

TANEYTOWN HARD HIT BY HEAVY STORM.

One Brick Dwelling a Complete Mass of Ruin.

Thursday afternoon and night developed from an unsettled and rainy condition of weather into rains of flood proportions, and into a storm of a cyclonic character especially severe in Taneytown and vicinity. The storm developed very suddenly about 6:00 o'clock and in its severest form lasted less than a half hour; and later was followed by a great deal of thunder and lightning and rain, continuing until about 10 o'clock.

The most serious loss was to the Jacob D. Null property just out of town along the Littlestown road, tenanted by Paul Angell, wife and child, who were fortunately not in the building at the time. Mrs. Angell and child being at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob D. Null, in Hanover, and Mr. Angell was in town. The two-story brick dwelling was completely crushed to the ground, and its contents blown away, or ruined.

The farm barn on the property is also nearly a complete wreck. The violence of the storm at this point was terrific, as large trees were broken off and a swath of ruin followed up Piney Creek for some distance. Mr. Angell had taken his wife and child to Hanover in the afternoon. Had they been at home, likely all would have been killed.

The farm of Ernest Bankert, just north of Baltimore Street, was the next hardest hit to the Null loss. The barn is down and practically all of the outbuildings ruined, while the dwelling was considerably damaged.

The east end of Baltimore street from Dr. Hitchcock's to William Stouffer's, was hard hit, hardly a property escaping some loss. Mrs. Noah Baumgardner's dwelling was partly unroofed and the interior of the building and outbuildings were damaged. At Mrs. Lum Fleagle's a chicken house was upset. The fine concrete block garage at Harold Mehring's was completely wrecked and damage done to the dwelling.

At William Stouffer's, a number of fine trees were broken. At S. E. Wantz's property a chicken house was upset and other loss. Clyde L. Hesson's home was very considerably damaged, both dwelling and other buildings, also trees. Frank Palmer's house sustained a broken roof, and loss to windows and some weatherboarding.

Another of the heavy losses was to D. H. Essig's property, where the whole top of the barn was completely blown off, and the attic of the dwelling pretty completely wrecked. At Merwyn C. Fuss's the dwelling, windows and shutters were damaged, as well as outbuildings. The Merle Baumgardner home sustained loss to shutters and windows and to outbuildings; and the same sort of damage was done to Carl Johnson's. At Charles Cashman's the mill building was twisted and some damage to dwelling. Dr. N. A. Hitchcock's barn was damaged.

Mrs. David R. Fogle, damage to roof and windows of dwelling; and somewhat like damages done to Wm. G. Myers', Norman Baumgardner's and Mrs. Joseph Myers' dwellings.

As our time is limited for gathering the news in detail before going to press. We are sure a lot of properties came in for their share of the ruin, that we had not the time to find out about, or write up.

One of the out-of-town losses reported was at Russell N. Eckard's, near Bridgeport, where two chicken houses were overturned, and a variety of loss sustained by other buildings. On the whole, the storm, or cyclone, was the most serious ever experienced in Taneytown and vicinity.

At Elmer Reck's, south of town, a grain shed was demolished.

The storm seems to have been very general throughout this section of Maryland, as well as in Virginia and along the coast; but everywhere the reports indicate the cyclonic character, rather than a clearly defined continuous track of storm damage.

Hon Joseph A. Goulden.

We are reminded by a letter from our friend Alexis B. Blanchard, New York City, that fourteen years have passed since the death of everybody's friend in Taneytown, Congressman Joseph A. Goulden, of New York, who represented the same district for six terms, and was in fact a good representative of the Second Maryland District at the same time. He will long be remembered here for his generosity, geniality, and general active interest in his old home section—Taneytown district.

It is a fine thing for any locality to remember its great men—its public service men—its remember-a-promise men—its social good fellows, and it will be a long while before one such, in Col. Goulden, will be forgotten in Taneytown.

Ten Ton Tomato Clubs Again Offer Prizes.

Tomato growers in the State will again have the opportunity to supplement their field profits with valuable prizes offered by the Maryland Ten Ton Tomato Club, it is announced by L. M. Goodwin, canning crops specialist for the University of Maryland Extension Service.

To the three highest producers who enter the contest, and follow the practices required by the Club there will be awarded gold watches, valued at $100, $75 and $50, while to all growers who succeed in producing in excess of ten tons to the acre there will be given special certificates of merit. A large enrolment in the contest is expected this year because of the very great interest which was shown last season. This, in spite of the fact that the ten ton goal is considerably above the State wide average production of four tons to the acre.

Only four out of one hundred and eleven entrants finished above ten ton mark in the 1928 contest. Mr. Goodwin announces, but the production of all entrants increased 100 percent above the average production obtained in 1928. The object of the contest, it is pointed out, is not to increase tomato production indiscriminately, but to attract attention to those practices which are essential in obtaining high yields at a lower cost of production.

The prizes are being provided by the State Packers' Association and the winners will be the guests of the Association at the annual winter meeting, at which time the prizes will be awarded. Circulars, explaining in detail the rules of the contest, are available in the offices of the county agents.

Mr. Hammond Gist, of Carroll County, was one of the high winners in 1928 contest, receiving a gold watch and a bronze merit badge for his excellent work. For further details regarding this work get in touch with County Agent, L. C. Burns.

SCHOOL ATHLETIC DAY SAT., MAY 11.

Will again be held on Carroll County Fair Grounds.

The Athletic meet of the High and Graded Schools of Carroll County, that was so successfully held at the County Fair Ground, Taneytown, last year, will be held at the same place this year on Saturday, May 11, all day. The Fair ground is ideal for the purpose, as it has an excellent track and many needed accommodations to provide for a large crowd.

The events will begin at 10 o'clock, and will be as follows:

Girls: Run and catch relay (High School), obstacle race; hit and run the bases; flag relay; run and catch relay (Elementary School) girls, for badges—bronze, silver, gold, super-gold; dodge ball, field dodge ball, hit ball, touch-down pass ball, and volley ball.

Musical Service at Silver Run.

St. Mary's Reformed Church, Silver Run, Rev. Felix B. Peck, Pastor, announces the fifth of its series of musical Sunday evening services, for this coming Sunday evening, at 7:30. The program will be in charge of the choir of Christ Reformed Church, of Middletown, Md. This excellent group of about 35 singers in under the personal direction of Hon. Emory L. Coblenz, a musician of exceptional ability and composer of numerous musical numbers. His musical ability has been recognized by the people of his entire denomination, he being one of a small group to produce the "Hymnal of the Reformed Church."

In business and politics he is one of the leading citizens in the state of Maryland. Along with this he holds many places of honor and trust in the Reformed Church. His work with the people of this color is a credit. Many of the members of this choir have under his influence studied voice culture. It has been said that this choir is the best to be found in any Reformed Church in the state. The people of the Silver Run community will certainly find this program a challenge to their interest.

It will be remembered that this choir comes from the church of which Rev. John S. Adam is pastor. Rev. Adam made many friends in Carroll and Adams counties during his pastorage of St. Mary's Reformed Church. He will be with the choir on Sunday evening and take part in the program. The full program of solo, duet, quartette, and chorus work is as follows:

Some Motor Vehicle Figures.

California has the most automobiles in proportion to population, with one car for every two and seven-eighths persons.

Seventy steam railroads are using motortrucks for short hauls and terminal service.

Motortruck registration in the United States totals 3,113,999. Passenger car registration is 21,379,125. Total registration of motor vehicles is 24,493,124.

There are 92,000 motorbuses in the Nation.

CHILD LOST IN FREDERICK

Slipped Out of Auto, and Parents Drove off Without Her.

The fact that a six-year old girl knew the license number of her father's automobile was responsible for her early restoration to her family after she had been unknowingly left in Frederick, on Wednesday afternoon.

J. E. Wiley, of Youngstown, O., drove up to the filling station at the intersection of West Patrick and Jefferson streets Wednesday afternoon about 4 o'clock. Wiley, who was accompanied by his wife and six-year old daughter, Dorothy May, got out of his machine while it was being serviced.

Dorothy May, who was in the rear of the car, which was piled high with baggage, left the machine unnoticed and ran across the street to a grocery store to secure an ice cream cone. Before the little girl had time to get back to the car, her father and mother drove away without noticing Dorothy May's absence.

Events transpired quickly. Officer W. E. Miller was immediately notified of the little girl's predicament. He talked with Dorothy May, who was weeping copiously, which she discontinued after the officer presented her with a "quarter."

Dorothy May proved to be unusually bright. She gave the officer the necessary names and furnished him with the number on the license tags of her father's automobile. Immediately upon receipt of this information, Officer Miller notified the Braddock sub-station of the State Police and State Patrolman Cabbage set out in pursuit of the Ohio car, which by this time had a 20-minute start on the motorcycle officer.

While Officer Cabbage was speeding west along the Hagerstown pike, Officer Miller brought little Dorothy May down to Police Headquarters and made arrangements to take the little girl to his own home until her parents returned for her. In the meantime, Officer Cabbage's search was drawing rapidly to a close. He came up with the Ohio car as it was passing through Hagerstown en route to Cumberland.

Stopping Mr. and Mrs. Wiley, who thought they were halted for some traffic violation, Officer Cabbage apprised the parents that their daughter had been left behind in Frederick. The father and mother were greatly surprised and were very grateful to the police for the celerity which led to the early restoration of the child.

