

A WESTMINSTER BANK ROBBED OF $15,000

The Bandits Make a Remarkably Successful Escape.

The Farmers and Mechanics National Bank, of Westminster, was robbed last Friday, about 11 A. M., by three masked burglars who entered the bank when no customers were present...

The Baltimore News, Thursday evening, says that five men and one woman had part in the robbery, and that they are positively known to the Baltimore police...

The three suspects were lined-up for identification in Baltimore, but with out any success and their release followed. And at present the case has dropped out of sight...

AUTO TAG BILL VETOED Will Now Be Passed on to the Next Legislature.

The County Auto tag law is victim of the Governor's veto, as it was pretty generally supposed that it would be. The bill as originally proposed provided for the appointment of a deputy commissioner in each county, with the power to issue and transfer licenses and titles...

It was then amended in the Senate, and finally passed, that instead of appointing special officials to do this work, the same should be added on to the duties of the Clerk's office in each county. This met with considerable protest from some of the County Clerks, and the Governor appointed a special committee to investigate and report on the bill as passed...

The matter will therefore be held over for the next legislature to consider, and present a satisfactory workable plan.

In a statement issued in connection with his veto of the bill, the Governor said: "I will try to arrange with the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles to send one or more men from his department to one or two of the counties of the State to issue the 1930 license there. The cost of trying out the experiment on a small scale like this could probably be met and this would furnish a practical demonstration of how the plan of issuing licenses in the counties would work."

"In connection with this general subject it is important to remember that the recent Legislature passed a bill authorizing the purchaser of a new car to use the tags of his old car on the new car for a period of five days, during which time he can secure his new license."

"I will approve this bill. It will enable the purchaser to transfer his old tags to his new car and drive off in the new car at once and I feel confident that this will remove much of the complaint relative to the transfer of licenses when new cars are bought in the counties."

Our Crowded Highways.

The season for crowded highways on Sunday, is here. Careful drivers are sure to have experiences with the other kind. The natural road hog, and the fellow who isn't happy when there is another car in front of him—though he may not have the slightest good reason for going faster than the one in front—are to be met on almost every mile of road.

Then, there are the "show off" drivers who appear to think it a disgrace for a big car to follow a Ford, and the once-a-week speeder who does not know enough to think of "safety first," but does know that he is out for a good time, and plenty of speed along with it. And of course not every driver knows the rules of the road, nor just what his car can do, or whether he can make it do what he thinks he can. So, taking all the chances as they are sure to come, and some new ones never before heard of, the Sunday outing with "the car" may not be as much a pleasure jaunt as anticipated.

And then, the highways are pretty free from "Cops," and every driver has a good chance to make his own regulations—and they know this, too. Of course the Monday papers tell of a lot of wrecks that are not so happy to a lot of folks—but this doesn't seem to mean anything, for next Monday there is a new crop of the same kind—and so on until the winter comes again, when the smashing up and killing does not stop—but merely slacks up a bit.

A good sound motto would be—He who drives in a safe way, will live to drive another day; and if he's careful of his speed, a new car soon he will not need.

Carroll County Society Meets.

The annual meeting of the Carroll County Society of Baltimore City was held on Wednesday, April 10th, at the Hotel Rennet. George Monroe Englar was elected president of the society, to succeed George F. Frook. Other officers elected were: George G. Shriver and Mrs. E. Jos. Englar, vice-presidents; William E. Moore, recording secretary; George R. Babylon, corresponding secretary; J. Leonard Eckenrode, treasurer; Mrs. A. Greenfield Daniels, H. Cleveland Logue, Dr. F. L. C. Helm and Ralph L. Lockard, board of governors. The society adopted a resolution asking that the appropriation of $80,000, for a postoffice at Westminster, be increased to $150,000. The reason for this increase request is based upon the fact that many towns of less population, and certainly less wealth, in the state of Maryland have gotten an appropriation of $80,000 for their postoffice building, and the time is here for the citizens of Carroll County to insist upon getting what is clearly and properly due its county seat.

The society entertained its members by a showing of two reels of moving pictures made in Yellowstone Park and two reels of scenes made in Alaska. These pictures were, without question, a very attractive and interesting part of the program. The society is exceptionally grateful to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company for sending these reels to Baltimore. A plan that will increase the membership of the society was discussed. One special suggestion will, no doubt, be followed and that is that one hundred sustaining members be obtained from Carroll County at $1.00 per year.

MAN MURDERS HIS WIFE BY SHOOTING.

Deed Reported to be Result of Drinking Liquor.

Mrs. Beulah E. Marsh, wife of J. Orestes Marsh, was murdered by her husband, on Wednesday evening, while she was engaged in milking at the barn on the farm tenanted by her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Blank, the farm being owned by C. N. Myers, near Bachman's Church, this county.

Marsh is said to have brought his wife and two children to the Blank home, on Sunday evening, in his auto, where he left them for a while and later returned considerably under the influence of liquor. On their way home they met with several mishaps, first with the car and afterwards with a borrowed spring wagon, which enraged him, and inspired him to threaten to kill his wife and himself as soon as he returned to the borrowed team.

Fearing violence Mrs. Marsh went with her two children, by the assistance of a neighbor, to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Flickinger, near Union Mills. On Monday, she swore out a warrant before Justice Benson, of Westminster, for the arrest of her husband for disorderly conduct and threats against her life, intending to go to her home after the arrest; but as there was delay in this act she went to the home of her sister instead, in the evening.

Marsh followed her up, armed with a shot gun, and found her at the barn fired one charge into her head and the other into her side, killing her instantly, and after the act left the scene. Sheriff Fowble and State's Attorney Brown were notified and a hunt was instituted for the murderer, but after searching the Marsh home and the neighborhood and a considerable distance around, he could not be found; and it was not until Thursday afternoon that the Sheriff and a posse finally tracked him across a ploughed field and found him in a woods beyond Deep Run school-house. He surrendered without resistance and is now lodged in Westminster jail.

Marsh was in the habit of drinking, and it was when in this condition that he is said to have frequently threatened to kill his wife. Mrs. Marsh was a hard-working woman, rather delicate in health, and was the mainstay in providing for the family. There are two children, a girl aged 10 years and a boy aged 4 years.

GRADE CROSSING ACCIDENTS The Public Must Exercise Much Greater Care.

A total of 2,568 persons lost their lives in highway grade crossing accidents in 1928, according to reports just filed by the railroads with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

This was an increase of 197 over the number of such fatalities in 1927 and an increase of 77 over 1926. Reports show 6,667 persons injured in highway grade crossing accidents in 1928 compared with 6,613 in 1927 and 6,991 in 1926.

Five thousand eight hundred accidents involving for the most part automobiles, motor buses and motor trucks, took place at highway grade crossings in 1928. This was an increase of 160 over the number of such accidents the preceding year, but a decrease of 62 compared with 1926.

While this was an increase of approximately three per cent in the number of highway grade crossing accidents in 1928 over the preceding year, motor vehicles in operation in 1928 totaled approximately 24,750,000 or an increase of seven per cent over 1927.

In view of the fact that it is impossible to eliminate all grade crossings owing to physical reasons and the prohibitive cost which would throw a heavy burden on the shoulders of the public, the railroads are exerting every effort to bring about the highest degree of safety possible at highway grade crossings. Millions of dollars are being spent annually in this campaign to protect human life.

Postal Ruling on Prizes.

(Once more we publish an official opinion on the publishing of news, or advertising, relating to prizes or drawings, making it clear that it is contrary to law for newspapers to publish such information—Ed. Record.)

One of our members reports that he has been criticized for declining to publish advertising of and give publicity to drawings for prizes or door prizes given in connection with social events. He says that because other nearby papers are in the habit of doing this, his local people felt he was not giving them a fair shake even though the postal laws regarding the matter were plain. Accordingly, he had his local postmaster write the Postoffice department for an interpretation of the law. The Postoffice department replied under date of February 20 as follows:

"In reply to your letter of the 16th instant, addressed to the third assistant postmaster general, you are advised that all matter relating to drawings for prizes, including announcements of the results of such drawings whether in the form of newspaper articles or advertisements is unmailable under section 473, P. L. and R. 1924.

"Advertisements of or articles relating to card games where prizes are awarded are held to be objectionable under the above section, whenever an entrance fee of any kind is exacted from the players. However, the department does not regard mere social games, where no entrance fee is required, as objectionable under the law, notwithstanding that prizes are awarded."

HORACE J. DONNELLY, Solicitor.

The section referred to above goes into further length, specifying "any lottery, gift enterprise or similar scheme, offering prizes dependent in whole or part upon lot or chance." The violation carries a penalty of a fine of not more than one thousand dollars or imprisonment for not more than two years, or both; and for subsequent offense imprisonment for not more than five years.—New York Press Association Bulletin.

Another Blue Ridge Hotel is Destroyed by Fire.

The destruction of the large Wantz Hotel, opposite the Highfield, Md., station of the Western Maryland Railroad, by fire, marks the passing of the last of the large hotels that were in that section of the Blue Ridge Mountains, and which, during the time before local option came into effect, did a thriving business.

When the license for the sale of liquor was denied, one hotel after the other fell the prey of flames. The first to go was the old Maryland Hotel, along the pike that leads to Pen Mar and at one time was owned and operated by the late Benjamin Shockey, of Waynesboro.

Then followed the Shatzer Hotel, to the east of the railroad station; then another large hotel along the railroad southeast of the station; finally another hotel belonging to Mr. Wantz destroyed.

Only a few weeks ago, or rather just before Christmas, a large boarding house to the west of Highfield railroad station, was destroyed by fire.

There remains three large boarding houses, one occupied and conducted by Mrs. Benchoff, the Sam-Mar house, and one located along the road leading from the railroad station to the pike that leads to the Cascades.—Frederick News.

Where the Dry Law Fails.

The Baltimore News gives a story that says: "The dry law is a failure in New Zealand." The interested public would like to know how it works in Borneo, Madagascar, Iceland, Spitzbergen and Gambia? And whether in these countries—or anywhere—the people are more moral, industrious and happier, because "dry laws are a failure." Let us have the whole story, inside and out.

THE CHARLES CARROLL SCHOOL CONTRACT.

Building to be Ready for use by September First.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education was called to order at 10:15 A. M., in the office of the Board, on Wednesday, April 3rd, 1929. Commissioner DeVries was absent.

The minutes of the previous meetings were approved as read.

The list of bills as presented to the Board were approved and ordered paid.

