Mr. Weller, Republican candidate

As to the candidates for State Sen-

ANOTHER AUTO VICTIM.

Can not Such Cases be Lessened by Stricter Laws?

The notice of the death of Mr. Jas. F. Yingling, at a Baltimore Hospital, as the result of injuries received by being knocked down on the Westminster state road, near his home, last week, appears on another page of this issue. Two weeks ago, Mrs. G. May Fouke, a resident of Taneytown, also died at a Baltimore hospital, after having been knocked down by an auto on the streets of Baltimore. Two worthy citizens of Carroll County therefore lost their lives, under very similar circumstances, within less than a month. No doubt in some degree these fatalities were due to lack of full care on the part of the victims; but, are we not expecting them to take more than a fair share of the care? And are we not giving too much license to motor vehicles in the use of our public highways? What can be—what ought to be— done about it? Are we indeed ready to say to pedestrians—"You use the public roads at your own peril? It is difficult to have our legislature pass laws for the greater safety of the weak and slow, because our political power is largely vested in those who in one way or another are inter-ested on the side of motoring, and rapid travel. But, the loss of life on our highways is becoming a more and more serious problem, and we largely have the question to decide—whether we will take effective steps to lessen the killing, or whether we will permit it to go on.

If it was not that here in Maryland we are so wedded to the "states rights" doctrine, we should say that this a National question. That public road laws and regulations should be the same in every state, and thereby become so well known that the chance of accidents would be very greatly reduced. And then, there ought to be the most rigid enforcement of severe penalties, in order that they might become equally as well known. Whatever is done, it is a question that will not decide itself. The people must do it! In connection with the above, it seems pertinent to report that Frank L. Willet, of Adams Co., Pa., was sentenced this week to imprisonment in the York county jail, for one year, and a total of $300. in fines. His auto struck a seven year old school girl in Hanover, in September, that caused her death a few hours later. Willet was charged with being intoxicated, with illegal transportation of liquor, operating a car without license, gravated assault and battery, and with manslaughter. The sentence seems to indicate leniency.

Taneytown is a very desirable place in which to live, for comfortable home life. The absence of manu-facturing of the large class, is an advantage rather than a disadvantage, for several reasons; only one of which need be mentioned; as it does not depend on the prosperity of manufac-turing, there is no chance of closed, or part time, industries, that always results in injury to manufacturing towns. The town is simply completely independent of strikes, shut-downs and business depression.

The town has notably excellent streets and side-walks, excellent churches and stores, a fine new High School, and, with the completion of the York to Frederick highway that is in early prospect—its highway advantages will be apparent to all, and surperior to like advantages of any other towns within a wide circle. It is a clean, healthy town, with an elevation of over 500 feet.

The built up state road annex now a mile in length, is due for still further development; but, the rush in that direction is over, and building within the town limits has been going on for the past two years, and will continue to go on. ## COUNTY FAIRS NEED MORE MONEY.

The Matter Discussed last Week in Frederick City.

That county fairs in Maryland are in "bad shape" and stand in need of assistance was developed at the semiannual meeting of the Association of Agricultural Fairs of Maryland, held Wednesday in the Francis Scott Key Hotel, Frederick city. Not only in Maryland are conditions bad with respect to fairs, put also in various other sections of the country, and conditions have now reached the point whereby something must be done, it was said, and aid in the form of financial assistance is what is needed. In reference to State appropriations to the various county Fairs, of which there are eleven in Maryland, it is pointed out that the State grants an appropriation of only $5,000, distributed equally between the various Fair Associations. This is not enough money to pay the necessary taxes, it was developed, and inasmuch as the majority of the Fair Association are losing money each year it is obvious that assistance must be had. The county Fair is held to be a great educational factor in the life of the country with respect to agriculture. In this State the University of Maryland particularly endorses the county Fairs, holding that they are the one great factor that aids materially in keeping the boys and girls on the farms. "Without the Fairs, agriculture will deteriorate," one of the prominent Association members declared this morning in discussing the situation.

With reference to State appropriation, it was pointed out that Minnesota appropriates approximately $1,-000,000 to its county Fairs, while in Pennsylvania the appropriation is about $100,000. Many other states also grant suitable appropriations which aid materially in preserving the county Fairs. It was further de-veloped that many of the Maryland Fairs have lost money this year. Al-legany county is said to have lost abort $25,000, while Montgomery county sustained a loss of several thousand dollars, it is reported.

Eleven counties are members of the Association of Agricultural Fairs of Maryland—Frederick, Garrett, Alle-gany, Washington, Montgomery, Somgany, Washington, Montgomery, Som-erset, Worcester, Dorchester, Balti-more, Harford and Carroll. Counties represented at Wednesday's meeting —Garrett, Allegany Washington, Montgomery, Dorchester and Freder-ick.—Frederick News.

Walter H. Davis, Buick distributor, kindly offered the Buick distributor, kindly offered the use of his show room in which to hold the exhibit and it will be held there. The Farmers Supply Co, of West-minster, representatives of the Mc-Cormick Deering Co., will give a special prize of a McCormick-Deer-ing Corn Planter for the best ten ears exhibited In addition to the show exhibited. In addition to the above prize, the several banks will give prizes for their respective shows. Details and list of prizes are now being worked out and will be published lat-

STORES BROKEN INTO. Operations Likely of a Local Gang of Thieves.

Last Friday night the Hardware store of Reindollar Bros., Taneytown, was broken into and robbed. About $15.00 in change was taken from the cash register, and a considerable quantity of watches, cutlery and oth-er articles, valued at perhaps $100.00. Entry was made by forcing a cellar door and coming up the steps, where the door into the store was forced, and a get-away was made without being heard.

At about 12:30 on Wednesday morning, this week, this store was again visited, likely with the intention of making a larger haul. The same cellar door was opened, this time by breaking out the panels of the door by the use of a crowbar or prize of some sort. The door at the head of the stairway was found to be too securely fastened to force, and entry was then made by breaking through a window in the rear of the store and the stairway door opened from the inside in order to permit an easy get-away. The robbers were prevented from making a haul, because Samuel H. Mehring, owner of the building, was awakened and fired a revolver out of a window which scared them away. The robbery occurred during the time the night freight was here, making considerable noise shifting cars.

Also, on Tuesday night, the office of the Grain & Supply Co., was broken into and an attempt made to open the safe by breaking off the knob, but the safe would not open. Dr. Wells' store was also entered by forcing a cellar door, then coming up into the store. The thieves secured the contents of the money drawer on the confectionery side, amounting to a few dollars, but the money drawer on the opposite side of the room, and a cash register, were not broken into, nor was any merchandise taken.

The thieves acted on both nights as though they are well acquainted as though they are well acquainted with the stores, and not prepared to haul away any great quantity of bulky goods, money apparently hav-ing been the main object. There has been other cases of more or less petty thieving, going on here, that have not been openly talked about; and the question is what is to be and the question is, what is to be done to remedy the situation? On Friday night when the Reindol-lar store was first entered, thieves also broke into Bollinger's store at Keymar, and the Keymar Garage; and on Wednesday morning, this week, again Keymar was visited, Sneeringer's store at Bruceville was robbed of cash and merchandise, and the Keymar station was broken into. Warner's store, at Detour, was also broken into. The same gang likely did all of the work. Their object, evidently, is to get cash, rather than merchandise.

Only Local issues Prominent in the Campaign.

Frank R. Kent, who is writing a series of political articles for the Bal-timore Sun from the Middle West, says;

"So far as policies are concerned none will be changed. Our national direction, or lack of direction, foreign or domestic, will not be altered. The talk about sustaining the so-called Coolidge policies and the talk about what the Democrats would do is equally ridiculous.

In the one case the Democrats have no program, no policies, no principles, no leadership. If they get control they could and would do nothing except exhibit their incapacity and lack of unity. On the other hand, Mr. Coolidge could not possibly be more futile or feeble so far as Senate or House leadership is concerned with a Democratic majority than he has been with his own party in control.

State after State presents evidence that there is not a thing at stake in the way of national policy at this election. In a few the prohibition issue is to the fore but in one State you find the Democratic Senatorial candidate wet, the Republican dry. In the next it is the Republican who is wet and the Democrat dry. In others both are dry. Only in Maryland and New York are both wet. In most, however, there is not the ghost of an issue and the whole fight is merely a matter of local bickerings, personalities and State politics.

The best proof of the utterly local nature of these Senatorial fights is the complaint of the national speak-ers sent out by the two committees to help in the various Chet help in the various States. Neither side knows what to talk about. What goes all right in one State won't go at all in another. The thing has got to be a joke with these traveling oratorical statesmen on both sides.

A Mix-up in the Election of County Commissioners.

We understand that there is a hitch in our present two-year election law as it applies to County Commission-Repp, whose commission does not expire until December 1927, while the terms of Messrs Melville and Reaver expire in 1926, or a year earlier.

In case Mr. Repp is re-elected, therefore, there will be time to straighten out the slip in the coming legislature; but, if he is not, re-elected, he will still serve out his term, and the question will be, which of the three elected will have to wait a year before taking office?

An attempt was made to pass a bill through the last legislature, designating the candidate with the lowest vote as the one to take the abbreviated term, but the bill failed to pass, and no provision was made, or seems to exist by law, under which to determine on the man. The question, therefore, is interesting, as to what will be done about it, in case of Mr. Repp's defeat.

Sample Ballots at Record Office.

We will have sample ballots at The Record Office, on election day. Every year, a few Democrats and Republicans come to our office to look over the ballot, and they are free to do so again this year. There will also be the instruction rooms in charge of members of both parties, so no one in Taneytown district need go to vote without complete instruction as to how to mark their ballot according to their personal desires.

Sunday School Mass-Meeting.

Last call for Sunday School men, women and children to go to West-minster, this Sunday afternoon, Oct. 31st. The men will form at Court House, at 1:30 and march to Alumni Hall where a meeting will be held at 2:30. Rev. H. L. Watson, D. D., of Baltimore, will speak on "Making the Bible Alive." Rev. Murray E. Ness will sing.

The Women's and Children's meeting will be held in the Armory at 2:30, where Rev. Hugh Birckhead, of Baltimore, will speak. All Sunday School workers should turn out.

Penna Head-light Laws.

A final warning has been issued by the State Highway Patrol of Pennsvlvania, to owners of automobiles, with illegal headlights.