Auto Demolished near Emmitsburg.

Miss Mildred Spriggs, of Greenmount, Pa., sustained a gash in her knee and bruises, and Wilbur Moser, of Gettysburg, was bruised in an accident late Saturday night about two miles north of Emmitsburg, when the Ford roadster driven by Moser, and the Chrysler sedan driven by Walter Ridge, Emmitsburg, are reported to have sideswiped each other. The Ford turned over and was completely demolished, it was reported.

The accident occurred as Moser and Miss Spriggs were enroute from the latter's home at Greenmount, to Emmitsburg, and the Chrysler, in which were Ridge and several women and a child, was enroute toward Gettysburg. Miss Spriggs was thrown from the Ford and dragged some distance down the road, and Moser was thrown out as the car turned over and pinned beneath. Miss Spriggs was found to be in considerable pain and was rushed to Emmitsburg, where treatment was given her, and it was found that no bones had been broken. Moser, though bruised about the body, was not thought seriously hurt.

The occupants of the Chrysler were uninjured, it was said, with the exception of one of the women who was reported to have been thrown from the car but not hurt.

Passion Play at New Windsor.

The Passion play of Oberammergau will be reproduced in a dramatic picture lecture by Dr. Harvey Hadlock, of California at the Methodist Episcopal Church, in New Windsor, next Thursday night, May 9th., at 8:00 o'clock.

Dr. Hadlock was with the American Army in France. He is the man who found Anten Lang, Christus in the Christian drama when he had been reported killed in the war. He will show beautiful colored pictures of the play as he witnessed it at the last production in Oberammergau. It was then given to promote world peace. Dr. Hadlock will bring the peace message next Thursday night which he is taking around the world. The program will close with a beautiful peace pageant entitled, "Crowning Peace." Admission will be free with an offering for world peace. The public is invited.

Boulevard Law Explained.

The boulevard bill passed by the recent Legislature will be in effect only on roads where signs have been placed and will not be effective on roads which have been designated and as yet have not been properly marked, G. Clinton Uhl, chairman of the State Roads Commission, said Wednesday.

Mr. Uhl said he wished to correct the impression that the law was effective as soon as the bill was passed.

The measure gives the State Roads Commission and the Police Commissioner of Baltimore city power to name which roads or streets will be through thoroughfares, with vehicles having the right of way over vehicles entering the boulevards from less traveled streets or roads.—Balt. Sun.

THE BANK ROBBERS NOW IN BALT. JAIL.

Police Say Four Men helped carry out the Job.

Whittemore and Minner were brought to Baltimore, on Wednesday afternoon and were placed in separate cells in the city jail. They were questioned for about two hours by Captain Burns, not only in connection with the bank robbery but in other cases that they are suspected of having been connected with. It is believed that evidence may be secured in the bank case that may lead up to conclusive evidence in other unsettled cases.

The third man in the Westminster bank robbery under arrest, is August (Dutch) Beyers, of Baltimore; but the police insist that there is a fourth man who waited for the three, with another car outside of Westminster. This man, however, is said to have left the party immediately and did not follow Whittemore and Minner.

On Thursday, the bank employees identified Whittemore and Minner, but none identified August Beyers. In all, fifteen motorists and storekeepers and one policeman viewed the prisoners in the bank case.

Whittemore was identified by witnesses in three other cases, one being the robbery of occupants of an automobile, watch and money; another was the robbery of six victims held up along a roadside; another the robbery of a pharmacy, of Maryland merchandise.

Whittemore and Minner after their return were grilled by detectives, State's Attorney Theo. F. Brown, and John H. Cunningham. The minute details amount to very little, for two of the bandits are caught, and (apparently) safe in jail, and their conviction will be a very easy and formal affair.

Weather and Crop Conditions.

Synopsis of weather and crop conditions in Maryland for the week ending Tuesday, by Roscoe Num, section director.

The ground was very wet at the beginning of the week and rain fell again on Sunday, the 21st, making conditions unfavorable for much plowing or planting. There was but little progress in preparations for corn planting; however, much corn ground had been prepared before the rainy weather set in, and planting had begun in the southern counties.

Unusually low temperatures prevailed the first two days, but the 20th and 21st were warm. Cool weather returned on the 22nd, and light frost occurred the morning of the 23, but without material damage to fruits or crops.

Crops made only fair progress this week. Wheat, rye, spring oats, and pastures continue in good to excellent condition in most sections. In some localities of the Eastern Shore wheat is reported adversely affected by the cold, wet weather. Rye is heading on the Eastern Shore, in Southern Maryland, and in Montgomery county. Truck crops, such as peas and potatoes, are generally ahead of normal growth for this date, and sweet potato plants and tobacco plants are doing well.

The Waldorf-Astoria Closed.

The famous Waldorf-Astoria hotel, New York, that is to be torn down to give place to perhaps the largest and finest hotel in the world, closed its doors to patrons Wednesday night, serving $10.00 lunches to mourners who wanted it handed down in family history that they had dined at the noted hotel the last night of its life. During the last three months, after the destruction of the building had been decided on, thousands of pieces of silverware were pocketed by patrons, as relics; so recently the "silver" supply has been both scanty, and imitation in quality.

The hotel's history was celebrated in solemn speeches at a public dinner in its honor and scores of "wakes" were held in private suites. One hundred and forty-nine of those who lived at the hotel kept their rooms for this last night and about seventy-five engaged rooms.

Oscar, the maitre d'hotel, whose contract stipulates that he shall be known as "Oscar of the Waldorf," will retire to his farm for a few months. He will open the new Waldorf-Astoria, which he told the diners would open in 1931, "bigger and better than ever."

To Improve Adams County Roads.

The Adams county commissioners at the weekly meeting held, in Gettysburg, on Tuesday, signed authorization papers allowing the state highway department the right to improve three stretches of county road at the state's expense.

A fund of $201,000 is available for Adams county use of highways, the state department has announced. The fund available, the county directors point out, will not be large enough to cover the improvements needed on the three roads this year.

The first stretch to be improved will be the state road from Round Top near Gettysburg to the Maryland State line on the Taneytown route.

Another will be the improvement of the section from Biglersville to Heidersburg. Third preference is the three mile stretch from Table Rock to Dick Shriver's corner of the Harrisburg road.

THE ROAD CASE

Not Dead Yet But Still Before the Grand Jury.

The State Road inquest, after taking quite a rest, opened up again this week as a news subject, with the prospect of more indictments. More witnesses are being called and the case will be open at least until the expiration of the present Grand Jury, May 13th. The present status is that additional indictments may be drawn against four men now serving terms in the Penitentiary; Thomas A. Butler, James H. Woods, Francis J. Woods and John B. Griffin, involving a large total.

In addition to these four, seven others have been convicted in connection with the shortage. Three more are awaiting trial on indictments given by the grand jury shortly after the first of the year.

The cases against the trio were not sent for trial by Mr. O'Connor, it was said, because of the grand jury's wish to begin anew the investigation of the roads affairs.

Butler and the Woods brothers have been charged with being the ringleaders in the shortages. At one time during the hearing before the Legislature's Grand Inquest Committee Butler admitted that he had stolen approximately $70,000 from the commission.

After the adjournment of the Grand Jury the indictments will be brought to trial, so the famous "$376,000 shortage" seems hard to dispose of.

The County Music Contest.

The sixth annual music contest of Carroll County High Schools was held in Westminster, Friday afternoon and evening. The programs in general are said to have been greatly improved over the contests of some previous years. Nevin W. Fisher, head of the music department, Blue Ridge College, and Charles Bocheou, member of the Peabody Conservatory, acted as adjudicators.

The program consisted of solos and choruses by boys and girls, violin solos, school orchestra numbers, and a mixed chorus by all the schools, accompanied by the Carroll County orchestra, the selection being "The Heavens are Telling."

Manchester won the highest number of points 457 and Westminister 452. Westminister won the boys' solo, by Francis Bowers, and the girls' solo by Marie Helm; Manchester won the orchestra contest, the boys' chorus and the violin solo, played by Mabel and New Windsor won the girls' chorus.

Chairman Raskob Heard From.

Democratic National Chairman, John J. Raskob, who has not been so much heard from since last November, has announced that the Democratic National Committee is a going concern, and that he is its pilot and expects to stay until the next Democratic candidate for President picks his successor.

He has also made the pleasurable statement that $750,000 of the $1,550,000 party debt has been paid in the last few months, and is optimistic of wiping the slate clean before long.

Of the amount raised, about $200,000 came from the sale of the book of campaign speeches made by former Governor Smith. He also made the announcement that party headquarters will be opened in Washington, shortly, and that it will be properly financed.

Mexican Rebellion Ended.

The revolution in Mexico has run its course, the army having disbanded and the generals surrounded. The announcement was made on Tuesday, and a return to order is now under way, in so far as complete order in Mexico is possible at any time. So far as the government's part in the war was concerned, it was extremely well managed and discipline and order were perfect.

A pretty girl likes to be told she's intelligent, and an intelligent girl likes to be told she's pretty.

How Honest Are We?

The average person is unfair and selfish, under certain conditions, which means that complete individual honesty and consistency is very rare. Or, say it another way. Given the required amount of provocation or temptation, at the proper time, and even the best of us are apt to lose our tempers, or perhaps our high moral convictions.

