

A VERY INTERESTING DETROIT LETTER.

Principally Concerning the Parks and Attractions of the City.

While thinking about something around which I might construct an article that would not be shop-worn, and which might interest some of your readers—especially the younger part of them, it struck me that I have never yet written anything that would give an idea of how people amuse themselves in this large city. You know "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," and so the city authorities spend a great deal of money and a lot of time in caring for the recreation of its inhabitants.

First, I want to tell you something about how the city is built, especially in the new parts. There is a law that all buildings must be at least three feet from the building line, and this gives plenty of breathing room, especially when usually the houses are set back 20 or 30 feet and then there is a 6-ft. strip of grass between the curb and sidewalk. This refers to the residential sections especially, and does not include the large apartment houses, containing from 20 to 100 apartments, which are built right up to the sidewalk, unless there are restrictions to the contrary.

Nearly all streets are concrete and are lined with trees on both sides. Flowers and shrubs are in almost every front yard and also in the rear yard, which usually ends up in a garage, for it seems that every family must have at least one car as an aid to pleasure and business.

Now all this make it very pleasant around the home, but people cannot stay there always, and especially if they work hard through the five and one-half days of the week. So they must have something to amuse them—a change from the daily grind. Here is where the work of the Recreation Commission comes in. They have provided Parks, and Playgrounds, and lately a Zoo, about which I will tell you later on in another article.

I suppose that there are several hundred baseball diamonds in the city, and in order to play a game on any one of these diamonds a permit is necessary. There are all kinds of Leagues, Industrial, Church, Railroad, Street Railway, Municipal and others, up to what they call the Triple A League, which is composed of clubs which pay their players, many of whom are old retired big league players. The brand of ball they play compares favorably with big League ball, and there are hundreds who would rather see a game between two such clubs or even Class A clubs, than one played on Navin field, the American League Park in Detroit.

As you know, we have no "Blue Laws" out here (maybe it is for the worst) and so Sunday is the big day for amateur baseball. By the way, while speaking of baseball, I may as well mention that there is a club of the colored National League, called the Detroit Stars, which plays at a park in our section of the city. A few Sunday ago, this club caught fire, while the owners of the Park were endeavoring to dry up the infield with gasoline, and a hundred or more negroes were in the Receiving Hospital, and there was no grand stand on the grounds. As this place was an eyesore for years, and the stand built of wood a fire hazard, the city authorities have refused them a license to rebuild with the result that they intend building outside of the city limits, much to the delight of the residents near the park, and of the churches in that vicinity.

But there are thousands who do not enjoy baseball, and who would rather spend a half day in the woods. For such there are a number of Parks, of which the best known is Belle Isle, situated in the middle of the Detroit River, and connected with the mainland by a bridge over a half mile long recently built, and which cost over $300,000. I need not tell you that this is a beautiful spot and I suppose the best patinated outdoor recreation place, the city owns. When the city purchased it years ago, some of the citizens made a great fuss about the folly of wasting so much money—about $200,000. But now, I do not suppose that quite a number of our millionaires would hesitate in paying 100 times that much.

This Park, like all the parks and playgrounds in the city, is equipped with every sort of contrivance to make the children happy, and older persons find many things there that are pleasing to them. Among these is the Scott Fountain, built on ground reclaimed from the river, and made possible by a legacy left the City for the purpose by "Jim" Scott, one of the best known of the old-time gamblers. Indeed, for a time there was much opposition to the use of the money left by him, for this purpose, on account of its source. But finally the fountain was built, and it is indeed a fine one, throwing water out of many of the figures which make it up, with the large central column of water lit up at night by colored lights.

Then there is the fine Horticultural Building, and the Aquarium, a visit to which, I am sure would delight that old professional fisherman friend of mine—Charles Ridinger. Here are shown almost every kind of fish—fresh and salt water.

And for the small folks, the small Zoo is an attraction, but the animals will soon be all removed to the large zoo. This park contains a public golf course, the largest bathing beach in or around Detroit, beautiful drives all over the Island, along which while

One Line Hereafter from Baltimore to Emmitsburg.

Announcement was made on Wednesday by representatives of the Blue Ridge Transportation Company of the acquisition of the Conaway Motor Company's lines, by the former, effective August 1st.

It was stated that it will be the policy of the Blue Ridge Transportation Company to endeavor to maintain the high standard of service formerly provided by Conaway Motor Company, between Emmitsburg, Westminster and Baltimore, and give the people of this vicinity the advantage of the removal of the restrictions as to local business, now imposed upon the Blue Ridge Company.

All service rendered by the Blue Ridge Transportation Co. through this territory will be available to the public, with all former restrictions removed. This will increase the number of available scheduled buses to and from Westminster and Baltimore, to five daily.

In addition to this, ticket agencies will soon be established here in order that the patrons may avail themselves of the advantages and economy of purchasing round trip tickets to all points on the lines of the Blue Ridge Transportation Company, including through tickets with greatly reduced rates to long haul points.

The Blue Ridge Transportation Company operates approximately 7,000 bus miles per day, extending through the western portion of Maryland, southern Pennsylvania, eastern West Virginia and northern Virginia and with the acquisition of the Conaway Lines the former Company will be able to bring to this community the advantage of a co-ordinated service not heretofore enjoyed.

In the acquisition of the Company Lines, the Blue Ridge Transportation Company secures the franchise of the existing routes, six pieces of equipment, the goodwill of the Company and the special party privilege formerly held by the Conaway Lines.

Boys Break Into Cottage.

On last Tuesday afternoon several boys broke into the cottage owned by J. E. Ohler and G. R. Jacoby, of Littlestown, Pa. The cottage is located along Marsh creek on the Flem Hoffman farm about two miles north of Harney, Md. After trying to force a window and meeting with no success, they broke the lock on the door and entered the building, and ransacked everything, throwing things helter-skelter. They then decided to take with them a 22 calibre rifle belonging to G. R. Jacoby.

