TEACHERS AND PUPILS IN MARYLAND.

Salaries Paid, and Average Attendance, City and Counties.

According to a statement in the Baltimore Sun, made by Albert S. Cook, State Superintendent of Education, for the year ending June, 1925, the sum of $10,129,534 was paid to public school teachers of which $4,680,338 was spent in the counties. The average annual salary paid a teacher in the white High Schools of the counties was $1485, an increase of $8.00 over the previous year. Baltimore county led the list with an average of $1841, and Caroline was the lowest with an average of $1246.

The average salary for teachers in elementary schools in the counties was $1057, and in Baltimore city

"Size of class has a marked effect on expenditures and the cost of edu-cating each pupil," Dr. Cook declared. "Large classes are less expensive, because they require the services of fewer teachers. With the same total expenditure for salaries in two school systems of equal size organized with large and small classes, the former could afford to pay higher salaries to each teacher. Teachers with more each teacher. Teachers with more preparation and experience could be attracted to such a system." In Maryland county white high schools, there was a teacher for every twenty pupils "belonging," the term "belonging" designating the children of legal compulsory school attendance age, exclusive of transients, for whom the school is "responsible."

The range was from thirty-five to a teacher in Charles county to fourteen in Kent. As an average, high school classes in the counties were slightly larger in 1924-1925 than during the preceding year. The white senior high schools in Baltimore had an average of twenty-four pupils enrolled for each teacher and principal in 1925 as compared with twenty-six pupils for the previous year.

The average number "belonging" for each teacher in county white elementary schools in 1925 was 32.1, an increase of .6 over the year before. Baltimore county led with an average of forty pupils in each class. Other counties adjacent to large cities or having a large proportion of urban population follow with an average numbering "belonging" ranging from thirty-three to thirty-six pupils for

In rural schools having one teacher instructing the six or seven elementary grades, each teacher had on the average twenty-five pupils which was the same as the average for 1924.

Schools with more than one teacher showed slight increases in the number of pupils taught by each teacher. The two-teacher schools had 29.7 pupils for each teacher in 1924 and 30.4 in 1925. In 1925 the range in average number of pupils for each teacher in two-teacher schools was from 25.5 to 34.3. In graded schools, having three or more teachers, the average for each teacher in the counties was 37.6 pupils. Baltimore county, with 43.2 pupils "belonging" for each teacher, had the largest classes, while Carroll county had the smallest classes, there being only 30.7 pupils for each

The Senior Class Play "Esmeralda."

Those who heard "Esmeralda" the four-act play at the Opera House, last Friday and Saturday evenings, presented by the Senior Class of the High School, greatly enjoyed the excellent rendition. There was not a weak spot in the cast. The preparation of the play required close study, not only of the spoken parts, but as they should be rendered as fitted to actual characters. It was a fine piece

The piano prelude by Miss Mary Shriver, and the vocal interludes by Delmont Koons, Miss Marion Hitch-Miss Leah Catharine Reindollar and Robert Baumgardner, were also most enjoyable features of the eve-ning. The cast of characters was as

No Radio from Chicago on Monday Nights.

Operators of Chicago Radio broadcasting stations, by mutual agreement, backed by "listeners in," are closed every Monday night. This is for the purpose of permitting residents of the city to get long-distance programs, without interference from the many local stations of the city. Not only city stations, but those within a radius of twenty-five miles, stay off the air Monday nights. The plan is working so well that other large cities may adopt a "silent night"

BEWARE OF STOCK SWINDLES.

Over a Billion Dollars lost Last Year in Stock Taking.

The Public Ledger, Philadelphia, is engaged in a campaign against worthless securities. The cause is, that fully one-billion of dollars were lost last year in fake investments promising high rates of interest—"get rich quick" schemes. It is aiming to help the government to weed out these schemes by attempting to warn the public to beware of all high rate of interest propositions. of interest propositions.

The Ledger will run a series warnings on the menace of the "white collar bandits," crooked promoters and fake security salesman. The first article appeared in Monday's issue, and contained the following letter from Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury:

"It is of the utmost importance that the people of this country be protected against fraudulent schemes of investment. Each year large sums are taken in exchange for worthless

Unfortunately the promoters of fraudulent enterprises usually prey upon the small investors who can least afford to risk their savings. The wage earner and the small-salaried man must provide out of their earnings for the years in which their earning capacity will be diminished. Furthermore, these are the people who are largely responsible for the normal steady demand for the products of the country's principal industries.

If this class of investors are de-frauded of their savings, their pur-chasing power is diminished, poverty is increased, thrift is discouraged and the Government is weakened by the partial destruction of one of its greatest financial assets, which is the ability of its own people to finance

To prevent the demoralizing effects of blue-sky operations, the Government has exercised the full power of its regulatory organizations, but experience shows that, despite many prosecutions and convictions of promoters of fraudulent securities, the successful eradication of this evil depends largely on the education of the public.

That is why the Treasury Department is interested in the movement now carried on by business organizations and by such publications as the Public Ledger and the New York Evening Post, to inform the public regarding the subject of thrift and sound investment. The growth of sound investment. The growth of such a movement must necessarily be slow, as are all processes of education, but it must be carried forward, for its success will prove of lasting benefit to the happiness and welfare of the people of the country."

Parent-Teachers' Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association will be held in the Opera House on Feb. 22, at 8:00 P. M., to which the public is cordially invited.

