HOOVER INAUGURATED AS PRESIDENT

Rain Failed to Interfere with Long Program of the Day.

Herbert Hoover was inaugurated as the 31st. President of the United States, on Monday, at noon, at the customary spot out in front of the capitol building; vice-president Curtis having been installed as president of the Senate about an hour earlier. The day throughout was accompanied by rain in varying degrees, but it failed to interfere seriously with the long program, and each event was carried out on schedule time without a hitch of any kind. Mr. Coolidge retired with every outward demonstration of relief, and left for his home in Northampton, Mass., without returning to the White House from the Capitol; while vice-President Dawes left the office as he entered it, taking a shot at the antiquated rules of the Senate.

The entire program was broadcast by radio, to the world, and millions listened with a vast amount more of comfort than the rain-soaked thous-ands, who, while they actually saw and heard part of the day's proceedings, failed to enjoy the complete program as given by experienced an-

President Hoover's address was accompanied by a serious strain throughout, and his constructive intentions were strongly stated, indicating a wider program than any heretofore attempted by any President. His reference to Prohibition enforcement was especially pointed and lengthy, and contained an appeal to the people and to officials to assist him in carrying out this, and other laws, and thereby help to curb an increase in law violation of all kinds that has grown up in this country since the world war. Naturally, the Republican papers applaud the address, while the Democratic papers—especially the "wet" ones—consider it poor—the Baltimore Sun says it "belongs in second or third grade of

"No greater national service," he "No greater national service, he said, "can be given by men and women of good will—who, I know, are not unmindful of the responsibilities of citizenship—than that they should, by their example, assist in stamping out crime and outlawry by refusing participation in and condemning all transactions with illegal liquor.

But the list of things that are on the new Administration's agenda is long-farm relief, tariff revision, limited but apparently not strictly limited to the farm schedules, reorganization of the departments of the Government, expansion of public works, etc. The keynote of it all is these

"We are steadily building a new race, a new civilization great in its own attainments." Politicians often use words of similar intent, but one feels that Mr. Hoover means them.

The parade, and demonstrations generally, exceeded the more modest suggestions of President Hoover; but, public sentiment is strongly in favor of having a big show on the day, and The parade was one of the largest and most colorful ever seen in Washington. Of course, the rain interfered, but every person and organization taking part bravely performed their duty, both on the streets

There were two features of the af-ternoon that were enjoyed by radio listeners that the parade viewers missed. One was the talking back and forth between broadcasters on the ground, and three announcers sailing around far up in the air. The planes naturally brought in a lot of noise, but the voices from the air were understandable anyway. The second surprise—one not on the program at all—was a half-hour's gram from Palo Alto, Cal., President Hoover's home, broadcast by talent from Leland Stanford University of which the President is an alumnus. It was a very graceful tribute, made up largely of band music, organ and choir, the selections being of an appropriate character, and all were heard as clearly as the Washington

Among the many bodies in the parade Maryland was represented by a detachment of the Maryland National Guard that marched as an escort to Col. J. Craig McLanahan of the 110th. Field Artillery, who represented Gov. Mayor Broening, of Baltimore, and an auto delegation of 800 were escorted by motor policemen; and 200 city police also had part in the parade, as well as assisted the Washington Police Department.

New Roads in Frederick County.

From the $194,000 fund available the State Roads Commission has determined to build a mile of state road on each of the following routes in Frederick county this year: From Johnsville toward

From Myersville toward Wolfs-

From Libertytown toward New

From Middletown toward Jefferson. From the end of the present concrete road on the Ballenger pike.

At least one other mile road will be built in Frederick county this year, but the determination of which is to be selected awaits a further conference between the State Roads Commission and the Frederick County Commissioners.

BURGLARS IN TANEYTOWN

Reindollar Bros. Store and Mrs. S. H. Mehring's Home Entered.

Robbers broke into Reindollar Bros. & Co., hardware store at between 3 and 4 o'clock this Firday morning, and also into the adjoining dwelling of Mrs. Samuel H. Mehring. The hardware store was entered by forcing a back window in the cellar, and the door leading from the cellar to the store room was opened by cutting out part of the panel in the door. The dwelling part was entered by forcing a back window in the dining room, and also a back door to the cellar.

Mrs. Mehring heard the burglars at their work, and made a noise that apparently scared them away. The Reindollar brothers have not checked up on articles missing from the store, but a gold-filled watch was among the plunder. The supposition is that they were after cash, mainly, and as the cash register in the store is always emptied and left open, none was

The burglars left the store by a side door opening into the back yard and left it standing wide open. Apparently those who did the job were familiar with the building, perhaps having been there before on the same kind of a job. A long screw-driver taken from the store was left lay on the window sill of the dining room, and a stout bar of old iron was used in getting into the store. In the office in the rear of the store the iron safe was thrown over on its face, and the interior of the office partly generally ransacked, evidently for money. No money is ever left in the safe over night. Mrs. Mehring has not missed anything from the dwelling, but the lower portion of it was gone through, the probability be-ing that she scared the robbers away.

Children's Aid Society.

Down through the ages has come the challenge of the child—not your child, or mine, who has the advantages of food, shelter, loving parents, luxury perhaps—but the poor, forlorn, homeless, loveless little waif whom an unkind fortune has deprived of all those advantages that make for a healthy, happy childhood—that heritage to which every child is justly entitled.

2—Securing support from negligent parents for their children.

3-Assisting widowed mothers in the care of their children—thus keeping the home intact.

4—Finding employment for unmarried mothers with their babies.

5—Placing of orphan, neglected or abandoned children in foster homes.
6—Careful supervision of the child until he reaches the age of maturity.

7—Securing employment for boys and girls out of school—and encouraging them in habits of thrift.

8—Commitment of delinquent or mentally retarded children to schools for special training and treatment.

The work of the organization in the Taneytown district is in charge Miss Eleanor Birnie, Mrs. Wm. Bricker and Mrs. Walter A. Bower Mrs. Wm. F. Bricker is treasurer; and Miss Mary Fringer, secretary.

An appeal for financial assistance has been sent out this week, and it is hoped that it will be given earnest consideration. The membership is $1.00. Any donation will be gladly received by the Treasurer.

Concert at Blue Ridge College.

An especially attractive concert is to be given in the Blue Ridge College Auditorium, on Wednesday night, March 13, at 8 o'clock. Several visitors will take part on the program. They will be Miss Jean Connelly, soprano, who is a singer in one of the prominent churches of Baltimore; Mr. Nelson Huffman, tenor, who is director of music in Bridgewater College, Virginia, but in Baltimore this year on leave of absence; and Mr. James Bopst who is a student under Mr. Fisher at the Peabody Conservatory.