For those who are not acquainted with the Pennsylvania State law on the subject of headlights on motor vehicles, the following simple explanation is given. Lights must be focused to the smallest possible point. Lights must be tilted below a line measuring 25 feet from the vehicle which is as high as the center of the bulb in the headlight. All lights must focus below this "dead line." Rusty reflectors, cracked lens, bulbs over 21 candle-power, illegal lens and reflectors constitute illegal lights. The fine for the first offense as provided by the state law, is not less than $10 nor more than $25. For the second offense, a fine of not less than $25, nor more than $50 is provided for. On the third offense the license of the driver of the machine is revoked for one year.

A Campaign of Ill-feeling.

The state campaign is growing dangerously personal, especially between the candidates for Governor, each charging the other with making untruthful statements, with reference to the Conowingo franchise. The "wet' and "dry" line-up, in Baltimore, is also very bitter, and the fight over Senatorship has degenerated the largely into personalism and ill-feel-This sort of campaign has lasting. ed long enough, and it is a good thing that this week will end it.

Preventive Housecleaning.

If the home has been regularly and systematically cared for, the old-fashioned strenuous period of upheaval which our mothers called "spring" or fall" cleaning is no longer necessary. Even in the cleanest homes, however, the changes of the season necessitate certain changes in the details of housework, and some rearrangement of one's furnishings and storage places.

In going through one's home, the object should be not only to make everything spick and span for the time being, but to make such changes as will help it to remain so with the least possible daily or weekly work. Much of the dirt that gets into the house is blown or tracked in. Remove dirt regularly from window sills, porches, steps and walk to keep it from being blown into the house. Screens covered with cheesecloth will stop much dust and soot at windows and doors. Concrete walks will reduce the amount of dirt carried in on shoes Provide mats and scrapers to help still further. A place just inside the entrance where muddy boots and coats may be left is a great help. Lessen the number of dust collecting places. Furnish waste baskets, ash trays, and receptacles for burnt matches in every room, and above all, train the members of your family to help by leaving things where they belong and in good condition. Take dirt and rubbish away and dispose of t permanently when you have finished cleaning any given part of the house and make your motto "to keep clean rather than clean up"

No man is poorer today than he without credit. Man may have many virtues, but if he cannot be trusted in money matters he is in universal dishonor and disrepute. Thieves, murderers and harlots look down upon those who do not pay their just debts. Elbert Hubbard said: "If there is an unpardonable sin, it is the habit of not paying one's debts."

That the dishonest debtor is looked upon with so much scorn and derision oday needs no explaining if it is not forgotten that credit is the basis of modern business, that the world of today is actually living on money to be earned thirty days hence.-Exchange.

Washington a "Prig."

As a specimen of what we may read these days, editorially expressed, we reproduce the following from the Baltimore Evening Sun of last Wednesday, under the Caption, "Why Worry?'

"Meeting in Richmond, the Broth-erhood of the United Lutheran Churches of America adopted resolutions protesting against certain re-cent biographies of George Washing-These offending works were deton. scribed as "puerile attempts of noto-riety-seeking scribblers of the day to pelittle and defame the reputation of the father of our country." With all due respect to the Lutheran Brotherhood, it seems to us that they are wasting their time, if indeed they are not advertising the of-fending books.

For the people of the United States long ago decided to regard George Washington as a prig. They prefer to regard him as a prig. It is as a prig he is set before them from their earliest childhood. And there is little likelihood that any biographer, however carefully he works up his material, however cunning his advertising, will manage to change the set opinion of the American people." As the word "prig" is probably not

We have also erected to him some great monuments R laid out a lot of parks in his name, D and since his day named some millions of youngsters after him. And now, this wise man of the Sun breaks in with the information that "the people of the United States" class | ial factor in "cost" by government our idealized Washington as just a "prig." D

Think, too, of the millions of dollars in notes, coins and postage stamps, that a mistaken government has sought to honor our country's "father" with by circulating, only to find out at this late day that he was not actually an honorable "father" but a conceited, narrow, selfish individual, do not produce as much as private an intellectual fop—a "prig", for short.

It is to be noted that the editor of the Evening Sun does not himself say that Washington was this "prig" of a fellow; only that "the people" regard  $\mathbf{D}$  him as such, and "it is as a prig he is childhood" and concludes with the dictum that no "biographer, however cunning his advertising, will manage to change the set opinion of the American people."

never, agree! And besides, even if we tried, we would raise a terrible rumpus with the relatives of a lot of historians and orators who have for 150 years been telling us that Washington was all right for a father.

England is Right!

According to reports, the English people across the big pond are highly amused at the way this country is Know-towing to the Roumanian Queen and literally "blowing in" millions of dollars in according her an elaborate reception.

It makes very little difference to us what England thinks about, for it is none of her business; but, England is right! This country is making a very foolish demonstration over the visit. Proper honors are all right, but it is waste of good money to splurge effusively over any foreign ruler.

Pure Bunk!

Every once in a while-and usually about election time-candidate orators offer the well-worn argument about the "government taking over" the railroads, mines, or power companies, or some other big business, and operating the same "at cost" for the benefit of the people. This sounds plausible-why not?

But, how many have ever considered what "cost" amounts to? First of all, the government would have to buy the property to be operated, and this means bond issues and interest. to be paid. So, we have "cost" item No. 1-interest.

Then, the government would lose the taxes now being paid by the private ownership operation, and this gives "cost" item No. 2-loss of taxes.

All manufacturing plants, whether operated by the government, or by private concerns, have certain depreciation expenses that must be provided for, that enter into "cost" of production; and this is item No. 3.

All property must be insured against loss by fire-another item of "cost," that comes in as No..4.

Even government operation is not likely to be exempt from losses of earned income, an item that every good business man adds to his production "cost," and this is No. 5.

It is quite probable-in fact is universally the case-that the government must pay more for labor than private operation, and this is a materoperation, and stands for item No. 6.

These are not all. There are dozens of "overhead" and "incidental" costs, waste, accidents, disasterseven suits at law-that the govern. ment as a manufacturer would be required to assume; and by the time we add all together, and take account of the fact that government employees firm employees, we will find that instead of saving by "government operation," we are paying more. Perhaps not more on our bills for service, but more on our tax bills, directly or indirectly. The argument is made that the government operates set before them from their earliest | the Postal service at very low rates; but we do not know whether they are as low as they might be, or_not, never having tried private operation. Besides, the postal rates do not pay the cost of the service, but big deficiencies are made up every year, by Congress. through turning over revenue from other sources, to the Postoffice Department.

Cheese in the Plural

Dr. Frank Vizetelly, editor of Funk & Wagnalls, says that "The plural of cheese is cheeses. It dates from 1300, and may be found in Langland's 'Vision of Piers Plowman'-'Twey grene cheses.' The plural is used in instances where various varieties are considered, or numbers are specified: "The cheesemonger stocks cheeses of all types -American, Brie, Camembert, Cheddar, Dutch, Edam and many others.' 'The farmer had 50 cheeses in his cheeseroom.' In speaking of the article in its attributive sense or referring to it in bulk, the singular form of the word is correct, thus: 'Cheese sandwiches'; 'great quantities of cheese'; 'the cheese market.' "

A James Toast

Henry James was once dining with Theodore Cook, author of "The Sunlit Hours," on the latter's birthday. Lifting his glass of port, he rose with ponderous kindliness

"My dear Theodore," he began, "I hold in my hand a glass, perhaps I should say goblet, filled to the brim with a fluid which has a poisonous and practically fatal effect on every nerve of my body; but I am asked to propose your health and if you imagine-if your friends here imaginethat by one scintilla it may be ameliorated, I will drink it to the dregs."-Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Sorts Cigars Quickly

Sixty times a minute a new cigarsorting machine picks up a cigar, looks at it and selects the compartment where it belongs, according to the shade of its brown coloring. Mechanism then deposits it in the proper place. The new device, which is being utilized by several cigar manufacturers, is actuated by a photoelectric cell similar to those used in television. Light from the cigar falls on the sensitive alkali metal coating inside the cell, resulting in a shower of electrons which, properly controlled in an electric circuit, act on a relay circuit.

'Twas Not Always Thus

For some time the clergy has been protesting against the prevailing style of bobbed hair. On page 46 of the regulations of the ancient Convent of the Birds, dated 1867, we read the following:

"Long hair, worn in braids, chignons, unbound, or even coiled up, is an indication of vanity and total lack of modesty both for young girls and married women. Our pensionnaires, under penalty of being expelled, must wear their hair short, not exceeding ten centimeters in length; also they must perform humble labors. -From La Bulgarie, Sofia. Next Election 1928.

The list of candidates as given above, will not appear as a newspaper feature, for another two years. Skipping an election day, every two years is a pleasurable anticipation, and we trust that it will work out as intended. The saving of expense to taxpayers will be quite an item, in these days for big demands for other purposes, and there seems to be no good reason for annual elections when no official is elected for only one year.

Still, like all new laws, it needs to of its benefits and its good working qualities. The experiences of election day next week, will be the largest determining factor in deciding for, or against, the law. It may be that owing to the long ballot, and the time | thing about it? required to cast and count it, may show that more voting precincts are joke-smith of the Sun slipped one ovneeded, and consequently more expense.

The public has grown skeptical about actual economy in political matters of this sort. So often, we have the result of saving at one end, and | Brotherhood? We hope this is right, increasing expenditures at another, because our country really ought to with the net result of no saving at all. have an accredited illustrious father At any rate, we are trying the experiment, and the next time we will go to an awful time in agreeing on one now the polls will be on the Presidential considering the intricacies of our poelection of 1928.

How sad all this is. Even the cherry tree and little hatchet-cannot tell a lie-story, represents conviction of priggishness, and thus another lesson in moral rectitude for our little boys, is wrecked beyond redemption. R It's a downright pity, that's what it is, and we wish the editor had withheld the truth. It is a pity, too, for the reason that our "higher critics" arebusy picturing the mistakes of Moses and discrediting the existence of a Hades; and also attempts are being widely made to belittle even the Constitution of the United States, the observance of Sunday, and some other things that stand in the way of "personal liberty" and "state's rights."

We wish the Sun's writer could take it all back, and say that he may be wrong in saying that the "people of the United States" have passed the verdict; or at least tell us how many of "the people," and who they are. When we speak of "the people" we usually mean all, or nearly all, of be tested out before we can be sure them. Why not let us still have our idealized Washington, for he has been dead a good many years, and there is nothing to be gained by digging up so long an undiscovered truth. #### Be Slow in Judgment

We are not always aware of the scars and we don't see the wounds of many a life we are tempted to condemn. If we knew all we might forgive all. We think we know, and discover that much has been hidden from us. Had we the trials of some it is quite possible that our achievements would be fewer than theirs.