The following program will be given: Two vocal solos, by Miss Estella Essig; "A Class Rec." by fourteen 5th. and 6th. grade pupils, entitled: "Columbia and the Thirteen Colonies." ANTHRACITE STRIKE IS FINALLY ENDED.

Work in the Mines Commenced on Thursday.

The longest coal strike in history has ended, an agreement having been reached last Friday. The basis of agreement is as follows;

A five-year contract, wages to remain the same as on August 1, and not to be changed except by mutual agreement, or by a board of arbitration ouside of the industry.

Wages not to be changed until after Jan. 1, 1927, and then not oftener than once a year.

When there is failure to agree on wages, each side shall name three men outside of the industry. The operators to select one man from the miners list, and the miners to select one from the operators list, and these two shall constitute a board obligated to reach an agreement within 90 days. In order to reach an agreement, the two men may name additional members to the board, and in case of an odd number a majority vote will be binding.

The question of the check-off of union dues may be referred to the Anthracite Board of Conciliation, exclusive of the umpire.

The credit for the agreement is said The credit for the agreement is said to belong to two men only; James J. Davis, Secretary U. S. Dept. of Labor, and William C. Sproul, Pennsylvania's former Governor, with the approval of the White House. Gov. Pinchot is not generally given credit for having had anything to do with it, and President Coolidge is not claiming any gradit ing any credit.

To the average outsider it is difficult to see how the miners, especially, have gained anything; and how the agreement is to actually mean continuous work for five years, is also not clear, for it is altogether unlikely that wages and the selling prices of anthracite can remain on present levels, especially considering the inroads of bituminous coal into the anthracite territory this winter.

The public, however, and especially the political leaders, are glad the strike is over; and if the whole truth be told, the miners themselves are likely the gladdest of all. But, the big underlying questions of conflict between operators and workers; union demands and the powerlessness of government to intervene, are all mat-ters that have simply been laid aside for the future.

The formal ending of the strike did not occur until Wednesday when the twelve negotiations—six on each side—signed the new five-year agreement. Work commenced on Thursday, the mines having been cleaned and made ready earlier in the week. Coal will be moving to market, pretty steadily, next week, to fill accumulated orders.

Heat Plant Explodes.

What might have proven a fatal accident, occurred last Thursday at the Strawbridge Home for Boys at Eldersburg, when the furnace in the building exploded with such force as to tear out two board partitions.

The superintendent, Miss Stabler, noticed the furnace was not working properly, and called a colored man and be closed. woman to go with her to the basement. Nothing noticable was found wrong, and the three were ascending the stairway, when Miss Stabler turned to look back at the furnace, just as it exploded. The force of the explosion knocked her to the basement floor and she was badly scalded about the face and neck. There was an immediate inrush of water from the supply tank, which is 20 feet long by 40 inches in diameter, and, but for the quick action of the colored help, she would have been drowned.

Miss Stabler also had a quantity of dirt blown into her eyes by the force of the explosion, and, on advice of her physician, she was sent to Baltimore for treatment. She is reported resting comfortably at last accounts.

A force of mechanics was put to work on the wrecked heating plant as soon as possible, with the hope of having it in operation again in short time. In the meantime, every effort was made by those in charge to keep the orphan boys comfortable.

The accident is supposed to have been caused by a frozen supply pipe. There are about twenty small boys in the Home, and the absence of heat at this season of the year was serious .-Sykesville Herald.

Congressman Hill in a Beer Drinking Wager.

According to the Baltimore American: "The reputation of Baltimore beer as a potent beverage is at stake under terms of a challenge accepted in Congress by Representative John Philip Hill, Third District, who agreed to drink his fill in a local saloon and remain sober, or forfeit $100 to the Anti-Saloon League of America.

During a bitter prohibition fight in the House yesterday, Representative Thomas L. Blanton, Texas, declared he could lead the Maryland member of Congress to a saloon in Baltimore and feed him beer that "will make him so drunk he won't remember that he was even a member of Congress. Under the wager, if Mr. Hill keeps sober after drinking all the beer he can hold, Mr. Blanton will have to donate $100 to the Association against the Prohibition Amendment." Congressman Hill is a candidate for the Republican Senatorial nomination, against Senator Weller.

"The Governor is acting strictly within his personal and individual rights, though it looks like a pretty poor performance of party duty. I have no doubt Senator Weller is satisfied and from the illuminating and startling comments of Mr. Humphreys the only Republican candidate Governor, as reported in last night's papers, the rumored but disavowed "gentleman's agreement" whereby a Republican Senatorship is attempted to be traded for a Democratic govern-ship, is ceasing to be a myth and fast becoming a fact."

"However, I have no personal complaint. Before I filed my papers I went to see Governor Ritchie and he told me it was satisfactory to him for me to enter as he had not made up his mind what he would do. He told me then he would not help me, or any other of his friends who might enter the race. I have now been a candidate for several months and he now sees fit to run against me."

vided for use and I intend it to submit to the Democratic party my can-didacy on certain definite legislature measures, administrative policies and to present my ideas and ideals of what the government of the State of Maryland should be and do. They are quite different from those that have prevailed for the past six years.

I hope the party, to which I have given loyal support and service for many years, and the press of the City and State will give to Governor Ritchie and me a fair field and an equal opportunity in the primary contest.