Those local musicians who will perform are Carolyn Bullock, pianist, Jeannette Bittner, soprano, Thelma Jeannette Bittner, soprano, Thelma Hobbs, pianist, Frances Smoot, so-prano, Nevin Fisher, pianist, Anna Spoerlein, soprano, Mary Malcolm, soprano, and Arlene Guyton, soprano. A musical reading by Miss Malcolm, a costume song by Miss Bittner and a series of twenty piano pieces, each of one minute's duration played by Mr. Fisher, promise to be unusually interesting.

The concert will be free, and the public is cordially invited to attend.

The State Roads Case.

The Grand Jury has again taken up the State Roads case and summonses have been issued for numerous witnesses, meanwhile the Grand Inquest Committee of the Legislature, sitting with the Governor's Committee, has wakened up a bit, and both authorities have heard a few witnesses this week, the evidence which has not been of great importance except to rehash ot of old known facts.

The general impression seems to be that the Grand Jury is the most apt to find new leads, if there are any to be found, and developments along this line may show up before long.

Get Ready for Summer Camps.

With the winter ending and the out-of-doors season coming soon, the State Department of Health is reminding owners or operators of summer camps that no camp can be operated without a permit and that only those camps that meet the State requirements for sanitation and general care, will be duly licensed. In the notices that have been sent to camp op-erators, Dr. R. H. Riley, director of the State Department of Health, calls attention to the fact that last year's permit does not hold over for a second year. A new permit is required for the 1929 season. Applications should accordingly be made promptly so that the necessary inspections can be made before the season opens. Applications must state the exact location of the existing, or proposed, camp, the approximate number of persons to be maintained, the probable duration of use, and the proposed method of sewage and garbage disposal. The regula-tions apply to all places used as a camp or picnic ground for a period of six days or longer and accommodating ten or more persons. During the coming season, the sup-ervision of the camps will continue to be under the direction of the Deputy State Health Officers, or local Health Officers of the section in which they are located, and of the Bureau of Sanitary Engineering of the State De-partment of Health. Camps that meet the requirements of the State Board of Health will be duly certified and will be posted with placards stating the approval of the Board. Operators or others interested in the establishment of such camps may obtain a copy of the application blank, the Rules and Regulations Governing Camp Ground Sanitation; plans for pollution together with plans for the proper disposal of sewage by writing to Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of State Department of Health, 2411 North Charles Street, Baltimore City, Plans for small living quarters in such camps, with advice in regard to suitable building materials, arrangement of doors and windows, etc., will also be sent on request.

THE PROPOSED SCHOOL BOND ISSUE

Strong Efforts Being Made to Win Without a Referendum.

On second page of this issue will be found the comments on the proposed oond issue of not less than $600,000 for schools, as they appeared in our county papers last week.

A large four-page "Important word to the citizens of Carroll County" has been issued this week, signed by Dr. A. N. Ward. We do not have the space for it, but will repeat the heading of the petition being circulated for signatures.

"Recognizing the serious shortage in adequate school building facilities and equipment in the schools of Carroll County, and realizing that these improvements cannot be made without serious inconvenience to the tax-payers by direct tax, we, citizens and voters of Carroll County, do herewith subscribe our names to petition the State and County Central Committees of both parties and the Senator and delegates in the State Legislature to sponsor a bill for a bond issue of not than Six Hundred Thousand ($600,000) Dollars without a referendum; these bonds to mature in a period of not more than thirty (30) years and the sale to be made by the County Commissioners upon demand by the Board of Education whenever the latter deem it necessary to construct new buildings, or reconstruct old ones, or take such other steps as seems advisable in the interest of the various communities of the County to better school conditions."

Other paragraphs cover the arguments used concerning the existing need for new buildings, while para-graphs 3 and 4 are as follows;

3. The conditions in Carroll County can be corrected, and should be corrected, no matter what the cost. But they can be corrected at no material increase in the tax rate.

4. A Bond Issue for $600,000, carried over a thirty-year period for redemption, could be floated for 4¼ percent. The distribution of the proceeds of this Bond Issue would be made as follows: Union Bridge, $60,000; Manchester, $50,000; Charles Carroll, $15,000; Sykesville, $75,000; Winfield, $10,000; Uniontown, $5,000; Westminster, $250,000; Mt. Airy, $45,000; New Windsor, $90,000. This distribution would provide for first-class work in the centers above enumerated, and would solve our school building problem for years to come.

The letter contains a table showing how the bond issue with $20,000 sinking fund each year, and interest, could be retired in 30 years, the total annual payments beginning with $45,500, and closing with $20,850., annually, or an average of $33,175 a year for 30 years, calling apparently for an average tax rate of about 9 cents. Those who care to see the complete letter can do so at The Record office.

Unquestionably there is a tremen dous sentiment against the proposition without a referendum, but just as unquestionably it is unorganized. It is perhaps true to say that fully three-fourths of the farmer sentiment is against the bond issue as proposed, and that sentiment in the towns and villages is very much divided. Opposition centers to a large the "no referendum" feature; but there is very great objection to the "not less than $600,000" clause, that would authorize the issue of any larger amount; and some to the proposed division of the sum between the various places. There is much doubt expressed as to whether there may not be, within 30 years, insistent demand both for more buildings, and for the enlargement of those built, and to be built.

The leaders among the petitioners have answers to all of these arguments that they think sweeps them away; they are apparently honest in their conviction that the situation is an exceptional one, and that at least in this case "the end justifies the means." An effort is being made to secure an average of 500 signers from each district. And so the whole matter stands at present as we see it.

The Bond Issue and Schools.

(For the Record.)

Give the Board of Education the little finger and they will want the wnole hand. I think the good citizens and taxpayers of Carroll Co., should think before they act in signing for the proposed bond issue as to how their money is being spent. I am of the same opinion as A. C. E's letter published in last week's Record in regards to maintaining a Board of Education.

The public in general will awake and realize, after it is too late, what a mistake the county is making by sacrificing the one and two room rural schools which affords good facilities. They did not have to teach in dark, damp cellars. It is true they do not have modern conveniences but what percent of the rural children have them in their homes? They are transported to the consolidated play houses at an expense on the county, (consolidated means packed together) where it is impossible for the teacher to get the proper attention of 45 or 50 pupils at one time, as most of them have their minds on the game of ball that is to follow

They are packed in school then pushed through. Last Spring there was a number of pupils who failed to pass (My child was one of them) but were told by their teacher, they would have to pass them into high school, to make room for the additional rural children pulsory education is alright, if applied right, but there should be a limit to it. If all students are to receive salried jobs, they will not molest the farmer, as he has no salaried jobs to give out. Who will do the farming in several generations to come?

The largest percent of hold-ups and wimes compiled to the salariest percent of the salariest percent per crimes committed are done by stu-dents who failed to get a salaried job and will not work because they possess a diploma. To care for all these students requires the building of larger jails and penitentiaries, which is expensive.

If the county must maintain a Board of Education, they should be elected by the people for a term of years, the same as our other county officers are and not appointed.

Taxpayer and Parent,
P. V. P.

To Citizens of Carroll County.