There may be a score of unpleasant things about a man, but so long as there is one good feature it is worth our while to find it. Try for one week to put the one good fact of another's life by the side of the many things which you dislike and you will be surprised how happy you'll be.

There is still far more good in the world than badness. As we look round we can find many a gem in rough places and many a flower among the weeds.-London Tit-Bits.

Excess Optimism

Edsel Ford tells this story apropos of optimism:

"A bald-headed man went into a barber shop and asked the barber if he had any good preparations for growing hair.

"'Here, sir,' said the barber, who was bald-headed himself, 'is an excellent thing.' He took a bottle of pink liquid from a shelf. 'My own invention, sir. Warranted to grow hair on the baldest head. The large-size bottle is worth five simoleons. The complete cure of six bottles would cost you twenty-five.'

"'All right; I'll take the complete cure,' said the man.

"And he chuckled happily, looked round the shelves and added:

'By the way, you might wrap me up one of those patent electric haircurlers, too.''

Automatic Ventilation

Is Latest Convenience Most poultrymen today acknowledge the value of good ventilation in the winter laying pens. But ventilation without objectionable drafts is often hard to accomplish, especially where snowstorms and blizzards are of frequent occurrence. The open-air type of henhouse, which is in general use, is not entirely satisfactory because snow and rain can enter. Even if a muslin curtain is provided to prevent this, it is necessary to adjust this curtain according to weather conditions, and this is very often neglected. To overcome these difficulties, and to make the ventilation entirely automatic, a Wisconsin poultryman devised the shutter arrangement shown in the illustration.

It consists of a frame projecting from the side of the poultry house as shown, about 6 feet long and 4 feet high, roofed over with tar paper. Seven 6-inch boards are suspended within this frame, with enough space between them to insure proper ventilation at all times, and arranged in such a manher that they swing easily upon pivot hails driven through the frame at each end.

In fair weather the shutters hang vertically, but when gusts of wind, with rain or snow, beat against them, they close automatically. To prevent the fowls from scratching litter into the openings, which would interfere with the movement of the shutters, sparrow netting is tacked across the frame, on the inside of the house .-- G. E. Hendrickson, Argyle, Wis., in Popular Mechanics Monthly.

Hens Must Be Well Fed

During Molting Period Many people ask how to feed chickens through the molt. They seem to feel that the system of feeding during this normal resting period should be different than their feeding system during the other periods of the year. The yearly molt is a very natural part of a hen's life. This is the time of the year when the hen ceases production in order to replenish her wardobe and to store up renewed energy and strength for her next year of laying. During this time she is manufacturing a supply of feathers instead of eggs. Feathers and eggs are made up of somewhat the same material. The system of feeding then should not be different from one used for egg production. Milk should continue to be fed along with the mash, and oyster shell and grain should continue to be fed in order that the hen may store up surplus fat so that she can have fat to draw upon for the next year's production. Cutting down in the feed will cause production to drop off. Any condition which stops egg production will cause birds to molt at this time of year. However, the causing of the early molting will not bring about a quick molt. On the contrary, those that molt early are usually long-time molters. Those that molt late are usually short-time molters. It is therefore most profitable to continue to feed for egg production and let the fowls go hato their natural molt, rather than to try and control this in any way.-Poultry Extension Service, Colorado Agricultural College.

130 MILES A SECOND

SOLAR SYSTEM MOVES

Entire Planetary Arrangement Flying Toward Draco.

Washington .- The sun, and the solar system with it, is moving through space with a speed of more than 130 miles a second toward a point in the direction of the constellation Draco, the "Dragon," which partly encircles the North pole.

This is one of the conclusions reached from recent experiments by Prof. Dayton C. Miller of the Case School of Applied Science in Cleveland, and described by him in a radio talk given under the auspices of Science Service and the National Research council.

The experiments of Professor Miller have been made at the Mount Wilson observatory in California since March. 1921, and involve the use of a delicate instrument called the "interferometer," invented by one of Professor Miller's predecessors, Dr. A. A. Michelson, now professor of physics at the University of Chicago.

Resulted in Einstein Theory. When the experiment was first performed by Professor Michelson in 1887. an effort was made to detect the motion of the earth through the ether which is supposed to pervade all space. and to be the medium through which light and similar forms of radiation are transmitted. However, though the apparatus was delicate enough to de tect the expected motion, only a negligible drift was found, and one of the ultimate results of the effort to explain this anomaly was the Einstein theory of relativity.

In 1905, Professor Miller and the late Prof. Edward W. Morley, who collaborated in the original set of experiments, repeated them on a hall 300 feet high near Cleveland, and found a slight effect, but nothing further was done until 1921, when the present series was started at Mount Wilson. more than a mile above sea level.

These have resulted in what is interpreted as a marked drift of the ether, and the explanation offered has been that, under conditions such as those in Cleveland, and at sea level, the ether tends to be dragged along. but on a mountain top there is nothing to obstruct it, and so it drifts by. The general direction and amount of the drift has been determined by Professor Miller by comparing measurements made at different times of the day and year. In the series of experiments which he conducted last year, Professor Miller stated, more than 100,000 readings of the instrument were made.

"This required," he said, "that I should walk, in the dark, in a small circle, for a total distance of 100 miles, while making the readings." Agree With Other Observations.

The general motion of the earth. and the rest of the solar system. which, Professor Miller finds, is in good agreement with measurements made by astronomers of the motion and is toward a point in the sky having the right ascension, the celestial equivalent of longitude of 262 degrees, and a declination which corresponds to atitude of 68 degrees north Other determinations of the motion and its direction have been made by measurements of the motions of the stars in the sky, and of the star clusters. "These three determinations of the absolute motion of the system," said Doctor Miller, "are all in the same general direction, and lie within a circle having a radius of 26 degrees. "The assumed velocity of 130 miles a second is about seven times the velocity of the earth in its orbit, and it is of a reasonable magnitude."

"INTERVIEW" HAD ITS ORIGIN IN AMERICA

Cincinnati Man Credited With Its Inception.

The collection and distribution of news is one of the most ancient of occupations, but one phase of news gathering, the interview, is of comparatively modern American origin.

Interviewing, in the form in which it is known today, appears to have originated in Washington about the time of the Civil war, when there was a great demand for news bearing on the internal situation.

The reading public, always with a ready appetite for personalities, received this style of reporting with so much favor that a few years later President Andrew Johnson was credited with expressing a preference to giving an interview to sending a message to congress, for "everybody seemed to read the interview and nobody seemed to read the message."

One of the earliest of these interviewers was "Mack," the correspondent for the Cincinnati Commercial, says Harper's Magazine, January, 1874. His first interview was with Alexander H. Stephens, and was the result of a two-days' visit at the latter's residence in Georgia during the summer of 1867. During the ensuing winter the impeachment project was reviewed in Washington, and "Mack" applied the interviewing process to Andrew Johnson. The matter discussed was nearly always the pending impeachment, the manner was that of a quiet talk, each party asking and answering questions in turn. Neither pencil nor note-book was introduced during the conversa-tion, but "Mack" always asked the President if he was willing that the result of the conversation should go into print and if there was anything he desired to have omitted. The President's desires in this connection were always scrupulously regarded.

More than once the Chief Executive sent his secretary to request "Mack" to meet him, preferring this to sending a message to congress.

Doctor Russell of the London Times, in a book covering his visit to the United States, gives the following account of one of the early attempts at interviewing, under date of Washington, March 28, 1861.

"On returning to Willard's hotel I was accosted by a gentleman who came out from the crowd in front of the office. 'Sir,' he said, 'you have been dining with our President tonight.' I bowed. 'Was it an agreeable party?' said he; 'and what do you think of Mr. Lincoln?' 'May I ask to whom I have the honor of speaking?' 'My name is Mr. ---, and I am the correspondent of the New York -"Then, sir,' I replied, 'it gives me satisfaction to tell you that I think a good deal of Mr. Lincoln, and that I am equally pleased with the dinner. I have the honor to wish you good evening.'

Supply of Oyster Shell Is Essential to Fowls

constant supply of oyster shells or limestone grit is essential to the host profitable egg production. Re-Cent tests in Ohio show that when the hens were denied oyster shells egg broduction was greatly reduced and eggs averaged two ounces per dozen smaller.

The experiments showed that minerals in the feed are essential for growing birds and for the bodily functions of mature birds, while laying dens require additional lime supplied the form of shells or grit.

Eggs in Severe Weather. With the first hard cold spell, hens drop down in egg production. After they have become hardened to Weather conditions, however, one may expect satisfactory results from them even in the severest months if they are made comfortable.

Bulky Feed for Ducks. Ducks require more bulky food than chickens and for that reason should be ted boiled vegetable, steamed green Q<sub>0ver</sub> or alfalfa and other such vegetable foods in their mash.

World's Easiest Position Held by Senate Doorman

Washington .- The question as to the softest job at the capitol is not debatable, all agreeing that the honor goes to the doorman of the diplomatic gallery in the senate.

Week after week he sits in front of the door, waiting to open it for foreign attaches who seldom come. About the only time members of the embassies visit the senate is when a treaty or legislation affecting a foreign country is being debated.

Having so little to do, the doorman carries out his duties with rare preciseness. For instance, one of the rules being that no one is allowed to stand in front of the doors leading into the diplomatic gallery, the doorman has selected a certain blue stripe in the marble beyond which no person may stand.

During the last days of World court debate, when long lines extended from all over the other sections of the gallery, the diplomatic gallery with 30 seats was unoccupied most of the time. The present doorman, J. K. Williams, formerly of Frankfort, Ky., is so deaf that he can't hear unless one shouts into his ear. This, however, is no handicap in his work.

For 33 years Williams has been sitting in chairs waiting to open doors. He was doorman at the senators' gallery, the ladies' gallery, the men's gallery, and the press gallery before taking charge at the diplomatic gallery.

With all this completed, at a cost estimated at $25,000,000, London and New York will be connected by the most speedy cable in the world's history, operating at a speed of 500 (five letter) words, or 2,500 letters per minute, both ways simultaneously.

This remarkable increase of speed is made possible by the wrapping of the copper core, or conductor, of the cable in the new alloy, known as "permalloy," which prevents any possible leakage of current and permits the electric impulses to follow each other in more rapid succession than heretofore.

"Pigs Is Taxes" in China

"Pigs is pigs," but according to Chinese military officials they are more than that-they are a good source of revenue. Hence when the new regime took control of Shanghai and looked around for possible sources of income it decided to impose a tax on every pig that enters Shanghai.

