Baccalaureate and Class-Night Programs well Attended.

The baccalaureate sermon to the graduates was delivered on Sunday evening in the Reformed Church Rev. Guy P. Bready who used as his text 1 Samuel 10:32. He developed the thought that, like Saul, the public would expect the graduates to be outstanding figures higher than the average, "from the shoulders upward"; that they ought to be able to speak with confidence and authority in an outstanding way, as well as be leaders in the community's thought and moral status, and be standards of right. Having been a member of the teachers of the trackers of the ing force of the High School for four years, Rev. Bready was especially fit-ted to deliver an excellent address to the graduates, full of fine thoughts concerning their opportunities and responsibilities. The Class-night program was held on Tuesday night, to an appreciative audience, as follows;

The big event of the week will be the dedication of the new building (today) Friday afternoon and evening a full account of which will be given next week. The events will begin with a parade starting at the old school site on York St., and proceeding down York and Baltimore Sts., to George, then to the new building. The events of the afternoon will include the formal dedication; an address by Dr. A. N. Ward, president of W. M. College; presentation of Bible and Flag to the school by Rev. W. L. Seabrook for the local P. O. S. of A.

The Commencement exercises, presentation of diplomas and other features, will be presented at 8 o'clock and Rev. Joseph Shubert, of Downington, Pa., will deliver the address. The public is cordially invited to the dedication and commencement ceremonies. A full account of the various exercises will be given next week.

HOMES FOR THE INFIRM.

This state owes it to humanity to provide proper institutions for the care of aged and infirm, who are not of the class that belongs to the County Homes, or "Alms Houses," nor to places like Springfield Hospital. The

there appears to be a growing need for state homes for those who have very limited incomes, who are incapacitated for work, yet who are not in the "pauper" class, nor mentally unsound except to the extent that naturally accompanies age and infirmity. There are cases, too, in which relatives of such persons, who are willing to contribute to their sup-port, are not in position to take them into their own homes

The Church and Fraternity home plan, should be supplemented by state maintained homes; and it should also be part of the regulations of such homes that relatives who are able but unwilling, should be compelled by law to contribute to the support of parents brothers and sisters, and perhaps oth-

Real problems develop in almost every community, at times, as to how to properly care for unfortunates, and the state should solve such problems by providing homes large enough to meet all proper demands.

Rural Womens Short Course.

The fourth annual Short Course for the Rural Women of the State will begin Monday, June 14, at College Park. A large delegation of Carroll County women will be there. At present over seventy women have signified their intention to go. The busses will leave the Times Building in Westminster, at 10:30 A. M. They will go down through Eldersburg, Sykesville and West Friendship. The women from the lower end of the county will join the party en route. Every one is requested to bring her lunch and help make the picnic a success.

An especially fine program has been prepared. Classes will be given in foods and nutrition, clothing, house-hold management, house furnishings, millinery, landscape gardening, home dairying, poultry, health, parliamentary law and citizenship.

The registration fee for this Course is six dollars. This includes a sight-seeing trip to Washington. More of our Carroll county women should avail themselves of this wonderful op-

TYDINGS FOR SENATE. Formally Announced his Candidacy this Week.

Millard E. Tydings, member of the House from this Second Congressional district, has formally announced his candidacy for the Senatorial nomina-tion, and it looks as though he may have a clear field. Mr. Tydings comes from Harford county.

Incidentally, this will mean an opportunity for a new candidate for Congress, from Carroll or Baltimore counties, and it would seem to be Carroll's turn for the honor, as Baltimore county was represented by Fred Talbott for many terms, and Harford has Mr. Tydings.

The following trustees were appointed: Brandenburg, Clarence Conaway vs. Jonathan Dorsey, deceased; Detour, M. Floyd Wiley vs. P. D. Koons, resigned; Harney, Milton Reaver vs. M. D. Hess.

The salary of Augustus Crabbs, janitor of the Taneytown School, was increased to $600.00 a year.

The applications of Miss Emma M. Caple and Miss Addie F. Spurrier to be placed on the retirement list were approved.

In view of the enrollment in the high school at Winfield having fallen below the legal requirement, the school can not be continued. The portable will be moved to Sykesville where it s badly needed and the bus from Sykesville will be extended to Winfield H. Rockey, deceased, were granted to haul the seventh grade children. # STATE FIREMEN IN WESTMINSTER.

Three-Day Convention, Parade and Prize Contests.

The 34th. Annual Convention of the State Firemen's Association commenced in Westminster, on Wednes-day, continues over until this Friday evening. There is a membership of 83 Companies, many of which sent not only delegates, but large delegations. Wednesday morning was given up to the activities of the reception committee, and in the afternoon a big trades display was held.

The opening session at night, was conducted by Thomas G. Basil, president, of Annapolis, who responded to address of welcome by Mayor Geo. F.

The Convention will ask the legislature for the following legislation; the standardizing of all hose coupling in the state; a law making firemen deputy sheriffs with power to arrest any one interfering with fire apparatus going to a fire; that the office of State Fire Marshal be recreated and entirely free from politics.

In the contest events, on Thursday, Taneytown Company won three prizes; $50.00 for most men in line including band; $50.00 for truck race and coupling, the run being made in 2.05, a distance of one mile; $10.00 for tug of war contest. The Water Witch Co., of Annapolis won the prize for best appearance, and best apparatus and the Cambridge Company for coming the longest distance.

The parade was as follows; City officials, the Westminster Fire Company, Hampstead, Manchester, Lineboro, Union Bridge, United Company, Frederick, which had a steamer that has been in active service forty-nine has been in active service forty-nine years; Junior No. 2, Frederick; Howard, Glyndon, Mount Rainier, Riverdale, Cottage City, Seat Pleasant, Silver Spring, Kensington, Rockville, Rising Sun, Hyattsville, Emmitsburg, North East, Crisfield, Annapolis, Reisterstown, Cockeysville, Pikesville, Owings Mills, Taneytown, Havre de Grace, Elkridge, Easton, Chestertown and Elkton companies. and Elkton companies.

At the evening session the following were elected officers for 1926-27; President, John J. Fainter, Hyattsville; Senior vice-president, Henry Hidderman, Veteran Volunteer Association of Baltimore; first vice-president, Jos. P. Reese, Lutherville; second vice-president, W. B. Alexander, Elkton; secretary, George R. Lindsay; treasurer, W. B. Davis, Silver Springs; trustee, Shepard Bailey, Cambridge.

POOR PROGRESS OF CROPS. Cold and Dry Weather Exert a Backward Influence.

Continued cool and dry weather played an important role in the crop outlook during May, according to Jno. S. Dennee, Federal Agricultural Statistician for Maryland. A general weakening in condition was reported from over all the State. Practically everything excepting orchard fruits is away below what it was the same date in 1925, and much below the ten-year average of condition on

There is no disguising the fact that the farmers are growing gloomy. Moderate and desultory showers at the close of the month were beneficial. Generous dispensations of warm, wet weather in the near future will go a long way to rehabilitate the courage of the men on the farms. But in spite of the very pessimistic reports telling of the crimp that has been put in haylands, pastures, and the grain crops, the statistician says encouraging news comes from the orchard men who tell a different story of the excellent fruit prospect for this year. Wheat. Short in the straw. Many fields thin on the ground. Early sown looks good; late sown not good generally. Much sown late, scant winter covering. Production will be short this year.

Oats: Mostly poor to fair. Too cold and dry. Rain needed. Ground too dry to permit of germination. Just beginning to grow in northern and western counties. Showing up better in southern counties.

Rye: Heading in northern and western counties. Almost ready for the knife in southern counties. Fair crop in sight. Barley: Condition off; too cool and Corn: Mostly planted but slow of germination; stands irregular—some good, some bad. Much mention of cut worms. Some replanting. Stands of early corn for the most part good. Southern counties cultivating early planted.

Hay: Mostly poor. Cause: cool, dry weather. Haylands practically bare, except for weeds and scattering of timothy. Recent showers stimulating growth.

Clover: Poor. It is a safe guess that the clover crop will be almost nil this year. Some clover perished in last summer's drouth, and some froze during the winter, farmers say. And the spring has been unfavorable for any volunteer clover in some localities clover sown this spring looks like a failure. Much crimson clover cut in Eastern Shore counties during May.

Potatoes: Early potatoes making fairly good headway on a larger acreage than last year. Carlot movement may begin about July 1. Sweet potatoes being transplanted. According to growers there will be a substantial increase in the acreage of sweets this year.

Tomatoes: Early tomatoes having a difficult time because of the drought.
Orchard Fruits: Prospects excel

comico, Somerset and Worcester cut this crop. And made the berries somewhat small, and slow to ripen. Also too cold.

Milk Production: Flow of milk slightly better. 2.4 gallons per cow reported for May against 2.3 gallons for April. Egg Production: Average 50-8/10 eggs per 100 hens in May against 54 eggs per 100 hens in April.