As soon as the owners found out the building had been broken into, they at once employed Detective Jesse Crabbs to round up the guilty parties. After working but a short time the detective soon had them in hand, and the rifle returned to the owners. Upon payment of the cost and damages the boys were turned over to their parents upon the promise of good behavior. The names of the boys have been withheld.

Death of Rev. Murray E. Ness.

Rev. Murray E. Ness, very well known in Carroll County died in the York Hospital, Saturday evening last, from pneumonia, aged 34 years, 8 months, 16 days.

His first charge was Baust Reformed church until 1925, when he resigned to accept the pastorate at Arendtsville, Pa., which he held at the time of his death.

Rev. Ness was widely known for his fine tenor voice, his services as soloist being much in demand. For years he served as a member of the Y. M. C. A. male chorus, of York, and was also a soloist in St. Paul's Lutheran Church choir, of York. Before entering the ministry he was director of the choir of the Union Lutheran Church, and had been director of music at various assemblies.

He was a member of Monocacy Lodge of Masons, the P. O. S. of A., and K. of P., of Taneytown; Gettysburg Commandery No. 79, Knights Templar; Carroll R. A. M. Chapter No. 31, of Westminster; York Forest No. 30 Tall Cedars; Humane Lodge No. 342 I. O. O. F., and Commandery No. 152, Knights of Malta, of York.

Both Rev. and Mrs. Ness were very highly regarded throughout this community, not only for their faithful efforts in church and parish work, but for their uniform geniality and broad conception of their duties to humanity in general. The death of Rev. Ness is therefore a distinct loss to the country at large in which he was a figure for good in many ways; and his many appreciative friends extend their sincerest condolences to his equally worthy helper, Mrs. Ness.

He is survived by his wife, and one daughter, Josephine Ida; also by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Lewis Ness, of York, and several brothers and sisters. Funeral services were held on Wednesday, from the home of his parents.

DEPUTY SHERIFF SHOT BY MOONSHINERS.

Murdered While on a Raid near Thurmont.

While six deputy Sheriffs were scouring the mountains near Thurmont, on Wednesday, in response to information that a big still was being operated there, the posse was ambushed and fired on by moonshiners, resulting in Deputy Sheriff Clyde Hauver being shot, resulting in his death an hour after being brought to Frederick Hospital.

Later, a posse made up of Deputy Sheriffs, state police and citizens scoured the mountains for the moonshiners, but succeeded only in finding two suspects.

The first party consisted of Deputy Sheriffs Hauver, William Steiner, Vernon Redmond, William Westerbaker and John Hemp, all of Frederick, went by auto to Thurmont about 6 o'clock where they secured the services of Lester Hoffman to act as guide to lead the party to the reported still, the result being as first stated.

The raiding party discovered one of the largest stills ever found in Western Maryland, and carried back to Frederick, it is said, a large number of large vats, still, boiler and other paraphernalia used in the manufacture of whiskey.

State police have arrested Lloyd Lewis, Foxville; William Miller, of Hagerstown; Paul and Floyd Williams, who said they came from North Carolina; Waverly Bennett and Russell Bennett, of Hagerstown, and Oscar McAfee, of Foxville. All the men under arrest have refused to make statements.

Indignation is strong in Frederick and Thurmont against the moonshiners, public sentiment being aroused against the nefarious business that finds encouragement through the arguments of the wet newspapers, politicians and others—from those who are practically fighting the Constitution and laws of this country.

Hess-Bushey Reunion Held.

The fifth annual reunion of the Hess-Bushey families was held on Wednesday, July 31st., in the grove at Piney Creek Presbyterian Church, near Harney, Md. The three living members of the Hess family were present and Mrs. Samuel F. Hess the only living member of the John Bushey family was also present. The morning was spent socially and a splendid dinner was enjoyed by all, with the usual dessert of ice cream.

At 2:30 all assembled in the church. The President George W. Hess called the meeting to order. The following was the program rendered: "Onward Christian Soldiers" was sung by the audience; Rev. C. W. Hess offered prayer; address by Dr. Earl Rudasill, subject, "Is Life Worth While"; Hymn, "Faith of our Fathers."

The report of the Secretary, Carroll C. Hess was read and approved. The Treasurer, Elmer S. Hess reported $18.64 in the treasury. Extensive remarks were made by Wm. Flory, the Rev. John Henry Hess and Mrs. Carrie Hess Mehning. The statistician reported additions for the year as follows: three by marriage and five by birth; two deaths; six graduations, and one author.

The next reunion will be the last Wednesday of July, 1930, at the same place. The officers for the coming year are: Michael Bushey, president; Maurice Hess, vice-president; Mrs. Abbie Flory, secretary; Elmer S. Hess, treasurer, and Mrs. John D. Belt, statistician. Benediction by the Rev. William S. Hess. There were about two hundred present. The same committee who had charge of arrangements in such a satisfactory manner, will again serve for another year.

55 Cattle Killed by Lightning.

Fifty-five head of out of a herd of sixty imported cattle were instantly killed by a bolt of lightning, Monday night, near West Chester, Pa., as an electrical storm raged about them. The sharp reports of thunder brought the fear-stricken cattle under a tree which was shortly afterwards struck by lightning.

The five head not killed are badly injured and may die. All were pure bred Jerseys, Guernseys and Holsteins brought here from England, some of them valued at $500. They were on the Georgia Farms, on the Geo. H. McFadden estate.

FINKSBURG MAN KILLED

His Wife Held Pending Preliminary Hearing.

Ernest Spurrier, aged 51, of Finksburg, was shot and killed, early Sunday morning, during a scuffle with his wife, in which a revolver in the hands of the latter was discharged twice. One bullet entering his abdomen, the other grazing his neck. Following the shooting Mrs. Spurrier gave herself up to the authorities. The couple had disagreed very seriously since shortly after their marriage about 13 years ago. Mrs. Spurrier claimed that her life had been threatened by her husband and that she had bought the revolver for protection; also that he had been drinking and that he ran her out of the house.

At the inquest held on Monday considerable evidence was taken in the case which appeared to show that Mrs. Spurrier fired the shot that killed her husband, after she had broken away from him and while he was lying on the ground.