The city magistrate gave orders that the headquarters and social club of the Shanghai pig dealers be closed and sent a posse of Chinese police to see that his orders were carried out until the new tax was paid. The levy proved unpopular from the start and led to curtailed demand for this luxury by Chinese buyers.

Had Last Word, as Usual

A suffragette, in the days before the United States had been made safe for feminine democracy, was holding forth at a meeting on the failings of men. They were, she said, stupid, prejudiced, and so on. Finally a stern-visaged man stood up. "May I ask you a question?" he inquired. The woman speaker nodded. "Does your husband share your views?' "Not yet." "Ah," said the interrupter triumphantly, "I thought so." "I may add." said the woman sweetly, "that I'm not married."

The Oldest Hat

C. E. Jarvis of Sacramento, Cal., claims he owns the oldest hat in that state. It was taken to California in 1841 by Gen. John Bidwell. That was in the days before the gold rush. The hat is of the "plug" variety and was purchased by its present owner several years ago when the Bidwell Subscribe for the RECORD estate was settled.

Pluvius Sheds Red Tears Recently after a light rainfall the Inhabitants of Cattaro were astonished to see the houses and streets turn red. Even the white walls took on a red hue. The superstitious among the Montenegrins thought it was raining blood, and many of them hurried to church to seek pardon for their sins. In the evening the sunset was gorgeously colored with deep rose. It is thought a distant volcanic eruption had filled the sky with fine red dust, and the precipitation brought the dust to the earth, coloring the countryside.-Chicago Daily News.

Huge Losquito-Bite Bill

In your household budget, along with the items of grocery and butcher bills, have you figured on the summer expense of mosquito bites? Statisticians who have been following the trail of the buzzing pests, says Popular Science Monthly, tell us now that every man, woman and child of us paid, on the average, the sum of 91 cents last year just for the privilege of being bitten. The national mosquite-bite bill was $100,000,000! This sum represents the damage done by malaria mosquitoes in bringing on some 3,000,000 cases of chills and

The Canada Beer Law. Editor The Record :-

Recalling your interest in the 4.4 beer matter and desiring to be kept advised of any new situation arising in Ontario, I am sending you under separate cover a copy of our City Daily, through which you will observe that the 4.4 policy has proven unsat-isfactory to both the drys and the wets; the Conservatives, being the party in power, have been harrassed by both the drys and wets and had to come to some definite decision and place the matter before the electors. In the last four elections, the drys have been in a majority but that ma-jority has been dwindling. The rural sections being dry and the Urban sections wet, and as the Urban sections are growing more rapidly than the Rural, the wet sentiment is gaining a stronger hold.

The issue upon which the Government is going before the electorate is upon Government control, and possessing certain features somewhat in reality, however, more like the system in vogue in Manitoba and British Columbia. However, you will read the Premier's statement and also the opposite view as presented by ex-Attorney-General Raney, which will acquaint you with the situation. The proposition of the Premier, so far as Windsor is concerned, will be approved by a substantial majority, as the wet sentiment predominates. The idea, however, that the new system as proposed-if adopted, will do away with bootlegging, I fear is not well taken—judging from the experi-ences of the three provinces above referred to. We being opposite Detroit, a City of a million and a half people, offers a tremendous opportunity for everyone to buy whiskey under the new plan at possibly $4.00 a bottle and sell it either direct or indirect to Detroiters for possibly $10.00 a bottle, and so offer an avenue for petty bootlegging by anyone so in-clined, instead of larger jobbers. In substance, I think that where any Electoral district in the province votes dry, it will keep that way: but where it votes wet, the Government dispensaries will be established, where liquor may be secured by the bottle and it is also proposed to license standard hotels and permit them to sell 6 percent or string beer. C. E. REDEKER, Windsor, Canada.

MISNAMING NATIONS ESTABLISHED HABIT

Titles Usually Oldest Relics of Humanity.

Washington. - The United States does not recognize Russia. Neither does Russia recognize "Russia," according to the United States Post Office department.

If an American wishes to order caviar through a Moscow concern, the best advice is that he address the letter to the Union of Socialistic Soviet Resublics. In order to educate the world to the new name, the Soviet government frequently carries out its threat to return all mail addressed to "Russia."

"Misnaming nations is one of our established habits," says a bulletin of the National Geographic society from its headquarters in Washington. "The following are the real names which well-known nations call themselves. How many can you identify? Misr, Eesti Wabariik, Suomen Tasavalta, Afrikiya, Iran, Die Republik Osterreich, El Maghreb, Lietuva, Flstin.

"The accepted English names for these nations are printed at the end of this column.

"Since United States citizens do not call foreign nations by their native names, they take liberties with ours. When a representative of the National Geographic society left for the Trentino district, Italy, recently, he carried business cards which gave the society's name in Italian and the address as 'America.' Neither 'United States' nor 'U. S. A.' appeared on the card. In rural districts the peasants know of 'America,' but many of them have never heard of the 'United States.'

"The world habit of misnaming nations can be excused. Some nations cannot agree on their own names so the world must fix on some form. One of the discoveries of Americans touring Europe is that Switzerland is not Switzerland. If you are in north or German Switzerland it is Schweiz, south or Italian Switzerland it is Svizzera, west or French Switzerland, Suisse. The map shows Luxemburg on the international fence between Germany and France. It is also on the lingual fence, possessing two names, Grand-Duche de Luxembourg and Grosherzogtum Luxemburg. "Excepting New world titles, names of nations are usually the oldest relics of humanity. Like all antiques, their origins are often shrouded in mystery. Frequently names perpetuate the opinion one tribe had of another in the days of barbarism. The official name of Germany today is Deutsches Reich. They call themselves Deutsch, which is the name English-speaking people have allotted to the natives of Netherlands. The French call them Allemandes, literally, foreigners. Slavs call the Germans 'Niemiec,' which means 'dumb men.' They were 'dumb men' to the Slavs since they could not speak the Slav language. Slavs call themselves Slowjane, 'the intelligent people,' but all Germans call them the Wends, that is, 'the strangers.'

"Sweetest of them all," "My dearest, my only own," "How I adore you !" "There is no other half so sweet," "You are the only girl for me," . . . "I love you.'

How many hundreds of times he had repeated those very words! Ah, how many thousands of times! And yet, he had been perfectly sincere each time. You see, he was a writer of sentimental song hits.

BURNING LAKE AIDS FIELD OF BOTANY

Interesting Specimens Secured by Explorer.

Washington .- A lake which burns every year provided one of the strange collecting grounds in Costa Rica from which Dr. Paul C. Standley, botanist of the National Herbarium, under the direction of the Smithsonian institution, has just brought back a collection of 11,738 plants.

The paradoxical burning lake is Arenal in Guanacaste province, in the northwest corner of Costa Rica. Although sixteen miles by four miles in area, and thirty feet deep in spots, Lake Arenal is so thickly grown over with a tall grass that it seems to be a level prairie. The grass dries below the tips every year, whereupon the Costa Ricans set fire to it, thereby furnishing what is probably the world's sole example of a burning lake.

The rich collection brought back by Doctor Standley as the result of four months' intensive work includes many new species and one new genus. This last is a tree closely related to the walnut and the hickory. Although the natives do not eat the nuts, they do use the wood. Since it is a fairly common tree in Costa Rica, the fact that it has not been described before is surprising.

Two New Potato Trees.

Doctor Standley also found two new kinds of the potato tree-Palo de Papa. This is an important timber tree, but it also produces a fruit, the kernel of which is very good to eat, tasting like coconut. The natives roast it like chestnuts and also grind it to make a meal. Doctor Standley has already described two kinds of this same genus from Mexico. There the kernel is used to furnish a black dye, and the Mexican name for the tree is Calatola, an Aztec word mean-ing "crow water," referring no doubt to its use as a dye.

Two thousand orchid specimens were included in Doctor Standley's haul. He collected these for Mr. Oakes Ames of Boston, orchid specialist, who financed the expedition. Costa Rica produces more varieties of orchids than any other section of this hemisphere, 1,000 different kinds having been described from that country.

Reaches Virgin Field. Doctor Standley made collections from two regions which have never before been explored by botanists. The first of these was Dota, in southern Costa Rica, a mountainous region which includes a tableland at an elevation of 10,000 feet, the only one of its kind in Central America. It is a cold and wind-swept area characterized by grassland and low bushes. Animal life-birds, beasts and insectsis practically nonexistent there. The other unexplored region was Guanacaste province, a land of low elevation, extensively grazed by cattle. Doctor Standley's expedition formed a part of the plan of the Smithsonian institution to prepare a descriptive account of the plants of all of Central America, which will be of great importance to commerce as well as to "England reveals name dissension nearer home. The Welsh call the English the Saeson: the Gaels of Scotland call the English Saoz; the Irish, Sasunaich, and the Manxmen, Sagsonach. A Welshman is not a Welsh to a Welshman, but a Cymry.

"In the Japanese name for their island kingdom, Nippon, a geographic absurdity has been corrected by a modern geographic decision. 'Ni' means sun and 'pon,' rising. Japan is the country of the rising sun. To whom could it be the country over which the sun rose? Not to Japanese certainly! Obviously it is a Chinese name because the island lay where the Chinese saw the sun rise. But within the last century the international date line was marked down the center of the Pacific ocean. It establishes where day begins, according to earthly agreement. Therefore, Japan is the first major territory touched by the rising sun of a new day.

"Americans" Appropriate "America."

"Consider our nation's name 'the United States of America.' Americans proudly proclaim that that title does not stand for a nation which is an empire gathering vast territories to itself by conquest. Yet the present use of 'the United States of America' is one of the most remarkable and bare-faced conquests on record in the world of nomenclature. An American is recognized everywhere now as a native of the United States, but there are 75,-000,000 people in Canada, Central America, Mexico and South America, who have just as much right to the name as the 125,000,000 citizens of the United States. We speak of 'the United States' as if there could be only one federation by that title. There are two other 'the United States'-Venezuela and Brazil.

"The United States has been empirical even in the pronunciation of the name America. The French call us 'Amerique' and the Italians 'America,' with the 'am' one syllable as in 'ambulance.' This is probably the style of the Florentine accountant, Amerigo Vespucci, who donated his Christian name to label two continents. But English-speaking Americans have changed all that. We use the 'A' as a springboard and take a running dive into 'merica.'

"The American versions of the nations enumerated earlier in this bulletin are: Egypt, Esthonia, Finland, Tunisia, Persia, Austria, Morocco, Lithuania, Palestine."