A meeting under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher Associations of Carroll County will be held Saturday afternoon, March 9th., at 2:30 o'clock, in the High School Building in Westminster. The Federation of the Parent-Teacher Associations is sponsoring a Bill for a Bond Issue for $600,000 without referendum, for the Schools of Carroll County.

At this meeting a petition will be presented to the Republican and Democratic State Central Commttees and to the delegation in the State Legislature from Carroll County, asking for their support and approval in the passage of such a Bill at the present session of the Legislature. The Board of County Commissioners and the Board of Education of the County will be invited also to attend this meeting, and a general invitation is given to the citizens of the County

A. N. WARD, Pres. Federation of the Parent-Teacher Associations of Carroll County.

Tax-payers of Carroll County.

Do you think it would be right to ask our delegates or Senator to introduce a bill in the legislature authorizing the commissioners to bond the citizens of Carroll County for $600,000 for school purposes without Prohibition Bill Signed.

President Coolidge signed the Jones prohibition bill, on Saturday, and it is now law. The vote in the House

Under its provisions, violations of the Volstead act now become felonies and as such are punishable by prison sentences of five years and fines up to $10,000, applicable alike, to first offenders or hardened old offenders.

Mere possession of liquor however does not come under the provision of the law. All other violations such as manufacture, sale and transportation of liquor do. In signing the measure, which was strongly opposed by the wets in Congress as well as some of the drys who thought the provisions too drastic, President Coolidge allowed it to become known that he believed the real purpose of the bill has been largely misinterpreted.

Rebellion in Mexico.

Mexico is again experiencing a revolution, this one perhaps more serious than most of the former ones, because of stronger leadership, and perhaps following. The rebel forces already claim possession of several of the states and of numerous large cities and centres. As yet but few important engagements have been held with the loval Federal

On the other hand the Federal forces appear to have captured rebel garrisons, in one case numbering 500 men. Another report is that the rebels captured Monterey with 570 men. As communications between the U. S. and Mexico are very poor, the real situation is difficult to report.

Mrs. Eiker Sentenced.

Mrs. Helen W. Eiker, who shot her husband, Percy D. Eiker, last July, was sentenced, on Monday, by Judge McPherson, to not less than five nor more than ten years in the Eastern Penitentiary.

Before imposing sentence Judge McPherson handed down a decision denying a new trial of the woman that has been asked by her court-appointed counsel, J. McDonald Swope. She had claimed the shooting to be accidental. The verdict in the case was second-degree murder.

Notice!

In last week's report of the Court Proceedings, in the case of Snook & Mercer vs. Littlestown Savings Institution, it was inadvertently reported that the verdict was for the defendant, which verdict was for the plain-Weant & Brooks, Attorneys for plaintiff, and Ivan L. Should Newspapers Solicit News or Subscription Support?

The Publishers' Auxiliary, a weekly paper published in the interest chiefly of weekly newspapers, in a recent issue took occasion to belittle certain habits of newspapers, especially appeals that "news items should be sent in," and "support the home town paper" by subscribing for it or advertising in it. We are inclined very strongly to disagree with such an attitude on the part of such a paper as the Auxiliary, which evidently sets | plainly is intended to preserve politi- | institutions. Universities and colleges itself up as authority on newspaper cal pap in callous disregard of the tax- supported by denominational bodies ethics without having the right to do payers. It strikes directly and foster a religious atmosphere peculiar

As we take it the Auxiliary and others who consider it bad form for a chines need but four officials in the paper to invite news, subscribers and polling booth. More of them means advertising-except on plain, outstand- sheer waste of money, and everybody ing, compelling merit alone-by pub- who knows anything about the malishing such a paper that is actually chines knows it. Yet the bill calls necessary to life, liberty, business and for six, and the purpose is to continthe pursuit of happiness and everything else worth while, leaving to its heelers and henchmen. And the reconstituents no option but to surrend- sponsibility is upon Democratic leader and come across with all kinds of ers, who, in the midst of party troupatronage and cash—are picturing a bles that should put the most reckless situation and an ideal newspaper that or the most stupid on good behavior, does not exist in the ordinary open proceed in this matter as though they field of weekly journalism.

This idealistic, super high-toned view, evidently decides that a newspaper should never use its columns to advertise itself, nor seek to boost itnot receiving all of the support that it would. Certainly no self-respectbegging either for news items nor for subscribers; and certainly every properly managed newspaper will do the of a command to "stand and deliver" ter stunt especially has its enforced two reasons. First, they have been limitations.

We like to think of the country newspaper-not subsidized by political or other special sources—as a cooperative enterprise; that there are very important mutual interests involved; that in consideration of the vast amount of free community boosting that a newspaper gives, it has a right to expect liberal support, and when that support is not forthcoming, said newspaper has a right—if it sees proper-to tell its community about it. It is its particular business, in its particular situation, to do as it thinks best about it, without any outside chiding, or cracking.

Using the argument that a newspaper should not solicit any favors, but earn them in some sort of compelling or hypnotic manner, is pure od of inculcating the desire to be "writing to fill up." Presumably the thritfy into the minds of children churches should follow the same plan —for both churches and newspapers are preachers and leaders—in which ents and teachers is that thrift cancase, fully one-half of the former not be fostered by compulsion. would have to close their doors if they were required to depend wholly on voluntary support, without any solici-

After thirty-five years experience, the Editor of The Carroll Record must confess that he does want some news "sent in" as he cannot be continually door bell ringing nor having paid reporters to cover the field; he does solicit advertising and subscriptions through the columns of The Record, at various periods, for the reason that paid solicitors for all the field are also impossible; he does try to publish a wanted paper, conduct a wanted service, and would be most glad to be relieved of any need for soliciting "others to do our work for plan of thrift practice. us;" but we meet conditions as we find them, as best we can. The Auxiliary is not a subscription way should conduct their business.

Insurance, and its Quality.

The part played by Fire Insurance in the economic life of this country is enormous, almost to the extent of its being unmeasurable. This is demonstrated in the fact that comparatively P. B. ENGLAR, Editor and Manager. few buildings are built solely with the owner's money, and that it is absolutely necessary to satisfy the creditor as to the security of a building loan, which means adequate insurance in a thoroughly dependable company. Insurance not only safeguards the owner, and direct creditor, but in effect acts as a community safeguard, especially considering the mounting totals each year of fire losses, which represents actual loss to the country as a whole, and has its effect on communities as a whole.

As a matter of fact, the cash for rebuilding operations comes largely from the insurance companies, without which the country would be headed toward bankruptcy. Therefore it is highly essential that every property owner should not only carry an adequate amount of insurance, but be sure of the safety and fairness of the company in which he carries it.

Even the reliability of an agent for insurance, and his general attitude of fairness toward the insured, as well as toward his company, is well worth considering, notwithstanding the fact that the Company itself may need no one to urge it to be fair. The agent is a very important third party to the issue of a policy of insurance, for numerous reasons.

A Plain Hold-up.