Radio fans will be interested in the health message sent out throughout the State of New York by the New York State Department of Health, from station KYH—Keep your health.
The message is relayed to the people of Maryland by Dr. John S. Fulton,
Director of the Maryland State Department of Health, who cordially recommends that Marylanders follow the advice contained in it. Here is the message:

"Directions:—Use any wave length suited to your age. If you fade out, lose your breath easily, or sleep poorly, your wave length is wrong. You need to reset your health dial. * * * The human body is like a radio set. We must be properly equipped and adjusted all the time; otherwise our apparatus works poorly and all we hear is static. WILL TRY TO PREVENT R. R. STRIKE.

Congress to Take Prompt Action the Coming Week.

Representing quite a contrast to the way in which Congress acted on the coal strike, it now intends to take quick action to prevent the railroad workers' strike, threatened to take place in March, unless demands for a wage increase approximating $1.00 a day for trainmen and conductors, are met by the Companies.

This action will be the passage of the Watson-Parker bill, which represents the first united effort on the part of railway managers and employes in support of a legislative plan to settle their disputes. The bill, modified only in detail, will be reported to the House by the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce and, under an arrangement made, will come up for debate and vote Tuesday. The understanding is that following action by the House the Senate will promptly bor organizations.

"In view of demands made for wage increases," he said, "it is highly important to set up a Government agency to deal with any emergency that may arise. If the bill which we will pass at an early date does nothing but avert a strike it will be well worth the time taken in its preparation. Under its terms railroads and their employes are morally bound to make it work."

Radio Development.

Outside the realm of fancy there is cian. nothing in modern science so amazing as the rapid development of radio. It has jumped overnight from swaddling clothes into trousers and in four years has passed through the field of adventure to a public utility of importance, and a social force that permeates every part of our daily life.

Largely employed as a medium of entertainment in the beginning, it is now being used by the schools to educate, by the police in apprehension of criminals, for speedy location of missing people, weather reports, guidance of ships, etc. It has enabled the President of the United States to address approximateall the people at one time. International relations have been brought closer, and at home it has done much to create a sense of national solidarity even in the most remote settlements.

A Coolidge Half-dollar.

A Coolidge half-dollar will be coined as a special piece to commemorate the 150th. anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, to be used in connection with the Sesqui-centennial celebration to be held in Philadelphia, this summer. This will be the first time that a living President's likeness was ever used on a coin. There will also be $2.50 goldpieces coined.

There will be one million of the half-dollars and 250,000 of the $2.50 pieces. The government is expected to reap a considerable profit from the coinage, as many of them will be held as souvenirs, and in collections, and never be presented for redemption.

The Golosh, Revived by Fashion.

The now fashionable goloshesmore properly "gosloshes"—are a century or so old, having originated in France away back when ladies wore long dresses that hid the clumsy foot-gear from view. The first specimens had woolen soles with leather uppers—half-boots—and were worn almost ontivaly when the ground almost entirely when the ground was covered with snow, or slush. The neat-fitting rubber or felt overshoe very effectually displaced the golosh, until a freak idea recently converted them into a temporary "fashion."

Present Status of Philadelphia's Ex-

Those who have been doubting whether Philadelphia will have its exposition buildings ready for the big Exposition this Summer, are reassured by visitors to the exposition grounds who say construction is going forward at an amazing pace. One building that covers eight acres is practically finished. The stadium is 90% finished, and the administration building was finished several months ago. The amount as passed represents a cut of $2,000,000. The debate in the Senate occupied two days, most of the opposition coming from the Democratic side. Expositions, just now, are not very popular, especially considering debt and tax reducing aims.

The impetus given the Exposition by this action of the Congressional body will result in expediting plans for buildings to house Government exhibits and arrangements of space for the location of soldiers, sailors and marines who will be stationed at the Fire at Thurmont.

A fire that seemed to threaten the south-eastern section of Thurmont, Tuesday night, wrecked greenhouses of George E. Creager, entailing a loss of about $5000, not including great damage to hothouse plants. The fire was discovered by Mrs. Creager early in the evening, while her husband was in Emmitsburg Md., where they operate a branch distrib-uting shop. At the time the fire was so threatening that calls were sent to Frederick and Taneytown for automobile fire-fighting equipment.

The two companies responded and threw water on the blaze after more than a quarter of a mile of hose had been laid to reach Hunting Creek. Mrs. Creager collapsed during the fire and required the care of a physi-

Testing Cattle in Pennsylvania.

It seems that in Pennsylvania the farmers have the option of having their cattle tested. At any rate, in Codorus Township, York county, 90% of the farmers agreed to having the test made, and state veterinarians have been engaged in making the tests. With the task incomplete, eighteen carloads have been shipped to Harrisburg and Lancaster, containing more than 300 condemned cattle. Some of the farmers have gone to Harrisburg to see their cattle killed.

The Norris resolution providing for an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, that would change the inauguration of President, and the assembling of the new Congress to January, following the election in November, has passed Congress. The inauguration now takes place March 4, but the Congress elected at the same time does not convene until December. An effort has been made several times, to have this change made, but always failed.

