

THE PROPOSED BOND ISSUE FOR SCHOOLS

Public Interest Not Very Openly Expressing Itself.

The Carroll Record is not taking part in the discussion over the proposition to have the legislature authorize a bond issue of "not less than $600,000" for school buildings in Carroll County, without a referendum vote. It prefers rather to give what light it can on the progress of the movement, and to give those who care to do so an opportunity to express their views in a temperate manner, on the subject, through The Record. Articles must be signed by the writers, but the name need not be published.

Along the line of information that does not appear to be generally known is, that we have what appears to be accurate information that the Board of County Commissioners offered to the Board of Education $45,000 a year for two years—that being the term of the present Commissioners' authority—for the construction of new buildings, and that same could be done without increasing the present tax rate; the presumption being that succeeding Boards of Commissioners would follow the precedent set, or perhaps do better. This offer to the Board of Education declined, so our information says, likely on the ground of the amount being insufficient.

As yet, interest in the question is not as lively as might be expected. Petitions are being distributed for signatures, and they are being liberally received; while the opposition does not seem to be organized, nor has any plan appeared in opposition to the energetic measures employed by the no-referendum workers. Perhaps by another week there may be more developments.

Reported for The Record.
The meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association at Taneytown, on Tuesday evening, brought out rather a small crowd, in spite of the good program, which consisted of a minute executed in a very creditable manner by the boys and girls of the second and third grades, singing by a mixed chorus from the glee clubs, a violin solo by Ralph Davidson, and a reading by Amelia Null. Dr. Ward and Mr. Unger were present, and spoke on the proposed bond issue for schools.

Dr. Ward's remarks were directed toward calling attention to the rather critical situation as it obtains at present in Carroll County with respect to school buildings. He said that Carroll County is the richest county in the United States, per capita, and that the raising of the sum of Six Hundred Thousand Dollars for schools was not beyond the ability of the people of Carroll County. He emphasized especially the obligation that the present generation owes to the next, and that providing proper school facilities is one of these obligations. He made the statement that in the State of Oklahoma, it would not be possible to find a school situation such as exists in Westminster. His entire address was full of those fine thoughts for which Dr. Ward is famous, and which he always gives expression when called upon to make a public address.

Mr. Unger spoke on the more practical side of the question. He called attention to the better quality of school work possible in adequate buildings, and that the erection of buildings in Carroll County, where they are needed, would add to the efficiency of the schools and at the same time, lessen considerably the cost of running the schools. He said that thirty-five schools, which were regarded as unnecessary, had been closed in the county, with a corresponding saving of $45,000 in school administration. With the erection of the new buildings, and the inauguration of the policy of retrenchment which would then be possible, a further saving could be effected.

He estimated the increase in the tax rate, in case the bond issue goes through, at 8 cents on the hundred dollars. Allowing for economies in administration, possible with the new buildings, the increase in the tax rate could be reduced almost one half.

(For the Record.)
As I am a tax-payer I would like to write a few lines on the bond issue, and would say to the people of Carroll County, as the good Master has said—Beware of the Wolf that comes to you in sheep's clothing! The people of Carroll County do not want a bond issue; there is not one farmer in 50 that would vote for it.

Besides, what is the use of having a Board of Education? What good has it ever done to Carroll County except to spend money? Why not have the County Commissioners look after the schools and have better schools than we have now?

It is high time that the people of Carroll County are roused up to know what is going on and where this county is drifting. What will the next generation be if things go on this way? There will be nobody to work, and the fathers and mothers will be responsible for not teaching their children to work instead of giving them High School Education.

So we say to the people of Carroll County that they should be on the lookout, and ready when they come around for your name, and not give it.

KEY AUTO CLUB BANQUET

A Fine Success Notwithstanding Snowed-up Roads.

The annual banquet of the Francis Scott Key Automobile Club was an enjoyable event, even though the heavy snow on the roads prevented some of the speakers and invited guests from being present. The banquet itself was elegantly served by the Fire Company and its force of skilled lady assistants, while the P. O. S. of A. orchestra supplied the music. Nearly 200 were present.

Rev. Guy P. Bready, presided. Rev. A. T. Sutcliffe offered the invocation. Rev. Bready introduced as the first speaker, Chas. E. H. Shriner, the organizer and active leader of the Club, who announced the regrets of members of the State Road Commission, and others, for their inability to be present, due to road conditions. Mr. Shriner went at length into the origin, the purposes and accomplishments of the Club; the importance of the proposed road as a mail road and in general how the Club but represented overwhelming public sentiment; the importance of the road as an interstate link, and how apparently the general government was especially interested in the building of such roads.

He said that as both the Roads Commission and the County Commissioners appeared very favorable to building the road, it was hardly necessary for the Club to engage in any further insistence at present, but that it was best to give the officials an opportunity to act.

The next speaker was Michael E. Walsh, attorney of Westminster, who complimented the citizens of upper Carroll for their fine spirit of co-operation; told of roads that have been built that have been of little real value as compared with the proposed Key road; how some roads have been built by special act that have been paid for partly by local tax-payers. He complimented the Club for its activity in urging the new law whereby auto licenses can be secured at the Court House, and suggested that a formal request should be made to the State Board for the building of the road.

Representative W. Scott Bollinger, of Keymar, made a brief address, asking for the "backing up" by the folks back home of pending legislation, stating that the Carroll County delegation was but a small part of the whole body. He said there was always difficulty and doubt up to the last minute as to the fate of bills, and that this was the case with the auto license bill.

Rev. George A. Brown in a brief address showed how ministers are interested in good roads, and especially in the one the subject of discussion. That he was heartily in favor of the activities of the Club and would give it whatever assistance he could.

The last speaker, Rev. A. T. Sutcliffe spoke of the value of the Club as an organization devoted largely to one purpose at present; and compared it to the construction of a wheel, with hub, spokes, rim and tire, all having important functions to perform. He joined heartily in commending the importance of this one road to the interests of many sections.

Rev. Bready throughout presided in a happy manner, and connected up the entire program in such a way as to add to its interest, besides making numerous explanations and statements applying to the subject as a whole.

Meeting of Men's Bible Classes.

Preparations are under way, it was announced on Tuesday, for the welcoming in Baltimore of the sixth annual convention of the National Federation of Men's Bible Classes, which will be held in Baltimore, May 4 and 5.

Mayor William F. Broening has been asked to make an address of welcome when the first session of the convention is called to order in the Fifth Regiment Armory. The headquarters of the convention will be located in the Lord Baltimore Hotel.

According to members of the classes, plans are under way in New York and other states for organizing every county as a part of the federation. The movement is for men of all denominations. The bigness of the field is indicated in the statement that there were 12,000,000 men in the United States not connected with any church.

The teacher of one of the largest Bible classes has said of the field and the task:

"If the Protestant churchmen of America cannot evangelize the 12,000,000 non-churchmen of America they have mighty little business fussing about winning the men of China and India."

Letter from Florida.

(For the Record.)

George F. Morelock and myself are sojourning in the Sunny South, with the temperature at 82° with a gentle breeze. Would like for you to come down as we can give you a position picking oranges, an undertaking we have on our hands.

I am sure you would enjoy eating, but not working after going through with what you have had—the flu. I had the same dose for four weeks, but have almost entirely recovered since I have been here. We are visiting our uncle, N. H. Fleagle, who we find in fairly good health. We have at our command, while here, his oranges, grape fruit and tangerine grove.

DR. SANDERS HOME FROM WORLD TOUR

Visited Twelve Countries. Return Trip on Ocean Rough.

The following is reprinted from last week's Gettysburg Compiler: "Enthusiastic over their trip but nevertheless glad to be home, Dr. and Mrs. Charles F. Sanders returned to Gettysburg Tuesday evening, after a 220-day tour of the world. They landed at Jersey City, Tuesday afternoon, aboard the President Wilson.

During their trip they visited 12 countries, traveled on seven seas, and three oceans, visited 55 different cities and traveled more than 38,000 miles. During their trip, they used 12 different kinds of money.

The world travelers were able to maintain schedule, made out a year ago, to the minute. They did not experience sickness of any kind, never suffered any inconvenience through personal causes and thoroughly enjoyed every minute of their long journey.

"We did encounter some rough sailing crossing the Atlantic," said Doctor Sanders. Mrs. Sanders was not her usual self and remained in her cabin for a while to avoid sickness.

"Saturday we experienced the roughest kind of weather. The ship was in the grip of a severe storm and rocked unmercifully. Early Saturday morning we had quite an experience. I had dressed and was seated on a sofa in our cabin, reading. Mrs. Sanders had decided not to eat breakfast in the dining room and was still in bed. Suddenly a huge wave struck us amidship. Mrs. Sanders' bed was lifted and thrown side of me, unharmed. We both enjoyed a hearty laugh, so strange was the incident.

"On the other side of the ship from our cabin, a woman, dressing for breakfast, was thrown across her cabin and into the corridor. She had seized a chair as she was precipitated across the room. She suffered a wrenched back, injuries to her ankle and is now in a Jersey City Hospital.

"Later I entered the dining room. Just as I was about to be seated the boat was struck by another huge wave, which tore tables from their floor fastenings, smashed dishes and just made a mess of the whole room. We had to wait until stewards rearranged the room.

"The Rev. Luther Gotwald, of York, class of 1919, returning from seven years in India, who was also aboard the ship with his wife and five children, was in the dining room just before I entered. Children are fed first aboard ship. The Rev. Mr. Gotwald was caring for his children at the time Mrs. Sanders was thrown across the cabin. The same trouble resulted in the dining room at that time. Tables were torn from their fastenings, dishes broken, and food spilled all over the place.

"On Saturday we made 106 miles, because of the storm. On Sunday and Monday, however, we cleared 359 miles each day.

"There is a great difference in the dress of Europeans and residents of the Orient. Another significant feature of our trip was the fact that we found English spoken more fluently in the Orient than we did in Italy and France. The food was far different in the Orient and we ate just enough to keep going.