We are honest and dependable, conditionally; our honesty usually being when we are not personally involved. Our sense of honesty and justice is keenest when exercised over the affairs of others. All of which comes very close to meaning that "every man has his price".

Whether we like to admit it or not, there are times when we lose some respect for ourselves because we know that we have failed to use our honest convictions. We have backed-off, perhaps for fear of giving offense to some friend, or customer whose good will we value, and excused ourselves on the ground that it wasn't any of our business.

But, being honest, means being upright, just, sincere, honorable, trustworthy, and a lot more adjectives along the same line. It is about as wide a meaning word as there is in the dictionary, if the truth be told, and it represents in itself about all that is needed as a character recommendation.

So, when anybody asks us whether we are strictly honest, under all conditions and circumstances, and pins us down to a straight answer it is pretty hard to give a "Yes" with a period after it. Of course, we can likely certify that we never stole chickens, and never picked a pocket; we may even testify that we always gave good measure, and never passed a lead nickel; but, to answer all of the questions in the book that attaches to "honest"—well, that is a real hard one.

Senate vs. President.

As was to be expected, President Hoover is having trouble with the Senate, especially, with the members of the so-called farm group, who can always depend upon the help of a few chronic kickers who line up "against the administration." The President will not be greatly alarmed that he does not have easy going with the whole Senate. Few presidents ever have had. Some of the members of the august body have served long, and it seems that this gives them the right to be dictators—especially to newcomers who have been elected president—instead of themselves.

A long line of presidents before Mr. Hoover have had the same experience he is having, and still the country is getting along pretty well, refusing to be ruined because of the dire predictions of a life-long disgruntled bunch, who can not make up their minds that the height of governmental wisdom can possibly rest in any other minds than their own.

All of the sour critics are not in the Senate. There are others who have imagined themselves fine presidential timber, but not many other imaginations took the same turn. Some such are in the newspaper game very pretentiously, but even the power of the press never brought the coveted honor. Others have been, or are, governors of states, but the height of their ambition ended in State houses. Blasted political ambition has been the nursery of many of the loudest and most persistent political Solomons of today.

Saving Money, and Thrift.

It is well to understand that the phrases "to save" and "to be thrifty" do not denote synonymous conditions. If they did mean the same thing, all that any of us would need to do to make personal advancement would be to save our money. We should need give no thought to matters of health, the efficient employment of time, education, travel recreation and various other points that must constantly be kept in mind by those who are truly thrifty.

These lines are written for the purpose of helping counteract the ill-effects that have resulted from the over emphasis of the savings factor in thrift.

It should be borne in mind that no man or woman can be considered thrifty who does not save money. This is a fundamental concerning which there can be no argument but to say that you are thrifty simply because you save money would be as ridiculous as to say that you have a fine home because you have built a good foundation for it.

Let us understand then that after we have saved our money we are by no means through with the obligation we owe to our self-interest. We must study how to employ that money so that it will mean the most for us and we must study also how to improve our minds, conserve our physical strength, master the tasks that lie before us, adapt ourselves to our surroundings, and, in short, keep ourselves ever moving along the pathway of progress.

Let us cease confounding "saving" and "thrift" because in so doing we are very apt to create a misleading impression. Save, yes; but when you have done that you have only begun to be thrifty.—S. W. Straus.

Why the Insurgents Hate Mr. Mellon

Secretary Mellon has now held office since March 4th, 1921, or a little more than eight years. He has been Secretary of the Treasury under three Administrations—those of Harding, Coolidge and Hoover.

During that time he has greatly reduced the public debt and aided in the reduction of Federal taxes by his wise policies.

He has helped show this Nation the difference between unsound and unscientific taxation.

Mr. Mellon has followed the commonsense principle that the time to pay off a debt is when you have the money to pay it.

He has shown the country that sur-taxes, which drive capital into tax-exempt investments, do not produce more revenue but actually produce less revenue.

Secretary Mellon has proved also that any taxation intended to penalize wealth is not only unfair but is both economically and politically wrong.

And for these things he has been hated and fought for more than eight years by a little Insurgent Republican group in the Senate, and these gentlemen have been aided and abetted by a considerable number of their Democratic brethren. He has not known a single year untroubled by their attacks since he became Secretary of the Treasury.

Senator Couzens, of Michigan, carried on a personal vendetta against him for years. Senator Walsh, of Montana, has done his weary and aging best to destroy him. When an Insurgent or radical-minded Senator had nothing else to do, he proposed to investigate Secretary Mellon and the Treasury. Dry Senators worried because Mr. Mellon had charge of enforcement. Farm-bloc Senators went into wild rages because he blew up and riddled McNary-Haugenism.

The McKellar Resolution is the latest of these many attacks. It directed the Judiciary Committee to study and report upon certain allegations that were held to disqualify Mr. Mellon from his office. One of these was the foolish charge that he had not been renominated for that office by President Hoover. This collapsed under the weight of precedents and common sense. Another was that he had been associated with a whiskey distillery. This had to be dropped.

There remains a third charge. This urges that he is disqualified because he holds stock in several corporations. Senator Norris apparently contends that the Secretary of the Treasury must not in any way be associated with the business life of the country or its commercial activities.

In short, the enemies of Mr. Mellon hold that a man of outstanding business ability must not be Secretary of the Treasury and that he may not even be a stockholder. The Norris theory seems to be that only veteran bankrupts and admitted financial failures should have that great office and control the fiscal policies of a nation that lives by business and industry.

The Senate Judiciary Committee is, of course, making itself ridiculous. That is clear to everybody other than the Norris element in the Senate.

It is time to end this perennial persecution of a Cabinet member. Long ago it was recognized for what it is—for the personal animosity and pure malice of a few vindictive and overpartisan Senators. Everybody knows they do not really care very much what stock Mr. Mellon owns. They hate him because he has ripped their unsound taxation ideas to tatters and utterly discredited them.

If there is any wisdom in the Senate Judiciary Committee when it meets today, it will drop the last of these anti-Mellon charges. The Senate may not be tired of this childish vendetta, but the people who make Senators are tired of it.—Phila. Ledger.

Disturbed Honeymoon

The little man dashed along the platform as the train was moving out and made for the last carriage, at the window of which a woman was frantically waving her handkerchief.

He was about to grasp the handle of the door when the porter pulled him back.

"You mustn't board the train while it's moving," said the porter. "Besides, that compartment is engaged."

"Engaged!" shouted the little man, dancing about in his rage, as he watched the train disappearing. "Of course it's engaged! I engaged it myself, and that's my wife at the window, off on her honeymoon!"—London Answers.

Heroic Self-Sacrifice

When Jerusalem was taken there were three strongholds: One—Masada—endured a siege for three years, but the commander of the town realized at length that there was no hope of escape except by death and decided to anticipate their fate. Each man slew his wife and children, ten men were selected by lot to slay the rest, one man slew the other nine, fired the palace and fell on his own sword. When the place was finally stormed there were found living two old women and five children hidden in caves.

ARE YOU SKEPTICAL OF 5c CIGARS?

We don't blame you. Read this

You've smoked 'em bitter; smoked 'em "flat." You've had 'em crumble in your mouth or burn lopsided. You've probably given up the idea that 5c can buy an enjoyable cigar. But—just to show you that a really fine-tasting, clean-burning cigar can be made for a nickel—we ask you to try Bayuk's Havana Ribbon.

Bayuk's Havana Ribbon is the pride of one of the world's largest cigar manufacturers. As different from ordinary five-centers as juicy-ripe apples are different from green or over-ripe. And that's just the secret: It's ripe tobacco! And long-filler! No short ends or "scraps." No bitter under-ripe top leaves; no insipid over-ripe bottom leaves. Only choice fully-ripe middle leaves aged and cured to the sweetest, mildest flavor you ever tasted in a cigar selling for so little. Get out a nickel quick. There's a cigar counter near. And the countersign is—Bayuk's Havana Ribbon. Also Practical Pocket Packages of five cigars.

Age and Exercise

Amounts of physical activity required by healthy persons at different ages, as computed by various authorities, are summarized in an article on exercise by Dr. James O. Nall.

The program quoted calls for: Four hours daily at the age of five, five hours daily from seven to nine years, six hours daily from nine to eleven years, five hours daily from eleven to thirteen years, four hours daily from thirteen to sixteen years, three hours daily from sixteen to eighteen years, two hours daily from eighteen to twenty years, and one hour daily for persons over twenty years of age.

Your MODEL T FORD is still a good car

THE Model T Ford led the motor industry for twenty years because of its sturdy worth, reliability and economy. Those same reasons continue to make it a good car.

As a matter of fact, nearly one-fourth of all the automobiles in use today are Model T Fords. Millions of them can be driven two, three and even five more years with reasonable care and proper replacements. Figures show that the average life is seven years.

Don't sacrifice your Model T, therefore, but take it to the Ford dealer and have him estimate on the cost of putting it in A1 shape. A very small expenditure may be the means of giving you thousands of miles of additional service.

For a labor charge of $20 to $25 you can have your motor and transmission completely overhauled. This price includes new bearings, reboring cylinders and any other work necessary. Parts are extra.

Valves can be ground and carbon removed for $3 to $4. The cost of tightening all main bearings is only $6. The labor charge for overhauling the front axle is $4.50 to $5—rear axle assembly, $5.75 to $7.

