FIREMEN'S CONVENTION NEXT WEEK

Thursday, May 24. in Taneytown All-day and at Night.

Everything is set for a big day in Taneytown, next Thursday, May 24, when the Fire Companies of the County will hold their annual convention in the forenoon, made up of a formal program followed by a business session. At 12 o'clock dinner will be served to the delegates, as well as to the general public, up to

In the afternoon from 1:00 to 1:30 the second session of the convention will be held; after which the general public will be interested in a big parade of the Firemen, truck races for prizes, and other events. Supper will be served from 5:00 to 7:00 o'clock, and a bazaar will be held up to 11:00 o'clock, followed by a dance.

On Friday there will be a bazaar from 5:00 to 11:00 P. M., and at 6:00 o'clock a comic auto parade, with first and second prizes. There will also be a bazaar on Saturday evening from 5:00 to 11:00.

The Senseney Burying Ground.

Through the thoughtfulness of our friend Jesse W. Fuss, who knows our fondness for "old time" articles, we can give the full list of interments in the old family burying ground on the former John E. Senseney farm—now owned by his son G. Ernest Senseney—located in the field in front of the former Priestland school house on the road from Linwood to McKinstry's

The Senseney grave yard was started four generations ago, by Christian Senseney; whose descendants were Washington, then John E. and now G. The yard has of course been but little used since the regular cemeteries connected with churches have become so numerous. It may be of interest to know that the name "Priestland" is said to have represented, many years ago, a site at first chosen for a Catholic institution and community, but which for some reason was abandoned.

Other old family burying grounds, in the neighborhood, are on the Parrish farm, and the Wolfe grave yard near the Quaker Meeting House. Due to the scarcity of churches and their accompanying burial places, the farm hundred or more years ago.

Annual K. of P. Picnic.

The third annual picnic of Westminster Company No. 16, Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, will be held on the Taneytown Fair Grounds, on Wednesday, July 11th Committees are working and great preparations are being made for this year's event. The attendance last year was estimated at 8000. A much larger crowd is There has always been so expected this year.

There will be several fast and interesting harness races in the afternoon. Bands of music, orchestra, entertainers, pony rides, games, airplane rides, dancing, fireworks, midway—amusements for everybody. The committee promises many new features this year. This is considered the big event of the year, and no doubt draws the largest crowd.

The Classis will meet next year in Grace Reformed Church, this city, at a time to be set by the official board.

SUICIDE BY HANGING Man Found Dead on LeGore Farm Sunday Afternoon.

One of the world's wanderers, who one of the world's wanderers, who evidently concluded to "end it all," was found dead, hanging to a tree, in a small grove on the LeGore farm, tenanted by Oscar Sentz, on the Taneytown-Littlestown road, last Sunday afternoon. The body was found by two boys who had been out to round-up some cows, and who did not at first realize what had happened, but on being joined by another boy, found the man to be dead.

Clarence Mayers, who lives on the adjoining farm, was notified, and found the man had hanged himself by using a holdingback strap to buggy harness, and that he had likely com-mitted the deed several days previously. Mr. Mayers notified the county authorities, and Coroner R. E. Lee Hutchins responded, but did not consider an inquest necessary.

Investigation showed that the dead man appeared to have been a peddler, as he had a satchel containing safety pins, shoe laces, etc., and bills were found on his person made out to Jos. Miller, from a wholesale firm in Reading, Pa. His pockets also contained a watch, pocket knife, and 50 cents in change. The man's name was evidently Miller, but his having bought goods in Reading, does not necessarily mean that he belonged there. He was apparently about 65 years of age, about 6 feet tall, weighed about 160 lbs. and had gray hair and mustache.

C. O. Fuss & Son, undertakers, took the body in charge, and as no claimant appeared after notifying the Reading authorities, it was buried in the Lutheran cemetery, on Tuesday at the expense of the county.

Making it Parents' Day.

This year the movement to make Mothers' Day do double duty seems to be gaining force. There are two reasons why this tendency is commendaccompanying burial places, the farm able. In the first place the calendar grave yards were quite common a is becoming burdened with "days" for everything under the sun, and there is constant pressure from one organized group or another that new ones shall be set apart for the special glorification of whatever the immediate interest of each happens to be. In the second place, to make one day serve for commenoration of Mother and Father both is only fair recognition that fatherhood as well as motherhood deserves honor for fulfilling

There has always been something repugnant to the whole theory and practice of American national existence in the effort to set differences and draw distinctions between the value of the parents to the family or to society. In this era of complete acknowledgement of the citizenship of woman, there is certainly no lingering justification for any such definition.