The case will be given a preliminary hearing, this Friday, before Justice Benson, pending which Mrs. Spurrier is being held in the county jail. The charge will be murder at the hearing. An effort will then be made by Attorney Weant to obtain her release from jail until the case reaches the November Grand Jury. Several important witnesses for the state have been released as bail.

Among the developments in the case it appears that Mrs. Spurrier had filed two suits for divorce within four years; that the dispute that led to the killing grew out of the return of a former male boarder to the home; and that the couple, though living in the same house, were estranged from each other.

Mrs. Spurrier declares that the shooting was accidental, while she and her husband were struggling for the possession of a revolver that she had secured for her own protection, because of threats from her husband.

A Family Gathering.

The family of Mrs. Clara (Shriner) Englar, of Westminster, and part of the family of P. B. Englar, of Taneytown, gathered at Spangler's spring, Gettysburg battlefield, last Sunday, for the greater part of the day.

The first group was made up of the children of Mrs. Englar, the widow of the late Clayton H. Englar, the only brother of P. B., as follows: Mrs. Carrie (Englar) Gilbert, of Hagerstown, her husband, their children and grandchildren, a son-in-law, and daughter-in-law; Miss Lottie G. Englar, Westminster; Charles E. Englar, of Harrisburg, wife and daughter; Clayton H. Englar, of Baltimore, wife and son. The second group, P. B. Englar and daughters, A. Beulah and Ada R. Englar. Other members of the party were: Mrs. Elsie S. Rinehart, Westminster, sister of Mrs. Englar, and W. Wallace Reindollar, Taneytown.

Notwithstanding the heat and drought, the gathering of twenty-eight found the spot quite comfortable, especially late in the day. The Taneytown group visited the new North Carolina monument on Seminary ridge on their way home.

AN ENDURANCE FLIGHT LASTS 420 HOURS

All Previous Records Broken for Air Navigation.

A continuously sustained air-flight of 420 hours and 21 minutes, that has been attracting world-wide interest as a record-breaker, came to an end on Tuesday evening at St. Louis, when the daring aviators, Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine, descended safely in their St. Louis Robin. They exceeded the previous record by many hours.

Their landing was witnessed by 15,000 persons at the landing field, and a few minutes later were examined by physicians and were taken to a hotel for a rest-up after speaking over the radio in a Nation-wide hook-up. O'Brine gained 2 pounds while on the flight, while Jackson held the weight with which he went up on July 13th.

Both said that the first 100 hours were the worst, and the rest not bad at all. They were called down by the promoters of the flight, their object having been attained—the testing out of the motor.

The flight approached the end with plane and pilots having traveled approximately 25,000 miles, or a distance equal to the circumference of the earth at the equator, since they took off July 13th.

The plane had taken on 3,520 gallons of gasoline and forty-seven refueling contacts had been made, with seventy-seven contacts for all purposes.

Jackson and O'Brine earned $31,255 jointly, or $15,622.50 for each man, in the record-breaking flight of the St. Louis Robin. This did not include $2756 in cash sums given them, nor checks and cash which had been sent to the Chamber of Commerce. Eighteen days' pay as commercial pilots must also be figured into the total. The Curtiss-Robertson Company, their employers, has declined to reveal their regular salaries.

County Christian Endeavor Outing.

Frank Thomas, adjoining the city limits of Westminster. In the evening, around the pool, a twilight service will be held, the speaker to be announced later. All Endeavorers and their friends are urged to set aside this date and help make the picnic and outing a success.

C. E. and Sunday School Outing.

(For the Record.)

The Keysville Evangelical Lutheran C. E. Society and Sunday School held their annual union outing at Forest Park, Hanover, Thursday, July 25, with an attendance of 143. The weather was ideal and all gathered at the park by 10 o'clock for the devotional program which consisted of singing, Scripture reading, prayer and a short address by Rev. Olen Moser. After which a bountiful dinner was served.

While we ate we were entertained with peppy songs, by the four girls Helen Kiser, Winifred Koons, Mildred Cushman and Virginia Cluts who attended the Lutheran Leadership Training Camp at Bigsville.

Our group held full sway of the afternoon amusements. The young and old folks surely enjoyed the skooter, merry-go-round and skating rink. If you want a good laugh go to Forest Park. All returned home having spent a pleasant day and having had a wonderful time.

FARM MARKETING ACT

State Farm Organization Advises Cautious Procedure.

The Joint Committee representing the State Grange, Maryland Farm Bureau Federation and University of Maryland, authorized to give consideration to the applicability of the Agricultural Marketing Act recently enacted by Congress to the marketing of farm products in this State and the co-operation and assistance that Maryland agricultural forces can give and receive from the Federal Farm Board, have arrived at the following conclusions:

1—Inasmuch as the Federal Farm Board has publicly announced its policy of "working with and through established groups of farmers who are organized or who may be organized, on the basis of specific farm commodities" it is recognized by this Committee that proper steps should be taken to organize such commodity groups as are ready for co-operative action in order to accept any of the benefits of this legislation by our farmers generally that the individual farmer can only profit directly through the functioning of this act by being a member of a recognized co-operative association.

2—Much interest has been manifested by growers, dealers and processors of grain in the different sections of the State relative to organizing one or more co-operative grain associations. It is our judgement that all such grain co-operatives should be at least county-wide and formulated upon such a basis as to consolidate their business through a state or regional Association. In one section of this state, both farmers and dealers are apparently ready to act upon this proposal when the Federal Farm Board is ready to give consideration to the project.

It must be recognized that this proposal is a large and important one to work out. The formation of a grain co-operative by the farmers may possibly necessitate the raising of private capital by the farmers in the coming members of the co-operative. This Committee feels that as grain covers such a large territory and as there are apparent differences of opinion between many of the largest existing grain co-operatives that it will probably be some time before the Federal Farm Board will give consideration to a proposal covering such a small area as the grain territory of Maryland.

The Committee is giving careful consideration to the whole subject and it is believed that we should proceed slowly with this proposal until we are assured of definite assistance by the Federal Farm Board without which the project obviously cannot succeed.

