

LAW & ORDER LEAGUE IN CARROLL.

Organization, Objects and Purposes of the League.

The executive committee of the Law and Order League for Carroll County met in the Community Room, 2nd floor, Wantz building, Monday evening, Aug. 2. The extreme heat made the evening very uncomfortable, yet there were ten of the fourteen districts of the county well represented, with the county president, and the county secretary of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union present.

George Mather, president of the organization, presided. Rev. E. R. Spencer, pastor of the M. E. Church, in Mt. Airy, led in prayer. The purpose of the meeting was to consider plans towards perfecting the organization throughout the county, and what method of work to pursue to accomplish more before the primary election September 14th.

Each vice-president was advised to increase his working force by adding three men and three women to the committee in his district. The names of these persons to be sent to the county chairman as soon as named. It was unanimously decided to have ten thousand cards, with the object and purpose of the League, printed and sent to the workers in the different districts for distribution at once. The cards to be signed by persons willing to become members of the League, and to read as follows:

"We, citizens of Carroll County, in view of present efforts intended to discredit and nullify laws enacted by both State and Federal government, do solemnly subscribe to and declare the following principles to be essential to the stability of our State and Federal government, and to the security of life liberty and the common welfare of all loyal citizens:

1.—We subscribe to and defend the Constitution of the United States of America, and the Constitution of the State of Maryland, and we denounce as enemies of our Country and State all those who would nullify the provision of the same, but grant the right to any citizen or citizens to advocate amendments thereto by the orderly methods prescribed therein.

2.—We believe the 18th Amendment to the Constitution of the United States was, and is the expressed will of the majority of the citizens thereof, and that the Federal Congress and the Legislature of the State of Maryland should respectively enact such laws as are necessary for the enforcement of this Amendment.

3.—We believe that only such persons as hold the aforesaid principles as essential to the proper administration of the law, can truthfully and without equivocation or mental reservation, subscribe to and keep and perform the oath of office required of legislative, judicial and administrative officers.

Therefore, we hereby pledge our support to the nomination and election of only such candidates for legislative, judicial and executive offices, who freely and unequivocally subscribe to these principles."

Our Government is for the people and by the people; it is therefore not only the privilege, but the positive duty of every citizen, both man and woman twenty-one years of age to express themselves at the election in November, as to what laws shall govern and who shall represent them in the respective offices of the county and State. To do this they must be duly qualified by registering their names in their election districts. The first registration to be Sept. 7th. There are now less than 60% of the men, and 40% of the women in the county registered.

It was unanimous that the most important work at this time was, if possible, to get all persons to register, and at the same time get responsible, reliable and qualified persons for whom to vote after registering.

Mass meetings for Westminster and the larger towns in the county were considered, and a committee appointed to plan for them.

The State Camp P. O. S. of A.

The State Camp of the Patriotic Order Sons of America was held at Elkton, Cecil County, on Tuesday and Wednesday. The election of officers, on Tuesday afternoon, resulted as follows:

President, Rev. J. W. Reinecke, of Westminster; Vice-President, Wm. J. Mowbray, of Cambridge; Master of Forms, Paul Newkirk, of Westport; Secretary, Wm. James Heaps, of Baltimore; Treasurer, Wm. J. Carter, of Baltimore.

The State Camp of 1927 will be held at Cambridge.

A Worthwhile Birthday.

The Middletown Valley Register was 82 years young, last week. The Register is one of our very best exchanges, and we can accept its policies and endorse its opinions, without asking in advance what they are. From father to sons, and grand-son, The Register has always rung true—blood will tell.

In commenting on its new birthday, The Register very cleverly and truly states its responsibility to the community, and expresses the satisfaction it feels in having earned the confidence of its patrons; and this, we think is ample reward for sticking to the hardest job on earth—making a creditable success of a county weekly.

TEACHERS APPOINTED.

Carroll County Schools will Open on September 8th.

The following is the list of teachers appointed for the schools of Carroll County. The schools will be opened Wednesday, September 8th. The opening of school will be preceded by a conference of all elementary teachers on the 6th and 7th.

(Owing to lack of time and space, we have been compelled to omit appointments for a portion of the county.—Ed.)

Gettysburg Battlefield Guides Must Not Stop Autos.

Visitors and tourists to Gettysburg battlefield will no longer be bothered by battlefield guides halting them on the highways near Gettysburg, and offering to take them to historic spots on the field, according to information announced several days ago. The cause of the guides being prevented from halting persons was the attention called by Captain Wilson G. Price, commander of the Pennsylvania state motor patrol, to the fact that a state law, which has not been enforced at Gettysburg, prohibits persons not in police uniform from stopping motorists on highways.

Captain Price was stopped recently by one of the guides and then went to the sub-station where he called attention to the law. The guides, through their lawyer, Robert F. Wible, of Gettysburg, communicated with Price, with the result that they may be allowed to hail tourists from the streets of Gettysburg, but not from the state roads.

A Trip to Schenectady.

(For the Record.) On last Tuesday I left Taneytown for Baltimore, where my son, Warren R. Hill and family met me in his auto and took me to Mr. LeRoy Hesson's where we stayed all night and was royally entertained.

The next morning we started for Schenectady, N. Y., arriving there in the evening of the same day; had a very pleasant ride and no accident; but saw two wrecks by the way but did not hear of anyone being hurt.

On the way we saw most of the wheat standing out in the fields on the shock; nearly all the wheat looked good, all through Delaware and Pennsylvania. Not much wheat raised up here in New York.

I expect to return to Taneytown again in September if my life and health is spared.

R. S. HILL.

CANDIDATES FOR THE NOMINATION.

Those who have Decided to Enter the Primaries.

Below we give a list of names of candidates for various offices to be voted on at the primary election in September. This is not a complete list—perhaps not over half—but it represents a fair beginning at making up the ballot for the primary.

We may have missed some names, and perhaps some given have concluded to withdraw; but from the information we have we believe the list, to date, to be approximately correct.

The party affiliation of each is designated by "R" or "D" following the name, and the home district of the candidate appears last.

For State Senator. Geo. P. B. Englar, R., New Windsor; Wm. F. Jordan, R., Franklin.

For Clerk of the Court. Edw. M. Mellor, R., Freedom.

For Register of Wills. William F. Bricker, R., Taneytown.

For County Commissioner. James M. Hann, R., Manchester; Elmer F. Loxue, D., Woolerys; Chas. W. Melville, R., Freedom; William T. Phillips, R., Westminster; John H. Repp, R., Union Bridge; Chas. H. Spicer, R., Manchester.

For Judges of Orphan's Court. Wm. H. Buckingham, D., Woolerys; J. Webster Ebaugh, R., Westminster; John W. Flickinger, R., Myers; Lewis E. Green, R., New Windsor; Frank Hoffman, R., Westminster; William H. Lippy, D., Westminster; John K. Miller, R., Manchester; William N. Yingling, D., Woolerys.

For Sheriff. A. Frank Arrington, D., Freedom; W. Oden Barnes, D., New Windsor; Geo. C. Fowle, R., Hampstead; Henry Gentzler, R., Manchester; A. G. Humbert, D., Myers; E. Edward Martin, R., Woolerys; Ray Yohn, D., Franklin; Wm. Bloom, R., Westminster; Harry C. Hesson, D., Westminster.

For State's Attorney. Theo. F. Brown, R., Westminster.

Fort Eustis, Virginia.

The closing week of the Citizens Military Training Camp at Fort Eustis was marked by many impressive experiences for the 1375 young men in training here, the outstanding events being the battle of Yorktown, Mother's Day, and finals in rifle, track, baseball and other athletic contests. Candidates will leave for their homes early Friday morning.

Three hundred candidates from the first battalion visited the Portsmouth Navy Yard Thursday on a sight seeing tour. The young men were taken down the James river on the naval mine sweeper, the Owl.

Several hundred visitors from Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Virginia were here for "Mothers Day" Friday. Members of families of young men in training here were the guests of the government for the day and ate in the respective company mess halls with the candidates. Mrs. E. E. Rosenkrans, of Crozet, Va., delivered the colors to her son, Allen G. Rosenkrans, at a formal escort to the colors and regimental review held in honor of visiting mothers. The review ended the program for the day, which began with rifle, machine gun and one-pounder howitzer firing in the morning. The finals in all track athletic events were run off during the afternoon with many mothers among the interested spectators in the grand stand at the athletic field.

