ACTIVITIES OF A PEACE COMMITTEE

Is our Country Indifferent to Pending Legislation?

The Friends' Peace Committee from its publicity headquarters in Philadelphia, has recently been sending to the press of this country, excellent articles designed to promote international peace. One of these called attention to what it calls the "indifference of the majority" to-ward pending legislation. For instance it says that only about 17 percent of the tax dollars go toward internal improvements, and that—

"The country was hoping war appropriations would be lessened and appropriations for impovements inceased. Now comes the news that the largest sum ever asked for the Navy has been proposed by Secretary Wilbur to the House Committee on Naval Affairs—25 cruisers, 9 destroyer leaders, 32 submarines, 5 airplane carriers, at a cost close to $800,000,-The thoughtful person is appalled both by the enormous sum and by its implication of forcing other countries to heavy expenditures." The article asks, What influences are brought to bear on Congress to make these appropriations, and whether they are necessary to the safety of the United States and its

A later article comments most favorably on what it terms "healing the wounds" as evidenced in the re-establishment of international athletic contests, in Germany and other countries that mark great increase in friendliness, especially between the young men of America and Europe, while no English athletic club has visited Germany since the war. The article says; "There may be a subtle danger of the exaggerating the importance of the Games; but when one meets Americans and Frenchmen, Germans and Swedes, Italians and Greeks greeting each other and oneself as comrades and parting with, "See you at Am-sterdam" upon their lips, it is impos-sible not to feel that such a quadrennial reunion has a real value in the cultivation and maintenance of international amity and peace."

To the above, we add our own comment, as follows;

Along this line—popular expression of friendship with foreign nations on the part of Americans—the visits of Col. Lindbergh in his "Spirit of St. Louis" stand out prominently, and the more especially because the latter does, in a measure, represent official America.

Notwithstanding the Naval increases proposed, and the "tests" that may going on in both army and navy of | this country, there is no evidence that the United States government is concerned in unsettling the peace of the world; but rather that it is reasonably preparing itself to maintain peace through perfecting a police force, that, if called on to do so, will be in condition to exercise a potential police power.

There may be influences in this country that would seek to profit by war, but by far the influences on the other side are much greater. This is not, and never has been, a country influenced by conquest, and we have full faith in our Congress that the preparations now being proposed are actually interested entirely in the direction of the prevention of war. No individual, nor government, ever prevents lawlessness by neglecting to use locks or bars, or by discharging its watchmen.

It must be remembered, too, that our Congressmen are our "representatives" chosen by us. When they do not represent us, they do not "come back." What we call "politicians" may at times have an exaggerated opinion of their individual importance, but not for long when they cease to hear the voice of the people; and this "voice" they surely would hear, should they relax their vigilance for our public safety; and, as we believe, the safety of the world. They would also hear it should they aid in bringing about

On the whole, we think the Friends Peace Committee, is exercising a good influence as long as it stands for conservation in war preparations, and points out the danger of our becoming too aggressively war-like. And this, no doubt, is as far as it pretends

AUTO CLUB FORMED

Largely Attended Meeting Results in

The attendance at the meeting, held in the "Shriner Theater", on Wednesday night, Jan. 11th., for the purpose of organizing an Automobile Club for Taneytown and Middleburg districts, was far beyond our expectations. This movement seems to have met the hearty approval of those present.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. Chas. E. H. Shriner, at 7:30 P. M., who outlined the purpose of the meeting and the good features of such a Club, if organized, and represented by a large membership of our best citizens, he felt that much good can be done along the line of public improvements, such as better roads, more safety for autoists and pedestrians, and equal rights for all.

Mr. Shriner stated that Taneytown

District has but 5 5/10 miles of State Roads, outside of the borough of Taneytown, and only one mile of this has been built in the last ten years; during 1927 Taneytown did not ceive one cent for State Roads, while users of gasoline have been paying the state $3.20 for every 100 gallons of gas used, which would amount to a considerable sum, if tabulations were made; his business alone for 1927 required the use of 1464 gallons of gas for which he paid the state $56.16 and he said he was sure bakery trucks and mail carriers used still more than he used.

Mr. Shriner called for a motion as to whether the audience favored the organization of an Automobile Club, to which they voted favorably for the motion of said organization.

Mr. Norman Hess was elected as temporary chairman, and Mr. Harry Ecker as temporary secretary.

Mr. Shriner then read a set of By-Laws which was formulated by him. Mr. Hess asked for a motion to adopt the By-Laws as read. A motion was passed upon which resulted in the adoption of the By-laws as read. He also spoke very favorably of the benefits to be derived from the formation of a strong organization such as the Automobile Club just

Mr. Hess proceeded with the election of permanent officers to be elected to serve for one year, which resulted in the election of Mr. Chas. E. H. Shriner, President; Mr. Chas. Valentine, Vice-Pres.; Mr. Harry Ecker, Sec'y; Mr. Chas. Ridinger, Asst. Sec'y, and Mr. Wm. Bankard, Treas.

Membership dues favorable to the Association was placed at $1.00 a year per member, payable in advance. The following Committees were appointed: By-Laws Committee, Albertus Riffle, Chas. Baumgardner and John Hockensmith; Meeting Place, Wm. Troxell. Chas. Kemper and John Hilterbrick; Gas Committee, Norman Hess, Reuben Alexander and David M. Mehring; Membership Committee, All members of Association; Press Committee, Harry Ecker, who ap-pointed two members to assist him. The membership enrollment resulted in an enrollment of 62 mer which means a good start in the right direction.

The meeting adjourned to meet again on Tuesday, Jan. 17, at 7:30 P. M., in the "Shriner Theater," to which the public, including ladies, are re-quested to attend. Important auto-mobile queries will be discussed.

Carroll Co. Society to Meet.

The Carroll County Society of Baltimore will hold its ninth annual dinner, on Thursday, the 19th., inst., at Hotel Rennert at 7:00 P. M. This event takes place on the ninety first birthday of Carroll County and this year promises to be one of the most pleasing affairs the Society has ever Preston B. Englar, of Taneytown; Stanley G. Remington, of Baltimore; Miss Dorothy Elderdice and William L. Seabrook, of Westminster, have all accepted invitations to speak at this dinner. Dancing will be one of the features of the evening. All Carroll Countians, no matter where they live, will be welcomed by those who left the best County in the State. E. The Meanest Man Found.