Desecration of Graves of Bible Characters.

search" seems likely to continue. This time, the tomb of Joseph, the son of Jacob, of Biblical history, is the object of the scientist-searchers, and the search is keen because Joseph's all who live rural in America and the connection with the Pharaoh of the time was such that it is believed that the rifling of his tomb would reveal riches superior to that found in the the situation. There must be sometomb of King Tut-ank-amen, whose thing like a close approach to the wonderful coffin of gold is now on exhibition at Cairo, Egypt.

The Valley of Kings, at Luxor, is expected to supply the tomb of Joseph. Suppose it does. The truth of the Bible in this respect, is not under attack, historically; so far as we know, the story of the Bible has not been successfully attacked in any direction, or in any age. Why, therefore, should any of the old Biblical graves' be opened, save for the sake of mere curiosity-if not, indeed, for money-

To us, the whole procedure seems to be sacrilegious without the slightest of the many bodies interested. Takfoundation of justification. The whole procedure, has a tendency to make very light of things that ought to be most sacred—the tombs of the good men, or at least of the historical characters, of the ages gone by when civilization was in its infancy, and closer to the Creator of all.

Why We Do Things.

Have you ever thought, or fully realized, that most of us do things, and reach decisions, and form habits, simply because it is natural-perhaps of prohibition, but others. The Post inborn-for us to do certain things | says; certain ways? Well, it's true. Suppose we are "set" on doing just one thing, and our friends-and perhaps ourselves-wonder why? If the trouble is taken to investigate, it will be found, in most cases, that this certain thing is done because it is perfectly natural for us to do it. Take a man, or woman, who does everything with care, the best he (or she) can. It isn't at all surprising that this person declines to be interested in, or do, a great many things ested in, or do, a great many things ested in, or do, a great many things that others do. He simply does not i do certain things because he feels find itself under a state law for the

that he can't do them well, or perhaps can't afford to finance them; and rather than break his record for doing, he does not do a lot of things.

Some men do not buy an automobile, for instance, because they feel their inability to give the time to learn how to run one safely; or per-G. A. ARNOLD, V. Pres. JOHN S. BOWER haps the kind he would like to have is beyond his ability to finance properly. Some men just have a distaste for half-doing anything.

The most of us have inborn characteristics, without recognizing them. Our likes and dislikes are firmly fixed and of long standing. Sometimes we find a man doing something that we do not expect. This is because he may have a fad, or be a "fan", as we say, and with fully characteristic habit he gets back of his fad with the best that is in him. A lot of people do not want to be a failure, at anything; so, when they go in at all, it is with the determination to "do things" and be up in the front ranks —he does not want anybody to "beat" him.

If we will just look about us, we will find a lot of persons who all through life left well-done work back of them. It wasn't luck, nor accident, but just the outcome of perhaps very quiet determination and application. A homely saying of a once quaint writer-Josh Billings-was, "Always play to win; a game that ain't worth winnin', ain't worth playin'." This philosophy has lots of followers, and sometimes we misjudge people as selfish, or too unconcerned, just because we do not understand the policy that influences them.

More than Farmers are Interested.

High prices for everything the farmer must buy, and not correspondingly higher prices for his products, is what is hurting the farmer. In company with the farmer are all classes of people who are living off invested incomes, and are not active industrialists; the many classes of employees not engaged in industrial labor, such as office help, salesmen, and certain professional classes—all not in a position, by demands, to force

The present era of high prices, started up by the world war, has upset the level of values; created extravagant standards of living; made necessaries of former luxuries; created a mania for wide-spread spending; made it necessary for incomes to be increased by force-especially manual labor incomes-and these increases have been added by manufacturers to selling prices; the whole scheme working in a circle, at the end of which it becomes necessary to start a new circle of higher incomes. *

Farmers—and the many others named-have not been able to use organized force to jack up their incomes and are victims of this vicious circle. point that is more fair to all classes of people and employments. The present unfair plight of the farmer, is in fact the plight, very largely, of small towns everywhere.

Increasing prices for labor, when it can be forced, is not a solution to equalization of both receipts and expenditures for all classes. Everybody's income dollar must fairly represent value for the outgo dollar. The low purchase value of the farmer's income dollar, is what is hurting him, and his companions. Give his dollar equal purchasing value with other dollars, and that is all the help he needs from anybody.

Legislation for the "farmer," therefore, is not "class legislation," in fact, when it is urged that "something be done" for the farmer. Farmers are merely the largest single body ing the country as a whole, these various bodies represent more than a "class"—they are in the aggregate perhaps considerably more than half of the people of the United States.

State's Rights, in Practice.

The Chicago Evening Post, in commenting on Gov. Ritchie's platform of State's rights, applies the working of the idea to the Eighteenth Amendment as an example of how it would affect states, not only on the question had not come upon the market in Congress shall in so many words de-clare that the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment is a matter for each state to determine for itself. thorough-going enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment.

But if the enforcement of the Constitution is to be a matter of local op-tion why deny the right of determi-nation to Chicago? If Chicago and other cities of like sentiment proceed to ignore their state laws for the en-forcement of the Constitution, how much better off are we than today? What is gained by the Ritchie proposal save the establishment of a new doctrine of constitutional interpreta-tion by individual states? Is that a doctrine we wish to see established in this country by act of Congress?"

Tariff and the Farmer.

The old familiar falsehood continues to be repeated, that "farmers buy under high tariff prices and sell in almost free trade markets." President Coolidge, in his recent Chicago address, made complete refutation of the charge that the tariff is directed both ways to the detriment of the

The facts found in the tariff act itself show that the large proportion of things the farmer consumes are free from duty, and the large proportion of things he sells are heavily protected.