"After eight days in Rome and four days in Florence we boarded the President Wilson at Genoa, stopped at Marseilles and then continued on our way to this country."

Dr. Albert Billheimer met the returning travelers at Harrisburg and drove them to Gettysburg, Tuesday night.

Arriving at their home, on Broadway, Dr. and Mrs. Sanders found a huge bouquet of cut flowers, a "welcome home" tribute from the Lions' club, of which Doctor Sanders was a former president. The Sanders home had been placed in readiness for their return and upon entering the home on Tuesday night, Mrs. Sanders exclaimed: "Why, you would never think we had been away for a year. It is wonderful of our friends."

"We all know in a general way about the things that are being done for the crippled children," Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health said in telling the story which came to his attention through an "all-in-the-day's work" report of the public health nurse, "but an experience like this, makes us realize more vividly, the possibilities of the care that is available."

A Fine Bit of Appreciation.

Dear Mr. Englar:—
I am enclosing herewith my check for $4.50 covering three years subscription to the Carroll Record, commencing March 23, 1929.

I cannot tell you how much I appreciate this paper, not only because it contains news from home but because of the wonderful manner in which you handle the entire proposition. Your paper is indeed a credit to the State of Maryland, and I am wondering if you Taneytown people appreciate what you are giving them.

Wishing you continued success, I am, with kindest regards and best wishes,
HARVEY C. MILLER,

Big Storm in the South.

A storm swept north Mississippi, on Monday, that leveled buildings and killed about 20 persons. In the town of Duncan half of the buildings in the town were blown down and ten persons were killed in the collapse of one building, and five in another. The number injured is estimated as high as 100. This is the first of the wind disturbances of the Spring that may be expected throughout the country. Texas was also hard hit, leaving four dead and a number of injured.

TO FIGHT THE BEAN BEETLE

Methods given for Trying to Protect Bean Crop.

The University of Maryland Extension Service has outlined measures to protect the state's supply of green beans for canning purposes, as follows: The recommendations for spraying on large acreage call for the use of one pound magnesium arsenate in fifty gallons of water applied at the rate of ninety to one hundred gallons per acre. The spraying apparatus should have two nozzles directed upward and backward from pipes that reach nearly to the ground and one downward directly over the center of the row.

The spray material should be kept thoroughly agitated and should be directed through small-hole disks under good pressure. After fifteen hours use, the disks should be discarded and new ones used.

Dusting is more practical than spraying in isolated fields of two acres or less where spraying equipment is not furnished by the canner. The dust recommended consists of one pound of magnesium arsenate to three to five pounds of lime applied at the rate of ten to fifteen pounds per acre, or a commercially mixed copper-arsenic-lime dust.

The discharge pipes of the dusting apparatus should lie close to the ground with the nozzles directed backward and slightly upward. The air blast should be cut down so that the plants are not whipped about.

The number of applications, whether of spray or dust, will depend upon the abundance and distribution of rains, growth of plants and the spread of the insects over a short or long period. Usually applications at eight to ten-day intervals are necessary.

Applications should be discontinued when the pods of green beans are formed. In case later applications are necessary, extra care should be exercised in washing canner beans. Beans going direct to the consumer should be sprayed with pyrethrum instead of arsenicals if applications after the pods are formed are necessary.

Just Among the Home Folks.

Because of the interest of the "service" organizations—the Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions Clubs, the Masonic organizations, the Elks, the Knights of Columbus, the various guilds and leagues—in crippled children throughout the United States, are having medical and surgical attention and care that otherwise would not have been possible. Among them is a lovely baby girl up in Western Maryland who came into the world with club feet but whose little feet are being straightened so that when she learns to walk, she won't have to hobble, but will be just like other children.

One snowy day last month, in response to an urgent message, one of the public health nurses in the Western part of the State, drove her little car up the six miles of mountain road that led to the home from which the call had come. The young mother and father, the four months old baby, the grand-father and some other kind folk were waiting to see her. They told her that they had heard that the doctor from one of the big hospitals in Baltimore City had told the men at the club meeting in the town down in the valley, about the wonderful things that could be done and were being done for the crippled children. He even had said that they could straighten a baby's club feet so that the child could learn to walk and run like other children. Was that true?

They showed her the baby's feet. Was there any way for them to be straightened? Could she help them to take the baby to see the doctor? She would do it gladly, she told them. Then she arranged for the father and mother and the baby to meet her at the Health Office down in the valley a few days later, when she was planning to bring two other crippled children down to the clinic at the hospital in Baltimore.

They all made the trip safely; the baby's legs were put in casts; the father and mother were told how to take care of her, and now every two weeks they bring her back to the hospital for the doctor to see her or for the casts to be changed. And they are all looking forward to the time when the casts will be taken off and the little legs and feet be straight.

"We all know in a general way about the things that are being done for the crippled children," Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health said in telling the story which came to his attention through an "all-in-the-day's work" report of the public health nurse, "but an experience like this, makes us realize more vividly, the possibilities of the care that is available."

THE ROADS CASE STILL DRAGGING ALONG.

Not much of Importance brought forward this week.

Mr. Butler, who has been the star witness in point of length of testimony, was before the investigating committee in the State Roads case, on Tuesday. The net result was a lot of question and answers, some display of temper, and not much of anything of value.

The testimony of Butler, in general, was attacked as worthless, and not deserving of the time given to it, and the investigating committee decided not to hear any more of it, "except such facts as may be corroborated by other testimony."

Some evidence was attempted with reference to the unfair giving of contracts, but amounted to very little except as they may lead to further more searching investigation. One of these charges was made by Charles Drew, a farmer, who charged that $150,000 had been diverted from the Commissioners of Cecil County to the State Roads Commission; money which he said had been paid to the interests that built the Cowonging dam to relocate and rebuild roads destroyed by the building of the dam.

States Attorney O'Conner who has had rather active part in the case before the Grand Jury, is reported to be getting ready to make a further investigation, possibly along lines that have developed since the former Grand Jury ended.

Three auditors have been called to appear as witnesses next Tuesday when the new investigation into the $376,000 State roads shortage will be started by the January term grand jury. They are Daniel H. Carroll, Deputy State Auditor, who uncovered the original shortages, and Charles C. Croggon and R. E. North, of Haskins & Sells, who completed the roads audit.

An Impressive Inaugural.

The weather gods permitting, the Hoover inaugural ceremonies should be about the most colorful and impressive in years. Some 20,000 marchers will swing down from Capitol Hill including Governor Bilbo's eighty doughy Southern colonels from Mississippi. Horse, foot, guns and airplanes will have their part in the ceremonial that will stretch through a four-mile parade.

Mr. Hoover's modest limitations placed upon the event have been exceeded. Such limitations nearly always are. There is a good deal to be said for these spectacles that mark the end of one administration and the beginning of another. They may be a bit old-fashioned with their marching clubs and their cavalcades of Governors and "important people," but they are by no means unimpressive. They add a little color and drama to our sometimes drab political life. On March 4 the fifty wheeling airplanes and the shining shape of the Los Angeles silhouette over the Capitol dome and the Washington Monument will give the modern touch to a ceremony that has become traditional.—Phila. Ledger.

Lower Cost Barns Desirable.

The fact that Maryland farmers have $134,000,000 tied up in farm buildings and could not replace them at the present time for anything like that sum, should emphasize the importance of economical barn construction as a factor in the overhead costs on the average farm, according to R. W. Carpenter, farm engineer, specialist for the University of Maryland Extension Service.

In the dairy sections of the State many barns are being erected at an average cost of as much as $500 per cow whereas construction costs should not exceed $300 per animal and in most cases should be much lower, it is pointed out.

Economical barn construction does not mean the use of inferior materials or the erection of an inadequate or weak structure. One of the chief reasons for high cost barn construction cited by Mr. Carpenter is the use of too much high priced timber and labor as the result of poor planning. The old-time expensive "timber frame" method of construction is still common in many sections of the State where the newer and less costly "braced rafter" type barn has not yet come into prominence.

The advantages of the "braced rafter" type of construction over the older methods are to be found mainly in a saving of labor and in the use of less costly timber. Building a barn of "braced rafter" construction, three men can accomplish the same work in less time than an entire crew working on the other type. No timber larger than two by eight inch beams are necessary and this is an important element in reducing costs.

County Agents will be able to assist farmers in securing desirable plans for economical barn construction.

Proceedings of the Orphans' Court.
Monday, Feb. 25, 1929—Grace L. Klee, executrix of Harry F. Klee, deceased, returned inventory current money.

Charles R. Miller, executor of Ella B. Miller, deceased, returned inventory current money, report of sale of personal estate and settled his first and final account.

Calvin R. Chew, executor of Mary L. Richards, deceased, settled his first and final account and received order to transfer stocks.

The last will and testament of Samuel H. Mehring, deceased, was admitted to probate and letters testamentary thereon were granted unto Margaret E. Mehring, who received warrant to appraise personal property and order to notify creditors.

Note—The Orphans' Court will not be in session on Monday, March 4th, 1929, but will be in session on Tuesday and Wednesday, March 5 and 6th.

NEW AUTO LAW PROPOSED.

Would Hold Auto Drivers Financially Responsible.

The bill providing that all operators of motor vehicles must sign a statement of financial responsibility was introduced on Tuesday by James J. Lindsay, Democratic floor leader in the House. This measure is sponsored by the Automobile Club of Maryland, as is another bill introduced in the House which sets forth regulations for the marking and measuring of gasoline and other motor fuels.

The Lindsay bill provides that after July 1, before any person can obtain a license to operate a motor vehicle in Maryland he must sign a statement that he will hold himself financially responsible to satisfy any final judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction to the extent of $1,000 for property damage and up to $5,000 for personal injury or death resulting from operation of any motor vehicle by the applicant.

The bill also directs the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles to send to every person now holding an operator's license a statement to be signed by them, which would contain the same pledge of responsibility. Failure to satisfy the judgment of any competent court within ninety days would result in the revocation of the operator's license.

"Inside" Information for Women.

A few grains of podcorn on top of a plate of corn soup give it an attractive appearance.

