CO. AGENT WALRATH'S LAST APPEAL

To Carroll County Farmers on his Leaving the Service.

(The following good letter was received by The Record for publication, from the now Ex-County Agent Walrath, who has closed his very active and satisfactory service to the farmers of the County, in order to take up a new line of work. We advise its reading, and that his last appeals be "In the last few minutes that I am County Agent of the good old county of Carroll I want to express my appreciation to the people of the County for the splendid co-operation and the many "cussings" they have given me since I took up Extension Service work with them. I am truly glad that in taking up my new work of making a field study of the fertilizer problems, especially with reference to the profitable use of potash, in Western Maryland and Pennsylvania, that I will still be able to claim a home in Carroll County. I am glad that I have had the opportunity of seeing many other sections both in Maryland other parts of the U. S. and over seas during the war. You need to get away from Carroll County to appre-ciate it. There is no county that of-fers greater opportunities for a place to live and farm.

I have a few definite appeals to make to the farmers in the county. The first of these is that the wheat growers do not put off treating their seed wheat against stinking smut until it is too late. Seed wheat can be treated with Copper Carbonate dust now, and stored safely in sacks until seeding time. The grain merchants in the county are co-operating to their utmost in providing machines and dust for the treatment. They cannot make a wheat grower help himself, but only give him the opportunity to do so.

Today I received definite insurance that arrangements will be made to study the time that the Hessian flies emerge in the county. We have now the greatest number of Hessian flies ready to hatch out that have been found in the wheat stubble in this county for many years. Seeding was so late last year that the farmers are likely to sow far too early this fall, and reap regrets.

The next urgent request I have to make is that the new County Agent, Mr. L. C. Burns, be given the same, or even more, support and consideration than I have had. There are over 3500 farms in Carroll County. A 3500 farms in Carroll County. A County Agent has to deal with everything from fleas on bees to hitches for tractors. He cannot be a specialist in the state of the state Department of Health, of the child health conferences held throughout the State, unevery phase of farming, nor does he der the auspices of the Bureau, during profess to be. lems of farm crops; also the profitable feeding of dairy cows from home grown feeds. Mr. Burns will not only carry on this line of work, but give poultry work, especially the promoting of club work among farm boys and girls. They are Carroll county's best crop. Help him to help them!

At the Timonium Fair, Dr. R. A. Jehle and Mr. Hunter, Field Pathologists of the University of Maryland, will make microscopic examinations of wheat for smut. Any farmers attending this State Fair can have their wheat examined if they will take a

We Would Like to Know.

We go on, week after week, publishlishing a paper as best we can, with the object largely of pleasing our readers—all of them, in some way or another. As we have different classes of readers, naturally we must vary the articles published; and we do this largely "by guess," and often we wonder how well we succeed.

For instance, we have been running "Inside Information for Women" and "Paragraphs for Farmers," for about six months, and we do not know whether these features are interesting, or not. Most folks are apt to tell what they do not like, but not what they like-to criticise, rather than offer helpful suggestions.

We are quite willing to satisfy, as far as possible, the tastes of our readers, in general reading matter, for the largely makes itself. do not give a desirable mixture, we would like to know about it, and perhaps we can better satisfy the de-

THE COUNTY FAIR

Outlook for a good Fair and Large Attendance.

The Carroll County Fair management, as well as exhibitors and others, are getting ready for the opening of the annual fair, Sept. 13-16. The grounds will be open to receive exhibgrounds will be open to receive exhibits, Monday, Sept. 12, and entries will close at 6 P. M., except for live stock, which closes, Sept. 6th. All exhibitors should first secure the Premium List, Rules and Regulations.

There will be night attractions each day of the fair, including dancing, with fireworks on Wednesday and Thursday evenings. Races will be held every afternoon at 1:30, at which time there will also be free performances before the grand stand, Friday afternoon, all school children will be admitted free.

The gates will be open each day from 7 A. M. until 11:30 P. M., and no persons will be allowed to stay on the grounds at night, unless especially authorized to do so by the Secretary or Chief Marshal. In general, the outlook is for an excellent fair and a very large attendance.

Is Your Child Ready for School?

Jack and Elizabeth will start to school in a few days and their families like those of thousands of other prospective first-graders are in the midst of preparations for the event, getting suits, dresses, shoes and the rest of the little outfits ready. A reminder, from Dr. John S. Fulton, Director of the State Department of Health, of even more neecessary prep-arations that should be made for these five and six year olds, follows: "If you are going on an important journey, "he said," you would take your car to the nearest garage and have it put in the best possible order. Your small son or daughter is going to start on the road to the three R's this Fall. That road, as you will recall, is full of ups and downs, but the grades can be made more easily and comfortably by the child who has been safeguarded by the right sort of attention to his physical machinery.

"Be as careful of your boy or girl as you would of your car. If you have not already done it, take him or her to your doctor for a thorough going over. Pay especial attention to the weight, whether over or under par; to the posture; have the eyes tested for vision, the ears for hearing and the throat and teeth carefully examined. Attention to these essentials now, may prevent wreckage along the road later on. And don't forget that no child can be enrolled in our Maryland schools who has not been vaccinated against smallpox.

On Thursday evening, August 25, 1927, a large number of the members of St. Paul's Lutheran Sunday School Harney, gathered at the home of their Superintendent, Elmer C. Shildt, and cupful of uncleaned wheat for this had a surprise social for him. A very enjoyable evening was spent, and refreshments were served.

After the refreshments were served the Pastor called the Superintendent to him and gave him an envelope containing a nice sum of money, for his faithful service during the past several years.

THE BOND ISSUE FOR SCHOOLS

To be Submitted to the Voters on September 26

As The Record has previously stated, it will take no stand in the coming vote for or against the Bond issue for schools, on Monday, Sept. 26. The matter is one that is no doubt understood by most voters, and should be passed on by them without special solicitation or argument by either side, and certainly without prejudice or ill-feeling.