What do the free trade advocates want done with the tariff? Do they want wool to compete with free wool from abroad? Do they want free trade in fruit and dairy products?

The President showed from the records that dutiable goods which the farmer consumes are only 12 percent of our total imports, and farm expenditures are increased only 1.3 percent by these duties.

The free trader would save the farmer this 1.3 percent of tariff and ruin the farmer's home market by reducing farm prices and lowering standards of living on farms, by subjecting him to unrestricted free trade. -The Manufacturer.

The Coal Strike Settlement.

10-16-tf Advertisement

The miners are out so many millions of dollars in wages that they can never hope to recoup them. Their losses are estimated to approximate $150,-000,000 or more. Their victory consists in getting the same rate of wages they were paid when they quit work. The check-off, for which they have stood out for years as the sine qua non of settlement of any strike, is to be modified.

The operators in turn have lost millions in profits, have seen their What is needed, is some block to stop | business invaded by substitutes and The desecration of graves, presum- the growth of these price increasing their industry shot to pieces to an exably in the interest of "Historic re- circles, and to unravel them back to a tent which must make return to normal conditions a slow and costly process. They have agreed to a fiveyear contract to which they were resolutely opposed unless it contained a clause providing for arbitration in the event of business depression which interfered with trade and profits.

On this point the contract entered into discreetly avoids use of the word arbitration, but it seems to contain the essence of it. It is agreed to submit any dispute over wage scales occurring after January 1, 1927, to a meditation board, both parties binding themselves to abide by the board's decision. President Lewis, of the United Mine Workers, insists that this is not arbitration. If it means what it says the operators may answer little Peterkin by asserting that they have given the miners the shadow and have taken the substance. But they have also strenuously contended for an agreement to submit differences over a new contract to arbitration. On this issue they have lost.

It is clear that both sides, exhausted by the prolonged struggle, have yielded something, enough to have settled the strike weeks ago if similar concessions had been made.

The outstanding feature of the strike was the demonstration of the consumer's ability to stand the shutdown of the mines over so long a period. He was unusually well stocked with coal to begin with, but there would have been intolerable suffering if, for the first time, substitute fuels quantity to prevent at least that sort of hardship and distress which here-"Governor Ritchie proposes that tofore have compelled a demand for a strike settlement at whatever increase in cost to the householder.

throughout this period, but it would not be wise for Congress to rely upon their doing so. The time to set up ways and means to prevent a tie-up in an essential industry is before, not after, a strike begins. Congress has the recommendations of the Hammond Coal Commission before it. It knows that the President is powerless to act in such emergencies without authority from it. It would be gravely neglected of the duty incumbent upon it if it again left in the hands of operators or miners liberty to precipitate another such conflict upon the country. -Balto. Sun.

Orphans "Kidnaped" From Grandmother by State

children were legally "kidnaped" from their classrooms and taken in charge by the state board of children's guardians, because their grandmother was financially unable to properly nourish them. The youngsters are orphans.

Once before the state attempted to get the children, but the grandmother, Mrs. Augusta Wilhelm, refused to give them up and the method of taking them from school was resorted to.

One of the children, John Palmer, ten, was taken from the Mickle school and Viola, twelve, was taken from the Sacred Heart parochial school. Mrs. Wilhelm waited for their return and after they had been an hour overdue, she received a telegram from Miss Frances Day, superintendent of the state board, informing her of the ac-

She has received 50 cents a day from the state for the care of the children and her only income was the few pennies she picked up doing odd jobs at infrequent intervals.

Mr. Paul L. Wildasin and Miss Helen M. Crushong, of Silver Run Valley, were united in marriage, Feb. 9, 1926, by Elder George F. Bowers, at his residence.

SAUBLE-SHOEMAKER.

Mr. Norman R. Sauble and Miss Beulah Shoemaker were married at the home of the bride, on Saturday, February 13, at 1 o'clock, by Rev. L. K. Young, pastor of the Mt. Joy Lutheran Charge. Sixty-nine of the relatives and friends of the bride and groom witnessed the ceremony.

The bride wore a white bridal satin gown trimmed in Georgette and pearl beads, and carried a bouquet of white roses. The groom wore a suit of midnight blue. The attendants were Miss Mary Durborow, of Get-tysburg, and Mr. George Liard, of New Jersey, student at Gettysburg Seminary. Otis Shoemaker, brother of the bride, walked with her, and Raymond Sauble, brother of the groom, walked with him. Miss Ethel Sauble, sister of the groom, played the Lohrengin wedding march.

Numerous handsome gifts were received, consisting of checks, china-ware, silverware, linen, etc. Immedi-ately after a buffet lunch was served, they left for a trip to Niagara Falls.

During the day there were altogether too many birds flying about, to please the Katydids. And Kiddie often remarked in a joking way that the only birds he cared about were those that didn't care about him!

Endures"?

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

THOMAS CARLYLE, author of this succinct axiom, was the son of a mason and farmer. He was born in Ecclefechan, Dumfriesshire, Scotland, December 4, 1795, and although his parents intended him for a ministerial career, his propensity to authorship at an early age convinced the young man at least that he was more fitted for the pursuit of literature. Although his first literary attempts were published in the Edinburgh "Encyclopedia," his career may be said to have begun in the "London Magazine" in 1823, when portions of his "Life of Schiller" appeared. This work in later years was treated separately, and appeared in special form in 1825—Carlyle's first success of note in the literary field.