Short, quick cooking of vegetables in little or no water is recommended in order to conserve their vitamins and minerals.

Eggs are a spring tonic far ahead of many sold in the drug store, for egg-yolk is one of the best known iron-rich foods, and also supplies phosphorus and calcium, mineral elements needed for building bones, teeth, and other tissues. Eggs are also a rich source of vitamins.

Children in a hurry to get to school and their elders dashing off to work, can seldom take the time to dig out the pulp of an orange with a spoon at breakfast time. So serve them the much needed orange juice in a glass and be assured they have a portion of the day's supply of vitamins and minerals.

Clam chowder is good any month of the year, but as the piece de resistance of a Lenten menu it is hard to surpass. Here's a recipe that may be used with either fresh or canned clams; 1 quart shucked clams, 2 small potatoes, 1 medium-sized onion, cut in small pieces, 2 slices bacon, cut in small pieces or an equal quantity of salt pork, ½ teaspoon salt, few drops tabasco, 1 pint milk, 2 tablespoons flour. Remove the clams from the liquor and strain it through cheesecloth or a very fine wire strainer. Crisp the bacon and remove it from the fat and break into small pieces. If salt pork is used cut dice before frying. Cook the onion in the meat fat until yellow, then add flour. Pour most of the clam liquor slowly into the pan and cook until thickened. Cook the clams below the boiling point in the remainder of the liquor for two or three minutes, then grind through the fine knife of the meat grinder, saving any juice. Add the milk to the thickened clam liquor, the salt, the bacon or salt pork, the ground clams, and the remainder of the juice. Bring to the boiling point. Sprinkle finely chopped parsley over the top and serve over soda crackers.

General News Notes.

Our Majority Rule.

The other day, a visitor to our office somewhat inclined to be argumentative, said that although this country is supposed to have "majority rule" it does not have it, but rather has rule by political parties. As a matter of fact, our friend is very largely wrong. We either do have majority rule, or could have it if we so agreed. That is, we could have it except in cases in which we have rule by appointed power.

True, we apparently have rule by parties; but it is rather more true that parties formulate and direct the kind of rule—legislation—we will have. When there are candidates of two parties in the field, it is usually the case that the candidates of one party or the other wins, which is of course majority rule, even though it may also be called party rule.

When there are elements of sentiment not fairly represented by two parties then we have three or more, in which cases it happens at times that the winner receives a plurality, but not a majority vote. This is not the fault of the majority rule proposition, but is an option that voters have to exercise their rights.

A Presidential candidate may sometimes be elected without receiving a majority of the popular vote, but he must receive a majority of the electoral vote. As is well known, presidential candidates, under our peculiar and somewhat unsatisfactory old-time system, are not voted for directly, but their electors are voted for instead. However, the successful candidates for president usually do receive a majority of the popular vote.

The power of appointment, which has probably grown to a too large extent, and to which there seems to be a growing opposition, at times interferes with the expression of the will of the majority; but this power, as a rule does not extend to offices that control matters of taxation or important law-making, but is largely judicial, administrative and clerical in its scope.

And it is when this class of power exercises functions contrary to the will of the people, that it is most objectionable because it stands for nullification of majority rule, and perhaps even to the equivalent of taxation without representation.

Our Congress and state legislatures represent indirect democracies to which the majority intrust power to individuals—"representatives" or "delegates" we call them—because it is not possible to have a direct vote on every variety of questions or legislation, just as private business can not always be handled directly by individuals or heads of firms or corporations, but must partly be turned over to selected department heads, or assistants of various kinds.

But, for 153 years the principle of government in this country has been through some form of majority rule, and no better plan has as yet been devised to replace it. Some states stick very closely to it, while others get as far away from it as they can; and especially where the party in power is strong, the latter gives the party a better chance for absolute control without interference by the people, and without the danger of sudden upsets in party majorities.

The ideal in government is not always reached. Majority rule sometimes goes wrong; but even though it fails at times, it is still better and safer than too strongly entrenched party "or boss" rule, and is apt to right itself when opportunity presents. In fact, it is this free, independent, justice loving public sentiment, that keeps party rule within bounds, and has so far kept our National government the best and strongest on the earth.

So, when we argue against majority rule, or that we do not have it, we practically argue against good government, and against the rights of all the people as expressed by majorities.

Ability to Earn Money Less Important Than Ability to Save.

The ability to make money, particularly where it is possessed by a young person, is not usually accompanied by the more important ability to save. When wealth is acquired easily, through talent or some special aptitude, the faculty of saving and investing cautiously is often lost sight of until the days of easy earning are gone.

No man or woman can be so shrewd an earner that they can afford to overlook the necessity of learning how to conserve.

We often hear of men who are on the high-road to success and it seems impossible that they could develop into financial failures. We may not know that they are defying the practices and the principles of thrift. If they are their success cannot be permanent.

Lack of thrift has caused more financial failures than anything else. There are today many men who might have become wealthy had they known how to save money. During the cause of their careers they have earned large sums, but these have slipped through their fingers from day to day. They had the natural gift of making money, but they lacked the quality of permanent success—which is thrift.

The majority of men who have built up great fortunes, though they have in many instances risen rapidly, owe their success primarily to thrift. It was this that gave them the start they needed and it was the development of this characteristic that imparted the combination of courage and cautious judgment without which there can be no substantial success in money matters.

Thrift requires steadfastness and the martialing of the last ounce of moral strength that we possess. But it does not require any special genius or brilliant gift of mind.—By S. W. Straus.

Doers vs. Talkers.

Broadly speaking, men who get into the public eye are divided into two classes—the doers and the talkers. The doers are always telling what they are going to do and sometimes doing it. The talkers let what they do speak for them.

While other people were doing a lot of talking about the trans-Atlantic flying they were going to do, Lindbergh came hopping across the country unheralded, casually remarked upon his arrival in New York that he might try the jump, and almost as casually hopped off and reached his goal. And he has said very little about it since.

A little earlier in the history of aviation, when the North Pole was the goal of flyers, a great racket was made by several groups preparing for the attempt. In the midst of it all, and almost before the public was aware of his plans, Commander Byrd completed the polar flight.

Life itself tends to confirm Lincoln's comparison of the big-talk man to the river steamer with the enormous whistle. When it whistled it had to stop running and when it ran it had to stop whistling.

The candidate for public office who makes the most noise and promises does not always prove to be the best public servant. Neither is the best community booster always the fastest and loudest talker. Community builders are doers, not talkers. They are the deep waters and full vessels. Somebody to "talk it up" when the work slackens is an asset to the progressive city or town, but the real work is done by those who have more to do than say.—Frederick News.

Kent's "Game of Politics."

The retirement of President Coolidge, on March 4, will be a serious loss to Frank R. Kent, the versatile writer for the Baltimore Sun. Just how the loss will be supplied is one of the interesting, not to say serious, problems of the day, for "The Great Game of Politics" without President Coolidge as the slaughtered one, will hardly be worth reading.

Using one of his own finely apt forms of speech "no tick ever stuck to a log" closer than Frank R., stuck to Calvin. Possibly it was because "Calvin" gave not the slightest signs of being annoyed, that the "tick" stuck the tighter. It surely was most aggravating how his many smartest attacks failed, apparently, to influence the supposed victim one bit—if anything, he thrived on it and kept on his most aggravating way with increased pleasure.

The only other amazing thing—possibly the most amazing thing of all—is how Frank R. is able to stimulate his imagination for a column almost every day of points on the "Game of Politics" and it is also amazing to imagine that what he produces is eagerly read and more or less vociferously applauded, mentally, every day by an admiring audience. But, it must be true, for the first page space of the Sun is very valuable.

We suspect that Mr. Kent secretly has a strong admiration for the President. He must have, for any ordinary man must have long ago resigned his job as not worth the agony of the Kentian barbs. But, the "Great Game of Politics" is now a national feature, and a new central victim must be found.—Will it be Mr. Hoover? Who knows. If so, poor Herbert!

Our Strong Convictions.

Objections, whether mild or vehement, to criticisms aimed at conditions in the community in which we live, on the part of some, are natural and deep rooted. The little word "my" is the most important one in all human affairs. We resent the imputation that there is anything wrong with My dog, My house, My faith, My religion, My country, or My community. Loyalty is a basic attribute and without it even governments would fall.

We have our convictions along certain lines and we are prone to continue to cling to those convictions and become aroused when it is hinted or assumed that we should change our mode of thinking, the manner in which our town is governed, the application of our religious theories, or change anything else from the way in which we are accustomed to believe or act. The result is that we go a long way to find arguments for going on believing or doing as we have been accustomed to believe or act.

The point we are trying to make is that if we find ourselves in a rut, if we find we are not making progress as an individual or as a community, and any suggestion, however feeble, is made as to the manner in which we can make a detour and get on a smoother road and make better progress, we should adopt those suggestions, even though it means the casting aside of some of our most cherished beliefs and customs.—Cor, in Mountain Democrat, Oakland, Md.

Quail Die of Thirst

Dr. Joseph Grinnell, ornithologist of California, believes that lack of water explains the disappearance of quail in many parts of that state. He has made investigations and finds that areas formerly supplied with water are now dry owing to climatic changes and reclamation work and have become uninhabited as nesting grounds for the quail.

Doctor Grinnell does not believe that vermin has accounted for the disappearance of the birds so much as the lack of water, as the species of wild birds and animals designated as vermin also have become scarcer during recent years in the same area. Young quail which are hatched more than 400 yards from water and where rain does not fall or heavy dews occur shortly after they are hatched will die from thirst, says a bulletin of the American Game Protective association.

Louvain University

The restoration of the University of Louvain was brought about by the various nations of the allies. To the United States fell the privilege of rebuilding the library. The University of Louvain was founded more than two centuries before Harvard. At the time of its destruction the library contained but a quarter of a million volumes, but these works had been accumulating for five centuries. The site of the present library is the finest in all Louvain, occupying one entire side of the Place du Peuple. The architect was Whitney Warren, who was chosen by an international committee. The corner stone was laid by Nicholas Murray Butler.