We have heard of very little interest, or comment on the bill on either side, notwithstanding the importance of the vote in its financial bearings. We therefore publish the following Sections of the Bill in order that voters may secure additional information as the time for the election is near at

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the County Commissioners of Carroll County, for the purpose of providing the funds necessary for the purchase of land upon which to erect new public school buildings, and for the improvement and repair of public school buildings, as hereinafter specifically mentioned, are hereby authorized and empowered to borrow money on the faith and credit of said County and to issue and sell coupon bonds therefor to an amount not to exceed Six Hundred Thousand ($600,000.00) Dol-lars, in the denomination of One Thousand ($1,000,00) Dollars, to bear interest at a rate not exceeding five (5) per centum per annum, to be de-termined by said County Commission-ers payable semi-annually on the first day of July and the first day of January in every year until the maturity of each of said bonds, coupons to be attached to said bonds for each of said semi-annual interest payments, to be signed by the President of the said The County Commissioners of Carroll County, the said signature to be either written or printed thereon; the said bonds also to be signed by said president and by the treasurer of said county, and to have the corporate seal of said county affixed thereto; and said loan and every part thereof and the interest payable thereon shall be and remain exempt from all State, County and municipal taxes.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That of the said sum of not exceeding Six Hundred Thousand ($600,000.00) Dollars, so borrowed, the said The County Commissioners of Carroll County are hereby authorized and empowered to expend for the erection and equipping of a new public school building in Union Bridge, not exceeding the sum of Sixty Thousand ($60,-000.00) Dollars; for the erection of a new public school building, or for the purchase of the buildings, grounds and equipment of Blue Ridge College in New Windsor, whichever shall be determined by the Board of Education of Carroll County to be the most expedient and advantageous, not to exceed the sum of One Hundred Thousand ($100,000.00) Dollars; for the erection and equipment of a new public school building at Sykesville, not exceeding the sum of Seventy-five Thousand ($75,000.00) Dollars; for the erection and equipping of a new public school building at Westminster, not exceeding the sum of Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand ($250,000.) Dollars; for the erection and equipping of a new public school building at Manchester, not exceeding the sum of Fifty Thousand ($50,000.00) Dollars; for the erection and equipping of a new public school building at Winfield, not exceeding the sum of Twenty-five Thousand ($25,000.) Dollars; for the improvements and repair of the public school building at Mt. Airy, not exceeding the sum of Twenty-five ($25,000.00) Dollars; for the improvement and repair of Charles Carroll School, near Silver Run, not exceeding the sum of Ten Thousand ($10,000.00) Dollars; and for a public school building at Uniontown, the sum of not exceeding Five Thousand ($5,000.00) Dollars.

And be it further enacted, That the Board of Education of Carroll County shall from time to time determine the order and succession in which said public school buildings designated in Section 2 of this Act shall be erected and equipped, purchased, or improved and repaired, and shall forthwith notify in writing the said The County Commissioners of Carroll County of said determination.

The Flohr Reunion.

The third annual reunion of the John Flohr, Sr., families was held Aug. 28, on the Taneytown Fair ground. Although the day was cold and damp there were about 200 on the ground by the time dinner was ready, and a considerable number came later.

Members of the family were present from Baltimore, Hagerstown, Waynesboro, Rockville, Sykesville, York, Emmitsburg, Thurmont, Westminster, Gettysburg, Vienna, Va., Taneytown and other places.

A program was held in the fore-noon, and a business session in the afternoon, and all had an enjoyable The reunion next year will be held at Rocky Ridge, on August 26.

state appropriation. The Society is in need of additional funds. It had total expenditures last year of $74,311.77 received from the State and county funds, legacies, private contributions and other sources; but its work requires a still greater financial support if all appeals are to

The Record has been asked to help the Society's appeal for funds, and we present it as a most worthy cause. Contributions can be handed in at this office, or be sent direct to Daniel R. Randall, Treasurer, 31 S. Calvert St., Baltimore, care of Maryland Chil-dren's Aid Society.

Notes for Farmers.

Hogs multiply very rapidly. By keeping one good sow and her pigs and breeding them regularly one can produce more than 300 hogs in 3 years. In view of this rapid increase the producer can afford to pay a liberal price for a good sow. One of the most practical ways of getting good cows is to use a proved sire in the herd. Some good sires have caused an annual increase of 100 pounds in butterfat production of each daughter as compared with the production of the daughters dam.

If calves are dropped in the fall they may be weaned the following spring and put on pasture, where they should do well if the pasture is good. Make the change gradually. Those inclined to be unthrifty should get a little grain, but the more vigorous ones will probably not need any additional feed.

The pecan is the largest growing nut tree under orchard cultivation. The average spread of the ordinarily big pecan trees, 50 or more years old favorably located is probably from 100 to 125 feet, although trees of materially greater range are not unusual. This is three or four times the usual size of normally large apple trees and from four to six times that of the peach.

It is not an uncommon practice to start feeding silage immediately after the silo is filled. If a sufficient amount is fed off daily, this will lessen if not entirely eliminate the usual waste from spoiled silage that is found on top when the opening of the silo is delayed a month or more. Silage still warm from fermentation is not relished by cows at first but will produce no ill effect provided it shows no mold. Moldy silage should not be

The quality of timber depends largely upon the density of the stand. High quality timber to a great proportion of its height is free of limbs, the cause of knots; it is tall; and does not decrease rapidly in diameter from the butt to top of last_log. In a dense stand of timber there is among the individual trees considerable competition for sunlight, with the result that height growth is increased. Trees in crowded stands therefore are usually taller than those in thin stands of the same age.

For best results in timber growing in farm woods or elsewhere, the trees should be so crowded that the crown or top of each individual tree may be in contact with those of its nearest Hog Calling and Rolling-Pin Throwing, at Timonium.