Few authors have had their works studied so minutely as Carlyle, and his ease and fluency in writing have been seized upon by many as examples of the sort of literature which always will endure.

Much time was spent on his "History of Friedrich the II of Prussia," called "Frederick the Great," and this production of his pen also was the largest the eminent author turned out. The last two volumes appeared in 1865, and although he continued to some extent in his field, this work in reality marked the end of a successful that prowled about Pleasant Valley after dark. Mr. Nighthawk was one of that crew of nightly wanderers. And whenever the word was passed around that he had been seen in the neighborhood, Kiddie Katydid tried to lower his solemn chant, because he knew that Mr. Nighthawk was usually in search of something to eat.

Now, when Kiddie Katydid felt hungry he drove away his gnawing pangs by browsing upon leaves and tender twigs. But Mr. Nighthawk had no taste for such fodder.

He had an appetite for insects. And between dusk and dawn a good many of Kiddie Katydid's neighbors of one kind or another found their way into Mr. Nighthawk's tummy.

So you see it was no wonder that Kiddie was not eager to attract the attention of that night rover. Some of the more timid of Kiddie's companions even begged him, at times, to hush. They said he was making such a noise that Mr. Nighthawk would be sure to hear it, even if he were a quarter of a mile away.

But Kiddie Katydid usually laughed at those faint-hearted ones; and often he shrilled his Katy did, Katy did, more loudly than before, just to show them that he was not afraid.

"A person has to take a few chances," he remarked one day. "If we were all afraid to make a sound it would pretty hard on Katy, for then she would have nobody to take her part. And what would people think of her?'

Evidently Kiddie's reason was a good one, because a number of his cousins spoke up at once and said that they agreed with him perfectly. But their sisters all exclaimed that sooner or later Mr. Nighthawk would hear them; and then there would certainly be trouble.

Strangely enough, the words were scarcely out of their mouths before they heard a loud call that struck them cold with fear.

Peent! Peent! The cry came out of the air above them without the least warning. And everybody-including Kiddie Katydid-knew that Mr. Nighthawk had come.

The explanation is very simple; it is merely our old friend sympathetic magic in one of his many medibody of the bear is long, strong, and thick; the hair in the coat of the muskrat is fine, close-set and plentiful. By the magic of contact these hairy qualities are communicated to the grease and the oil and by the magic of transference act upon the scanty locks of the man whose hair is "falling out" or the scanty invisible fur on the pate of the baldheaded man. It is the phase of sympathetic magic which Sir James Frazer calls homeopathic magic-like producing like.

The mind of primitive man, blindly groping for solution of the problem of cause and effect, found nothing so satisfying as this homeopathic theory—which we call sympathetic magic, but which to him was a demonstrable science. When it failed to work it was because something was wrong in the formula employed: or perhaps evil spirits interfered with what, to Mr. Cave-man, was a "law of nature."

Two "New Breeds" Are Investigated

Believed That "Turken" Is Nothing Else Than Transylvania Naked-Neck.

There is no lure like that of the cross of widely separated species of animals and birds. That nature frowns on such crosses is evidenced by the failure of repeated and persistent experiments under favorable conditions. Where progeny has followed violent crossings, it is sterile as a rule. The Department of Agriculture has issued a press release in this connection, which is as follows:

"The United States Department of Agriculture has received many requests from all parts of the country for information concerning two socalled new "breeds" of poultry, the 'Turken' and the 'Kiwi.' The department has been aware of advertisements concerning these new and novel 'breeds,' for which some rather remarkable claims have been made. The advertisements and literature describing the origin and qualities of these 'breeds' seem to have aroused much interest on the part of the public, since the department has received several urgent requests for an explanation regarding the reliability of the claims

How "Turken" Was Produced.

"The statements in the advertisements and literature claim that the 'turken' was originally produced by crossing a male turkey with a female chicken, and that the 'Kiwi' was produced by crossing a male ostrich with a female chicken.

"Successful crosses have been made between the pheasant and the chicken, and in practically every case the progeny has been of the male sex and sterile. Also, successful crosses have been made between the guinea and the chicken, and here again the sex of the progeny has almost invariably been male and the hybrids have been sterile. Both of these crosses have been made with great difficulty and, so far as known, no cross giving any progeny has ever been reported between the turkey and the chicken. Furthermore, it is highly improbable that the progeny, if any have ever been secured. would breed at all, and certainly not readily. In such wide or violent crosses the progeny is always sterile, and the claim for the 'Turken,' which is reported to be the hybrid progeny of a cross between the turkey and the chicken, is in all probability not founded on fact.

Is Naked-Necked Chicken.

"One other point must be made concerning the so-called 'Turken.' The illustrations accompanying the advertisements and literature are in all probability photographs of the Transylvania Naked-neck chickens. According to the best information obtainable this odd-looking breed originated in West India, and the characteristic naked neck has bred true for many years. It is a distinct character of the breed. The department believes that the so-called 'Turken' is nothing else than the Transylvania Naked-neck chicken, which apparently possesses no qualities superior to the more important standard breeds and varieties, and has not been shown to be particularly well adapted to conditions in many parts of our country.