The candidates were given leaves over the week-end to visit nearby points of interest.

The hike to Yorktown was begun at 7 o'clock Monday morning. The regiment pitched tents on the historic battlefields at Yorktown before lunch, and after the noon meal, a sham battle took place. The first battalion was assigned to defense of redoubts 9 and 10, and the second battalion to the attack. Prior to the sham battle a platoon of regulars, of the 34th Infantry dressed in Colonial uniforms, simulated the attack of Alexander Hamilton's battalion on redoubt 10.

Rifles, machine guns and all modern arms, with which the infantry is now equipped were used in the sham battle. It proved a thrilling experience for the candidates.

Candidates were allowed to take their bathing suits and after the battle took a swim in the York river. The regiment remained in camp for the night on the battlefield and returned to camp the following morning.

The hike was accomplished without hardship to the candidates, as all were in the pink of physical condition after nearly a month of physical training and drills. All of the candidates seemed to enjoy the outing and the thrilling experience of fighting over again one of the decisive battles of the Revolutionary War.

ASHBY B. LAND, Publicity Officer.

Marriage Licenses.

Harry I. Rinehart and Helen E. Roop, Westminster.

Charles T. Smith and Rachel M. Stevens, Eastport, Md.

James H. Skidmore and Phyllis Johnson, Sykesville.

Ray K. Putt and Edna M. Hartman, Harrisburg.

Floyd U. Phylar and Essie May Gattou, York, Pa.

Of about $13,000,000 expended for public education in South Carolina last year, nearly $10,000,000 was voted in special elections by the people themselves.

ANOTHER CROSSING FATALITY.

Automobile Struck by Train on W. M. R. R. near Linwood.

Unable to rally from the effects of injuries received Friday morning, when an automobile in which he was driving was struck by a Western Maryland Railway train, at a crossing west of Linwood, this county, Archie Myers, about 30 years of age, near Pleasant Valley, died at the Frederick City Hospital, Friday afternoon.

Myers, who was employed as a mechanic by the Fisher Motor Company, Westminster, was sent to the farm of I. Albaugh, near Linwood, to repair a tractor, Friday morning. He completed his work and was returning to Westminster when he was struck by the train.

The machine was demolished and Myers was hurled to the side of the track. He was removed to the office of a physician in New Windsor, who administered first aid treatment, and then rushed him to the Frederick City Hospital, arriving there about 11:30 o'clock.

Physicians at the hospital worked to revive the injured man but he died without regaining consciousness. He suffered concussion of the brain, fractures of the arm and hip, shock, bad bruises about the body and internal injuries. Death was due to concussion of the brain.

He is survived by a widow, a daughter of Edward Gilbert, near Uniontown, and two children. A brother, who is proprietor of a garage at Pleasant Valley, also survives.

Typhoid Fever Prevention.

Throughout the entire country, there was a marked increase in typhoid fever, last year. To prevent a flare up in Maryland this year, each local health officer has been asked to make a special report on each case that is reported from his district to the State Department of Health, so that the possible sources of the disease may be studied and controlled.

"The State Department of Health may do its utmost to get rid of typhoid fever," Dr. R. H. Riley, Chief of the State Bureau of Communicable Diseases, said, "but there are certain ways in which the individual can help. It is necessary to understand just how typhoid fever is contracted. To take typhoid fever, you must either eat or drink the germs that cause it. You do not breathe it in with the air as you do some other diseases."

"For months, or even for many years, some people who have become entirely well after an attack of typhoid fever, still carry the typhoid germs in the discharges from the bladder and intestines. These people are called 'carriers'. If they are careless in their habits they may carry the germs on their hands in that way infect any food they handle. Milk or cream for instance, may be infected from the hands of 'carriers' who do the milking or who handle milk in other ways. Accordingly, it is just as important that the discharges from the 'carriers' be disinfected, as from those who are actively sick with the disease. It is very dangerous for carriers to handle food."

"Flies are often to blame, too, for spreading typhoid from the sick to the well. They feast on the discharges from persons ill with typhoid and carry the germs to food supplies. If the room of a person who is ill with typhoid is screened against flies, it will be much more comfortable for the patient and much safer for the rest of the household. The kitchen should always be screened."

"Here are ten ways by which you may safeguard yourself and family against typhoid:—

"1—Boil your drinking water unless you are sure that the supply is pure.

"2—Always wash your hands before preparing food for the table.

"3—Always wash your hands before eating.

"4—Wash all vegetables that are to be eaten raw and all fruits, in water that has been boiled and cooled.

"5—Keep food covered.

"6—Use covered garbage pails.

"7—Screen the house from flies.

"8—If there is a case of typhoid in your household or in the neighborhood, keep out of the sickroom unless you are nursing the patient. Show your neighborliness in other ways.

"9—If there is a case of typhoid in your household disinfect every discharge from the bowels or bladder of the patient.

"10—Ask your doctor to vaccinate you against typhoid. The State Department of Health will furnish the vaccine free of charge. All you will need to pay is the doctor's fee. Three treatments, a week apart will protect you for this season and the next."

Magazine Article by J. K. Gillies.

The Record has received a copy of "Manufacturing Industries" a large magazine devoted to manufacturing, that contains a four-page article on "Production and Control of Statistical Work" from an engineering viewpoint, written by J. K. Gillies, the husband of former Miss Mary Yount, of Taneytown. Mr. Gillies was recently drowned while on their honeymoon.

He was Assistant Comptroller of the Consolidation Coal Company, and his specialty was along the line covered by the article, which is accompanied with charts, and is evidently very well and authoritatively written.

The article was published since the author's death, and is unquestionably of much interest to those engaged in manufacturing on a large scale.

A NEWSY LETTER FROM DETROIT.

Business, Political and General Current Comment.

It has been some time since I have taken up any space in your columns, for which there are several reasons. First I did not know what to write about, and indeed am starting this time without any definite subject in mind. Then I have had a very bad Spring and Summer, from the standpoint of health. Even now I am not real well, and it seems to me that all the infirmities of age are coming on me at once, instead of gradually. Still I am thankful that I am able to work, and hope this condition may continue.

Detroit is passing through one of its rare periods in the industrial line—dull times. I do not believe that there are more than a dozen shops working full time, and none overtime, as is the case when business is booming. But I do not know that there is any reason to complain, as the past year was the best for a long time, and work was plentiful everywhere in the city. Many of the large shops worked three shifts, or twenty-four hours a day.

Evidence of the good times could be seen in the increased number of automobiles on the streets, and the crowds of pleasure seekers on the boats, on holidays and Sundays. Our streets, even now, are so crowded with cars that it is almost suicide for a green or nervous driver to attempt to steer a car through the traffic. I think that this statement will be confirmed by George Baumgardner, who with his wife, sister and son, paid us a very short visit on his return from a vacation in the north of Michigan. He was unfortunate enough to have to drive Fort Street and out Jefferson Avenue, during the rush hours, and told us it took careful driving to get through, and I know he is an able and experienced driver. Right here I want to tell you how much we appreciated this visit, brief as it was. George tried to reach all the former Taneytowners now residents of Detroit, and under the guidance of B. O. Slonaker, called on all he could reach in his limited time.

Our weather, like that in Maryland, has been very unseasonable. We had no real warm days until the third week in July, and then it tried to make up for lost time, as the two days, July 20th. and 21st., are said to be the hottest in the history of the city. Quite a number of deaths occurred from heat prostration, among them, one of the men in our shop, who died from the effects of drinking too much ice water. The Weather Bureau repeatedly promised rain to relieve the situation, but missed its guess, until the 22nd., when we had a most welcome rain.

Detroit has only one public bathing beach—that on Belle Isle, in the centre of the Detroit river—and it is always crowded in warm weather, and on those days was swamped with would-be bathers, who were seeking relief. The Fire Department turned on the water at the fire plugs, for the use of the small boys and girls, and the other suitable beaches between Grosse Pointe and Gross Isle, the former on Lake St. Clair, and the other at the mouth of Lake Erie, were well patronized, and hardly a day went by that some one did not lose his or her life by drowning.