The voting machine bill introduced at Annapolis contains a provision that ue to provide little jobs for ward were living in the days of Gorman's domination.

It is a disgraceful performance, unworthy of any political organization with ideas above petty jobbery, or of self, by vulgarly intimating that it is one with any decent notion of its duty to the public. It is made worse, the offense is aggravated, by the report ing newspaper will be continuously that the Republican administration in Baltimore advocates eliminating useless election officials, but is the victim most it can toward making it wanted, as the price of enactment. Second, it has been represented that they effect economies which, over a period of years, would pay the cost of their installation. It now seems to be the strategy of the Democratic city machine to deny Baltimore one of the chief advantages of the machines .-

Denominational Colleges Many, But Relatively Small.

Of six hundred and twenty-four 4year colleges and universities in the United States, more than half (376) are under the control of denominational bodies, according to a study of higher educational institutions, by Dr. Walter J. Greenleaf, associate specialist in higher education of the United States Bureau of Education. Of the 376 denominational institutions, 102 are under Catholic control, 75 are under Methodist control, 55 Presbyterian, 46 Baptist, 23 Lutherans, 9 Friends, and the remaining 66 institutions are under the control of 19 different denominations.

Older colleges and universities of the country were founded and controlled by churches, religious groups, or sects, but later many denominational colleges grew away from the church and became nonsectarian. Other higner institutions were established and are controlled by the State, the city, and by private enterprise. Although denominational institutions compose 60 percent of the entire number of higher institutions, they enroll only 29 percent of all college students.

Twenty-three percent (142) of the institutions are under private nonsectarian control and enroll 31 percent of all college students in the country; 17 percent (106) are publicly supported institutions, and enroll 40 percent of all students in higher shamelessly at the economy of this to the creed of the denomination, but modern method of voting. THE BOND ISSUE

Comments on Same Contained in County Papers Last Week.

The Hampstead Enterprise said; "The question of a Bond Issue for school purposes as outlined in the Enterprise last week was brought before the local school organization, the Patron's Club, this week.

It was clearly brought out in the meeting that a large portion of the membership is opposed to the bill as proposed by the County Parent Teachr's Association.

The Club is opposed to the bill with out referendum feature. Many of its members feel that the taxpayers of the county should pass judgment in-asmuch as the burden of redeeming 4 H the bonds when due will fall upon

The Westminster Times said in part; "The Times has always taken the position that a bond issue is the only right and equitable method to pro-vide money for the new school build-ings that are so urgently needed in Carroll County. To provide money to erect five or six school buildings at an estimated cost of $50,000 to $250,the tax rate to a figure that would be nibitive and impossible. The already over-burdened taxpayers, especially the farmers, many business men and citizens of Carroll of small means, are not in a position to have their tax burden increased, and to many it would mean ruin and almost confiscation of their property even if they do live in a county with large bank deposits and resources.

Aside from the increase in tax rate that would be necessary to secure $600,000 for school buildings, it would be unfair to require the present taxpayers to provide the total cost of school buildings that the following generations will enjoy and have the benefit of, and by the bond method the future taxpayers would pay a proportionate cost of buldings provided for the education of their children.

This is and always has been our position, but we recognize that others do not agree with us and we see reason why we should quarrel or say bitter things about them.

There are others who favor a bond issue but claim the taxpayers should have a voice in deciding whether or not a large bonded indebtedness should be placed upon the county without a referendum. They have a right to their opinion and should not be abused or called names."

The Pilot, Union Bridge, contains efficiency are all matters which prim- the following "local" reference to bond

"Solicitors are busy securing signers for the $600,000 bond issue for new schools. Unfortunately, it appears that a strong under current of opposition has developed from some cause. It is variously estimated that the issue will increase taxes from 8 to 14 cents. There is no doubt, however, that adequate structures are badly needed and without money they can not be built."

The Democratic Advocate, Westtained no mention of the subject, except an account of a meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association, of Westminster, and its plans for a canvass for signers for the bond issue.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR TOPIC

March 10-"How to Become a Christian.".. Acts 2:37-41; 16:30-31.

Written by Rev. J. H. Hoch, of Uniontown, Md. Citizenship Superintendent of the Carroll County C. E.

How to become a christian, is clearly answered in the Scripture lesson of Acts 16:30-31. There are other portions of the Word of God also, that show us how to become Christians, or considerable number of them children of God. Please read: John hurl themselves from cliffs in this 1:12-13, Jon. 3:14-16; 5:24, Romans 10:9-10 and 1 Cor. 15:1-4. And we must remember, that the only place where we can get the information as to how to become christians, is from the Bible, which is the Divinely inspired, and God-breathed Revelation these places are known to the natives We cannot get such information any- of Africa and are valuable sources where else in the Universe.

are very essential for us who desire to particular spots to die. know how to become a Christian. .1-All are sinners before God and

The Scriptures tell us in Rom. 3:23,

"For all have sinned and come short of the glory of God." Rom. 3:10-12 and Rom. 5:12. And lastly Scripture hath concluded all under sin." Such is the testimony of the Scripture, and is God's verdict of the whole human race.

I believe that the jailor, realized and accepted this solemn fact for he asked Paul the question "What must I do to be saved?" Paul had been preaching, praying, and singing the Gospel and this brought the conviction of the Holy Spirit, into the jail-or's soul, for "faith cometh by hear-ing and hearing by the word of God." Rom. 10:17 The jailor (like all of us) was a sinner before God and was lost and realized his deep need of Salva-tion, hence the question of his soul.

And these same facts are what led those on the day of Pentecost to cry out, after they were pricked in their hearts, "Men and brethren, what shall we do." Now, my friend, do you realize and accept this fact what God has to say about you? If so, you are ready for the next great fact. .2-We need to know that we need

The only man that Jesus Christ can't save, is the man who thinks he is good enough already. Jesus Christ pagan travelers. is no mere helper, no crutch; He is a Saviour. He came not to help, but to save sinners. That was His supreme mission in coming into the world, and He had to go to Calvary's Cross to make this possible. Jesus Christ can't save us until we accept why did Paul say to him, "believe on tiently: the Lord Jesus Christ, and be saved"? "Whe man, who has been earning his livelihood as a shoeblack in Calgary, has been advised by lawyers at Vancouver that he is heir to a fortune of $100,000. All he had to do was to "believe" and "receive" and "know." Now in order that we may become Christians, we must believe and receive Jesus Christ into our hearts by faith. That is just what the jailor did. He believed and received God's message through Paul, and became a justified man. And when we believe and receive Jesus Christ as our personal Saviour, we are born from above, made new creatures in Christ Jesus, we "pass from death into life we become heirs of God and joint heirs with Jesus Christ. Our sins are all forgiven, we are sanctified and justified and are brought into verey presence of God, positionally, not actually; but the day will yet come

Signs Long in Use

The history of signs goes back to ancient Egypt and reaches America by way of Greece, Rome, Italy, France, Germany and England.