"As far as the reported cross giving rise to the 'Kiwi' is concerned, there is much less evidence to support such a cross than in the case of the 'Turken.' This is too violent a cross to produce any results whatever.

"The burden of proof that such crosses as those giving rise to the 'Turken' and the 'Kiwi' must remain with the sponsors of such novel productions. In the meantime, the interests of the public should be safeguarded."

Feed to Maintain Cows

of Different Weights

Extensive detailed experiments have been made to determine the average amount of protein and other food nutriments needed to maintain cows of different weights. Also, the different feeds have been tested to determine the average amounts of digestible protein and other nutriments. This data has been arranged in table form and may be found in various books, experiment station bulletins, etc., but is too extensive to reproduce here. These experiments also show the amounts of food nutriments required to produce different amounts of milk. By taking the data from these tables, showing how much is required, the balanced ration is worked out by grouping together the necessary amounts of the different feeds to give the correct total and proportion of nutriments. Rations as worked out by this process can only serve as a guide because of the great variation in individual cows, but they are very valuable in actually obtaining the best rations.

Exercise Mare and Foal in Cool of the Evening

In the evening when it is cool and the flies are inactive, turn the mare and foal out on pasture. This will allow the colt to get plenty of exercise; grass, and fresh air with the least possible interference from flies. When the mare is not working, the pasture is the best place for both mare and foal, but they should be provided with shade of some sort. When natural shade is not available, a cheap structure should be built to meet the needs. Hang a few sacks under the trees or in the shed so that the mare and foal can use them to chase off

Lesson for February 21

JESUS RAISES LAZARUS FROM THE DEAD

LESSON TEXT-John 11:1-57. GOLDEN TEXT—"I am the resur-rection and the life: he that believeth on Me, though he were dead, yet shall he live."—John 11:25. PRIMARY TOPIC — Lazarus Raised from the Dead.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Lazarus Raised from the Dead.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOP-IC—Christ's Power Over Death.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOP-IC—Christ the Resurrection and the

I. Lazarus Sick (vv. 1, 2).

Even those who are in close fellow-ship with the Lord are not immune from sickness. Sorrow comes even to the homes where Jesus is loved.

II. Martha and Mary Send for Jesus (v. 3).

Those who receive Jesus into their home when all are well and happy can be sure of His love and sympathy when sickness and death overtake

III. Jesus' Strange Delay (vv. 4-6). Martha and Mary sent for Jesus because He loved Lazarus. They said, "He whom Thou lovest is sick." Now, Jesus "abode in the same place" because He loved Lazarus and his sisters (v. 5). This mystery is to be explained by the fact that Jesus was divine and knew all things.

IV. Jesus Goes to the Bethany Home (vv. 7-17).

At length He turned His face toward the serrowing home. Jesus knew and the disciples apparently knew that going into Judea meant His own death. His mission to this home was twofold: to restore to these sisters their brother and to strengthen the faith of the disciples (vv. 11-15). The word "sleep" reveals Jesus' estimate of death.

V. Jesus Teaching Martha (vv. 18-

As He is nearing the village Martha meets Him with a complaint because of His delay. He ignores her complaint and teaches her concerning the resurrection and life.

"Thy Brother Shall Rise Again"

Most blessed words are these to fall upon the ears of a sorrowing sister for a dead brother.

"I Am the Resurrection and the Life" (vv. 25, 26).

He is the source of life and all are joined to Him by a living faith. The believer cannot die. The great truth indeed to be apprehended is that here we are united to the living Christ. the source of life, and that this is a pledge of bodily resurrection and eternal reunion.

VI. Jesus Weeping With Mary (vv.

Mary fell at Jesus' feet, uttering the same words used by Martha, but no doubt with a different tone of voice and attitude. Her words were responded to with His tears-"Jesus went." He is now a sympathizing Savior; He can be touched with the feelings of our infirmities (Heb. 4:15).

VII. Jesus Raising Lazarus (vv.

His great sympathy now expresses itself in supernatural power. Sympathy would be valueless without this connection with divine power. In this stupendous miracle we see an illustra tion of the quickening into life of those dead in trespasses and sin.

Observe: 1. He Was Dead (v. 39). This is a type of the sinner dead in trespasses and sins, even morally corrupt (Eph. 2:1).

2. The Stone Must Be Rolled Away (v. 39). This is the part that the human must play. 3. Martha's Protest of Unbelief (v.

She insisted that Lazarus had already undergone putrefaction. 4. Christ's Intimacy and Fellowship With the Father (v. 42).

In His prayer He declared that it was not for His sake that He prayed.

but for those who stood by. 5. Christ's Manner of Dealing With Lazarus (v. 43).

It was by a call. He is calling men and women today by His Spirit, Word and providence. 6, The Response of Lazarus (v.

This shows that the call of Jesus is with authority and power. With the call goes the power to heal and obey. The Command to the People (v.

They were to remove the grave clothes and set him free. VIII. The Effect of This Miracle

(vv. 45-57). 1. Some Believed (v. 45). 2. His Enemies Sought to Put Him to Death (vv. 46-53). 3. His Withdrawal (v. 54).

The Soul of Religion Always remember that sincerity is the very soul of religion. A single intention to please God and to approve ourselves to Him must animate and govern all that we do.-Philip Dodd-

- THE -CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

---- From ----Moody Bible Institute Monthly Chicago, Ill.