We are getting ready for the Fall election to be held in Wayne County, of which Detroit is a part, as is evidenced by the number of signs tacked to telephone and street car line poles, announcing that "We want so-and-so for Sheriff," or other office, as the case may be. Of course that blessing to the peanut politician, the primary, comes first, out here as well as in Maryland. There is no doubt that it is the cause of the third or fourth-class men holding the important offices in the city, county and state. Of course the politicians say it is up to the people, but I notice that the "peoples" choice usually corresponds with that of the big bosses, all the same. I'll venture to say that the primary system in Michigan costs ten times as much a year as did the cent is spent illegally, and the character of the officers chosen is about in the same ratio downward. All you need to prove this is to compare the representatives of the State in Congress with those of years ago.

Detroit has a number of questions that will have to be settled, sooner or later. On some of these, as Rapid Service, and widening of streets, the officials are working now. But there is one question—the race question—that will surely cause trouble in Detroit, if something is not done to avoid it. During the past few years, and especially since the last city election, the lower class of colored people, and sometimes the higher class, as I shall refer to later, are rapidly assuming that race equality is assured them, and on numerous occasions have moved, or attempted to move into strictly white communities, even after they were warned that they were not wanted, and that trouble would result if they persisted in their intention. In one such case, which happened in our ward, a colored doctor moved into such a neighborhood, and when a crowd gathered in front of his house, instead of appealing to the police for protection, some one in the house, shot into the crowd, killing one young man, and wounding another. The parties in the house, eleven in all, were brought to trial, and through the efforts of the atheist lawyer, Dar-

YOUR INSURANCE!

Are You Observing Your Part of the Contract?

The next most important thing to understand the policy, or contract, of insurance; for what we call "insurance" is an article of agreement between two parties—the Company and the insured. Paying the insurance premiums, or assessments, is not by any means all of the part of the insured, in fact, this is the least of his side of the contract, for there are rules and regulations that he accepts, along with the policy, and if these are to be kept, they must first be read and understood.

The argument that a Company ought to pay losses, merely because a certain sum has been paid by the insured, is wholly unsound; for no Company would insure property for anybody, without the agreement on the part of the insured to observe the terms on which the policy, or contract, was issued. The Company takes certain chances when the chances seem reasonably favorable, and when the "moral" hazard does not increase the risk the Company takes.

Insurance, in fact, is largely the taking of a chance against fire, wind, or lightning visiting a property in a natural way, when the insured has not by conspiracy or neglect, added to the natural percentage of chances of loss; or when ignorance of the terms of the agreement may increase the Company's risk.

First, get your policy, then read it carefully! Do not put it away with the feeling that, "Now I am insured, and there is nothing more to be done." Most people understand the terms of a lease, or article of agreement, for rent, but do not understand that a policy of insurance is the same sort of document, and that the breaking of a single provision in the contract may invalidate the insurance contract when a loss occurs.

Location, ownership, the character of occupancy, other contracts of insurance on the same property, mortgage encumbrance, certain forbidden customs or occupations, permits for use of gasoline, regulations concerning threshing, the storage of explosives—in fact, there is quite a crop of clauses and provisions that may nullify a policy of insurance. Get wise to them now, and not after a loss occurs.

New Windsor Community Vacation Bible School.

The school opened on Monday, July 19, and closed July 31, with sessions each morning from 8:30 to 11:30 except Saturdays. There were four teachers in charge and five helpers. The enrollment the opening day was 73. This increased to 90 the second day. The total enrollment reached 105.

Mrs. Yoder was very ably assisted by Misses Evelyn Roop and Evelyn Haines; Miss Howe, by Misses Mary Haines and Kathryn Lambert; Miss Baker, by Miss Ethel Ensor. The assistants served without pay. They, with the teachers, deserve the gratitude of the patrons.

The course of study followed was that outlined by the syllabus for Vacation Church Schools, Elgin Press, Elgin, Ill. Bible stories and studies made up the most of the work. The two lower classes did quite a lot of handwork, consisting of paper cutting, mounting, and clay modeling. Handwork was not stressed in the upper grades. The intermediate boys constructed an electrical map showing the Missionary Journeys of St. Paul. The girls made dolls and dresses to send to an orphanage. The handwork and notebooks were on exhibition at the program on Sunday evening.

There were eight co-operating schools. Seventeen Sunday Schools were represented, including children from Baltimore, Philadelphia, York, Taneytown and New Jersey.

The Missionary offering of the children amounted to $14.50. This money goes to world wide Mission work. The expenses of the school are met by an offering lifted at the closing program, the remainder being apportioned among the co-operating schools in proportion to the number of children from their school. The school was conducted under the auspices of the New Windsor District Sunday School Association, of which A. Jay Replige is the President and Geo. P. B. Englar is Secretary-Treasurer.

The Director of the school takes this opportunity to thank the teachers, helpers, parents, the various S. S. officers and teachers, pastors, and the newspapers for their splendid and hearty co-operation in making the school possible. Already plans are being laid for another school next year.

row, of Chicago, and other prominent attorneys from different parts of the country, were acquitted of any wrong doing.

Since then it has been worse than ever. The colored folks in Taneytown were generally good citizens, but it seems that the worst element of the race has come up from the South, and freed from the restraint exercised over them by the whites there, are determined to put themselves on a social equality with the whites here, and live where they please, regardless of restrictions, or whether they are wanted or not. There are about 100,000 colored folks here, and you can readily see what trouble they could stir up if they once got started.

The Ballot This Year.

The ballot, this year, will require 25 marks in order to vote for all candidates—only 25 little X marks, as follows:

United States Senator,
Member of Congress,
Governor,
Comptroller,
Attorney General,
Clerk of Court of Appeals,
Two Judges of Circuit Court,
State Senator,
Four Members House Delegates,
Three Judges Orphans' Court,
Clerk of Circuit Court,
Register of Wills,
Three County Commissioners,
Sheriff,
County Treasurer,
State's Attorney,
County Surveyor.

These are the officials to be elected (25) but nobody knows, at present, how many candidates names will appear on the ballot—at least 50, of course, but there are likely to be others; and nobody knows how big the ballot will be, nor whether there will be room to handle it in the voting booths.

In a good many states the act of voting is simplified by providing a square in which to make our X mark for a "straight" party ticket—but in Maryland we do not cater to such straightness. We know much better here how to do a good many things; and in the matter of elections we see proper to make their outcome the result of intellectual and physical skill—especially the latter.

As a matter of actual fact, when the vote between candidates is close, it is largely a matter of luck as to who is declared elected, and not the actual choice of the majority that does it. We merely "kid ourselves" when we think we are applying an educational test, in the form of the Maryland ballot.

Is Rebellion Sprouting?

What would happen should a vote be taken, by states, for or against prohibition? Would the "dry" majority rule as a union of states, or would the "wet" states rebel, as was done at the time of our Civil War, over the question, largely, of the maintenance of slavery? The discussion is tending exactly toward that point, just as it did in the late 50's, and perhaps the wets are just as determined and in earnest as were the pro-slavery followers.

Growing out of the referendum proposition, this big question looms up. Would the minority submit to the majority, or would there be an endless agitation for a part "wet" and part "dry" country, just as there was a revolution for a part "slave" and part "free" country? In other words, has the long dormant "state sovereignty" doctrine taken root again, and showing itself through the question of enforcement of prohibition?

Of course, no one believes that there would be actual armed revolution; but there is a revolutionary tendency, politically at least, in the present situation, that is extremely dangerous to real unionism; for the simple reason that the Constitution of the United States is being boldly belittled and attacked by men in high public station, and by the press, and such a sentiment, if continued, might bring about a situation scarcely less harmful than actual warfare.

Want Goldsborough to Head the Party

The Republicans as yet have no fully acceptable candidate for Governor—at least, none with a good chance of winning—and strenuous efforts are being made by many of the leading party men in the state to induce former Governor Goldsborough to consent to be a candidate, and to announce himself.

Unquestionably, Mr. Goldsborough would make the strongest candidate the party could possibly have in this state. His ability is unquestioned, whether for Governor, Senator, or any other office requiring high-class statesmanship.