For the third time bids were opened for the reconstruction of the Charles Carroll School building, referred to the dimensions and quality of the old building with a few minor changes. The successful bidder, Mr. E. E. Stuller, whose bid includes the construction of the building, heat, plumbing, electric fixtures, grading, drainage, and cost of surety bond amounts to $37,615.80. To this must be added the architect's fee at 5% which amounts to $1880.79. The Board, therefore, authorized the Committee, consisting of the Superintendent and Mr. J. P. Wantz, to close the contract and authorize the immediate construction of the building to be opened for occupancy on September 1st.

The letter from the County Commissioners replying to an inquiry of the Board at a previous meeting with reference to the amount or amounts that would be allowed in the budget for constructing new school buildings was read. In view of the incompleteness of the statements, an inquiry was referred back to the County Commissioners for elucidation.

After careful consideration of the whole school situation, the Board passed the following resolution:

Whereas, After trimming and eliminating desirable features and reducing the size of the building to 9 classrooms and an auditorium with the foundations in place, the excavations completed, well, sanitation plant, grading and paving in place, it was impossible for the Board to complete the above described Charles Carroll School Building for less than $39,496.59 for which the Board has just contracted, and

Whereas, School buildings are to be constructed as previously promised in the order named, at Sykesville, Union Bridge and Manchester, and

Whereas, The enrollment at Charles Carroll is 234 and for which a building constructed as cheaply as possible costs, with what is already in place $39,496.59, it is physically an impossibility to construct for a school at Sykesville, consisting of 359 children, a structure sufficiently commodious for the amount that the County Commissioners agree to give, namely, $45,000.00, and

Whereas, It does not seem right to undertake structures at other places until the extremely serious situation at Sykesville has been met.

Therefore be it Resolved, That the Board of Education deems it best to construct no other buildings whatsoever until the County Commissioners agree to furnish a sufficient amount to construct such buildings, or buildings as are necessary in the various places to completely and satisfactorily house the school population that have to be accommodated, beginning with the Sykesville building.

The following resolution was passed by the Board.

Resolved, That, as the Normal Schools are now capable of supplying sufficient first grade teachers to fill all positions, and as the law requires the Board to give preference to holders of first grade certificates, therefore, be it resolved that henceforth no applicants holding third grade certificates will be approved for appointment. (Section 83, last part and Section 87 last part).

The Board adjourned at 12:45 P. M.

Boys Enter State Beef Club Contest.

Ten boys in Carroll County have entered the Maryland Beef Club and will participate in the Club Show and sale to be held during the Hagerstown Fair, this coming October.

Each member has purchased a steer and will fatten it for the exhibition, and the auction sale following. These steers are of choice quality and have been carefully selected from the best Hereford, Angus and Shorthorn cattle herds in this section. There will be about 40 steers of all three, in the state this year.

The production of baby beef involves methods somewhat different from those followed by most cattle feeders in Maryland. Records of feed costs kept by the club members for the past two years, however, indicate that there is a good margin of profit on the light, well-finished cattle. Last year the club steers sold for an average of $173 per head. After all costs and charges were deducted there was about $50 profit per steer.

The Hagerstown Fair is very enthusiastic in their support of this project. They regard it as a special feature and are backing the show with several hundred dollars in prize money. The purebred beef cattle record associations give financial assistance in addition to that of the Hagerstown Fair Association. The club members from this county are: Chas. Bankert, Ralph Dehoff, Paul Bowman, Leon Leppo, Paul Bankert, Bernard Dutterer, Luther Heltridde, Harvey Bowersox, John Sterner and Hubert Buller.

NEAR EAST RELIEF Still $36,409.87 to be Raised in Maryland.

Baltimore, Md., April 10th.—The Maryland State Committee of Near East Relief, of which former Mayor Howard W. Jackson, of Baltimore, is chairman and John E. Boisseau, treasurer, held an important meeting in the board room of Robert Garrett and Son, Baltimore.

J. Calvitt Clarke, Regional Director, and Dr. William E. Doughty, of New York, national field administrator, reported on the progress being made in the effort to secure funds to complete the overseas work of Near East Relief, outlining plans for the remaining months of field campaigning, which is to culminate June 30th, next.

It was agreed that the Maryland Committee, like similar committees in other states, in order to conserve the assets of money and goodwill of the Near East Relief, would retain its identity and lend its active cooperation for the next two years to facilitate the collection of pledges and the consummation of other business having to do with the completing the work. The date when active campaigning is to cease, June 30, next, was fixed by vote of the executive committee of the organization cast at the annual meeting in January in New York, but the business of collecting pledges and the carrying on of the work overseas make it imperative that these committees continue until the Congressional charter is surrendered and the Near East organization released, said Dr. Doughty.

In expressing his appreciation of the work of the committee Dr. Doughty stated at the meeting that since its inception thirteen years ago, Near East Relief has received contributions of $117,000,000 from the entire county, of which, up to March 31, with three months to go, Maryland has given $2,394,227.04. The Maryland quota, for the final Underwriting Campaign amounts to $108,000, according to Dr. Doughty, of which $71,590.33 has been raised. This leaves a balance of $36,409.87, to be raised in Maryland, either in cash or pledges, before the first of July this year. For this reason, increased activity on the part of all the organization's committees and friends was emphasized by Dr. Doughty.

Dr. Doughty said that in the past the American people had been most generous in providing funds that had saved the lives of 1,500,000 people and had supported and trained 132,000 children, but he said there must be no flagging of interest in the work until the overseas work was finished.

It was the unanimous opinion of those at the meeting that Maryland would do her part in fulfilling the State's obligations and that the committee would make every effort to see that sufficient cash was raised or pledges given, and collected, to make a hundred percent record in the completion of its share of the job.

Among those at the meeting were: Robert Garrett, Former-Mayor Jackson, Edwin J. Farber, Bowling Barton, Dr. Nolan R. Best, Secretary of the Baltimore Federation of Churches and Mrs. E. C. Bixler, New Windsor, chairman for Near East Relief in Carroll County.

Concert at Blue Ridge College.

On next Friday night, April 19, at 8 o'clock there will be a concert in the Blue Ridge College auditorium-gymnasium. The concert will be given by the faculty and advanced students of the Music department of the institution, and will be free to the public. Philip Royer, violinist and teacher of instrumental instruction in the public schools of Carroll County will be present and render the Sonata by Grieg and the Hobgoblin Dance by Goby Eberhardt. Other numbers of special attraction will be a baritone solo by Mr. Monroe Gilbert of Westminster, a comic musical reading by Miss Mary Malcolm, and an original piano composition by Professor Fisher.

Church Congregation Held-up and Robbed.

Holding-up church congregations may be added to holding-up banks, as an occupation for nifty bandits. At any rate, the successful hold-up of the congregation of The First Roumanian Church, in Chicago, on Tuesday, and the securing of about $7000.00 in cash and jewelry, may cause the favorable consideration of future like attempts.

Five bandits armed with revolvers and short shot guns did the trick successfully, and got away. They entered the building noisily and ordered the congregation to line-up against a wall, threatening them with death unless they did, while two of the men stripped rings, watches and pins from the women and extracted pocket books from the pockets of the men. They made a thorough job of it, taking a half-hour for the work.

Carroll County's Legislators.

Whatever may be the broad consensus of opinion as to the work of the recent legislature, it seems but fair to say that so far as the Carroll County delegation is concerned, it did its work well; and when one is disposed to criticize, it is always worth while remembering that our legislative body is made up of 29 Senators and 118 Delegates, and that one Senator and five delegates are but a small part of the two branches that make up the one body.

Carroll County is also handicapped, so far as the influence of its representatives are concerned, in the fact that with the exception of Delegate Bollinger, all of the members of the legislature are Republicans, and consequently classed as anti-administration, which has considerable bearing in connection with a pretty large class of legislation.

The county naturally had but slight representation on important committees, and no chairmanships, and the fact that the county in recent years has been going Republican pretty consistently, does not add to the power of its representatives in the matter of important legislation. So, on the whole, the men who went from Carroll played about as important a part as any other five men could have played.

Actually, minority party representatives often play the best politics when they keep out of partisan debates, build up for themselves a personal geniality, and an attitude that commands respect from the powers that be, and this we believe to have been the policy of the entire delegation.

Wet Newspapers Overplaying their part.

Some of the avowedly "wet" daily papers appear to be over playing their part; or perhaps they think they are playing it very well in featuring every happening involving some phase of the enforcement of prohibition, and accepting every opportunity for placing the worst possible construction on the acts of government officials, in attempting to make arrests, or execute seizures of illegally held liquors.

Their attitude is one of studied criticism, and their ammunition consists of every incident, great or small, that can possibly be manufactured into some sort of argument against the government, its constitution and laws; and whether one may be wet, or dry—yet fair—the attitude of this class of newspapers must be regarded as small and undignified, to say the least.

It may be a long shot, but we can imagine that the rum-at-any-cost newspapers may carry their propaganda even so far as to encourage international difficulties of a most serious character. Their sympathy for rum-running, boot-legging and backdoor saloons, and their contempt for anything like the use of force in apprehending the violators of law, encourages the belief that if there is a limit to their indulgence in opposition to our National government, it is very far off indeed.

We say that some newspapers are "overplaying" the wet side of the liquor question because they are not being followed, or cheered, by a very large number of respectable, law-abiding moderates wets, who do not follow the leaders of the avowedly anti-law crowd and the motley crew that cheers them on their way.

And back of it all, one must wonder whether somebody is not actually paying, in cash, for the service being rendered.

A writer to the Philadelphia Ledger, in commenting on the revolt against prohibition says;

"I wish to point out that the 'growing revolt' is not a spontaneous outburst. It was instigated years ago, and has been constantly abetted by anti-prohibition organizations and publications. Three years ago a wet magazine said editorially:

"The Wets are wholly unable to agitate effectively for the modification of prohibition except by disobeying the law or conniving at its disobedience." A few days ago Carlisle Bargeron said in a report to the Washington Post: "Publicly, they (the Wets) would not dare to challenge Mr. Hoover's proposition that, while prohibition is the law, it should be obeyed. Privately, they say that if this is done generally, so much so as to remove the lawlessness now prevailing, prohibition will never be repealed."

I like this because it is frank—as the opposition to prohibition often is not. Here are open admissions that if prohibition once has a fair trial it will be so successful that the people will demand its continuance. Hence the program of the Wets: rouse the people against enforcement; then emphasize the terrible state of lawlessness; finally cry out against all measures for more stringent enforcement.

And here we have the truth pretty concisely stated, and it means that some newspapers are encouraging a last hope by throwing all possible impediments—real or specially concocted—in the way of legal enforcement.