ESSEX THE CHALLENGER

Twice now .. in 30 days .. production has had to be increased

Essex the Challenger sweeps aside the barriers of price class. It challenges the performance, the style, the luxurious roomy comfort of any car at any price, on the basis that no other car gives you back so much for every dollar you put in.

A glance at its 76 advanced features reveals at once why Essex exceeds no car in its challenge. For point after point in fine car construction, performance and detail, brings you directly to costliest cars to find comparison.

It is the finest, largest, roomiest, most brilliantly performing Essex ever built, and the price the lowest for which Essex ever sold—but little above the lowest priced car on the market.

With above 70 miles an hour top speed, Essex the Challenger, in thousands of demonstrations, is proving the endurance and ability to do 60 miles an hour all day long.

That is why the acceptance of Essex the Challenger is the talk of motordom. Join the van of 1,000,000 Super-Six owners who are demonstrating its right and ability to challenge the best that motordom offers.

Watch That "Stepped Out" Pleased Leslie

Little Leslie Luckboy had been given a beautiful watch—which, by the way, was his first—as a Christmas present.

Funnily enough, he did not seem very excited about it, and managed to restrain his enthusiasm in a very marked manner. However, he went out to a party, and returned in tremendous spirits, exclaiming:

"I've got a ripping watch!"

"I'm so glad you like it," said his mother, duly pleased at his joy which up to now he had concealed.

"Yes," he continued, "it's half an hour ahead of Lew's watch, and it's a whole hour ahead of the church clock. It beats them all!"—London Answers.

Big Preparation for Bow Before Royalty

Presentation at court involves considerable preparation in advance and those who have been favored with this honor must adhere strictly to the details of the program, says the London Graphic. A few minutes' lateness is unpardonable and would, in all likelihood, result in the disappointment of the candidate for royal honor, which would be a tragedy indeed after having undergone the long and tedious process of preparation. This often means a long string of carriages and automobiles forming for hours before the time set for the reception. Here the debutantes and others to be presented wait sometimes for as long as three hours till the time for entering the palace arrives. It is still daylight when the blockade of cars forms and swarms of curious people walk up and down the Mall close to the curb and gaze through the windows of the vehicles at the faces and gowns of the ladies in their court dress. The scrutiny is far from timid and casual, in many cases quite impudent.

Passé

There was a little gathering in the church vestibule, waiting for the new baby to be christened and friends of the family were taking the opportunity to admire the tiny newcomer. Over in the corner, three-year-old Betty Lou sat in lonely state, a wee bit jealous of the attention being paid the baby brother. Finally an observant friend noticed it and cried out tactfully:

"What a pretty dress you have on today, Betty Lou!"

"Yes," sighed the child disconsolately, "but myself is old."

God took my loved one from me, It was his holy will There's not a day that passes Which does not fill my eyes with tears.

Into sweet rest he has entered, No more to suffer with pain; He is smiling upon us from Heaven, Where I'll meet my husband again.

I once had a cheerful happy home, And a devoted husband, who stood by me But now since he is dead and gone, My home is not what it used to be.

By his Sad and Loving WIFE.

Through the house we wander sadly, Through the home so sad and dreary, In each room we find some token, Of our dear father who is not here.

Oh, the blow was hard to bear; Only those who have lost a kind father Can our life-long sorrow share, We miss thy kind and willing hand Thy fond and earnest care.

Our home is dark without thee, We miss thee everywhere.

By his sad and loving CHILDREN.

My dear brother, is near and dear, Life is sad without you here, I think sometimes it cannot be, That I thy loving face no more can see.

What happy hours, I once enjoyed, How sweet the memory still; But you left an aching void, This world can never fill.

On the hillside, softly sleeping; Far away from care and pain, May you rest in Jesus' keeping, For I hope to meet again.

He's gone, but was so young and fair; He slumbers sweet, but knows no care, His heart was true, his life was young, Let not our will, but God's be done.

By his Loving Brother and Wife, MR. & MRS. CLARENCE ECKARD.

Oh, dear brother, I did not know the pain you bore, I did not see you die, I only know you went away, And never said good-bye.

You are not forgotten, dear brother, Nor will you ever be, As long as life and memory lasts, I will remember thee.

There I will meet my dear brother, Who has journeyed on before; There I'll walk and talk together, On that bright celestial shore.

By his Loving Sister, CARRIE ECKARD.

In Memory of MISS EFFIE J. AIRING, who died February 12th., 1929.

A precious one from us is gone, A voice we loved is still, A place is vacant in our home, Which never can be filled.

Yes she has gone to Heaven above Where all is joy and peace and love, "Lord not our will but Thine be done," THE FAMILY.

IN MEMORIAM In loving remembrance of our dear mother MRS. J. T. SHRINER, who died Jan. 24, 1929.

Dear mother, it seems so hard for us to realize, That thou art gone forever; But we will live in hope until, That day when we shall meet together.

It was so hard for you to die, We heard you whisper to us: God's strong hand was with you still, As he called you to do His will.

Dear mother, when the flowers bloom, And the trees in beauty wave; We will gather up a little bunch, And lay them on your grave.

Her Loving CHILDREN.

In Loving Memory of our dear wife and mother, MRS. SARAH E. FLOHR, who passed away three years ago, March 7th., 1926.

Today recalls sad memories Of a dear mother gone to rest, And the one who thinks of her today, Is the one who loved her best.

Her eyes are closed that looked on life Through mists of pain and tears, But God has opened them above, To smile through endless years.

Just gone ahead to kindle the lights For us another long, long trail; To guide our way at the close of days To the country beyond the veil.

You suffered hours, yes hours of pain, To wait for cure, but all in vain; The God above, knew what was best, He called you home to give you rest.

From this world of pain and sorrow, To the land of peace and rest, God has taken you dear mother, Where you have found eternal rest.

By her loving husband and daughter, MR. GEORGE FLOHR and MRS. BESSIE MOSER.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR TOPIC

March 3rd.—Recruiting For Christ.—Matt. 9:35-38.

Consecration: The first step in recruiting for Christ is that of consecration of self. It is possible that toiling in the Kingdom and in the ordinary affairs in life that one has become a bit tired and weary. Tarry a while by the Divine fountain and be refreshed. Talk with thy Father before attempting to work for Him.

Organization: Call a meeting of the Executive Committee and organize for a campaign. One group of workers will endeavor to increase the attendance and the other group will endeavor to win souls for Christ. Be sure and select workers that are especially adapted to the work assigned them. Prepare a list of prospects. Give them the names you desire them to visit.

Good and Bad Hawks

The biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture points out that there are a number of different species of hawks, and the food habits of all are not the same. Some prey almost entirely upon small mammals, such as mice, ground squirrels and rabbits, whereas the food of others consists chiefly of birds.

The bird eaters should be killed at every opportunity, according to the survey, but it is equally important that the others be spared, for they do a great deal of good in destroying small animal pests of the farmer. The bird-eating hawks include the Cooper hawk and the sharp-shinned hawk and these species prefer to capture their prey by swift, fierce darts from the concealment of thicket foliage.

Big Family

The stork had brought a new baby girl to the family and father came scudding to the breakfast table to announce to the four assembled small ones, Sam, Sally, Lois and David, that there was a tiny new sister upstairs.

Four small, grave faces turned to him, as he said cheerfully: "Isn't it great to have five children? A big family is so much more fun than a small one, I don't believe there is a happier family anywhere than ours."

"There's the orphans' home," said five-year-old Lois thoughtfully.

Dance to Health

Modern science is getting back to some of the same beliefs that held sway in primitive society. Particularly is this true in the matter of physical and mental health, for science now subscribes to the ancient theory that physical exercise leads to mental as well as physical health. The lively Italian folk dance, called the Taranella, dates from this period and derives its name from the fact that the cure for spider bites was generally believed to be a wild dance unto exhaustion.—James G. Dunton in "The Dance Magazine."

Poor Man

"A thorough gentleman, the most polite man I ever met."
"Yes, Algernon. Jenkins was that."
"But he died unhappy, very unhappy."
"So, Algernon, so?"
"Yes, he was afraid his relatives would think his last gasp for breath was a hiccup and he wouldn't be able to excuse himself."

Oh, Daniel!

A big-game hunter in Rhodesia tracked down a lion and wounded it. The beast turned on him, beat him to the ground, and was about to finish him off when the flap of the hunter's collar turned over.

Instantly the lion bounded off into the bush.

Wondering at his miraculous escape, the hunter looked down at his collar. He saw, on the inside, his name: "Daniel!"

FOR THE BOND ISSUE.

(For Record.) All thoughtful citizens of our county should be greatly interested in the proposition to place our public school system on a par with other communities. It is a fact that a large number of our best people do not realize that we are extremely indifferent, neglectful and backward in our lack of support to real efficient public education. It has been my privilege to observe the striking difference in public educational advantages offered here at home and in

OSNABURG COVERS TRUNK KEPT IN BEDROOM

Wardrobe Trunk Camouflaged by Covering of Osnaburg.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Here's a suggestion for a girl or woman who must live more or less in one room and keep all of her possessions there, too—whether she happens to be a college student, a business woman, a teacher away from home, or any daughter in any family. A trunk or box of some sort is almost a necessity for adequate storage of articles not in constant use; often it is a wardrobe trunk, which is convenient and takes the place of a chest of drawers, but which is at the same time without charm as an addition to the furnishings.

One clever business woman, following a suggestion of the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture, camouflaged her wardrobe trunk with plaited drapery of osnaburg, tacked to a board that fitted over the top of the trunk. The top was used like any shelf or table top, to hold two candlesticks and a decorative basket. When the drapery was thrown back it was easy to pull out the drawers. A similar method of concealment converts the ordinary type of trunk into a seat or an extra shelf. A flat-topped sewing machine, often needed but not steadily in use, may be transformed into a dressing table by osnaburg hangings fastened to a removable board.