Mr. Goldsborough, however, is largely interested in banking, and other business affairs, and will not be easily drawn into the political arena again, especially considering some past political experiences when he was actively on the firing line.

He is, however, a politician in the best sense of the word, and comes from a family brought up to regard politics as an honorable pursuit; and, should he consent to listen to present appeals, it will be because he feels a sense of duty back of the consent. His name at the head of the ticket would add strength to the party's candidates all over the state.

The Congressional Primary Elections.

The primary elections to date, according to the records so far compiled, give no indication of a change in the dry complexion of the next Congress. In South Dakota the present delegation, all dry, have been renominated. In Illinois, 25 Congressmen have been renominated, and of this number 18 are dry, indicating a maintenance of the status quo. The Republican nominee for the Senate, who will undoubtedly be elected, is also dry.

In Indiana, all drys were renominated. From Pennsylvania, it is probable that there will be 22 drys and 14 wets, with a net loss of one dry. The Republican senatorial nominee is wet, but the Democratic nominee is dry and it is believed he can be elected. Oregon renominated its four dry Congressmen and the Senate nominee is also dry. North Carolina renominated all and all are dry, as did Iowa. Brookhart, who defeated Cummins, is dry.

From Florida three dry Congressmen have been renominated. The drys gained one in New Jersey and from Maine all drys have been renominated. The same is true in North Dakota. In Minnesota the drys lost one, but still have an eight to two lead. Kentucky is expected to send to the Senate Mr. Barkley, long a dry leader of the House.

So far the drys have held their own.—Temperance Cup-sheet.

Roads Spur Progress.

Good roads have not been given the credit due them as the advance agent of civilization and human progress. The church, the public school, the printing press, the home all these have played a part, but have not improved methods of communication accomplished even more?

Good roads built the Roman Empire. They made possible the mobilization of the French armies on the border over night when German invasion threatened in 1914. They have solidified the people of England and filled its colleges and universities. And now they are working a miracle in the United States.

Hard surfaced highways stretching from state to state and from ocean to ocean and border to border are widening the American people into a solid, coherent nation, abolishing provincialism and sectionalism, destroying dialects and spreading tolerance and understanding everywhere. The first smooth all-year-round roads were built in this country within the memory of many now living. For the reasons that traffic was heavier, the people more progressive and the municipal governments more prosperous the first pavements were constructed in the largest cities. Dirt roads and cobblestones preceded them. Today the farmers and small towns are as insistent as city taxpayers for good roads, and the urbanite demands improved highways in the country for his automobiles and trucks.

Just because most of the traffic on the public highways is pleasure bent does not make the paved highway an expensive luxury. Even though the farmer, business and the nations transportation system could dispense with them they would still be an essential institution if for no other reason than that they get city folk into the country and country folk into the city.—Frederick News.

The Railroads and the People.

A quarter of a century ago it was an easy matter to array prejudice against the railroads and corporations of a public utility character. In fact many of the candidates for state and national offices incorporated in their platforms a plank in opposition to them. It was not realized during the heat of the campaign that railroads and banks are owned by widows and orphans as well as by the rich. Stock in public utilities is owned by all classes of citizens and the destruction of these corporations brings loss and distress to those who are unable to bear them.

The Tuscaloosa (Ala.) News states some interesting facts in this connection. It says: "More and more the railroads are becoming the property of the people who ride them, the ownership of stocks and bonds having shifted greatly since the war, from Wall Street to Main Street. Recently published figures show that two million people own shares in roads, but nearly every citizen of the country is indirectly interested because of the securities that savings banks and insurance companies hold. There are about 50 million life insurance policy holders and 39 million savings depositors in the United States."

Railroads are owned by the people and when indiscriminate legislation is enacted, innocent people who have invested their money in stock suffer. The impression that railroads and banks are corporations operating for the purpose of fleecing the people is purely imaginary. These corporations could not exist without the money invested by the people as a whole; the widows and orphans, the banker, the merchant and the farmer—all classes are interested in the growth and development of the railroads and banks. It is well that class prejudice has been lived down and that railroads as well other corporations enjoy equal treatment in the legislatures as well as in the courts of the country.

Recent years have worked a marvelous change in sentiment and feeling in so far as relates to the operation of corporations. A fair deal and just legislation have taken the place of discrimination by legislative bodies and the courts. A suit for damages against a corporation is conducted as fairly toward the corporation as a suit would be against the humblest citizen. It is right and proper that it should be, for all such organizations after all reach back to the people and their interests.—From the Augusta (Ga.) Herald.

Known by Their Hair

A certain very supple and undulating dancer made a first appearance recently on the stage of a music hall in the heart of a capital. In response to the applause which greeted the number the dancer returned to bow to the audience and, removing an elaborate wig, revealed the fact that he was a danseur and not a danseuse. Thereupon a woman seated in a stage box exclaimed: "How silly to show us that she has bobbed her hair!" From which little incident we received the suggestion that men should let their hair grow if they wish to be recognized as of the masculine sex.—From Le Figaro Hebdomadaire, Paris. (Translated for the Kansas City Star.)

Aviators Need Horses

Sweden's military aviators, who in the reorganization of the national defense have replaced the once famous Swedish cavalry as an independent arm, still ask for the use of horses as part of their equipment. In a letter to the war minister, their chief, Col. Carl Amundson, points out that while other branches of the service got physical exercise during the discharge of their routine duties, the air pilots must have special training to keep their nerves and muscles in top-notch condition and that for this purpose horseback riding has been found unsurpassed.

Policy Has Worked Well

Several years ago the California state division of motor vehicles adopted a policy of refunding motorists excess fees sent in for licenses where such excess amounted to 11 cents or more. Sums under that amount were turned into the road fund. Similarly, if the motorist was short 11 cents or more, the division demanded that he make it up without bothering the absent-minded motorist. A check recently made revealed that the "longs" have so far exceeded the "shorts" that the state is more than $800 to the good.

Freezes Flames!

A fire extinguisher has been invented for use in petrol storehouses, oil tankers and other structures containing inflammable substances. Directed upon a blaze, these devices actually freeze the flames to death, it is claimed. A very cold and dense carbon dioxide gas is released so that all oxygen is blocked and the fire, with no oxygen to feed on, dies out. This, no matter how combustible the material burning may be.

During the test even a burning oil can was extinguished.

Back to Barley Bread

Distilleries are using less barley in Scotland and the farmers face the problem of disposing of their crops. Why not return to barley scones and barley bread, an agreeable change from wheat loaf? This would relieve John Barleycorn of part of his burden, suggests the Christian Science Monitor.

For Sleeplessness

Sleeplessness can be cured by painting large imaginary figure 3s or a large imagined black wall with imaginary brush and can of white paint, says Doctor Farrow in the Journal of Neurology and Psychology. It is almost impossible to remain awake, he says, after three figures have been painted. He usually falls asleep after he has finished painting only one or two figures; but if not, almost invariably after the third one.

Many "Colds" Caused by Poor Ventilation

To find better preventive methods, doctors in recent years have been studying the common cold more carefully than ever, and two authorities have summarized the supposed causes of this affliction under five headings: chills and drafts, conditions of the weather, irritation of the membrane on the breathing apparatus, infection and bad ventilation. The last is regarded as the commonest of all the causes, as warm stagnant air produces congestion and swelling in the mucous membrane which becomes covered with a thick secretion and affords a weak spot for germs to attack. In cool air, this membrane remains taut and well moistened. Then, in a poorly ventilated room, cold currents of air are likely to strike the feet while the head is exposed to the warm, polluted upper atmosphere. This is just the reverse of what is considered the ideal condition for health, "cool breezes blowing around the head, the radiant heat of the sun, and a warm ground to stand on." Exposure alone will not cause colds in healthy individuals, the doctors declare. Arctic explorers, fishermen, and others who remain out of doors for long hours in stormy, cold weather, often seem immune from these disorders. Irritation of the mucous membrane of the respiratory passages by dusts and chemicals is also a common cause of colds.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Parts of Old London That Have Been Moved

It is frequently pointed out that Temple bar is at Theobald's park, and that the front of old Mercer's hall, designed by Sir Christopher Wren, is now the front of Swanage town hall, but there are bits of London which have gone much farther afield and are not so well known.