Farm Work: Well up. But crops generally ten days late. Farm Labor: Supply adequate, but too much wages demanded, farmers say, hence none hired. The building of the Conowingo dam is causing a discouraging labor situation to farmers in Cecil and Harford counties.

The "Hekkaideka" Hoax.

Gettysburg, and to some extent the east, has been mystified and somewhat excited, over a communication received by Burgess Heiges, that the "Hekkaideka" a secret society, would hold its National Convention in Gettysburg, this week, asking police protection and requesting a permit for a masked parade. The Hanover Record gives the outcome of the story, as "The Burgess took the matter before the city council asking advice in view of the fact that he opposes masked demonstrations. The council passed it back to him. Newspaper men wired metropolitan papers about the new hooded society about which no one had ever heard before and many of the papers published the story. It was recited that "Hekkaideka" was 14 years old and founded by a number of prominent men.

The "advance agent" of the convention arrived Monday took the Burgess into his confidence and that official immediately joined in with the scheme, giving police protection and ordering the public square cleared for last evening's demonstration. A large crowd gathered expecting to see some impressive ritualistic ceremony and they were rewarded with entertainment when a body of men robed and masked appeared and conducted their "services." After the crowd had been "services." After the crowd had been duly impressed the visitors revealed themselves as the graduating class at Gettysburg college 10 years ago, and explained the great secret of their or-der—that "Hekkaideka" is merely the Greek for '16, the year of their graduation.'

The standard of measurement in American business is simply this: How much good work can you turn out in a day?

453 PUPILS TO ENTER HIGH SCHOOL.

Seventh Grade Pupils Graduate Tuesday, in Westminster.

The graduating exercises of Carroll County's seventh grade pupils was held on Tuesday, in Westminster, a large number of pupils, teachers and parents being present. Pupils of the following schools had part in an operetta "The Fairy Conspiracy." The following schools were represented by pupils;

Fairies-Hampstead, Manchester and Mt. Airy; Brownies—Taneytown, Sykesville; winged fairies—New Windsor; Fairy Queen, Cinderella, Beauty and Beast, Goldenlocks, Jack the Giant Killer, Jack of the Bean Stalk, Snow White and Rose Red, and the Child who Doesn't Believe in Fairies-Westminster; clown-New Windsor, Union Bridge.

Dr. Joseph Shubert, of Downing-town, Pa., delivered a pleasing ad-dress. The Commencement singing was directed by Miss Gertrude Morgan, supervisor of music of Carroll county schools, and Prof. Unger pre-sented the certificates of graduation. The schools represented and numbers graduating were as follows: Mt. Airy, 35; Taneytown 23; Mt. Olive, 3; Harney, 5; Union Bridge, 22; Uniontown, 7; Linwood, 7; Pleasant Valley, 9; Baile, 5; Mayberry, 6; Mt. #### B. R. C. Commencement.

Blue Ridge College closed the twen-ty-sixth session June 1, after a very successful year in attendance. The enrollment in College classes has steadily increased for the last four years. The increase has been one hundred and fifty percent. The nine graduates with B. A. degrees have planned to teach. Some have already signed contracts for teaching positions.

The attendance at Commencement was the largest ever seen at Blue Ridge. The programs were well pre-pared and excellently rendered. One of the outstanding events was Alumni Banquet. Mr. Walter Coffman, '23, now teacher at Spanishburg, W. Va., acted as toastmaster. Many alumni returned for the banquet. It was a real pleasure to enjoy the wit and humor of Mr. Gorsuch, editor of the Westminster Times, and other inter-ablest discourse the speaker has ever given at Blue Ridge. Dr. Henry is scheduled to deliver High School addresses at North East, Cecil county, June 8; Cordova, on Eastern Shore, on June 15; Oxford, Talbot county, June 15, and Laurel, Prince George county, on June 18.

The College Senior Class play was well rendered before the largest crowd in the history of the school. seats had to be brought from the class room to accomodate the crowd.

The final program was the granting of degrees on June 1. The address for this occasion was delivered by Dr. John S. Noffsinger, of Washington, D. C. A medal was awarded to Mr. Elmer P. Pfoutz, Union Bridge, for typewriting efficiency. Miss Georgia Hough, of Maryland and Miss Virgi-nia Showalter, of Virginia, were awarded the debater's medal.

The "Englar" Mail Box.

About twenty-five years ago the Editor of the Record sold the patent to the Englar mail box, for use on R. D. Routes, to a firm in Marengo, Ill. Being curious to learn what since happened to the box and business, several letters have brought the information that the Marengo Co., afterward sold the box to Boyer Mfg. Co., in Winona Lake, Indiana, which firm some years ago discontinued the box business, owing to slack demand for boxes. In all, about 50,000 of the boxes were Brookhart Wins in Iowa in a Split Up Vote.

Smith W. Brookhart, Iowa, who was displaced from the Senate recently by his Democratic contestant, defeated Senator Cummins, regular Republican for the nomination, in the state primaries, on Monday, in a tri-angular contest that failed to arouse much interest. The vote was light,

An investigation of the expenses of the late Senatorial primary in Pennsylvania, shows that the Pinchot campaign cost close to $200,000, of which amount Pinchot personally spent $43,000, and $119,000 was contributed chiefly by his wife and aunt, and over $30,000 by various others. The expenditures for the other candidates have not yet been concluded, but it was shown that Senator Pepper personally spent $2500., and Mr. Vare $71,435. It is claimed that very large sums were spent by both campaign committees.

Washington County Increases Taxes.

Owing to the increased cost of schools and roads, the tax rate of Washington county has been increased from $1.20 per $100, to $1.34 this year, by the Board of County Commissioners. At the same time the taxable basis was increased from $71,843,897 to $74,703,794. The increase in rate and basis will provide an increase in revenue of $138,905 over last year.

The largest rate increase was made in the school budget, which was granted an increase of $87,712. The appropriation for school purposes during the coming year will be $545,337.

The amount of money appropriated for road purposes was increased by the raise in the taxable basis and an addition of six mills. The total amount levied for roads this year is $259,222, an increase of $14,000 over last year. It was also necessary to levy four cents to provide funds for the primary and general elections in the fall. This levy was not necessary last year. Part of the increase in the general purpose account will be used this year to take

Gettysburg College to take Women Students for Four Years.

The Board of Trustees of Gettysburg College has rescinded its action against receiving women as students, and has agreed to admit them for four more years. The Trustees also indicated that after four years, there will be no chance for any but male students.

"the public interest demands it." It was in a case in which a severe sentence needed to be imposed because of disrespect for an order of the court; as we call it-"contempt of court." If the "public interest" demands that the court show its power to inforce its edicts, so, in our judgment, does the "public interest" demand be punished. We of the U.S. A. make more laws and break more laws than any other nation of the world. We have to our credit, or discredit, over 2,000,000 statutes, laws, ordinances and regulations. Something like 30,000 new laws are introduced in a year by Congress, and 20,000 by state legislatures. While only a fraction of these are ever enacted ,they clog the wheels of government, and waste time that should be employed to some better

Small, but Important

Keeping track of the one-celled plants and animals, too small to be seen except with a microscope, yet vastly important as the ultimate food of fishes and all other sea life, is the task of W. E. Allen of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography, La Jolla, Cal. Though these minute plants, belonging mainly to the diatom family, are too small to be eaten directly by fishes, they form the food of tiny shrimplike creatures that in their turn form the food of fishes. An understanding of the effects on the diatoms of light, temperature, chemical and other conditions is therefore important in building up an eventual complete understanding of fisheries and other sea industries, Mr. Allen explains.

GIRARD HAS ROYAL REVENUE FROM COAL

Easily Richest Educational Institution on Earth.

Girard college royalties on coal last ear amounted to $3,860,000, says Girard" in the Philadelphia Inquirer. But last year the consumers paid about $1,000,000,000 for their anthracite delivered into their coal bins. Wiping out that royalty would be like dipping a drop from a bucket of

Years ago the Girard estate stopped spending its coal royalties. The estate managers, which is the Board of City Trusts, wisely decided that coal in the ground is capital.

When that capital is removed from the earth its equivalent in dollars must be invested to take its place. Otherwise the estate would some day have spent its great resource of rev-

Coal royalties for years past have been invested and only the interest on that investment is spent.

Last year the value of the Girard estate increased almost $11,500,000, which inspires Walter C. Gold, a graduate of Girard college, to give other interesting figures.

Girard college is now, as it has been from the beginning, the richest educational institution on earth. At the start of the present year the four biggest college endowments in the world stood in this order: Girard-$72,000,000.

Harvard-$64,000,000. Columbia-$56,000,000. Yale-$40,000,000.

Stephen Girard died ninety-four years ago, and his fortune of about $8,000,000 was the largest then in America. More than $7,000,000 of that was set aside for the creation and maintenance of Girard college, which the old banker directed to be built on lines carefully set down by himself.

