing these reminiscences of Double Pipe Creek, I cannot refrain from referring to the career of one of my best friends, who was business there at that time. ly came down from along the Mono-cacy to Joe Shorb's Store and ate Magazine, almost the first things I saw was an illustration of, and and who were so full of tricks that article about Harvey C. Miller. He you had to keep your eyes and ears and his brother Elcie were running open all the time when they were around; to the games of Dominoes and were among the first friends I and were among the first friends I that used to be played all over the made, a friendship that was kept up land Reds. The history of his career reads like a fairy story, but is no surprise to any of his friends who knew his ambitions, and knew of the push and energy that was in his system. I won-

Lay Roofs that won't Rot or Rust

Leaky roofs are a big trial. Every rain means worry about hard won crops and expensive implements. Then, too, there is the frequent trouble and expense of patching.

Our advice is-replace your wornout old roofs with Barrett Roll Roofings.

Rugged and durable—they insure lasting weather-tight protection—give that well-kept look to barn, shed, garage or chicken house. Soundly economical, they're easy and inexpensive to laynever rot or rust-never need painting.

Finally, Barrett Roll Roofings are fire-safe-proof against flying sparks and embers.

Call at this store and let us show you the different types of Barrett Roofings, Roll and Shingles. You'll find the prices surprisingly reasonable.

THE QUARRELING BIRDS

CHIPPY and Brownie were two sparrows, and they were always looking for a chance to pick a quarrel with some other bird. It did not matter at all if it was one of their own family or a robin, Chippy and Brownie were ready to bristle their feathers and fight.

"Look over on the lower limb," said Chippy one frosty morning. "There are Mr. and Mrs. Robin. They came up too early. Old Mr. Sun fooled them when he shone so warm for a few days. Looks to me as if they were pretty cold, and I should not care at all if the got their toes frost-some reason for quarreling with them. So he flew nearer to the shivering pair and chirped saucily, "I guess you wish you were back in the South, don't you? We are likely to get snow, I think.'

"Oh, no," answered Mrs. Robin. "I don't think we will have snow, and Robin the other day. Your kindness I am sure the sun will shine warm again in a few days."

"No it won't," said saucy Chippy; "and I don't care if it doesn't, because you will be too cold to hunt for worms. Why don't you stay down South instead of coming up here every year and eating up all of our worms?"

"Yes," chirped Brownie, who had flown beside Chippy, thinking there would be a quarrel and wishing to be in it," why do you come up in our country and take all the worms and steal the best places for nests?" "I am sure you do not mean what you have said," replied Mr. Robin,

"for our folks never steal nests, and as for the places to build, you sparrows like a snug place behind a blind best. I thought.

In spite of all they could say, Mr. and Mrs. Robin refused to quarrel with them. "Come down here on the ground," said Brownie, flying under the tree, "and I'll show you who is rows were picking up crumbs under a tree in a yard where behind a bush a puss with greedy green eyes was watching her chance to spring

Up in that tree Mrs. Robin sat on her nest, and beside her on the limb sat her loving little mate.

Brownie or Chippy had no idea that puss was around, and neither had the robins until Mr. Robin saw puss creep slyly out from her hiding place. It would be of no use to chirp to the birds on the ground, so Mr. Robin, who was eating a cherry, dropped the stone, which fell right on puss's nose and made her run though our feathers are different."

Brownie and Chippy sat very still for a minute, and then Chippy very meekly chirped: "I am sorry we said such saucy things to you and Mrs.

Brownie chirped that he felt the same way and he hoped Mr. Robin and Mrs. Robin would forgive them.

When they had flown away Mrs. Robin said: "That was a splendid thing you did, my dear; better than quarreling with them, though I am sure you could have given both of those saucy birds a good whipping."

"They both feel worse than if I had," chirped Mr. Robin. "The one who wins in a quarrel is the one who keeps his temper, my dear." And Mrs. Robin chirped that he was right.