3—Most fortunately the dairy and tobacco interests of the entire state are served by strong co-operative associations which require no special consideration by this committee at this time. Doubtless these co-operatives will take advantage of any assistance which may be available under this legislation as conditions may from time to time require.

4—Inasmuch as the poultry, vegetable and fruit industries enjoy only limited service through co-operative organizations the passage of the legislation would seem to present an unusual opportunity for efforts in organizing the producers in these branches of the agricultural industry in the state. Efforts in these directions have been made in the past largely without success. The present situation presents a challenge to the leaders who should prepare plans to enable them to take advantage of this national legislation.

5—It is believed that the live stock situation in the state presents a problem for further study from the standpoint of forming a state-wide live stock association at this time, but we feel that local or regional co-operatives should be formed in a number of sections with advantage to producers.

The nucleus of what is to be a $20,000,000 grain marketing corporation was formed in Chicago, last Saturday, to handle the grain business. Stockholders in the new corporation will be co-operative marketing associations, elevator companies or farmer-owner sales agencies at central markets, on the basis of one share or stock for each member. Individual farmers also will be permitted to purchase one share of stock each. Par value of the shares will be $20.

Misrepresenting Purity of Food Products.

In south eastern Pennsylvania, two butchers and a veterinarian are being held under $1000, bail each, charged with conspiracy to violate the law by slaughtering, and selling for food, cows extensively diseased with advanced tuberculosis. After the meat had been traced to Philadelphia, with a fraudulent stamp of inspection placed on the carcasses, the meat was condemned and sent to a fertilizer factory.

It is difficult to imagine the extent of meanness and cupidity that could lead to such acts, should they be found to be true. And yet, in almost every community there are more trivial acts of the same character that are true. Many do not hesitate to misrepresent articles of sale, as buyers very well know. Perhaps not to an extent that would endanger the lives of consumers—but the object of deception and gain is there, just the same.

The pure food laws of the country are the most important of all laws, as they stand for the protection of the health and lives of the people—the little children, and all who cannot protect themselves. That those who violate these laws should be severely punished, goes without the saying, and this should include all who practice deception in the sale of food-stuffs, who may not be as guilty as those who would sell tubercular meat.

"Junking" Cars by Law.

The Motor Vehicle Inspection law is well intended; but like most good laws of this class there is the danger of extremes being practiced, resulting in hardship to owners of old cars—old, but still serviceable for many desirable purposes.

While old cars may look like animated junk, their appearance is likely more unfavorable than their performances, for such cars usually jog along without the degree of speed that is usually an accompaniment of accidents. We of course do not know it to be a fact, but we make the guess that although some of them may be a little wobbly as to steering, and screeching as to brakes, they do not figure largely in causing accidents.

It is necessary to be very fair about the condemning act, especially as it may be quite possible that a lot of inspections are carelessly made in some instances, and rigidly in others, so that the presence of the official sticker on the windshield may at times amount to very little as a guarantee of condition.

What we want to put over, is, that appearances are often deceptive and that rusty and battered "Lizzies" should not be consigned to the junk yard merely because they are offensive in making up a beautiful landscape, for they may actually have to their credit as a class a record of peaceful performance on the highways.

Who Are the Criminal Classes of Today?

Possibly as the cause for increase in crime, the increase in individual stubbornness to have his way—his "personal liberty"—stands well to the front. There was never a time in history, perhaps, when the strength of self-assertion was as strong as now. When we stand up so aggressively for what we want; when we invent plans, use extreme expedients, extend our credit, and take big chances to satisfy selfish desires.

We are but an older growth of spoiled children, and we are lucky if we limit our spoildness so as to always come well within the law. As a matter of fact, we do not always do just that; and equally as a matter of fact, we not only speak disparagingly of laws that interfere with desires, but we often more or less openly violate them.

The most out-of-date motto is, "Deny Yourself." We do not want to do it even in small ways; and it is these small ways that lead up, by easy stages, to the big ways and bad ways that stand for actual criminality.

In recent years a large percentage of our population has been spending—if not earning—more money than ever before in their lives. They feel the power of money, and want more of it that they may have more power. There is a temptation—an intoxication—in gratifying desires, and in possessing new luxuries. We are closer than ever to the actual demonstration of "Money" being the "root of all evil."

The most of us are optimists, or are at least unwilling to believe that the world is growing more wicked. With fine spirit we deny the charge, and find ways of excusing apparent infractions of morality and of our Divine laws in general; but being "up to the times" carries with it the need of a lot of whitewashing of "the times".

And so, the most of us are going a bit faster, being a bit more short-sighted in recognizing evils, a little more careless in the use of the proprieties in general; more falling in line with the speed of the age, more decided in demanding "our share" or a little more, and before we realize it we are actually trailing along very close behind the criminal classes—and sometimes, before we realize it, are right in among them.

Electric Development.

The field for future development of the electric industry is so great that capital investment in utilities is expected to increase by a third within five years, according to a survey made by Bonbright and Company.

Six outstanding reasons for potential growth are given. About one-third of the population still lives in unlighted homes, and more than half of wired homes contain no electric labor saving devices, except flatirons. The average home, when completely equipped with electric service, will consume ten to twenty times as much juice as at present.

More than 90 percent of American farms are not yet served with electricity, and but half of our industrial power requirements are met by the utilities. In recent years factories have been consuming a steadily increasing amount of electric power.

But two percent of our railway mileage is electrified, with great projects announced for the future. We have hardly begun lighting highways and airways.

The developments of the future have been charted, and begun. Farm and railroad electrification have proven practical and economical. More and more homes are being adequately wired and equipped with electric appliances. The amount of power within the command of each industrial worker steadily increases. The electrical age, that has revolutionized domestic and economic life, goes on with increasing momentum.—The Manufacturer.

Right on the Job.