Inns were among the first industries to avail themselves of signs, Rome leading off with a bush swinging before the tavern door. From it came the adage "Good wine needs no bush." The cross was used for Christian waypagan travelers.

St. Augustine's Chair

The wonderfui old chair of St. Augustine, in which the new archbishop of Canterbury sits on the occasion of his enthronement, has had a long history. Tradition asserts that it was formerly the throne on which the old kings of Kent were crowned, but it is generally agreed that it dates, at any rate, from the commencement of the Thirteenth century. It is composed of three pieces of Purbeck marble in the design of a Roman state chair and stands in the chapel of the Corona in Canterbury cathedral. Each archbishop of Canterbury is enthroned in this chair, thus signifying his assumption of the primacy of

Turkish Trade Unions

The oldest trade unions in the guilds are very powerful, having been to them for services rendered to the died the past year. state in times of crisis. To this day in Constantinople, no shoemaker of the guild of shoemakers may be punished except by special officers appointed by members of his own calling; the favor having been conferred upon the fraternity by one of the sultans of the Sixth century. The guilds regulate wages, length of working day, and even control the "pitches"

Whales Are "Brainy"

The largest brain in the world, according to speakers at a congress of natural science, recently held in England, is possessed by the whale.

Prof. W. Weygandt argued against a prevalent belief that the largest brain claim is shared by whales, elephants and man. He stated that the whale alone justified the claim, the largest whale ever caught having a brain weighing 7,000 grams. The human brain, he added, seldom exceeds an average weight of 1,280 to 1,460 grams in the male and 1,140 to 1,340 in the female.

New Materials in

Resorts More Dainty and Colorful.

To quote the recognized authorities, the clothes for Palm Beach and the other southern resorts this year are more feminine, more dainty and more colorful, says a fashion writer in the New York Times. The bizarre is utterly absent and less white is shown for occasions other than sports, especially tennis, which requires the sort of dress that will withstand rigorous action and hard wear, and will wash-a new requirement which women have established.

Even sports suits and frocks are less severe than those of the last few years, and tailoring is applied to give correctness of detail to those made of soft and semi-sheer materials. This seems to accentuate the refinement evident in the styles of this season and adds interest to the different styles in dress. The combination of materials seen in so many of the smart models is varied and distinctive because of the artistic patterns which are finely outlined with stitching or hand-work along tailored and geometric lines.

Because the season's program is arranged for life in the open, sports dress is first presented. This year the styles are largely a matter of materials and of color, for the designs are exceedingly simple, though they are worked out artistically and with strict regard for the mode of the mo-

Jersey and Crepe de Chine.

A new combination, extremely chic, promises to have a tremendous vogue among sportswomen. It is a two-piece suit of jersey and crepe de chine, with a variety of color harmonies. One designed in Paris has a skirt of green crepe, plaited in clusters in front and quite plain at the back. These plaits are finished with a pattern in stitching at the top, which gives an ornamental motif to each side of the skirt. The overblouse, of beige jersey, is elaborated with a narrow bias band of green crepe de chine stitched to form a lattice pattern around the middle, and the belt is also of green crepe.

This simple but smart little suit is reproduced in several different color combinations, some quite charming, such as green with mauve, yellow with mauve, and green with turquoise blue. Black and white, in different contrasting arrangements, is very effective. It is considered especially smart by Parisian modistes and finds much favor

Next to jersey, which many find too heavy for the South, crepe, voile, ninon and linen are most popular for morning and informal daytime service. There was never in any season such demand for materials of serviceable quality-those that withstand moisture and sun and that require a minimum

In these the domestic fabrics rank first and are being used generally for dress of every type. For afternoon and rather dressy daytime wear the new printed moire, a washable synthetic silk, is shown in a great variety of models. The patterns are in geometrics, especially the small figures, narrow stripes and broken plaids

The most distinctive novelty of the season is the line moire with original group designs by a Japanese artist, Fondjita, at Paris, who has taken the fabric world by storm with his poetic conceptions. These are fantastically named flowers, fan feathers and flutterby—the last being a composition signifying flowers and butterflies. All are delicate in line and varied in moire is made in one of the jacquard patterns which were introduced last Gay Combinations spring, a pattern of scattered polka dots of different sizes. It is cut in a simple, easy one-piece design, with Clothes Worn at Southern ways dainty and becoming chemisette surplice front which discloses the alof sheer muslin or lace.

This tub moire, being thinner and more supple than the silk weave, is adapted to this serviceable style of frock, which may be worn with or without a wrap. With the plain "watered" print, it is used for twopiece semi-tailored suits, the most fashionable of which is the model having a skirt of unpressed plaits or plaits in clusters stitched at the top, breaking the line between belt and hem; and a short loose coat, which is worn over a blouse of plain or printed crepe, ninon or linen. A few of these moire suits are made with sleeveless jackets, which make of the blouse a more important item in the ensemble.

Tub Taffetas for Spring.

New tub taffetas are appearing for spring, which are ideal for southern wear, for their crispness is retained even in damp and salt air. In these are gay colorful florals on softly tinted grounds and many others in pastel shades, some large, other in very small conventionalized flowers and figures done with pen-point sketches. All of these are shown in striking color combinations of yellow and black, chartreuse green and black, or red and white with black,

Much yellow is being used in this and in other materials, most often as a background for figures and splotches of red, green, brown or black. Mauve and blue are shown in some delightful color harmonies in the floral prints which have usually a softly shaded or pastel background.

Other materials shown in dresses for general wear are the cravat prints with minute patterns in white, gray, fuchsia, orange and black; twills, crepe and ninons in plain colors and with a wide assortment of printed patterns. These include exotic florals, massed or in finely traced designs: modern figures and ground designs with sketched motifs. Ensembles in which two of these fabrics are combined, a moire or taffeta, with a sheer ninon in which the pattern is duplicated, are repeating their vogue of last season and attractive models are offered in a wide range of color. These are particularly delicate in tone and very suggestive of summer.

Crepe de chine in a great variety of colors is used for daytime in many different models for sports and general utility. The one-piece frock and two-piece suit are most popular, while a few three-piece ensembles are being shown for slightly more formal affairs. All of these are very simple, having very soft lines. This is accomplished in even the tailored suits by leaving the plaits unpressed by the use of stitching to form an ornamental finish to a cluster of plaits.

Decorations for Plain Dresses. Hemstitching, drawn work, fine tucking and cording are used to elaborate these otherwise plain dresses, and some original arrangements of plaits and gathers are introduced to give variety to the skirts. In the two and three-piece suits narrow bands of the self-material are stitched in patterns and are used as a finish to neck or collar, cuffs and pocket.

In some of the softer one-piece frocks the Madeleine Vionnet model is reproduced in several engaging variants, the diagonal lines being done in hemstitching or fagotting, and in most of these the neck is cut in a V or the bodice is made with surplice front, with a stitched band finishing the edge. The fashionable colors are beige, cocoa, copper, yellow, gray, soft greens and blues.