New universal joint will be installed for a labor charge of $3. Brake shoes relined for $1.50. Rear spring and perches rebushed for $1.75. The cost of overhauling the starting motor is $3. A labor charge of approximately $2.50 covers the overhauling of the generator.

It will pay you, therefore, to see your Ford dealer and have him put your Model T in good running order. By doing so you will protect and maintain the investment you have in your car and get months and years of reliable transportation at a very low cost per mile.

NEW WAYS TO COOK CARROTS

By CAROLINE B. KING
Culinary Expert and Lecturer on Domestic Sciences.

LACK of sufficient vitamins in the diet is one of the commonest causes of poor health and susceptibility to disease. But although most of us know this, it is sometimes difficult to induce the family to eat just those vegetables which are of particular value because of their high vitamin content. Frequently, the difficulty is due to the way the vegetables are cooked. We've been cooking some of them in the same old way for so many years that we have grown tired of their inevitable sameness.

Carrots have the highest vitamin content of all of the root vegetables, yet the carrot is one of the vegetables that has suffered most from the fact that it is almost invariably cooked in one of a few standard ways. It has suffered undeservedly, for there are all sorts of ways in which carrots can be prepared so as to give them the added zest of novelty. A special tip to remember when you are boiling carrots, is to put about a tablespoon of sugar in the water. The sugar both adds to their food value and brings out their flavor.

Carrot Loaf will help you to impress the family with your skill and ingenuity in the culinary art. It's easy to prepare, too. Scrape the carrots and boil in sweetened water until tender. Mash and to a pint of the pulp add two well-beaten eggs, a half teaspoon of salt, a quarter teaspoon of pepper, two tablespoons of sugar, and a quarter cup of cream. Pour into a well-buttered mold. Stand this in a pan of hot water, and bake in a moderate oven until firm. Turn out on a hot platter and surround with peas, or serve with a white sauce.

Glazed Carrots With Mint—In just enough water to prevent burning, cook three cups of sliced carrots until tender. Not more than one-fourth cup of water should be main at the end of the cooking. Season with three tablespoons butter, three tablespoons sugar, salt and a dash of nutmeg. Cook about three minutes. Sprinkle with one tablespoon finely minced mint leaves and serve immediately.

Candied Carrots—Cook carrots until partly tender in boiling water to which a tablespoonful of sugar has been added. If carrots are large cut in three slices; small carrots, cut in half. Then place in a baking dish and sprinkle the carrots with salt, pepper and granulated sugar. Dot generously with butter. Bake until nicely browned.

Carrot Chips—Scrape the carrots and cut them in thin slices, allowing one pound of sugar to each pound of carrots; also half a cup of lemon juice. Place the sliced carrots in layers in a preserving kettle, sprinkling each layer with the sugar. Pour the lemon juice over all and let marinate for twenty-four hours. Then add water to cover and a few pieces of green ginger root, scraped and cut in thin slices. Simmer the carrot slices until they are tender, then set aside to cool. After four days drain the syrup from the carrots and cook it slowly till very thick. Place the carrots in jars, pour the hot syrup over them and seal when cool.

POULTRY FACTS

CLEAN AND SPRAY TO CONTROL LICE

Preventive Measures Should Be Taken Before Summer.

Surveys, made by the poultry department of the North Carolina State college, show that more than 53 per cent of all poultry flocks in North Carolina are infested with either lice or mites.

"These pests multiply very quickly during the hot months and for that reason control measures should be taken before the summer sets in," says Dr. B. F. Kaupp, head of the department. "The henhouse should be given a thorough cleaning with a 4 per cent coal tar dip. All cracks and crevices should be sprayed and the perches painted with a pure dip or creosote. New scratch litter and nesting material should be put in before the hens are allowed to use the house. If these precautions are not taken, the sitting hen will be killed and the small chicks will weaken and die."

The adult fowl should be dusted with sodium fluoride. This should be used sparingly as there is some danger of injuring the skin. A pinch of the material should be held between the thumb and finger and worked among the feathers. This operation should be continued until the entire body has been covered, and should be repeated in five days if all the lice were not killed.

All brooder houses, henhouses or any place that the chickens roost should be gone over with the 4 per cent solution of coal tar and where possible the hens transferred to another house during the cleaning.

Doctor Kaupp recommends that new houses be built, especially where the old houses have been in use over a long period and are thoroughly infested with the pests. The old houses should then be torn down and burned, he says.

More Hopper Space for Feeding Fowls Is Urged

To enable all the hens to obtain plenty of laying mash it pays to allow ten feet of hopper feeding space to each 100 hens. A five-foot trough hopper open on both sides gives good satisfaction. These open hoppers built up on a little platform to keep out the straw litter are proving more popular than wall hoppers, and some poultrymen are tearing out their wall hoppers and installing the long open boxes. Then the mash does not clog and is plainly visible to the hens. If the wall hoppers remain they can be used as a reserve supply and mash taken from them and added to the open hoppers as the supply needs replenishment.

Eliminate Tuberculosis From Chicken Quarters

Fortunately with poultry the disease is not difficult to control. It should be remembered that the disease is confined to very old birds. Birds under a year old are seldom infected. By maintaining a flock in which the number of old birds has been kept at a low figure the danger of infection is reduced. If, however, the premises are badly infected the house and yards should be given a rest for two years. The house can be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, and then be used, but to eliminate tuberculosis from the yards the resting of the yards is necessary. During the resting of the yards their cultivation is desirable.

Actions of Guineas

A guinea will usually build her nest in the edge of a briar patch or under a clump of weeds, and while on the nest will cackle a soft and long cackle similar to the male bird, but not so loud. The male bird often stands near the nest and cackles while the hen is on the nest. When the hen gets a large nestful of eggs, she will get broody and go to sitting on them, if she is not broken up. When she goes to sitting she rises and flies from her nest when she comes off.

Direct Sunlight Best

Direct sunlight promotes health and egg production. Sunlight through ordinary window glass is ineffective. Only direct sunlight or sunlight which passes through special glass or glass substitutes, which will permit the ultra-violet rays to pass through, is beneficial.

Direct sunlight or its equivalent aids in maintenance of health, reduces mortality, increases egg production and improves hatchability and quality of eggs, especially egg-shell texture.

Feeds for Poultry

For poultry feeding, the right kind of protein is generally obtained from milk, skim milk, buttermilk, whey, fresh meat, meat scraps, fish scraps, tankage, or alfalfa leaf meal feeds. Very little of it is found in the common farm feeds, and for this reason when home-grown grains are used, it is necessary to purchase small amounts of the high protein feeds to supplement the home-grown grains. Milk of any kind is the most popular protein feed for poultry.

OTHER CHAP'S RIGHT TO GIRL OBSERVED

Fist Fights in Gotham Clubs Enforce Code.

New York.—Broadway has a strict etiquette at times, one unwritten rule of which is:

Let the other fellow's girl alone. Like most rules it is often disregarded, usually by those who have yet to learn it. They soon are educated, however. The offended party sees to that.

Stories are not uncommon of fist fights in night clubs over attentions paid some girl. The object of attraction may not have minded, but her escort did. One incident happened where the rebuking party was a clubman known widely for his athletic ability. A convivial stranger at the next table made an intimate if innocuous remark to the sportsman's friend which brought a single, belligerent question.

"Do you want to walk out, or be carried out?" he was asked. He chose to walk.

Violation Has Advantages.

There is one man-about-Broadway, however, who regrets a recent application of the hands-off rule, supposedly in his favor. He was invited to an after-theater party only to find himself paired with a girl who was pretty but exceedingly dull. He was very affable, therefore, when another man came up and engaged the dumb beauty in conversation. As soon as he could, he disappeared, hoping he was rid of her.

When he returned some time later, however, the other man was missing.

"What happened to that nice chap who was here awhile ago?" he asked. "Oh, I took care of that egg," said the well-meaning host. "He was trying to take Mary away from you, so I told him to get out and stay out."

"That's too bad," murmured the guest weakly. "He seemed to be a fine fellow. I liked him."

Bau Company Bobs Up.

But now and then the rule is unenforced, as it was not long ago when a suave stranger started a restaurant flirtation that almost proved disastrous for the girl. A smile led to an exchange of telephone numbers and soon the couple were going places together. She became quite fond of him until her romance was suddenly shattered by a newspaper story that her "broker" friend had been arrested as a racketeer.

After recovering from the shock, she kept herself in seclusion until the story was forgotten. Now she is back in the old haunts, but she is unapproachable by any one but her best friends.

Spanish Yielding to English in Philippines

Manila.—The Spanish language is giving ground to English, despite the efforts of older Filipinos to keep Spanish alive.

The latest indication of this was contained in a communication from Governor General Stimson to the secretary of justice in which the executive advised the secretary that nominees for the judiciary must have at least a working knowledge of the English language.

The order was in line with the administration's policy of encouraging the adoption of English as the sole official language of the country as soon as possible. This policy, in turn, was prompted by the fact that most of the younger Filipinos speak English, but have a slight knowledge, or none at all, of Spanish.

At present, both Spanish and English are the official languages of the Philippines.

Finds Cells of Trees Live 3,000 Years

Flagstaff, Ariz.—A discovery that upsets a fundamental theory about living things, that all life cycles require enlargement, has been made by Dr. D. T. MacDougall of the desert laboratory here of the Carnegie institution.