Osnaburg, which is also known as almanac cloth and Greenville cloth, is a relative newcomer among upholstery and drapery fabrics, although it has long been used in the South for industrial purposes. It is a heavy, inexpensive, cotton fabric with a somewhat irregular loose weave that gives it an artistic charm for hangings and furniture covers, couch spreads and similar uses. The natural unbleached color is excellent because it harmonizes with other colors in the room, or may be trimmed with colorful bands of cretonne. Osnaburg takes dye easily, however, and may be made any preferred shade.

ARTICHOKES USED TO MAKE PICKLES

Also Good Boiled, Baked, Fried, or Served Raw.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Increased interest is being shown in the Jerusalem artichoke, both as a human food and as a forage crop. As a human food it gives a pleasant variation to potatoes and garden roots. It has long been known that the Jerusalem artichoke stores its carbohydrates as inulin instead of starch, and it is claimed that it may be used by diabetic persons to a much greater extent than foods containing an equivalent amount of starch.

It has promise also as a source of levulose, or fruit sugar, which is derived from inulin as dextrose or corn sugar is derived from cornstarch. Levulose, which is a very sweet sugar, with many potential practical uses in cookery, has heretofore been found very difficult to crystallize and is still made only in small quantities.

Probably the widest use of Jerusalem artichokes for human food at present is in the form of pickles. But they may be boiled, baked in the casserole, fried as chips, or served raw in thin slices with other vegetables in salads. In this form they make a very good substitute for the "water chestnuts" used by the Chinese in chop suey, and may be used when the Chinese ingredients cannot be obtained. The tubers are irregular in shape and somewhat tedious to scrape or pare for table use. If well scrubbed they may be baked or boiled in their skins and then easily peeled, and be served in many of the ways potatoes are served—mashed or creamed, au gratin, or in cream soup.

Foods Containing Oils

Defined as Adulterated

In answer to the frequent requests received by the United States Department of Agriculture for information concerning the legality of adding mineral oil to foods, officials charged with the enforcement of the federal food and drug act have issued the following statement:

"Mineral oil is not digested and assimilated. It has neither food value nor condimental value; it therefore has no proper place in food products. Its use in foods, either as a substitute for edible oil in such products as mayonnaise, salad dressings or household flavors, or for other purposes lowers the food value of the finished product. This is expressly prohibited by those provisions of the federal food and drug act which define a food as adulterated if any substance has been mixed and packed with the article so as to reduce or lower or injuriously affect its quality or strength, or if any substance has been substituted wholly or in part for the article. Products containing mineral oil intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease are drugs within the definition of that term set up by the act and should be plainly and conspicuously labeled as such. No unwarranted therapeutic claims should appear upon the labels or be made otherwise in connection with the sale of such products."

Jellied Cider Salad Is Favored During Winter

While cider is at the height of its season during the winter months, some of this delicious product may be used for salad or dessert combined with gelatin. The bureau of home economics contributes the recipe for jellied cider salad given below.

- 3 1/2 cups clear cider
- 2 tbs. gelatin
- 1/2 cup finely chopped celery
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 1 tbs. finely chopped parsley or green pepper.
- 1 tbs. finely chopped pimiento.

Soak the gelatin in 1/2 cup of cold cider. Heat the remainder to the boiling point and pour into the gelatin. Stir until dissolved. Strain and chill the mixture. When just beginning to set stir in the vegetables and the salt. Pour into individual molds which have been rinsed in cold water. When set turn onto lettuce leaves and serve with French or mayonnaise dressing. For a dessert use cider and gelatin in the same proportions and in place of the chopped celery, pepper, parsley and pimiento, put in equivalent amounts of any dried fruits you have on hand, chopped dates, raisins, or figs, and a few nut meats. Use half the amount of salt and add sugar if necessary. When molded serve with plain or whipped cream.

Rabbits Are Delicious

Cooked in Various Ways

Wild rabbits are found in many city markets during the open season in any state. Domestic rabbits may be considered a year-around food. While many people enjoy the gamey flavor of wild rabbit, others do not, and so do not become acquainted with the delicious meat of hutch-fed rabbits, which is more delicate.

Rabbits can be cooked in any of the ways chicken is cooked. Young, tender rabbits may be fried or baked, and older ones cooked en casserole or simmered in brown or tomato gravy.

In the small family that finds a turkey too large for its powers of consumption or for its pocketbook, a casserole of rabbit that has been cut in pieces, browned in bacon fat, and then baked in a gravy will be found a very acceptable meat. Any preferred vegetables may be cooked with the rabbit or served separately, as with chicken. Cranberry sauce or any other jelly liked with meat adds a festive touch to the menu, as do a few pickles or olives, radishes, celery, salted nuts, and other popular accessories to the main foods.

Winter Care of Feet

Color is unquestionably the basis of winter chic, and the college girl begins at the beginning—that is, at her feet. Colored wool socks, rolled down over substantial-looking shoes, carry out the color note of her campus costume—red with a brown-and-red sweater combination, for example.

Winter winds are forcing the addition of sheer hosiery under these socks, but as long as possible many college girls wear stockings.

Easy to Prepare.

A delicious dessert is made by spreading a layer of shredded coconut over a piece of sponge cake, and filling strawberries and whipped cream on top.

Community Building

Benefits in Community Foresight Are Outlined

It pays a city, just as it pays an individual, to look ahead and plan its future. Most of the larger cities of America have accepted the idea. Some have been applying it with good results; others have been inclined to lag. In the latter class Kansas City must be included.

A few days ago a promising move for regional planning in this metropolitan area was started. In the city proper, planning is a familiar topic. Yet Kansas City remains without a comprehensive program for development through a period of years, with definite projects listed for attention in the order of their urgency, as nearly as can be determined in advance, says the Kansas City Times.

That it is practicable to frame such a plan has been shown by other cities, notably Chicago and more recently Detroit. In the latter a ten-year program has been devised, with improvements listed and their approximate cost and the necessary tax rate determined. Another example, of a somewhat different type, is furnished by Philadelphia. It is announced that construction there, much of it private, will involve an expenditure of $400,000,000 in the next five years. Through co-operative effort, the aim will be to distribute the work through the years that employment and other conditions affected may be reasonably stabilized.

The program is only in the stage of serious consideration, but it invites attention through its obvious possibility and benefits. It is said that unemployment in the city is only about 5 per cent. Thus to provide work for all who might desire it would be neither difficult nor burdensome. On the contrary, it would be sound business procedure.

It suggests the feasibility of the Hoover proposal for stabilizing employment by orderly planning years ahead, with a reserve of construction projects and funds. In its public and private undertakings, the country will have to come around to this better way of doing business. The cities, especially, are in position to exercise foresight and lay their plans for orderly, businesslike development.

Painting Brick Needs Correct Color Choice

Chief among the reasons why brick is often painted is that paint brings color variety to this material. Of course there are a number of technical and practical reasons why many people prefer to have their brick homes protected with paint, but it is safe to warrant that color advantages play a strong and prominent part in influencing their decision.

"Can brick be painted, though, and just what effects may be obtained?" many people ask.

To the first part of the question the answer is, of course, "Yes," while the second half requires elaboration. The fundamental principle underlying successful painting is to adapt the type of finish to the material used. So, although brick may be painted nearly any color of the spectrum, it is wiser and in better taste to paint brick as brick and not try to make it look like something else. It is conceivable that under certain conditions a brick house might be painted white or cream with green trim, but since that color scheme is irrevocably associated with colonial houses with clapboard siding, it is not in the best of taste to advise this color scheme unreservedly.

Ornamental Shade Trees Are Most Desirable

Indianapolis used to be one of the most beautifully shaded towns in the country. Perhaps it still ranks high in this particular. But it is fast losing this distinction—and it was a real distinction. Perhaps private and voluntary effort can do something, says the Indianapolis News. Certainly property owners could, in many cases, plant trees in front of their homes. But we are not now thinking of ways and means, but only of the desirability of the end to be reached. Cleveland used to be known as the Forest city, and it was a proud name. There ought to be many forest cities in this country, and Indianapolis should be one of them.

Home Entrance Important.

The entrance should be hospitable and so placed as to help the harmony of the building—not necessarily in the exact center of the front wall, but in harmony with the other features of the house. One too frequently seen fault of modern houses is that the doorways are small. The fine, big doorways of some old-fashioned houses frequently reach well up to the sill of the second-story windows, and seem to extend a hospitable air of welcome to the incoming guest.

Growing City's Needs.

Clean and well-paved streets, hand-some kept parks and boulevards, well-ordered private property, clean skies and pure air will contribute greatly to the growth of the city, and what is at least as important to the health, comfort, and pride of the citizen.

RUMANIA GIVES GYPSIES FREEDOM

300,000 Nomads Will Be Assimilated by Nation.

Jassy, Rumania.—Three hundred thousand Rumanian gypsies will be assimilated by Rumania and become an integral part of the Rumanian race.

This is one of the great social reforms inaugurated by Dr. Julius Maniu, Rumania's new progressive premier. Unlike the gypsies of Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Yugo-Slavia who have been granted citizenship in these countries, the gypsies of Rumania are still regarded virtually as slaves.

Up to 1845 gypsy slave markets existed in Rumania. The price of a family of gypsies sold as slaves was about $50. When the United States was struggling with the slave problem during the Civil war Rumania decided to abolish gypsy slavery altogether, so that today gypsies are free to live their own unfettered, nomadic and primitive lives, where and how they will.

Rumania's large gypsy population is scattered all over the country. Large settlements of them are to be found in Moldavia, Walachia and Transylvania. Like their brother gypsies in the United States, they ply their trade as tinkers, blacksmiths, musicians, dancers, soothsayers and horse dealers. Those who cannot find regular employment live by theft and mendicancy.

Unlike the gypsies of Czechoslovakia or Hungary, who seem to be a superior caste, the Rumanian gypsies live in great squalor and want.

Although they allow themselves to be baptized in the Christian faith, they really pursue no religion. Their old women practice fortune-telling and are famous for their magic and sleight of hand.