No other college in the world was then worth anything near $7,000,000. The figures show that it still leads, although enormous gains made by Harvard and Columbia may soon remove Girard from first place.

This college for fatherless boys, of whom there are now more than fifteen hundred students, has had a unique A Girard student is not only edu-

ARTIFICIAL CHICK MUST BE CODDLED

Overcoming lack of vitality in the artificially reared chicken is one of the chief problems of the modern poultry producer in the opinion of Prof. L. F. Payne, head of the department of poultry husbandry at the Kansas State Agricultural col-

"The artificial chicken," said Professor Payne, "Is hatched artificially, brooded artificially, supplied an artificial ration, and latest scientific developments have made it profitable to supply this type of chicken with artificial sunlight—light from quartz mercury vapor lamps.

"The artificial chicken has little in common with its ancestors who were hatched in small numbers under hens. They fed on grain around the stack, grasshoppers from field, and minerals from the soil. They grew to be strong, robust chickens, able to roost in the top of a tree or in the wagon shed all winter and be none the worse for exposure in the spring. They produced a meager surplus for the market basket and the dinner table, but they did survive. Health and vigor were their chief assets. "The important thing in managing this new chicken is to make its artificial life as natural as possible, recognize its shortcomings, and keep the poultry house free from drafts

The advantages of the artificial chicken are that it has a more rapid rate of growth, loses the maternal instinct, and is a heavier producer of eggs, Professor Payne stated.

Natural Incubation Is Most Satisfactory Plan

Natural incubation has proved to be the most satisfactory method of hatching goose eggs. The first eggs that are laid should be placed under domestic hens for incubation. Large Brahma and Cochin hens can incubate seven goose eggs at one time, while hens of the American breeds will not be able to cover more than four or five, depending on the size of the hen and the size of the eggs. Geese will cover nine or more eggs. It is always advisable to have a smaller number under domestic hens and geese than they can cover. The period of incubation for goose eggs is from 28 to 30 days. Geese are remarkably good sitters and are very successful in hatching their eggs. In order to successfully incubate goose eggs, a certain amount of moisture is required. In some localities it is the custom during dry weather, or when the nest is located in a place that is unusually dry, to dampen the eggs every four days by sprinkling them with water warmed to a temperature of 100 degrees Fahrenheit. It is generally considered, however, that it is better to moisten the earth around the nest, or if geese are used, to permit the goose the privilege of a swimming pool. If she has the opportunity of swimming, she will carry some moisture to the eggs in her feathers each time she comes from the water.

Insure Development of Goslings by Right Care

to add moisture to the eggs.

Hens are often given four to six goose eggs to incubate, but as the eggs are large, the hen may not give them enough turning. Turning them by hand once or twice a day helps to insure the proper development of the goslings. If the goose has her nest on the damp ground, it is not necessary

When goose eggs are hatched in an incubator, or in a nest that is dry, moisture should be added. On the seventh day sprinkle the eggs with water at about 100 degrees. During the second week sprinkle the eggs twice. At the start of the third week they can be soaked in warm water for a minute about every three days. During the last three days, soak the eggs for a half-minute to a minute every day. Goose eggs usually take about thirty days to hatch, but the time may vary from twenty-eight to thirty-three

White Diarrhea Cause

White diarrhea is transmitted from the hen, which is a carrier of the disease, through the egg to the chick. Scientific investigators tell us that three testings of the flock may be necessary to eliminate, or nearly eliminate, the trouble. The fact that the disease may have seemed to lie dormant one year and then appeared again may be due to two causes. New birds may have become carriers. All of the carriers may not have been eliminated by the test.

Hens for Breeding

Hens that have gone through their second laying season are usually used for breeding purposes, and they are considered the best. The reasons that pullets are not used is that the percentage of eggs that hatch is small and that the chicks are small and sometimes lack vitality. The size of the chicks is largely determined by the size of the egg. The chances are that you would not be satisfied with the results if you use the pullets for breeders.

Parsees Hold Secrets of Physical Culture

The Parsees have recovered from their ancient past some marvelous secrets of physical culture, equally available for both old and young, it was indicated by a remarkable exhibition given at Bombay before the leaders of the Parsee sect by a small group which calls itself the Zoarastrian Health league.

A slim young schoolgirl, dressed in native costume, but with her sleeves pinned back to free her arms, lifted a heavy army saber—the kind that a cavalryman would exert himself to handle—and began, first slowly, then more rapidly, swinging and flashing it through the air and around her head. She swayed toward it, pulled by its weight and she retreated staggering before it as it pressed solid momentum against her, but she controlled it, and, with a slowing swing, finally brought it to a dead stop before her and dropped it to the floor. The Parsees cheered and the schoolgirl skipped to the wings.

Then some schoolboys gave a wriggling, lightninglike exhibition of work and feels neglected. wrestling—a sort of compromise bekind of Parsee jiu-jitsu. Small boys of her own, or at least a hobby. Once flashed wriggling and kicking in the air and dropped with a thud on the great mat only to be up in a second tossing their late tormentors similarly or perhaps even more adroitly. It was a great contrast to the heavy western style of wrestling where two men grunt in a deadlock from which neither can bulge. The Indian-Parsee version is more like Japanese tumbling except that the tumblers seek to tumble each other.

Then a middle-aged man who had, it was explained, "only taken it up recently," showed some stunts in scientific weight-lifting; his face showed concentration but no strain, while his biceps-very ordinary looking biceps-exerted themselves only moderately, as it seemed. But from various awkward positions he got a solid chunk, a hundredweight, into the air chiefly, as was explained, by "knowing how." Another devotee of "muscle-control" lay down on the stage while the wheels of a heavy motor car ran over his abdomen.

Writer's Remedy for That Jealous Feeling

Wives who are jealous of other women appear in moving pictures and stories on the first page, but jealousy of this kind doesn't trouble the average wife. There are three reasons why it doesn't trouble her: First, because her vanity tells her that she is attractive to all men and especially attractive to her husband and need not fear competition; second, because she has an unflattering opinion of her sex and doesn't believe that any member of it is qualified to win a man as intelligent as her husband; third, because familiarity has taught her that her husband is very ordinary and she smiles at the thought of his being a heart-smasher.

But if she is not jealous of other women she is jealous of his work, a writer in the Baltimore Sun comments. His work too frequently occupies his mind when she wishes to occupy it. She is made to feel that she is a secondary consideration, even though the work is done for her, and her vanity is hurt. She resents the fact of his

It is an unhappy situation, but it is tween native Indian wrestling and a easily remedied. She may find a work she has it, she will no longer depend upon her husband for entertainment. She will live much within herself and think her secret thoughts and answer his questions in an absent-minded way and be quite self-sufficient.

The remedy has disadvantages, however. You can't rob Peter to pay Paul without offending Peter.

Her husband, made to feel that he is no longer essential to her happiness, will feel cheated and abused. He will find a thousand reasons to condemn her new activity, but the whole cause of his displeasure is the fact that his vanity is hurt. He is jealous because he now is forced to play the second fiddle lately discarded by his

What to do? Well, a collection of children makes an excellent hobby. A wife with five children doesn't worry about her husband's devotion to his work. She has an interest to occupy the art who had concentrated on all of her waking thoughts. And if they cause her to give less time and attention to her husband, he is not made jealous, for the children are his and to care for them is to serve him.

Children are an expensive hobby, but any expense is justified if it affords a common interest and takes away the temptation to feel neglected and abused.

The 500 Mile Speed Classic at Indianapolis has always been a Battle of Tires. In 1911, Firestone won with fabric tires at 74.59 miles per hour. #### auuuuuuuuuuuuuuuuuuuuuuuu Big Submarine Wins Battle With Whale Portsmouth, N. H.—In the first marine battle of its kind known, the giant submarine V-1 met and conquered a monster whale.

Lieut. Commander Sherwood Picking told about the encounter when the V-1, one of the largest vessels of its kind in the world, docked here after a run from Key West, Fla.

The submarine had put into Provincetown, Mass., for refueling. A few miles out from that port, and while submerged to a depth of about forty feet, a heavy jar shook the vessel.

When it came to the top officers and men hurried on deck and found a 58-foot whale, its back broken, wrapped around the bow. It was put out of its suffering with improvised har-

A Big Radio Equipment.

The radio department of the Baltimore American, last Saturday, contained the following very interesting write-up concerning Station WRNY New York.