Studying long-lived cells of certain trees, Doctor MacDougall found a type called balloon cells, incased in the tree in such a manner that they cannot increase in any apparent manner of cell life, yet living for 400 seasons. He said these cells mature in about 20 days, that if a tree is injured they seem to possess recuperative powers and that the dry weight of the young cells is greater than that of the old.

Some cells in the big trees of California live 3,000 years. The trees never die of age. Ultimately the winds blow them over.

Policeman's Nickel Solves Traffic Jam

Los Angeles, Calif.—In this drama of the streets he was just motorcycle officer No. 517, but he had an idea.

A nickel was involved. It had stopped a street car, delaying office men and laborers on their way to work and tied up traffic.

"Gimme a good nickel," demanded the conductor, "or get off."

"That's a good nickel," snorted the commuter. "Try and put me off."

At this point No. 517 boarded the car. Both turned to him, protesting loudly as passengers yelled and auto horns shrieked.

"Gimme that nickel," said No. 517. He took it, handed the commuter another, swung off the car, passengers applauded and traffic moved on.

WHY Indoor Plants Should Be Carefully Watered

The question of watering in maintaining healthy indoor plants can hardly be given too much attention for it actually involves the life of the plant. It cannot be expected that plants will thrive when they are alternately parched and drowned, with never an attempt made for a happy medium. Regard your plants much the same as the pets by observing regular watering periods and watch them carefully for signs of ailing.

Habitual overwatering results in soggy, sour soil and rotting at the roots; while on the other hand, insufficient water means that the plant's circulatory system does not function properly and consequently the plant weakens and dies.

One good method for testing the pots for moisture employed generally by greenhouse keepers is to tap on the pot. If there is a hollow sound the pot is dry.

Water each pot thoroughly every time. If necessary submerge the pot in a tub of water until the entire ball of earth is completely saturated.

Why Charles Carroll Added "Of Carrollton"

According to one of our most cherished legends, Charles Carroll added "of Carrollton" to his signature on the Declaration of Independence so that King George III would have no difficulty in determining which Charles Carroll he was. It is said that after Carroll had stepped up and signed the document one of his colleagues jestingly reminded him that there were others of the same name in Maryland and that therefore he was taking no risk in signing, whereupon he wrote "of Carrollton" after his name. The legend is without historical basis. In 1765 Carroll returned from Europe, where he had been educated, and took possession of Carrollton, a large family estate in Frederick county. It was at this time that he began to sign his name Charles Carroll of Carrollton to distinguish himself from his father, who was known as Charles Carroll of Annapolis. Many of Carroll's letters written in 1765 and the years following are still preserved. They contain the signature Charles Carroll of Carrollton. It is probable that he would use the same form on the Declaration of Independence that he had been using on letters and other documents for more than ten years.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Why Mixed Diet Is Best

That there is a connection between the kind of food we eat and the condition of our teeth is a well-known fact. Those foods that are richest in calcium or lime are necessary in the diet of growing children if enough of this element is to be provided to build strong teeth and bones. Milk, most of the green leafy vegetables, fruit juices, nuts and some of the other vegetables are the foods that should be used liberally. In order, however, for the body to make use of the lime provided, phosphorus must also be present, as these two minerals depend on one another for the proper functioning of each in the body. Oatmeal, whole grain cereals, nuts, cheese and lean meat are the best sources of phosphorus. This simply emphasizes again the need for a mixed and varied every day diet.

Why Zoo Pets Are Costly

Sunshine is at such a premium in England that valuable reptiles in their new house at the Zoological Gardens of London are supplied with the artificial variety. In addition to the electrical supply of ultraviolet light the cages are equipped with heating apparatus controlled by automatic thermostats so that the current is shut off when the temperature rises above 83 degrees Fahrenheit and is turned on again when it falls below 77. Glass separates the public from the cages and helps conserve the summer atmosphere necessary to the health and happiness of snakes. As if this were not luxury enough, windows made of glass that admit ultraviolet light help the big boa constrictors and their formidable brethren enjoy life when the real sun shows his face.

Why Italics in Bible

In several early English translations of the Bible occasional words not intended to be emphasized are printed in italics. The translators did this because they were unable to find English words equivalent to some of the words in the Hebrew, Greek and Latin texts. Whenever they were compelled to insert extra words to make the translation intelligible to English readers they put these additional words in italics to indicate the insertion.

Why Smoke Colors Differ

Why is the smoke from the cigar or pipe blue, while that from the lips is gray? Smoke consists of minute particles suspended in the air, and its color depends upon the size as well as chemical constitution of the particles. Highly heated particles are bluish in color. The blue smoke, upon entering the mouth, cools, loses its smallest particles through moisture and emerges gray or brown.

Why "Johnny Cake"

In Colonial times, corn bread was called journey cake or cakes, and was probably cooked for carrying on a journey. The word has become johnny as it lost its significance.

When oysters go off the menu during the months without an "R," claims remain to be enjoyed. They are a good source of vitamins A, D and E, and like all sea food contribute iodine, which helps to prevent goiter.

Before a stout woman buys a piece of dress goods with a printed design on it, she should stand at least 10 feet away from the material, unrolled from the bolt and hung over the counter where she can see it as it would look on herself. If the effect is spotted or bold she should not buy it. Let her choose a pattern which gives a greyed all over effect.

If possible, have your winter garments cleaned and pressed before storing them away for the summer. Then pack them away carefully in tight packages or boxes which cannot be entered by moths in search of a place to lay their eggs. Some of the repellents, such as naphthalene balls or flakes, or crystals of paradichlorobenzene, may be enclosed with garments, but when they have been dry-cleaned and packed immediately they are not likely to harbor any moth eggs. Hat boxes may be sealed around the edges and gummed paper.

Most consumers of meat know the choice beef is normally a bright or cherry red with the fat a white or cream color, as compared with the darker lean and yellow fat of the plainer animal. However, this "color guide" is not infallible and attention should also be given to other considerations says the United States Department of Agriculture. Choice meat is usually well covered with fat and shows good marbling. The backbone of a young animal is soft and red in contrast to the harder, whiter bone of an older one. Parts of the animal's carcass that have been most freely exercised, such as the neck, shank, and flank contain less tender meat than the larger, less used muscles of the ribs and loin.

Man's Will Mystifies

Why John Humphreys Plummer of Southport, England, should leave practically all of his estate of approximately $1,250,000 in trust for the endowment of chairs for modern scientific research at Cambridge university is mystifying his old friends. Plummer had been in the real estate business at Southport for more than fifty years. He was never at Cambridge university; never took particularly keen interest in educational matters, and had never been a scientist. His only other bequest was an annuity of $1,000 to his only surviving son.

Traced to Crusaders

The sword salute originated in the time of the Crusaders when the hilt of the sword was made in the form of a cross. Every Crusader kissed the cross as a seal of his purpose and faith and swore by the hilt of the sword, raising it to his lips for that purpose. Another custom passed down to the ages from the Crusaders, and one that has been a custom in all Christian navies since then, is that of placing an officer's cap and sword on his coffin during burial services. The Crusader's shield and arms covered him in death.

Gypsy Patteran

What is a patteran? It is usually composed of two small sticks, seldom longer than six inches a-piece, and placed crosswise one on top of the other. The open triangles which these sticks form tell the tale which caravan will leave camp or pass a cross roads, without leaving a patteran behind.

This secret language of the road developed during thousands of years. No white man was ever able to read it.—American Magazine.

Settled

How times have changed. Some years ago, in a foreign country, a young man borrowed some money. A week ago the same young man had occasion to take part in a radio program. Today he has a letter from a radio bound several thousand miles away, asking him for the money.

"That's sure remote control," remarked the stinger as he made out a check to send by air mail to the stinger.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR TOPIC

Topic for May 3, "Service a Way to Leadership."—Matt. 20:20-28.

Written by Rev. John S. Hollenbach, Manchester, Social Service Supt. of Carroll Co. C. E. Union.

The world has had great leaders in various fields of endeavor. Great generals have led armies to battle, and for a while they held the world in the hollow of their hands, by instilling fear into men's hearts. But always, that has been but for a time. Alexander, the Great, looked for more world's to conquer, but his glory was but far a day. Napoleon held the European Continent in a grip of terror, but he met his Waterloo, and was made to travel the path prepared for all those who are selfishly ambitious. The history of the world has vindicated the assertion that the high shall be brought low, and that those who exalt themselves shall be abased.

But there is another path to greatness and to leadership. It is not the way of selfishness, but the way of service. Jesus Christ showed us this path, by teaching and by example. Instead of making men die for Him, He died for them.

When James and John sought places of honor and distinction in His kingdom, He told them that the greatest among men was the one who served the most. He pointed out the fact that He Himself came not to be ministered unto but to minister, and to give His life a ransom for many. On one occasion, He washed His disciples' feet, to give them an example of humility and of service. Even so they should wash one another's feet. None should count himself greater than others. Jesus traveled the path of sacrifice and of service to the very limit, even to lay down His life for His friends, yea, and even His enemies, for all humanity came within the compass of His love.