The York police believe they have ocated the world's meanest man. Recently a local woman, Mrs. Edw. Warren, 470 Lincoln St., received a letter purporting to come from "G. Roush" self-styled undertaker at Newark, N. J., saying that her son, James Warren, 30, a sailor had died and that his body had been turned over to the undertaker. The writer demanded $130 for the body. The woman turned the letter and the requested money over to a local undertaker who in turn called the case to the attention of the York police. Investigation revealed that "G. Roush" is in reality the woman's own son. Newark police arrested him but on the mother's request he was re-

The son told Newark police that he needed money and knowing that his mother had not heard of his whereabouts since he sailed as a member the crew of the S. S. Laconia last summer, he conceived the idea of ad-vising his mother of his own "death," and collecting $130.00 for his "body."

The letter which he admitted writing said that unless money was forth-coming the body would be turned over to a hospital. Warren's arrest came when the police traced the letter to the Goodwill Mission House, in Eagle street, Newark, where he was found. He was released after admitting his plot.

PROCEEDINGS OF BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Commissioners and Board of Education do not hold Joint Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education was called to order at 10:15 A. M., in the office of the Board on Wednesday, January 4, 1928. Commissioner Slingluff was absent. The minutes of the previous meet-

Gentlemen;
I have been instructed by the Board of Education of Carroll County to request you to meet with them at their next meeting on January 4, 1928 to take up the matter of rescinding the joint resolution agreed to by the two Boards on May 5, 1926, and several other matters as concern the two Boards with respect to meeting the demands of certain communities for new school buildings. Very truly yours

The Board is willing to meet the Board of School Commissioners on January 4th., the time stated in your letter. The County Commissioners would like to know just upon what grounds you and your Board are going to ask us to rescind the resolution, what schools are to be built, what amount will be asked for each school building, and how do you expect to have them finance? If you will give us this advance information, we will be glad to meet your Board. Very truly yours,

CHARLES W. MELVILLE, JOHN H. REPP

JOHN W. REAVER County Commissioners of Carroll County.

After the Board had finished all other business at hand, they sent a representative to invite the Board of County Commissioners to come into joint meeting. This the Board of County Commissioners refused to do. Whereupon the following letter was addressed to the Board of County Commissioners and the following reply received in return.

The Board of Education of Carroll County is in session and we are desirous of meeting with your Board in a joint conference to discuss the school situation of this County. We would like very much to have you meet with us at once to discuss the different situations and, herewith, extend you a written invitation to come to our office at once. Very respectfully

J. PEARRE WANTZ, President Board of Education of Carroll County.

January 4, 1928. Board of Education Gentlemen:-

The Board wrote you a letter which we asked you for a reply. Until this letter is answered we do not care to meet your Board for the discussions you propose. Very respect-

Deeds of Friendship.

One of the envelopes lying on my desk bears the legend "Build friend-ships for national defense." Such a friendship, we know, is being built sky-high by Lindbergh in his flights to Mexico, Nicaragua, other points towards the south. And a message of friendship there was certainly needed. will be most helpful in promoting fellowship and understanding when the Pan-American convention is in Another friendly gesture has been made which lacks the hero element, yet appeals to everyone. This token of friendship was between the children of this country and those of Japan. In the spring of 1928 the children of the United States sent to the children of Japan a gift of dolls, hoping they would reach the Empire in time for the great doll festival of that land. This year the Japaneses children have sent those of the United States 58 dolls, one from each division of the Empire, hoping they would be here in time for Christmas, as they were. They will, however, be exhib-ited in different cities of the country, and then one will be left with each state as a permanent messenger of friendship. These dolls were bought by the yens or pennies of 5,000,000 Japanese children. Each doll cost over $200.00 each, also, has a chest of drawers, a desk and stationery, a chair, a mirror, stand, a trunk of her own and all of her belongings marked with her indi-vidual crest. The gorgeous silks in which they are dressed were especially designed, woven and dyed. This friendly gesture has such strong chords of responsive feeling and produced such good results that another, of a different character, is soon to be tried between the chil-dren of the United States and those of Mexico.

Damage by Freeze in Ftorida.

From the Apopka, Florida, Chief, we gain the following information concerning the freeze of January 1st. This resolution recommends that the next General Assembly amend the hunter license law to "require anyone hunting upon the premises of another to first secure a written permit from the owner or lessee of the premises."

The delegates urged the War Department to remove all impediments the from the early construction of the Chesapeake Bay bridge.

Other resolutions passed deal, the most part, with national agricultural problems and relief.

Dairy Feed Schools.

Dr. DeVoe Meade, Animal Husbandry Specialist, University of Maryland, opened Dairy Feed Schools for the Farmers of Hampstead and Manchester communities. These schools will deal with the business of feeding Dairy Cows and the balancing of dairy rations. This is indeed a rare opportunity for the farmers of Carroll County. Here is a charge Carroll County. Here is a chance for the farmer to learn something of the business that is so vital to a great many of our American farmers and this information cannot be secured in such a practical simpler manner in any other way. This is the reason why the Extension Service is bringing such an opportunity to the farmers own door. Carroll County is fortunately situated with respect to .dairying and should be one of the leading counties in this great United States, with respect to dairying. It is the intention of the Extension Service to arrange similar schools at other points in the county says County Agent, L. C.

If a complete water-supply system for the farm home is not within reach it is possible to lighten the housewife's burden to a very material degree by installing an elevated barrel system at small sxpense. In this barrel is placed on a shelf platform somewhat above the level of the kitchen sink. The water is supplied to the barrel by a pipe from the force pump at the well. The water from the barrel flows into the kitchen by gravity. If a complete water supply system can not be installed at once, rural engineers recommend the "step-by-step" or oneunit-at-a-time plan of installation in

AUTO INSURANCE HIGHER

More Speed and Carelessness has Produced Results.

The long expected has happened. Owners of private passenger cars, beginning December 12, will have to pay an increased rate for public liability insurance. The raise for the whole country averages about 16 per cent. For some years past, the rate on this type of insurance has been going down steadily.