America Sets Record in Road Construction

New York.—No nation has ever gone into road construction at such an amazing pace as has the United States during the last ten years.

Roy D. Chapin, chairman of the highway committee, National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, says that in less than ten years the public has voted virtually $10,000,000,000 to the construction and maintenance of roads, or enough to defray our cost in the World war, excluding foreign loans.

No public roads improvement in any era has remotely approximated the expenditure of these projects, and it is notable that the feat of raising the money has been accomplished with comparative ease.

During the last year four states, Louisiana, Iowa, West Virginia and Missouri, have voted a total of $240,000,000 in highway bond issues to facilitate completion of their main state systems.

New York has more high-type highways than any other state, with 11,000 miles of hard-surfaced roads. Illinois leads in cement pavements, with 6,000 miles, while Indiana has the largest mileage of all types of hard-surfaced roads.

Two states have already completed initial improvement of all of their roads. These states are Maryland and Delaware.

The Department of Commerce estimates that there are 6,500,000 miles of highways in the world, of which more than half are in the United States. When only the improved roads are considered, the United States has much more than half.

French Citizen Claims He Invented War Tanks

Lille, France.—A man who says he is the real inventor of the tanks used during the World war has brought suit against the state for $600,000 damages for having communicated the plans of his invention to England.

M. Parisot de Rupt, who claims to have invented the war tanks, was managing editor of the "Political and Literary Annals" during the war. He has already protested to the ministry of war and the premier's office, but having received no answer has now taken his grievance to court.

Bobbed Her Age

New York.—Irving Cole is seeking an annulment on the ground that his bride bobbed her age and not her hair, in effect. He avers she was thirty-five instead of twenty-seven, as represented.

Astronomer Finds Great Gas Cloud

Ithaca, N. Y.—A vast cloud of gas, lying in space in the northern heavens near the constellation Cassiopeia's Chair, has been found by S. L. Boothroyd, professor in charge of the Fuertes observatory of Cornell university.

The observations were made while working at the Dominion Astrophysical observatory at Victoria, B. C.

Although the cloud is invisible even through telescopes, the spectroscope not only revealed its presence, but showed its composition, which is calcium gas. Calcium is the mineral that makes bones hard.

HOW TO STAND WHILE MOPPING OR SWEEPING

Good and Bad Posture While Mopping or Sweeping Floor.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

How do you stand when you mop or sweep or oil a floor? Erect and square on your feet, with your back straight, bending, if at all, from the hips, your head in a normal easy position for inspecting your work? That's the correct posture for mopping or working with any long-handled implement on a floor. The picture shows a farm woman demonstrating good working posture to other members of her club in Hampshire county, Mass. The subject of good and bad posture in doing various household tasks was introduced at a home demonstration meeting by the county extension agent, and followed by a series of interesting poses illustrating good and bad positions at several sorts of housework, such as washing dishes, handling food at the oven and sitting to peel vegetables, as well as the job of mopping or sweeping.

It is being more and more widely recognized that there is an important connection between good posture and avoidance of fatigue in doing any sustained piece of work. Poor posture strains the muscles of the neck and back, hinders the circulation, cramps the chest, and often forces the abdominal organs out of place, and after a time may result not only in fatigue but in poor body condition. Farm women are especially interested in whatever knowledge can be applied to their problems to make their work easier and their possession and enjoyment of leisure greater. Compare the good posture in mopping with the bad one, in which the hips and abdomen are thrust forward in such a way that the shoulders are slouched and the head is out of line with the body and the neck muscles are stretched.

Cauliflower au Gratin

Is Especially Favored

Almost any vegetable that is good with white or cream sauce may be still further enhanced by being served "au gratin," with grated cheese and buttered crumbs sprinkled over the top and delicately browned just before the dish is sent to the table. Cauliflower is especially good prepared in this way. The bureau of home economics tells how to do it.

- 1 cauliflower, med-1 cup fine bread um size, crumbs.
- 1 cup milk
- 1/4 cup grated cheese
- 4 tbs. butter
- 2 tbs. flour
- 1/4 tsp. salt

Select a close white head of cauliflower. Remove the green leaves, and retain the most tender ones to cook with the cauliflower. Break the head into flowers, and wash thoroughly in cold water. Drop the cauliflower into enough lightly salted boiling water to cover, and cook until tender, about 15 minutes.

Prepare a cream sauce of the flour, 2 tablespoonsful of the butter, the milk, and the salt. The remaining butter should be melted and mixed with the bread crumbs. Place the cooked cauliflower in a greased baking dish, pour over it the cream sauce, cover with the grated cheese and the bread crumbs on top. Bake until the crumbs are golden brown. Serve from the dish in which it was baked.

Fried Bananas Served

With the Meat Course

Fried bananas are usually served with the meat course. As they contain considerable starch, potatoes or other starchy vegetables may be omitted, but cabbage, spinach, or some other leafy vegetable should be included as usual. The directions for preparing fried bananas are from the bureau of home economics.

- 4 ripe bananas
- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup flour
- 1/4 cup milk
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1 tbs. sugar
- Dried sifted bread crumbs
- Lemon juice

Select ripe bananas, remove the skin, scrape off the stringy portions, and cut the bananas in half lengthwise. Dip the pieces of banana into the batter made from the flour, milk, sugar, egg, and salt, and then roll them in the bread crumbs. Fry the bananas until a golden brown in shallow fat, and drain on paper to remove excess fat. Serve hot and squeeze lemon juice over the bananas.

Something Nice

Six carrots, three oranges, and one lemon, cut up, measured, sweetened with two-thirds as much sugar, and cooked until clear, will make a delicious marmalade.

Keep the Juice.

One way to retain every bit of the juice in a beefsteak is to brush it with blended butter and flour before you stick it on the broiler.

Don't Hurry Cooking.

Whenever you are cooking custards or any mixture in which eggs are the main ingredients, a low temperature is most satisfactory.

SWEET POTATOES

IN TWO NEW WAYS

Pleasant to Vary Manner of Cooking Occasionally.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Sweet potatoes appear so often in the winter menus that it is pleasant to vary the way of preparing them occasionally. Here are two suggestions from the bureau of home economics:

Sweet Potatoes and Pineapple.

- 3 medium sized sweet potatoes.
- 1 can crushed pineapple.
- 4 tbs. melted butter.
- 1/4 tsp. salt.

Select a dry mealy variety of sweet potato and cook in the skins in water to cover. When tender, cut in slices or rounds of uniform thickness, and place on a flat buttered baking dish. Pour the pineapple over the potato, sprinkle with salt, and add the butter. Bake in a medium oven until light brown on the surface and the sirup of the pineapple has thickened. Serve from the baking dish.

Baked Sweet Potato With Raisins.

- 6 medium sized sweet potatoes.
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1/2 cup seedless raisins, plumped.
- 1/2 cup top milk
- 3 tbs. melted butter.

Wash and cook the potatoes in their skins. When tender, scrape off the skins and mash the potatoes or force them through a potato ricer. Mix the milk, melted butter, and salt with the potato and beat until light. Pour hot water over the raisins, and let them stand for a few minutes until plumped; then drain, and add to the sweet potato. Grease a baking dish and pile the potato lightly into the dish. Put in a medium oven to heat through and brown lightly over the top. Serve from the baking dish.

Deep Sea Pie Valuable for "Emergency Shelf"

Perhaps you are one of those forehanded housekeepers who keep on hand, on an "emergency shelf" in the pantry, a constant supply of certain valuable and nonperishable foods that can be pressed into service for the unexpected guest or the day marketing could not be attended to. Here's a good recipe from the bureau of home economics to add to your special list of dishes that can be made from the materials on the emergency shelf or among your staples.

- 2 cups diced salt cod fish.
- 4 cups tomatoes
- 1 bay leaf
- 6 cloves
- 1/2 onion
- 4 tbs. butter
- 4 tbs. flour
- 2 cups mashed potato.
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 3 drops tabasco

Soak the codfish in cold water until sufficient salt has been removed, and then cover and cook in fresh water for 10 to 15 minutes, or until tender. Prepare a tomato sauce by cooking the spices and seasoning with the tomato for 10 minutes. Strain, and to the tomato juice add the melted butter and flour, which have been blended. When thickened, mix with the drained cooked codfish and pour into a buttered baking dish. Cover the top with mashed potato and bake until the potatoes are brown.

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. F. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1929, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for March 3

THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH

LESSON TEXT—Eph. 1:22, 23:4-6, 11-16.
GOLDEN TEXT—So we, who are many, are one body in Christ.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Serving God in Our Church.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Serving God in Our Church.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Meaning of Church Membership.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Nature and Function of the Christian Church.

I. What it is.
It is the body of redeemed men and women, Jews and Gentiles, called out from the world, regenerated and united to Jesus Christ as head, and to each other by the Holy Spirit.

1. It was unknown in the Old Testament time (Eph. 3:5, 6).
There were saved people in that time, but people occupying the peculiar position as members of Christ's body only could enjoy such relation after the crucifixion, and coming of the Holy Spirit.

2. Predicted by Christ (Matt. 16:18). Shortly before Christ's going to the cross, the church was spoken of as still in the future.

3. It began at Pentecost (Acts 2). That which Christ predicted as to the church began to be historically fulfilled on the Day of Pentecost.

II. Christ is the Head of the Church (Eph. 1:22, 23).
Christ is to the church what the head is to the human body.

III. The Unity of the Church (Eph. 4:4-6).
1. One body (v. 4).
United with Christ by faith, all believers are members of one body, of which He is the head.

2. One Spirit (v. 4).
The Holy Spirit is the agent in regeneration, and is the life uniting believers to Christ and to one another.

3. One hope (v. 4).
The hope of completed redemption at the coming of the Lord.

4. One Lord.
The one ruler of the church is Christ Himself (v. 5).

5. One faith.
Those who are under the control of the one Lord will more and more come into the unity of doctrinal beliefs.

6. One baptism (v. 5).
This is the baptism of the Holy Spirit, which is that sovereign act of the Spirit which unites believers to Jesus Christ as head and to each other as members of His body.