Wednesday, Sept. 7, will be Farm Bureau Day at Timonium Fair. Among the attractions on this day will be a "hog-calling" contest be-tween men with melodious and carrying voices, such as are attractive to the hog family, and will furnish amusement to listeners in-to hog broadcasting.

Then farm women will show their expertness in throwing the rollingpin, in imitation of Maggie Jiggs and Mrs. Mutt. They will have a "dummy" as a target. But, why limit this practice to farm women? Then, the ancient and honorable horse shoe pitching game will come in for expert exhibitions and spirited contests. So, the day with three such "splendid" attractions, is expected to draw a big crowd, unless the management has made a mistake in sizing up the tastes of modern farmers.

Our Press Room Changes.

For quite a while we have been trying to find the time to make numerous changes in our work room, that will greatly improve working conditions and provide case room for a considerable assortment of new type

Last week we started in on the job, moving presses, motors and other machinery, and this has caused some delay in finishing work. The walls and ceiling remain to be alabastined, and a lot of minor work to be done gradually, but the main interference is over and we expect now to handle all work as expeditiously as heretofore.

TWO COUNTY BOARDS IN CONTROVERSY.

Board of Education to Receive $17,652.80 from State.

The Attorney General's office has rendered an opinion of prime importance not only to Carroll but to all the counties of the State, in the matter of a question raised by the Board of Education of Carroll County.

It is the question of the disposition City of Baltimore, under the provisions of Chapter 453 of the Acts of the Legislature of 1927. The total amount received from the sale of these securities was $403,874.45. On August 10 the County Commissioners of Carroll County received a check for $17,652.80 Carroll county's share. On August 17, County Superintendent M. S. H. Unger wrote to the county commissioners:

"I have been notified by the State
Auditor on August 10, that the check for $17,652.80 has been sent to you to be delivered to us, I am, herewith, making formal demand that the total amount of this check be turned over to us immediately to be used by us as directed in the law."

The Board of County Commissioners referred the matter to William L. Seabrook, its attorney, who advised that the Legislature, in providing that these monies should be paid to the Boards of County Commissioners for the use of the several Boards of Education and accessed of the several Boards of Education and the second of the several Boards of Education and the second of the several Boards of Education and the second of the several Boards of Education and the second of the several Boards of Education and the second of the several Boards of Education and the second of the several Boards of Education and the second of the several Boards of Education and the second of the several Boards of Education and the second of the several Boards of Education and the second of the several Boards of Education and the second of the several Boards of Education and the second of the secon une use of the several Boards of Education and not directly to the latter must have intended to charge the Boards of County Commissioners with some other responsibility. the mere delivery of the checks to the Boards of Education as demanded by 1918. Rather, it is a statement of took exception to this ruling of the attorney for the Commissioners, and in the name of the Board of Education, on August 22, renewed the demandary of the state of the state

"In the law there is no provision under which this money may be re-tained by your Board, therefore, its payment immediately to the Board of Education is asked of your Board. This is a duplicate of the request and demand made of the 17th. inst. by Superintendent Unger." In the opinion received by Mr. Seabrook from the office of the Attorney General, his interpretation of the law draw funds. is confirmed, and direction given to all the Boards of County Commission-ers of the State as to their duty in the promises. In that opinion it is said:

"You will note that Section 2 of the Boards of County Commissioners for the use of the Boards of Education of the several counties," and that Section 3 further provides that "the several Boards of Education aforesaidshall apply the sums of money received by them respectively under this Act in the erection or equipment of school houses for the purchase of school lots, and for no other purpose.

"It therefore, appears that the intention of the Legislature as expressed by this Act is that' the County Commissioners shall hold the funds so received and deliver them together with any interest thereon which may have accrued in the meantime, unon demand of the Board of Education, upon ascertaining that they are to be warrant to appraise personal property and order to notify creditors.

The Taneytown-Keymar Road.

Those who travel the Tanevtown-Keymar road continuously, as well as those who know about it and go some other way around, are wondering how long this important road is going to be left as it is, or to get even worse than it is. Certainly, all main roads can not be concreted, or macadamized, within a short time but even the dirt roads might be worked and placed in Ely good condition for the most of the

MAY SOW MORE WHEAT

Acreage Increase Estimated at 27,000 Acres in Md.

Farmers of Maryland have in mind to sow 27,000 more acres of winter wheat this fall than in the fall of 1926; that is to say, 571,000 acres this fall against 544,000 acres in the fall of 1926, according to John S. Dennee, Federal agricultural statistician for Maryland. The intended acreage this fall, says the statistician, is 8 per-cent less than the average of sowing for the five-year period 1900-1913; 18 per-cent less than the average for the five-year period 1914-Public Works from the sale of a number of securities held by the State of Maryland for the benefit of the free school fund of the State, the proceeds to be distributed to the country. 5 per-cent more than the estimated actual sowings in the fall of 1926. Two hundred and fifteen farmers, reporting for their own farms, furnished the data on which the 1927 estimate of intended sowings is grounded.

The average annual abandoment of winter wheat in Maryland during the past ten years is 3.1 per-cent. So, if farmers carry out their planting in-tentions as expressed on the average date of August 1, 1927 to the United States Department of Agriculture, and an average annual abandonment should take place, the area remaining for harvest in the summer of 1928 would be about 553,000 acres, which is 4.3 per-cent. larger than the harvested acreage in 1927.

Certain Newspapers.

We might know a daily paper, that, barring its appetite for all sorts of stuff that appeals to the lower classes, is a good newspaper. If it would be possible to separate its editorial and managerial policy from influencing its staff of writers, with its various press service connections, it would be a very good paper indeed.

Editorially, it is continually dishing up sour grapes. Its strong point is sarcasm and ridicule. Hardly any chance for knocking, along its crosseyed line of morality, is left go by without utilizing. It rarely sees any good in anything that comes from those who disagree with it. Public men on the opposite side of the political fence enclosing the party of this paper, are good only after they are dead. Living opponents are always dangerous, if not bad.