Two types of costume in the fashionable southern resort wardrobe are of compelling interest. One is evening dress, which was never more beautiful nor distinguished. According model with the pattern arranged so for both evening and formal afternoon

French Shepherds Use

Stilts to Advantage

Walking on stilts is a fad that does not die with the ages. On the tomb of one of the oldest Pharaohs is a crude bas-relief depicting a court procession. The procession is led by a trumpeter who is perched on high

Every nation, in fact, has had its expert stilt walkers. In China, and Japan the fad is popular with youths. some of whom are so adept in this mode of walking that they require no supports or uprights to steady them.

In southern France stilts are more than fads. There they are used almost continuously by the shepherds, who have to keep watch over large flocks of sheep as well as to pass through bogs. The stilts are usually from six to eight feet high and are strapped tightly to the knees.

Both men and women in that part of the country are expert stilt walkers. In their hands they hold a long stick or cane as a support. So accustomed are these people to the stilts that shepherdesses have been known to knit socks while walking on them.

A frequent pastime of these people are stilt races, and not a holiday passes without a stilt contest of some sort. One contest recently was won by a boy and a girl, each fourteen years old. The third to come in was a shepherd, whose age was about seventy.

Splendid Fossil of

Ancient Sea Terror

The fossiled skeleton of a teleosaurus, a terror of the seas of the Jurassic period, 150,000,000 years ago. pen. is on exhibition at the Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago. The creature, a sea crocodile about ten feet long, comes from Wurttemberg. Germany, and was excavated near there from land which was a sea bottom in prehistoric times, when that part of Europe was covered by water.

The fossil is unusual in that almost every detail of the skeletal structure of the animal is intact and sharply defined in the specimen. Rows of sharp-pointed, vicious-looking teeth in the jaws indicate that the animal prob ably was carnivorous, and that it undoubtedly preyed upon lesser crea tures of the sea. The crocodile was protected by strong plates along its back, which acted as armor. The bones of these plates are preserved

Variation of "Quoits"

The game of horseshoes is based on quoits, which is a pastime resembling the ancient discus-throwing of Greece. Few traces of a game resembling quoits can be found on the continent of Europe and its origin may be sought for on the borderlands of Scotland and England. There are references to it in the Midlands, dating from the beginning of the Fifteenth century. Ascham, in his Toxophilus (1545), refers to the game as being played chiefly by the working classes, who often used horseshoes for want of quoits, a custom still prevailing in country districts.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOP IC—The Place of Baptism and the Lord's Supper in the Christian Life

I. The Baptism of Jesus (Matt. 3: 13-17).

1. His request (v. 13). This was in act, if not in word.

He came from Galilee to Jordan to be baptized of John. 2. John's hesitancy (v. 14).

He perceived something in Jesus which impressed him with the unfit ness of such an act 3. Jesus' explanation (v. 15).

He insisted upon John's compliance on the ground that it was a method of fulfilling all righteousness. 4. The Heavenly acknowledgment

(vv. 16, 17). As Jesus emerged from the waters the heavens were opened, the Holy Spirit descended, and a voice de clared, "This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased." II. The Apostolic Commission (Matt 28:18-20).

1. The authority of Jesus (v. 18) God gave Him all authority in heaven and on earth.

2. The Commission of the Apostles (vv. 19, 20).

(1) It was to teach (make disciples of) all the nations (v. 19).

(2) Baptize believers (v. 19). This baptism, the divinely appoint ed way of making public confession is to be in the name of the Father Son, and Holy Ghost, indicating that the believer has been brought into definite relationship to each member of the Holy Trinity.

(3) Teach obedience (v. 20). Profession is not enough; it must issue in obedience.

3. The all-sufficient promise (v. 20) The Lord told the disciples their dif ficulties would be great after He had gone away, but promised them the presence and fellowship of the all powerful Savior and Lord. III. The Lord's Supper (1 Cor. 11: 23-29).

1. Its Institution (v. 23). (1) Time.

It was on the night of the betraval of Jesus, just after the betrayer had been announced.

(2) Circumstances of. It was in connection with the eat ing of the Passover (Matt. 26:26). (3) The elements used. Bread doubtless common bread of the Pass over feast. The cup, fruit of the vine. 2. The Significance of the Lord's Supper (vv. 24-26, cf. Matt. 26:26:28)

Jesus took material things and made them to be symbols of His own body and blood. (1) A memorial of the Lord (Luke 22:19) to be observed in remembrance of Him. (2) To show the Lord's sacrificial death (v. 26). He did not die as a hero, or as an example of unselfist-devotion, but as a substitutionary (3) It is a guarantee that our sins are forgiven (Rom. 4:25). (4) It symbolizes the believer's re ception of Christ (I Cor. 10:16)

(5) A forward look to a completed the Lord's Supper (vv. 27-29). (1) A proper apprehension of its meaning (v. 27). Eating and drink ing unworthily primarily refers not to the demerif of the communicant but his failure to grasp its meaning and importance.

(2) Church membership (1 Cor 11:

The Lord's body is the church which is composed of regenerated men and women united to Jesus Christ as head and to each other as members of that body by the Holy Spirit.

3. Orderly walk.

Conduct which disqualifies for participation in the Lord's supper:

(a) Immoral Conduct (I Cor 5:1 13) It is most perilous for one who is guilty of immorality to approach the Lord's table (I Cor. 11:30). Sick ness and death are often visited up on such.

(b) Heresy (Titus 3:10; 1 John 4: 2. 3)

(c) The one who stirs up a schis matic strife (Rom. 16:17) in the church should be excluded from the Lord's table.

Dogs Called Unclean

by Biblical Writers

Many people have a decided prejudice against selling dogs. Some go so far as to regard the sale of a dog as positively sinful. One elderly woman, says the Pathfinder Magazine. severely condemned a man who engaged in the business of raising shepherd dogs for the market. She branded his business as sinful and protested against her church accept ing contributions of his "tainted

The origin of this prejudice is not known for certain. It may be based on the old Hebraic Scriptural teachings. Deuteronomy 23:18 says in part: "Thou shalt not bring . the price of a dog into the house of the Lord thy God for any vow." Many commentators, accepting "dog" here in the literal sense, state that Moses declared dogs unclean and prohibited traffic in them.

Others take a different view of the passage. They say that "dog" here does not refer to the animal, but to a person who has prostituted himself by committing any abominable action. This opinion receives some confirmation from the context, especially the preceding verse. In Palestine the dog was looked upon with loathing and aversion, as filthy and unclean. This animal is mentioned in the Bible more than forty times and, with few exceptions, it is mentioned with contempt, to remark either its voracious instincts, its fierceness or its loath-

In America there are but few shop signs reminiscent of an old day. The one most in use is that of the pawnbroker and his sign of three globes With this is connected a varying and interesting background.