For Jesus the path of service has led to an unparalleled leadership. Over 1900 years men have followed in His train. One-third of the human race acknowledge Him as Lord and Master. He leads by inspiring faith rather than by enforcing fear. The method of Jesus, the way of service must be followed by us, if we would be leaders. We must show by our work that we are worthy of the confidence of our fellowmen. Then they will promote us to positions of leadership. May we realize the fundamental and universal

RUPTURE EXPERT HERE

W. B. SEELEY, noted rupture expert famous for his ability and skill in handling difficult cases, will personally be at the Hotel Francis Scott Key, Frederick, Wednesday, May 8th, only; 10:00 A. M. to 6:00 P. M., where those desiring to escape a surgical operation may consult him without charge.

Mr. Seeley says the patented rupture retainers he now uses will hold bad ruptures with ease, will strengthen tissues, cause muscles to contract and close opening. Any position of the body—any kind of work can be undertaken with safety.

For two generations we have cared for many thousands in every walk of life. Physicians and Surgeons as well as Financiers and Farmers; U. S. Government Employees in Army, Navy, Post Office and Department of State; Men, Women and Children.

CAUTION—Elastic trusses with leg straps should never be used; they squeeze the delicate parts against bone and slowly produce dangerous complications necessitating operation.

Master your rupture now. It will be too late after strangulation sets in, operations that have torn out will be given special attention.

DIFFERENT DAINTIES

FOR an afternoon tea when you wish to serve something to your friends a little out of the ordinary, try:

Snow Balls.
Take one cupful each of sugar, shortening and grated pasteurized cheese, one egg, two teaspoonfuls of lemon juice, three and one-half cupfuls of flour and four teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Cream the sugar, shortening and cheese together, add the egg, the lemon juice and flour sifted with the baking powder. Roll into balls the size of a walnut and bake in a slow oven for 15 minutes. Dip into cooked icing, roll in coconut and let dry a few minutes.

Orange Tapioca.
Soak two tablespoonfuls of minute tapioca in just enough cold water to cover, then add two cupfuls of scalded milk, one-eighth teaspoonful of salt and one-half cupful of sugar. Cook in a double boiler until clear. Beat egg yolks slightly, then pour them over the egg mixture and cook until creamy. Peel and slice six navel oranges and remove all white membrane. Place slices in a glass baking dish, pour over the tapioca and cover with a meringue, using the whites of two eggs, two tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar and one-half teaspoonful of orange extract. Brown lightly and serve cold.

Bread and Raisin Pudding.
Butter bread from which the crusts have been removed to fill a three-pint dish. Arrange butter-side down. Sprinkle with a thin layer of seeded and shredded raisins mixed with the grated rind and juice of a lemon. Cover with four cupfuls of milk to which four eggs slightly beaten have been added, with one cupful of sugar and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Bake slowly one and one-half hours, covering the last half hour with buttered paper.

Pecan Macaroons.
Beat three egg whites, add one-half pound of light brown sugar, a little cinnamon and three-fourths of a pound of pecans cut into bits. Drop on brown paper and bake at a very low temperature for nearly two hours.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

GETTING ON

HOW are you getting on? Every day when a ship is at sea the captain, with an astronomical instrument measures accurately the altitude of the sun above the horizon and with a series of charts determines his position on the great waters. The safety of his ship and the safety of his passengers depends upon his accurate knowledge of where he is, how far and in what direction he has gone since he last computed his position.

How long since you took observations to find out where you were? When did you figure out your bank balance or determine in cold hard figures whether or not you were increasing your efficiency as a workman?

You are sailing a sea just as devoid of marks and mile posts as the watery plain along which a vessel plows. Your life is not like any other life. No one else can live it for you nor even tell you accurately how you shall live it.

Wise advice they may and do give you as to the broad principles of success but there will be complications all your own which you must solve without anything to guide you except good judgment and a sense of right.

It used to be that once a year a merchant took account of stock. He thought that once in twelve months was often enough to figure out whether he was making money or running behind.

But as competition became keener, as merchants became keener buyers, closer sellers, the wide awake business man thought it would be wise to find out a little oftener how he was getting on.

Today in the big stores each head of a department, and that means each head of the many small stores that collectively make the big store, is expected to know every day how he stands as regards his stock and his profits and if he is not able to give the "big boss" a comprehensive answer as to "how are you getting on?" he will shortly find himself looking for another place unadvised with any very convincing recommendation.

Some people are like a boy's rocking horse—a fury of motion, but not getting ahead.

Noise doesn't count for much except to attract attention and if there is nothing behind the noise the attention soon dissipates.

Progress is the one thing worth while in the world.

Nothing that God made, and with which man has not interfered, either stands still or goes backward.

The whole universe moves in a forward direction.

It moves consistently and continuously, never by spasms and jerks but always in compliance with the laws of its progress.

There are laws which we may apply to our daily efforts no matter how lowly those efforts may be. We can apply the law of perseverance, of right ambition, of faithfulness.

There is only one brand of real failure in the whole world of endeavor and that is failing to do as well as we know.

If we always do that, if we are always faithful to the best ideals we have we shall be eternally getting on and eternally getting up and that in the last analysis is about the whole of life.

ONIONS ARE RICH SOURCE OF ESSENTIAL VITAMINE C

By CAROLINE B. KING
Culinary Expert and Lecturer on Domestic Sciences.

RECENT dietetic research has proved beyond question that our foods must furnish us with sufficient quantities of Vitamine C

If we are to enjoy a full measure of vigor and good health. When children are irritable, if they show a lack of stamina, or if their growth is retarded, one or all of these unfortunate conditions may be due to nothing more than lack of this precious vitamine. Children suffering from all of these symptoms of malnutrition have been cured by supplying them with foods in which the vitamine is contained in large proportions.

Onions are rich sources of Vitamine C, especially when eaten raw. When cooked they retain a considerable proportion of their Vitamine C content, differing in this respect from many other vegetables in which the vitamine is less stable, and, therefore, is lost in cooking. Onions are inexpensive, and can be prepared in so many different ways that there is no reason why you and your family should not consistently profit by their dietetic value, without ever complaining of the monotony of their appearance on the table. A small amount of sugar added while cooking will help to bring out their delicate flavor.

Onions Baked in Tomato Sauce provide a dish in which there is a delicious blend of the flavors of the two vegetables. Strain a quart can of tomatoes and cook for fifteen minutes with four tablespoonfuls of sugar, one teaspoon of salt, two tablespoonfuls of flour, and one-quarter teaspoon pepper. Then add two tablespoonfuls of butter. Cut six or eight onions into halves and put them in a baking dish. Pour the tomato sauce over the onions and bake about one hour in a moderate oven.

Glazed Onions—Peel medium-size, silver-skin onions and prick them through the centers to prevent breaking while cooking. Place in boiling salted water to which a tablespoon of sugar to a quart of water has been added. Simmer until tender and drain. For a quart of onions, melt two tablespoonfuls of butter in a pan, add two tablespoonfuls of granulated sugar, and cook to the bubbling stage. Then add the onions and stir until they are well glazed.

Baked Apples and Onions—Slice three medium-size apples and six medium-size onions into a greased casserole in alternate layers. Season each layer with salt, pepper, sugar and butter, using a half cup of sugar and two tablespoonfuls of butter for the dish. Add a half cup of water and bake in a moderate oven about three-quarters of an hour.

Onions in Cream—Peel the onions and cook until tender in boiling salted water to which has been added a tablespoon of sugar to a quart. Drain and serve with cream sauce. For the sauce, cook one tablespoonful of butter and one tablespoonful of flour together for a few minutes. Then add a cup and a half of milk and continue cooking until the mixture has thickened. Season with one-half teaspoon of salt, one-quarter teaspoon of paprika and a teaspoon of butter. Pour over the onions and serve.

Practically the Same

Billy, the small son of a prominent doctor, was playing at his father's profession, walking up and down the street with a "pretend" medicine case in his hand and a very serious expression upon his face. Much impressed, next-door Lillian inquired of her mother:

"Is Billy a doctor, mother?"
"He's a quack doctor," said her mother, jokingly.

The next day one of Lillian's dolls developed mumps.
"Mother," suggested the little girl, importantly, "I'm going to call in Doctor Duck."

Scotsmen Fooled

Canny Scotsmen were taken in recently by the shining teeth of a sheep, forgetting that all that glitters is not gold. A sheep's jawbone from the lead-mining district of Scotland was found to contain teeth which had a metallic luster, and it was popularly supposed that the luster indicated a deposit of gold. However, the teeth were analyzed by the British government chemist in London and he found traces of lead but no gold. The metallic sheen appeared to be due to the effect of light on a laminated, or flaked, crystalline structure, mainly calcium sulphate.

Draw on All Sources for National Music

National music . . . has to be discovered and clad in beautiful forms, just as popular myths and legends are brought to light and crystallized into immortal verses by great poets. All that is required is a good ear, a good memory, and a faculty for molding fragments of past generations into a harmonic whole. A few days ago I read that Brahms, according to his own words, took folk-tunes as motives for his new collection of songs and arranged them for piano. Liszt in his rhapsodies did the same, and Schumann in his "Two Grenadiers" used the Marseillaise. The Irishman Balfe used a Hussite choir in his "Bohemian Girl," although nobody knows where he got it from. Thus sooner or later popular music attracts the attention of and finds its way into the works of great composers. I know that the question whether inspiration drawn from some stray melody or folk-song is sufficient to lend higher musical works a national character has not yet been solved. Neither is it certain whether national music as such deserves priority. I for myself believe firmly that that music which is the most characteristic of a nation deserves the greatest recognition.—Dvorak in a Letter Written From America.