The experience ratio on which the new rates are based, covers the period from 1923 to 1927 inclusive. It shows the downward trend stopped and turned abruptly upward in 1925. In 1926, insurance companies as a whole suffered an underwriting loss, and available data for 1927 shows the upward trend of losses is contin-

The new rates were adopted after long and careful study, and the prin-cipal causes which forced upward reision of rates are:

1. More powerful automobiles and greater speed.
2. Increased mileage of improved highways and greater use of automo-

3. Increasing frequency of claims.
4. Growing tendency on part of injured persons to demand larger damages.

5. Marked tendency on part of juries to award larger damages. Every day local newspapers re-count automobile accidents where one or more persons are injured and killby one collision. Accident prevention work has been carried on by railroads, insurance companies, public utilities, private industries, cities and states. If it had not been for this work, rates would have shown a greater increase.

Albert W. Whitney, Acting General Manager of the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, says that praiseworthy results have been accomplished through traffic regulation, strict examination of requirements for drivers, safety cam-paigns among both drivers and pe-destrians, revocation of the driving licenses of operators, and penalties imposed by courts on careless and reckless operators.

"There is much work yet to be done in the field of accident prevention and the insurance companies are among the most enthusiastic in hop-ing that the near future will bring forth results which will justify a downward revision of rates."

The public can co-operate to reduce accidents; or it can disregard safety measures and, in addition to injury and death, it can pay increased insurance rates. The price of carelessness comes high, with or without insurance.

What is Truth, and What is Morality?

"It is neither for man to help nor hinder, but to hold himself ready to do what is right, whatever may be the circumstances. When the age begins to turn, we are too late to stop it, for the causes thereof were set in motion long ago and are now invincible. Nor can we help the new age be born, because we are but creatures of months, and the new age is genera-tions in process of formation. We can but will the Right, not for our particular race or religion or nationality, but the Universal Right, which harms none, and in which each finds its own fulfillment.

One of the principal human duties that devolve during periods of change is the duty of conscious allegiance. What do you, as a personality and in your personality, stand for? And are you standing for it by standing with others who are standing for it? These are questions which are pressing home from many directions today. The bugles of Time are blowing 'Assembly' and men are dividing themselves, each according to the moral

It is not a question of allegiance to opinions or programs or philosophies; it is a question of allegiance to moralities. A man may be hopelessly wrong in all his opinions, but if he is morally right, he is of the stuff of the continuing order of life. On the other hand, a man may be perfectly correct in his opinions and knowledge, and yet everything he does may collapse and die because of moral anemia. In this time of change it is not a question of having the correct economic theory; it is a question of being loyal to the Right. Immoral or unmoral men never yet constructed an enduring social structure, nor enforced a

Many times there is no question familiar with. about it. Right and wrong are so definitely labeled, as to make the question itself most emphatically wrong; but, these times are not always, and we find this truth especially in what Mr. Ford calls "conscious allegiance" as held by different people, all, apparently, equally honest.

We may have set up for ourselves a human ideal-one whom we follow, almost unconsciously, in every word, thought and act. We feel as though we want to silence conscience and just practice faithful allegiance, and many of us do just that.

But, how can anybody constantly determine what is "right" for us? Must there not be times, if we would be "right" with our own conscience, when we must break our allegiance to a friend, or ideal? Surely, there must be. And herein is found the danger of a too blind "sticking to" anybody, any party, or any sentiment.

the part of an individual, each one must largely settle it for himselfconscientiously, willing to stand by Certainly one should first of all base contained in the Book of Books; but, clearly, or at least we can not find their application; and then we must body else, for the solution of the problem that may confront us.

Mr. Ford also says "it is a question of allegiance to moralities," but, here again the same question mark comes in-What are "moralities?" Some are plainly labeled and some of plump and dimpled knee or flapare not; and the same is true of wis- per's cunning ways. dom, honor, truth, and a lot of other good words.

So, as we see it, we should be eternally seeking after genuine "right" and genuine "morality"; getting the will drink of naught beside, to addle the most out of the best folks we not choose to mix my gasoline with know, and the truth out of life's ex- | booze, for if I do I'm sure to lose and seves out of the material thus gained, | thrown out of place, with dents and rality, and follow them, rather than break by neck. those of somebody else, for, by our own works we must be tested finally.

Political Clap-trap in Congress.

The readings of the proceedings of Congress are apt to sound more like a campaign for the Presidency, than the legislative proceedings of dignified bodies; and naturally, the administration being "in," and its acts out in the open, will come in for all sorts of "investigations" and "inquiries" with the hope of finding something on which to make appealing issues before the public.

The "outs", on the other hand, having done little, have little, in the nature of jobs for detective work, and on the face of the open track have the better position, so far as nagging, criticising, and offering better policies are concerned. This is politics. Were party conditions reversed, the Republicans would be doing the same thing the Democrats are doing.

But, the game is so old, and so well known, that very few voters will be fooled over it. The thing that counts, in an ante election situation, is the general condition of things in the country. If business is good, the party in power profits by it, and if business is poor, the party loses by it. And it is this fact that makes the discontent of Western farmers, especially, of such great importance-for the discontent that represents poor business, does influence votes. Mere partisan clap-trap does not.

Why Not Uniform Highway Motor Vehicle Laws?

New regulations of the State Motor Vehicle Code have just gone into effect in Pennsylvania. We do not have them before us, but in some way they cover a reform long urged—a period reserved to pedestrians for crossing the streets without danger or interference by automobiles or trucks. If the new regulation works, it should be adopted by all states.

There ought not be any quibbling over "state's rights" in matters of this kind, for if there is anywhere full desirability for having all laws alike in all states, it should be in the matter of highway regulations. As it is now, we may roll across the lines of three or four states in a day's travel, and each state having different laws; hence, the likelihood not only of accidents, but of violated laws and fines, merely because drivers are not acquainted with the laws.

The general government likely has no authority in such matters; and yet, it may have, at least over such roads The word "right" appears several as are used for mail transportation. times—"do what is right"—"will the But there is no good reason why the states should not all get together and the right". Safety First.

Accident prevention and safety first are being stressed now more than ever before. Public Utilities and industry generally are vitally interested in these all-important subjects and are using every precaution to lessen the number of accidents in their ranks.

Among the leaders in accident prevention work and safety are the telephone companies. Thousands of linemen are constantly engaged in the construction and maintenance of telephone plant which is ever being increased to meet the demands for service. Linemen working on poles high up in the air depend to a large degree on their safety belts to avoid accidents. E. W. Sickafus, writing in the "Safety Belt," a bulletin published in the interests of safer working conditions for 'linemen, writes In the last analysis of "right" on his views on safety in an interesting but unusual vein. His thoughts on this subject follow: "In Safety First I do believe, its the consequences, and without fear. tenets I respect, I hope I'll never have to grieve because of my neglect, his ideas of "right" on the truths to follow out its teachings right, its precepts to obey. What's the Answer?