7. One God and Father of all.
He is the Creator and sustainer of the universe.

IV. The Ministry of the Church (Eph. 4:11-16).
1. The ministry of certain officials (v. 11).
Gifts were bestowed upon the church for its growth.

(1) Apostles. These were appointed by Christ to superintend the preaching of the gospel in all the world, and to create an authoritative body of teaching.

(2) Prophets. These ministers were given for the expounding of the Scriptures, the body of authoritative teaching (1 Cor. 14:3).

(3) Evangelists. These seem to have been traveling missionaries to gather in the members constituting the body of Christ.

(4) Pastors and teachers. The pastor was a shepherd and teacher—two functions inherent in the one office.

2. Object of the ministry of the church (v. 12).
(1) "Perfecting of the saints."
Here is meant the mending of that which had been rent—the adjusting of something dislocated.

(2) "For the work of the ministry" (v. 12).
The perfecting of the saints has as its object their qualification to render a spiritual service.

(3) Edifying of the body of Christ.
Edify means to build up the church, the body of Christ.

3. The duration of the church's ministry (v. 13).
This ministry to continue till:
(1) We come into the unity of the faith.

(2) Till we come into the knowledge of the Son of God.

(3) A perfect man, which is the measure of the stature of Christ.

4. The blessed issue of the ministry of the church (vv. 14-16).
(1) Not tossed to and fro and carried about by every wind of doctrine.

(2) Speaking the truth in love.

Already Existent
The Christian ideal, when once it is clearly apprehended, becomes already existent.—The Times (London).

The Praise of Men
Among the chief rulers also many believed on Him; but because of the Pharisees they did not confess Him, lest they should be put out of the synagogue; for they loved the praise of men more than the praise of God.—John 12:42-43

When God Is Closest
God is closest to earth when His dwelling place is a consecrated human heart—a dedicated human intellect.—E. W. Donald

Much Sound Wisdom in Tagalog Proverbs

Following are proverbs of ancient repute among the Tagalog people in and around Manila: Nothing but rust destroys iron. Thorns thrust deep when the step is swift. Though you be far behind, wit may put you ahead. A drunken man may be twitted with impunity; not so he who is awakened from sleep. Noisy waters are always shallow. Never seek fortune; if really yours it will come of itself. Even water-soaked wood will burn if left long enough in the fire. Repentance never precedes the folly. The savings of today are the comforts of tomorrow. Even a rag, put away in the closet, will turn up for good use. The really wise will always shame him who merely pretends to wisdom. A small stool made of sound wood is better than a bishop's chair honey-combed with borers. When a pullet begins laying eggs, chickens may be expected. Criticize yourself before doing so to others. Be the aim never so exalted, the shaft goes no farther than the strength of the archer. He who spits at the sky gets the spray in his face. Pounding wet rice in the mortar only besmears the workman.

His Beard Too Close When Tire Blew Out

Probably the first man to devise a fluid to make automobile tires puncture proof was A. L. Dyke of St. Louis, a pioneer in the automobile industry.

The earliest automobiles had single-tube tires, made by bicycle tire manufacturers and glued to the rims of the wheels. They punctured with ease and frequency. When that happened it was necessary to stop, pry off the glued tire, stick rubber bands in the hole and glue them there, put the tire back, glue it to the rim and wait for the glue to dry.

Dyke brought out a sticky substance that could be squirted into a tire in place of air. But an Illinois physician, who wore a beard, was inspecting a tire thus filled when it blew out. He threatened to sue Dyke for the loss of his beard, for it had to be shaved off.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Difference in Quality of Mixed Dairy Feeds

(By A. R. MERRILL, Dairy Specialist, Connecticut Experiment Station.)
Whether the dairyman shall mix his own feeds or buy ready mixed rations is still an important question. Before it is definitely decided the dairyman should ask himself these questions:

1. Are the feeds he can buy as good as are contained in the ready-mixed rations?
2. Is it possible to secure a continuous supply of a large variety of ingredients?
3. Can the ingredients be mixed as thoroughly as they are in the commercial mixtures?

Undoubtedly he may be able to mix a ton at less money than he will have to pay for a similar commercial mixture, but when all things are considered there may not be the advantage that formerly existed. The last few years have witnessed a wonderful change in the quality of mixed feeds offered for sale. This improvement of quality has removed one of the reasons for home mixing. It also means that better feeds are being used in our commercial rations.

Low-quality feeds are still on the market and many of these find their way, as separate ingredients, to retail dealers. When a dairyman buys feeds for home mixing, he should be sure of quality or his supposed savings on the ton price may prove a loss at the pail.

Historic English Ports

The Cinque ports were originally five seaport towns on the coast of Kent and Sussex, England, called in early times "the five most important havens in the kingdom." They were enfranchised by Edward the Confessor. William the Conqueror subsequently granted them the privilege of an almost independent state, under command of a warden, with a court at Dover castle. The five ports were Sandwich, Dover, Hythe, Romney and Hastings. Winchelsea and Rye were added later. Up to the reign of Henry VII their chief function was the supply of the country's naval contingent. Dating from the revolution of 1688 their privileges were gradually abolished, the lord warden's jurisdiction ceasing in 1835.

No Snakes in Green Isle

The Biological survey says that there are no snakes native to Ireland and never have been, so far as there are authentic records. This is due to its geographic position, isolated as it is from the region in which these vertebrates originated and which they now occupy. A few attempts have been made to introduce harmless species, but as yet its records show none established on the island. This may be due to a lack of proper environment, climate, disease or other abnormal condition. The slow-worm or lag-worm, a legless lizard which superficially looks very much like a snake, is native to Ireland, and may account for some of the snake records of that country.

Horse Racing Old Sport

Horse racing has been called the "sport of kings" because it has been one of their amusements since the earliest dawn of civilization. Thothmes I of the Eighteenth Egyptian dynasty left a papyrus letter telling of his conquest of Mesopotamia and priding himself upon the acquisition of the racing horse (the Arab) and being the first to introduce him in Africa. Somewhat later the records tell of King Solomon buying horses from Egypt and paying as much as $3,000 for some of them. Among the Greeks horse racing was introduced into the Olympic games in the thirty-third Olympiad (648 B. C.).

Earned His Tip

Tippling was not unknown 100 years ago, one may see from the following article that appeared in a Pittsburgh paper in 1828:

"Mr. Beale received from Philadelphia on Monday last an entire load of oysters, principally in the shell. The wagoner was laden exclusively with oysters. He was 11 days only on the road and he received $100 carriage. In consequence of his expedition and his attentive and careful management Mr. Beale paid the wagoner $38 more than the amount usually received for the amount of lading."—Detroit News.

Health Hint

Loss of sleep is worse than starvation so far as its damaging effects upon the body and mind are concerned. If you keep regular hours there should be no difficulty about sleeping. If there is, find the cause before it undermines you.

WARM DRINKING WATER FOR COW

Specialist Favors Tank Heater and Windbreak.

Milk cows should drink about four gallons of water for each gallon of milk produced, but they will not drink sufficient water if it is cold, or if they are compelled to go into the cold wind to get the water, advises John O. Toliver, deputy state dairy commissioner, at the Colorado Agricultural college.

A tank heater to warm drinking water, and a windbreak to protect the tank and vicinity so the cow will not be exposed to the cold winds of winter while drinking, are recommended.

Toliver states that a cow naturally drinks as little cold water as possible, and will not produce nearly as much milk as she would if the water were warm, about 15 to 20 degrees above freezing point. Cows will stand with their backs lumped and shiver after drinking ice water. Their hair is rough and stands on end, due to the contraction of the skin.

To produce milk economically the cow's ration should consist largely of the more bulky, cheaper foods. These foods require considerable moisture in the process of digestion, and therefore large quantities of water are essential.

A tank heater can be purchased for $15 or $16, and will soon be paid for by increased milk production. Heaters that will burn either wood, coal or coke may be obtained.

Safe Delivery

A Melbourne man recently telegraphed from Sydney that he was about to leave by train for home. The message put up a stiff contest, and had the passenger walked from Spencer street would undoubtedly have won the race.

He took a taxi (in my opinion, an unfair advantage) and beat the wire home by a clear ten minutes. He was explaining to his wife that the telegram should have reached her the previous evening when his small daughter spoke up: "Daddy should have brought his telegram with him . . . those silly people might have lost it."—Sydney Bulletin.

Chinese Superstition

There are towers in Shanghai where men watch for fires. When one is discovered the fire-bell is rung. When the old custom house was built a large clock was placed in its tower. For some weeks after this clock began to strike the hours there were very few if any fires.

The Chinese said it was because the fire-god thought that every time the clock struck there was a fire announced, so he could rest without helping. All these things seem ridiculous to us but are very real to the Chinese.

New York's Early Days

An article published in the Christian Advocate says: "At the beginning of the Nineteenth century the 'commercial metropolis of the United States' occupied only the lower end of Manhattan island, what is now 'up town' being still made up of spacious farms and country estates, including the little village of Harlem. The actual measurements of the city proper are given as three miles in length (from the Battery to Fourteenth street), one and a half miles in width and eight miles in circumference."

Man and Fish

A fish's fear of man is born, a Carnegie institute's bulletin suggests, by the fact that he approaches from above, a direction from which the fish has learned to expect attack by birds or other enemies. When a man walks on the ocean floor in diver's dress, fish large and small display the greatest curiosity. Even the fierce barracuda, after nosing the diver in friendly and inquisitive fashion, must be pushed out of the way and goes without showing undue resentment.—San Francisco Chronicle.

London's Wall Street

Lombard street, the principal bank quarter of London, takes its name from the Lombards, Italian goldsmiths and money lenders who settled there in the Twelfth century. At that time they were commonly called "long-beards" and the thoroughfare was called Longbord and Longebred. A century later it was called Langebourne—meaning "long brook"—and this title is still maintained for the place where it was situated.

Breathless

The teacher was telling a story to the kindergarten and interest was intense.