"Station WRNY, atop The Roosevelt, New York, is probably unique in connection with its intercommunica-tion system. The entire hotel has hotel can immediately be brodcast from that point. Whether a great function is taking place in the huge ballroom, whether Orlando's music is picked up in the palm room, whether Ben Bernie's orchestra is broadcast direct from the grill room in the base-ment, or whether the chef gives a talk direct from the kitchen, where you can hear the entire activities of the cuisine, makes little difference. The pick-up can be effected instantaneoussimply by plugging in the microphone into an outlet. There is, of course, nothing new in this, but the novel feature is that in these same places, and in many other rooms in the hotel, there are also outlets for loud speakers. If anything of importance is broadcast at the studio on the eighteenth floor, it can be heard at will practically anywhere in the hotel through these outlets belonging to the public address system. A great many loud speakers are connected permanently, and a throw of a switch in the control room puts these loud speakers into action immediately so that the guests can hear the program emanating from the studio. However, that is not all. It is also possible for the thousands of guests throughout the hotel to hear other stations, if this is desired. For instance, if a baseball game is being broadcast by another station, this can be caught on WRNY's receiving aerial a special set being in use whereby, with amplifiers, it is possible to broadcast any desired station throughout the hotel on loud speakers, if this is desired, even if WRNY is actually on the air and is broadcasting a program of its own at the same time.'

Child's Health Maintained By WholesomeDiet

Modern educators are leaning more each year to the old Greek idea of rearing the citizens of the future. They are working on the principle of "a sound mind in a sound body."

Good health is built primarily on the foundation of right food. The sort of food the child has determines to a large extent the fitness of the man or woman.

Children have to be taught to like the foods that are good for them much in the same way that they have to be taught arithmetic and history. Boys and girls are not born with any particular desire for cereals or for bread. It's up to their parents to see that they learn the rudiments of a balanced diet and the reason for such a diet. Firmness and patience are often necessary in the teaching, but the job must be done.

Many mothers unconsciously put their children under health handicaps by allowing them to use their own discretion in the matter of eating candy, fruit, nuts and cookies. By so doing they set a precedent in the matter of other foods and make the teaching of good nutrition harder.

One or two articles are not enough to supply a child's needs for a meal. In order that there be normal development, there must be variety.

Fresh eggs, whole cereals, fruits in season and leafy vegetables should occupy an important part in the growing child's dietary. Then, too, a certain amount of concentrated food is necessary for children, because rapid growth whets their appetites to a razor edge, so that they crave more food than their systems can well dispose of. Evaporated milk, diluted with orange juice as a drink, or in custards or other baked foods, is especially beneficial for the growing child for the reason that it is concentrated to double the richness of ordinary cow's milk and is entirely sterile as well. The can of evaporated milk solves the problem of obtaining perfectly pure milk, as well as the problem of lack of refrigeration facilities, since this type of milk will keep indefinitely in the can.

give a tang of other lands to the dinner table. Things foreign awaken the romantic sense. Taste of codfish a la Benedictine transports one for the minute to the Montmarte in gay Paris, a dash of Piroski and we are supping in a quaint cafe on the Nevsky Prospekt in Leningrad, while the crunch of English tea cakes may bring visions of the rolling moors of Sussex.

As an aid to the housewife in carrying out this new and fascinating idea in cooking, the following of my recipes may prove of particular interest: Italian Polenta.

3 cups hot-cooked 1½ tbsp. butter rice or mush or olive oil Beat the butter into the mush while hot. Turn onto a hot serving plate and pour over the following cheese

Cheese Sauce. 2 tbsp. fat ½ cup evaporated milk diluted 2 tbsp. flour 14 tsp. salt with ½ cup meat stock ¼ cup grated cheese Dash pepper Melt the fat, add the flour, salt and pepper, and stir until the mass is smooth. Add the diluted milk and cook in a double boiler. Stir occasionally to keep smooth. Add grated cheese to the Not sauce and stir until melted or about three minutes.

Buffeten Kuchen. 1½ cups sugar 2½ cups flour ½ cup butter 4 tsp. baking

% cup butter 2 eggs, separated 2 eggs, separated powder 1-3 cup evaporated Grated rind of 1 milk diluted with lemon Chopped or sliced 2-3 cup water almonds Cream butter and sugar, add yolks of eggs and the lemon rind, stirring constantly. Mix flour and baking powder, add to the butter mixture, alternately with the milk and lastly stir in the stiffly beaten whites of eggs. Place in well-greased shallow coffee cake tins, sprinkle with granulated sugar, cinnamon and a few almonds, sliced fine or chopped. Bake in a moderate

ST. DENIS, FRANCE'S WESTMINSTER ABBEY

Resting Place of Most of French Royalty.

Washington.-Rising waters of the Seine recently washed into the grist mill of the day's news the name of St. Denis, a little French city just outside the northern gates of Paris. Residents of the island of St. Denis, which is in the river opposite the city of St. Denis, and those along the river bank, were forced to flee to higher ground, some of them taking refuge in the city

"Outwardly St. Denis is one of the least attractive of Paris' neighbors," says a bulletin from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society. "Most travelers on the Nord railway from England or Belgium, who catch only a fleeting glimpse of smoking chimneys and railroad yards from the car windows, are content to let a glance suffice.

"St. Denis, however, merits more of the world's attention," the bulletin continues. "Paradoxically this busy little industrial center of today is one of the mother cities of art, as well as the final resting place of most of the royalty of France. Although little visited in comparison to Versailles, Fontainebleau or the chateau country, St. Denis has a church that was among the first churches to embrace the Gothic style of architecture, considered by some critics the greatest single advance in temple building since Greek and Roman days.

"Within the church, or, more properly, the Basilica of St. Denis, is a veritable museum of French sepulcher sculpture, marble effigies of thirty generations of kings, and queens, and other nobility of France. In fact, from the tombs of St. Denis the names for an almost complete 'Who's Who' of ancient and medieval France could be copied. Marie Antoinette, Duc de Berry, Catherine de Medici, Louis XIV, Louis XVI, Louis XII, and a host of other Louis, Anne of Brittany, Marie Teresse, Henri II, and scores of others sleep their last sleep here in obscurity, but a few miles from the scenes of their former power and

Legend of St. Denis.

"It is into the well of legendary lore that one must dip to find anything of the city's early history. According to legend St. Denis, the first bishop of Paris, suffered martyrdom on Montmartre in Paris about the year 270. and walked with his head in his hands to the site of the present Basilica of St. Denis. On the initiative of St. Genevieve the clergy of Paris built a chapel over his grave two centuries later.

"The place soon became a mecca for religious pilgrims from all parts of France. St. Denis witnessed deluges of people in the Middle ages, which caused her far more concern than those of water today. In the Twelfth century Abbe Sugar reports that he saw worshipers crushed to death by the crowds pressing in behind them. It was obvious that the small chapel first erected was inadequate. When Sugar came into power he enlarged the crypt and above it built a choir, with tall slender columns supporting the intersecting arches of the vault

"Although the new style of building was not invented at St. Denis, it had never been very seriously considered by former builders because it was not believed possible to support heavy roofs without heavy, massive walls. Pilgrim reports of the success of the venture at St. Denis resulted, for a time, in wholesale transformations of churches from sturdy Romanesque into airy Gothic. The Gothic style is being employed today in the new cathedrals at Washington and at New

"Many personages and highlights of world history have been intimately associated with the Basilica of St. Denis. One of the popes, Stephen III. took refuge here from the Lombards. Charlemagne, founder of the Holy Roman empire, was anointed by the same pope during his residency at St. Denis. Joan of Arc dedicated her 6-4-8t English. During the French Revolution, however, it suffered most.

Mark Twain's Impressions. "Mark Twain found the sculpture of St. Denis particularly impressive, so impressive, in fact, that he placed Charlemagne's tomb here, although the saint is really buried at Aix. 'It seemed curious,' he wrote, 'to be standing face to face, as it were, with old Dagobert I, and Clovis, and Charlemagne, those vague colossal 4-3-tf heroes, those shadows, those myths of a thousand years ago! I touched their dust-covered faces with my finger, but Dagobert was deader than the sixteen centuries that have passed over him. Clovis slept well after his labor for Christ, and old Charlemagne went on dreaming of his paladins, of "The present city of St. Denis is linked with Paris by railroad, highway, the River Seine and a canal. Due to the great bends of the River Seine in the vicinity of Paris, the journey is more than three times as long by water as it is by road or railway. St. Denis was once celebrated for the fair known as 'Foire due Lendit,' which was founded by Dagobert in the Seventh century, and was held on the plain of St. Denis until 1552. At St. Denis, too, the art of window painting reached its highest perfection, in the beginning of the Thirteenth century. Its population today is about 75,000."

FROM THE BOOK OF MOSES

MOSE MORRIS used to live near Frankfort, Ky. He was a small, meek person of color who cultivated a truck patch for a living, and was generally liked by the white population. He remained a bachelor until he was nearing middle age.

Then, in an unthoughted hour, he suffered himself to be shackled in the holy bonds of wedlock with a large, truculent, overbearing black woman nearly twice his size. He led his bride away to his little house seven miles from town.

But within two weeks' time he came driving into Frankfort, which is the seat of the county as well as the capital of the state, in a two-mule wagon, which was piled high with household effects. As he crossed the bridge over the Kentucky river a white gentleman hailed him:

"Why, hello, Mose! Where are you going with all that plunder?"

"I'se movin', Mist' Bob," answered

"Movin' where?"