Eighth Annual Safety Contests for Teachers and Pupils.

Washington, D. C., April 5—Offering as principal awards a trip to Washington with all expenses paid to the winning pupil and the successful teacher who submit the best papers in their respective competitions, the Highway Education Board today announced the eighth annual safety essay and lesson contests open to elementary school pupils and elementary school teachers of the nation.

The successful pupil also will receive a gold medal, a check for fifteen dollars and a gold watch, while the teacher, upon her arrival at Washington, will be presented with a check for $500.00.

Contestants from every state in the Union, and from Alaska, the Philippines, Hawaii, Porto Rico, and the Canal Zone are expected to strive for the many prizes, aggregating $6,500, offered for the best essays and the best lessons written in this annual competition. The contests in each state are conducted with the aid and co-operation of the State Departments of Education, and other educational authorities. The prizes are given by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

In the pupils contests, 442 medals and a like number of cash prizes are offered as state awards. To the first national winner is given a visit to the Nation's Capital and a valuable gold watch, while pupils whose papers rank second and third to the national winner also receive gold watches, appropriately engraved, of slightly less intrinsic value than that given the winner. National winners are chosen by a process of elimination from those whose essays have ranked first in their respective states.

Awards to teachers, according to the rules, are less numerous but more substantial. For the best lesson, the Board offers the visit to Washington, of four or five days duration, and a check for $500. Second and third national awards in the lesson contest are $300 and $200 respectively, making $1,000 in cash awards to teachers.

These contests, perhaps both the oldest and the largest consecutive educational competitions in the United States, annually attract the interest of from 500,000 to 750,000 elementary school pupils, and approximately 100,000 teachers who write lessons, teach them in their class rooms, and enter them in the contests.

Definite subjects are assigned in each instance, and the rules, while clear and simple, allow little leeway for varied interpretation in the class room.

The subject of the essays by pupils is "My Duty as a Junior Citizen to Observe Traffic Rules." These papers are not to exceed 500 words in length and the participants are limited to pupils of the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades who are not more than fourteen years of age. In the opinion of the Board this provides for contestants of comparable ability.

All elementary school teachers in the eighth and lower grades are eligible to take part in the lesson contest. The lessons are to be not more than 3,000 nor less than 1,000 words in length, and are to be written on the subject, "Training Future Citizens in Street and Highway Safety," a corollary to the pupils' subject.

No state prizes are offered to teachers, only the three national awards being given. Pupils may compete for a large number of state prizes, the first prize in each state being a check for $15.00 and a gold medal. The second state award is a check for $10.00 and a silver medal, while third prizes, consisting of checks for $5.00 and bronze medals, vary with the several states according to the proportion of the elementary school enrollment. Alabama, the first on the list, is entitled to one first prize, one second prize and seven third prizes. Michigan pupils, for instance, may compete for thirteen third prizes in addition to the first and second awards, while other states

Wyoming, Vermont, Nevada and Rhode Island are entitled to only one third award in addition to the first and second positions. New York State may seek twenty-five third awards, the largest offered to pupils of any commonwealth, while Pennsylvania is next with twenty-three third prizes. Illinois has eighteen, Texas seventeen, Indiana and California eleven, and others in proportion.

All essays and all lessons must be in the hands of teachers and principals not later than May 10, the closing date of the contest. The papers thereafter will be awarded and the awards made as promptly as possible.

Public Pays All Taxes.

In the last analysis the public pays all taxes. Political evasion cannot cloud this fact. Theoretically, indirect taxation such as that levied against manufactured commodities and corporations is no concern of the public. It is even stated that the more business is taxed the lower will be the tax bill of the private citizen.

Utility taxes for example are approximately 12 percent. If a customer of a utility pays a bill of $8.00, almost a dollar of this goes to the tax collector. The higher utility taxes are the more his bill must be.

This indirect taxation merely uses the industry as a collection agency, standing between the government and the citizen.

Every time we buy an article or a service, whether it is an automobile or a telephone call, a certain amount of the purchase price goes to the support of government. If corporations are overtaxed, the public pays just as surely as it pays taxes on its homes.

The problem of indirect taxation is every citizen's problem. Only the ultimate consumer pays taxes. Reductions that lower taxes against, for example, personal property and in the same gesture raise them against business, merely dodge the issue.

The question of burdensome and uneconomic taxation can only be solved by intelligent popular understanding and concerted action. Nothing is more detrimental to our prosperity and welfare than over-taxation in any form.—The Manufacturer.

A Change for the Worse.

Not satisfied with the injury the Postoffice department has been doing the printing industry for many years by printing stamped envelopes at the ruinous rate of 20 cents per thousand, with a minimum of 250 at 5 cents, the department now proposes to cut still further into the business of the printer by making a 20 percent reduction in the price charged for the envelopes, either plain or printed.

A dispatch appearing in The Auxiliary of last week announced this reduction to be effective April 1st. It will mean an increased use of stamped envelopes, and an increased sale for the government contractor, on which he does not have to figure a sales cost. The sale cost falls on the government and the government lets the department absorb it as a part of the expense of operating the postal service.

Why should the government not also sell shoes, and clothes, and furniture and other commodities on the same basis? That is what they are trying to do in Bolshevick Russia, but in this country the government's bolshevism applies only to the printing industry. Why not suggest that the government take some of its own medicine—the kind it is forcing the printers to take—and reduce the price of the postage stamp on the stamped envelope?

The printers of the nation had rather hoped that with a change in the administration of the Postoffice department they might look for fair treatment, but the first move of the new postmaster general is to make things worse, rather than better.—Publishers' Auxiliary.

The Need of Friends.

Few lives are so firmly founded and secured as to be altogether out of danger from adversity. We are so much linked with other lives and other men's affairs, so much a part of all the world around us, that troubles not our own may deeply involve us. Moreover, most possessions and resources for which we work and worry are transitory things in a pinch and can vanish at a turn of fortune's wheel. Assurance that is founded on them alone may fail us suddenly and completely.

No ordinary forethought can provide against all such evil chances. When real trouble comes—the trouble of bitter disappointment or loss or loneliness—there is small comfort in resources that can be reckoned and counted. We need at such times to have true friends at our side, whose hearts and hands will sustain us. More than all else, we need to know that we are not alone with our trouble and grief.

We think much of the morrow but often think too much of security that is bought at a price. Often we neglect the only store of wealth that can save us when real need comes. Then it profits us little if we have gained all manner of good things and lost meanwhile the right to turn to our friends. And when we most need love and sympathy and understanding, it is too late to look going for it. For friendship must be deeprooted in times of peace if it is to be ready for our need in days of trouble.—Phila. Ledger.

Hard to Shake Belief in Good and Bad Luck

It is hard to overcome such inbred myths as the "thirteen" superstition. To any reasonable person you can demonstrate in two minutes that there is nothing in it. But these beliefs in good and bad luck are not kept going by people capable of reason. They are the beliefs of the unthinking mass with whom it is useless to argue.

Parnell, the famous Irish statesman, was one of the many prominent politicians who have been afraid of 13. His mother was responsible for it. Yet she was a woman of character and intellect. One day she was getting into a train at Dublin when she noticed the number of the coach was 39. "I won't go in that," she declared flatly; "it's unlucky." The lord mayor, who was seeing her off, asked why. "Because of multiple of 13," she said, and climbed into another carriage—a third-class one, although she had a first-class ticket. There was no other first-class coach but the "unlucky" one.

Character Molded by Example of Parents

Do you ever wonder what you would have been if your father and mother had been different? I often do.

My own father and mother lived what they tried to teach their two children; my sister and myself. To have so consistent an example of absolute integrity would be of incalculable worth to any child; I never can sufficiently express my debt of gratitude to them.

My father was a "natural born" scientist, an indefatigable searcher for the relation between cause and effect. It was he that taught me to ask the why of everything; to want to know and to understand things.

Both my father and my mother judged persons by the essentials of character; such things as honesty, kindness, uprightness; by what persons were—not by how much money they had or how much show they could make.—Mary B. Mullett in the American Magazine.

Pals

The late Chauncey M. Depew was fond of telling stories on himself. On one of his last birthdays, which had become occasions of ceremony, he told this one:

"I feel as Methuselah must have when one of the beauties of his court congratulated him on his nine hundred sixtieth birthday saying, 'You don't look a day over 930.'"

This also on himself: "One day I was stopped in the street by a lady who asked if her aged father might come in and visit me. 'He is nearly as old as you,' she said. 'He is feeble-minded, but I know he would enjoy talking to you.'"

The Appointed Place

The big business man had died and gone to—well not to heaven. But hardly had he settled down for a nice long smoke when a heavy hand slapped him on the back, and into his ear boomed the voice of a persistent salesman who had pestered him much on earth.

"Well, Mr. Smith," chortled the salesman, "I'm here for the appointment."

"What appointment?" "Why, don't you remember?" the salesman went on. "Every time I came into your office you told me you'd see me here!"

Thou and You

A reader asks "when and by whom was the plain language, thee and thou, changed to you when speaking to a single person?" We can only say that the change was brought about by public usage. If one were to adhere strictly to the laws of grammar, then one should still address a single person as thou instead of you, and some people do this yet, but the ordinary custom has become to drop the second person singular, even when only one person is addressed, and to use the second person plural. There is no law of any kind requiring this, it is simply the custom.—Exchange.

Rites of Baptism

Immersion is unquestionably the most ancient form of Christian baptism. The word "baptism" is derived from the Greek "bapto" or "baptizeo," literally meaning to immerse, bathe, or wash. Baptism in the Latin or Roman Catholic church was originally by immersion. That method prevailed until about the Twelfth century. In some places individual Catholic churches continued to baptize by immersion until only a few hundred years ago. According to the ritual now authorized by the Catholic church, baptism is performed by laying the candidate's head.—Exchange.

ON THE HONOR ROLL OF BANKS

A True Story

In the month of August, 1819, a deposit of $10.00 was made in a New York Savings Bank, followed the next year by another deposit of $5. That was all.

What happened? Nothing except that the money was left there at compound interest. The bank recently announced that the original $15 had grown to $2,539.60, in other words had multiplied 168 times in a little over 100 years. YOU can't wait a hundred years, of course. But money at interest will do a lot for YOU in YOUR lifetime

Here's Feed for Chicks!

WALK in and let's talk over what to give your chicks to keep them alive and growing. Let us show you a way to raise your chicks to early maturity at a lower cost per chick.

Chicks need cod-liver oil to protect them against leg weakness. They need butter-milk, alfalfa leaf meal, granulated meat, bone meal, wheat germ and other ingredients to make bone, flesh and feathers.