The Why Superstitions By H. IRVING KING

CAT'S EYES AND THE TIDE

A COMMON superstition along the seacoast is that when the pupils shows that it is low tide, while their it is high water. The Journal of the American Folk-lore Society in mentioning this superstition says: "In a Boston barber shop were nearly closed the cat, explained the discrepancy by spellings, Maria and Marie. saying, 'Oh, well, she's only a kitten |

The connection between the moongoddess, Isis, and the cat has been explained before in the course of this series and the connection between Isis and the sea has also been referred | to. This inter-relationship easily explains why the waxing and waning of the pupils of a cat's eyes typifies the rising and the falling of the tides.

The connection of Isis with the sea and her special protection of mariners is not a little curious as the Egyptians were not a seafaring people. It may be, however, that the solution is to be found in the fact that the moon was considered as the source of moisture, the celestial fountain-head of all earthly waters. ### POULTRY DAMAGED BY DISINFECTANTS

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) As a result of the widespread use of cheap coal tar products with a strong carbolic acid odor for disinfecting poultry houses and coops, large quantities of poultry contaminated with the odor have been received at some of the big markets. The bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture, has received complaints from handlers of market poultry who have suffered heavy losses because of the unsalability of tainted fowl, one large firm reporting a loss of $10,000 on four cars.

Because of the appearance of European fowl pests in certain parts of the country, farmers throughout the East and Middle West, through fear of this disease, have been doing much more disinfecting than usual. In many instances chemicals with strong and offensive odors have been used, many of them not in the list approved by the department, and in some cases the results have been aggravated by the failure to dilute the product. Birds kept in houses so treated, or shipped in crates reeking with the odors, absorb them into their bodies, where they remain after the birds have been killed and dressed. It is thought that another source of the contamination in dressed birds may have been feed on which the chemicals have been sprayed. When such penetrating odors are present in the disinfectant used the birds should not be marketed within less than two weeks of the time it was used and then not in crates recently so treated.

Coops and poultry houses should always be thoroughly cleansed before disinfecting. A good plan is where possible to scrub the interior with hot lye solution or scalding hot water. Such cleaning solutions are themselves good disinfectants. If scalding hot water is not available, the coops may be disinfected with a 4 per cent solution of formaldehyde. While this disinfectant has a very pungent, disagreeable smell, the odor soon disappears. If the poultry are marketed for several weeks a three per cent solution of compound solution of creosol or a product of similar compositon may be employed. Any coal tar disinfectant is apt to leave an odor which will gradually disappear.

Many cheap products are now being sold in response to the unusual demand which has arisen since the appearance of the fowl pest. In certain sections peddlers are taking advantage of the situation and are going to the farms with a great variety of cheap disinfectants, sometimes doing the work for the farmer. Some of them are selling strong smelling by-products from local gas plants.

The department wishes to encourage efforts at disease prevention, even though much of this work is being done in regions far removed from any Men's Work Shirts, 48c each Men's Overalls, 98c pair point where fowl pest has been found, | Cracked Corn, $2.95 per 100 lb but urges farmers to use the abovementioned methods, which will not leave a taint in the fowls when offered to the consumer.

THE BENEFITS OF TOTAL AB-STINENCE

LESSON TEXT—Dan. 1:1-20.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself with the king's meat, nor with the wine which he drank."—Dan. 1:3.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Four Sensible

Boys.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Benefits of Total Abstinence.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOP-

IC—A Sound Mind and a Sound Body.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Some Benefits of Total Abstinence.

I. Daniel and His Companions in Captivity in Babylon (vv. 1-4).

They were carried away to Babylon by Nebuchadnezzar in the first siege of Jerusalem. At the command of the king certain choice young men, including the seed of the king and of the princes, were carried away that they might be made skillful in wisdom, and cunning in knowledge, understanding science so that they might be trained to stand in the king's palace.

II. The Trial of Daniel and His Companions (vv. 5-13)

1. Their Conscience Tested (v. 5). By the appointment of the king, a daily portion of the king's meat and of the wine which he drank was arranged for them. This was contrary to the custom among the godly Jews. Being contrary to the Jewish customs, they could not conscientiously partake of them. It should ever be borne in mind that conscience is the groundwork of human character.