"Movin' into town-done rented a lil' house down back behind de L. & N. depot.'

"Why, I thought you liked the country," said the white man.

"I used to lak it," said Mose. "I used to lak it powerful. But my wife she don't lak the country. An' yere lately I've tuck notice, Mist' Bob, dat w'en my wife don't lak a thing I jest natchelly hates it."

in the same of the DETAILS

THE Year-In club was made up of a dozen men who had known each other for a lifetime. Every thirty-first of December, they gathered at dinner, to wait until twelve o'clock struck and another January first began. Among them were the most successful merchant in the city, a doctor with an international reputation, a famous writer, a politician who was spoken of among the knowing as "presidential timber," and a banker.

On one occasion over their cigars when, as was their custom, they turned to reminiscence, the question came up of what each considered the turning point in his career.

The millionaire merchant began: "The turning point in my career," he said, "I could name for you to the year and the day and the hour. It was the moment when I took for my trademark the word "Quality." After a while, no factory ever tried to offer me inferior goods at a reduced cost, no salesman of mine ever was fooled with seconds at half-price. It meant the habit of attending to details."

"In fact," the politician across the table took up the discussion "generalizations-to make a generalization myself-are really worthless. It's only details that count at all in last analysis. That's true in politics. We get to think that the big men, socalled, the people's representatives, are all that count; but let these representatives forget for a moment that they only represent and go counter to the people, and see what happens. The first time I was asked to run for governor, I said I'd accept if I could have a voice in my own platform. So I went through the state and talked with the rank and file, the butcher, the baker, the garage man and his wife; until I found out what he and she wanted. It took pains, but I had gained guidance for two terms of office."

He paused, and then, as twelve began to strike, they all got to their feet and raised their glasses. "To the New Year and the men who have the habit of attention to details!" he ended.

MISSION FALLS

Peals as Walls of Ancient Edifice Crumble.

San Diego, Cal.—The clang of "Mater Dolorosa," mission bell, which surmounts a pile of crumbling adobe on a hill crest seven miles distant in the back country from San Diege, has been likened to the sorrowing mother's cry for a crushed and broken child. And Mission San Diego de Alcala, over which it hangs, is, indeed, a crushed and broken thing.

On a bluff overlooking Mission valley stands the disintegrating facade of the mission church and the walls and roofs of one or two monastic rooms-all that the ravage of time and man's neglect have left of the once graceful buildings reared by the Franciscan fathers more than 100 years

Round about may yet be traced the adobe wall which marked the boundaries of the mission's one-time beautiful gardens. Here and there the wall has disappeared almost completely, while at some points the protecting branches of great trees have helped to preserve much of its original sturdi-

Mission San Diego de Alcala was the first permanent settlement made by the Franciscan missionaries within the present boundaries of the state of California. The first buildings to be. erected were located at a place called Cosoy by the Indians in 1796. It is known as Old Town, two miles from this city.

Five years after its founding Mission San Diego was removed five miles up the valley of the San Diego river to its present site. In 1783 a new church was built, strengthened and roofed with pine timber and the number of Indian converts approached

An extensive system of irrigation was begun. The river was dammed three miles above the mission by a stone wall and an aqueduct constructed of tiling based on cobblestones carried the water to the wide lands of the mission. The remains of this waterway still can be traced.

A heavy earthquake in the spring of 1803 seriously damaged the buildings of the mission and it was not until 1808 that reconstruction was start-The new mission was completed in 1813 and from then until secularization, about the year 1833, an era of prosperity was enjoyed with abundant crops and improved health conditions. Secularization marked the formal transfer of the mission from the padres' control to that of the Mexican government.

De Alcala's buildings and grounds declined with the spirits of the fathers and today only the few crumbling walls are left to tell the history.

Visby itself thus far has proved a treasure house for Swedish archeology, and new revelations as to the Bronze and early Iron ages are expected from these new ruins.

Recent excavations in the central market square of Visby to install a water main showed that the site had been used for human dwellings at least 4,000 years, while the city contains many impressive ruins of churches, fortifications and merchants' houses of the Middle ages.

in Neanderthal Man

If one has the Neanderthal type of skull, one ought to find compensation in having the Neanderthal type of physical courage. Not everything in primitive man is to be scorned. He may have been afraid of the thunder and have invented a mythological deity to which he attributed it, but he was not afraid of the wolf or the bear and went forth with his trusty stone ax to slay them. We only wish that we could retain more of his sturdy qualities. Even the Neanderthal man had a soul. He understood nature and the procession of the seasons, though he had no chronology. He was very prehistoric without knowing it, and he cared very little for remote posterity, but he was solicitous of the welfare of his immediate descendants or we should not

He was a creature of prodigious appetite and all his little Neanderthals had appetites in proportion, so that the daily hunt for food was his chief occupation. Sometimes he came home empty handed, but when he did make a killing there was a family gorge.

He was a being considerably like us anatomatically and had a use for his vermiform appendix. Sometimes his intellectuals may have been stirred; and as he sat on the piazza of his cave of an evening, he may have pondered. A fine sunset may have moved him, but not so much as the sight of a mastodon. That moved him mightily or made him move. He went inside

He may have bludgeoned mastodons with the help of his neighbors; unless the scientists spoil this speculative hypothesis by pointing out that John W. Neanderthal and the mastodon were not contemporaneous.

During the day one of the supervisors strolled round in order to see that the work had been done satisfactorily. When he arrived at the brow of the hill he could see no signs of the work.

After waiting for a while he journeyed on down. To his amazement he saw the man digging away at the foot of the hill. "What are you doing?" asked the supervisor.

"I'm making the hole for the notice board," was the reply. "That's not the place for the board,"

said the supervisor. "Well," replied the worker, "this is where the victims land, isn't it?"

Brakes Didn't Support Him

At a recent trial in a California city a young woman was suing for damages following injuries suffered in a street car accident. An ex-motorman testifled that a car traveling 20 miles an hour could be stopped in a space of 30 feet. The young woman's counsel denied vehemently the ex-motorman's statement. Thereupon the judge and jury went to the scene of the accident and gave the ex-motorman a chance to demonstrate.

A special speedometer, consisting of a wheel attached to the side of the car, was used in the test, says Popular Science Monthly. Measurements made by this instrument showed that the best the driver could do, with the car going 20 miles an hour, was to stop the car in a space of 114 feet.

HONOR WIFE OF BUILDER OF WALL

Chinese Erect Temple to Woman's Memory.

Chinwangt::o.-Where the Peking-Mukden railway pierces the great wall of China at Shanhaikwan is a temple erected to the memory of a plous wife whose husband perished in the building of the structure.

Chih Huang-ti, the emperor who united all China, came to the throne in 246 B. C. It was Chih who built the great wall to keep the country together.

A woman from the south, so the legend runs, brought cotton-wadded clothes for her man, who had been impressed by the emperor to help build the wall. She was told that her husband had died, and that she could not have his body because it had been thrown between the brick facings of the wall and crushed there under tons of rubble and earth. The woman persuaded a comrade of her husband to show her the stretch of wall where the body of her husband lay. Three days and three nights thereafter she walked up and down that length, until the compassion of the divine power was excited by her laments, and that part of the wall col-

The scandal came to the ears of the emperor, who recognized, beneath his tyranny, that the conduct of the woman had been most orthodox. To regularize the matter, he directed that she be admitted to his household. First, however, he granted her prayer that she be permitted to select the bones of her husband for more deliberate burial.

The woman gathered up her husband's bones and walked to the end of the wall, abutting on the sea, from which, before the guards could stop and herself after them.

The image of the pious wife, in imperial robes, stands in the temple near the spot, while the breach in the wall is now perpetual.

THE HYPNOTIC SIGNS

By EDGAR DAYTON PRICE

(© by Short Story Pub. Co.)

IDICULOUS!" I exclaimed. "Perfectly feasible," my seatmate assured me. "To make pieces of tin convey auto-suggestions?-pish!"

"The easiest thing in the world," reiterated my seatmate.

The train was crawling along drearily through a mist that dimmed the landscape. I had wearied of the comic papers and the novel I had bought of, the train boy, and had gone to the smoker to meditate and consume more cigars than was good for me. At a local station a short, stocky man and a gold-spectacled, whiskered individual got on, and the man with the spectacles sat down in my seat, breaking in on my meditations, while the stocky man sat down across the aisle and puffed absently at a clay pipe.

"My name is Loggs-Amos Boggs, M. D., Ph. D." said the intruder. "Glad to know you, Doctor Boggs," I said, glad of the interruption.

"Traveling man?" he inquired, inquisitively.