New Fluid Reveals Veins Under X-Ray

Kansas City, Mo .- By a process of iodizing oil, Dr. J. E. Forester of Aix-les-Bains, France, says that he has perfected a fluid that can be injected into the veins of the body which renders them immune to the X-ray and thus makes it possible to examine them in detail. Hitherto bismuth has been extensively used for the purpose. A solution of bismuth could be placed in the stomach or other organ to be examined and the bismuth solution would be opaque in the photograph or on the inside of that organ, and was, therefore, only partially of value in examination.

The fluid which Doctor Forester has perfected can be injected in certain tissues and those tissues rendered opaque to the X-rays. Thus it would be possible to inject into the bronchial tube certain doses of the material and the bronchial tubes themselves, and not the hollows therein, would be revealed.

EARLIEST FORM OF MONEY IN AMERICA

"Pine Tree" Shilling First Colonial Currency.

The "Pine Tree" shilling was the. first money made for common use in the American colonies, particularly for New England, and dated 1652, says Farran Zerbe in "The Story of Money," issued by the Chase National bank. It continued to be struck for some thirty years thereafter, but all the coins bear the same date. A manufacturer by the name of John Hull had the contract to coin this money. By his contract he received one coin for himself out of a certain number made for the colony. By virtue of this contract Hull managed to become a very wealthy man and the state wished to cancel the contract, but the shrewd gentleman would not allow it. It is related that at the wedding of his daughter he had a balance set up, on one tray of which his daughter stood, while coin was put on the other tray until a balance was reached. That was her dowry-her weight in coin.

Before and during the Revolutionary war there were some interesting notes issued in America. For example, there was a note issued by the Sons of Liberty in Boston in order to finance the cause of freedom. These notes were brought out in 1775. An original specimen, of great rarity, is in this collection. Its face value was 24 shillings. Paper money was in common use in the Colonies from its enforced use in Massachusetts in 1690. In Philadelphia checks were made out in the Eighteenth century which did not mention any bank, but merely started out as follows:

"Cashier of the bank. Please pay to the order of," etc.

The reason no bank name appeared on the check was that in Philadelphia there was only one bank-the Bank of North America-and so no mistake could possibly arise as to where to go for final payment.

One of the most interesting of the Continental paper moneys was an early note issued in 1780 by the state of Massachusetts Bay, now Massachusetts. The purpose of this was to finance the state's quota of the Continental army. The note reads as follows: "Pay 250 pounds on the first day of March, both principal and interest to be paid in the then current money of the said state in a greater or less sum according as five bushels of corn, sixty-eight and four-sevenths pounds of a part of beef, ten pounds of sheep's wool and sixteen pounds of sole leather, shall then cost, more or less than 130 pounds current money at the then current prices of said articles, the same being thirty-two times and one-half what the same quantities of the same articles would cost at the prices affixed to them in a law of this state in the year of our Lord 1777."

Calculation of Size of Statue of Apollo

The famous problem concerning the size of the colossal statue of Apollo on the island of Delos, which has worried so many savants, has finally been solved.

We are familiar with the Delos Apollo only in miniature, as represented on the Attic tetradrachm, an ancient Greek coin, where the god is shown holding the three Graces in his right hand.

At a recent meeting of the academy of inscriptions Theodore Reinach announced that he had calculated, with the aid of history as well as mathematics, the size of Apollo and the three Graces. This archaic colossus at Delos was the masterpiece, in gilded wood, of the sculptors Tectaois and Angelion who flourished between 550 and 530 B. C.

The three Graces, which were not grouped, but separated and erect, bore, respectively, the zyther, the double flute and the pipes of Pan. They stood in the palm of Apollo's right hand. In his left hand he carried a bow. The colossus and its three statues were destroyed by fire.

With the assistance of a Delian inscription which mentioned the weight of the gold crowns designed for the god and the Graces, M. Reinach estimated the relative heights of the figures as eight meters for the Apollo and one meter eighty centimeters for each of the Graces .- From Le Figaro Hebdomadaire, Paris. Translated for the Kansas City Star.

Idea of Inferiority

Not at All Uncommon The feeling of inferiority is an experience so nearly universal that it cannot be considered abnormal or evidence of disease, declares a writer in Hygeia Magazine. Most of us have had this feeling at some time in our lives, such as when making a speech, undertaking a new job, or taking a prominent part in some social function. The stammering, trembling, palpitation and emptiness of mind which comes at being called on to face a new situation are familiar to all of us.

However, by establishing habits of courage and self-reliance and by learning to attend to the matter in hand rather than to our feelings, most of us have been able to overcome these difficulties. If these feelings of inability to meet the situation are not faced frankly and overcome, one establishes habit of fear. Then the sense of failure and the feelings of inferiority become habitual, and one's lot will be indeed unhappy.

The Burma mines are now controlled by the Ruby Mines, Ltd., of London. Among the largest rubies may be mentioned two belonging to the king of Bishenpur, in India, which weighed 50% and 171/2 carats, respectively. The largest, ruby known is one from Tibet, weighing

SPANISH COURTSHIP GIRL'S LIFE GLORY

Dra's Existence Follows Ceremony at Altar.

In a Spanish girl's life courtship is ner crown and triumph, writes Barbara Pender in the London Mail. Like the queen bee, emerging from the nest to soar upwards in the blue. pursued by desirous males till captured by one, thence homeward to domesticity and innumerable progeny, so the Spanish maiden has her day, of which she makes full use; small blame to her.

Spanish girls have numerous suitors, but are rarely engaged more than once, an engagement being almost as binding as marriage. The suitor begins by following the girl everywhere. He sends discreet little notes through the concierge, haunts cinemas and theaters, and when he finds her gazes at her all the time.

She, too, looks occasionally. .

Then comes a daily conversation in the street or through the grilled window behind which she is safely barred; or he may stand outside the door of the flat talking through a grille. At this stage he is not permitted to, visit her, so the love-talk lasts from one to three hours.

Very little notice is apparently taken of the couple by their respective families, though no parents are more astute. If the novio is duly approved, in due course the engagement becomes formal. The girl's family then receive the young man's family in state, there is a banquet and general rejoicing, and the novio gives his sweetheart a bracelet-as magnificent as possible.

He can now go to the house, sit next to her at the theater and walk by her side in the street-though not alone. Her mother or a companion is on the other side, looking as bored as the girl looks happy. For the Spaniard makes love inimitably. It is not with him a thing apart; it is his whole existence.

He devours her with his eyes; he pours forth passionate, adoring words; he is at her feet, her slave; and she. his queen, is afire with love and devotion. It is her hour and she revels in it. It matters not where they are, how many people present-each demands the whole attention of the other

But she is still unattained-and therein lies the glamor. I used to watch an engaged couple at the cinema and was fascinated. A year after marriage, I still watched. She came with the full paraphernalia-a young baby and nurse. But the lover, the slave, the kneeler at her feet, was not there. Cafe, club or business had claimed him with returned zest.

He is secure of his wife. She has her baby; she will probably have one a year. He is free as air; he can still soar in the blue. She is not; but in her smoldering eyes lies the remembrance of courtship days.

Monotony of Waiting Too Much for Billy

It is hard for grownups to see things from a child's point of view, and to realize that our ideas of politeness must sometimes seem strange to him! The Woman had this fact brought to her notice the other day.

She was visiting a friend who has a small son. Billy had been sitting next his mother when the Woman entered the room, but at his mother's "run and play, dear," he retired to a corner with books and blocks. Presently, however, he returned and slipped into his little chair between the two ladies. The grownups continued to talk, and Billy, holding a book in his fat little hands, looked eagerly from one to the other in the hope that a pause in the conversation would give him a chance. Failing this, he presently laid a hand on the Woman's arm, "Excuse me," he said softly.

"Certainly, dear," replied the Woman, "what is it?"

"Nothing; I just wanted to speak to my mother a minute," answered Billy, and turning to her he spoke quickly, before the stream of adult conversation should start again. "I found that story about the kitten! You keep it and we can read it when this lady has to go."-New York World.

Patriotic Action of Foreign-Born Citizens Through the efforts of a naturalized Swiss, a naturalized German and a naturalized Frenchman, the United States government once was saved from bankruptcy, writes Sydney Greeubie in Asia Magazine. It was during the War of 1812, a war so unpopular in many quarters that the government's attempt to negotiate a loan of $16,000,000 for its conduct brought in subscriptions of less than $6,000,000. New England refused to extend any aid, and some persons thought that the colonies were going back to the Mother Country.

The treasury was almost at the end of its rope, lacking both funds and credit, when John Jacob Astor, a na tive German, and Stephen Girard, a Frenchman, the two richest men in America, came to the rescue and, through Secretary Albert Gallatin of Madison's cabinet, a Swiss, took the remaining $10,000,000. Astor subscribed for $2,000,000, and Girard, through his bank, became responsible for $8,000,000.

Sign Told the Truth

The blind mendicant, led by a dog on a string, has not been so much in evidence during the last few years, but the other day one of the clan took up a position on Girard avenue near Broad street.

He was fully equipped up to the oldtime standard. His clothes were ragged, his tin cup was battered and the dog put on as dull and sleepy an appearance as his master. Fastened about the dog's neck was a placard bearing the appeal: "Please help the blind."

A man in passing attempted to toss a quarter into the cup, but it struck the edge and rolled out over the pavement. The "blind" man promptly made a dive for it and as his hand closed over the coin the surprised business man who had given it exclaimed : "What do you mean? You're

To reach the girls of Sirma teachers of the winter school traveled 60 miles in an open sled on a frozen river. Many of the girls had difficulty in reaching the points where the traveling school made temporary stops. For the summer course two young girls traveled more than 100 miles in a rowboat.

The Y. W. C. A. courses include handicraft, cooking, anatomy, nursing and first aid. In a recent report the association says that within the past year its traveling secretaries have visited 23 of the countries that have flourishing associations of many years' standing.

Suburbanites

Both Gilmore Walker and Tommy Malloy, film editors, have moved into suburban residences and are always comparing notes on their respective places. The other day when they met, Walker said:

"I like my place better and better; it's great in the morning to hear the leaves whispering outside your window.

"I like that part of it," admitted Tommy, "but it sure gets my goat to hear the lawn mown."-Los Angeles Times.

Go to Church by Radio Dressing up for the Sunday radio church services is the weekly observance at the ranch home of Hardy Farmer, about twenty-five miles from Junction, Texas. There is no church near the ranch, so the Farmers tune in on services broadcast from various stations. Mrs. Farmer explained that dressing for the occasion assures serious and proper observance of the religious services and thereby affords religious training for the little nineyear-old daughter in the family .- Indianapolis News.