2. Their Change of Name (vv. 6-7). Among the Hebrews most significant names were given to children. Daniel means, "God is my judge." The significance of this name was that all the problems of life were submitted to God for His decision. God was made the arbiter of his life. This was the secret of Daniel's life. No doubt this expresses the purpose of his parents in giving him the name. His name was changed to Belteshazzar meaning "Bel's prince," the one whom the chief god of the Babylonians favors. Hananiah means, "gift of" or "beloved of Jehovah," and his name was changed to Shadrach which signifies, "illumined by the sun god, Rak." Mishael means, "who is as God" and his name was changed to Meshach meaning "who is like the goddess Shesach, the gentle one." Azariah means, "Jehovah is our help," and was changed to Abednego which means, "the servant of Nego." Back of the change of names was the attempt of Satan to wipe out the name of the true God. and have these young men lose their separation and thus become assimilated among the heathen. 3. Their Religious Life (v. 8).

This involved their refusal to eat meat and to drink wine which was contrary to their teaching. In the case of Daniel, at least, it also involved praying three times a day.

4. Their Courtesy (vv. 8-13). Daniel seems to have been the spokesman for the company. Although Daniel's heart was fixed, he did not forget to be a gentleman. He requested to be excused from this meat and drink in order that he be not defiled. Christians should learn from this to be courteous even in times of great trials. God had brought Daniel into favor and tender love with those who were over him.

III. The Success of Daniel and His Companions (vv. 14-21).

1. Their Physical Health (vv. 14-16). A test was made for ten days, and it was shown that they were fairer in countenance and fatter in flesh than those who indulged in the king's meat. Godly and temperate living pays. It is obligatory upon God's children today to conscientiously abstain from that which is contrary to His law. It means total abstinence from intoxicating liquors, and everything which would injure the health.

2. Mental Growth (vv. 17-20). Daniel and his companions were found to be ten times superior to their comrades in matters of wisdom and understanding. It is always true that those who abstain from indulging in the use of strong drink have clearer minds and are mentally better equipped for their work than those who indulge. 3. The Social and Political Preferment (v. 19).

They stood before the king.

4. Their Temporal Influence (v. 21). They were all advanced to positions of influence and Daniel became president of the college of wise men, and the prime minister of the nation.

5. Spiritual Insight (v. 17). Because of Daniel's loyalty to God, visions embracing the entire history of the world came to him and Nebuchadnezzar's dream was revealed.

May 3 How Can We Help to Make Home Happy?

Ephesians 4:9-32; 5:1, 2 The Scripture lesson should be read with care because of the counsel and commands contained therein. The content of these verses when realized in experience will make home life and every other aspect of life happy.

In many homes, there are things to be "put away" before happiness can reign. Mention is made of these in verse 31—bitterness, anger, loud and evil speaking, with all malice. Over against this negative aspect, there are some positive requirements as seen in the words, "Be kind one to another, tender-hearted, forgiving one another." Such qualities as these make a home beautiful and blessed. A home in which these qualities provide here. in which these qualities prevail has upon it the touch of heaven. Indeed, it is a miniature picture of heaven.

What kind of people are necessary to make such a home? The answer is near at hand. They are described in verses 30 and 32, as "forgiven" and "sealed by the Holy Spirit." This is sealed by the Holy Spirit." This is a description of the true Christian, the burden of sin has been lifted from the conscience, and in the words of Hebrews 10:2, "There remaineth no more conscience of sins." This gives peace and poise to the inner life. The Holy Spirit of God puts His seal upon all such and takes up His abode within them. The fruit of the Spirit mentioned in Galatians 5:22 corresponds with the very qualities found in our Scripture lesson, such as love, kindness and mercy. These contribute to happiness everywhere. They are the common Christian virtues, and in the lives of those who "grieve not the Holy Spirit of God," these virtues

SIZE NOT MEASURE OF BRAIN CAPACITY

Evidently Quality Is the Only Thing That Counts.