In the cathedral of Ghent, in Belgium, are elaborate copper candlesticks that once belonged to Old St. Paul's. It may be asked how they escaped the great fire. The fact is they had been sold by Cromwell about sixteen years earlier.

Still farther afield has gone the old rose window of the south transept of Westminster abbey, also the work of Wren. It was removed about twenty-five years ago to make room for a new window in memory of the late duke of Westminster, and was given to the cathedral in Cape Town.

In the garden of the White Bear Inn near Addiscombe, Croydon, stands the figure of a real-looking white bear made of wood. This used to be a prominent object where the electric signs now blaze at Piccadilly circus. Until sixty years ago the White Bear Coaching Inn stood on the site now occupied by the Criterion restaurant, and this huge wooden bear was its sign.—London Tit-Bits.

Oldest College Fraternity

Phi Beta Kappa is the oldest Greek letter college fraternity in the United States. It was founded December 5, 1776, at William and Mary college, and had established chapters at Yale, Harvard and Dartmouth before 1800. It was originally secret and social in character, but gradually this was dropped and the fraternity became what it is today—an honorary society, membership in which is conferred at graduation, or shortly before, upon those students who stand best in scholarship throughout their college course. To be chosen is a high scholastic honor. Women as well as men may belong. The Greek letters, Phi Beta Kappa, stand for "Philosophia Bion Kubernetes," meaning "philosophy the guide of life." The emblem is a small gold watch key.

Had Little Use for Bath

In "Lord Grenfell's Memoirs" there occurs this story, told to Lord Grenfell by a surgeon that had practiced in South Africa, regarding the simple manners and customs of the Boers: "A medical friend of his nearly lost his practice with a Boer family for prescribing ablutions for an elderly Dutch woman. Her husband strongly remonstrated, saying, 'Young man! you are a stranger in this country and recommend new customs contrary to our usage. I have been married to my vrow for thirty-five years, during which time water has scarcely touched her body! You are ignorant, sir, of our mode of life, and do not understand our wants! Begone!'"

Whence Hessians Came

All the German mercenaries called Hessians, who served in the Revolutionary war, were not subject to the landgrave of Hesse-Cassel. This prince, however, furnished the larger portion of them. The first contingent of German mercenaries was made up as follows: 12,104 furnished by landgrave of Hesse-Cassel, 4,084 furnished by duke of Brunswick, 603 furnished by the prince of Hesse, 670 furnished by the prince of Waldeck; total, 17,521. Later additional troops were furnished.

Fewer Pineapples Grown

Pineapple culture, once a thriving industry in Florida, has rapidly declined in recent years. The chief causes are the depletion of soil humus and fertility through constant cultivation and exposure to the tropical sun, the growing prevalence of wilt due to attacks of nematodes and failure to use healthy, vigorous slips in new plantings. A yield of 200 crates to the acre was formerly considered a good average, although some growers secured 300 crates or more.

POULTRY

GREEN FEED IS OF GREAT IMPORTANCE

Green feed is fully as important as either scratch grain or dry mash, and comparatively few farmers feed green food as it should be fed. A truly successful poultryman regards green feed as important as mash, scratch grains or water, and sees to it that his birds are supplied daily with green feed in some succulent form. Sprouted oats are most desirable where it is convenient to sprout them. The oats should be soaked in warm water for 24 hours, then spread in shallow trays, boxes, or pans, and kept at a temperature of from 60 to 80 degrees until the stem sprout of the oat is between one-half and three-quarters of an inch in length. At that stage, the oats carry the greatest amount of food value and succulence. It should be remembered that the green feed is fed for succulence and not necessarily for green color.

If it is not convenient to sprout oats, any root crop may be substituted. Mangels, sugar beets, or raw potatoes, carrots, turnips, beets, any good root crop, fed raw, is satisfactory green feed. When cooked, however, they are still good feed, but have lost their value as green feeds. In feeding root crops, the roots should be chopped and fed in troughs or hoppers so that all the birds have access to them, says a writer in the Michigan Farmer. Where root crops are not obtainable, squash or pumpkin chopped, or apples, may prove satisfactory. Alfalfa that has been steamed or soaked, is better than nothing, but, at best, a rather poor substitute for a good succulent green feed. The birds should be fed at least once per day all of the green feed, in some form or other, that they will clean up.

Mark the Nonlayers to Avoid Use as Breeders

It is very important for the proper development of the pullets that they be separated from the old birds. Particularly is this true for late hatched and immature pullets.

Remember that much mash is needed for production, but that ample grain must be fed to give the birds protection from the cold.

Some form of artificial lighting to offset the short days pays well when used on these pullets. A gasoline lantern may be used if electric lights are not available. The evening lunch method is the simplest where the lantern is used. Feed the birds grain as usual before they go to roost. Light the lanterns at eight o'clock and feed more grain, all they will clean up again. Turn the lights off at nine o'clock.

Late pullets which are not grown by December might as well be used for food and feed saved on them. Fully grown pullets which are not laying should molt late next year and be used for breeders if they are not marked.

If the pullets are not laying 40 per cent or better now, there is something wrong. See that there is a good mash, well protected house and plenty of green feed.—O. C. Krum, Poultry Extension Specialist Colorado Agricultural College.

Entertain All Visitors Outside Poultry House

"Entertain your visitors outside of the poultry house," is the word sent to farmers by the Ohio State university.

Chickenpox and other poultry diseases are often spread by people traveling from farm to farm; the university poultrymen explain. And with eggs at present prices, they add, it is wise to avoid all chance of letting disease get a start in the flock.

"Chickenpox, roup and canker are appearing all over the state," the letter to poultrymen continues. "We know very little about the control of these troubles once a flock is infected, but must rely on preventive measures."

Among the preventive measures the poultry specialists list these:

Sick birds should be marked and excluded from the breeding pen. Pullets should be culled throughout the growing season and the weaker birds removed. Poultry houses must provide ventilation in hot weather and protection from draft and dampness in cold weather.

Feed a complete ration, including minerals and vitamins and plenty of green feed. Handle a few birds every night to see whether they are in good condition. Remove birds from the flock when they show the first symptoms of sickness, for one sick bird may contaminate the whole flock.

Health of Fowls

The best way to keep in touch with the health of the birds and to detect digestive disorders, etc., at the earliest possible moment, is to make a practice of inspecting the droppings boards every morning. Simple looseness of the bowels, indigestion due to too rich a ration, liver troubles, excess animal food, etc., can all be detected by the condition of the droppings; and the general tendency to intestinal disorders thus shown should receive immediate attention.

Seed Corn Pointers for Improving Crop

Best to Make Selections From Vigorous Stalks.

If you wish to keep your corn in a constant state of improvement, the thing to do is to select for vigor without close attention for score card type.

That is the new word, based on years of careful study and experiment at the Minnesota experiment station, University farm, St. Paul.

For several years the Minnesota experiment station has carried on activities designed to encourage the selection of seed corn from the standing stalks in the field before frost time in the fall. The idea was to get early maturing corn from vigorous plants. But now comes H. K. Hayes, plant breeder of the division of agronomy and farm management with a new bulletin, No. 210 of the Minnesota experiment station series, "Methods of Corn-Breeding," which among other things says:

"Corn should be selected from perfect-stand hills and from vigorous healthy stalks. Plants which are green when the ear approaches maturity insure normal maturity of the ear.

"Close selection for ear type leads to a reduction in yielding ability. For this reason no close selection for ear type should be made."

This is no very striking change of viewpoint, except that too much emphasis has been placed on score card ear type and not enough on vigor. Mr. Hayes' experiments indicate clearly that vigor has first claim on the seed selector's attention.

Sudan Grass Excellent as Stock Pasture Crop

Summer pasture crops, especially on the dry lands, are quite necessary for the best milk production and for growing animals, say successful live-stock farmers. Experience has shown the value of pasture crops to the stock and also the fact that pasture crops produce an abundance of excellent feed. They save labor and build up the soil.

For summer pasture on dry or irrigated lands, sudan grass is good. It may be planted in rows or in drills. It should be seeded now and will make late summer and early fall pasture. Seed used should be pure sudan, with no cane mixture. From four to ten pounds of seed per acre is used on dry lands, depending on whether it is rowed or drilled in. Fifteen to twenty pounds is seeded under irrigated conditions and drilled in. Start pasturing when five or six inches high and keep pastured close.