The unit of American life and government is the family. This means Father, not less than Mother. Nor does the somewhat changed economic status of woman apart from the domestic establishment, in the least modify the responsibility. In fact, in proportion as woman has come out of the home into professional or industrial or commercial life, there has been actually an increasing paternal concern for the child and the family. Today, just the same as fifty or 100 years ago, the basis of the family is not material or paternal, but parental. Parents' Day, and not Mothers' or Fathers' Day, seems to be in order.—Phila. Soup and Dinner Business Causes Pastor to Quit.

A Congregationalist minister, in Omaha, Neb., has left his pastorate and joined the Baptist Church, for the reason that there was "too much soup and dinner business" engaged in by the Women's Association of his church.

THE STATE ROAD FUND DISCLOSURES.

Startling Charges Made Must be Investigated.

The Baltimore Grand Jury closed its investigations, last Friday, of the State Road fund shortage, having found an increase of $61,000 over the shortage already made known, or $127,000 in all. The investigation covered the period from October 1, 1925 to March 1 this year, and all of the shortage is said to have been chargeable to the same men who had been previously convicted. The additional sum found was not included, in figures, in the report of the grand jury, but was made public by State's Attorney O'Conor who thinks it only fair to the jury and the public that the findings should be made known.

On Thursday of this week, attorney Richard B. Tippett, who had defended two of the men already convicted, appeared before Gov. Pitchie, chairman Mackall, Attorney-General Robinson, and others, and charged that the total of the sum improperly used, or stolen amounted to over $1,000,000.

Mr. Tippett started with the charge that in a list of twelve contracts awarded to one firm during the last four years $106,000 was spent without authorization by the commission. He then proceeded to detail twenty specifications in which he charged State money had been illegally used

Mr. Mackall made various replies and explanations, during which Mr.
Tippett continued to make specific charges of losses and irregularities, too extensive for our publication. To-ward the close of the session, while Mr. Tippett was questioning Chairman Mackall the Governor interrupted to say;

"I want you to know that I am Governor of this State and accept full responsibility for the investigation,"

With this Mr. Tippett proceeded to question Mr. Mackall about the automobiles purchased by the commission. Mr. Mackall figured that the commission now had invested in automobiles

Governor Ritchie declined to make any comment following Mr. Tippett's statement. He said all along during Mt. Tippett's delivery of the charges ster, on Thursday, May 24. that he would investigate each of SCHOOLS ATHLETIC MEET A Complete Success last Saturday on County Fair Ground.

The annual athletic program of the public schools of Carroll County, that was held last Saturday on the Fair Grounds, at Taneytown, was pronounced a complete success, even by those who were skeptical about hold-ing the event at another place than on the W. M. College ground. As a matter of fact, there is not another place so well adapted in every way for such events, anywhere in Western Maryland, and the trial occasion on Saturday fully demonstrated it. The crowd was variously estimated at 5000 to 6000. There was plenty of room of just the right sort, not only for all of the events, but for all other purposes, and an abundance of shelter in case of rain, which fortunately came the day before. The refresh-ment problem was well handled by the Taneytown and several other schools, though this part of the program was very much in the nature of a first experiment.

Twenty-three schools participated, with Sykesville first, far in the lead of Westminster school for second place, while Hampstead came third, and the other schools followed closely in the number of points won.

"Inside" Information for Women.

Float them in a bowl of water, and skim them off the top, letting the sand sink to the bottom. Wash off the top of the bottle before pouring out milk. Every rise in the temperature of the milk due to its standing about in a warm room aids in the development of the bacteria that cause souring. Stains from fresh fruits or berries on white cottons and linens may often be removed if attended to promptly. Stretch the stained part over a large bowl, holding it in place with a string or an elastic band. Pour boiling water on the spot from a teakettle held 3 or 4 feet higher than the bowl, so that the water strikes the stain with some force. Sometimes it is necessary to alternate a little rubbing with the hot water treatment. Lemon juice and sunlight will usually remove the last traces of stain on these white materials.

PRESIDENT SIGNED FLOOD BILL.

Congress will be Responsible for Immense Cost.

President Coolidge has signed the amended Flood Relief Bill, thereby placing the responsibility on Congress should it prove to be—as some think-largely a raid on the Treasury, which will partly, if not largely, be for the benefit of private interests, and the end, or cost of which, nobody knows, but likely greatly over $1,000,-

The President did not favor the bill, but it was improved by joint ac-tion of the Senate and House which cut out perhaps many millions of dollars. As the operation of the law will be largely under the control of the government and army engineers, it may be held within something like proper bounds. Anyway both branches of Congress voted strongly for it, and the blame if any, in its opera-tions, will attach solely to the legislative branch of the government.