Homo Sapiens (1925 model) probably will not worry a great deal over the recently expressed opinion of Sir Arthur Keith, the great English archeologist, says the St. Paul Pioneer Press. Sir Arthur, who has just finished an examination of the prehistoric skull unearthed in South Africa, concludes that the tendency of man is backward in the direction of the animals whence he sprang. Man's brain capacity is diminishing. We are not threatened with super-intellectuality, but the reverse.

Now, there is nothing new about this melancholy situation. Man's brain cavity is smaller than it used to be. According to the archeologists, it reached its greatest size in Pleistocene times. Some of the Neanderthal and Cro-Magnon people had brain cavities as large as 1,880 cubic centimeters. Pithecanthropus erectus, the Trinil man, had a brain cavity of 1,000 ccm. This was the smallest, according to the scientists, of the prehistoric brain cavities. The Piltdown race had brains as large as the modern man-1,500 ccm. Since Upper Paleolithic times the brain cavity has diminished from upwards of 1,800 ccm. to 1,500 ccm.

Yet, despite these large brains, the Pleistocene races were monumental dumbbells, intellectually speaking. Thousands of years were required before they learned to pick up a stone and throw it at something. Other thousands passed before they found out how to chip pieces off the stone and give it a cutting edge. Still other thousands elapsed before they learned how to fasten this sharp stone to a stick and make an ax. The old Stone age lasted for hundreds of thousands of years, yet its people, all of whom had larger brains than the "best minds" in the the ordinary Presidential cabinet, were able to master only a few rudimentary things.

If therefore, modern man has a smaller brain than his progenitors, obviously something is to be said for its quality. He learns much more quickly. Within the memory of those now living he has accomplished things far beyond the comprehension of the big-brained people. He can outfly the birds; outswim the fishes; send his voice around the world without wires; harness the lightning, and imprison sound in a box. Size clearly isn't everything.

Ex-King Freed From Exile

Ex-King Prempeh, of Ashanti, and sometime ruler; has been released from bondage in the Seychelles in the Indian ocean, to his old home in Ashanti, after 28 years' detention. The ex-monarch is a convert to the Anglican church and speaks excellent English. He has the most courteous manners. Nobody now talking with him would dream that he was once the terror of Ashantiland. After the overthrow of King Prempeh in the Ashanti revolution of 1896 (when he was exiled), several of his chiefs hid the famous golden stool, the symbol of sovereignty corresponding to the throne. British attempt's to find it led to the rebellion of 1900 and the seige of Coomassie. The stool was eventually found in 1921 by laborers doing excavation work for a new road 70 miles north of Coomassie. Ashanti rulers wear golden headdress and, on important ceremonial occasions, carry huge red and yellow umbrellas.

Phone 127  Prevent "Whiskers" on the Strawberry

Film Designed to Help in

War on Black Mold. (Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

"Why Strawberries Grow Whiskers" is the title of a new United States Department of Agriculture film on the handling of strawberries, just completed by the office of motion pictures for the bureau of plant industry.

The fact that strawberries do grow whiskers may be new to many consumers, but it is old stuff to the strawberry trade; indeed one of the prime objects in the life of the strawberry shipper is to prevent the growth of "whiskers" on the strawberries he handles. Hence this new film-which is designed to help the strawberry grower and shipper in their war against black mold, the fungus which is responsible for strawberry "leak" and for the "whiskers" which signalize the final stage of this disease.

The lesson taught by the film may be boiled down into three very brief admonitions to the grower:

1. Handle strawberries carefully. 2. Pick early in the day, while the berries are cool

3. Refrigerate promptly after pick-

The photography emphasizes the fact that infection from black mold is due largely to bruises and cuts on the berry, and that subsequent growth of the mold is much more rapid in warm air than in cold air.

An interesting feature of this film is a long-time motion picture showing the growth of black mold, covering a period of twenty-four hours or more in a few seconds of projection on the

"Why Strawberries Grow Whiskers" is in one reel and will be circulated through the educational film service of the department and the co-operating state institutions. Copies may be borrowed for short periods, or may be purchased at the laboratory charge. A complete list of the department's films, with information on the method of distributing them, is given in Miscellaneous Circular 27, which may be obtained on application to the department at Washington.