Oldest Scientific Society

The American Philosophical society is the oldest of America's scientific societies. The society originated in the Junto established in Philadelphia by Benjamin Franklin in 1727. Fifteen of its members were signers of the Declaration of Independence and 18 members helped frame the Constitution. Nine Presidents of the United States, including Washington, Jefferson, Woodrow Wilson and Herbert Hoover, have been elected from the society's membership. Three other Presidents, Cleveland, Roosevelt and Taft, became members after election. All seven Americans who have won the Nobel prize have been members of this organization.

Roman Relics in London

Excavations on an unprecedented scale being made in the city of London for new buildings are leading to remarkable discoveries of Roman and medieval remains.

A pair of antlers found in an excellent state of preservation indicate that the Romans used to have good hunting near the city, and, with other objects found, throw a vivid light on the London of 2,000 years ago. Among the objects discovered are toilet articles such as the Roman equivalent of the lipstick, various pottery, shoes, and jewelry.

Preserving Rose Scent

Attar of roses is obtained by distillation from small white roses, known as Musata, and a dark red variety, known as Rosa Damascena. Usually it takes 180 pounds of rose petals to make an ounce of rose oil, but twice this amount has been used at times, depending upon the quality of the flowers and the climatic conditions at harvest time.

The harvesting of the roses occurs during the latter part of May and the beginning of June. A good harvest lasts about twenty-five days and requires damp, cool weather, as the flowers are picked in the morning while the dew is still on them. A period of hot sunshine during the harvest time will seriously damage a good crop.

Varieties of Spiders

Have Communal Nests

Some spiders live in large colonies in close intimacy not only with spiders of different species, but with other insects. In Mexico in regions at an altitude of 2,500 yards, spiders are found that live in societies and construct common nests of large dimensions like the nests of ants and bees. The nests are in great demand among the natives of the country, who take fragments of them and hang them about their rooms as traps for flies and mosquitoes.

The nests are surrounded with threads that serve as hiding places in which the spiders lie in wait for their prey. All the insects caught are used as food for the colony. In the nests, which the spiders never leave for any reason or under any circumstances, are piled heaps of flies, yet the nests are kept with the utmost cleanliness. The public hygiene of the colony is looked after by a small creature treated with scrupulous respect by all the spiders. This infinitesimal being does for spider communities what the blind white wood louse does for ants. It is of the family of the Laticides; it lives in the common nest with all the spiders, nourishing itself on everything rejected and cast off by them.—Washington Star.

Currents of Great Rivers

There is no stream which has a regular current of 60 miles an hour, or even half that. The lower Amazon flows at a rate of three miles an hour. The Mississippi, in its lower course, has a velocity of about three and a half miles an hour. The Congo has for many miles above its mouth a current of about seven miles an hour, the impetus of its great falls extending for a great distance below them. The Nile, similarly influenced, moves for a long distance at nine miles an hour.

No Sound-Proof Room Has Been Developed

Henry Bernstein, French playwright, hired a builder to build him a sound-proof room in his apartment. The room cost 175,000 francs and failed to be sound-proof, so Bernstein sued the builder and recovered 37,000 francs damages.

Publisher Horace Stokes, discussing the case, said:

"Writers are always looking in vain for sound-proof rooms. You remember the sound-proof room that Carlyle built on top of his little house in Chelsea. It wasn't sound-proof at all.

"Carlyle couldn't sleep in his Chelsea home on account of a rooster in a neighbor's garden. At last, worn out, a nervous wreck, he went to the neighbor and said:

"For the love of heaven kill that rooster of yours, or it will kill me. Look at my bloodshot eyes and shaking hands. The bird crows all night and I never get a wink of sleep any more."

"No, no, Mr. Carlyle," said the neighbor, "it don't—it can't crow all night."

"Perhaps not," said Carlyle, "but when it isn't crowing I lie there, breathless and tense, waiting for it to begin again."

Concerning Grumbling

Grumblers may be divided into many classes. There are perpetual grumblers and occasional grumblers. Scrooge-like grumblers and cheerful grumblers; but even the habitual grumbler is better to be borne with than the grumbler who grumbles as if he really means it, says a London Journalist.

A little grumble relieves a heavy heart, so we all like to grumble at times. We all like to complain of our lot if we feel it is a sad one; we like people to agree that it is a sad one and that we are hard done by. We like people to listen and be sympathetic, but most listeners will be very grateful if we make an attempt at a grin at the end of the dreary recital.

Cromwell's Music

Before Oliver Cromwell became Protector, music was proscribed in England. And as Cromwell was musically inclined, he had a professional musician among the members of his household. When, by the authority of parliament, the organ was removed from the chapel of Magdalen college, Cromwell had it erected at Hampton court, where he resided, and frequently had Milton to play it. At the Restoration the organ was returned to Magdalen college, but after some years it was disposed of and re-erected in Tewkesbury abbey, where part of it remained in use until a few years ago.

Dutch Bricks as Ballast

Many an ancient house in and about New York is said to have been built with imported Dutch bricks. The little American vessels that traded with the West found it cheaper to ballast with Dutch bricks and sell them in New York for a trifle than to ballast with stones, a scarce article in Holland anyhow, and dump them in the harbor. So good Rotterdam bricks might get into a New York chimney; as for similar reasons bricks loaded in London might help rear a Virginia planter's stately mansion on the James, with local brick kilns near.

Many Kinds of Insects

In a recent statement in one of the new insect books it is said that more than 75 per cent of all the animal kinds belong to the phylum Arthropoda and more than 9 per cent of these are true insects. The estimated number of living species of insects which have been described is 625,000. This will give our readers some idea of the enormity of the study of entomology. The phylum Arthropoda is, as stated, the largest phylum in the animal kingdom, and aside from the vertebrates, of most importance to man.

Man Marries Grandmother

Marriage of a grandson and his grandmother has just been reported from a village near Swole, in the Province of Overijssel, Holland. This is how it happened: A man married a girl of twenty, whose mother was forty-five. By his first marriage this man had had a son and this son married the mother of his father's second wife. Relatives figure out that the youth not only married his stepmother, but became stepfather to his own father.

Mud Burned for Power

Burning mud to produce electric power is being tried in Germany with remarkable success. Mud at the bottom of a small tributary of the Rhine was found to be permeated with combustible matter. Up to that time it was considered worthless and a serious obstacle to navigation in the Rhine into which it was carried. The wet soil is being dried out and used as fuel in an electric generating plant.

Gems From Dr. Johnsing

The Great Lexicographer having refused to recommend a man for a position, Boswell said: "Sir, you have gotten many men positions. Why do you now take this stand?"
Doctor Johnsing—Why, sir, every time I got a man a position I made an enemy of him. Couldn't afford to have so many enemies. Had to stop, sir, had to stop.

Great Conqueror Had Spice of Philosophy

After having defeated and taken prisoner Bajazet, emperor of the Turks, Timur-Lenk had him brought to his court.

He noticed that he was blind in one eye and began to laugh.

Bajazet was indignant.

"Do not laugh at my misfortune, Timur!" he cried. "Remember that it is God who gives us realms and empires; the same disaster can happen to you tomorrow that has happened to me today."

"I know," said Timur, "that it is in God's hands to dispose of crowns as He will. I am not making fun of your misfortune, God preserve me from it; but the thought that went through my mind on seeing you was that God must look on these thrones and scepters as very paltry things if He gives them to such badly made people as you and I, you who are blind in one eye and I who am lame."

Napoleon's Prophecy

"Not one of my descendants or relatives is capable of regaining the throne of France. So the girls had better marry into the Colonna and Orsini families. These are the families that produce popes," so confided Napoleon to General Bertrand, one of his closest companions. It was known that General Bertrand wrote down the Corsican's last wishes but for many years the manuscript was lost and only recently was published in the Revue des Deux Mondes.

"Some day," Napoleon continued, "there will be a Bonaparte in the chair of St. Peter, and so my name will be revered once more and that all over the Christian world."

Lesson for May 5

WHAT HILKIAH FOUND IN THE TEMPLE

LESSON TEXT—II Chron. 34:14-33.
GOLDEN TEXT—Thy word is a lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Finding a Lost Book.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Finding a Lost Book.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Discovering a Guidebook.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Bible in National Life.

I. The Book of the Law Found (vv. 14-17).

1. The occasion (v. 14).
It was while restoring the temple during Josiah's reformation that the Book of the Law was discovered. No doubt, in clearing out the dark corners to make repairs and to find a place to store the subscriptions made by the people, many things which had been lost were found, among which was the law. This was "the law of the Lord given by Moses."

2. The book delivered to the king (vv. 15-17).

In a report of the work, the king was informed of the finding of the Book of the Law by Hilkiah, and the book was delivered to him.

II. The Effect of the Reading of the Law (vv. 18-28).

Shaphan, the scribe, read the law before the king.

1. The king rent his clothes (v. 19).
As the law was read before him, the king was led to realize the awful extent of the nation's departure from God. He knew that sin merited punishment. The function of the law is to reveal sin. The reading of the royal robes indicated that the king was penitent and sorrowful.