Such pastures are carrying from three-fourths of a head to one head per acre of mature cattle on dry lands and from one and a half to two head of cattle per acre under irrigation. With such a carrying capacity it becomes one of our best feed producers as well as furnishing fine quality of feed.—Waldo Kidder, Extension Service, Colorado Agricultural college.

Self-Feeder Saves Money

A hog is a queer critter. He will grow fast and thrive if he knows he can get all the food he wants, and all the clean water he needs when he wants it. If he doesn't get it right then he begins to squeal and worry and run off his flesh. The self-feeder gives every hog all the time he needs to fill up as often as his appetite will permit. Being contented and peaceful he eats and sleeps and grunts and eats some more and grows into money.

Farm Hint

Deep cultivation of cabbage cuts too many roots.

Carrots, cabbage and sprouted oats help make strong chicks.

It is more important for the farmer to keep his eye on cost of production than on the market.

A sweet clover crop plowed under will add from 15 to 25 bushels of corn per acre the following year.

Mites and lice seem to enjoy hot weather, for this is the season when they thrive best and multiply most rapidly.

Sweet clover is perhaps a more rapid soil builder than alfalfa but the former, in addition to improving the soil, makes the best hay crop that can be grown.

Alfalfa plantings in western New York last spring show that stands without a nurse crop sowed in June after the soil had been well cultivated are now the best.

Turkeys are a great help on any farm in keeping down insects of all kinds. They can almost find their entire living in the fields and pastures without bothering the grain crops.

Using acid phosphate does not increase the lime needs of the soil; on the other hand, liberal applications have been found to lessen the amount of time needed for clover and alfalfa.

Regular changing of pasture of sheep prevents stomach worms. It is not practical to feed them worm medicine. The above method is used by practically all experienced sheep men.

— OF A —

Valuable Farm

near Westminster, Carroll County, Maryland.

By virtue of the authority contained in the Last Will and Testament of John Royer, late of Carroll County, Maryland, deceased, and an order of the Orphan's Court of said Carroll County, the undersigned executors will offer at public sale on the premises, situated on the public road leading from Westminster to Unlontown, about midway between the two places, on SATURDAY, AUGUST 7th, 1926,

at 2:30 P. M., all that valuable farm containing

217 ACRES 2 ROADS & 7 1/2 SQ. PERCHES, more or less. This farm is improved by two sets of buildings all in good condition; the one set consists of a

LARGE BRICK HOUSE,

10 rooms, slate roof, front and double back porches, 4 cellars under the whole house, frame bank barn, 100 feet long, with double throwing floors, grain shed 32x50, three corn cribs, 3 hen houses, wagon shed, hog pens for housing about 100 hogs, blacksmith shop, carriage house or garage, cave and smoke house, 2-story summer house and other buildings.

The other set of buildings consist of a

with 7 rooms, stable, hog pen, etc. There is approximately 100 acres of tillable land in this farm, all in a high state of cultivation and very productive. 10 Acres in the meadow land, and the balance about 17 Acres in excellent White Oak and Hickory timber. There is an abundance of all kinds of fruit on this property. The fields are well watered, with water at both houses and barn. This is a most desirable farm as it is located convenient to churches and schools about 1 mile from the State Road and along the public road.

The two sets of buildings on this property are so located so as to make it easily capable of division into two farms of about 100 Acres each. This is the well known John Royer farm, adjoining the lands of the B. F. Shriver Co., Maurice Bahig, Edgar Snyder and others, and now occupied by Frank Morelock. This property may be purchased at private sale before the date fixed for the public sale, and if not sold privately before Saturday, August 7, 1926, the same will be sold as advertised.

TERMS OF SALE—One-third cash on the day of sale or on the ratification thereof by the Court, and the balance in two equal payments of 6 and 12 months, the credit payments to be secured by the bonds or single bills of the purchaser or purchasers, with sufficient security, bearing interest from day of sale, or all cash at the option of the purchaser or purchasers.

Annual Community Picnic, at Rocky Ridge, Md.

The Great Annual Community Picnic at Rocky Ridge, Md., will be held on August 14, in the .16 Acre Mt. Tabor Park. The special attractions this year are the Baltimore Evening Sun Newsboys' Band of 64 boys; the following prominent men as special guests of honor: Gov. Albert C. Ritchie; Congressman E. N. Zihlman; Hon. Millard E. Tydings, candidate for U. S. Senator; Hon. Wm. S. Gordy, State Comptroller; Wm. M. Maloy, candidate for Governor; Hon. Robt Biggs and others, who will make short addresses.

The Park is equipped with the following play and amusement features; the largest sliding board in Frederick County for grownups and a small one for children; many swings, see-saws, whirligig, sand boxes for the "kiddies," quoits for ladies and men, etc. Something for everybody... Also an artesian well in the Park, a large tabernacle with seats for people to sit and enjoy the speeches; a large refreshment booth, from which all kinds of refreshments will be served. There will be on hand this year a photographer to take pictures in action of the picnic for moving picture films to be used over the Church to demonstrate the community project at Rocky Ridge. There will be a festival in the evening in park which is electrically lighted.

DOUBLE PIPE CREEK BAND will furnish the music.

This is the biggest picnic in Western Maryland. This year it will be the biggest ever. DO NOT MISS IT. Come early and stay all day. 7-20-2t

The Woman Voter.

A weekly, "The Woman Voter" published at Chevy Chase, Md., Mollie E. Nicholson, editor, came into our office this week. This one issue, at least, is strong for the enforcement of all laws, and especially the 18th. Amendment to the Constitution. It features the activities of the Law and Order League, and especially urges that women go to the primaries and vote for the best candidates.

It is difficult to judge by this single copy, whether we can unqualifiedly indorse "The Woman Voter," but the sample is a good one and seems to be very much in our line with regard to law enforcement.

York Mayor Refuses to Sign.

The York, Pa., City Council, on Tuesday, passed an ordinance that would close, on Sundays, all amusement places operated for pay. White Rose Park is perhaps the one place most affected, where the Hippodrome, theatre operates moving pictures. Sunday traffic is pretty generally covered by the ordinance.

But, as Mayor Hugentugler has refused to sign the ordinance, it is not yet operating. The Courts will no doubt be called on to try to make the measure operative.

Col. E. B. Cope is 92.

Uncle Sam's "grand old man of the civil service," Col. E. B. Cope, superintendent of the Gettysburg National Military Park, celebrated his ninety-second birthday on Friday of last week, July 23. According to records at Washington, Colonel Cope is the oldest person in active service. A veteran of the Civil War, he served as civil engineer on General Warren's staff in the battle of Gettysburg and since July, 1863, has served in various capacities at the National Park office here, being raised to the superintendent several years ago. He enjoys unusually good health and daily works eight hours at his desk in the National Park office.

Produce More Eggs.

You can do it if you get away from the old-fashioned method of feeding only Scratch Feed.

While Scratch Feed is absolutely essential, it will not produce eggs when fed alone.

You must furnish your hens a variety of protein.

In considering a Mash Feed it is necessary to study the ingredients from which it is made. It is the quality that counts, not the quantity.

Lesson for August 8
THE GIVING OF MANNA

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 16:1-36.
GOLDEN TEXT—Jesus said unto them, "I am the bread of life."
PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Gift of Daily Bread.
JUNIOR TOPIC—God Sends Food in the Wilderness.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Our Daily Blessings.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—God's Good Gifts.

I. Lusting for the Fleshpots of Egypt (vv. 1-12).

1. Murmuring against Moses and Aaron (vv. 1-3).
As they journeyed from Elim into the great wilderness, they became conscious of the scarcity of some of the things they had enjoyed even in Egyptian slavery. Only a few days before they were singing God's praises for their wondrous deliverance at the Red Sea (Ex. 15). Their complaint not only displayed ingratitude but a deep-seated impety. It was against God that they were murmuring, for He had led them into the wilderness. His object in so doing was to teach them to walk by faith instead of sight. They went so far as to express the wish that he had died in Egypt with full stomachs rather than to be walking in the wilderness by faith.