In a little town in the Virginia suburbs of Washington there is a colored man to whom the fates have been unkind-at least, it is his contention that Lady Luck seldom smiles on him. He can't seem to get a regular job, and is financially embarrassed most of the time. His wife tries to help make both ends meet by doing washing and cleaning for the white folks of the neighborhood, at which she earns three or four dollars a week. There are several children and they are usually without shoes, even in winter. There are times when they are probably without sufficient food. The family lives in a shack that would scarcely make a good barn.

Rather a sad picture, isn't it? But

The father finally secured a job lasting several days and came into possession of thirteen dollars all at one time. Did he go out and buy a shoes for the children? He did not!

Did that foolish father spend his money in drinking and gambling? Not at all!

He took himself and his thirteen dollars into Washington and there in a second-hand store he spent eight of his perfectly good dollars for a dress suit, in order that he might be properly attired for a dance he wanted to attend. When his mother-in-law took him to task for what she considered an unwise expenditure, he remarked that everybody wears 'em, and his wife joined in and said that when she goes to a dance with her husband she wants him to look nice.

Go ahead and laugh. It is amusing. But it has a serious side. This man is merely imitating the thousands of "white folks" who are forever trying to appear what they are not, and constantly going more deeply into debt in the effort.

One young man who heard this true story said he hoped the colored man in question had a good time at the dance. That's all right, too. But it's a bit tough on those barefooted kids.

P. S.—Since writing the above, our washerwoman informs us that the aforesaid colored gentleman is now in jail.—The Transmitter.

Rome's Legendary Tower The medieval Torre delle Militae, sometimes called the Tower of Nero, because of the legend which says that Nero stood on the top of it to look at the spectacle of the city in flames, has been opened to the public, writes the Rome correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor. The legend has, of course, no foundation, and the tower is one of the feudal fortresses of the Twelfth century. A magnificent view of the city, however, can be obtained from its top. It was erected by the sons of Peter Alerius, a baron attached to the party of Senator Pandolfo de Suburra, on the site of a building called "Hostium Militie," hence its present name. It leans to the southwest and was originally much higher, but the earthquake of 1348 brought it to its present dimen-

Bonaparte Heart Won by Baltimore Beauty

Jerome Bonaparte, youngest brother of Napoleon, became the husband of an American woman, because of a bit of old lace, thus bringing the Napoleonic strain to America. Jerome sought refuge in America from English pursuers on the high seas in 1803 and, at a reception in New York, met the girl with whom he was to have an unhappy romance. Not without intention, it is believed, the rare old lace on the gown of Elizabeth Patterson, a beautiful Baltimore woman, became entangled on a button of Bonaparte's coat. Introductions followed and Bonaparte went to Baltimore to pursue his courtship. Later he married Miss Patterson and the young bride followed her husband to France. She was not allowed to land, however, and she went to England, where a child was born. Meantime Napoleon annulled the marriage, placed the erstwhile husband on the throne of Westphalia and forced him to marry a German princess. Though the validity of her marriage was subsequently attested by the pope, Elizabeth Patterson never saw her husband again.-Woman's Home Com-

Contempt for Laugh

Men and women laugh because they are happy or amused. This, at least, has been the universal theory; but a London psychologist comes lorward with the self-contradictory theory that the really happy man never laughs and that the unhappy man cannot laugh. According to this authority, the laugh is a hideous grimace, the smile alone being beautiful and permissible. It all depends upon who does the laughing, whether it is beautiful or comparable to the snarl of the hyena. Perhaps it is because we are so used to laughter, thanks be unto infinite wisdom, that these dicta will strike most of us as the twaddle of a seeker for notoriety. It is true that there are all sorts of laughter, some of it unpleasant and some aroused by a sense of the ludicrous, but in its more welcome sense the word betokens harmless merriment and a reflection of the charm and beauty of living.

Best Gift of All

Surely there are few among usnot one, I hope-who fail to find a great deal of enjoyment, true and unadulterated, in making others happy. Happiness is a rather peculiar thing, you know-in that the more of it we give, the more we have, while the more eagerly and persistently we seek it, for ourselves, the less we have or the surer we are not to find it. That marvelous bluebird, emblematic of happiness, is shy, elusive and not to be caught with the chaft of selfish-seeking. But just get busy "doing something for somebody, quick," adding your mite to the world's store of gladness, and see what happens; In an instant you glimpse the flutter of blue wings, as happiness settles down in your heart | The Birnie Trust Co. The Birnie Trust Co. to stay.-Kansas City Star

The Oldest Tune

The oldest tune in the world is said to be "For he's a jolly good fellow." There are those who declare that this tune was brought back from the East by the Crusaders, and that the ancient Egyptians learned it from the Babylonians. This idea was apparently first suggested by Chateaubriand, who heard Arabs singing what he took to be the tune. The idea is scouted, however, in authoritative dictionaries of music. A more likely circumstance connected with the tune is that, put by the French to their satirical song, "Malbrouk s'en va-t-en guerre," it was the only tune that Napoleon could remember and sing.

Another Problem

A farmer, visiting his son's college and wandering into a chemistry class, saw some students busy with retorts and test tubes.

"What are you trying to do?" he asked.

"We're endeavoring," replied one of the students, "to discover or invent a universal solvent."

"What's that?" asked the farmer. "A liquid that will dissolve anything."

"That's a great idea," agreed the farmer. "When you find it, what are you going to keep it in?"

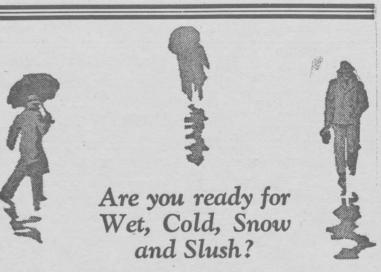

Merely War Slogan? Myths attaching to vivid words born of stressful moments are numerous. The years of the World war produced a great many. Fact became fiction and fiction fact in the effort to sift chaff from wheat. Did Kaiser William ever refer to England's troops as a "contemptible little British army?" A few newspapers in 1914 carried the information that he did, but later investigation failed to authenticate the rumor. It was finally put down as just one mere war slogan.