February 21 Lives Transformed by Christ Acts 9:1-20

By comparing verses 1, 9 and 20 of this chapter the reader will see the extent of the transformation effected in this instance. Notice the atmosphere in which Saul of Tarsus lived, "breathing out threatenings and slaughter against the disciples of the Then observe the attitude he took in verse 6, "Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?" How can you account for this change except on the ground of the supernatural power of the Lord which in a moment changed the whole outlook and attitude of a life-time. In view of this experience is it any wonder that this man wrote the words in 2 Corinthians 5:17? Study this verse. It affords a key both to his experience and his teachings.

This supernatural transforming power in human life which the Bible so strongly emphasizes and which every vital Christian experience cor-roborates, is the one thing which Modernism opposes and repudiates. This is the reason why Modernism as a system is so perilous. Its acceptance means the denial of all that makes our Christian faith redemptive and

The essential thing in Christianity, says Dr. McNicol, is a new creation which is not of this world. The apostles taught this, and the true church of God has stood for it down through the centuries and stands for it today. The effort to impose the teachings of Christ upon those who belong to the old creation is like trying to hang fruit on a thorn bush. Our Lord Himself said, "A corrupt tree cannot bring forth good fruit." The old vine of human neture is corrupt at its year. of human nature is corrupt at its very root. See Mark 7:21-23; Galatians 5:19-21. This necessitates a new vine which shall bring forth good fruit. Compare John 15:5 with Galatians 5:22, 23. This fruit, the fruit of the Spirit, is satisfying to God and man. Verse 20 reveals the beginnings of that ceaseless activity which issues from the new attitude.

"To clean up permanent grass lands, orchards in sod, meadows, pastures, fence rows, and roadsides, recourse may be had to herbicides or poison sprays. The soluble arsenites are the only ones which have thus far proved satisfactory. These are applied with a power or compression sprayer.

Fate's Grim Jest

About the middle of the Seventeenth century, when so-called witches were being persecuted in England, there were many fanatics who went about the country seeking out persons accused of witchcraft and forcing them to confess by means of examination and tortures. One man in particular, Matthew Hopkins, received the title of witchfinder-general because of his industry in the search. In a single year (1644) he brought 60 persons to the stake. Being finally accused of witchcraft himself, Hopkins was subjected to his own favorite test of swimming, and, happening to float, was declared to be a wizard and put to death. -Kansas City Star.

German Girls' New Tasks

Changing times, changing ideals. The girls in Germany no longer prefer the occupations they once cherished. Such is the testimony of the "adviser for professions," Miss Margarette Schmidt, in Berlin-Mitte. Some years ago girls who had to work turned to typing and stenography. Now they prefer dressmaking and millinery occupations. Contrariwise,

Saw Nothing Pretty

in Hopi Snake Dance

The only ceremonial Indian dance of which I know the date, or approximately the date, is the Hopi snake dance, which comes in August, near the last of the month, Mr. Harriman writes in Adventure Magazine. The Hopi themselves never know the exact date until near the time, as it is fixed by the time when a shadow hits a certain point on the mesa. The priests watch and when a certain shadow touches this particular spot, then they know the dance must be held a certain number of days later.

This makes it vary from year to year, by a few days. This dance is held either at Oraibi, Hotevilla or Walpi, though at times it occurs at Shumgopavi or Mishongnovi. It is the closing number of a nineday ceremonial, which they believe brings rain. The snakes are caught and brought in after much mummery. The whole ceremony is a disgusting pagan rite, where men hold live snakes in their jaws and go dancing around the plaza. They drink an emetic of strong potency and all stand in a row and vomit violently over a cliff. Bah!

Off to the Front

He was a splendid figure as he stood there in the hallway, his rifle slung over his shoulder, his automatics strapped tightly around his waist, and his bag of hand grenades in his hand.

His wife and children clung tearfully to him as he tried to comfort them. "Fear not," he said, "I'll return." But in his heart he knew the dangers that awaited him.

"I'll call you up at noon," he said, tearing himself away, "and let you know if I'm alive."

The door slammed. The wife stood tragically alone in the hallway. The jeweler had gone to his day's work .-Life.

THE REINDOLLAR CO. Manufacturers of Feed TANEYTOWN, MD.

ANNOUNCEMENT

We beg to announce having installed an up-to-date steel corn cutter and grader, for the manufacture of cracked corn. This together with the Feed Mixer we recently put in operation enables us to manufacture, at low cost, OUR OWN BRANDS of Dairy Rations, Egg Mash, and Scratch Grains, and to mix for the public any formulas of their own, at very moderate prices.

OUR OWN BRANDS of Feed should find ready sale, for several reasons; they are mixed right here at home; made fresh every few days; contain no ingredients that are not feeds in themselves; are tested by the State authorities at College Park; and are sold at prices that are lower by comparison with other feeds of the same analysis.

We have always on hand for the manufacture of OUR BRANDS-or any formulas you may select-Bran, W. Feed, C. S. Meal, F. S. Meal, Gluten Feed, Beef Scrap, Beet Pulp, Alfalfa Meal,

We invite you to come and inspect our plant, try OUR FEEDS, and get results-the Cows and the Hens will tell the story.

Also handle Larro Feed, "Ful O' Pep" Chick Starter, Growing Mash, and Fine Chick Feed. At your service, we are-

Very Truly Yours,