"No, thank you," said L "I'm glad to know that," said the doctor, heartily. "Bad lot, traveling men, bad lot, clear through. Well, their day is passing, thanks to a little discovery of mine," he said, "I've originated a substitute for traveling men in the form of hypnotic signs which may be sent by mail and which will bring the orders every time. Bits of tin, they are, loaded with a hypnotic message" message."
"Ridiculous!" said L

"Perfectly feasible," said the doctor, composedly, and proceeded to enlighten me about the hypnotic signs, after taking a pinch of snuff from a box which he produced from a pocket in his coat tails. "I have always been interested in hypnotism," he said settling his spectacles more firmly on his nose. "I can hypnotize a little myself, and have used the art beneficially in my practice. The subject of influencing the human mind through inert agencies has been a matter of study and experiment with me for years, but I lacked the medium to convey the command to the plastic brain-the sensitive surface that should take the message and give it forth to the unwitting recipient.

"I had a theory that for years I had no chance to work out. It was that the medium lay in the human brain itself, in that part called the cerebellum or little brain, the organ of the sensory impressions. What I wanted was such a brain from a live, healthy man, which was naturally difficult to procure. Chance helped me one day, when there was a wreck on the railroad near me, and I was called professionally. Lying on the ties in the midst of the debris was the thing l had waited so long for-a splendid cerebellum freshly separated from its

"Tremblingly I made an etherious the doctor. "Casting about for a vehicle to use it on, I found a piece of bright tin-the very thing. Then I was ready for a test, and placing the hypnotic sign before me, I concentrated my will and mentally printed a simple command on the little plate, which I then inclosed in an envelope, and, taking the precaution to have my housekeeper address it, sent it to the druggist who habitually put up my prescriptions.

"The command was for my friend to come up to my house and have a chat -not a complex message. Judge of There was a crowd gathering at the my delight when the druggist appeared the next day, hypnotic sign in hand.

"'Here's a funny thing, doc,' he said, 'this bit of tin without a mark or scratch on it came in the mail this morning. The thought occurred to me that you-say, doc, what's the matter with having a little something hot?'

"There it was, come down to the office and have a little something hot -my very command," said the doctor, beaming through his spectacles. "What a confirmation of my hopes! I then told my friend of my wonderful

"'Bosh!' he said, promptly, 'It's a mere coincidence.'

"'Perhaps it was a coincidence,' I admitted, 'suppose you take one of the plates and send a message to some one.' Anything to oblige,' he said, and took the slip of tin and promised to follow directions. 'I'm going to collect a bad debt with it,' he said, chuckling. I heard nothing from him for a day or two and then he came to see me.

"'I almost believe that there's something in that discovery of yours, doc, he said, I

'Yes, and no, said the druggist.
'As you instructed me, I took the piece of tin home and concentrated a mes-sage on it to a colored man who had owed me $2.85 for five years. It seemed like rank foolishness, but I sent it off by mail with the command, "Come Peter, pay up," mentally printed all over it, never expecting to see it again. But-' "'Peter came,' I interrupted.

"'Yes, he did,' said my friend. 'Peter was scared and indignant. "Yo" druggist man," he said, "wha' fo' send wid yo' skull-an'-crossbones on de back ob de envelope? If Ah takes sick an' dies, Ahil see dat yo' hangs for hit, suah! Ah 'lows it's dat $2.85 Ah owes | hypnotic signs.'

yo'. Heah's yo' money an' take dat hoodoo off right quick!"

"'Sure enough, there was a poison label stuck to the flap of the envelope; my clerk put it on, probably. I'm afraid it was the fear of a hoodoo, and not your hypnotic scheme, that fetched Peter to the center, doc.'

"I'm a tenacious man," said Doctor Boggs, glancing across the aisle at the stocky party, who appeared to be in a doze. "In spite of the doubt thrown on my discovery by my friend the druggist and his hoodoo theory, I knew it was the hypnotic suggestion, and that alone, that had brought the darky to terms. Here were two cases which had worked per program, the third should be highly conclusive. I made up my mind that an utter stranger was best to work with, and went down to the hotel and found my man in the person of a varnish drummer, to whom I outlined my discovery carefully. He was interested in a flash.

"'What a cinch to the varnish business,' he murmured. 'Nice little tin signs loaded with a corking strong hint to order goods, and no arguments; order comes back by return mail! Got any of those tins about you? I'll try them on my customers in this town. How do you load 'em?'

"This was the kind of co-operation I was looking for, and I gave the varnish man three sensitized plates and instructed him in their use. He at once went to his room, and, locking the door, sat down to the task of hypnotizing the signs. Unluckily, the house was full of traveling men, and a lot of them wanted my man for a game of chess, and went up to his room and pounded on the door. Pounding on a door is not conducive to concentration, and the varnish man, irritated, besought them to go away.

"'Clear out! Go climb a tree!' I heard him sing out above the din as the tattoo continued. 'I'm busy and can't come! Go stand on your heads or jump into the river! Stop that infernal pouunding!' They kept the hubbub going until he gave up in despair and let the hypnotic experiment go for the time, and I went home. "Now, my friend, you characterized my discovery as ridiculous," said the doctor, gleaming at me through his spectacles, and again taking snuff. "You shall see how ridiculous it was, in the outcome of this final experiment, for my emulsion was about gone. The varnish salesman was out bright and early the next morning among his customers, and the result of his first visit was a hurry call for me from a furniture factory, where the secretary, who did the buying, had been taken mysteriously ill.

"What's the trouble?" I asked, in amazement, for the secretary was on the floor with the whole office force sitting on him, while he wriggled and besought them to let him up.

'He's crazy and wants to jump into the river,' they chorused. 'A varnish salesman was in to see him a few minutes ago, and handed him a tin business card; he loked at it and started for the river on a run, peeling his clothes off as he went.

"'That's right,' said the secretary, wriggling again, 'I want to jump into

"I turned sick as I recalled the remarks the varnish man had made the night before to the fellows hammering on his door. Here was hypnotic suggestion with a vengeance. I barred y to the door, and snapped my fingers again and again under the secretary's nose. 'You're all right, wake up!' I said, sharply. He pulled himself together, gazed at me stupidly, and then suddenly ejaculated, 'Well,

"What he would be I had no opportunity to learn, for a frantic messenger came bursting in to summon me to the big organ factory, where the president and treasurer were acting strangely. I went on a run, meeting on my way the varnish man, who was heading for the depot at a lively gait. organ factory, watching with curiosity the actions of the two men, as the president, an elderly man, gravely stood on his head as fast as kindly hands could reverse him to his natural attitude, and the secretary made the most grotesque efforts to climb a small sapling in front of the office. Each man held fast to a piece of tin, which told the story. "I had had the conclusive evidence that emulsion of cerebellum would carry auto suggestions," said Doctor Boggs, wiping his brow, while a wild light gleamed in his eyes. "I had a terrible time stopping the president from standing on his head and the treasurer from shinning up the sapling, for, you see, the original commands had not come from me, but from the varnish salesman, who was miles away. Therein lay a drawback to the discovery, for it was a question of wills, and if the varnish man's will had been the stronger, they would have stood on their heads and climbed trees until the end of time. Luckily, my will prevailed."

"Wonderful!" I commented, for the doctor's story was done, and he was apparently waiting for something from me. "Have you taken any steps to put your discovery on a commercial

"Have you a strong will?" asked the doctor irrelevantly.
"Moderately strong," I said.

"Then I want your cerebellum!" roared the doctor, rising and making a clutch at my neck. In an instant the stocky man across the aisle was on him, and a pair of handcuffs were snapped on his wrists, and, foaming at the mouth, he was borne to the baggage car ahead, where his maniacal me dis yere piece ob tin fo' a hoodoo, howls could be heard for some time. "Mad!" I ejaculated, "Mad? Who would have thought it? And I was just going to give him an order for

CARBON TO WORK

UTTING the old demon, carbon, to work sounds like a paradox nevertheless that's just what GULF No-Nox Motor Fuel does and here's how it happens: Compression is power. The more compression the more power. Greater compression is secured by reducing the displacement or space in the combustion chamber. Carbon deposits materially reduce this space—old time gasoline would not withstand this added carbon compression - clicks - knocks - pings or detonations of distress quickly following sudden acceleration or heavy pulls.

No-Nox withstands higher compression—stops the knocks or detonations, thereby increasing engine efficiency. GULF No-Nox and Carbon Deposits work together for more power and greater mileage.

Turns Mountains Into Mole Hills

This guarantee goes with it: GULF No-Nox Motor Fuel is Non-Noxious, Non-Poisonous and no more harmful to man or motor than ordinary gasoline -that it contains no dope of any kind -that the color is for identification only—that it positively will not heat the motor, winter or summer.

GULF No-Nox Motor Fuel is priced three cents per gallon higher than ordinary gasoline—and is worth it.

JOSEPH'S FIDELITY

LESSON TEXT-Genesis 39:1-23. GOLDEN TEXT—Seest thou a man diligent in his business; he shall stand efore kings.—Prov. 22:29.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A Noble Slave

Boy.
JUNIOR TOPIC-How Joseph Behaved as a Slave.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOP-IC—Passing Severe Tests.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOP-IC-Triumphing Over Trials.