It is apparently a big success, finaneially. We shall not attempt to explain why, though this could be done. In brief, it is a success because it can not help it. Many read it because they can not well do otherwise, if they want to read a newspaper at all, published in its local field.

Of course, nobody reads its editorials in order to be informed on the highest and best lights in any particular subject. Its efforts are not that sort-perhaps could not possibly be, even on orders from higher up-but if one wants to get the rankest interpretations and most cutting insinuations that can possibly be given on the negative side concerning the long list of men and issues that this paper opposes, then no one need look further to have their order filled.

This paper is also likely to take sides against courts and law enforcement when there is a big constituency on the other side to be catered to. It is especially defensive of law-breakers and encourages them in the belief that certain laws are "blue," and not deserving of respect in these modern times when "personal liberty" is estimated to be a right for the few, that is of greater moment than the best interests of peace, sobriety and safety for all.

In order to discourage any one from guessing what paper we mean, let us say that we do not mean any one; but that we are only saying about what we would like to say, should we mean one such paper. But if any one should read this, who does know any paper that our remarks would measurably well fit their own ideas concerning it, then they are given the opportunity of adopting a non-copyrighted, ready-made opinion, that they can use as their own.

Since writing the above, a subscriber sent us a long editorial clipped from the Detroit Free Press, as its comment on the Sacco-Vanzetti case. We have not followed this case closely, and know little about the evidence; but the Free Press considers it to have been:

"A lesson to all honest, conscientious American newspapers with a sense of public responsibility. It contains a sharp warning to them."

It charges that many newspapers took up what was a "common murder case" and magnified it out of all proportion to its merit as a concession to the "Reds," minimizing the fairness of the trial and the opinion of the Courts, and closes with the following;

"Looking back, the decent, responsible newspapers of American ought to be thoroughly ashamed of the part they played in the hysteric travesty. They should repent in sack cloth and | paired. ashes for allowing themselves to be gulled and used instead of remembering that it is their duty to provide ac-curate properly proportioned sane news to their readers. Every time that the journals of this country per-mit themselves to indulge in an orgy of sensationalism, such as just concluded, they injure themselves in the eyes of the intelligent public, deservedly suffer loss of respect, and hurt the nation."

Record wishes to make, entirely aside from any consideration of the Sacco- state and national organizations. Vanzetti case. That many of the newspapers of the country are exceed- other form of accident according to ing the proper "freedom of the press"; they are setting themselves up a superior authority above Courts of law; they are assuming to fix moral rectitude; and in general are dangerously close to selfing out to what may be termed the "undesirable" classes of being estimate that amost 7,000 chilthe country. And if this be true, then the better classes need to be on their guard, and use what power they have to combat the situation.

The Cost of Aviation.

The perfecting of air navigation no doubt means that it must have its pioneer victims. Anyway, a large number of the very best young men of America have given their lives to aviation, and hundreds of others will likely meet the same fate within the next few years. These lives may be given in a good cause, but it is difficult to accept the cost without a great deal of regret, especially as it is yet to be demonstrated that aerial navigation will ever be reasonably safe.

There must be a fascination about the business that leads our young men to take the chance. Mere physical bravery hardly measures the requirements, for a successful aviator needs to be highly developed, mentally on a wide range of more or less scientific topics, and such men the world can ill afford to lose.

Some may seek mere notoriety, and take a gambler's chance, but this class must be comparatively small, while the Byrd, Lindberg, Chamberlain class is large-men of the finest character, intellect and ability-and we need them on the ground.

But, the big question is, are we not paying too big a price for speed? Considering the thousands killed each year by motor vehicles on land, and now the increasing number of aerialists, we must wonder whether it is right to take such chances, as well as whether it pays?

U. S. Grant Won Bride

While Fording River Ulysses S. Grant selected an odd time to propose marriage to Julia Dent. Lieutenant Grant from West Point had met Julia while on a visit to the home of his chum in St. Louis. He fell in love with her and decided to return to pursue his attentions, relates Edna M. Colman in "White House Gossip.' Their betrothal occurred while they were fording the Gravois river. They were in a light rig, the young man driving. The waters were swollen and the current so swift from the recent heavy rains that they were in grave danger. The manner of her clinging to him in her fear of the water inspired him with the courage to propose to her then and there. In after years she often related to her grandchildren the story of the betrothal, placing special stress on the old superstition that unusual strength and constancy were attributes of many pledges made over running water, says Capper's Weekly.

Thrift Aid to Courage

Thriftlessness often fosters cowardice. Thrift inspires courage. Shiftless persons rarely have much backbone. They are to dependent upon others for assistance that often they cannot assert themselves to preserve their self-respect. Their wasteful habits sap their self-reliance, their self-assurance. The thrifty individual, of the other hand, has learned to stand on his own feet. He has learned how to take care of himself, how to manage his affairs, how to provide against emergencies. Therefore, he is little inclined to submit to uncalled for indignities. Nor is he afraid to take reasonable risks. His financial backing gives him courage. And without courage few successful careers have been built up. Thus we arrive at this formula: Thrift develops success .-Forbes Magazine.