We have all of these ingredients carefully chosen, tested, balanced, uniformly mixed and ready to feed. Purina Chick Startena is the name of the feed. You'll know it by the checkerboard on the bag. The new feeding discoveries that come to you in this year's Startena will give 15 to 20 per cent greater growth than ever before. More than 2,500 hatcheries say, "Feed Startena." So do we. How many bags do you need?

DAIRY

HIGH-PRODUCING
COW IS FAVORED

Costs More to Feed but More Than Makes It Up.

Ohio, with the sixth largest number of dairy cows among the important dairying states, supports more than one-third of a million cows kept for milking purposes than are actually needed to produce the same volume of milk and butterfat now being obtained. This is the conclusion from statistics on the dairy industry of the state and on the performance of the 9,171 cows of herds in cow-testing associations.

Ohio has approximately 926,000 cows and heifers two years old and over. Average production of milk is about 4,500 pounds per cow per year. Average production of butterfat is about 100 pounds per year. But the 9,171 cows in the cow testing associations averaged a production of 7,451 pounds of milk and 315 pounds of butterfat in 1927. If that had been the average for all the cows in the state, only about 566,000 cows would have been needed to produce the same quantity of milk, and only 470,000 to produce the same weight of butterfat. That presupposes that the quality of all cows in the state, and their care and management, were kept at the same standard as those of the cows in the cow testing associations.

Looking at it in another way, if all the cows in the state were brought to the same standards of productivity as those of the cows in the associations, the milk flow in Ohio would amount to nearly seven billion pounds a year instead of only a little more than four billion. And the butterfat produced would total more than 292,000,000 pounds instead of 148,000,000 pounds.

Charts and records of feeding, kept in the cow testing associations, show that it costs more to feed the high-producing cow, but that increased cost is far below the proportionate gain.

Best Roughage for Milk

Cows During the Winter

The best roughage for milk cows in the winter is a mixture of legume hay and some kind of succulent material such as silage or roots. Alfalfa hay is one of the best hays for feeding to milk cows, although clover, soy bean hay and others belonging to that family give excellent results. Corn silage is perhaps as common a feed as is available for supplying succulence, although mangels, carrots and sugar beets are also excellent. If legume hay and such succulent feeds as were mentioned are not available, cane hay, sudan hay and millet hay will give reasonably good results. When a nonlegume hay such as the three just mentioned is fed it will be necessary to make up the protein in the grain mixture. That will necessitate the use of some high protein concentrate such as linseed oil meal, cottonseed meal, gluten meal, soy bean oil meal, peanut meal or coconut meal.

Start Dairy Industry by Using Pure-Bred Sires

Dairying, as with other forms of live stock production, is not a thing which should be promoted. Ill-directed ventures usually result from promotion and rapid expansion. It is growing, and the use of good bulls, good pastures, and good home-grown feeds are excellent steps on which to build for the future. A hickory grows slowly; a castor bean grows rapidly. The hickory lasts from year to year and makes a tough and desirable wood. The castor bean dies at the first touch of frost. The dairy industry started by the use of better bulls, grows like the hickory, slowly but steadily, and withstands cold, low prices, and other discouraging influences.

New Electric Clippers Are Handy for Dairyman

A new electric clipper and groomer, operated somewhat on the principle of a vacuum cleaner, has been invented for the use of the dairyman who wishes to produce the cleanest milk possible with the least effort and expense. This device attaches to the milking machine vacuum pipe line and removes dirt, dust, germs, hair and filth which might get into the milk and injure its quality and purity. A similar device, but operated independently by an electric motor instead of the milking machine system, is another recent development that has proven its ability to keep dairy cows clean economically.

Cull Boarders

The need of more economic and efficient production is quite apparent on every hand. The dairy farmer must cull out the low producing cows from his herd and build for a greater production for each cow through keeping records of production, by using better sires, and by following the best methods in feeding, breeding and management. The same problems must be considered by the manufacturer and distributor of dairy products.

MAN THRIVES WITH HIS STOMACH OUT

Surgical Marvel Performed in England.

London.—A man can live and thrive without a stomach, provided that not too many of the pancreatic glands are cut away. This has been proved by an operation of removing the stomach and stitching the upper part of the small intestine to the gullet, performed in the Batley hospital in Leeds and now reported in the British Medical Journal.

The man on whom the operation was carried out was in such a condition that the removal of the stomach gave him his only chance of life. The doctors decided to give him that chance, and cut away the stomach bit by bit until it was completely removed.

As some of the pancreatic glands could be saved, the patient was not without digestive juices and soon could take nourishment. After 24 hours he took some water, and the quantities were gradually increased. Then milk and tea were added and at the end of 10 days he could have as much food as he asked for. Solid food was taken at the end of a fortnight.

After a month the man was out of bed and eating ordinary food, though in small quantities and often. An X-ray examination after five months showed that the operation was entirely successful, and at present the patient appears to be in good health and able to do a reasonable amount of work. He enjoys his food. The operation is regarded as a surgical marvel.

Gold Seekers Will Take Canoes in Air

New York.—Canoes as airplane equipment will be used for the first time next summer when the Dominion Explorers, Ltd., begin their projected four-year aerial gold exploration of the Canadian Northwest.

Capt. Charles Sutton, chief pilot, who came here to purchase three more cabin monoplanes for the explorers' caravan, told how preparatory work with four pontoon-fitted planes last summer demonstrated the advantage of taking canoes along for ready transportation on the lakes and streams.

Captain Sutton plans to test canoe-carrying under practical conditions here within two weeks.

Another flying innovation is a special pontoon with which Sutton is having his planes equipped.

With double bottoms built into them, the pontoons are provided with a longitudinal water-tight compartment as a double protection against puncture. Should one of the surfaces become damaged against a submerged rock in landing on the uncharted lakes and streams, the pontoon would fill only half full of water and be enabled to take off again without emergency repair.

Greenwich Village Goes a-Calling in Pajamas

New York.—Making calls in pajamas is now a convenient commonplace in Greenwich Village. Young couples get ready for bed and then put on their overcoats and sally forth to other attics and studio apartments for a midnight chat.

It's wholesome, healthful and as respectable as can be. Pajamas cover more of the anatomy than do evening gowns, and they conceal the figure rather than reveal it. They give wives that cozy, domestic look.

Pajama parties, formerly undertaken as a lark, are not infrequent now, nor are they considered fantastic, exotic or any of those things. They make a pleasant, comfortable way of dress. Light, colorful and fancy are pajamas, and the doctors approve them.

Few Visitors Admitted to London Exchange

London.—Admittance to the London stock exchange is limited to members, authorized clerks and "blue buttons," or holders of recognized passes, and any seeking entrance without possessing qualifications is in for a rough time at the hands of lynx-eyed bouncers. A fourth class, called "sewer rats," is admitted to the basement, but this is limited to junior clerks who daily check bargains.

Distinguished visitors are sometimes shown around, but they, like the "blue buttons," are not permitted to deal. One of the most distinguished guests was King Feisal of Iraq, who was taken in to hear dealers shouting "Anglo-Egyptians" and "Sudan Plantations."

Just Like Summer

Copenhagen.—Sunny Greenland! Government advices are that there are no snow and ice to speak of in the ice box of Europe and that there are seal hunting and fishing just like in summer.

Geranium Has Fatal Attraction for Bug

Washington.—If Japanese beetles start hanging around the home garden, some attractive beds of geraniums probably will reduce their numbers.

Charles H. Ballou of the United States bureau of entomology, Washington, finds that these beetles feed on cultivated geraniums and that the die; paralyzes them.

Bridge Night

Edward was trying to persuade his mother to permit him to go coasting. She stood firmly on her first decision. "Well, suppose I'll have to wait until Wednesday," said the lad.

"Why do you expect to go Wednesday?" asked his mother.

"Because that is bridge night and dad and I always go on a lark while you're bridging," replied the lad triumphantly.

DELICIOUS VEGETABLE DISHES

By CAROLINE B. KING
Culinary Expert and Lecturer on Domestic Sciences.

How often, when lunching or dining with a friend, have you been served with some particularly alluring-looking dish that has set you to wondering enviously why in the world you couldn't have thought of the same dish ages ago? Then, when positions are about to be reversed, and you are about to be the hostess, hasn't the feeling of envy sometimes been replaced by an ardent ambition to prove your ability to excel your friend's chef d'oeuvre with a masterpiece of your own?

Such an ambition need be by no means hard to fulfill, and the fulfillment of it does not depend upon the purchase of expensive foods, or long hours spent in turning out fancy and elaborate dishes. After all, the simple dishes, prepared with skill and a dash of the genius of the creative artist—which, by the way, all good cooks should be—are almost always the best. So far as success with vegetable dishes is concerned, much will depend upon the preservation of the distinctive flavor with which each is endowed by nature. In boiling, use no more water than necessary. To "fix" or accentuate the flavor, add a small amount of sugar, either while boiling or baking.

Stuffed Eggplant is a dish that is as appetizing as it is attractive in appearance. Cut a large eggplant in halves lengthwise, without paring it. Cook in boiling water until tender, but not mushy. Drain and scoop out pulp, leaving a wall a half-inch thick. Chop the portion scooped out, and to it add a small onion fried to a delicate brown in butter, a half cup of bread crumbs, a teaspoon of salt, a tablespoon of sugar, a tablespoon of chopped parsley, one-quarter teaspoon of pepper. Mix all the ingredients together. Fill the halves of the eggplant with the mixture. Scatter bits of butter over them and sprinkle with bread crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven fifteen to twenty minutes. Serve with cream sauce or tomato sauce.

Creole Tomatoes—Select large, firm tomatoes and cut them in halves crosswise. Allow one green pepper, one onion and a sprig of parsley to three tomatoes. Chop these all fine, spread over the cut surface of the tomatoes, dot with bits of butter, season with salt, pepper and sugar, and place in a greased pan to bake in a hot oven about twenty minutes. Remove the tomatoes to a hot dish and add a cup of milk to the liquid left in the pan. Stir till heated. Then thicken with a teaspoon of butter rubbed to a paste with a teaspoon of flour. Season with a half teaspoon of salt, a quarter teaspoon of pepper, and one teaspoon of sugar. Pour over the tomatoes and serve.

Tomato Melange—Scald and peel six medium-size tomatoes. Cut in pieces and add to one finely chopped green pepper, which has been fried light in butter. Cook together for ten minutes and add two cups of corn, either fresh or canned, three tablespoons of butter, four tablespoons of sugar, and one teaspoon of salt. Cook together for ten minutes.