Understanding

Most of life's troubles come from misunderstandings. If we know each other we shall understand each other: if we shall understand each other we shall trust each other; if we trust each other we shall work together in unity of purpose; if we work together in unity of purpose there is nothing worth while which we cannot accomplish.-David H. Blair.

"Hick Town" Birthplace of Nation's Greatest

The so-called hick town has lately become a source of great inspiration to our professional humorists.

A hick town, say the various users of this convenient formula, is a place where a backfire is never mistaken for a pistol shot; where bedtime is orthodox; where woodpeckers eat up the depot; where central can tell you whether it was a girl or a boy; where the neighbors will supply you with a conscience if you lack one; where there is no parking problem; where a curfew disturbs the residents' rest; where fine-cut tobacco is no handicap socially, and so on and on.

With no intention of becoming terribly heavy over the matter, we want to add that a hick town is a place where twenty-six of our twenty-nine Presidents were born and where seven out of ten of the immortals in New York's national hall of fame originated. A hick town that didn't have a name produced Lincoln. Hick towns gave us most of our great literary figures of the past and practically all of those now living. Hick towns produce

If we may, then we would like to suggest that a hick town is a place where a boy has an excellent opportunity to lay the foundation of future greatness.—Camas (Wash.) Post.

City Planning Makes

Headway in Country More than 500 cities and towns in the United States ranging from the largest to communities of less than 5,000 population are "planning their growths and are growing according to plan," Mrs. Theodora Kimball Hubbard, honorary librarian of the American City Planning institute, reports in the annual survey of city planning during 1926 which appears in City Planning. This is the largest number yet reported as being active in municipal planning, Mrs. Hubbard says, and it includes all of the largest cities in the United States, including three-fourths of the 60 larger cities, and nearly 140 towns of less than 5,000 persons. The institute's map of states also shows pronounced planning activity in 27 states and the District of Columbia, fair activity in 16 and slight activity in the remaining 5. "At last," writes Mrs. Hubbard, "there is no state nor any one of the 60 largest cities in the country to be reported entirely lacking in some form of city planning or zoning work."

Home Value Praised

One authority on home ownership says: "Half the pleasure and satisfaction of owning a home of your own is in entertaining relatives and friends.

"These gatherings of the clansthese old-home weeks, when birds fly from many points of the compass to meet at the home nest-are precious events, and unforgettable memories come to life and scenes endeared by recollection are re-enacted.

"Will the home smile a cheerful welcome? Will it suggest prosperity and comradeship? Will it be the sort of home you can be genuinely proud of? Then, too, your house should be rather beautifully 'human' and possess its own personality as a reflection of your

Industries and Taxes

A most excellent example of what industry means to a community is shown in the town of Rowe in Massachusetts, where increased holdings by a power company have enabled the assessors to cut the tax rate squarely in half, from $30 to $15. This should attract more industry, which would mean more citizens and a trend to a still lower rate. Low taxes seem to bear about the same relationship to a community that high wages and mass production do to industry.—Christian Science Monitor.

Pavements Tell Story

It is quite remarkable how much can be accomplished, especially in the smaller civic centers, by the encouragement of community spirit, and as one tours the country those towns and cities where community spirit is dead are at once noticeable. Streets that should be paved are not paved, boulevards and parks are ill-kept, schoolhouses do not have that fresh and inviting appearance which they should have. In fact, there's even a crack in the town clock!

Helping Out Motorists

One of the latest aids to motorists in California is a special patrol service to remove bits of broken glass from the highways. A man with motorcycle and sidecar keeps constant vigil over the roads, sweeping up fragments of glass, etc., that are likely to puncture tires. The plan will, no doubt, save autoists thousands of dollars annually.-Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Trouble With the Town

The trouble with so many of our "town boosters" is that they want the paper to do all the boosting and the Ladies' Aid society to do all the work .- Glen Elder (Kan.) Sentinel.

HERBERT B. DODRER, Defendant.

The object of this suit is for Ethel E. Dodrer, plaintiff, to procure a decree of divorce a vinculo matrimonii from Herbert B. Dodrer, the defendant.

The bill states that the said Ethel E. Dodrer is a resident of Carroll County, Maryland, where she has resided for more than two years last past; that the defendant Herbert B. Dodrer is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, and, when last heard of was, residing in Decatur, Illinois; that the said Ethel E. Dodrer was married to the said Herbert B. Dodrer on February 12th., 1921, in Carroll County, Maryland, by the Reverend Arthur C. Day, a minister of the Gospel; that the said Ethel E. Dodrer and Herbert B. Dodrer lived together in said Carroll County as man and wife from the date of their marriage untill December 4th., 1923, at which time, without any just cause or reason, the said Herbert B. Dodrer abandoned and deserted his said wife, although her conduct towards him had always been kind, affectionate and above reparas prior to the filing of the bill in this cause, and is deliberate and final, and the separation of the parties is beyond any reasonable expectation of reconcilation, and that there was born of said marriage ason, Henry L. Dodrer, aged about five years, and which child is now living with the said Ethel E. Dodrer may be divorced a vinculo matrimonii from the said Herbert B. Dodrer; that the said Ethel E. Dodrer may have such other and further relief as her case may require.

It is therefore this 14th. day of December in the year nineteen hundred and twenty-seven, by the Circuit Court for Carroll County, sitting in Equity, ordered that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Carroll County, Maryland, once a week for four successive weeks before the 16th. day of January, 1928, give notice to Herbert B. A Happy New Year.

What will you do in the year that is Will you make it a happy New Year to you?

Will you keep your heart full of sunshine, dear? Though skies be cloudy and days be drear,

Will you help the mother and lighten her care?
Be ready in duties to take your share?
Will you aim to make little ones happy and glad?

Be cheery and hopeful when others are sad? Will you strive to be gentle, brave, and sweet

And to follow the Master with willing feet? If this you do in the year that is new 'Twill be truly a happy New Year to

In Loving Remembrance of MRS. EMMA U. REIFSNIDER, who died January 6, 1928

Dear mother how I miss you Since from earth you passed away And my heart is aching sorely As I think of you each day.

By my fireside sad and lonely Memory's thoughts will not be stilled But God's lesson must be studied In his love this task he willed. Mother you are not forgotten Never will your memory fade Sweetest thoughts will ever linger Round the grave where you are laid. By her son, LeROY REIFSNIDER.