Acid Phosphate Checks

Many Losses in Manure What is the best preservative to prevent plant food losses in manure? Many recommendations have been made, but the latest investigations on this subject show acid phosphate to be the most efficient and most practicable material to use. Acid phosphate proved to be more efficient in preventing nitrogen losses than did straw, peat, rock phosphate, or gypsum.

Not only does acid phosphate check the loss of nitrogen, but it materially increases the fertilizing value of manure, supplying the element of plant food in which manure is lacking. The use of acid phosphate with manure is one of the soundest of fertilizer practices.

The spreading of one or two handfuls of acid phosphate in each stall each day is a very practical method. Tramping of the stock mixes it with the manure. Even when manure is hauled out and spread immediately, there is some loss of nitrogen which is avoided if the manure is phosphated.

Grape Vines Pruned in Early Spring Is Best

Grapevines should be pruned before the buds begin to swell in order to avoid the great loss of sap which follows late pruning. Best results usually follow heavy pruning. "As much old wood as is possible to remove should be taken away," says W. H. Alderman, head of the division of horticulture, University of Minnesota, "leaving only a few short canes of last year's growth to carry the crop for the coming season. The sooner this pruning is done the better, but if for some reason it is not done until early spring, one should still prune vines vigorously.

"Even though heavy bleeding results from belated pruning, the slight loss in vigor caused by the loss in sap will not be as serious as would be the failure to Book-keeping Errors.

Every now and then, a business concern's book-keeping, like most other human agencies, "slips a cog," and a "statement" is sent for a bill that had been paid. In such cases, the majority of those who receive such a statement become angry in some degree, and are apt to think that the rascally merchant wanted to make him pay the bill twice, and that the only thing that saved him was a "receipt" for that very bill.

Those who take this view, make just what the merchant made—a mistake. Getting angry in such cases is suspicious; at least it is a sign that the offended man transacts but lttle credit business on his own account, and has not good judgment enough to realize that trying to collect bills twice, would be too risky a business for even a real rascal to engage in.

In such cases, the one who made the mistake feels worse over it than the one who gets "huffy," and is apt to indulge in improper remarks. Many people are now paying by check which is a good business practice that should be even more extensively indulged in; and taking an evidence of payment, at the time, when no check is given, is another practice worthy of extension.

The point that we want to emphasize, is, that business men of any standing at all, do not purposely try to collect twice—usually, they are glad to get payment once; but, payments are often made during confusion, or perhaps in conversation on some other topic, or for some other reason do not have their mind centered exclusively on the transaction, and memory plays a mean trick-credit is not given. Even when a "receipt" can not be produced by the debtor in a case, the chances are that the matter can be amicably settled by a positive recol-lection of payment, or by stating some incident or recollection in connection with it—providing both par-ties "keep their heads" and treat each other as being equally honest. The average credit business merchant sends out so many statements that are not "mistakes" that he deserves decent consideration when he actually makes one. By far, the larger number of mistakes of this sort are not on his side; and he, has greater right to become angry, and to think about "rascality," than the one who a few times in a lifetime gets a bill for something he has al-

"The Story of Corn" NEWS STORY Ford Motor Company WASHINGTON, D. C.

A free motion picture show to which all are invited has been arranged by the local County Agent, F. W. Fuller, for Wednesday, May 6th., W. Fuller, for Wednesday, May 6th., at 7:30 o'clock. The show will be held at Shriner's Theatre.

The program will include a feature film entitled "The Story of Corn," which starts with the selection of seed corn from the field and carries the growth of corn to the time of harvesting. Favorable and unfavorable methods are contrasted.

This film will, and it is predicted, meet with the hearty approval of farmers in every community through out this section of the county.

In addition to the feature film, there will be a comedy and an interesting picture called "Four Seasons with the Fordson."

"The Show will be followed with a number of short talks of interest in connection with profitable farming.

"The Story of Corn" is timely, inasmuch as it carries a real message regarding the proper preparation of the seed bed with power farming which means profitable farming. All formers interested in increased profits should witness this interesting film.