Japanese Wire Industry

There are 11 companies in Japan manufacturing electric wire. Their combined capital is estimated at $16,-145.000, with individual capitalizations ranging from $66,300 to $6,231,000. The manufacturers have shown particular skill in the production of various lines of small and medium gauge copper wire, both bare and insulated. In 1909 the production of wire and cable totaled $2,941,500 in value; it increased to $24,156,590 in 1199, and amounted to $43,736,800 in 1924.

Conversation

The secret of being agreeable in conversation has been described as being honorable to the ideas of oth-There are people who evidently only half listen to you because they are considering, even while you speak, with what fine words, what wealth of wit, they will reply, and they begin to speak almost before your sentence has died upon your lips. These people may be brilliant, witty, dazzling, but never can they be agreeable. You do not love to talk to them. You feel that they are impatient for their turn to come, and that they have no hospitality toward your thoughts, none of that gentle friendliness which asks your idea and makes much of it.

Good Lesson

The teacher was giving the class a lecture on honesty. "Now, then," he said, pointing to a boy in the back row, "suppose a friend lent you his overcoat, and, putting it on, you found in one of the pockets a quarter which your friend had completely forgotten. You wouldn't keep that quarter, would you?"

"Certainly not." "That's right," said the teacher. "What would you do?" "I would spend it."

Add Boneheads in Business

They are telling in Cape Town the story of an actor who took a suit of evening clothes to a tailor "to be let out." As he needed the suit for the evening performance he called for it just before closing time.

"What about my clothes?" he asked. "Most successful; most successful!" beamed the tailor. "I've managed to let them out for a month at a shilling a week.

Ambiguous

The carol singers were having an argument.

"Look here, Binks," said the leader. "if this carol is to be a success you nust sing louder."

Binks-I'm singing as loud as ! can. What more can I do?

"Be enthusiastic; open your mouth and throw yourself in !"-Pearson's Weekly.

The women of that time wore their hair curled in ringlets from the forehead to the nape of the neck, but it was nothing more than an ordinary bob with curls. Lang had a way of marceling with old-fashioned curling tongs, and although the curls were not enduring, they were good enough for the aristocracy of Beacon Hill, for from there Lang drew most of his patronage.

And Lang did not learn his business in Paris, either. He went to Boston direct from Waterville, Maine.

Short Coats as Protest

Members of a smart Parisian club have resolved to wear very narrow ties and very short coats in protest against the hardness of the times and the high taxation. History will thus repeat itself. In 1792, the carmagnole. a short jacket, was adopted by thousands of advanced revolutionaries, but soon went out of favor. The "convention" was solemnly asked to order all citizens to wear a national costume so that the new principle of equality should receive complete expression. That idea was never adopted. Toward the end of the second empire a "Robespierre waistcoat," white, with large lapels, was worn by some opponents of the regime.

Will Be Great Cathedral

The Protestant Episcopal cathedral of St. John the Divine is now in process of construction on Morningside heights, New York. The cornerstone was laid December 27, 1892. In 1911 the choir and crossing were completed. They are in Romanesque style. For the construction of the nave a modified Gothic style was later adopted. The plan calls for a total length of not more than 520 feet, a width of 290 feet and a height of 425 feet to the top of the spire.

Back-Yard Silkworm Farm

Thousands of school children in the United States owe their first-hand knowledge of the industrious silkworm to T. A. Keleber, an amateur entomologist of Washington, who for 26 years has been experimenting with silk worm culture in his own back yard. On half a dozen mulberry trees he raises from 10,000 to 20,000 of the creatures a year, distributing them among schools as living exhibits. Ev ery cocoon contains from 750 to 1,000 yards of silk thread.

Not Appreciated

"My dear fellow," said John Clayton, "I wrote to a man who had sent me an abominable play, and said, 'My dear sir, I have read your play. Oh! my very dear sir! Yours truly, John Clayton.' "

I told this story on many occasions with great success. At last I told it. to one who did not laugh. He was my secretary. It seemed to me hard, indeed, that one's own secretary should not laugh at one's funny stories. It appeared to me that he had mistaket. his vocation, and I said in a tone of some frritation, "You don't seem to think that funny." Said he, "No. I don't. It was to me Mr. Clayton wrote that letter !"-From "A Player Under Three Reigns," by Sir Johnston Forbes. Robertson.

Specific

The sweet young thing and her future life partner were making arrangements with the minister for the marriage ceremony.

"What is your name?" the clergyman asked. "Mary Jones, sir." (Perhaps it was Smith.) "And what is your age?" he continued. "Nineteen, sir," answered Mary.

"Where were you born?" "What did you say, sir?" inquired the bride hesitantly. "I say where were you born?" Taking two steps nearer the minister, she lowered her voice-"At home, sir."

His Share of Cupboards He'd bought a house and it had been such a bargain to his idea that he could hardly wait till his fiancee saw it. "How many clothes' cupboards are there, John?" she demanded breathlessly

"Six," said John proudly. "Oh, but that's hardly enough." "What! Do you want more than six cupboards merely to hang your clothes in?

"Yes, dear," replied the fair one. "You see, you'll want part of one for your things, won't you?"

Lesson for October 31

THE EVILS OF STRONG DRINK

LESSON TEXT-Prov. 23:29-35. GOLDEN TEXT-At last it biteth ke a serpent and stingeth like an adder

PRIMARY TOPIC-Learning to be emperate. JUNIOR TOPIC—The Control of the

Appetite. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOP-IC-Alcoholic Beverages Hurtful to the Individual and Society. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOP-IC-Light Wine and Beer a Menace.

I. Woes of Those Who Indulge in Wine (vv. 29, 30).

No more graphic description of the evils of the winebibber has ever been given. It portrays in the most impressive manner the miseries that attach to the drunkard's life.

1. The awful pain which causes one to cry out, "Oh!"

Many indeed are the pains which men suffer because of strong drink. Bodily ills innumerable can be traced to its evil influence. 2. The bitter remorse which causes one to cry out, "Alas!"

Many are the expressions of bitter regret which come daily from the lips of the drunkard. Sometimes it is the sorrow of disgrace, loss of manhood and self-respect. Sometimes it is the sorrow of poverty of the individual and his family clothed in rags and half starved. Sometimes it is the sorrow of following a broken-hearted Wife to her grave and seeing his children scattered among strangers.

8. Contention, strife and quarreling.

Much of the fighting among men is directly caused by their passions being inflamed by strong drink. The drunken man is always ready for a fight. He takes offense as well as gives offense. He not only has these from without, but he has struggles within. His conscience and his appetite are Warring with each other.

Babblings and complainings. The winebibber complains of everything, ill-luck, broken fortune, ruined health, loss of friends, of fate and of God.

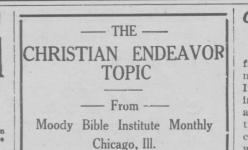

5. Wounds without a cause. These are wounds which might have been avoided from fights in which a sober man would not have engaged and from accidents which are purely the result of intoxication.

6. Redness of eyes.

This has reference to the blood-shot eyes of the tippler which ruins and dims his vision.

All these woes come upon those who tarry long at wine (v. 30).

II. The Attitude Enjoined (v. 31). Look not at it. Do not put yourself in the way of temptation. The only safe attitude toward strong drink is total abstinence, and the only sure Way of total abstinence is not to even October 31 What Are the Good Points of the Various Races in America?

Acts 10:24-38 "He hath made of one blood all nations of men to dwell on all the face of the earth." This fact, of itself, would warrant our expectation of some good points in all the races of men. All have need of God and all have capacity for God. From among the races God is taking out a people for His name and forming His Church. Wherever the gospel of Christ is preached and human hearts have faith to receive it, there God's saving work is seen and His purposes realized

We should never despise or speak with contempt of the races of men other than our own. God loves them all, Christ died for all, salvation is come unto whosoever will. It is our duty and privilege to send the Word of this salvation abroad throughout the earth to all sorts and conditions of men.

In speaking of the good points of the various nationalities, the Endeavorer's Daily Companion has this to "Races have all more than one good point, just like individuals. Few think of connecting a Frenchman with thrift, yet he is thrifty, far more so than the Scot, about whom all the funny stories are told.

"The French are artistic. They have an ineradicable love of beauty, and know how to find expression for it. Life would be drab without their contribution.

"The British have a flair for organization, government, law and order. Wherever they come they bring order with them, and justice, without which we perish.

Germans are known for their industry. No nation is more patient or turns out more intelligent workers. They are patient investigators, thorough in everything. We should be poorer without them.

"The Irish are generous, a kindly and sympathetic folk;strong in friend-ship, when friendship is cultivated. We need their warmth of heart.

"The Armenian has shown tremend-ous tenacity in his beliefs. He will die before giving up his religon. There is iron in his will. "We cannot but admire the industry of the Chinaman. He will work ear-ly and late, and those that know him best love him most. Dislike is usual-ly founded on ignorance."

Vanishing Heath Hen Was Farmer's Friend

The New England heath hen is now in the last stages of extinction, the Louisville Courier-Journal reports. The farmer has found that he not only has lost a source of food for his table, but a protector of his crops.

Like the western prairie chicken, to which it is closely allied, and the "Bob White" of the Central West, the heath hen is a great enemy of insect pests. But of the thousands that once inhabited field and woods patch, less than 100 are alive today, and these are found only on the island of Martha's Vineyard.

Cave's Evil Repute

Saved Soldier's Life About three miles below Niagara falls on the American side is an immense cavern in the side of the gorge. It is reached from the bank by winding steps, cut in the solid rock, and a narrow path. The Indians believed that an evil spirit dwelt in this cavern, and that any one venturing in would meet with a swift death.

The entrance is low and forbid-ding, but the interior is large and lofty; a rill of clear, cold water trickles from the rocks at the further end. At the mouth of the cavern is a rock so shaped as to conceal the entrance from either direction until one is abreast of it-this is Ambush rock. Not far off on a ledge jutting over the water and about a hundred feet above it is a rock fifteen feet long, the Council rock, around which the Indians met to transact tribal business, plan raids and smoke the peace pipe with friendly nations.

Bloody run, a small, turbulent stream, flows over the precipice above the ledge. It received its name when a detachment of ninety soldiers sent from Fort Niagara to Fort Schlosser to guard a wagon train of provisions was attacked by Senecas while encamped on the run, and massacred. Only three men escaped.

One leaped to his horse and galloped away, and one, a drummer boy, lodged in a tree halfway down the precipice when the Indians drove some of the soldiers over the brink. The third man fled to the cavern, and though pursued by the savages to the very entrance, so strong was the Indian belief in the evil power of the spirit of the cavern, and so sure were they that the white man would meet a more terrible death than they could devise, they went away without posting the usual couple of braves to wait for him to come out.