Kin to a Mysterious Race

So long ago that it is impossible to say when, there dwelt in Europe or Asia a most remarkable tribe of mankind. These people are not mentioned in any ancient history and no legend gives a hint of their existence. They were the so-called fathers of the Aryans who now people the earth, and the knowledge we have learned about them has been learned through the study of words. Word by word the language of the original Aryans has been exlumed from the descendent modern languages until, pieced together, they tell the story of a vanished people. Historians tell us that words and customs are a great index to the life of any race.-Capper's

SOLOMON'S WISE CHOICE

LESSON TEXT—I Kings 3:4-15.
GOLDEN TEXT—Happy is the man who findeth wisdom and the man that getteth understanding.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Solomon's Wise

JUNIOR TOPIC-A Young Man's INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOP-IC—Choosing Things Worth While.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOP-

IC-The Best Things in Life. Following the death of David, Solomon was anointed king (I Kings 1:5-40). David had failed to show the people who should be king after him (v. 20). Though an old man, he is stirred into action by the combined appeals of Bathsheba and Nathan. He immediately sent for the faithful three

-Zadok, Nathan and Beniah, and commanded them to anoint Solomon king 1. God's Gracious Offer (vv. 4, 5). Solomon made a lavish sacrifice to the Lord. The magnitude of the offering shows that he had strong impulses toward God and that he was unwilling to hold anything back from God. Following the sacrifice, the Lord made to him this gracious offer. This offer was not on the basis that the Lord cared for the number of animals, but the attitude of the man's heart toward him. "Ask what I shall give thee," placed very wide possibilities before the king. God, as it were, signed blank checks and turned them over to Solomon to fill in any amount that his heart desired. This was not a reckless act on the part of God, for He foreknew what was in Solomon's heart to ask. This offer to Solomon is no exceptional one, for opportunities equally limitless are placed before us. God is saying to every one of His children, "Ask and it shall be given you." The matter with its limitations is placed before us in John 15:7. "If ye abide in Me and My words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you." These unlimited offers are open to those who abide in Christ and let His words abide in them

II. Solomon's Wise Choice (vv. 6-9). The Lord's gracious offer brought the king face to face with the responsibility of making a choice. There was no middle course open to him. God deals with all His children in such a way that a choice must be made by them. Solomon was keenly aware of the difficulty and responsibility of his position. David was a great king. For a young man to take up the work of an illustrious father and push it to completion is a most difficult task. Comparatively few ever succeed. Besides this, he had to deal with the disturbing elements which had been set in motion by the usurper, Adonijah. Being made to shoulder so great a responsibility so suddenly, brought him to keenly feel his insufficiency. In his reply to God he pleaded that his being king was not of his own choice but an act of God's loving kindness. He argued that, since God had made him king, He was bound to qualify him to fill the place. All who have been called of God to fill positions of honor and trust can surely exercise that same boldness of faith. When called to positions of honor and trust we should humbly present ourselves before God for help. To feel ourselves unworthy and unfit for great and responsibile work and to cast ourselves upon God for help is not cowardice, but a good sign that we shall not fail at the critical moment. Solomon's object in asking for wisdom was not for display but for the good of God's Unstinted Gift (vv. 111.

10-15). Solomon's speech pleased the Lord. God gave him more than he asked. Because he put wisdom first, God saw that he could be trusted with material good also. Christ saw the same thing when He said. "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and His righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you" (Matt. 6:33). He who puts God and spiritual things first in time and importance can be trusted with temporal things. That which God promised him above what he asked was riches, honor and length of days. All who feel the lack of wisdom can go to God with confidence (Jas. 1:5). God blessed Solomon with a singularly comprehensive mind (I Kings 4:29-34). He was a botanist, zoologist, architect, poet and moral philosopher.

SAVE BEST MALES FOR NEXT SEASON

When the hatching season is over, remove the male birds from the flock but take good care of them if they are to be used next season.

"Infertile eggs are no better as food than fertile eggs but the infertile eggs keep better in hot weather," says Dr. B. F. Kaupp, head of the poultry department at the North Carolina State college. "When a fertile egg is subjected to high summer heat, it will begin to develop a young chick. If this development goes on long enough and then the egg is placed in lower temperatures, the germ dies and a blood ring is left. This ring of blood settles at the lowest point of the arch of membranes which cover a part of

Doctor Kaupp states that just as many eggs will be laid when the males are removed from the flock and so it is a good practice to take away the males from the hens as soon as the breeding season is over. Those birds not wanted for breeding another year may be placed in a lot where they may be fattened for the pot or for market. Those needed next year should be placed in a house with ample run where they may forage for bugs and worms and green feed. To shut up a desirable breeding bird in a small, dry lot with poor housing facilities, is to reduce his health and vigor and make him worthless for the next season. Then, too, Doctor Kaupp advises selecting out the best of the early hatched young cockerels and keeping them for breeding purposes. Those that are square and blocky and crow early are most desirable. Early development means the transmission of high qualities of egg production and health. Such selected males should get plenty of green feed, mash in which there is animal feed and regular grain feed. Grain alone is not sufficient if best results are wanted.

Maternal Instinct Is

Strong in Turkey Hen The maternal instinct is especially strong in the turkey hen. If she is brooding her eggs near another turkey's nest, she will leave her own nest at the first cheep of poults. A battle royal will ensue between the two turkey hens, which makes the hen with the unhatched poults dissatisfied even when she is confined to the nest. We must reckon with nature. Put out nests for the turkey hens where they will find them; separate them from sight and sound of one another. Plan for her to walk in on the nest rather than to jump down. Put boards under the barrels or boxes provided for turkey nests to keep them off the ground when it rains. When the poults are hatched, if the hen is not cooped. make a triangular yard of twelve-inch boards and confine them in that till they can jump over. The hen leave them; they can be put on fresh ground every day by moving the pen. and the turkey mother can be trusted to protect her young.

Hens Often Injured by Toenails of Male Bird

Hens are often injured by the long toenails of the male birds ripping open the back. When this happens, cleanse the wound, apply a healing ointment, and cover with a pad of antiseptic gauze fastened down with adhesive tape. It is economy to have a large spool of the adhesive tape in the medicine closet. It tears as easily as muslin and is about as useful. Of course the feathers about a wound should always be pulled. If it is necessary to sew a wound, use surgeons' needles and white silk floss. The nails of the offending cock or turkey gobbler should be manicured with a file.

A foot injury for which the gauze pad and adhesive tape are useful is bumble foot-caused by a bruise to the sole of the foot from flying down on a hard surface. For this, if there is pus in the bruise, make two crisscross cuts like an X. Press out the pus gently, and apply salve, a pad and the adhesive.