I. Joseph, the Well Beloved Son (37:3).

He was Jacob's favorite son, partly due to the fact that he was the son of the wife of his first love and the son of his old age, but mainly because of the superior qualities he possessed. II. Joseph's Fidelity as a Son

(37:12-17)

Joseph's brethren had gone to Shechem, some fifty miles from Hebron, where there was plenty of pasture for their flocks. After a time Jacob became anxious as to their welfare and dispatched Joseph, now about seventeen years old, for the purpose of find-ing out their condition. He did not allow the envious hatred of his brethren to deter him from his duty, but willingly responded. "Here am I." He no doubt realized that his mission was fraught with great perils-exposure to wild beasts, robbers, and the murderous hatred of his brethren. His fidelity is shown in two ways.

1. The fact that his father sent him on such a long and dangerous journey to bring back word concerning his brethren shows that he had proved himself to be a trustworthy character. 2. His brave and glad response to his father's request. He responded to his father's confidence. III. Joseph's Fidelity as a Slave

1. Sold to the Ishmaelites (37:28). At the sight of Joseph, the murderous envy of his brethren was stirred up. They first proposed to kill him in order to prevent his dreams coming true. Finally, the prudent suggestion of Judah to sell him to the Midianites prevailed and he was carried to Egypt and sold to Potiphar as a slave.

2. His prosperity while a slave in Potiphar's house (39:2-16).

The secret of Joseph's prosperity was that the Lord was with him (v. 2). This prosperity consisted:

(1) Of being accorded the privilege of Potiphar's house, i. e., his private residence instead of his fields or public buildings

(2) He became Potiphar's personal attendant (v. 4). Observing Joseph's fidelity Potiphar chose him to give attention to his personal affairs.

(3) He was made overseer over Potiphar's house (v. 4). As a personal attendant he proved himself to be so capable that he was made administrator over his estate including sehold. He no doubt pur chased all supplies and had charge of the servants.

(4) He brought prosperity to Potiphar (v. 5). The Lord blessed Potiphar for Joseph's sake.

(5) He possessed an attractive personality (v. 6). His fine physique and commanding personality were gifts from God. All our gifts should be consecrated to the Lord who gave

3. His temptation (vv. 7-17). His very attractive person became his peril. Potiphar's wife became infatuated with this handsome slave, and attempted to induce him to commit adultery with her. He resisted this temptation because yielding would have been to sin against his master and his God. The man who is faithful to God will be faithful to his fel-

IV. Joseph's Fidelity as a Prisoner

(vv. 19-23). Being defeated in her wicked purpose, Potiphar's wife accused Joseph falsely. Because of her charge he was thrust into prison. Potiphar must not have really believed his wife or else he would have put Joseph to death. He did to him the least that was possible under the circumstances. Because of his purity and unflinching loyalty to God and man, God was with him even in the prison.

1. The Lord gave him favor in the sight of the keeper of the prison (v. 21). This keeper was none other than Potiphar himself (40:3, cf. 39:1).

2. He was given charge of the prisoners (v. 22).

Potiphar knew Joseph's ability and faithfulness, therefore gave him employment in this new place.

3. The Lord made him prosperous Joseph's success was due to the hand of his God upon him.

June 13 How to Get Things Done Nehemiah 1:1-3; 4:1-6, 16-23

The qualities that enabled Nehemiah to get things done were first of all a true interest and deep concern in his own countrymen. He was a fine patriot. He speaks of his people as "My brethren." He might have held himself aloof from their interests, for as king's cup-bearer his personal needs were well supplied, but he had a heart for others, and so inquired "concerning the Jews that had escaped which were left of the captivi-

The second factor that entered into the task of getting things done was his ability to get others to work. "It is better", said Mr. Moody, "to get ten men to work, than it is to do ten men's work." Nehemiah had a pure motive. Like the apostle Paul he could say, "I seek not yours but you." The people responded to this. They had a "mind to work" and disposition to do things. Such a condition in our churches and young people's societies would transform them into organizations through which things would be brought to

In the closing verses of our Scripture selections we observe another matter bearing upon this task of getting things done, namely, adequate organization and proper direction. There was something to organize. Life and energy and willingness need proper direction in order to gain the best results. Organization of itself is a cumbersome, hindering thing, but or-ganization of forces that have been generated by faith is desirable and es-sential. Nehemiah possessed admin-istrative qualities which enabled him with the full consent of the people to organize and direct their labors. See Nehemiah's prayer in 9:16-38.

Red Hair Distinctive Mark of Famous "Vamps"

Skin pale as elder blossoms, green eyes, and red hair; there you have the up-to-date vamp, writes Mrs. Stanley Wrench in the London Evening News.

All sorts of legends and traditions explain why red hair has usually been looked upon with distrust. The Danes who conquered England were reputed to have red hair, and the fair-headed Saxons hated the color. Even among the old Greek myths we find the Medusa, the terrible Gorgon, had crisp red locks, which afterward were changed to hissing serpents.

But when we leap onward and reach the pages of Homer we find that the immortal Helen of Troy, the most beautiful woman in the world, had red hair, and surely here we discover the secret of the red-haired minx; for although Helen's name has passed down to us right through the centuries as the most radiant being the world has ever seen, she was siren and tempt-

The ten years' war, distress and desolation, yet most vividly of all we remember that scene on the walls of Troy when Helen met the old men, and their hearts grew weak as water as they gazed at her and her beauty. Curses died away. Red-haired beauty

Cleopatra, "serpent of old Nile," had red hair. She was not beautiful; indeed, authorities declare her to be quite plain, even snub-nosed, but she had red hair, and won Mark Antony, prince of lovers, whose sole thought was to please the Egyptian siren.

Queen Elizabeth must have thought red hair becoming, for it is said she wore a red wig when she wished to look at her best; the ill-fated but lovely Mary Queen of Scots is reputed to have had red hair; and we know that Laura, whom Petrarch has immortalized by his verses, first attracted him by her red tresses.

"Red hair, hot temper," runs an old Midland saying; indeed, it seems to be generally acknowledged that redhaired folk have fiery tempers.

Oil Cook Stoves and Ovens

WE have the PERFECTION STOVE that the Six Famous Cooks recommend so enthusiostically. Let us show you why a PERFECTION in your kitchen means better cooking and greater convenience in doing it. Many styles and sizes.

BOSTON SCHOOL of COOKERY Tests and Approves

VISS LUCY ALLEN, director of the conservative Boston School of Cookery, is one of six famous cooks who recently put the Perfection Stove to a rigorous, practical cooking test. Like the other five famous cooks, Miss Allen cooked by every cooking process, and gave us her opinion of the Perfection.

Uniformly Good Results

"I cooked many meals on the Perfection Stove," says Miss Allen. "The results, whether using the top of the stove, the oven, the broiler, or the toaster were uniformly good. There were several features sufficiently pronounced to recommend the stove to the most particular people.

Easy to Work on

"The Perfection is an easy stove to work on. There is no reaching across several hot plates, as there is with a gas or coal range.

"The flame never varied from the point at which it was set, whether it was low for stewing down pumpkin or high for baking beans several hours.

Clean Kettles

"There was no black deposit on the cooking utensils, even when the high, yellow tipped flame was used for broiling steak.

'The long chimneys burn every drop of oil completely before the heat reaches the utensils.

"We were so well pleased with the 1926 Perfection Stove, both as to results and operation, that after completing the test we kept it to use for auxiliary work in our classes," she concluded.

Tested and approved by the Boston School of Cookery! That means that the Perfection was used under all possible cooking conditions-for slow cooking, for fast cooking; for baking, for frying, and for broiling. In every case it was found efficient.

Six Cooks Agree

The other five famous cooks who tested the Perfection were enthusiastic, too, about the results obtained. And, every day 4,500,000 women get real cooking satisfaction from their Perfections.

See these 1926 Perfections at any dealer's. All sizes from a one-burner stove at $6.75 to a five-burner range at $120.00. When you cook on a 1926 Perfection, you, too, will be well pleased with it.

Her Mother's Mistake

While Audrey and her parents were out motoring the other day her father and another motorist coming along a side road each thought he could beat the other past the intersection of the tracks. Both were mistaken, and when it was just too late her mother screamed:

"Oh, our car will be wrecked and all of us killed!"

But little Audrey just laughed and laughed, for she knew the car was not theirs, but instead belonged to a driveit-yourself company.--Kansas City

Trees and Slums

One sign, and a bad one, of our advancing civilization is that we cut down trees. We cut and cut, and then—a better sign—we begin to think of planting them again. From trees to slums and from slums again to trees; such is the historic method, only that we have displayed much more energy and enterprise in getting rid of the trees-and we are still doing it—than we ever do in replacing them in the neighborhood of our towns.-Manchester Guardian.