As it is, the Federal Government assumes almost the whole cost of this great engineering project. The States probably will not contribute more than $500,000 to pay for levee foundations on the main river. As the work will cover many years, the law itself may be amended, later, if found

A THREAT, OR A JOKE

Prof. Wm. J. Heaps, Baltimore, Receives a Startling Letter.

Prof. Wm. James Heaps, Balti-more, principal of Milton College, State Secretary of the Patriotic Order Sons of America, and Editor of "Sons of America," who is well known throughout Carroll County, recently received the following letter from Los Angeles, Calif.

"If you publish any articles of any kind about as we will blow up your place and kill you, and we don't mean maybe. Keep your mouth shut and keep your step. We mean business— The Dope Ring."

Prof. Heaps turned the letter over to the Postmaster at Baltimore, who referred it to the Narcotic Squad, and from there the story got into the Bal-timore papers. The letter was dated April 28. Whether the P. O. D. ,is investigating the case, is of course not

Maryland Crop Conditions.

The condition of wheat in Maryland on May 1 was 78% of normal. Abandonment of 3.5% as reported for the State would leave approximately 540,-000 acres for harvest this year. This acreage with the condition of 78 would indicate a production of about 8,635,-000 bushels, says S. R. Newell, Fed-eral Agricultural Statistician for Maryland.

The weather conditions up to May 1 have not been favorable to May 1 have not been favorable to the wheat crop. Combined precipitation for February, March and April has been heavy, the temperature during March and April cool, and the snow cover very inadequate. The result cover very inadequate. The result has been considerable winter killing and abandonment above average. The condition has been worse in the north western counties where abandonment was reported heaviest, proceeding southeast condition improves and abandonment decreases. The highest condition and lowest abandonment being reported from the Southern counties of the eastern shore.

Much depends upon the weather from now on. Prolonged wet weather at heading time is apt to prove disadvantageous and may lower the final production below the indication at this time, while comparatively dry weather at heading time with no pro-longed damp periods may prove bene-ficial and the outturn better than the present forecast.

Rye conditions improved somewhat during the past month. Rye being hardier has apparently weathered the adverse weather of the winter better than wheat, and the forecasted production on a acreage 7% larger than last year is about 5% above a year ago.

Money Still Talking.

With all of the "investigating" of with all of the "Investigating" of election expenditures going on, evidence this week points to the fact that money is still "talking" or "willing to talk". The Senate has voted an inquiry into the campaign for the nominar's actual wage in Philadelphia. a plurality of 20,000 in a five cornered contest. It is claimed that too much money was spent.

And the committee investigating the expenses of candidates for the Presidency, brought out the informa-tion that four Tammany Democrats are willing to spend their fortunes, totaling $100,000,000, to nominate and elect Governor Smith president.

And the primary election law was expected to do away with all of this, and "let the people rule" without the danger of nominations being bought? Senator Bruce Speaks out on Prohibition.

Senator Bruce, of Maryland, who is up for re-election this fall, in a speech in the Senate, on Tuesday, made it clear that he is not afraid to let it be known that he does not intend to hedge on the subject of prohibition. He said in part:

"I am coming up for re-election, and timid politicians of my party tell me I had better pussyfoot and soft pedal ecause there are a lot of prohibitionists in Maryland. I meet the suggestion with scorn. What care I whether I go down to defeat or not as long as I shall not be recreant to the profoundest convictions that have ever found lodgment in my mind."

Primary Campaign Contributions.

The testimony before the Senate committee by presidential candidates and their managers continues to suggest the comparatively low cost of campaigning, 1928 model. Following the statement that $103,310 has been raised for Governor Smith and $92,090 spent, one friend contributing $70,000, Mr. Good, head of the Hoover national organization, reports receiving $50,150 and spending $42,032. In his opinion, the total expenditures of the various State Hoover clubs will not exceed $250,000. Mr. Good regards this as "very modest, indeed," and so few more weeks to run. After the nominations are made, the regular financial reports from the national party committees, as required by law, will be forthcoming throughout the campaign. But in addition, considerable amounts, of which no report is required, will be expended by State and local organizations. Flood Control Assured.

As expected, the Senate has adopted the conference report on the Flood Control Bill, which had previously been approved by the House. President Coolidge having idicated that he would sign the measure, even though it does not fully meet his wishes, the way should shortly be opened to adequate protection for the Mississippi Valley against disastrous floods.