Contaminated Soil

The soil where chicks are ranging is not as easily contaminated if it contains a thick mat of green clover sod when the chicks are first turned out of the brooder houses. A dense grassy growth of that type is not easily killed out by the scratching and feeding of the chicks. It furnishes plenty of green feed and brings some insect life and it does not become caked with fertilizer as quickly as bare ground, or ground covered with a very sparse growth of vegetation.

Place for the Chicks

We do not know of a better place for growing chicks than out in the growing corn fields. Their colony houses can be placed alongside the cornfield and if a good clover or alfalfa patch happens to be alongside the cornfield also, so much the better. Then they would have both sunshine and shade, grass and raw dirt in which to play, hunt bugs, fresh, green vegetables, etc. All they would need in addition would be a hopper of good growing mash.

WILD LIFE GALORE AT YELLOWSTONE

Animals Reported More in Evidence Than Ever.

Yellowstone Park, Wyo .- The wild animals of Yellowstone National park are making themselves more conspicuous this season than ever before. Although the bear is looked upon as one of the great attractions of the Yellowstone and may always be seen along the roads or at the special feeding grounds, the shyer animals that usually seek the higher ranges in the summer season seem to be staying closer to the main highways of the park.

Many park visitors report seeing mother elk and their calves and a number of baby deer. Moose are also reported plentiful, scarcely a day passing without some tourist reporting that he has seen a splendid bull or a cow and her calf.

Of course there are special sightseeing trips, and on these one may seek out the wild life of the park, gaining perhaps the best results from a hike or a horseback trip conducted to Specimen ridge from Camp Roosevelt, in the northeast section of the park. In this region wild animals may almost always be found.

Parties taking these trips recently have reported seeing antelope, elk and mountain sheep. Perhaps the reason for the superabundance of wild animals in this section lies in the fact that Camp Roosevelt is not on the regular stopping schedule for the yellow busses of the transportation line and the tourist is apt to pass it by. In this rather quiet spot, however, those who are out for a real rest and vacation trip stop for several days to fish the rivers and explore the mountains and forest trails near the camp.

310,960,019 Coins

Were Made in 1927

Washington. - Fifty-eight million nickels, 175,847,000 pennies and 49,-606,000 dimes were turned into the pockets of the nation by the United States mints during the fiscal year ending June 30, according to a report just issued by the director of the mint.

The coinage of money by the mints in Philadelphia, Denver, San Francisco and Washington fluctuated considerably during the last year, but this is due to varying demands for new money by the banks of the country, it

The total domestic coinage for 1927 numbered 310,960,019 coins, with a value of $102,653,129. Compared to the report of 1926, there is a decrease in the number of pieces produced, but an increase in the value of the coins.

The most valuable coins produced were the double eagle gold pieces, with a total value of $82,840,000. Preving wide prosperity in the nation is the fact that more gold coins were made by the mints in 1927 than in the previous year, with a value of nearly $10,-000,000 more.

In silver coinage, the total produced for 1927 was 72,323,019 pieces valued at $14,029,559. Last year's figures show 65,912,456 pieces with a value of $19,183,178. In this case it is shown that there were more pieces made this year, but with less value than the production of 1926.

American Planes Flew 48 Million Miles in 1926

Washington.-A total of 23,310,355 miles was flown by civil and commercial aircraft in the United States in 1926, according to William P. Mac-Cracken, Jr., federal chief of civil aeronautics. In addition to the mileage of heavier-than-air craft, it is estimated a total of 37,500 miles were flown by lighter-than-air craft.

The report included 1,536 planes engaged in air transport, sightseeing, exhibition, advertising, photography, crop dusting and other branches of aerial work. They flew an average speed of 80 miles an hour.

If the army, navy and coast guard flying time were to be added to this figure, the total American air mileage for heavier-than-air craft would be 48,586,492 miles, Mr. MacCracken said.

Flying over 18 regular airways, 194 planes maintained a scheduled mileage of 4,474,772 miles in 1926. Reports from all operators indicate that 94,353 passengers were carried on planes free of charge. The number of paying passengers transported totaled 676,567. The number of hours flown was 234,313 and pay freight carried amounted to 418,986 pounds.

Bobbed Hair Needs 10,000 More Barbers-in England

London, - Shingling and bobbing have created jobs for 10,000 additional barbers in England in the last three or four years, according to statistics just compiled by the British Hairdressers' association.

There are new more than 42,000 barbers and hairdressers in England compared with 32,000 a few years ago.

In 1914 one out of every five barbers died of consumption. This death rate has been greatly decreased since the war, due to shorter, hours that barhers are required to work, and to the healthier conditions prevailing in the barber shops.

Lawyer Left Opening for Verbal Brickbat

A good story is told of the late Chief Justice White of the United States Supreme court, who was famous for his wit. A few months before his death the chief justice was approached one morning by Judge Timothy T. Ansberry, former member of congress from Ohio and a practicing lawyer in Washington.

"Good morning, Mr. Chief Justice," said Judge Ansberry. "I hope you are quite well."

"Good morning," was the response; but not recognizing Ansberry, the chief justice added cautiously, "Is it possible that I have forgotten your

"But," said Ansberry, "I noticed that the cataracts do not prevent you seeing the deficiences in my arguments before your court." Smiling broadly, the distinguished jurist laid a hand on Ansberry's shoulders, saying:

"No, my dear Ansberry, a blind man could see them." Then turning to a friend who happened to be in the group, the chief justice laughingly said: "He gave me a chance to throw a brick, didn't he?"-Kansas City Star.

Ancients Used Bells for Various Purposes

The use of small bells to summon attendants goes back over 3,000 years. Assyrian tombs, uncovered from the ruins and dust of ages, show that hand bells not unlike our conventional shapes, were used in old-time Nineveh. Egyptian sculptured work in more than one inscription also shows that remote antiquity in this as in many another respect had the same ideas of comfort, and sought to gratify them in much the same manner that we do. We find bells mentioned very early in the history of Israel. The high priest was directed to wear them on the fringes of his official vestments, alternating them with purple, blue and scarlet artificial pomegranates, so that he might be heard when he went in and out of the holy place to sacrifice, as the Book of Exodus has it, "that he die not." Then, as now, all the accessories of divine worship were symbolical, the tinkling golden bells probably typifying the lips that ought ever to be open for prayer, and the tongue that ought ever to be crying mercy when concerned about the sacrifices and other services of the sanctuary.