The manner in which the new Farm Board is getting right on the job is most encouraging. Today all its members, with the exception of Secretary Hyde, are scheduled to hold a conference in Chicago with a representative group of leaders in co-operative grain-marketing. The board will discuss the problems in the marketing of wheat and coarse grains and find out how it can best serve the grain farmers. Officials of eleven State farmer-owned associations, of wheat pools in eight States and of farmer-owned commission agencies in eight Western cities will be present.

From Chicago, Chairman Legge and Messrs. Williams and Teague, of the board, will proceed to Baton Rouge, La., where they will be joined by the Secretary of Agriculture in attendance at the annual meeting of the American Institution of Co-operation. The significance of their participation is that these members of the Farm Board and Secretary Hyde were on the speaking program before the board was appointed. They were thus recognized as experts on farm-marketing problems. This meeting will afford them a special opportunity for contacts with managers of co-operative associations from all parts of the country. The Farm Board's enterprise and vigor contain decided promise of help to American agriculture.—Phila. Ledger.

Tolerance Needed.

The disgraceful race riots in Maryland and Nebraska again serve to remind us of the danger of inciting racial prejudices. As a rule, the most ignorant and vicious white persons are the ones who display the greatest intolerance and hatred toward negroes. By so doing, such individuals hope to impress others with their own superiority.

The Union News deprecates racial conflicts. The colored residents of the United States are descendants of slaves forcibly brought to this country by white pirates and kidnappers.

Whatever race problem the white people have on their hands was created by their own ancestors. Since the abolition of slavery, the colored citizens of the United States have made progress little short of marvelous. There need be no misunderstanding between the two races if the intelligent leaders of each race endeavor to solve the irritating problems in a spirit of fairness and common sense. Here, in Towson, there has always existed a feeling of good will between the white and colored populations. Efforts on the part of foolish and irresponsible individuals to stir up prejudice should be promptly rebuked.—Towson Union News.

Why People Pay Slow.

If the average merchant who has considerable sums on his books due from customers, were to inquire into the circumstances of each of these debtors, he would be likely to find that the reason for delayed payments in a large part of the cases, is not any shortage of money. In many instances it would be because people are too indolent to take the trouble to pay their bills regularly.

It may take a man five or 10 minutes to look over an account, make out a check for it, address an envelope and get it into the postoffice. There are many people who are deterred from such prompt action on bills by even so small amount of effort as this.

Some of them get the notion that if they pay their bills once a quarter or once in six months, or even once a year, the merchant has no cause for complaint. They consider that he reckons in the cost of trusting his customers as a part of his expenses, so that it does not make much difference when they pay.

That is a wrong theory, since for every customer who pays in this dilatory way, a business concern must either let its own money stand idle, or it must borrow of some bank. That involves either the payment or the loss of interest, and adds to the cost of distributing commodities.

It is a handicap to the expansion of any business, to have money tied up in these slow pay accounts. If a business concern could get all its bills paid promptly, it could go in for more enterprising moves or improvement of its facilities.

It is just as easy to pay bills promptly soon after the first of the month. People who do it are apt to have the money to pay with, since they are not tempted to spend money thus used for the superfluities they do not need.—Frederick News.

Marie Antoinette Made

Blue Flower Popular

One of the most popular patterns for china during the last years of the Eighteenth century was a little individual sprig of blue cornflower, sometimes used in combination with a green leaf and sometimes without. This pattern was so much used at the Chantilly potteries that when copied by the English potteries it was known as the "Chantilly Sprig." Later the name was shortened to "Sprigged China." However, the design was first made at Sevres and owed its origin to Marie Antoinette.

This young queen of France took a great interest in the porcelain works at Sevres and frequently visited the Sevres factory, where a great deal of porcelain was made at her order for her rustic farm of Trianon.

Marie Antoinette's favorite color was blue; and one day while visiting the Sevres works she mentioned that Sevres had produced nothing but roses, tulips, and jonquills and no blue flowers.

Hoping to please the royal lady Hettinger gave orders to have painted on the dishes the little blue cornflower that she loved so much. Instantly on its appearance the tiny blue sprig became the rage. Chantilly took it up and all the large potteries in England followed suit.—Kansas City Times.

High Schools' Beginning

The term high school came into use between 1820 and 1850, when in place of or by the side of schools called academies, which were maintained by endowment or at private expense, schools of a corresponding grade were established at public expense. Such institutions were variously designated at first. In Philadelphia the Central high school yet retains its original name. The term high school came into use in Boston when in 1821 English high school was established as complementary to the Latin school. During the period of Horace Mann's secretaryship of the Massachusetts board of education (1837-48) a system of high schools was instituted. This example was followed by other educational leaders. From the middle of the Nineteenth century the movement in the establishment of high schools became general.

Claim Tigers in India

Serve Useful Purpose

The unconventional opinion that tigers are really "shy beasts," fulfilling a "very useful function in nature by keeping down the deer" and other animals that damage crops, is urged in a statement from India made public by the British Society for the Preservation of the Fauna of the Empire.

Even when tigers take to killing cattle, continues this surprising defense of an animal usually dreaded instead of praised, that fact is not necessarily harmful to human affairs. In India, the tiger's advocate urges, religious scruples induce the villagers to keep alive vast numbers of old and decrepit cattle.

Even the Indian popular leader, Mahatma Gandhi, was criticized severely for permitting an old, sick cow to be put out of pain. What accidentals would consider their duty, to get rid of useless and miserable animals, is shirked by Indian villagers, the spokesman of the Preservation society argues, and is usefully taken over by the tigers, unhandicapped by religion.

Most tigers are imbued, the statement continues, with a wholesome fear of man, mankillers being the rare exception. It may be considered improbable, nevertheless, that any large percentage of Indian villagers will invite one of these supposedly shy and useful forest kitties to come and live in his barn in order to protect his garden.

Alaskan Natives Erect

Buildings Over Graves

The natives of Alaska are much given to superstitious beliefs, witchcraft and ghosts, and as a rule they are dreadfully afraid of the ghosts of the departed, so that the section of land given over to the disposition of the dead is held in great reverence. The dead one, with all his personal effects, such as skins, blanket and trinkets accumulated during life, is laid away and is generally safe from molestation, although occasionally some member of the tribe may become so depraved as to remove some of the goods if he can do so without detection. Frequently a small house is erected over this accumulation, so that in the course of time the burial ground comes to take on the appearance of a miniature village. In some parts this has taken the form of an annual ceremony and on a certain day of the autumn many persons may be seen erecting these houses over the resting place of their departed relatives.