2. God's answer to their murmurings (vv. 4-12).

(1) He promised to rain bread from heaven (vv. 4, 5).
His purpose in this was to teach them that man liveth not by bread alone, but by every word that proceeded out of the mouth of the Lord (Deut. 8:3).

(2) He promised to give them a vision of His glory (vv. 6-10).

This served as a warning and encouragement. Moses and Aaron told the children of Israel that the glory of the Lord should be seen in the morning as a reminder that their murmuring was against the Lord and not against themselves.

(3) He promised them flesh and bread (vv. 11, 12).

"At even ye shall eat flesh and in the morning ye shall be filled with bread."
11. Quails and Manna Given (vv. 13-15).

At the appointed time God gave the Israelites the promised food. He first allowed them to feel their need to show them that man's highest need is not physical food, but living faith and fellowship with God.

1. In the evening the quails came up (v. 13).

Since they desired flesh, He gave them flesh to eat. God frequently caters to the desires of His people, knowing that the best way to teach them is to allow them to be filled with their own folly.

2. In the morning God gave the manna (vv. 14, 15).

The Israelites did not know what it was. They therefore exclaimed, "What is it?" Moses told them that it was the bread which the Lord had given them to eat.

III. The Responsibilities of the Israelites (vv. 16-31).

1. They must gather a certain rate daily (v. 16).
The purpose of this was to test their faith. They must look to Him for their daily bread (Matt. 6:11).

2. Every man must gather for himself (v. 16).

This teaches us the important lesson that every man must appropriate Christ for himself.

3. They must not gather in excess of one day's supply (vv. 18-20).

That which was in excess of a day's supply became corrupt. The Christian must use what gifts the Father bestows upon him. Christian grace and Bible truth must not be hoarded up—they are good only when put to use.

4. The manna must be gathered fresh every morning (v. 21).

This was to be done early before the sun was up. So must we seek Christ, who is our manna, every day and the first thing in the day (John 6:57).

5. The manna must be eaten to preserve life.

They were in a wilderness, so could live only by the eating of the food which God gave. It is so with Christ (John 6:53).

6. Due consideration should be given to the Sabbath day (vv. 22-31).

A double portion was to be gathered the day before so as to keep inviolate the Sabbath day.

IV. Manna Kept as a Memorial (vv. 32-36).

This was to be kept as a reminder of God's favor in feeding them in the wilderness, even for supplying them with bread for forty years until they reached the promised land.

To Give All

The love of the base spirit is the desire to take all it can. The love of the nobler spirit is the desire to give all it can.

Infection of Excellence

If one life shines the next life to it must catch the light. It is the infection of excellence.

What Books Have I Found Worth-while?
Joshua 1:1-9

The topic deals with books, the Scripture passage assigned deals with the Book. In our reading of books written by men we must not let the Book of God be crowded out. "This book contains the mind of God, the state of man, the way of salvation, the doom of sinners and the happiness of believers. Its doctrines are holy, its precepts are binding, its histories are true, and its decisions are immutable. Read it to be wise, believe it to be safe, and practice it to be holy. It contains light to direct you, food to support you, and comfort to cheer you. It is the traveler's map, the pilgrim's staff, the pilot's compass, the soldier's sword and the Christian's charter." Such a book must not be ignored.

Concerning comparative values of other books with this one book, the Bible, Professor William Phelps, of Yale University, said, "I thoroughly believe in a university education for men and women, but I believe a knowledge of the Bible without a college course is more valuable than a college course without the Bible." Notwithstanding from authoritative sources, there is an appalling ignorance of this one outstanding book. A class of 139 students at the University of Nebraska was recently quizzed on its knowledge of the Bible. Seven percent of them could not name a single book of the Old Testament; less than half of them could name ten books; eight per cent could not name one book of the New Testament. This is only an indication of a general condition. There are other books worthwhile, but those who exclude the Bible from their daily reading commit themselves to a life of spiritual poverty. The late John Wanamaker said, "I cannot too greatly emphasize the importance and value of Bible study, more important than ever before in these days of uncertainty." Read the passage assigned with this topic giving special heed to the eighth verse.

Shelley Really Not So Badly "Henpecked"

Miss Selina Furnivall, daughter of Shelley's physician, is one hundred years old, according to a dispatch from London, and she remembers hearing her father talk about Shelley. Doctor Furnivall, it appears, had a "high regard" for the poet, "although Shelley paid him only one guinea of seven which he owed." This was magnanimous of the doctor; but it reveals Shelley as in a class with Leigh Hunt, who never paid his debts and who frequently called on Shelley for aid.

Shelley's weakness about paying bills, however, is not the most interesting thing Miss Furnivall remembers hearing her father say about him. The doctor, she says, believed Shelley was a badly henpecked husband—henpecked by his second wife, and certainly not by his poor first wife. The doctor, according to Miss Furnivall, remembered well how the second Mrs. Shelley continuously was saying to her husband, "Shelley, fetch this, or that."

Woman's Will Directs Search for Lost Son

Omaha, Neb.—Provision for the continuance of her futile search for her only child, Harold, was made in the will of Mrs. Emma Haviland, fifty-three, teacher for twenty-five years in Omaha schools, who died recently. After completing his law course in the University of Michigan young Haviland was associated with a law firm here for a short time. Several years ago he left, going, presumably, to California. Although his mother searched relentlessly for him, his whereabouts are unknown.

Several weeks prior to her death Mrs. Haviland made arrangements with an undertaker for the cremation of her body. She requested Boyd Lalbele, Omaha, and Miss Geraldine Loch, Chicago, intimate friends, to scatter her ashes to the winds. This request was complied with.

The disposition of her $7,500 estate provides for a five-year search for her son. If he is not found within that period the residue of the estate is to be divided between Mr. Lalbele and Miss Loch.

HEARTS
COURAGEOUS

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

WHO are your heroes? Though the brave

Deserve the tribute of the free,
I'm sure not all the banners wave
Above the ranks of chivalry.
For some no banners wave at all;
And yet some heroes I recall
With hearts courageous, though no scrolls
Pay tribute to their fighting souls.

I know a woman, one who had
Husband and house, and wealth and ease,
Yes, all the things that make you glad
Who know the joy of things like these;

And then she lost them, one by one;
They slipped away as slips the sun,
Until she stood as stands the lone
Old oak when all the birds have flown.

As stands the oak! For still she stood,
Her roots in earth, her head in heaven,
And spoke of life as something good,
And thought of grief as something given.

However hard her hardest mile,
She wore for poverty a smile,
And talked of God in all her grief
With stronger faith and more belief.

And I, who have my petty loss,
Seek not new courage in old tales;
I see a woman with a cross,
Yet one whose laughter never falls.

Who are your heroes? You who read
The story of some stranger's deed,
May seek the brave in tales of war
While some great soul smiles on next door.

ABBREVIATED

WORLD—HER HUSBAND

Chapter I.

FOR three days and nights Piedmont Spray was all action, forcefulness and enthusiasm, not to say pep.

The idea had come to him to refurbish his fishing tackle, to make it gleam like new and shine like the deuce, and every spare second and every loose moment he was shining, painting, nickeling, scraping and polishing.

He arose at five in the morning to get in a few extra rubs before breakfast. He hurried home from the office to shine and scrub before supper, and after supper he stayed up scouring and painting till the small hours of the morning.

Chapter II.

"Piedmont," said Mrs. Spray timidly, "I wonder if you'd mind fixing the kitchen shade for me? I'm sure it wouldn't take you more than a minute, or an hour at the most."

Piedmont Spray drew himself up to his full height and expansion, and his eyes blazed with honest indignation. "I'm a business man—not a car penter or a mechanic," he withered.

"When I come home for peace and quietness, thoroughly exhausted by the day's toil—by what am I greeted? By a soothing and comforting sympathy? No! By a cold-blooded demand that I spend the night hopping on and off kitchen tables. No, madam, by the Lord Harry, I do!"

The Hotel Stenographer
By Joe Fulkerson

"LOOK at 'em smoking!" said the House Detective with disapproval.

"I see 'em every day, drop into the lobby here to puff a coffin tack," answered the Hotel Stenographer, glancing at three girls in a big divan in Peacock Alley. "I don't mind 'em, Kelly, because I know it is not their fault."