Women Poor Air Pilots

Women are not fit to pilot passenger-carrying airplanes and they never will be. So declares Maj. Oliver Stewart, English airman. What is his reason? "They are too fearless!" "The fearless pilot is almost invariably a bad pilot," says the major. "Fear is the best of flying instructors, for it teaches the pupils what not to do, and it warns them in a memorable manner what will happen if they disobey. Women are without this instructor; they do not know physical fear. The typical Englishwoman, who is sufficiently courageous to play furious football, and hic, hac, hockey, to fight for busses, to wear 'sensible' clothes in Paris, this woman, I say, should not be allowed with a blunt penknife in her hand, much less with the control stick of an airplane."

Hopeful Husband Senator Edge said at an Atlantic

City dinner party:

"There's hope for a husband if he's modest. A man in a bathing suit on the beach introduced me to his wife one day. Then, after she had gone into the water, he praised her warmly and said:

"'Our romance began in a most poetical way. Clara saved me from drowning. She's a magnificent swimmer, you know.'

"He went into the water himself

Confidence in Self

Makes for Success Many of us are actually afraid to succeed. Most of us are well fitted for our work, being properly prepared, possessing intellect, talent, love for our work and the earnest desire to do it well, but we lack the supreme gift, self-confidence, which enables us to make a success of things. Fear is a small word with a large meaning.

After hearing the great Mme. Nightingale sing a famous aria, little Miss Highvoice feels certain that her voice sounds like a tin whistle and never wants to sing in public again. Likewise, little Willie Pound-the-Keys hears the wonderful Maestro Forzando play his new concerto, returns home in disgust, closes his piano and goes on a vacation.

How easy it is to forget that hard work for long years, coupled with talent and great determination, are required to make a finished artist. How many of us are afraid of the long years, the hard work and the privations?

My message is simply this: Love your work and think it is the most glorious and wonderful thing in the world. Be radiant with enthusiasm. These two qualities make a splendid team and cannot be beaten. Both of these attributes are contagious and will help you and your work immensely .-- Florence Belle Soule, in the Violin World.

Great Metropolis Has Seen Many Reverses

London existed as a town before the Romans licked it into shape behind the great wall that still can be traced, if tradition may be accepted. The Thames was unconfined and spread sluggishly among the reeds; the tide came up, forcing it to form backwaters and inundating the wide tracts of marshes. A thousand years after the Romans left, the houses, thatched with reeds, still were overlooked by woods and thickets, inhabited by deer and wild boars and the swamps were alive with bittern and duck. All the time London was growing, but on no settled plan. The process of development was continually interrupted, yet after each check it went on again. Boadicea destroyed it; the Danes wiped it out; Alfred the Great rebuilt it and within a century it was burned to the ground. Thereafter, fire and pestilence swept over it at frequent intervals, but it emerged stronger from every trial. London refused to be removed from the map, and its persistence was a visible expression of the determination of its people and a vindication of its position as a world mart .-- Vancouver Province.

"Mother of States"

This name is applied to Virginia because so many states have been carved from her original territory. At the time of the settlement of Jamestown the name Virginia was applied to all that part of North America lying between the thirtyfourth and forty-fifth degrees of lattitude, extending from coast to coast. #### A HALLOWE'EN PARTY

CRISP fall days, golden pump-kins, and Hallowe'en,—they seem to go together, don't they? They are part of the lunch, while Too often Hallowe'en is made an excuse for destructiveness, particu-larly among small boys, but it is other good things. Early I coples Knew of Possibilities of Iron The peoples of the Near East were among the earliest manufacturers of iron, according to Dr. J. Newton Friend in an address before the members of the Royal institution, London. In 1300 B. C. the Hittites were using iron weapons in their numerous wars, and among the treasures of early history preserved to posterity is a letter thought to have been addressed to Rameses II of Egypt from the Hittite king, saying that he is sending with the communication an iron dagger. The Romans were skilled metallurgists with considerable knowledge of how to handle iron ores. Virgil's Aeneid, written around 40 B. C., contains an account of a smithy in full blast, and Pliny in his "Natural History," which was brought out in 77 A. D., shows an equal familiarity with the working of the metal. An iron ring recently unearthed from a Roman site was evidently made by soldering together the ends of a bent strip of iron with some sort of copper alloy. Cast iron, said Doctor Friend, was first known in Sussex in 1350 and soon became fairly common.

III. The Drunkard's Bitter End (vv. 82-35).

Acute miseries (v. 32). "It biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder."

Strong drink, like the poison of the Serpent, permeates the whole system and ends in the most fatal consequences, the bitterest sufferings and death.

2. The perversion of the moral senses (v. 33).

(1) This excitement causes the eyes to behold strange things. This denotes the fantastic images which are produced on the brain of the drunkard. Even when delirium tremens does not result, there are awful fancies which are beyond the possibility of realization. Since carnal lust always comes with wine drinking, it is no doubt true, as the Authorized Version has it, "Thine eyes shall behold strange women."

(2) "Thine heart shall utter perverse things." His moral sense being perverted, his utterances partake of the same. He tells lies, his Words cannot be believed.

3. He is insensible to danger (v. 34).

The drunkard is unsteady. His brain reels to and fro, he is foolhardy, even as one who would lie in the top of a ship's mast where there is the greatest danger of falling off.

He is insensible to pain (v. 35). 4. The drunkard is utterly ignorant of What happens to him while under the Influence of strong drink. The drunkard has many bruises and wounds for Which he cannot account. He did not realize when he received them.

5. His abject bondage (v. 35). After all his sufferings, sorrow and disappointment he goes on as a bondslave to follow the ways of sin.

6. Hell at last, for no drunkard Shall enter the Kingdom of Heaven (I Cor. 6:10).

The Rock of Ages

A sailor in a shipwreck was once thrown upon a small rock, and clung to it, in great danger, until the tide went down. "Say, Joe," asked his friends after the rescue, "didn't you shake with fear?" "Yes," replied Joe, "but the rock didn't." Christ is the Rock of Ages .- Sabbath Reading.

A Work of Art and Skill

The work of a fisher (Matt. 4:19) is rather a work of art and skill than of force and violence .- Trench.

The Middle West lost a prolific food supply when the passenger pigeons died off. But the wild pigeon was otherwise of little economic value. It was largely a grain eater, though beech mast and weed seeds also formed its food.

The heath hen, however, is as valuable as the quail to farmers. Ornithologists and conservationists have pointed this out. Hence efforts are being made to save the bird from extinction and, if possible to bring it back to its former numbers.

Penny Not Worth While

At Times square a matinee crowd waited for the long-distance busses. Other crowds pushed by in a steady stream, yet above the traffic noises came the clink of a dropped coin. Those passing looked down, alert, curious, until a single penny whirled into sight, spun around and then flopped to the sidewalk. No one picked it up. It was tramped on, pushed and started rolling again. Many looked, but none stopped until a chubby little fellow, holding tight to his mother's hand, spied it. "Mother, mother!" he cried in excitement. "I see my penny! Stoplet me-let me pick it up!"

"Come, come," chided the mother, impatiently, as she jerked him along. "It's only a penny. Let it alone. You'll get your gloves dirty, dear."-New York Times.

Colonial Workmanship

The greatest quality in all Colonial work is dignity. In the houses of the rich and the houses of the poor there is apparent the same dignified scorn of ostentation and the same pride in honest building and honest living. Although it has been said that Colonial architecture is old-fashioned and belongs to a day that is past, this is no more true of Colonial design than of any other of the traditional styles. Furthermore, Colonial architecture seems out of date only because its progress was stopped by the Greek revival and the eighteen eighties. If it had continued to grow and develop. how much more lovely would our countryside be than it is now with its potpourri of all styles-including the Scandinavian!

and splashed about a bit. "'You don't go out very far,' I said, when he came back and joined me again "'No,' said he. 'She mightn't save me now.'"

Police Signal Bombs

Bomb hurlers, "pill boxes" and radio signal system have now become the commonplace of the police force in Memphis, Tenn. An inner and outer protective belt have been formed in the city, and six miniature brick stations resembling the "pill boxes" of the war are established in each belt. Each station is equipped with a radio receiving set, searchlight, bomb hurling signal device and two telephones. If notice reaches the station during daylight hours that a burglar is operating in the neighborhood the policeman in the pill box sets off the bombhurling device, and a series of aerial explosions warns the men motoring over their territory.

Banana Oil

Robert Henri, the portrait painter. said at a luncheon at Dark Harbor: "Every woman is beautiful now. What hair, what eyes, what complexions! We men live in a paradise. "A lady went to the studio of a friend of mine to have her portrait painted. My friend said to her: "'Do you know, I'm in despair. I have no colors on my palette that are brilliant enough and delicate enough to match your exquisite complexion.' The lady laughed.

"'In that case,' she said, 'just make the outline sketch today and when I come tomorrow I'll bring some of my own colors for you."

To Build Big Dam

A new dam 32 feet higher than the famous one bearing the name of the late President Roosevelt is about to rise in the Colorado river and close a narrow gorge to back up water for the double purpose of irrigation and power generation. It is the Horse Mesa power dam, 17 miles below Roosevelt, Ariz. The structure will be 312 feet high. Bed rock, 34 feet below the water level, has been cleaned for the dam foundation. A series of holes was bored 50 feet deeper and cement injected under high pressure so as to fill any possible fissures and thus prevent leaks in the future. The dam proper will begin to rise at once.

er part of the United States. When Sir Frances Drake circumnavigated the globe he stopped on the coast of California which he spoke of as "the back of Virginia." Seven states have been carved from the territory claimed by Virginia at the time of the Revolution-Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Kentucky and West Virginia.

Wild Holds Its Own

The persistence of the wild life close to the haunts of man and his works is more than remarkable. When man first intruded into the wilderness places wild animals were his easy prey. They did not know anything about him and probably looked upon him only as some fellow animal who had come to share their lot. They were disillusioned fast enough and they learned quick lessons from disillusionment.

care for themselves. For years their ranks rapidly decreased, but when man believed that the vanishing point almost had been reached there were seen signs of increase. All the animals had become "foxy."