Farewell, farewell grand-mother dear No more on earth we see you here But in that world so bright and fair I hope to meet grandmother there.

By her grand-daughter,

RUTH REIFSNIDER.

WOMAN JUDGE IS ALLY OF CUPID

South Carolina Jurist Has Issued 10,000 Licenses.

Greenville, S. C.—Cupid's greatest ally in a state which has no divorce laws is Mrs. Fannie Davis Scott, judge of Probate in Greenville county. She is still a young woman, but during the seven years she has been in office she has issued more than 10,000 marriage licenses and performed many of the ceremonies. She advises with virtually every couple that comes for a license and occasionally when some of them come back later reporting their marriage is about to "go on the rocks," she tries to relieve the trouble. Usually she succeeds.

"If you are not happy apart," she sometimes tells them, "there must be a reason, and that reason is love." Interference of parents or other persons and the difficult task of adjusting personalities are given by Mrs. Scott as two of the principal causes of trouble in the lives of the newly married. Issuance of marriage licenses is only one of the duties of her court. She handles juvenile delinquency cases and also presides at lunacy hearings. All wills in the county are filed in her office.

Regarded as one of the leading women in South Carolina, Mrs. Scott has held office since 1921. The following year three men decided they wanted her job. She defeated them. While Mrs. Scott performs some of the marriage ceremonies, she turns most of them over to Assistant Judge of Probate J. P. Ballenger.

Ocean Holds Account of Columbus' Voyage

When Christopher Columbus returned to Spain from the New world, he stopped on February 14, 1493, at Santa Maria, one of the islands of the Azores, probably to take water. Four days before this he had encountered a severe storm and was convinced that he, his men and his vessels must perish. Columbus realized in his heart that he was going back to Spain with news of a discovery second in importance to no other, and when it seemed that his ship would sink at any moment, he set to work to make a record of his mighty undertaking, hoping that by some will of the fates it would not be lost to posterity. So he carefully prepared as complete an account of his voyage as was possible. He wrote the details of his journey on a stout piece of parchment, wrapped it in a piece of waterproof cloth, then placed it in an iron-bound barrel and threw it into the ocean. But the fates were kinder to Columbus than to this account, for it never was found .- S. W. Rosenbach, in the Saturday Evening Post.

Sense and Philosophy

A colored man being interviewed by authorities in regard to a shooting affray gave to the world this bit of philosophy:

"Ah didn't see nothin' so ah don't know nothin'!

"You all know, boss, I spends six months of every year 'tendin' mah own business and ah spends the other six months of the year tryin' to keep from 'tendin' other people's business, so all in all, I'se a busy man."-Birmingham Age-Herald.

Earning Praise or Blame

What people say of us after we are dead matters little so far as we are concerned. What they say of us while living may be of utmost importance to us. Yet for the one as well as for the other we are very largely responsible.

Creations of Dickens

Real to the Author

Many of Charles Dickens' creations were worse than nightmares, as all strong characters in fiction must necessarily be. They were daymares. They were with him in his long mechanical walks, governed by milestones and timed by a stop-watch. He was glad of a congenial companion to exorcise these spirits. They came ack to him in the evening, and in the head of night they often moved him to rise and walk that long tramp's tramp of 27 miles from Tavistock square to Gadshill through the mists of early morning.

In writing his strongest characters, Dickens always acted them. He could hardly do otherwise with his dramatic temperament and the dramatic nature of his works. Why more dramas have never been manufactured out of these works is found in the fact that they contained too much dramatic and "objective" material than too little.

From this creation of dramatic fiction the step to dramatic recitation was easy and simple. It was always a mistake to call these efforts "readings." They were the most dramatic recitations. - Cleveland Plain

Fosters Nature Study

The move made by Rev. Joseph Murgas, pastor of a Slovak congregation in North Wilkesbarre, Pa., to bring the children of the parish, and all others who care to avail themselves of the opportunity into closer touch with nature, is worthy of special commendation. The pastor, says Nature Magazine, has secured a tract of 30 acres here bird and plant life are to be propagated and encouraged, and all phases of nature fostered for their educational inspirational value.

"I looked at a good many. In fact, I almost set up housekeeping in several and cleaned the dens out, but I didn't like them finally. I thought I could get a nicer home.'

"Dear Mr. Wolf, would anyone imagine that the wild and dangerous and blood-thirsty wolf would talk about the weather," Mrs. Wolf chuckled.

"Ah, they don't know," said Mr. Wolf. "They do not know how we are when we are at home. We love each other so.

SUPERSTITIONS

SPOTS IN FINGER NAILS

SOMETIMES upon examining your finger nails you will see a little white spot which, as the nail grows. moves slowly toward the finger's end. The superstitious will tell you that the little, white spot means money coming to you, due to arrive when the white spot reaches the end of the nail -a very common superstition.

Sir Thomas Browne (1605-1682) mentions it as being very ancient in his day and ascribes its origin to the tendency which people have to consider any bodity symptom which they do not understand as a prophecy. The "British Apollo" in 1708 published a learned article scoffing at the superstitution and explaining that the white spots in the nails were "glittering particles," generally mixed with the red particles of the blood, but which had happened to get loose. Medical science was evidently badly equipped to battle with superstition in those

But the superstition in question dated away back into the primitive ages when man's hair and nails, living and growing parts of himself, were held to be peculiarly connected with his destiny. A white spot slowly advancing up the nail must mean something; as the spot was white the "something" was probably good. As time passed and man began to use currency the good was conjectured to be money. A regular cult grew up of divination by the finger nails under the name of onychomancy and as we know from Plautus, the educated Roman of 2,000 years ago watched the spots on his nails with the same interest as the most superstitious Yan-

JESUS AND SINNERS

LESSON TEXT-Mark 2:1-17. GOLDEN TEXT—I came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repent-

PRIMARY TOPIC-Jesus Forgives & JUNIOR TOPIC-Jesus Heals and INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOP-

IC-Jesus Shows His Sympathy and YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOP-IC—Jesus' Power to Make Whole.

I. Jesus Preaching the Word (VV 1, 2).

1. The surging crowd (v. 2). So great was the crowd gathered about the house where Jesus was stopning, that there was no room to received them. As soon as it was noised about that Jesus was in the house, the multitudes gathered.