Neither the people of that section nor the country at large need be disturbed by the criticisms of this plan which some disappointed Senators continue to express. The project is in | ple. safe hands. The final authority rests with the President. The chief of the army engineers will be on the actual job of construction, co-operating with the experienced Mississippi River Commission. The physical welfare of the people of the Mississippi Valley and the financial interests of the Government will both be safeguarded by this legislation, which, but for the foresightedness and firmness of President Coolidge, would never have been passed .- Phila Ledger

in Parts of England

How Good Friday got its name is a matter that is often discussed. The word Friday is really the strangest part of the name of so solemn a date in the Christian calendar. Few realize that in saying Friday they are commemorating a pagan deity, Freya, the Scandinavian Venus.

In France Good Friday is called Passion Friday; in Germany, Quiet Friday; and in Italy, the Blessed Fri-

Good Friday in former days enabled the careful citizen to save his fire insurance policy, for it was believed that an egg laid on that day would extinguish any fire on which it was thrown.

We Are All Bores

An outstanding fact in life is that we have each other: the habits and notions of many worthy people drive events public and private, bore us. to a few, and unknown to the many.

The old are tiresome to the young. I doubt if they realize it, but the young are tiresome to the old.

The time men and women do not devote to denouncing each other, they devote to seeking and boring each other. Always remember that whatever you do, and wherever you go, you are a pest to many. Therefore behave as well as possible.-E. W. Howe's Monthly.

An Old Map

The family was enjoying a delicious pineapple dessert for dinner. A younger member of the circle inquired of his apple came from. The father explained that most of it came from the Hawaiian islands in the "Atlantic" ocean. An older daughter told her father he was mistaken about their location. After a heated argument an old geography was found in the attic. The daughter soon found the Hawaiian islands in the Pacific ocean.

"Now, daddy, what you got to say? Who was right?" said the counterpart of father.

"That's an old geography. We'll have to buy us a new map," replied the invincible father.

Talking About Oneself

Speech of a man's self ought to be seldom, and well chosen. I knew one was wont to say in scorn, "He needs be a wise man, he speaks so much of himself"; and there is but one case wherein a man may commend himself with good grace and that is in commending virtue in another, especially If it be such a virtue whereunto himself pretendeth. Speech of touch towards others should be sparingly used; for discourse ought to be as a field, without coming home to any man .- Lord Bacon.

JESUS TEACHING IN THE TEMPLE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 12:13-44. GOLDEN TEXT—He taught them as one having authority.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Answers

Some Hard Questions.

JUNIOR TOPIC — Jesus Teaches INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOP-IC—Jesus Answers His Critics.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOP-

I. The Parable of the Husbandmen

(vv. 1-12) Having put the scribes, chief priests and elders to confusion by a skilful counter question when they demanded to know His authority, Jesus by means of a story lays before them His claim of divine authority, and charges them with betrayal of trust and with plotting to murder the very Son of God. His teaching cut them to the quick, and they sought to lay hands upon Him, but desisted for fear of the peo-

1. The vineyard (v. 1), represented Israel (See Ps. 80 and Isa. 5).

2. The husbandmen (v. 1) represented the rulers who were charged with responsibility for the spiritual interests of the people.

3. Messen ars (vv. 2-5) represented the prophets whom God sent to Israei, even including John the Baptist. 4. The Son (vv. 6-8) represented

Jesus Himself. 5. The judgment of the Lord of the vineyard (v. 9). This represented the time when the Jews shall be brought to account for their treatment of the servants of God and of Jesus Himself. II. The Tribute Money (vv. 13-17). They already would have gladly taken Him by violence and killed Him, but they feared the people. In order to destroy Him they seek to discredit

Him among the people (v. 13). 1. Their question (v. 14). "Is it lawful to give tribute to Caesar, or not?" The Pharisees contended that since God was the real King of Israel, it was not obligatory, yea, it was even sinful to give tribute (taxes) to a heathen king. The Herodians were supporters of Herod; with flattery on their lips, they put this subtle question. For Him to answer "Yes" would have discredited Him with the people, and to have said "No" would have made Him liable to arrest as an enemy of the government. 2. Jesus' reply (vv. 15-17). He asks that a coin be brought and inquires whose image and superscription it bears, declaring that those who accept the coin of Caesar should pay taxes to Caesar. In this reply the Lord escapes their trap and enunciates a principle which applies to all time and conditions as to the Christian's responsibility to civil government

III. The Resurrection of the Dead (vv. 18-27).

The Pharisees and Herodians being silenced, the Sadducees came with a question which involved not only immortality but the resurrection of the body. They denied the reality of the resurrection, and believed not in angel nor spirit (Acts 23:8).