Taking It Literally

They had departed to a warmer clime for the winter months and the master was watching his servant unpack the various bags, while he checked their contents with an eagle eye.

"You are sure we've got everything we want?" he asked, when the operation was almost complete.

"Yes, sir," answered the valet. "What about the medicine chest? Is everything in it? Bandages, safety pins, lint, brandy, iodine—"

"There's no iodine, sir," interrupted the valet hastily.

"Why not, indeed?" "Because you'd written on the bottle that it was not to be taken, sir," replied the other meekly.—London Answers.

Bare Library Shelves

In medieval times reading was a serious business. When a writer began a volume the choice of subjects was easy—there were but seven; theology, philosophy, medicine, logic, grammar, history and Canon law. Perhaps that is why there were so few books. The libraries were little frequented, and perhaps that was because patrons had to stand up to read. On no account could anyone take a book home, for all volumes were chained to the stall in which they were kept. Even college libraries did not offer very extensive reading. King's hall in 1397 listed 87 volumes and the University library enumerated a mere 122 as being in its possession in 1424.—Detroit News.

Wild Sheep and Goats

There were wild mountain sheep in the Rockies and some other parts of the continent before the discovery of America by Europeans. The Indians had not domesticated these, however, and there has been no success since at domesticating them or crossing them with domestic breeds.

The Europeans brought sheep to the New world as soon as they began to settle here, and all the domestic breeds now known in this country are descended from similar breeds of the Old world.

The nearest allies of the sheep are the goats. The span of life of a sheep is from ten to fifteen years.

Amazon's Wide Mouth

The width of the mouth of the Amazon river, says the Pathfinder Magazine, is usually measured from Caboto Notre to Ponto Patijoca, a distance of 207 miles. This, however, includes the ocean outlet of the Para river—40 miles wide—which should be deducted, as this stream is merely the lower stretch of the Tocantins.

It also includes the ocean frontage of Marajo, an island about as large as the entire kingdom of Denmark lying in the mouth of the Amazon. The actual width of the principal mouth is about 50 miles.

Chocolate Syrup!—Mmm!

Do you know that chocolate syrup for use in making beverages and for flavoring foods can be bought in cans? And do you know many people who don't like the taste of chocolate? Yes and no? Then I'm sure you'll be interested in the following recipe for using this syrup:

A Tested Recipe

Chocolate Waffles: Beat three egg yolks well, and add one and one-half cups milk. Mix and sift two cups flour, four teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, and add. Add one-half cup of chocolate syrup and one-third cup melted butter. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the three eggs and one-half teaspoon vanilla. Bake on hot waffle iron and serve immediately, a quarter to each person, topped with sweetened and flavored whipped cream.

But chocolate waffles are only one of the ways in which you can use this delicious syrup. The tall white glasses all frosted over from the chilled drink within, which are now making their annual appearance on porches and lawns, in dining rooms and pretty much everywhere else, often contain some of this succulent syrup. Try, for instance, this second tested recipe:

Chocolate Cinnamon Malted Milk: Shake together in a shaker, or in a large glass jar, six tablespoons malted milk, four tablespoons chocolate syrup, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half cup water, two and one-half cups milk and plenty of cracked ice. This recipe will fill four tall glasses, and wherever the lucky quartet who get it are located, they'll exclaim in chorus: "Mmm!"

KEYMAR.

Louis Reifsnider, is making quite an improvement on his farm, along the Taneytown and Keymar road, tenanted by his son, Isaiah, by giving all his buildings a coat of red paint, which makes it look like another place. Mr. Reifsnider knows how to keep a place, and beautifies it by painting Mr. Reifsnider has an up-to-date farm, and has an up-to-date farmer on it, and has the modern equipments at the house and barn and has his farm in high cultivation, which adds greatly to the property.

Recitations and songs, an exhibit of their work, consisting of pictures, books, sewing and bird houses. Two little maids from Woodsboro showed us their certificates and books, and the interest they manifested and the way they told the stories of the Bible pictures, makes one feel it is well worthwhile.

He Had Tried It.

Mother is fond of pointing a moral when she tells stories, but young Clifford is not always properly impressed. One morning when she was uncertain whether or not he would relish the nourishing cereal she had prepared for him, she began telling him a story as she dressed him, a story about a big, healthy boy who was big enough to go to school.

"And," she said in an impressive tone of voice, "what do you suppose this fine, big boy had for breakfast?"

In the uncanny wisdom of his three years Clifford replied:

"Oh, I know. Something he didn't like, but it was very, very good for him."

Disasters of Heat Wave.

The heat over the week-end culminated in numerous destructive thunder storms, heat prostrations and fires over a considerable portion of the east, the following being a few of the disasters and deaths.

In Philadelphia eight deaths were attributed to heat, two being a direct result while six were drowned while seeking relief.

In New York City 14 persons were injured when trying to escape from a street car struck by lightning. Between 40 and 50 were on the car at the time.

In Baltimore the thermometer registered as high as 97° and there were four prostrations in two days.

Four horses, ten hogs and a lot of chickens were burned to death on a farm near Boyertown, Pa., in a barn fire.

A $30,000 street car was destroyed, near York, Pa., when it was struck by lightning.

Barns were burned at Lansdale, Zeiglersville, and Collegeville, Pa.

Lancaster, Pa., beat the record in the state with a temperature of 102°.

Pole-sitting Contests.

Avon Foreman, a Baltimore youngster, made a bid for fame by sitting on a board on top of a hickory pole in the backyard of his home for a ten-day, ten-hour and ten minutes stretch, and received the following gifts for his stunt: set of golf clubs, lucky stone, necktie, book, offer of free dancing lessons, pair of shoes, free dental attention, lot of ice cream, cake and candy and about $60.00 in cash. The champion says he will take all of the gifts except the dancing lessons, and with what he has left of the $60.00, after treating his friends, he will buy a bicycle.