Old Confession of Faith

The Apostle's Creed is a confession of faith dating from the Fourth century, which has been incorporated either in part or as a whole by practically every Christian church. A legend was to the effect that the Apostle's Creed was formed by the apos tles themselves, but there is slight documentary proof of this. It is by many supposed to have been taken from the confession of Peter, see Mark 16:16, and from the baptismal invocation which determined the trinitarian order and arrangement. The earliest authentic mention is found in a passage in the works of St. Irenaeus, who died in 202 A. D., when about eighty years old.

Hay and Potato Crops Larger.

Maryland crops are short this year, with the exception of white potatoes and hay. The grain crops and the fruit crops are for the most part making a poor showing. Vagaries of weather—too cool and then too hot; too dry and then too wet-are largely responsible for the gloomy prospect, according to the farmers, John S. Dennee, United States and Maryland crop expert, reports.

The composite condition of crops in Maryland on August 1 was 90.7. This indicates that crops were 1.3 percent. below their ten-year average condition on that date; and 0.5 below the corresponding composite on July 1. The indicated production figures shown in the body of the report are interpreted from condition reports rendered by our farmer-correspondents.

The total production of the more important crops forecast this year, compared with harvested production last year, is estimated as follows. Winter wheat, 78 percent; corn, 79 per-cent; oats, 101 per-cent; barley, 92 per-cent; rye, 79 per-cent; white potatoes, 132 per-cent; sweet potatoes, 81 per-cent; tobacco, 88 per-cent; tame cent; peaches, 52 per-cent; pears, 43 per-cent; grapes, 82 per-cent

Interest in Revenue Taxes.

Occasionally there is somewhat eneral interest in such a dull subject as revenue tax returns, as appears from the following editorial comment the Philadelphia Ledger;

"Despite a sharp decline in collections on amusement and automobile sales taxes, the Treasury reports internal revenue receipts of $2,865,683, 129 for the year ending June 30. This is an increase of one per-cent over those for the previous year. The gain was chiefly due to increased returns from playing cards and cigarettes. In the case of amusements, the fact that the 1926 revenue act increased the exemption price on admissions from fifty to seventy-five cents was partly responsible for a decline of $6,000,000 in tax collections since June, 1926. There must be some other reason, however, for the showing of the theatres. A suggestion that radio is luring many of their patrons away may be the answer.

The revenue act also reduced the automobile tax rate, but there is another reason for the loss from this source of revenue. It is due in part to the fact that production in the Ford plants since last January 1 has been only about forty per-cent of the previous year's record. The loss might have been greater but for the fact that production of other cars from January to July, 1927, was eighteen per-cent. greater than for the corresponding period of 1926."

Marion Davies

Charming Marion Davies, the "movie" star, is here shown in her summer hat. Miss Davies' dainty pastel beauty is peculiarly suited to large picturesque hats. The model shown, worn by her in "The Red Mill," is of corn-colored horsehair, bordered with net. A narrow band of velvet ribbon separating the net from the hat is its only trimming.

MIND VERSUS HEART

THE scientific age in which we are living argues that practical results are the only test of truth. If a theory works it is true, if it fails to work it is likely untrue. A theory becomes a fact only when it can be explained. An attempt is being made these days to force everything into the crucible of science.

The cold and proved facts of science are one thing and when confined to their respective spheres offer no cause for grave concern, but when science demands that its testimony be considered final upon realities to which it has no vital relation, a very different problem arises.

The attributes of personality and emotions of the heart transcend all the claims of science. A mother's love, paternal pride, the innate sense of justice and of fair play, the inherent desire for success and the fear of failure-what does science know about these things? A fact in the cosmic world may be proved true by scientific research, but the realities of personality are not to be found at the end of a syllogism. Many of the most important facts of our daily life cannot be forced into the crucible of science. The practical application of the findings of science may make possible many of the comforts and conveniences of a house, but science has nothing to offer that will contribute to the spirit of a home.

The realities in life upon which civilization and the progress of mankind depend lie wholly outside the field of science. Many times are we obliged to say-We can neither define nor analyze these realities, but experience has demonstrated their value.

If ere when faith hath fallen asleep I heard a voice, Believe no more, The heart stood up and answered. (©, 1927, by Western Newspaper Union.)

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS By H. IRVING KING

THE MOON'S CHANGES AND THE WEATHER

THERE is probably no superstition more firmly believed in, at least by agriculturists and dwellers in the rural districts generally, both in this country and in Europe, than that the conditions of the moon's changes govern the weather. Here are a few American ideas on the subject: The moon changing in the west denotes fine weather during that moon. The moon changing near midnight is a prophecy of fine weather. The weather of the new moon governs the first quarter (or first half) of that moon. The weather of the new moon governs the month's weather.

No less a person than Sir John Herschel, the celebrated astronomer and physicist, was so impressed by the common belief with regard to the influence of the moon's changes on the weather that he made an investigation of the matter and, pronouncing the truth thereof, constructed an elaborate table giving the relations between the luna changes and the weather, supporting his conclusions by a wealth of scientific lore. For a time that seemed to settle the question. Then something caused Sir John to go over his work again. He found that he had based his conclusions upon insufficient data, and after investigating again came out with a statement that his former conclusions had been all wrong. There was no connection whatever between the moon's changes and the weather except a slight tendency to clear weather at the moon's full. The theory of a relation between the moon and the weather was relegated once more to the list of superstitions regarding the lunar orb which are relics of moonworship; echoes of the days when Isis waved her lotus scepter by the waters of the Nile.