2. What Jesus preached unto them

He preached unto them the Word of God. He always preached the Word before He wrought miracles, for to make known the will of God was His supreme mission. Miracles were not an end in themseives, but to authenticate His work. The people came, some to be healed, and some out of curiosity. He gave them that which they needed, regardless of the motive which actuated their coming.

11. Jesus Forgiving Sins (vy. 3-5) The man brought to Him was suffering from the dread disease of palsy, but his most deadly affliction was that of sin. This miracle was wrought by Jesus in confirmation of His mesdifficulties 2. Faith overcoming (v. 4).

1. Faith coming to Jesus (v. 3). The actuating impulse of the palsied man and the four friends who carried him was faith.

Though prevented by the crowd from coming to Jesus, they ascended the outer stairway and let the afflicted man down through the roof. 3. Faith rewarded (v. 5).

No word was uttered either by the paralytic or his bearers. Their action was enough. The paralytic got more than he expected. He desired healing of the body and he got bodily healing plus forgiveness of sins.

III. Jesus Answering the Scribes

1. Their objections (vv. 6, 7). They asked:

(1) Why does He thus speak? (2)

Who can forgive sin? They were entirely right in their reasonings that only God can forgive sins. Their blunder was in not perceiving Him to be God.

2. Jesus' answer (vv. 8-10). He knew their inner thoughts and reasonings and manifested unto them His essential deity in that He had power to know their thoughts. He inquired, "Which is easier to say, thy sins be forgiven thee, or to say, arise and take up thy bed and walk? But that ye may know that the Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins, He saith to the sick of the palsy, I say unto thee, Arise, and take up thy bed, and go thy way into thine house.' He was willing that His power in the invisible realm should be tested by His power in the visible.

IV. Jesus Healing the Paralytic (vv. 11, 12).

1. His healing was by the direct method-speaking the Word (v. 11). Christ's words are enough. With the command was given the strength to obey. That which Christ commands He gives the strength to perform.

2. The obedience of the man (v. 12). He immediately arose, took up his bed and went forth before them all. The poor helpless man walked away with his bed upon his shoulder.

3. The people were amazed, and glorified God (v. 12). They said, "We never saw it on this fashion."

V. Jesus Eating With Publicans and Sinners (vv. 13-17).

1. The call of Levi (v. 14). Levi was a tax-gatherer under the Roman government. As Jesus passed by, He commanded Levi to leave his business and follow Him.

2. Jesus dining in Levi's house (v. 15). It seems that Levi, when he found the Savior, invited many of his business associates to eat with him. This gave an opportunity to Jesus to come into touch with these sin-

3. The perplexed scribes and pharisees (v. 16). They asked, "How is it that He eateth and drinketh with publicans and sinners?"

4. Jesus' reply (v. 17). "They that are whole have no need of the phy:ician. I came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance.'

VELVETEEN GOOD STREET DRESS

Equally Appropriate for Student or Office Girl.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Equally appropriate for the student at college or the girl who goes to an office every day, is this attractive costume of grayish green velveteen. Velveteen is a serviceable fabric, the bureau of home economics says. It is made of cotton, yet it is warm enough to wear until late in the fall without an extra wrap, and under an outer coat all winter. The dress illustrated is a two-piece model, and the coat is really the waist, for the tan blouse is only a vest. Corduroy, which is cotton fabric similar to velveteen but with a ribbed surface, might also have been used successfully in developing this costume. The simulated blouse is made of beige cotton poplin. Pongee might have been used. Light tan gloves, hose and purse, harmonize with the blouse. A brown leather belt with a pearl buckle consists of green machine stitching in mercerized cotton. Chain stitch was used. Pin tucks would also be effective.

The skirt is slightly full at the sides and back and has three plaits in front to give additional walking and sitting room. It is set on an underwaist of lawn. The costume is completed by a small black hat and

CAKE FROSTING OR ICING EASILY MADE

Always Turns Out Well If Directions Followed.

(Prepared by the United States Department

A cooked cake frosting or icing that lways turns out well can be made very easily if the directions below, furnished by the bureau of home economics are carefully followed:

Vanilla Frosting.

1 cup granulated 1 egg white. sugar. Pinch of salt. teaspoon va-4 tablespoons cold 1/2 water.

Put the sugar, water, and unbeaten egg-white into the upper part of a double boiler. Have the water in the lower part boiling. Commence beating the mixture with a dover egg beater at once and beat constantly while it cooks for about seven or eight minutes. It should then appear just like ordinary boiled frosting and should be almost thick enough for spreading. Take it from the stove and continue to beat about five minutes or until it has thickened. Add the vanilla. This is sufficient to ice a three-layer cake

If the icing proves to be insufficiently cooked it may be placed in the double boiler and be recooked for a short time. Or if it is too stiff, add a small quantity of water and cook again.

For chocolate frosting melt two and half squares of unsweetened chocolate and pour into the above mixture just before removing it from the fire. Beat until thick and then spread. Vanilla is also used.

For caramel frosting caramelize half cupful of additional sugar, then add a few tablespoonfuls of boiling water. A thin dark sirup will result. Substitute about two tablespoonfuls of this sirup in place of two tablespoonfuls of water, or such an amount as will produce the desired flavor, and then continue as in making vanilla frosting, adding the vanilla last.

LOVELY FABRICS TEMPT THE HOME SEWER

The Home Sewer Can Make Rapid Progress in Stitching Cotton Fabrics.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Spring sewing is not the bugbear it used to be. For one thing, few people expect to settle down to a fortnight of hard labor, either with or without a dressmaker by the day, in order to outfit the feminine members of the family for the summer months. As early as January the new spring and summer materials begin to appear in the stores, and the average woman who has a normal love of attractive and appropriate warm weather clothing for herself and her daughters. gets into the habit of picking up a dress length whenever she sees a pat tern that she likes.

There is a bewildering array of cotton fabrics from which to choose this year. Styles are simple, and most of these materials are easy to work with. The majority of them have a firm close weave and smooth finish, so that the home sewer can make rapid progress in cutting out and stitching up without much basting, or other time taking, fussy work. As fast as the new materials come home, they can b converted into pleasing dresses by utilizing odd hours. If you have a sewing machine, and a little sewing room, where you can leave half-fin ished work at short notice, and pic' it up again when you have a bit o spare time, you will find that the spring wardrobe is completed as if by magic. Even a sewing corner in a room used for other purposes is satis factory, if you have nearby a closet or chest of drawers for materials and partly made garments.