Peas Country Style—To two cups of shelled peas allow four young tender carrots and a small onion. Scrape and slice the carrots and cook them and the peas in just enough water to cover them, adding a tablespoon of granulated sugar. When nearly tender add the chopped onion and a generous tablespoon of butter. Add salt and pepper to taste and a teaspoon of sugar. Simmer until the onion is cooked.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR TOPIC

Christian Endeavor Topic for Sunday April 14. Topic: Bible Messages Needed Today. Matt. 16:24; John 3:10; Isa. 55:1-3, 6, 7.

Written by Rev. Geo. W. Ports, President of the Carroll County C. E. Union.

There has been in these days, and still is on the part of some a cry for a new Gospel. We are told that times have changed and we need a new message to meet our new needs; that the old Bible message are out of date.

We agree that times have changed, and we recognize the need of new methods in our church life, but the tendencies of the human heart are still the same. The Good Book is just as adaptable to the present needs of human nature as it has ever been in any age of human history.

The following are a few of the Bible messages which to the writer are important to the present age.

Sin—Sin is as hideous today as in the days of our ancestors, and in spite of the fact that some dress it in beautiful clothes. Sin will steal away self-respect, virtue, manhood and womanhood, and finally damn one's soul. Sin is the blackest thing in all the world.

Love—Without love there would be no remedy of sin. "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish but have everlasting life." Love to God and to fellowmen go hand in hand. "He that says that he loves God and hates his brother is a liar." The saving power of the Master is sufficient to keep us under all circumstances of life. He does not save one and then have him fight his own battles. He says "My grace is sufficient for him, I will never leave thee nor forsake thee."

Humility—Jesus humbled Himself and became subject unto death, the death of the cross. The grace of humility is one of the most beautiful adornments of the christian life. He that humbly himself shall be exalted, but he that exalteth himself shall be abased."

The holy spirit as a person—We are prone to regard the holy spirit as merely an influence rather than a real person. It took a person to reveal the Father; it takes no less to reveal the son, the Father's equal. "He shall take of the things of Me and show them unto you." Whether we view the holy spirit as a mere influence, or as a divine person, determines the fruitfulness of our christian life.

Self sacrifice—It was said of Jesus when on the cross "He saved others, Himself He cannot save." What a marvelous truth that one cannot save others, and save himself. "He that saveth his life shall lose it, but he that loseth his life for my sake the same shall find it."

The Sabbath Day—"Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy." This is the Lord's day, He gives us the other six. A man who had seven dollars in his pocket met a stranger whom he thought was poorer than he. He gave the stranger six of the seven dollars. The stranger overpowered him and took the seventh from him. Some people are doing the same thing to our Heavenly Father.

Worship—The sacredness of the house of the Lord cannot be overstressed. It requires effort on our part to worship the Master as we should in spirit and in truth. "Come let us worship the Lord together."

Heaven—"I go to prepare a place for you." It is the home of the redeemed. What a glorious outlook for the Christian.

Hell—Some boast of preaching only a gospel of love. Jesus preached love, and punishment as well. Paul said: "Behold the goodness and severity of God." Hell is as important a gospel subject as is Heaven.

Veteran Poultryman Tells How to Raise Chicks

Seasoned Poultry Veteran's Formula for Success is "Give Them Good Care—Find a Good Feed—and Stick to It."

"I am often amused," writes John H. Bruch, veteran poultryman of North Carolina, "at the way some newcomers in the poultry field run in circles, trying everything they hear about in the way of feeds, without regard to its actual efficiency or the reputation of its manufacturer. There's no sense in experimenting. Give your chicks good housing and good care, plenty of fresh water and sunshine, and good, dependable feed. When you find such a feed stick to it, and the results will be reflected in your profits. For myself, I long since decided that Quisenberry Starting Food was the best of all—at least I have found nothing half so good in nearly forty years of poultry experience. I use Quisenberry Feeds exclusively, and wouldn't know how to run my business without them."

Someone has said, "To be successful, follow those who are successful." The experience of the most conspicuously successful poultry men of America is an outstanding example to those desiring a shortcut to a prosperous poultry business. Chas. B. Reaver handles this very successful line of poultry Feeds. He will be glad to give you full information about them. Also be sure to ask for a Free Copy of "Crows and Cackles," Quisenberry's Free Poultry Manual. —Advertisement

The Old Family Plate.

An old Scotch couple entered a cafe and ordered a beef sandwich for the two of them. When it came Sandy cut it in two and handed his wife half. Then he began munching his lunch.

The waiter noticed that the old lady did not eat hers and wishing to be courteous he asked her if anything was wrong with it.

"Nay, mom," she said, "'tis a'right but Sandy's usin' the teeth jus' now."

Reading your old home paper, in a manner brings old friends together."

Anti Success.

Two workmen were wheeling dirt in barrows. The boss went up to one and said:

"Look here, you! Your mate's wheeling four barrow-loads to your one!"

"Well," said the workman, "don't blame me. I've told him about it half a dozen times already!"

"Inside" Information for Women.

Dandelion greens and poke shoots are among the appetizing wild greens obtaining about this time of year. Have them occasionally while they are young, tender, and mild in flavor.

Waxed floors should be swept with a soft brush or mop entirely free from oil. Oil softens wax and should never be used on it in any way. A more thorough cleaning can be given occasionally with a cloth wrung out of warm, soapy water or turpentine or gasoline.

Leather furniture coverings last longer and look better if rubbed occasionally with castor oil or a commercial leather polish to restore the oil that gradually dries out. Wipe any excess off the surface.

If you have difficulty getting a child to drink milk, make plenty of milk soups, puddings and sauces. Sometimes a little cocoa or other flavoring added to milk will make it seem more palatable. Try drug store straws to make an interesting game of drinking the milk or beverages made from it. Egg and milk drinks are both nourishing and popular.

Red cedar chests are useful because they kill any very young moth larvae which may develop from unnoticed eggs in the clothing one has put away. They will not kill half-grown larvae nor adult moths. However, if clothing is thoroughly cleaned, beaten, brushed and sunned before being put into a cedar chest, the chances are that no moth eggs remain in it, and no damage will occur. Tight lids are of course essential to render the chest an efficient protector against moths.

For strawberry shortcake, make your usual biscuit dough, slightly richer than for biscuits. One-third to one-half cup of fat for each three cups of flour is a good proportion. A little sugar may be added if you wish. Cut out in large rounds, and roll thin enough to bake on top of the other. Brush the under round with butter so they will slip apart easily. Pre pare the strawberries at least an hour before they are wanted. Select the most attractive berries for the top sprinkle with sugar and set aside. Cut up some of the others, mash a few to make the juice run, sprinkle with sugar and let stand. Butter the shortcake while hot, spread with berries, and add whipped cream, sweetened and flavored with vanilla, just at serving time.

Commission Merchant Bill Disapproved.

In announcing his disapproval of what was known as the Commission Merchant bill, Governor Ritchie made the following statement, in part:

"Subject to certain exceptions, this bill applies generally to commission merchants who deal in farm products, such as vegetables, fruit, live stock, meats, marine food products, poultry, eggs, dairy products, wool, hides, tobacco, etc. It requires the commission merchants to secure licenses, give bond for honest accounting and payment and submit their business and transactions to the supervision and regulation of the State Board of Agriculture or its agents or representatives.

"The occasion for the bill appears to arise from the fact that in accounting for the proceeds of sales of the produce in question the commission merchants do not render any statement of the specific sales made or of the parties to whom the produce is sold. The commission merchants say that this cannot be done in the case of the produce covered by

THE GIRL WHO HAD GOOD MANNERS

(© by D. J. Walsh.)

THE employees of the Golden Products, Inc., had a new sensation. Fast as gossip run through the different departments of a large corporation, it exceeded the speed limit when little Louisette Bonheur went to work in the accounting room.

"She can't be more than sixteen. I thought they never considered anyone under that."

"She must have some pull!" "Did you see the way she dresses? No rouge. Not even lipstick. And skirts longer than my granny's."

"Ah-ha! The little French girl. Wish I knew her."

The last remark of course was masculine. Which was part of the reason for the chill in the air when Louisette tried to be friendly with the other girls. For she was sociable to a degree and longed for a real girl friend, such as these Americans joked about in the daily journals which were her only approaches to the life of the country that had been home so short a time. Though mother was mother, still she was hardly more than a name after so many years in the convent which was to keep for her the little lady Mme. Bonheur desired, rather than the overdressed but underclothed flapper.

And such good fortune had placed in their way this chance of a place with the Golden Products, Inc. It had been pulled, in a measure, for a neighbor of the Bonheurs, loving the lonely mother, and fearing for the experiences the daughter might have in some business office, had pleaded with the Golden chief to give Louiselette employment. So the word had gone from the private office on the top floor of the Golden building, and Louiselette began the strange ordeal of earning a living. And none too soon, for Mamma Bonheur had used almost the last of her bit of money for that year of extras at the convent, when the mysteries of stenography became one of the little French girl's assets.

But something else she had not learned. That was the rushing carelessness of American business life. A day was a day, to Louiselette, and she began it right. Each morning when she entered the long room where the accounting force clattered typewriters and adding machines all day, she began with Mr. Reuter, at the nearest desk, and all the way down the room wished each one "Good morning!" She meant it, too. No one could doubt it who glanced at the eager little face and sparkling eyes. Too eager and too sparkling, some thought. Miss De Murie said so flatly.

"This is no tea dance. Nor afternoon reception. Who does she think she is anyway? Wasting time that way. Why doesn't Reuter give her a calldown? Let one of us try that racket . . . h'm."

But no one reproved Louiselette. That is, in words. Some of the girls barely answered her. Mr. Reuter nodded gravely and absent-mindedly. Miss De Murie made it a point not even to glance up from her desk, whether busy or not. Or if they met in the hall she gave the newcomer one of those stinging stares that women only can achieve.

Louiselette tried not to mind. She told mamma that she cried at night because her tooth ached. And the kind neighbor who asked how she liked her place was satisfied that she had performed a whole year's Boy Scout deed.

"Wonderful chance women have in this country, Mrs. Bonheur. I'm sure if you were back in France Louiselette would never get such a place. So careful there, too. Such a nice class of employees. Must be a real pleasure to go to business, eh?"

Louiselette longed to reply as she heard the girls in that fascinating American slang:

"Yeah? How do you get that way? Write it on the ice, all the pleasure there is for me at the Golden Products, Inc."

But that wouldn't do. A business woman, whether seventeen or twenty-seven, must consider how hard it is to get another job.