And now Jimmie Jones another boy 12 years old, spurred on by the fame and success of Foreman, went to the top of a pole in his own backyard, on Wednesday, to break Foreman's record as a pole-sitter.

Improvements to Telephone Lines in Carroll County.

Additional telephone facilities in the Silver Run telephone central office area involved expenditures of $49,430 have just been authorized by the board of directors of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore city according to an announcement made by A. C. Allgire, manager.

Telephone service in Silver Run and vicinity prior to December 1 last year was furnished by the Silver Run Telephone Company but this plant has since been acquired by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City which now operates it.

The present lines serving the Silver Run area including pole lines to Westminster, Taneytown and the Maryland state line to Littlestown, Pa., are in bad repair. Mr. Allgire states.

After making a careful survey of the system the telephone company's engineers have specified the construction of a practically new plant. The specifications for this work cover the placing of 1,100 cross-rotated pine poles, 775 cross-arms, 517 guys, 170 miles of wire and 14,000 feet of aerial cable which will not only improve the present lines, but will also provide facilities for future telephone growth.

While telephone officials realize that the first cost of placing cross-rotated pine poles is heavier than would be the case if untreated poles were used, experience has shown that the life of treated poles is very much longer than that of the untreated type. A recent inspection of a telephone line connecting Washington, D. C. and Norfolk, Va., constructed of treated poles has shown that practically none of the 10,000 poles in the line have deteriorated to any great extent after thirty years of service.

It's discouraging to do your best and then find out it isn't good enough. Of these things is Utopia built; Individual liberty, economic efficiency and social justice.

In Loving Remembrance of our dear Mother,
MINNIE A. ECKARD,
who died one year ago, July 29, 1928.

What is home without mother
The new robes of its flowers
There is a broken-hearted daughter
Who spends many a lonely hour.

How much I miss her kind advice
In this great struggle of life
How different do I find things now,
Than when she was here in life.

We stood beside her bedside
We saw her soul depart.
But when she said that she was dead
It nearly broke our heart.

Oh dearest, sweetest mother,
Since you have passed away
It seems not that it's a year ago,
But only yesterday.

A happy home we once enjoyed
How sweet the memory still
But death has left a vacant chair,
This world can never fill.

BY HUSBAND & DAUGHTER.

Oh may I meet my mother,
Where friends shall never weep,
For there, she who died in Jesus
Her death is only sleep.

The month of July once more is here,
To us the saddest of the year;
Because it took from us away,
Our mother, one year ago today.

When Angels brought the message
That your darling mother should go
None but us who have lost one,
Can our grief and sorrow know.

The home seems sad and lonely,
Every spot so desolate and dear;
We listen for the voice of our mother,
That never again shall we hear.

By her loving son and wife,

driving, you may see the beautiful Chinese Pheasants hundreds of which make the Island their home, being protected, of course. I must not forget the canals which wind through the woods, and on which you can usually see hundreds enjoy themselves in canoes.

This Park is only one, and is not the largest, but is the best equipped and developed. We were out to see the Rouge Park, on July 4th, and found it a wild place, but must say we did not get around to where the new swimming pool has been built, or where work has been done to develop the park.

I had intended to write only one article, on this subject, but found it run away with me. So, if the Editor does not turn down this one, I will finish in another letter.

Before closing, however, I want to make good a promise made to my good friend B. O. Slonaker, who has recently passed through a great bereavement, in the loss of his good wife. I will not say anything relative to the life and character of Mrs. Slonaker, for she was too well known by her many friends in the old home town, for me to try to add anything more. Brad wants me to express for him, his sincere appreciation of the wonderful hospitality shown him and Mrs. Cooley and children, during the trip, and thank all for their efforts to make the trip a pleasant one, in spite of the sadness connected with it. He says that for beautiful scenery, for good people, and all that goes to make a place pleasant to live in, the old town has them all beaten.

JOHN J. REID.

Whole World Alike When Love is Young.

"Love is much the same, the world over," said Charles Young of the Peking Gazette.

Loa Sing, a pretty Chinese girl, found very much to her liking the dapper young Englishman who worked in the banks and the counting houses along the Bund. Hence, one afternoon she returned late for supper.

"Where hast thou been, pearl of my bosom?" asked her mother suavely.

"Merely walking in the park," replied Loa Sing, demurely.

"And with whom hast thou been walking, petal from a golden lotus leaf?"

"With no one," replied the maiden, striving to hide the blush that suffused her velvet cheek.

"Then," demanded her mother, "how is it that thou hast brought home with thee a cane, instead of thy bamboo parasol?"—Los Angeles Times.

No man really amounts to anything until he makes real to himself his highest dreams. The schemes which he conjures up in his imagination must become not less substantial to him than the steel and granite walls of a skyscraper.

Some Fishermen's Talk.

Bass fishermen after months of waiting, have at last an opportunity to test their luck and skill and many have been seeking during the past week their favorite spots in the Monocacy and Potomac. For the past few days, the Monocacy has been very clear. It is also quite low. The Potomac, which was clear last week and clouded up toward the end of the week, is now reported to be getting in good condition.

Some bass are being caught from the Monocacy and older fishermen have been heard to remark that the Mississippi cat fish, which some think have been destructive of young bass, have not depleted the stream of this game fish. Many catfish have been caught recently. They furnish some very good sport. Some persons also like this specimen for table use. In fact some persons express a preference for this fish even over bass, which is generally conceded to top the list of food fish in local waters.

The Mississippi "cats" attain a tremendous size. Charles W. Quinn, veteran angler of Frederick, caught one on Saturday near Reich's Ford, which weighed 6 pounds and 9 ounces. It is understood that some have been caught even larger than this so far this season. Mr. Quinn also caught a large mouth bass in Monocacy the past week, which is one of the first of this kind he has caught for some years.

It is not often that the local rivers are in fit condition for bass fishing on account of frequent showers that muddy the waters.