1. The case proposed (vv. 19-23). The law of Moses made it not only legal but morally binding in the case of a man dying without children for his brother to take his wife (Deut. 22:5). They propose the case of a woman married successively to seven brothers. They ask whose wife she will be in the resurrection. 2. Jesus' reply (vv. 24-26). By a quotation from the Mosaic law (Ex. 3:6) He proves the resurrection of the dead, and their continued existence after death as glorified beings. He shows that marriage is for this present life. He points out that their great error was due to two things. (1) Ignorance of the Scriptures (v. 24). In the very Scriptures which they professed to believe was positive proof of the resurrection (Ex. 3:6). (2) Ignorance of the power of God (v. 24). God is able to provide a life where there is no death, no births or marriages.

IV. The Great Commandment of the Law (vv. 28-34):

Christ's answer shows marvelous insight. He sums up man's whole duty in one word—love. The first and great commandment is supreme and undivided love of God. The second is like unto it in that love is its center, but love for our neighbor in the measure that we love ourselves. Having put His questioners to silence, Jesus now puts to them a question which involves the central doctrine of the Christian faith—the person of Christ (vv. 35-40). Is He human or divine, or both?

BLACK CATS

Many a man who would deny that he is the least bit superstitious

Black cats for luck is a very old su-

Egyptians, who had mummies of cats identified the animal with the moon-

god, Pasht-probably from the peculiar effects of light and darkness on cats' eyes. And a black cat's eyes, by contrast, appear more prominently than those of other cats, even as the moon stands out from darkness. In modern folk lore the cat, in order to bring the greatest amount of luck, must be entirely black-no white hairs even. The cat is a weird animal anyway and has been superstitiously regarded from time immemorial; even by peoples unaffected by

Egyptian civilization, such as the an-

"The ideal and aim today of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and its associated companies is a telephone service for the nation ... en-abling at all times, anyone, anywhere to pick up a telephone and talk to any-one else, anywhere else, clearly, quickly and at a reasonable cost.'

WALTER S. GIFFORD, President of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company (Bell System)

- Q This statement of the president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company expresses the ideal and aim of the Bell System. It is the principle which has guided the management during the entire life of the system -to give the most telephone service and the best at the lowest cost to the public.
- In pursuit of this objective, there has been established a great nation - wide system of communication - built and extended in a spirit of service to the public-permitting at all times, anyone, anywhere to talk to anyone anywhere else, clearly, quickly and at a reasonable cost.
- 1 The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City, which turnishes your service, is a part of the Bell System. Its policies are the same—to give you the most telephone service and the best at the lowest possible cost.
- 1 To this end we are constantly setting higher standards of service—then bending our energies to attain them. The year just closed has witnessed greater progress in this direction than any similar period in the company's
- This year we expect to do better and next year better still. In this way we are striving faithfully to realize the ideals and aims of the Bell System.

HOUSE BUILT IN 1666 OFFERED AS SHRINE

Would Use It to Preserve Colonial History.

Elizabeth, N. J.—One of the oldest nomesteads in New Jersey is the stanch Hetfield house, built on the banks of the Elizabeth river at the foot of Pearl street here before Colonial times. Sold recently by a descendant of its second owner with the provision that the house, rich in legend and the home of nine generations, be preserved, it has been offered as a Colonial shrine or headquarters to the historical and patriotic societies. of this city by Mason Kirkland, the present owner.

Miss Emily Hetfield, of the ninth generation of the Revolutionary family, will contribute to the shrine from her store of Colonial furniture, pictures, legal documents and other relics. A wealth of historic material remained in the house from the days before the Revolution until 20 years ago, when Miss Hetfield and her mother moved to a more modern home.

Built by Skipper. The house was built in 1666-7 by Abraham Lubberson, skipper of a Hudson river fleet and a resident of New Amsterdam. After a few years he sold the property to Matthias Hatfield, who had come to Elizabeth from New Haven, Conn., although originally the family lived in Hatfield, England, whence was derived the name.

The change of the second letter in the name from "a" to "e" occurred during the early days of the Revolution. Many houses were divided against themselves in those times and the Hatfields were not an exception. Several members of the family chose to remain loyal to the Crown and left the homestead to join the British colony on Staten island. The others, conceived the idea of changing the spelling of the name to sever kinship with the royalists. The revised version has been retained by all succeeding generations.