"I do not smoke, though I do not desire any particular credit for being one of the few who do not. We are all the result of our home training. Those girls live in families where fathers and mothers play twenty-five-cent limit, and both sides of the family carry a cigarette case. Of course they smoke. Youngsters imitate their parents from the time they play house, and dress up in their parents' clothes to do it."

"I come from a family where father still drinks his coffee out of a mustache cup."

"My mother is religious, too, and her children are all hand-spanked. I am past twenty-one, but not past spanking, and if I lit one of those things in our flat, I know what would happen to me, although I would not be in a position to see it. We still put all the dinner on the table at one time and say grace, so I would hardly be expected to smoke."

"As the lady said, when her daughter fell in the well, it is mighty hard to raise a daughter, but most of us imitate our mothers and make a few improvements on the model, and let it go at that."

ROSE POND STILL MECCA OF CURIOUS

Believed to Be Crater of Extinct Volcano.

Evening Shade, Ark.—Each summer, with its crop of tourists, sees a renewed interest in "Rose pond," near here, which is thought to be the filled-in crater of an extinct volcano and is pointed out to all newcomers as a natural curiosity.

"Rose Pond" is about twelve acres in extent. It is literally as "level as a floor." It takes its name from the fact that when white settlers first came here it was a marshy place, covered thickly with the wild rose that is native to this section. One old-timer says he has yet to see a more beautiful sight than was Rose pond in those days, with the early morning dew on the pink and white blossoms.

But the roses have disappeared now. The first owners found it impossible to clear the pond, so thickly did the rose brambles grow, and water stood in rock-bound courses over the marsh. But Joseph Schales, from Germany, acquired the pond.

Hay meant more than roses to Schales. So with a prodigious amount of labor he cut the brambles and rooted them out of the mud, dug out the rocks and drained the pond.

Wild hay flourished for him and later owners, but such prosaic crops as corn and cotton will not grow in the pond with any degree of success. It is as if the spot resents giving up its ancient wild heritage.

Students of geology say there is no other soil in the state just like that of Rose pond. It resembles, so it is said, ashes or lava reduced to powder and mixed with vegetable matter brought in by erosion and water from the slightly higher ground.

Not What It Used to Be

"When it comes to the game of marbles we elders have a right to talk about the 'good old days,' with regret," said the man who used to dream of cornering the marble output.

"We used to have a dozen different varieties of the game, and all of them took more skill than the games kids play now. 'Shooting' agates between the thumb and finger is a lost art; today the players toss them. Another thing, there are only two kinds of marbles for modern youngsters to buy, but we used to have 'agates,' 'stonies,' 'crookies,' 'milk agates,' 'alleys,' 'chinas,' and a half dozen other kinds. Now a boy can only hope to amass numbers; then he could use discrimination in keeping the ones he admired and using the others for play."

Bacteria Survive Cold

Continued freezing apparently cannot kill the bacteria that cause typhoid. Profs. M. J. Prucha and J. M. Brannen of the department of bacteriology of the University of Illinois, kept a colony of typhoid germs in a sample of ice cream at a temperature averaging four degrees below zero for two years. From time to time samples were taken out, from all of which positive cultures were obtained. The number of bacteria decreased gradually, it is true, but as many as 11,000 living typhoid bacteria survived in the final sample at the end of two years.

China Wants "Loud" Garters

A sudden demand for gayly colored garters from the Chinese market recently caused considerable wonder among American garter manufacturers. The louder the color, the greater was the demand, and violent checks and plaids were particularly in favor.

The phenomenon is explained by Isaac F. Marcossion in the Saturday Evening Post. Inquiry developed that male students at Canton and elsewhere had adopted the style of wearing garters on the outside of their trousers.

TANEYTOWN LOCALS

Items of news from town, or vicinity are always wanted for this column. Especially accidents, sales of real estate, fires, important happenings, visits to or from the community social events, and all matters of general interest to those at home, and away from home.

Miss Helen Gardner, of Baltimore, spent the week with friends in town.

Chas. Buffington, of New York, spent a few days with his brothers, here, this week.

Daniel Hiltbride, wife and son, of York, Pa., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hahn.

Miss Mae Sanders is spending some time in Philadelphia, as a guest of her brother and sister.

Mr. and Mrs. William Elliot, of Trenton, N. J., friends of Miss Beulah Englar's, visited the Englar home on Thursday and Friday, on their way from Washington to Gettysburg as part of an extensive auto vacation.

A real estate deal was made, this week, between D. Steiner Engelbrecht and Maurice Crebs which resulted in the exchange of properties. The Crebs property is the former George Fogle farm; Englebrecht's is a town property.

Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Brown entertained on Friday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Stull and two daughters, of Keyville; Mrs. Oliver Koontz, of York; Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Crouse, Mrs. Mary Stover and Mrs. J. S. Stover.

Mrs. Mary Stover and Master Paul Koontz and Mrs. Kathryn Thomas, spent Monday and Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. John Eyley, near Ladiesburg. Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Crouse were entertained at supper on Tuesday evening at the same place.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Cutsail and son, and Stewart Boyd, of Piney Creek and Henry Feeser, spent Sunday evening with George W. Baker and family. Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Strawsburg and grand-daughter, Mildred, spent Monday evening at the same place.

Elizabeth Wilt, Mary Isabel Elliot Virginia Ott, Dorothy Kephart, Sarah Grace Null, Jane Long, Mildred Annan, John Bricker, Jack Bower, Elwood Snyder and Berton Kephart, members of the Taneytown 4-H Club, left on Thursday to spend a week at College Park.

Misses Mabel and Mary Baker, Raymond Baker, Henry Feeser, of Otter Dale; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fritz, Misses Helen and Margaret Stonesifer, Levi Maus, Walter Stonesifer, George Caylor, Shreeve Shriner, Theodore Stultz, of Uniontown, spent Sunday with friends in Hampstead.

On Thursday morning, while moving the large power roller, belonging to E. C. Valentine, in front of the Central Hotel, the operator lost control in changing gears, and the machine started down-grade at full speed toward the railroad. Fortunately no teams or autos were moving on the street, at the time. The machine was gotten under control after crossing the railroad, on up-grade.

Taneytown 10—Gettysburg 6.

Taneytown won the second game with Gettysburg, on Wednesday. The game featured with heavy hitting on both sides, Gettysburg getting 15 hits while Taneytown got 13. Shaffer had 12 strike-outs. Hamme had 1. There were several errors for both teams which proved costly. Lambert for Taneytown had 3. Shaffer instead of weakening pitched better toward the latter part of the game. The score by innings was as follows: Gettysburg 1-1-0-1-1-0-0-1-6=6 Taneytown 1-0-3-0-4-0-1-1-x=10 Batteries: Taneytown, Schaffer and Moul; Gettysburg, Andrews and Hamme and Moser. Umpires, Koons at plate and Clingan on bases.

LAST PAGE EDITORIAL.

"We Miss The Record."

It is almost of weekly occurrence that somebody will call at our office, pay up, and say, "We have been missing The Record." Of course they do! We mean that they should, for it is our big object to try to publish a paper that everybody within reasonable range of our office, needs, and is the better off for having.

We take no pleasure in "dropping" a name from our list; in fact, it is the most disagreeable thing we do. But, we feel that it must be done, for we have no means of knowing whether a subscriber desires his paper continued, or not, unless he pays up after being notified.

We do not doubt anybody's credit, so far as being worth a year's subscription is concerned, but we do recognize everybody's right to drop his subscription, if he sees fit; so there is only one thing to do—drop the name from our list.

We believe that there are many persons within the field of The Record who would be the better off for taking and reading it, and who would "miss it" when it stops coming, just as do those who have tried it. The fact is, the taking of a home paper is an act that is almost binding on home folks, even should they feel sometimes that it is hardly worth the money; for the reason that no home community can be at its best, without its own newspaper, and every good citizen ought to want to help a little to keep his community on the map.

Notwithstanding the enormous increase in volume of business, fire insurance companies have made no profit during the last five years due to a constant decrease in rates and a definite increase in expenses, and, above everything else, a steady rise in the fire loss waste of the country.