And yet, the very next day the little French girl did that unheard of thing—quit without notice!

It happened as most things do, just when life seems a bit brighter than usual.

Mr. Reuter actually smiled at her when she began her good mornings. Several of the girls added "Louiselette" to their greetings. And Miss DeMurie had not come, so there was no snub from her for a bit. She made up for it by sailing past the little French girl's desk with her nose in the air, and a flip of her short skirt to punctuate her scorn. No one noticed just then though, for a boy brought a package to Mr. Reuter. A package from the private office, with a note attached which annoyed the manager.

"Here, boy, this goes to the warehouse department. They have a repair section there, though I'm sure they can do nothing with this. Wonderful piece of work, but made abroad, this mosaic inlay.

"Can't you read, boy? This note is to Rempell, in the Thirty-third street building. Wrap this up again, Miss De Murie, you haven't started your machine yet."

Miss De Murie was not only willing to wrap the little box—a lovely piece of inlaid work, but she passed it around to the girls near her to inspect, while Mr. Reuter answered an imperative ringing of the telephone. It had not reached Louiselette, who had left her desk to get a letter from the filing cabinet, when the door suddenly opened and the chief himself, James Golden entered. Discipline was the one thing James Golden insisted upon. Old-fashioned discipline, too. Miss De Murie snatched the box from Lily Camp and made a hasty retreat toward her own desk. Louiselette stood her ground at the filing cabinet. She saw nothing to scurry around about. She looked at her desk, next to Miss De Murie's. It was in perfect order, as always. This stern gray man they all shivered before had, as the American girls said, "Nothing on her."

It seemed, though, that something was on her after all. As it is so often.

"All right, Miss Demurie. You have the box wrapped? Here is Mr. Golden, who will take care of it himself."

No, Miss De Murie hadn't the box. She had been letting one of the girls—letting Miss Bonheur—examine it. Sorry, but Miss Bonheur took it out of her hand. Lily Camp flushed and opened her mouth to say she had had it last when, like a little tornado, Louiselette crossed the room to her desk, flung down the letters she had taken from the file, banged open the drawer where her purse was. She would walk out of that room and never enter it again. Oh, the awful, awful liar that girl was. Deny the accusation? But she would not speak to the pig! And then the poor child's hand was stayed. There on top of her purse, lay the mosaic box! It glittered hatefully. The girls near could all see it. Mr. Reuter, walking slowly down the room saw it, too. He could hardly believe his eyes. As could not Louiselette. She looked wildly about at the grave, cold faces. What could she say? Innocence needs such proof as mere words cannot give. She put down her hand to take her purse, but drew it back. She could not touch that box, that terrible thing that lay there screaming "thief" at her.

So she flung shut the drawer, pushed past the staring girls, rushed from the room.

After she had gone no one spoke for a minute. And then the brisk, curt tones of James Golden made them all come to life.

"Go after her, Reuter. She's not the thief. The girl there, at the next desk. Yes, I remember the name now, De Murie. She slipped the box in the child's desk, when you all were gazing at me. Of course, Miss De Murie will not expect to stay on. Same girl was in some trouble upstairs last year.

"But little whirlwind. . . . She kept at her work when all of you were looking to see what I was like. I need a new stenographer myself. Was what I came about. The box doesn't matter. "Besides I've been hearing about this 'Good morning' girl. We need some manners in the main office, as well as attention to the business of the day.

"Ah, Reuter. You found her? "Just come with me, Miss Good Morning."

"The Old Man" Once Ruled Roost; Now Look at Him

Students of primitive tribes and customs tell of the existence of an individual known as "the old man." The old man ruled the roost. What he said went. What he wanted done became custom and in later times this was put into writing and became law. Perhaps that explains some laws. They may represent days when the old man was suffering from his rheumatism.

If anyone dared to cross the old man he kept a stick handy and didn't hesitate to use it. Most of the records discovered of the people of that day are imperfect. Eventually the old man began to lose his strength and some day when he was dozing a younger man came along and put him out of business and became himself the new "old man."

The "old man" survives today. But how he has changed! Nobody listens to him. Nobody asks his advice. The only stick he wields is a fountain pen which he uses in signing his name to the slips of paper that others take to the bank. Where the family once feared him they now feel sorry for him. To his face they may call him "Dad," but behind his back he is usually "Poor Father."

The "old man" is still interested in customs, but he has lost the knack of making others observe them. There is no longer need to hit him over the head. He is helpless without that. Because he imagines that customs are still important, he spends his time wondering what the neighbors will think. But most neighbors nowadays have stopped thinking.

And so the "old man," who once wielded the power of life and death has become a sort of beast of burden, good for tying up parcels and buying postage stamps and running errands for the household.

Is there any truth in evolution? Ask Dad. He knows. If he doesn't, he ought to.

Salt Once a Luxury

The importance of salt in earlier times and among primitive peoples is accounted for by two causes. In the first place, the cereal and vegetable diet upon which they largely subsisted made salt necessary, and in the second place, the immense difficulties in procuring it made it scarce and, therefore, costly and highly esteemed. At one time it was regarded as such a luxury that most governments levied a tax on it, which led unscrupulous dealers to mix it with earth. It was this practice that inspired the familiar phrase: "The salt hath lost its savor."

Community Building

America Is Leading in Building Architecture

The architecture of America is today leading the world, according to William Harmon Beers of the American Institute of Architects.

More better-class building will go on in the United States in 1929 than in any previous year, Mr. Beers prophesies, while warning that architects should not be too much impressed by optimistic forecasts of increased building operations. Mr. Beers, architect of the Lincoln building, New York, foresees stabilization in construction and advances in design.

"To stimulate their latest abilities, American architects have the advantage of many building projects," Mr. Beers declares. "With the educational opportunity afforded the younger architects and students are becoming more and more fitted to grasp the peculiar problems continually arising. "I think there is a growing improvement in quality of design and construction and architects are showing more caution in studying building requirements before beginning projects."

Mr. Beers explains that equilibrium is being reached between apparent decline in cheap, low-grade building projects and increase in prospective government, educational and municipal construction.

"I agree in part," he continues, "that volume of construction moves in direct ratio to capital accumulations used for permanent improvements, and therefore to general industrial prosperity. The curve of building tends upward if our population and wealth increase, and if we constantly develop new activities which require new buildings.

"Of course, we have had four years of abnormal construction activity. Estimates of increase have included public works and utilities—roads, bridges, power plants—which are matters for the engineer rather than the architect. This type of work has risen from $904,000,000 in 1925 to $1,438,000,000 in 1928.

"Architectural construction during these past few years has shown a tendency toward stabilization. National building field sales organizations have focused their attention on the market represented by the multitude of small new building and alteration projects under the $5,000 minimum valuation.

Stucco Walls Must Be Suited to Architecture

Masonry offers a wide choice of materials where selection usually depends upon the style of architecture and sometimes upon local material available. A combination of field stone with stucco wall, with proper attention to detail, produce a most happy result.

Stone is the sturdier structural material. It is used in the foundation and lower story, where it contributes to the stability of the whole by reason of its evident weight. Stucco is a plastic material. It can be finished in any one of a wide variety of textures and colors. It readily adapts itself to the irregularities of stone masonry, and can be used in many different ways to cover broad wall surfaces. The surface may be smooth and the stucco gray to blend with the stone, or brightly colored stucco in high texture relief may afford a desirable contrast. The choice of method depends upon the architectural effect desired and the imagination of the owner and architect.

Size of Lot Important.

The importance of buying a large enough lot for the home cannot be overemphasized. If one had to choose it would be preferable to purchase a large lot in a more inexpensive part of town or city than to choose a smaller lot in a more costly locality—a lot which is no wider than that required by law to hold the house.

To be sure there are some types of houses which can adapt themselves admirably to a narrow setting, while other houses equally well designed are ruined by not being given the proper background.

One fact, however, stands out above all others to be remembered in considering the question of a house and lot; that is to study the lot before one buys it in reference to the type of house one anticipates building, and once having bought the land, consider again the type of house best suited to it, before the first spadeful of ground is broken.

Healthy Cities.

Seventeen cities in the United States virtually share honors for being the safest places for a baby to live. The infant mortality rate for each was less than 40 per 1,000 births, a recent health survey shows.

Positions of honor as to low mortality among the various groups of cities were: Cities of 250,000 and over, Seattle, Wash., Portland, Ore., and San Francisco; 100,000 to 250,000, Salt Lake City, Oakland, Calif., and Cambridge; 50,000 to 100,000, Union City, N. J., Brockton, Mass., and Tacoma, Wash.; 25,000 to 50,000, Oak Park, Ill., Malden, Mass., and Everett, Wash.; 10,000 to 25,000, Stonington, Winona and Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio.

CONSIDERED

The Doctor—That is a very bad sprain. You will need absolute rest. You will not be able to dance for three months.

The Premiere Danseuse—That's tough. It cancels a three-hundred-a-week contract and me without a cent saved up.

The Doctor—Not a cent? That's too bad. But don't worry. I think I can fix you so you can go on tomorrow night's show.

Silver Threads

The still young man was prematurely gray and proud of it.

"Looks quite poetic, don't you think?" he asked the girl.

"It does remind me of a certain poem," she said.

"And what is that?"

"When the Frost Is on the Pumpkin."

SLOTHS DWELL IN TREES

"He's a veritable sloth—just sits around and talks about his family tree."

"Well, sloths always dwell in trees."

Put Out Wrong Hand

Here rest the bones
Of Emily Bright;
She put out her left hand
And turned to the right.

Not Much

Lowe—The doctor says I've got to have my appendix, tonsils and adenoids taken out and a piece of bone removed from my nose.
Crowe—Gosh, you won't have much left, will you?
Lowe—Not a cent.

Served Its Purpose

Old Pa Newgilt—I paid $350 for that costume for you to wear at the Old-fam's fishing party and you never caught a fish.
His Daughter—Hm! You always call Percy Oldfam a poor fish, and I caught him.

High Recommendations

Manager—What was the reason for your hiring that former army captain?
Employment Agent—Best recommendations in the world. Had a letter from every one in his company praising him.

Using the Silencer

Young Lady—I want a bow, please.
Smart Young Clerk—I'm at your service.

Young Lady (eyeing him closely)—Yes, but I want a white one—not a green one.

A SAFE SHELTER

Mrs. Monk—How kind of you, Mrs. Pelican, to shelter me from this storm!

Love on Ice

Suspicion and reproach she's far above.
This careful dame precise,
Who thinks that she can keep her husband's love
By putting it on ice.

He Knew Her

Wife (in a reflective mood)—Ah, if we only knew what the future has in store for us.