New Manner in Italy

The Bank of Italy of San Francisco has just discovered that in October it was the victim of a $100,000 embezzlement plot worked by "two unfortunate boys from the old country" named Julius and Ludwig Busch. This should make a good story for some after-dinner speaker: "It seems that there were two Italians named Julius and Ludwig Busch-"--Arkansas Ga-

TANEYTOWN LOCALS

Items of news from town, or vicinity are always wanted for this column. Especially accidents, sales of real estate, fires, important happenings, visits to or from the community social events, and all matters of general interest to those at home, and way from home

Richard S. Hill left on Wednesday for Baltimore, where he expects to spend a week among relatives.

James D. Haines was here on Monday, looking after affairs at his farm. He has been unwell for some time, but is improving.

Members of the graduating Class of 1926, at the Maryland State Normal School, from Taneytown, are: Miss Treva R. Becker, Miss Iva Hilterbrick, Franklin S. Gilds and Grayson A. Shank.

T. A. Wastler, Cascade, Md., was here this week in the interest of organizing a lodge of Jr. O. U. A. M. We should say that this town is about as full as it ought to be of Fraternal Orders.

Next week we expect to publish a large cut of the new High School building. As a lot of our patrons will want extra copies, it will be necessary to engage them by next Tuesday evening, in order to avoid being disappointed, as we are not likely to print enough extras to supply the demand.

At various spots in town, in the alleys, there are dense growths of poison ivy. This should be killed, as some 'take poison" by merely passing by it; besides, it is a worthless and always more or less dangerous growth, and an evidence of untidiness.

Taney Lodge No. 28, I. O. O. F., will hold their Memorial Service, on Sunday, June 13, 1926, at 2:00 o'clock. Will meet at the Lodge room, and march to the cemeteries, headed by the new I. O. O. F. Band, where services appropriate to the occasion will be held. Bring flowers.

The many friends here of John J. Reid, of Detroit, will be sorry to hear that he has been in a hospital for treatment, and is now at home in bed, awaiting developments, with the possibility of an operation being necessary. He has been more or less complaining during the winter and spring. We will hope for good reports, later.

We do not know that anybody ever tried to count the automobiles that may be seen in town every fair Saturday night; but our main streets are wide and long, and parking space is usually fully covered, without counting the cars in motion, and many of the quieter side streets are also used. An actual count would be an impossible job.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bollinger and children, Marian and George Jr., spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. David Little and family. Mrs. Maggie Null and children, Hazel and Walter Mr. and Mrs. Clare Null, Mrs. Walter Welling and James Burke, of town, Mrs. Robert Smily and sons, Robert, Charles and Calvin, of Summer's Run, Md., visited the same place on Sun-

The "Bunker Hill" section of York St., will again be graded down, to meet the requirements of the State road survey on the Littlestown road. It is said that a compromise agreement has been reached that will not seriously injure the properties on the street; but, there does not seem to be any real need for much, if any, change in the present grade—except for the pleasure of "speeders."

We are glad that the Opera House over our office has resumed its regular job, and gone out of the school business. To put it mildly, at times the noise of the school was a nuisance; however, in justice to the pupils, we must admit that they were neither more noisy nor disorderly than Hesson family the first of this week. a crowd so located must be. We expect that this is a case in which everybody is happy that the make- timore, and the second was a deleshift has ended.

Fourteen carloads of Carroll county farmers, from Taneytown and neighborhood, led by J. E. Flohr, representing the Taneytown Grain & Supply Company, made a trip to Palmer Lime Co., at York, on Saturday last to inspect the process of making lime. They report having a fine time, and were well pleased with the trip. They were the guests of the Palmer Co., and were royally entertained and given a fine dinner.

The following pupils of the Taneytown school received their diplomas, on Tuesday, to enter High School; Misses Ethel Clingan, Mary Isabelle Elliot, Ruthanna Flickinger, Edith Goodermuth, Zola Hess, Agatha Hahn, Ruth LeGore, Jane Long, Mildred Matthews, Rita Snyder, Mildred Shriner, Dorothy Thomson, Thelma Mary Young; Messrs Maurice Becker, Franklin Baker, Richard Baumgardner, Robert Clingan, John Chenoweth, Roger Foland, George Lemmon, Delmar Riffle and Stanley Lutz.

The water main was extended, this week, to supply the new school build-

Donald Stitely and wife, of Woodsboro, were guests on Sunday of Geo. Newcomer and family.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hilterbrick, were recently entertained at dinner at the home of Jacob Trone, in Hanover.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Klingle, of Baltimore, spent Saturday with Mrs. Sarah Null and sister, Mrs. Louisa Hammond.

Mrs. Charles Watson, (nee Hess), of Colmar Manor, Md., spent the past week, with relatives and friends, in and near town.

A new barn 42x75 feet, is being built on Mrs. Goulden's farm, occupied by Pius L. Hemler, to replace the one destroyed by fire.

Miss Helen Bostion is visiting her sister, Miss Mildred Bostion, at Bridgewater, Pa., and will attend the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Colliflower and two children, of Altoona, Pa., were callers the first of the week at Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Stover's.

Franklin Baumgardner is suffering from cataract over both eyes, and his sight is failing fast. An operation will be performed at the proper time.

Mrs. John Garner, of Baltimore, visited her mother, Mrs. Sarah Fogle, on Tuesday. Mrs. Ralph Sell and children of near town, were callers at the same place.

Mrs. Laura Reindollar, Wallace Reindollar, Misses Mary Reindollar, Mary Hesson and Clara Brining, visited the Loysville Orphans' Home, last

Mr. and Mrs. Alvie Miller and son, Buddy, Mr. and Mrs. William Perago of York, spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Strawsburg, at Otter Dale.

The new school building and its surroundings have been put in as good shape as possible for the program, this Friday, and will be found to accommodate the event very nicely.

Mrs. Joseph A. Elliot was taken to Mercy Hospital, Baltimore, last Friday, suffering from gall stones. It is now reported that there will be no operation, as she has greatly improv-

An error crept into our statement last week, refering to the Rural Route at Harney. The Carrier on the route is James C. Myers, while A. C. Leatherman is the postmaster at the Station, and sub-carrier.

A message was received on Thursday evening by C. O. Fuss & Son, undertakers, to come to Springfield Hospital for the body of Miss Martha J. Hann, to be taken to the home of her sister, Mrs. Daniel Crabbs, of this district. We have not received any further particulars.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Hess attended the 15th. anniversary class reunion and banquet of the 1911 Class, Saturday night at the College tea room, Westminster. They were accompanied home by Miss Ruth Monroe, of Westport, Baltimore, and Miss Olive Simpson, of Cumberland.

Mrs. Jonas E. Witmer and Miss Sarah Kesselring, of Marietta, Pa; Mr. and Mrs. John Witmer and daughter, Mary, near Maytown, Pa., were weekend guests at the home of Mrs. Jesse Myers. Mrs. Harry Yagle, Maytown, Pa., and Mrs. Samuel Greenholtz, Uniontown, were visitors at the same place Saturday.

Elliot E. White and wife, of Brownsville, Oregon, cousin of D. J. Hesson, who has not been east for forty years; also a nephew, Robert Hesson and wife, of Elko, Nevada, visited the The first named was a delegate to the Presbyterian General Assembly, Balgate to the Shriner's convention in Philadelphia.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to take this method of thanking those of our Fire Department, who were interested enough to take an active part in the State Firemen's parade, at Westminster, on Thursday, thereby enabling us to capture first prize.

Belonging to the Big Crowd.

Everybody likes to belong to a big There is an inspiriation and feeling of satisfaction about it hard to duplicate in any other way. We like to boast a little, in a harmless self-sat-isfied sort of way, when "our side" wins, and when "our party" demon-strates its mere bigness. We even like to boast of big crops, big cattle, and the "big times" we have in our social and fraternal events. There is a feeling of power and importance connected with bigness, and we like it.

But, big crowds are not always a thing to boast of. We must first feel that the crowd is big and fine in its principles and objects, before we can be proud of it. Nobody feels especially fine because the big car in which he is riding forced the little car into the ditch. Mobs are big crowds that over ride lows and good order temporary. er-ride laws and good order, temporarily. Mere bigness may be destructive, like floods and storms.

There is something far better than being a member of a big crowd, and it is being part of a good movement, whether it be large or small. Conscience, self-respect, sterling honesty of character, all require us to be big in principle, upright in morals, and brave on the side of right, irrespective of the size of our following.

Majorities—when they have the chance to express themselves—rule in this country because we have not disthis country, because we have not discovered any better plan on which to base government by the people; but, majorities are sometimes wrong. And, when this is demonstrated—as it usually is—we make up a majority to right the wrong. It is the American

So, it is the big question of deciding which is right, that should always actuate us in our public as well as private, participation in affairs. This often requires operating with a minority; it calls for courage in resist-ing the charms of the big crowd, and the hurrahs of victors on the other side. But, it pays in the end to stick to plain old-fashioned righteousness, and to carry with us a clear con-science and full self-respect.

Was it Thomas Jefferson who said, "I would rather be right than be President?" That is the spirit for real Americans to exercise.