"So that night the wicked red fox came and stole a chicken. The next night he came and stole another chicken. And the next night he came and stole another chicken. And"—dramatic pause—"what do you suppose happened the next night?"

"Oh, teacher!" panted Peter. "Did he get another chicken?"

Farmers Worked Up Over Spanish "Lions"

A wag's remark to farm tenants near Dover, N. C., during the Spanish-American war caused much apprehension for several days to the simple folk of the countryside. He told them the American naval and military forces were superior but Spain had "more lions." He even went so far as to say 500 of the beasts had been landed at Beaufort, not far away, the night before.

Taking up the joke, villagers rigged up a "horse fiddle," or resined box across which could be drawn a piece of wood as a bow, emitting sounds similar to the roaring of lions. This was secreted in the neighborhood and "played" throughout the night. The tenants were terrified and among some of them the belief in the lions remained alive for a long time. William Warters, resident of Dover, recalling the tale, said that for several days barred doors and loaded guns were the rule in the district.—Detroit News.

Only One Requirement Insisted On for Book

The affable salesman in New York book stores are seldom surprised at any request—the public demand being what it is. But one of them reports that the other day he had a request from a dignified little old lady that—to use his own words—"knocked him for a row of bookshelves."

"I want a book—any kind of a book—with a jacket that is green, with red in it," the little old lady said. She insisted it could be a cook book or one about the home life of the bee or South pole explorations—anything as long as its jacket was the color scheme she described.

"She wanted it," the salesman explained, "to match the decoration of her new reading lamp. Can you beat it?"

TANEYTOWN LOCALS

Items of news from town, or vicinity are always wanted for this column. Especially accidents, sales of real estate, fires, important happenings, visits to or from the community social events, and all matters of general interest to those at home, and away from home.

Miss Jestine Forney, of near Keysville, is seriously ill with bronchial pneumonia.

Percy H. Shriver, who has been ill most of the winter, is reported to be slowly improving.

Dr. Artie B. Angell, of Hamilton, Baltimore County, visited his mother, Mrs. Nathan Angell, over Sunday.

Miss Grace Withrow returned to Washington, on Sunday after visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Withrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Baile, Detroit, Michigan, who are here on a visit to their parents, called on friends in town, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Adra Thomas and R. B. Everhart, of Baltimore, were callers at the home of Mary Stover, on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. John Forney and daughter, Miss Beulah, of Philadelphia, Pa., spent the week-end with the former's sister, Mrs. Ida Landis.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carbaugh and daughters spent Sunday with Mrs. Carbaugh's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Stonesifer, at Uniontown.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Shirk and son, Albert, of Littlestown, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. John H. Shirk, and other friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Hesson and family, had as their guests at supper, on Tuesday evening, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Sanders, of Gettysburg.

Carroll D. Dern, who is a dental student at the University of Maryland, Baltimore, spent Washington's birthday at his home, in Taneytown.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Edgar Nusbaum and daughter, Ruthanna, son, Charles, of New Windsor, visited Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Bower and family, on Sunday.

The Edward Stuller property on George St., tenanted by Robert Bankert, was sold this week to Charles B. Money, who recently moved here from Ohio.

The week has been intensely disagreeable with rain and fog, following the heavy snow of last week, and the by-roads are in the worst condition they have been for a long while.

Mr. and Mrs. Holman Sell and children, of Littlestown, spent Sunday at the home of G. K. Duttera. Mr. Geo. Duttera and brother Eddie, of Littlestown, also called at the same place.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Grace Reformed Church will hold a Pillsbury Pancake Supper, March 2, in the Firemen's building this Saturday evening. Suppers will be served and cakes and candy on sale.

The Male Chorus of the Lutheran Church visited St. Matthew's Church, Pleasant Valley, on Wednesday evening, and rendered a number of selections at the Mid-week Service, Rev. W. E. Saltzgeber pastor.

The flag-raising at Tom's Creek School, which was to have been held Thursday, Feb. 28th., was postponed, on account of the weather, and will be held Monday afternoon, March 4th., at 2 o'clock, regardless of the weather.

The Firemen wish to take this means of thanking all who helped in any way to make their supper a success. We are not able to give a report of the net proceeds, at this time. A full report of same will be made later.

Miss Eliza Birnie, of Washington, D. C., spent the week-end with her mother and sister, Mrs. Geo. H. Birnie and Miss Eleanor. Mrs. Birnie who had been confined to bed for some time due to a fall, is getting along nicely.

In perhaps 100 copies of The Record, last week, in the poetry "Not Alone" by J. W. Slagenhaupt, an error occurred in the word beginning the second line of the chorus. The word should have been "Do," whereas it appeared "Wo" before corrected.

Mrs. Minerva Harman who has been spending the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Nettie Albaugh, of Walkersville, is reported to be in poorer health than usual, which her many friends here will be sorry to learn. Her pastor, Rev. A. T. Sutcliffe, visited her on Thursday.

Fishing Regulations.

Unlawful for any person over 18 years of age to fish by means of rod, hook and line in any waters of this State above tidewater, without procuring and having in possession at the time of fishing a license. Resident of State, cost of license $1.00. Non-resident of State $5.00. Persons owning land, their families, tenants and their families, bordering on the waters are not required to purchase a license to fish while standing on their own shore. Unlawful to loan your license to another. Penalty $10.00 for fishing without license.

The open season for trout, April 1st. to June 30th. Open season for Bass, and all other species of fresh water fish (except trout) July 1st. to November 30th. Unlawful to use a gig or gill net or have same in possession with lights in or near the waters of this State above tide. Lawful to use dip net for suckers, cat fish, carp, etc, from February 1st. to April 1st. Lawful to set out line or trout line, however no one line shall contain more than 25 hooks. Unlawful to use live bait on any out line or trot line. Unlawful to take any bass or trout on any out line or trot line. It is a penitentiary offense to use any dynamite in any of the waters of this State for the purpose of killing fish. No person shall, in any manner obstruct any stream above where the tide ebbs and flows, so that fish shall not have free access up and down said stream. The button received with license bearing the year must be worn in plain view at all times while fishing.

Tit for Tat.

Hotel clerk (to new arrival)—"How did you get in?"
New arrival—"I just blew in from Montana with a bunch of cattle."
Hotel Clerk—"Where are the rest of them?"
New Arrival—"Down at the stock yards—I ain't as particular as they are."

Tough Luck!

A close-fisted man bought two tickets at a raffle and won a $1,500 car. A friend rushed up to his home to congratulate him, and found him looking as miserable as could be.
"Why, man, what's the matter with you?" he asked.
"It's that second ticket. Why I ever bought it I can't imagine."

Back on the Farm.

A boy left the farm and got a job in the city. Wanting to impress his brother with his new life, he wrote:
"Thursday we auted out to the Country Club, where we golfed until dark. Then we motored to the beach and week-ended."
But his brother on the farm refused to be impressed, and wrote back:
"Yesterday we buggied to town and baseballed all the afternoon. Today we muled out to the cornfield and geahewed until sundown. Then we suppered and piped for a while. After that we staircased to our room and bedsteaded till the clock fived."

The Printer's Towel.

When I think of the towel,
The old-fashioned towel
That used to hang up by the printing house door,
I think that nobody,
In these days of shoddy,
Can hammer out iron to wear as it wore.

The tramp who abused it,
The devil who used it,
The comp. who got at it when these two were gone,
The make-up and foreman,
The Editor, poor man,
Each rubbed some grime off for the heap they put on.

In, over, and under,
'Twas blacker than thunder;
'Twas harder than poverty, rougher than sin.
From the roller suspended,
It never was bended,
And it flapped on the wall like a banner of tin.

It grew thicker and rougher,
And harder and tougher,
And daily put on more inkier hue;
'Til one windy morning,
Without any warning,
It fell on the floor and was broken in two.

—Credited to Bob Burdette once Editor of the Burlington (Iowa) Hawkeye.

Also a Riot of Color.

They were watching a gorgeous sunset.
"Did you ever see such a wonderful display of color?" exclaimed the poetle one.
"Nowhere, except on a flapper's face," replied the other.

USING HER VOICE

Mae—I always lower my voice when I ask hubby for money.
Any—And raise it if you don't get it, eh?

Mary's Lamb.

Mary had a little lamb
And had it trained just so;
It had a never tany went,
To'd jump or the shoe.

United Community Spirit.

There is vastly more sharp and conscienceless competition between towns and sections, than the average person realizes; which means that there is more need now for the exercise of united community spirit than ever before, and this too is something that many folks fail to realize. United effort, the combining of interests, all working together, is simply necessary protection.

"Every man for himself" is never a good motto, except when outside help can not be depended on. Usually there is a good sized town representing the centre—the whole interests—of a community, and this circle must stand together. It must, because other like centres are doing it and reaching out into the unorganized and unprotected areas, for business and favors, and the result is all in favor of the co-operating sections.

Make no mistake about the truth of this. Every town and community needs an active, fully awake, organization to look out for its interests, not only its business interests, but general community welfare. "Public Welfare" would be a good name of it, and not alone the business men, but all classes, should be for it.

Without question, we must often help others in order to help ourselves. Selfishly working our own little plans, alone, never gets us very far, in the long run.

Taneytown Home-makers' Club.

The Taneytown Home-makers' Club met Feb. 21st. The meeting was called to order by the president, and opened with a song, "America, the Beautiful." There were 35 members and six visitors present. The members answered roll-call with simple methods of cleaning furniture. Treasurer reported $46.60 from the evening games in January. The president announced that our share was $29.16 or 54¢ per member. Mrs. Geo. Baumgardner, chairman of the Friendly Committee, asked the members of the club to send her word of any illness of the members.

Mrs. Rein Mottter and Miss Mabel Leister have charge of the recreation period for the March meeting.

Miss Slindee gave a very helpful talk or demonstration on arranging the living room for comfort and convenience. All enjoyed the recreation period in charge of Mrs. David Little and Mrs. Robert Elliot. The meeting adjourned until the 21st. of March.

What has become of the old-fashioned husband who neither expected nor wanted his wife to be sensible?