Hubby—Well, don't worry, dear. Whatever it is you'll get it at a bargain.

The Dear Girls

Belle—I don't think it's fair for a man to grow a mustache.
Bess—What's the trouble, my dear?
Belle—No; he has to wear it, but he don't have to look at it.

Nothing New

The Saleswoman—Let me show you the latest thing in theater gowns.
The Customer—The latest thing in theater gowns? That's my wife. She's never ready before the second act.

Recognized the Sound

Husband—Great guns! What's all that racket in the kitchen, my dear?
Wife—That must be the cook breaking in those new dishes I bought this morning.

At Last

Hiram—Our gal won the blue ribbon at the beauty contest!
Miranda—Thank heavens, she'll hev' somethin' tew wear now.

Be Merciful

Maybel—I'm engaged to a struggling young lawyer.
Charles—Then why not release him from his predicament?

HEZEKIAH LEADS HIS PEOPLE BACK TO GOD

LESSON TEXT—II Chronicles 30:1-27

GOLDEN TEXT—The Lord your God is gracious and merciful.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Helping Others to Know God.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Helping Others to Know God.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Leader With a High Purpose.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Influence of a Good Ruler.

I. Hezekiah Proclaims a Passover (vv. 1-12).

The way for a sinning and divided people to get back to God and be united is around the crucified Lord. The Passover was a memorial of the nation's deliverance through the shedding of the blood of the sacrificial lamb.

1. The invitation was representative of the nation (v. 2). The king took counsel with the princes and the congregation to show that the proclamation was the expression of the nation's desire.

2. The time was unusual (vv. 2-4). There was not sufficient time to sanctify the people, nor to gather them together at the regular time, so they resolved instead of postponing it for a year to hold it on the fourteenth day of the second month. This liberty had been granted before in an exigency (Num. 9:6-13).

3. The scope of the invitation (vv. 5-9).

It included all of both nations who would come to keep the Passover to the Lord God of Israel. "Israel" is now used to include both kingdoms. The effort was intended to win back the nation which had seceded. The messengers were authorized to supplement the proclamation with urgent exhortation to restore a united nation. This urgent invitation was tactfully put as follows:

(1) It touched ancestral memories—"Turn again unto the Lord God of Abraham, Isaac and Israel" (v. 6).

(2) Recalled bitter experience—"Be not like your fathers and brethren, who trespassed against the Lord God, and were given up to desolation, as ye see" (v. 7).

(3) Aroused yearning for captive kinsfolk—"Your brethren and children shall find compassion before their captors" (v. 9).

(4) Stirred instinct of self-preservation—"So that they shall come again unto this land" (v. 9).

(5) Pledged forgiveness (v. 9).

4. Israel's reception of the invitation (vv. 10-12).

This invitation in Israel met with a mingled reception.

(1) Some mocked. The urgent and sincere invitation only excited opposition and ridicule. (2) Some with humble hearts came to Jerusalem.

In Judah, God gave them one heart to accept the summons to unite in the Lord around the great Passover.

II. The Passover Kept (vv. 13-27).

1. Altars removed (vv. 13, 14).

In the time of Ahaz (28:24) these heathen altars were erected in Jerusalem. Before there could be worship of the true God all traces of idolatry must be removed. This voluntary act of the people showed a right spirit.

2. The Passover killed (v. 15). The zeal of the people was shown in their going forward with the service, though the priests were not ready for their task.

3. The priests and Levites ashamed (vv. 15-20).

The zeal of the people put to shame the priests and Levites, stimulating them to perform their duties according to the law as given by Moses. The Levites then took charge of the killing of the Passover. Though many of the people were ceremonially unprepared to take part in the most sacred service, they were accepted as worshippers through the intercession of Hezekiah. God accepted the purpose of heart rather than the letter of the law.

4. The praise of glad hearts (vv. 21, 22).

They continued seven days with gladness: (1) The Levites and priests sang God's praise daily with loud instruments (v. 21); (2) Hezekiah spoke comforting words to the Levites (v. 22). He commended them and their teaching of the knowledge of God. (3) They made confession of their sins to God (v. 22).

5. The Passover prolonged seven days (vv. 23-27).

The king's object in prolonging the feast was to make as lasting an impression as possible, so as to result in the thorough conversion of their souls to God.

Community Building

City Beautification Is Aim of St. Louis Heads

Dr. George T. Moore, director of Shaw's Garden, is to be thanked and St. Louis home owners congratulated upon the proposed substitution of a school for the training of practical amateur gardeners in place of the custom of training landscape architects that has been in force at the garden for many years. While the service to St. Louis and the St. Louis district through the training of landscape architects has been great, the service by which practical gardeners and home owners who may be classed as amateurs are instructed in proper methods of home beautification in caring for shrubbery, flowers and lawns must be considered of greater importance. Greater because through this method of disseminating information the property of thousands of owners who cannot afford the ministrations of landscape architects will be improved and the entire city made more beautiful, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

There can be little doubt that lack of proper knowledge on the part of individual owners is responsible for a lowering of the standards of property beauty in cities. Persons who may have had success in maintaining velvet lawns, proper distribution of flowers and shrubbery in back yards in smaller towns or even in former years in the crowded city lose interest when the same efforts fall on ground that has become impoverished as residence districts grow older and more densely populated. So they give up and let unlovely city nature take its course.

Southern Cities Study Chance for Improving

Service of making semi-technical industrial surveys is being offered to small cities of Virginia by members of the Virginia Polytechnic institute faculty. The work of making these surveys will be in charge of Reuben L. Humbert, who has served as secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of Harrisonburg, Va.

The survey will determine such essential facts about the city being surveyed as the number of industries already there, the kind, number of persons engaged, the amount of weekly pay rolls, and what inducements are offered for new industries to locate.

In addition to this, certain primary factors such as climate, amount and kind of raw materials, natural resources, type of labor, average wages offered, working conditions prevailing, living conditions, amount of power and its cost, kind of freight and express transportation, type of schools and churches, development of recreational facilities, and the tax rate will be tabulated.

Other factors to be studied are municipal improvements such as sewerage, water, light, police and fire protection.

Good Lumber Is Vital to Sturdiness of Home

Houses may be constructed of stucco, stone, or, like the Grace Park of St. Louis, of brick, but one ingredient is necessary to all: good lumber.

Much of the success and sturdiness of a home is dependent on proper bracing and spacing of materials. Joists should be of sufficient size to insure perfectly rigid floor surface. They should be strengthened under all bearing partitions and stair wells.

In the Grace Park the first floor joists rest on substantial wall plates and girders, and are placed on 16-inch centers, properly bridged to prevent buckling or twisting. Subflooring is laid diagonally over these joists in the shape of 3/4-inch yellow pine shiplap, nailed to the joists.

Outside walls are also sheathed with 3/4-inch yellow pine shiplap, well nailed to studding and overlaid with building paper, with outside siding of red cedar. All window and door frames are of good quality and properly set.

Face Brick's Value.

Colorful face brick will make your new house a real home—substantial, comfortable, satisfying—one that will serve you a lifetime and pass down to your children's children, lovely with the mellowness of the years, precious with the cherished memories of family, fireside and genial friends.

In the wide range of attractive face brick colors and textures you will find just the right tones to suit your particular house and your own individual tastes.

Durable, comfortable through all the seasons, safe from fire, slow to depreciate, with low insurance rates and smaller fuel bills, freedom from repair and painting costs, your face brick home will in the long run cost no more than the house built of less enduring materials.—Chicago Evening Post.

Beautifying California.

A state-wide campaign to clean up and beautify the roadsides of California has been launched by the Automobile Club of Southern California. Civic organizations, women's clubs, newspapers and city officials are cooperating.

Evergreens Found in Warm and Cold Zones

An evergreen is a tree which stays green all winter—that is to say, the leaves do not fall in autumn, as do the leaves of deciduous trees. Many evergreens are conifers (cone-bearing trees), but not all conifers are evergreens. The larch is a conifer, but is not an evergreen.

Spruce is a familiar evergreen. It was so named because it was first known as a native of Prussia—French "prusse" and middle English "pruse" or "spruce." Spruce is an old name for Prussia. Fir is an old word, long in the language, always used for the tree; pine is Latin, also the name of the tree which it designates today. The hemlock has also been long in the language.

There are evergreens which are not trees. Almost all tropical plants, botanically speaking, are evergreens. The holly is an interesting northern evergreen, much used for decoration purposes at Christmas.

The rhododendron is an evergreen shrub. Its name, according to Webster's New International dictionary, comes from Greek words meaning literally "rose tree." It was so named because of its large flowers.

Other evergreens of the north include certain varieties of the cedar, ivy, laurel, etc. The words are all "old"—that is, they have been in the language for centuries, often nearly in the forms we know today as the names of these plants or similar plants.

Good, Clean Fun

A villain with a hook nose and club feet is after a green girl. He invites her to a cup of tea. "There's a hole in one of your stockings," he observes. "Don't lie to me," she retorts, "and I'll tell par if you get rough." He approaches. "This is not a fair-way to treat me," she sobs. The villain hazards deathly scared. The hero drives up in his caddy-lac, putt, putt, putt. "Stymie came," thinks the girl. The hero swings at the villain and tops him with an iron. "See the birdie!" gasps the villain. "Quite a match," says the girl. "He might be foursome, but not for me," replies the hero, and offers her a diamond ring. "Divot here," she says.—Los Angeles Times.

Busy Human Heart

The adult heart—the only organ in the body whose muscles never rest nor sleep during life—makes an average total of 108,000 beats every 24 hours! How does this busy organ find time to "eat" and fortify itself for its arduous labors?

Prof. Y. Kato of the Okayama Medical college, Japan, says in Popular Science Monthly that nature has provided what he described as little "dinner pails" from which the muscle fibers of the heart are ingeniously "fed." These "pails" are tiny, disk-like organs between the muscle fibers, and their duty is to collect food materials from the blood and pass them around to the heart muscles.

Slippery Thief

For years a mysterious thief, too smart to be caught, has stolen electric light bulbs from subway stations in New York city. The loss runs into thousands annually. Stories by passengers who have caught a glimpse of the thief from cars have given police a good idea of the way he operates. Waiting until the platforms are empty he takes out two or three bulbs and puts them into his pocket. It is believed he goes from station to station and at the end of a day collects many dollars' worth of bulbs. The wonder is he isn't out after bigger game in New York city.—Capper's Weekly.