A generous supply of easily laun dered cotton summer dresses costs but little and adds immensely to comfort and a sense of well-being during the hot months. For morning wear, the bureau of home economics suggests some of the printed materials in cheerful patterns, like zephyrs, or percales, or any of the numerous varieties of gingham, or crepe, madras, broadcloth. or cotton suitings. All of these are practical and suitable for plain housework dresses, including the ever-useful bungalow aprons, and smocks; also for sports costumes or for business wear. The old idea that one cculdn't go downtown on a hot day in a gingham or print dress has been abandoned.

Don't limit your cotton dresses to the mornings only. Look over the tempting array of sheer fabrics like voile, plain and printed; charmeuse. batiste, dimity in dainty flower patterns, lawn printed in small figures. dotted swiss, and tissue gingham. Afternoon dresses pretty enough for calling or for porch parties can be de veloped in any of these materials. For very special occasions and summer evenings, there is organdie in delicate pastel shades for the younger girls. dignified voiles, net, and lace for those of mature years.

Western Maryland College

1925 FINANCIAL CAMPAIGN

Last Payment on Pledges Due February 1, 1928.

To The Citizens of Carroll County.

We are writing the last paragraph of the last Chapter of the history of the 1925 Financial Campaign for Western Maryland College.

The campaign was inaugurated in May 1925. The date set for the conclusion of the campaign is February 1, 1928—only two weeks off.

Our contract with the Rockefeller Foundation requires that the entire $375,000 subscribed shall be paid in by the time indicated if the College is to receive their gift of $125,000.

The apportionment for Carroll County was $100,000. Toward this amount $90,075.29 were subscribed, and of the amount subscribed $63,529.61 have been paid in. This leaves a balance of $26,545.68 to be collected by February 1st.,

Another condition of the Rockefeller contract is that all debts on the College must be cleared before the Rockefeller Foundation will pay over any part of their gift. Therefore, the College cannot borrow on subscriptions made and not paid. That would constitute a debt, and would vitiate the contract. Our subscribers may borrow if necessary, but the College cannot borrow. And since there is no margin of subscriptions to fall back upon, it means that the College must collect one hundred cents on the dollar in order to receive the Rockefeller appropriation which was made conditionally.

There will be a deficit of approxmately $15,000 in the campaign receipts, caused by the death of certain subscribers and financial reverses on the part of others. This is a small shrinkage when we think of the large amount involved and the fact that more than three thousand persons made subscriptions. In addition to the approximated deficit of $15,000, the President of the College underwrote $7,000 in order to bring the total subscriptions to $375,000, as required by the Rockefeller Foundation. This underwriting will be made good by February 1st., 1928.

At a meeting of the Committee of One Hundred, held in Baltimore on

At a meeting of the Committee of One Hundred, held in Baltimore on Armistice Day, it was decided to ask each member of this Committee to raise $150.00 to meet the approximated deficiency of $15.000. Carroll County 30 members on this Committee, which would make Carroll County's share, $4,500.

We, therefore, appeal to all subscribers to meet their subscriptions in full by February 1st., 1928. And we furthermore appeal to the citizens of the County who have not made subscriptions to do so now in the closing days of the campaign. We cannot afford to lose the Rockefeller gift. It means much to the prestige of the College and to the credit of the County that Western Maryland College shall win out in this great undertaking. Including the appropriation of $125,000 from the Stockefeller Foundation, more than $500,000 will come to Western Maryland College from subscribers outside of the County, if this campaign is successful. It will create the finest sort of feeling on the part of our friends outside of the County it Carroll County will meet their gifts of more than $500,000 by a full $100,000 from our County to the Endowment Fund of Western Maryland College. This can be done if our friends throughout the County will come to our help at this time.

We must not lose the Rocekefeller gift. The beroic efforts made by those who have worked in the campaign, the sacrifices made by the friends of the College, and the opportunity to have a part in the making of a Greater Western Maryland College, and the opportunity to have a practices made by the friends of the College, and the opportunity to have a practices made by the friends of the College, and the opportunity to have a practices made by the friends of the College, and the opportunity to have a practices made by the friends of the College, and the opportunity to have a practices made by the friends of the College, and the opportunity to have a practices and by the friends of the College, and the opportunity of the campaign over. A Personal Note.

With the beginning of the New Year, The Carroll Record feels like striking a personal note—personal to ourselves, as well as to the Taney-town community; a note that urges greater co-operation in the interest of the "home" paper. Our folks are a bit too conservative; too lacking in community spirit.

Every community is judged by its newspaper, which makes it a partnership affair,, and call, for co-operation—for active help—rather than the stand-off policy that amounts to "daring it" to succeed.

The weekly newspaper job is getting to be a harder one every year. There are numerous powerful forces engaged in trying to drive it out of the field altogether, among which is the daily paper that wants to monopolize the newspaper business entire-

Don't you believe that the city and big town influence is about strong enough. Don't you believe that the influence—the advantage—of the city, is more against the country districts than for them. Don't you see that ing up country school houses, making help scarce, and many prices high?

The country weekly stands for its home people. It not only wants to do so, but for business reasons, it must. It seems to us only fair, therefore, that the home people should back-up its best friend.

The Gospel Messenger, the organ of the Church of the Brethren, gives the following strong testimonial to a new and beautiful picture, which we take pleasure in indorsing. We have seen the picture, and personally know Mr. Sowers, the publisher of it, and fully recommend both.

"Behold" is the title of a unique picture by S. W. Sowers, of Hagerstown, Md. The principal and central figure is that of Jesus passing the emblems of his broken body and shed blood to kneeling applicants. In the foreground is this artistically letterd inscription "Take eat: this is my nscription "Take, eat; this is my is the smaller figure of Christ on the lump sugar and the elephants."

"When I was your age," remarked his father, "I could have a heap of fun with a bag of lump sugar without trayal of the central truth of the country of the central truth of the central tru Gospel. In conception and execution it is a fine piece of work. Suitably framed it measures 15½x12 1/2 in. To Missionary Societies or other church organizations the author will be glad to quote very attractive.

Mr. Sowers would be glad, to interest suitable canvassers for the picture, to whom he can offer very attractive terms. Especially, those interested in church society work would likely find this a means, not allee samee dead. No spoilee Sunday dinner," he threatened. The ice box, finally opened, contained only lating a beautiful and impressive