Little Pure Hebrew

The Jews who left Germany during the Middle ages for the Slavic lands of Bohemia, Poland, Galacia and Lithuania spoke Middle High German and wrote it quite correctly, although they employed the Hebrew letters. Out of touch with Germany, the German sounds and forms underwent some change, while Hebrew, Aramaic and Slavic words were added to the language. The resultant idiom, Yiddish, supplanted the Slavic of the primitive Jewish settlers, and gradually with Jewish migration was carried to all parts of the world. Pure Hebrew is now an academic language, found only in books.

him, was a salesmanager. Then he went to the country and became an apiarist. You know, he kept bees-or rather, the bees kept him. His "Blossomdale" honey was sold at many of the better places. But some people bought the adjoining farm and started another apiary. Crichton's bees no longer enjoyed a monopoly of the flowers and blossoms. Business be-

So Crichton did the usual thing. He held a round-table conference. He told the bees they must hustle up more business; they must get on their toes. The bees seemed grieved, but they buzzed off, filled with serious purpose and augmented resolve.

Still Crichton was not satisfied. He organized an interhive contest and spurred them on. He posted graphs and tabulated returns. He told them of business cycles. The bees, of course, found all this confusing, but they tried to make good. Their wings became frayed; they no longer hummed at their work.

One day Crichton posted this circular letter: "It has come to my notice that outlying territory in North Forty is being neglected. We need that business. Go out and get it."

That night while Crichton slept, unusual agitation might have been seen among the hives. Some of the bolder bees hurried from door to door, and the rest streamed to the rendezvous. Scouts came back from Crichton's room and reported the window open. Across the garden, up the wall, over the sill and under the bedclothes thousands of bees crawled steadily. At a given signal they bared their poisoned stilettos and plunged them to the hilt in the flesh of the ex-salesmanager. He died at dawn.

Delightfully intelligent creatures, bees !---Kansas City Star.

Getting New Ones

Major Muggs, retired, was playing his usual 18 holes before lunch, but was a long way below his usual standard, making many bad shots.

In consequence of this his temper, never one of the best, became somewhat ruffled, and his anger increased when he noticed that a man was following from hole to hole. At last the major could stand it no longer. "What the devil are you looking at?" he burst out.

"Looking, sir," replied the man, "I ain't looking, I'm listening."

Three Tons of Jade

It is said that the largest piece of jade in the world is that in the American Museum of Natural History, in New York. At first glance it looks almost as large as Plymouth rock; actually it is seven feet long and four feet wide. It is not so heavy as Plymouth rock but weighs approximately three tons. It was found on South island, New Zealand, in 1902 and is of the green variety of jade, with shades that range from apple green to rich emerald .- Indianapolis News.

English Woman's Ten Names

The petitioner in a case before the London divorce court was imposingly described as Mrs. A. B. K. F. I. H. G. P. D. Hill.

When asked by counsel to announce her full name, Mrs. Hill handed a sheet of foolscap to the judge. "Here they are," she said.

"Is your first name Acie?" asked Lord Merrivale. "It is."

"Well, that will do," said the president. "It is not your fault that you were given all these names."

Upon the paper was written: "Acie, Bethel, Kitzinger, Firth, Ishi, Helena, Goiga, Pretoria, Denver Hill."

LAST PAGE EDITORIAL. But, They Wouldn't Go.

This country is becoming a very unsatisfactory abiding place for larg-crowds of people. We do not know how many crowds there are that can not bear to follow the habits and preachments of others, but there is a ig lot of them that can not dwell happily together. One might think that in this big world of ours, there ought to be room enough for separate reservations for each crowd, and that each might go there and thenceforth live happily together.

But, the difficulty about such scheme would be, that the crowds wouldn't go where assigned. It isn't so much that people want to live happily together, with all of one mind, as it is that they actually find hapadvance, piness in quarreling with some other crowd

Some years ago, there was an idea on foot that our African descent folks should all be deported to Liberia, Africa, and be required to stay there; but, the colored brethren were not more opposed to this than a lot of white folks, so nothing came of it. We have a lot of loud-mouthed com-plainers over the prohibition laws, and one thing or another, but when it comes to advising—the "wet," we will say-to emigrate to some country where there is booze galore, the advice is cussed, and nothing comes of it. We use the "wets" only by way of illustration; for there are all sorts of kickers against restrictions and laws who don't want to move at all, but want the other fellows to do the moving-and, nobody moves, but everybody keeps on lambasting each other.

VOTERS. As it will be impossible for me to see all voters personally, I take this means of soliciting their support this year for the House of Delegates, and to assure them that if elected I shall do all in my power to further good legislation. I also desire to thank all who voted for me previously, and to express the hope that they will do so Wheat again.

As I have been prevented by the duties of my office from making an extensive personal canvass of the County I am using this method of soliciting the support of all the voters at the election on Tuesday next. I promise that if reelected I shall continue to give to the office the very best that is in me.

The Advocate forgets that 131/2 miles of BETTER ROADS, AT GREAT-ER COST, have been built in Manchester and Hampstead districts, and that nine miles of the roads in these Democratic districts were built under State specifications, taken over by the state, and are now maintained as State roads.

Will the voters of Taneytown, Uniontown and Middleburg districts vote against the men by whom they were favored, according to the Advocate's statement?

estate of Mrs. G. May Fouke, of which your duty, but vote! he is the sole representative. Mr. Forrest was also injured in the accident that resulted in Mrs. Fouke's death, but is recovering from the effects of it.

A letter has been received by Mr. Sarbaugh from the Potomac-Edison Co., that a large amount of new material for the Taneytown electric lines has been ordered, and will soon be installed, with the object of reducing, if not entirely removing, the disturbance to radio reception that is most pronounced, especially during the day.

Don't be a stay-at-home on election day, even should it be a rainy day. There was a time when voters were "paid" not to vote. There has not been much talk of this in recent years; but, somehow it looks a lot better for everybody to come out and be a full citizen on this day, unless for the very best of well known reasons, coming out is unwise.

John T. Percy, of Lombard, a suburb, of Chicago, and Mrs. D. L. Stoner, of Baltimore, brother and sister of Mrs. Harvey T. Shorb, and first cousins of the Editor of The Record, were visitors at the home of the former, this week, and spent Tuesday afternoon in town. Mr. Perry has been a passenger conductor for thirty years on the Chicago & Alton R. R., and his run is from Chicago to St. Louis, two trips a week.

Voters in Taneytown-and especially the ladies-should vote as early in the day as possible, and avoid the afternoon and evening crowd. The slack time is usually between 11 o'clock, A. M. and 1 o'clock, P. M., but this year, the long ballot will mean slow marking, and as there will likely be a very full vote out, it will be much the best plan to vote early. It may also be necessary to wait, unless voting is pretty steady throughout the day. The polls open at 6 o'clock A. M., and close at 7 o'clock, P. M. The later hours should be left open for those who can not possibly vote before evening.

RILL FOR EQUAL TAXATION

To The Voters of Carroll County.

In asking for your votes, I desire to say that I am in favor of Equal taxation.

And I am also in favor of repealing the law exempting machinery, etc., of manufacturers from taxation.

GEO. W. RILL.

Democratic Candidate for the House of Delegates.

DEMOCRATIC ADVOCATE, Where do your Candidates Stand?

The Democratic Advocate is making a lot of noise, but why does it not tell the people of Carroll County upon what principle of fair dealing a DEM-OCRATIC Legislature enacted a law under which a DEMOCRATIC Board of County Commissioners passed a resolution under which two and one-half millions of dollars worth of the tools and machinery of manufacturers in Carroll County is wholly free of taxes?

WHY DOES IT NOT TELL THE PEOPLE THAT THE FARMERS AND OTHER TAXPAYERS IN CARROLL COUNTY ARE PAYING THE TAXES FOR THESE MANUFACTURERS?

Why does it not tell the people that unless the Senate and House of Delegates pass a law giving authority to the County Commissioners of Carroll County to repeal this exemption, and unless the County Commissioners, when such' authority is granted, actually do repeal this exemption, the tools and machinery of Manufacturers in Carroll County will continue to be free of taxes, and the farmers and other taxpayers will continue to pay the taxes for these manufacturers without regard to how many more million dollar factories are started in Carroll County?

Why does it not tell the people where the Democratic Candidates for the State Senate, for the House of Delegates and for County Commissioners stand on this important issue?

George P. B. Englar, the Republican Candidate for the State Senate; C. Ray Barnes, Charles B. Kephart, Melvin W. Routson and Jesse P. Weybright, the Republican Candidates for the House of Delegates; Charles W. Melville, John H. Repp and Charles H. Spicer, the Republican Candidates for County Commissioners, all stand pledged to see to it that the factories pay taxes as well as the farmers.

Published by authority of John H. Cunningham.

Will the voters of Manchester and Hampstead districts be so ungrateful as to vote against the men who gave them the splendid roads in their districts, which will never cost the county a penny for maintenance?

I would respectfully urge every fair-minded voter, Democrat and Republican, in the districts named, to rebuke the author of the misleading, unfair and partisan article in the Advocate by voting for the Republican candidates for County Commissioners.

THE ATTORNEY FOR THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

To the Voters of Carroll County.

As it is impossible for me to see all the voters in person by November 2nd., I take this means of asking your support at the coming election.

> EDWARD S. HARNER, Democratic Candidate for Co. Commissioner.

ADVOCATE'S STATEMENT UNTRUE. AUDITOR WOODEN NAILS IT:

Westminster, Md., October 21st., 1926.

The following letter of Auditor Wooden proves that the statement of Mr. George E. Benson, a Democratic candidate for the office of County Commissioner, that when he ceased to be a County Commissioner in 1910 the county had no debt is not correct. In 1910 the county owed a debt for schools .of $22,000.00; $6000.00 of which amount is still part of the county's indebtedness

MR. WOODEN'S LETTER.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 20th., 1926.

Mr. Charles W. Melville, President The County Commissioners of Carroll County, Westminster, Md.

My attention has been called to the advertisement appearing in the Democratic Advocate of October 15th., 1926, which purports to show the fi-nancial condition of Carroll County for the years 1917 to 1926 inclusive, which advertisement states that the 1926 figures were taken from my report June 30th., 1926.

This statement on the part of those responsible for the advertisement 15 incorrect, as I have not yet submitted my report. I have, however, submitted to you by letter a Preliminary Statement of certain liabilities, but the figures used in the advertisement are not in accordance with the letter submitted to you, and from the information in my possession I can say definitely that these figures are not correct.

The advertisement states that for the years 1918, 1919 and 1920, the county did not have any debt. This statement is incorrect as there has been outstanding since 1900 a school bond issue, a portion of which is still unpaid. I will endeavor to complete the audit as soon as possible, and send you a complete report, so that the correct figures will be available to anyone who is entitled to same.

Very Truly Yours, ERNEST E. WOODEN, Certified Public Accountant, Member American Institute of Accounts.