· Tradition tells of exciting doings at the house in the days when the Republic was in the making. Many of these are confirmed by the papers and parchments that Miss Hetfield retains.

Secret Tunnel.

One chapter in the historical lore transmitted tells of the secret tunnel. This chapter is sufficiently clear to enable Miss Hetfield to say that the tunnel once existed, although its location is unknown. Whether it has been entirely filled up, or whether only its entrances have been sealed by time or by intent is not known. The legend says that it led from the house to the water's edge in the river. Among the objects in the house were glass platters from which five "generations" of wedding cake have been served; a Hessian cannon ball, five inches in diameter, but of great weight: sconces, elaborate in gilt about the huge, round mirrors; a tomahawk left on the homestead by a marauding Indian and pictures made by processes no longer known.

What Becomes of Radio

Waves? Go on Forever? New York.-Wireless messages sent out from the beam transmitting station at Dorchester are picked up in New York one-sixteenth of a second later. What becomes of these messages? An official of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph company, questioned on this point, said: "These messages are never lost. So far as we can say at the moment they may go on forever, of course getting fainter and fainter as the time goes by. We have actually trapped a message which we have sent out on its third circuit around the world. "If wireless continues to develop at its present rate it is not too much to say that 100 years hence people will be able to pick up messages we are transmitting today. Imagine what that means. Real voices from the grave of many famous men who in the ordinary course of nature cannot expect to be alive 100 or even 50 years from now.

"Their voices are still wandering in the ether waiting to be picked up by a sufficiently sensitive instrument."

Violet Ray Photograph

Used to Check Diamonds Paris.-Just exactly what a diamond looks like, just exactly how it sparkles, can now be recorded by violet ray photographs, says M. Malaval, who long has sought to perfect an accurate method of identifying stones. Violet rays, he says, bring out every gleam in the jewels and reveal the special characteristics peculiar to stones from different fields.

Under a white light it never has been possible to photograph diamonds well, says Malaval, but now they can be graded with great exactness and identified, if stolen, even if recut.

Heretofore, evidence in cases of alleged substitution and theft has depended upon the word of an expert who never examined the original stone, while now the Malaval process is said to yield pictures that can be compared with others taken previously and positive identification made.

Satisfied!

New York.-Jordan King, twenty-three years old, was taken to the hospital the loser in a tussel with the "Mrs." "Want to make a complaint?" the police asked. "No," he replied. "I got what I deserved."

MACHINE COUNTS ATOMS CORRECTLY

Savant Finds 606 Sextillions in One Gram.

Cambridge, Mass .- Atoms and molecules now can be counted with greater accuracy than the population of a large city, Dr. Miles Sherill, professor of theoretical chemistry at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, reported in a Society of Arts lecture in the institute recently. "We no longer doubt the existence or reality of atoms," he said. "It is possible to determine the number of molecules in one gram molecular weight of a substance which is equal to the number of atoms in one gram atomic weight of any element. This huge number is six hundred and six and two-tenths sextillions."

The lecturer showed a screen picture of the motion of mercury particles. Study of this motion, Doctor Sherill said, made it possible to count atoms and molecules. He also demonstrated the Geiger counter, an instrument so sensitive that it will detect even a single electron.

"Dr. H. C. Blumgart of the Boston City hospital has made a very wonderful application of the instrument," said Doctor Sherill. "He injects a trace, one quadrillionth of a grain, which is about three million atoms, or radio-active deposit into the arm of a patient. Then with the aid of the Geiger counter he measures the time taken for it to be carried to the heart and again through the lungs back to the heart and on to a point in the other arm corresponding to the original point of injection.

"The counter, protected from premature radiations by a sheathing of lead, is placed over the heart where it detects the arrival of the radio-active substance, and again in the other arm by means of a second instrument.

"He is thus able to measure the rate of blood flow through the lungs. Such studies hold far-reaching possibilities for research in diseases of the heart."

Engineering Advance

Shown in Big Exhibit Washington.-The history and development of steam-power plant engineering is to be shown in a large permanent exhibit now being assembled by the Smithsonian institution. About 3,000 feet of floor space has been allotted for the new steam unit of the museum, which will include models or originals of the engines which have made history. Beginning with the toylike turbines of the ancients, they will illustrate the progress of steam engineering up to the most modern developments.