Magpie and Telephone

Telephone service between Melbourne and Albury, Australia, suddenly stopped recently and it was found that a magpie was the cause of the trouble. The bird had built a nest on the top of a pole, and being intent on making it durable and solid, snipped off several pieces of wire which had been left on the ground by repair men. One of the pieces was in contact with two of the wires of the line, causing a short circuit.

Arab Flute Players Masters of Melody

The flute is the most interesting of all the Arab instruments and the hardest to play. It consists of a long reed hollowed out, about half an inch in diameter and from two to three feet long. It has eight stops, but there is no sort of mouthpiece.

The sound is produced by the player blowing across the top of the flute at some particular angle which I have never been able to discover, and producing the softest, saddest, deepest note one can possibly imagine.

To the most unmusical, the sound of the long flute must appeal, and when accompanying one of those love ballads of the South it is enchanting.

These flutes are used to accompany all kinds of songs, but chiefly those concerning the exploits of heroes and the love lays which hold such a big place in all Arab melodies. Occasionally it is used to follow religious chants, but not always.—R. V. C. Bodley in "Algeria From Within."

Food and Exercise

The trouble with most Americans, men and women, but men particularly, is this: They violate two rules—they eat too much, they exercise too little. Diet is the bane of most lives. To curb the appetite is a difficult commission, because eating is one temptation we have three times every day. The tendency is to overeat, and none of us are exempt from it. Outdoor sports and games are best for the business man. They benefit him most because they keep him outdoors and here he breathes good fresh air and breathes deeply while exercising. Any sport is good, such as golf, baseball, rowing.—Charles B. Roth in Physical Culture Magazine.

Flour From Apples

Experiments are reported of the manufacture of flour from apples in the Pacific Northwest, and it is felt in some quarters that this project will show considerable development. It requires seven tons of apples to make one ton of flour. A baking company is now making and selling cookies manufactured from this by-product. Shipments have gone as far east as Chicago, and the cookies seem to meet with favor. Because the apple flour contains no gluten, much experimentation was necessary to determine the right percentage of wheat flour to combine with the apple product in order to bake properly.

Ignited by Steam

That it is possible to light a cigarette with steam was demonstrated before the Royal Institution of London. Doctor Andrade produced high-pressure steam hot enough to set fire to shavings and cigarettes. The scientist explained that the steam which escapes from a teakettle is not, strictly speaking, real steam. By the time it emerges it has condensed into tiny drops of liquid and has ceased to be steam in the true sense. Real water steam is an invisible gas.

EAST AND WEST DEFINITELY MEET-BY TELEPHONE LINE

Long Distance Ties Together Atlantic and Pacific Coasts—Transcontinental Calls Increased 100 Per Cent Last Year—All Toll Calls Increased 18 Per Cent

Walter S. Gifford

When Kipling said, "East is East and West is West, and never the twain shall meet," he evidently overlooked the telephone, for long distance lines have now definitely tied together the east and west.

Last year the number of telephone messages made over transcontinental lines connecting the Atlantic and Pacific coasts increased 100 per cent. During the year the total number of long distance telephone calls throughout the country increased 18 per cent.

The most striking development in the telephone business in the United States during 1928 was the increased use of the telephone for long distance calls. Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, states in the company's annual report. "While this use of long distance service has been undoubtedly stimulated by general business activity, and the rate reductions in 1926 and 1927, the increased speed and improved quality of service have been the largest contributing factors. The country is becoming long distance minded and is acquiring a new telephone habit," he said.

Improvement of service—an essential factor in this growth in long distance usage—is in turn dependent upon the adequate and dependable facilities. With this in mind, the company began some years ago the construction of long distance toll cables, the report shows. At the beginning of 1925 the investment in long distance plant and equipment of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company was $140,000,000. At the end of 1928 the investment was $262,000,000, and it is planned to spend more than $80,000,000 for additional facilities in 1929.

At the same time that the number of long distance telephone messages has been increasing, the other services furnished through the use of the long distance plant have been steadily growing. Chain broadcasting on a national scale, which has become such an important factor in the life of the nation, is making extensive use of telephone wires for the inter-connection of broadcasting stations located throughout the country.

Press associations, manufacturing enterprises, commercial and banking houses, are making more and more use of networks of circuits leased for their own exclusive use between widely separated points. The majority of these circuits are operated as telegraph or typewriter circuits, although many are for telephone use.

The Lutheran Brotherhood will hold a banquet at Sauble's Inn, on Thursday evening, April 18th.

Merwyn C. Fuss spoke to the Endeavorers of Providence M. P. church near Gamber, last Sunday night.

Mrs. Thomas G. Shoemaker is airing an African lily on the front porch of her home. It is a curiosity—and looks very African.

Harry A. Allison has built a garage on his lot at the end of York St., which is to be operated by Forney & Warner, of near Kump.

Mrs. Charles O. Fuss spent several days with her daughter, Mrs. Olive E. Wolf and family, in Baltimore, returning home on Monday.

Messrs Lawrence and Charles Winder and George Kieffer, Jr., all of Philadelphia, visited recently the Misses Percy Adelade Shriver and Agatha Weant.

Miss Mary Young, who was taken to the University Hospital, Baltimore, last Wednesday, and operated on, Sunday, for Mastoiditis, is getting along as well as can be expected.

Mrs. Harry Clabaugh, son Sterling, Good Intent; Mrs. Maurice Late, daughter, Winfred, Loys Station, and Miss Mabel Bell, New Midway, spent Sunday with Mrs. Sarah Albaugh.

Mrs. Margaret Reindollar and daughter, Mrs. Alice Douglas, and three daughters of the late Jacob Reindollar, of Baltimore, attended the supper given by the Lutheran Missionary Society last Saturday evening.

Gettys M. Myers, of Alexandria, Va., visited friends at Harney and Taneytown, from Saturday until Monday. He will be remembered by many as once having conducted the watchmaking and jewelry business in Taneytown.

Mrs. Calvin Fringer, Mrs. John Shreeve, Mrs. John Yingling, Mrs. Thomas Shoemaker and Miss Mary Fringer, attended the fifteenth annual meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Reformed Church of Maryland Classis, at Baust Church, last Wednesday.

In this season of scarcity of good apples, J. Albert Angell, remembered the Editor with a nice donation of perfect shiny red ones, as fresh and crisp as though just off the tree. Thanks! If "an apple a day keeps the doctor away" we shall not need one for about three weeks.

Mrs. John Hoagland and family, returned to their home in New York, on Sunday, by auto, and took Miss Beulah Englar along as far as Metuchen, N. J. On the way they called on a brother of Mrs. Hoagland in Baltimore, and Dr. and Mrs. Merritt Burke, in Newark, Del.

Saturday, Sunday and Monday were mid-July days, with the mercury up around 90 degrees, and the nights accordingly. The early fruit tree buds were forced out ahead of their normal time, and a late frost is feared and then, on Wednesday and Thursday, cold rain and overcoats—regular Maryland weather.

Mrs. Mary V. Robb removed to her home in Derry, Pa., on Tuesday, accompanied by her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Hesson. They made the trip by auto. Derry is in Westmoreland county, east of Pittsburgh. Mrs. Robb is very popular here, and her hosts of friends wish her, and her husband, complete happiness in their new home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Frey, Mrs. Harvey Hossler Miss Elizabeth Hossler and Amos Hossler near Marietta, Pa. Mr. Milton A. Myers, of Pleasant Valley; Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Null, sons George and Charles, near town, spent Sunday with Mrs. Jesse Myers and family. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Myers, daughter and son, Miss Blanche Myers and Gordon Myers and Miss Buckley, of Baltimore, were callers at the same place on Sunday.

We acknowledge the receipt from Rev. Wm. Charles Day, pastor of the Middletown Lutheran Church, of a handsome booklet program of the dedication of the new Sunday School Chapel of his church. Rev. Day is to be congratulated in promoting to successful completion this large and handsome addition to an already large church, which now stands as one of the largest and finest churches in the state, outside of the large cities. He will be remembered by many of our readers as the former pastor of the Emmitsburg charge.

Mrs. David Shaum is critically ill at this writing.

Mrs. John Eyer, Ladiesburg, spent Monday with relatives in town.

Next Wednesday will be the official "clean up" day in Taneytown. See notice in this issue.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ohler, daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Brown, spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ohler.

Jacob Myers, who resides on the George K. Duttera farm, near town, was kicked by a horse, on Tuesday, and has since been confined to bed.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Albaugh, of New Midway, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Shanebrook and two daughters, near Barlow, were visitors at Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Stover and family, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Norville Shoemaker, spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bigham, at New Oxford; Mrs. Shoemaker remained to help take care of their son, William, who is suffering with Mastoid trouble.

Mr. and Mrs. James Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Beck and daughter, Laraine, and Mr. Shaffer, all of York; Mr. and Mrs. Grier Keilholz and daughter, Rosanna, and son, Laverne, took dinner, on Sunday, with Mrs. Alma Newcomer.

The regular monthly meeting of the Homemakers' Club will be held Thursday afternoon, April 18th., at 2 o'clock. Our Demonstration Agent is much pleased with the fine spirit of co-operation shown by our club. Come to our meetings regularly, and help to maintain our good record.

Orville J. Zepp and Anna M. McGee, Westminster, Md.

President Hoover knows a thing or two, and says a lot in a few words for instance, "There would be little traffic in illegal liquor if only criminals patronized it." He might have added that prohibition would now be well on the way toward complete enforcement, except for high-brow opposition and encouragement.

"Though reading and conversation may furnish us with many ideas of men and things, yet it is our own meditation that must form our judgment."

FARMS AND HOMES FOR SALE

America is as strong as its humblest home. My country owes me nothing. It gave me, as it gives every boy and girl, a chance to buy an American home.

I have that home waiting for you. See me next! List your farms with me if you want the cash for them. Positively no farms advertised that are not listed with me.

"Honor, Where Honor is Due."

It seems almost a natural thing, that the most credit for good work usually goes to those who are well paid for what they do.

Naturally, good pay is a good stimulant, and the output should be comparable to the stimulant—but, the latter is often entitled to most of the credit.

Many folks do equally as good work as the well-paid ones, for very little pay, and these are entitled to be on the honor roll too.

In fact, some of the best work done, everywhere, is the kind that does not ask, nor receive, money pay at all—often not even a hearty "thank you!"

The low salaried men (or women) in any position, are not always those who actually earn the least pay. There is something in mere luck that lets some fellows get ahead on the ladder, and sometimes it may be modesty, or rough crowding out, that keeps them from it.

Actually, the motto of "Giving honor where honor is due" does not come to pass as frequently as it should; but the world is blessed with the efforts of the mass of submerged workers, just the same.