2. The king sent a deputation to make inquiry of the Lord (vv. 20, 21).

The king included himself in guilt before God. "Go inquire for me and for them that are left—for great is the wrath of the Lord that is poured out upon us." His sense of sin was so keen that he sent to inquire of the Lord as to whether there was any means of diverting the divine judgments. Instinctively, the human heart turns from God's threatening judgments to a means of escape. The soul that sorrows for sin inquires for a way of escape. The law prepared for the gospel. The law is our schoolmaster to bring us to Christ (Gal. 3:24).

3. The message of Huldah, the prophetess (vv. 22-28).

(1) Confirmation of what the law said (vv. 22-25).

She said that all the curses written in the law must fall, for the sins had been so flagrant that God's wrath could not be restrained. Destruction was hanging over Jerusalem and it was too late to avert it. It was not too late, however, to repent and to obtain mercy from God, but the outward consequences of sin must be realized. Fulfillment of this is found on every hand today. The murderer must hang.

(2) Acceptance of Josiah's repentance (vv. 26-28).

Because of his tenderness of heart and deep repentance, the Lord said he should be gathered to his grave in peace and should not see all the evil to be brought on Jerusalem and its people. What Huldah said was true, even though Josiah died in battle (35:23-25). When God accepts a man and forgives him, his death is a peaceful one, even though it may be on the battlefield. God's presence is with him, therefore he will go straight from the battlefield to the heavenly home.

III. The Law Obeyed (vv. 29-33).

1. The king read the law (vv. 29, 30).

He gathered together the inhabitants of Jerusalem, including the priests, Levites and elders, and read unto them the law.

2. The king made a covenant before the Lord to keep His commandments and testimonies (vv. 31, 32). In this covenant he pledged himself to do three things:

(1) To walk before the Lord (v. 31). This meant that he would get personally right with God.

(2) To keep God's commandments, testimonies and statutes with all his heart and soul (v. 31). To read the law is not enough. Its holy requirements must be obeyed.

(3) To perform the words of the covenant, which were written in the book (v. 31). This was done sincerely and he caused all that were present "to stand to it."

3. The king took away the abominations out of all the countries which pertained to Israel (v. 33). All the days of the king they departed not from following after the Lord, the God of their fathers.

The Camel and the Rich Man

And Jesus looked round about, and said unto his disciples, How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God! It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.—Mark 10:23-25.

Our Deeds

Our deeds determine us as much as we determine our deeds.—George Eliot.

HOW

FLUORIN HELPS TO FORM TEETH IN HUMAN BODY.

Few people have been unfortunate enough to drop their teeth down a volcano, but the converse process seems not uncommon, according to Dr. E. E. Free's Week's Science (New York). He says:

"Volcanoes appear to be notable contributors to human teeth. What they provide is the chemical element fluorin, a little of which always gets into teeth, but in some way which has been more or less a mystery. In a recent report by the Carnegie Institution of Washington, Dr. E. G. Zies of that institution's geophysical laboratory describes the discovery of large amounts of fluorin in the jets of hot gas which shoot out from the ground in the Alaskan volcanic basin called the Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes. This fluorin probably amounts, he believes to 200,000 tons a year or more. Volcanoes elsewhere probably make even greater contributions, providing more than enough of the element for all the teeth that nature would need to construct in many years. Most of this fluorin in the hot, acid breath of the world's volcanoes is promptly captured chemically, Doctor Zies believes, by the elements of the soil. Much of that which escapes is washed down into the sea by rains, and helps to form the teeth and bones and shells of sea creatures. But a little of the element probably continues to circulate in the air, to be washed down in rain and to get into all kinds of human foods; just as a little of the sea fluorin also gets into foods like oysters and fish. Thus, by aid of aerial and oceanic expressmen, the contribution of fluorin from the world's volcanoes is circulated over the earth and delivered to the bodies of children who are manufacturing teeth."—Literary Digest.

How Term "Generation" Is Given Definition

The whole body of individuals born about the same period are called a generation; and by extension the term is applied the time covered by their lives. It does not express a definite period. Generally a generation is regarded as being from 30 to 33 1-3 years in length, there being about three generations in a century. The basis of the generation as a period is the average interval of time between the birth of parents and that of children, although some chronologists base the generation upon the average lifetime of all persons of synchronous age who survive infancy. David Brewster makes the following interesting observation on this subject in his life of Sir Isaac Newton: "His second objection to the new system relates to the length of generations, which he says is made only 18 or 20 years. Sir Isaac, on the contrary, reckons a generation at 33 years, or three generations at 100."—Exchange.

How Caribou Differ

Caribou is a French-Canadian name for the American form of the reindeer. Four different species exist. The animal is found throughout the forested regions of North America, principally Maine and Michigan and in Canada. In winter they gather into herds of several hundred. In summer they move about a great deal to escape the flies. The barren-ground caribou is a smaller and paler form, with larger antlers, inhabiting the open country of North America to an extreme distance north of the tree growth. The Indians and Eskimos obtain from the caribou a winter supply of meat and skins. The white caribou inhabits the coastal valleys of Greenland.

How Use of Soap Began

The manufacture of soap upon a very large scale dates only from about 1823, in which year Chevreul published his famous researches on animal fats. The use of soap is of great antiquity. A well equipped soap factory was found by the excavators of Pompeii. Historical records of Italy and Spain show that soap was in use in those countries in the Eighth century. The soap berry was used before soap was manufactured. Soapberry is the common name of several species of Sapindus and of the fruit which are so rich in saponin that they were employed for the same purpose as alkaline soap before the days of that article. The Chinese prefer them even yet for cleansing the hair and delicate silks.

How Rust Can Be Removed

Those flakes that keep chipping off from your iron frying pan are just rust that has accumulated there. Tarnish on steel acts the same way and both require the same treatment.

A coarse scourer, like bath brick, will be the best agent to use. Apply it with a cork. If the rust or discoloration is obstinate pour a little kerosene on it and let it stand a few minutes, then use the scourer. Of course, the kerosene must be thoroughly washed off with hot water and soap and the utensil well dried.

If the rust has not made a bad iron rod, steel wool or a tinsel scourer will remove it.

Clementi Lived Long

Clementi, the pianist and composer, was born when Handel, Scarlatti, Arne, Gluck and Haydn were alive. And before he died, at the age of eighty, Rossini, Berlioz, Mendelssohn, Chopin and many other famous musicians were born, including the quite recent Cesar Franck. The fact of one man's life covering such a number of composers and such an amount of music as they represent, reminds us of the prolific output of genius from the middle of the Eighteenth to the middle of the Nineteenth century. There is no likelihood that the 1850-1950 period will in that regard come within measurable distance of the preceding hundred years.

these important things

CHALLENGE TOO!

Hear the radio program of the "Hudson-Essex Challengers" every Friday evening

EASE OF BUYING

FOR INSTANCE, in this city your first payment, with your present car included, may be as low as $270 and your monthly payments $48.41

Your present car will probably cover the entire first payment. The H. M. C. Purchase Plan offers the lowest terms available on the balance.

EASE OF OWNING

On our own streets Essex the Challenger, under competent observation, averages 21 miles per gallon. The average owner in this city can expect 18 to 20 miles a day. Commercial users operating large fleets of Essex cars say that service and maintenance costs, covering millions of miles of operation, are lowest of any car ever tested.

ESSEX challenges the performance, the style, the luxurious roomy comfort of any car at any price, on the basis that no other gives you back so much for every dollar you put in.

That is why the big buying swing is to Essex. That is why motorists by thousands are switching from past favorites, and trading in their old cars for the big values Essex the Challenger gives. Essex challenges:

IN SPEED—challenging anything the road offers up to 70 miles an hour. IN FAST GETAWAY—any car regardless of size or price. IN RELIABILITY—60 miles an hour for hour after hour.

Essex offers a completeness of fine car equipment formerly identified only with costly cars, and available, when at all, only as "extras," at extra cost on cars of Essex price.

Check these items when you buy—they represent easily above $100 additional value in Essex.

Wide Choice of Colors at No Extra Cost.

The variety is so great you have almost individual distinction

Standard Equipment Includes: 4 hydraulic shock absorbers—electric gauge for gas and oil—radiator shutters—saddle lamps—windshield wiper—glare proof rear view mirror—electro-lock—controls on steering wheel—all bright parts chromium-plated.

Long-Windedness.

Do we like it? Is it really effective? The answer, as a rule, "no" in both cases. There are times when it is necessary to go into minute details in presenting a subject, and sometimes, nothing less than every bit of evidence completes a story.

But, in ordinary cases these requirements are not necessary. More and more we are demanding much in little. We want the head lines to tell us whether we are interested or not; and the first paragraph or two to give the essential facts in a story. Instead of sermons an hour or more long, our limit is now a half hour. And this is not because we are too impatient, but rather because we are no longer in the primary class.

Long-windedness means tiresomeness, and that means ineffectiveness—failure to make an aimed at impression. We make the mistake of thinking that anything we may say is interesting and enlightening, no matter how much time we may take up, while as a matter of fact we may merely be pleasing ourselves in listening to our voice.

The best and most successful preachers, these days, and those who best master the act of skilful condensation of words to demonstrate points, to carry—if not complete indorsement—at least the honest convictions of the speaker. Sleepiness in a church may be due to too little ventilation, or too much volubility.