The institution already has the upper half of the original cylinder of the Josiah Hornblower engine of 1755, which marked the beginning of American steam engineering; the original engine and porcupine-type boiler designed and used by Col. John Stevens in his steamboat in 1803, together with the water-tube boiler of his experimental locomotive of 1825, and a number of patent office models deposited by Babcock, Wilcox, Stevens, Corliss, Ericsson, Gifford, Sellers and other inventors.

Marsh Gas to Be Used to Illuminate City

Berlin.-The early utilization of marsh gas, or methane, for illuminating a section of the city is planned by the municipal authorities for reasons of efficiency as well as of econ-

Marsh gas has a luminosity of 77 to 80 per cent, whereas that of ordinary coal gas is only 55 to 56 per cent and a ready supply of the former is always forthcoming from the outlying sewage lands. From the sewage area around Wassmandorff the requisite marsh gas will be collected in about thirty-seven tanks with a capacity of 60,000 cubic meters each and then conducted to the Berlin gas works at Neukoelln to refine and intensify the luminosity of the ordinary gas.

Better Grade Diamonds to Be More Expensive

London.-Good diamonds are to be more expensive, according to S. B. Joel, member of the diamond syndicate here which controls the price. "Stones of three carats and upwards will be affected and the minimum increase will be 5 per cent," he said. "This increase has resulted from the big demand for good stones. There is a glut of the small stones produced from the alluvial workings, but for the big stones there is a big demand.

 Sweden to Teach Children to Save

Stockholm.-For the benefit of Swedish school children without money in the bank, the postal savings authorities will open 25,000 new accounts, depositing two crowns in each. Permission has been asked from the government to use $13,400 of the postal savings income for 1927 to defray the expenses. Sweden's private savings banks have made similar distributions of money for several years in order to teach the school children how to save.

KING COD DEPOSED AS FISH MONARCH

Haddock Now Rules the Wharves at Boston.

Boston, Mass.-The sacred wooden codfish still hangs above the door to the hall of representatives in the statehouse at Boston, but its scaly brethren have been deposed in Boston's harbor.

For three years now, the National Geographic society reveals, more pounds of haddock worth more dollars than fewer pounds of cod have been landed at New England ports. Reports on the 1927 catch, soon to be released, will show the same trend noted in 1926, when 94,000,000 pounds of haddock were landed at the chief New England ports, against 78,000,-000 of codfish, the society says.

A Family Matter.

Dominance in New England's fisheries narrows down to parricidal strife within the Gadidae, a fish family. The haddock must defend its throne against cod, pollack and hake. Through the veins of all four species runs the blood af Gadidae.

"How great has been the fall of cod we can measure by looking back to the very beginning of American fisheries in 1534, when its rule began," the society says. "Jacques Cartier's memorandum to King Francis I of France that fish were so thick on the Grand banks a fisherman need only lower a basket into the sea to bring up a bushel, brought fleets to Newfoundland. Cod was king in New England, Nova Scotia and Newfoundland from that day, but not entirely because of its numbers. Because cod can be preserved by dry salting, while other fish cannot, it has been favored.

"The rise of haddock reads like Charles Lamb's story of the empirical invention of roast pig. At Findon, near Aberdeen, Scotland, there occurred years ago a water-front fire which damaged a warehouse containing haddock. During the blaze, so the story goes, a breeze brought delicious fragrance to the noses of assembled Scots. They investigated after the fire had been put out and found the taste of smoked haddock quite as delightful as its fragrance. So they named it finnan haddie.

Transportation Made Easy. "In America chance has not figured in the success of haddock. The increasing use of ice for preserving perishable freight proved the great boon to American haddock fishing. Filets of haddock now travel the length and breadth of the land. Grocery stores in Georgia sell fresh haddock. Secondly, haddock swim much closer to New England ports than do cod. Great South channel, a day's sail from Boston, is the home of haddock, while fishing schooners must lose several days reaching cod fishing grounds on the Grand banks."

Germans Study High Air in Big Balloon

Friedrichshafen, Germany.-A series of investigation flights are being conducted by the Zeppelin Construction company with the largest balloon ever built, to study atmospheric currents in higher altitudes and their effects on the human system and on motors. The huge balloon has a gas capacity of 353,000 cubic feet and a diameter of 85 feet. The gondola accommodates four passengers and carries a small motor to test the working motors in a rarefied atmosphere. The balloon has been named after Bartsch von Siegfeld, the pioneer of scientific aeronautics, who was killed in 1902 while making a landing in Holland.