Averado de Medici was a command er of fighting men under the great Charlemagne. During the course of his battles on behalf of his overlord he met and slew the giant Mugello. As the spoil of war, he took the giant's club, to which for effective service in action were affixed three iron balls swinging upon a short chain.

It can readily be understood that a well-placed blow from such a club in the hands of an angry giant would certainly, to use slang. "make the birdies sing," and the three effective additions to the club would complete the picture. Therefore, Averado might well have added the three globes to the family crest. In later years the Medici took to the gentle but effective art of poisoning and as a side line engaged in the business of loaning money, using the memory of Mugello's battle-ax fixtures as their insignia.-Kansas City Star.

Substitutes for Gold

Perhaps all the world isn't struggling for gold and silver, but it is only pecause those precious metals aren't known in some of the out-of-the-way spots-and even there a substitute is found.

In the South Sea islands, for in stance, porpoise teeth strung around a native's head indicate his wealth, recounts the Farm Journal. On the sland of Yap the rich man is known by the number of cartwheel stones piled in front of his hut. In the East Indies and throughout a large part of Africa beads and shells are used for money, and in the Polar regions, where fishing is the chief source of livelihood, fishhooks are a principal medium of exchange.

Siamese Currency

It takes 100 satang to make a baht, the latter being the equivalent of 0.66567 grams of fine gold. The baht, sometimes just bat, is also the unit of weight. Eighty baht equal one chang. and 50 chang equal one haph. Ineeighth of a baht is called a fuang, and two fuang are a salung. There are also wahs, kups and niews, as well as sens, yotes, tanhs and tanans. Twenty tanans formerly equaled half a coconut shell. You will have to keep that all straight in your mind if you have financial intercourse with Siam. But remember especially that the tical is now out of use officially as a money unit.—New Orleans Times-Picayune.

Various "Complexes"

The word "complex" is used by many modern psychologists and alleged psychologists to denote a group of ideas and feelings which are mentally associated with a certain subject. For instance, they would say that Napoleon had a "conquest complex." Usually, but not always, the ideas and feelings are supposed to be repressed. A person is said to have an "inferiority complex" when he inherently feels himself incapable of doing certain things. The opposite state or attitude of mind is termed "superiority complex."—Pathfinder Magazine

HAPPY SNOW SHOVELS

THE two snow shovels were resting. They had been doing a lot of hard work.

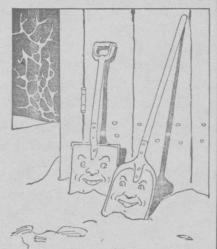

It is true that they had been helped in their work by two boys, but they had done their share, too. They had been strong and steady and they hadn't objected to shoveling and shoveling the snow.

There had been an extra fall of now the night before and everything was covered with it.

No one could walk along the streets until the snow was shoveled, for it had fallen in banks and great drifts. And now that paths were made the snow shovels were having a rest.

Then, too, the boys who had been using them had gone off to school. They had been left against the barn in the hot air. "It is so much nicer to go through the cool, soft, beautiful snow. I dearly love the snow.' "And I agree with you," said the second snow shovel. "I've often thought how dreadful it would be to be a flatiron and to be put on a stove. "There was an old flatiron out in the barn once and it talked to me and told me how it used to sit on a stove until it was good and hot and then how it was pushed back and forth over damp clothes until it made them smooth and warm, too. "That would be a job I wouldn't care for at all.

"But our work! Our work is play!" "Yes," said the first snow shovel, "and it is so easy to work in good crisp cold weather. In the summer time it is different. I wouldn't blame anyone for being lazy in the summer.

FOR THE GOOSE-

S OME women's tongues is like a dog's tail that wags all day, and what does it accomplish?

Husbands would like you to believe they never made any real, formal proposal. Their wives would like you to believe just the opposite.

All the world seems to be divided into people that talk and people that gives them something to talk about.

FOR THE GANDER-

Understand a woman, and you have her. But then, for the sake of peace, stop understandin' her.

Don't expect a woman to remember what a good heart you got, if you walk with your cane hangin' over your arm where every step she takes. it bumps her in the shin.

There's a big difference between not | And it is a well-attested fact that knowin' what to say and knowin' but not sayin' it.

"If this dieting fad keeps up," says Corpulent Cora, "the prodigal sons are going to be out of luck."

"If anyone came to me and said: "'So-and-So is very lazy,' I would at once ask, 'When was So-and-So lazy?' "If I was told that it was in the summer time I'd shake my head if I had a head. As I haven't I'd merely squeak a little and I would say:

"'Friend, that isn't laziness. That is merely natural.'

"Now we can work with a vim and with lots of energy because the weather makes us feel so fine, in the summer the air is of no consequence. That is, to a snow shovel, it isn't of any consequence.

"In the winter the air amounts to something. You can feel it. It plays about you and whispers to you and tells you secrets and it makes you glow with the tales it has to tell of the wind and of Old Man Winter and of all the Crisp Little Breezes.

"If one has a face the winter air makes it cool and soft and gives it color.

"If one is a snow shovel it makes one feel full of energy and happiness. "I've heard, too, of people who've said they loved it when the first snow came to hear the snow shovels, perhaps late at night or early in the morning, working, working, working with the help of boys and men and girls, too. "They've said the sound we make clearing the walks, squeaking with joy, was so pleasant to hear in the crisp, clear stillness.

"And, oh, dear, it does rejoice me to think that we're liked, too. For it is a nice thing to be a snow shovel. "Often I thank my lucky stars (I'm not sure if I have any, but if I have, I thank them), that I'm not so many other things. Just suppose you and I were steam boilers or kitchen stoves or frying pans or furnaces or teakettles or coffeepots or broilers or any such articles!

"I've heard of people who were glad they were what they were. I've heard of those who were glad they weren't as others they knew-perhaps living in such grandeur they could never have any of the nice, simple, jolly

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS By H. IRVING KING

BLASTED AREAS

E VERY now and then we run across the old, old superstition with regard to some place where a crime has been committed, or some tragedy taken place, that grass will not grow upon that spot. The writer remembers as a child of looking down with awe into a little hollow where had stood the gallows upon which the last man publicly hanged in the state had been executed and, pointing to the brambles which covered the bottom of the hollow, the children told each other that grass would not grow thereever. The most celebrated spot of this kind was the "Field of the Forty Footsteps" once in a suburb of London but now built over. It is a fact that two brothers killed each other in a duel on that spot, leaving as a testimony of their fratricidal crime forty bloody footprints on the ground. grass never grew there after that.

Many readers have doubtless seen or heard of places covered by the same superstition as that which hung about the "Field of the Forty Footsteps" and the "Execution Hollow" of the writer's childhood. They exist in all lands and among civilized and savage peoples alike. The same idea is found in the old belief with regard to the passage of the armies of the Turks. The old Hetman in Byron's "Mazeppa" says:

"The year before A Turkish army had passed o'er And where the Spahi's foot hath trod The verdure flies the bloody sod."