Know Yourself!

By EVELYN GAGE BROWNE

WHAT does Yourself know of YOURSELF? Are you sure through and through That you amount to something-or

What do you know about YOU?

It's not what some one else may say, Or what other folks think, my friend, That is going to help you day by day And count in the final end;

What "they say"-unless it is downright true-

Isn't worth a picayune, self

And if you'd be square in all you do, Get a line on Yourself right soon. Sit down with Yourself and ask Your-

If you're really fit to know, And whether you'd like the world to

The YOU that doesn't show.

Examine the YOU that's deep inside And bring it out to the light, And if there's anything you would hide-

Get busy and set it right.

And before you can tackle the job in view

Or hope to get anywhere, You've got to tackle the Real You And fight it cut right there.

Then see that you measure up to the BEST,

And in every time or place You'll surely never mind the rest-If YOUR OWN SELF you can face.

If you know Yourself just what you're

If you know you're honest within-That's all that counts on this old earth. And I'll tell the world you'll win! (Copyright.)

Articles Bring Luck

An extraordinary example of the survival of foolish superstition was disclosed in the case of a Hampshire (England) farmer who was convicted f stealing turnips from a neighbor. He explained to the magistrate that ne could easily afford to pay for them, and that, moreover, he had plenty of turnips of his own, but he wanted stolen ones to make a concoction for a cow which had fallen sick, for he firmly believed no other could be so efficacious.

A similar belief is held in many parts of Germany, where practically everyone buys a ticket for one or other of the state lotteries. Many uneducated peasants will tell you they are sure of winning if the ticket they have was bought with stolen money.

In Turkey, copper rings are worn on the fingers to prevent erysipelas. If the ring has been stolen from some one else, it is supposed to answer its purpose twice as well.

Examples might be multiplied from every quarter of the earth. Most probably the superstition arose from the natural desire of the criminal to find some excuse for his delinquencies.

Not Friends Barbara had been away visiting a near-by city. Soon after her return I met her on the street, and stopping, said to her:

"Well, honey, I suppose that you and your mamma had a lovely visit with your friends?"

"They wasn't our friends," prompty replied Barbara, "they was our relatives."-New York Sun.

"What is the idea of that procession just going by?" asked a recenty arrived guest.

"Aw, it is composed of twenty-yearold girls going to the office of the Plaindealer to persuade the editor to quit publishing his column of thirty-year-ago items," replied the landlord of the Primia tavern.

Silk for Body Sinews

County Commissioners.

CHAS. W. MELVILLE, JOHN H. REPP, JOHN W. REAVER,

A recent development in surgery is the use of silk as a substitute for various body tissues. With certain precautions silk sinews may be transplanted into the body. In this way, natural sinews which are too short can be lengthened. A further application is in the form of silken ligaments employed as a substitute for ligaments which have been torn or injured by disease or accident, as in the case of lateral ligaments in the knee, elbow, etc. Likewise, it is possible to create with silk new artificial sustaining ligaments.

Seeds Hold Life Long

Seeds of the Indian lotus a century old have more active life in them than the same kind of seeds of last year's crop, according to a report of Dr. Ichiro Ohga of the Education institute of Dairen, Manchuria, to the American Journal of Botany. Doctor Ohga tested these ancient seeds both by sprouting and by chemical examination, and they won on both counts. The research was carried on during Doctor Ohga's sojourn in this country, at the Boyce Thompson institute, Yonkers, N. Y.

Qualifications

The young miss was filling out an application for a position in one of the city offices.

One of the questions was: "What is the length of your residence in the city?" She answered thus: "About 140 feet." Another question was this: "Any physical defects?" She answered: "Only freckles."

"Tidy" Philosopher

Many of the world's greatest philosophers are known to have had very little concern for their personal appearance. One notable exception, according to a biography written about 1688 and recently reprinted, was Spinoza who, says the author, 'was extremely tidy." Whenever he left his house there was, as well, "something about his clothes which usually distinguishes a gentleman from a pedant."

A present-day critic observes: "He was a man of the greatest reticence, but with nothing to conceal; a man of intensely 'private life,' but wholly transparent."

Made Goldfish Popular

Goldfish first appeared in England about two centuries ago, but it was Luigi Cura and his father who made them popular in the parlor windows of the nation. They began almost by chance. The Curas came to Lendon from Italy sixty years ago, when Luigi was a boy, and his uncle sent him a can of goldfish to comfort him in his exile.

Finding the fishes interested their neighbors, they began to import them and sell them. After a time they added tortoises to their stock-in-trade, and forty thousand tortoises, as well as half a million goldfish, passed through their hands in a year.

The strong Hagerstown Orioles, that lost to Taneytown 6 to 0 in an excellent game earlier in the season, will come back this Saturday, likely with a still stronger team, and make an effort to even up the score. The fact that teams come back to Taneytown to play, answers the wrong opinion of some that visiting teams do not get fair umpiring here. It is also the fact that most of the games played here were not umpired by Taneytown umpires, and there has nearly always been two, one furnished by the visiting team. Our team asks no favors from umpires.

> > > Immense Still Raided.

One of the largest bootleg plants ever raided in this country, was one found near Pottsville, Pa., on Tuesday by Prohibition officers, and property valued at $125,000 was confiscated. Among the items seized are two 3500 gallon stills, one 5000 gallon still, four 1000 gallon tanks of redistilled alcohol, two hundred drums of redistilled alcohol, seventy drums of denatured alcohol, five hundred gallons of No. 2 denatured alcohol, and a large lot of other items belonging to a complete distilling plant.

The place was in a mountainous section, well hidden, and was discovered at long distance by the use of a telescope. Even on a close view the scope. place seemed to be a poultry farm, as more than 2000 fowls were in the yards, and the distilling plant looked like a large chicken barn. By the time the raiders arrived everybody about the place had left, apparently having been warned by watchers. The whole place is said to have represented an investment of $200,000.