700-Year-Old Bell Still Rings in Swedish Town

Stockholm.-A seven-hundred-yearsold church bell with a tone of unusual beauty still rings each Sunday in the little village of Saleby in the west of Sweden. According to the inscription on the bell, it has been in continuous service since 1288. The inscription is preceded by the letters A. G. L. A., believed to stand for a powerful Hebrew invocation, the words of which are "Atta Gibbor Leolam Adonai," or in translation, "Thou art eternally strong, O Lord."

Chief Executive Saw Point of Good Joke

One of the first things Washington learned of Millard Fillmore when he ascended to the Presidency upon the death of Zachary Taylor, in 1850, was that Fillmore possessed a keen sense of humor.

Shortly after taking the oath of office it became necessary that the President purchase a new coach. Because of the dignity of his position, Fillmore thought the coach should be somewhat out of the ordinary, and sent an old White House servant, Edward Moran by name, to shop about. Moran eventually learned that a wealthy citizen of Washington was about to leave the city and wished to dispose of his elegant equipage, which seemed to him quite the thing he was

The President viewed the coach and liked it immensely, but "How will it do for a President of the United States to be riding around in a second-hand carriage?" he asked

Moran could not resist the oppor tunity. "Sure," he replied, "you're only a second-hand President."

Fillmore thought this remark was one of the wittiest he had ever heard, and told it on himself so often that be became known among his friends as the "second-hand President." Incidentally, he bought the coach and used it during his three-year tenure of office.-Brooklyn Eagle.

Believe It or Not!

After a great deal of patient effort the rooster rolled an ostrich egg into the chicken run. Coughing slightly and throwing his about to utter a platitude, he said: "Hens! Far be it from me to reproach you or to cast aspersions on any one of you. But, in the interests of the country generally and our own little community in particular, I should like to show you what can be done in other parts of the world by enterprising birds imbued with the true spirit of unselfish loyalty."

Phrase Long in Use

"Full as a tick" refers to the habits of the creatures called ticks, which are biologically degraded species of the same family as spiders. They attach themselves to persons and animals to suck blood; when they are full they drop off. The phrase has no reference to a bed tick, as often er-"oneously supposed. "Full as a tick" is very old in the English language. Just when it originated and under what circumstances are not known.-Pathfinder Magazine.

The Good Old Days.

The "good old days" were good, mostly because they were the days of our youth; when we had tough hides, fool-proof stomachs, elastic backbones no taxes to pay, no conscience worth mentioning, and in general the feeling that we could keep on forever cracking nuts with our teeth and playing hookey with everything not to the liking of our care free minds.

Our Mothers—God bless them—never made better pies nor cakes than the mothers of today; and the grand old men "when we were young" were not a bit grander than the good men of today; nor were "we boys" better than the same class of boys that we now class as the worst ever. Looking backward into the past that seems still fresh to us we simply idealize what was, without being able to make correct comparisons with what

The fact is, we live longer and better, dress better, are fed better and have more good times in general today than at any time in the past, and we would resist being compelled to put up with conditions that have gone by, at any time within our knowledge. And this does not mean any discredit to "old times" for all ages and condi-tions of people have always made the best with what they had, and were mostly happy doing it.

We were not happier then than now, nor now than then, for there has al-ways been happiness and sorrow in every age, good men and bad, content and discontent, honesty and dishonesty. Men have simply always been men, and women have always bee women—all constructed about alike-since the days of Adam. There does seem to be more fools in the world, more of the ungenuine, and certainly more of developed crookedness, but this is because there are more of us now than ever; and as we are left without any scales to weigh exact differences produced by various stages of modernism, our best judgments in the matter give no assurance that "the times" are actually any better, or worse, than in our youth.

We simply make "the times" out of the material we have, and if the "old ones" had our material, twould have made a different job.

Shrinking Sustenance

"Who remembers when people used to call them 'flannel cakes?' " inquires a correspondent. We do, for one, and we recall a mild joke on the subject: "I'm hungry," complained a husky husband one morning.

"But you've just had your breakfast," returned his wife.

"I know it," he said, "but as soon as I finished I drank a glass of water and all those flannel cakes shrank right down to comparatively nothing."

A Financial Mystery "My wife has queer ideas." "As for example?"

"Well, she can't understand why a bank is so much fussier about her owing it than a department store is."

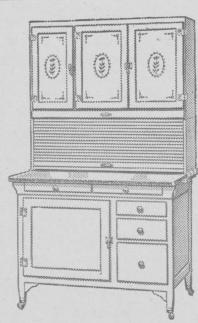

Test of Loya'ty Molly-Are you sure that Fred loves you and you alone? Kathleen-Oh, yes; more then than at any other time.