The whole thing is merely a survival of belief of primitive man with regard to what is called by Sir James Frazer "the doctrine of the contagious magic of footprints." Our faraway ancestors believed that a real and positive effect was produced by a man's "ego" upon anything upon which his foot pressed. Naturally, if he was a bad man the effect was blasting. Primitive man had his "Field of the Forty Footsteps" when the saber-toothed bear roared over the site of London and his grassless "Execution Hollow" before the Pyramids were built. (by McClure Newspaper syndicate.)

Tires for the new Ford are specially made to give long wear

WHEN the new Ford was designed, it was immediately apparent that a new tire would have to be made to match the car's performance. It was distinctly a new problem, for here was a car with quicker acceleration, greater speed and more braking efficiency than any car of similar size or weight.

So that every Ford owner might be assured of maximum tire mileage at the lowest cost, the Ford Motor flation breaks down the side-Company devoted many months to research and experiment in conjunction with the leading tire manufacturers.

As a result, certain definite specifications were developed for tires for the new Ford. These specify cords of certain strength and texture, a large volume of tread and side-wall rubber, sturdy nonekid design, and reinforced plies for protection against bruise breaks-all the strong features of construction formerly considered for only the largest tires.

Great care also was taken to secure the best riding qualities in connection with the tires built specially for the transverse springs and the Houdaille shock absorbers.

For best results, the tires on the new Ford should be kept inflated to an air pressure of 35 pounds and checked regularly to insure this pressure all the time. This is important. Low inwalls of a tire. By causing overheating, it also destroys

A Peach Of A Pie

THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPERTY O

THEY tell a story about a man who said that he liked any kind of pie provided it was apple. There are pies and pies, and everyone has a preference, but if pies were elected instead of selected the ones made of canned peaches would poll a large vote. Sliced peaches come in cans you know, as well as halved ones, and here is a recipe for peach caramel pie made with the former kind: Put two tablespoons butter and four tablespoons sugar in a skillet and cook slowly until thick and brown, stirring constantly to prevent burning. Add the syrup from a number 21/2 can of sliced peaches and then two tablespoons cornstarch smoothed with one tablespoon cold water and a slightly beaten egg yolk. Cook in a dou-ble boiler until thick. Arrange and pour over the caramel sauce. Bake sliced than halved.*

at 450° for fifteen minutes, then at 400° for fifteen to twenty minwith whipped cream. Eat.

Sliced Peaches Economical

A careful comparison of the contents of number 1 cans of a well-known brand of sliced and halved peaches showed six ounces of syrup and eleven and a half ounces of peaches for the sliced as compared with seven ounces of syrup and only ten ounces of peaches for the halved. This cannot be taken as a general rule for all brands, but is merely indicative that the use of canned sliced peaches for pies and tarts is economical because more peaches are likely to be concentrated into the cans of

Mr. and Mrs. David M. Mehring spent several days the first of this week visiting their son Dr. Wilbur B. Mehring and wife, at Silver Spring, Md., near Washington. The two men attended the inauguration. Mrs. Chas. Bostion and son, Alton, spent fire departments.—The Manufacturer Sunday at the same place.

On Monday, Mrs. John H. Kiser received a telegram from her brother, J. Frank Royer, who is spending the winter in California, that he had been hit by an automobile, late at night, while crossing a street in Long Beach, and was seriously injured and in a hospital. He had four ribs fractured, leg and head injured, and in general his system badly shocked. A later report says he is improving.

James C. Myers had quite an experience while on his mail route last Thursday. As he was going through the creek the harness tore, which left the horse loose from the buggy. The horse went down the creek and was gotten out at the home of Mr. Flem Hoffman, and Mr. Myers remained in the buggy in the middle of the stream until he was brought to safety by friends in a boat.

Jos. D. Brooks, Attorney, of Westminster, called at our office, Monday morning for a brief chat over newspaper business and things in general. Mr. Brooks was the last Editor of The Sentinel, and naturally has some sympathy for those still at the job; and as he has but recently recovered from a six weeks experience with the Flu, he and the Editor of The Record had experiences very much alike.

The radios brought in a big program on Monday, not only of the inauguration program proper, but in demonstrating that it is wholly possible to broadcast and receive from airplanes as we done by three plane operators-and the extra fine surprise half-hour program sent on the air from Polo Alto, Cal., the home of President Hoover. > The fire bell rang out at the windiest time, Thursday morning, the Crouse's on the Geo. Hilterbrick farm, and at James Rodgers' on the Fringer farm. Fortunately the fire was confined to the chimneys as the fire truck "stuck" in the mud, on the way. It sounds like bad news to those who live off the state road, but it is too dangerous a proposition for the heavy fire truck to try to navigate the mud roads in the condition they now are.

More Rural Fire Departments.

"Farm fires in the United States," says a pamphlet recently issued by the Agriculture Committee of the National Fire Waste Council, "cost from 2,000 to 3,000 lives every year and from $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 in property loss. At the minimum estimate the condition is appalling. is the more depressing because the waste to a large extent is needless.

"First of all, fire should be prevented by taking every possible precaution against the known hazards. But in addition to these precautions, each rural community can add to its security by the organization of a rural fire

"Rural fire departments are now in use in many parts of the country and are very successful. No longer in farm communities that have a well trained fire company with modern motorized equipment which can be called by telephone, does the farmer have to sit ings of a lifetime of hard work-go up

"While much has been accomplished in providing farm fire protection ed in providing farm fire protection in some states, much more remains to be done in this broad field. Nearly half the people of the United States live on farms, or in small country towns, and many of these localities still lack the protection of organized fire departments. The Manufacturer

Taneytown Grain and Hay Market. Wheat$125@$1.25 Corn$1.10@$1.10 LAST PAGE EDITORIAL Our Best Work.

It is debatable whether our best work, advice and leadership, is al-ways that which we consider the best. Largely, we must be guided by our conception of honesty and right—by our conscience—in order to fix our standards of right; but in a larger sense they are but our own conclusions, after all, and what is actually 'best" must necessarily be more of less obscured by differing minds and opinions, or of composite opinions.

In some cases, our best work actually what we think it is. In others, it must be the kind of work that "best" suits those for whom the work is done. In other words, when we alone are concerned—which is comparatively seldom—we can act honestly on our own convictions; but as we are necessarily factors in commu-nity and general welfare, we cannot escape giving consideration to what these classes of welfare demand.

Taking another angle of the question, we often do our best when we do not try to be too deep, or all comprehensive. Some of the most carefully worded sermons, for instance, fail to hit the mark because they are "over the heads," as we say, of the congregation to whom the sermon is delivered—we fail to accomplish what we want.

Of course, we are limited by our own honest convictions; and sometimes we let our selfishness decide for us, and in either case we are apt to be pretty hard-headed. But neither of these ways always settles the question, which forces the conclusion that a great deal of charity, and a great deal of trying to see the other side of matters, must be exercised, and then take a big chance of not being unanimously right. So, the "best work" may not always be our own way of doing it.