One well known fisherman stated that bass are scarce but that catfish are plentiful. What bass are being caught, he said, are comparatively small.—Frederick News.

"Inside" Information for Women.

With a rich dinner serve a salad with French dressing, not mayonnaise.

In making bloomer dresses for children it is a good plan to make two pairs of bloomers as they are likely to wear out before the dress does.

Lyonnise potatoes are cold boiled potatoes, diced, and browned in fat with chopped onion and served with parsley sprinkled over the top. They make a tasty variation of plain fried potatoes.

When lamb or mutton fat is used in making cream gravy, both the texture and the flavor of the gravy are better if the flour used is browned lightly in the hot fat before the liquid is added.

Waxing or varnishing improves the appearance of linoleum and makes it last longer. Use wax on the linoleum kinds and varnish on the printed ones for wax sometimes tends to soften the printed surface.

Coffee stains not more than a few hours old on washable fabrics can be removed by pouring boiling water on the stain from a height of 2 or 3 feet. Stretch the stained part of the fabric over a large bowl.

The addition of capers, or the liquid in which they have been bottled, chopped pickle, lemon juice, tomatoes, or currant jelly to lamb or mutton gravy is suggested as a change and improvement in flavor.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR TOPIC.

Topic:—"Jesus Teaching On God's Loving Care." Lesson Matt. 6:26-32.

Written by Rev. J. H. Hoch, Uniontown.

You will observe in our Scripture lesson that the Fatherhood of God is brought out, for Jesus says: "Your Heavenly Father."

In the Christian religion God is conceived of as "Father". There is a certain confession of Faith which states, "I believe in God the Father Almighty". Jesus taught His disciples to pray "Our Father—in Heaven". In John 6:27, Jesus declares that God is Father, "for Him hath God the Father sealed". In the Old

The Marketing of Eggs.

Reports coming to the Pennsylvania Bureau of Markets indicate that periods of warm weather cause a marked decrease in the quality of eggs reaching our large consuming centers.

This condition prompted the bureau to issue the following pointers on the care and marketing of eggs during the summer season:

1—Remove all males after the breeding season to assure infertile eggs.

2—Collect eggs at least twice daily to prevent deterioration in the poultry house.

3—Place eggs in a cool, fairly dry place to remove animal heat and to avoid shrinkage.

4—Cover eggs with a cloth to protect them from fading, evaporation and the collection of dust.

5—Keep eggs away from kerosene, onions, fish, and other substances from which odors may be readily absorbed.

6—Do not wash eggs. This results in more rapid spoiling.

7—Use all dirty, small, checked, extra long, and grass-stained eggs at home.

8—Ship only well graded eggs in clean packing cases and fillers.

9—Market the eggs at least twice each week.

It is emphasized by the bureau that holding eggs during the summer months for higher prices may actually result in losses to the poultryman of the reduction in the quality of the product.

If you're meeting your obligations to yourself and your creditors you're doing more than some people.

Is any feeling finer than that which comes from doing a hard job particularly well?

Unquenchable optimism seems to be one of God's gifts to fools.

SNAKE BITE FATAL TO REPTILE EXPERT

Serum Injections Fail to Halt Deadly Poison.

New York.—For more than 30 years Charles E. Snyder, former head keeper of mammals and reptiles at the New York zoological garden in Bronx park, befriended snakes.

He fed them, made pets of some, and pointed to their comparative harmlessness and utility in public lectures.

His interest in reptiles led the veteran keeper on periodic trips to capture more of them. One morning, in the Ramapo mountains, one of them struck for the liberty of its mate, which was almost in Snyder's grasp. The former keeper died, a victim of rattlesnake poison which anti-venom serum failed to halt.

Serum Rushed to Hospital. Dr. Raymond L. Dittmars, curator of mammals and reptiles at the Bronx zoo, had rushed serum to him at the Good Samaritan hospital in Suffern, N. Y.

Snyder, who was fifty-seven, died about 24 hours after the two poison fangs had sunk into the back of his left hand. It took him five hours to reach the hospital, a delay which was held responsible for his death, although even after such a lapse of time the failure of the serum to counteract the poison was considered unusual.

There was no trepidation in Snyder's mind as he struck into the Ramapo woods, accompanied by Paul Snyder, a friend and snake enthusiast.

They were on Little Tor mountain, pursuing separate trails 100 yards apart, when Snyder saw a rattler between four and five feet long gliding over a rock ledge near his feet.

As the snake squirmed into a crevasse Snyder ducked to catch its tail so that he might swing it out with a quick jerk into the open and pin it with a forked stick he was carrying.

Sinks Fangs in Hand.

As he stooped, another snake, apparently the mate of the first reptile, lunged from a hiding place in the grass. It sank its fangs into the hand. Snyder shrank back calling to his friend, and the reptiles took to cover.

With his companion at his side, Snyder sucked the two wounds, sought to squeeze out the poison and used a handkerchief as a tourniquet about his arm to shut off the circulation. Hospital and serum treatment followed, but to no avail.

Fish Worm Ranching Is New Western Industry

Los Angeles, Calif.—The Flapper Fish Worm ranch is located in the small town of Bishop at the eastern base of the Sierra Nevada in southern California, the proprietor of which, says John L. Von Blon, writing in "Field and Stream," is a sunny-haired high school student of seventeen.

Working on the sagacious principle as stated by herself—"any poor fish from the common human sucker to the golden aristocrats of the trout family will fall for a flapper"—she has developed an industry which has turned out 20,000 worms for the opening-day sales.

"Ten acres is the whole extent of the ranch. Through it all the earthworms may burrow but the plot actually devoted to them comprises but 2,000 square feet. It is a patch of straw, hay, corn fodder and other decomposed materials about a foot in depth, with a pit four feet square in the center, where is sunk a bottomless box in which the breeding processes are carried on. As a protection against poultry, shrews, moles and other creatures of which the worms are natural prey and food, there is a screen cover.

"This nest is kept damp. Sour milk, cheese and bread crumbs, cornmeal, eggs and all sorts of table scraps are thrown into the box. The continuous propagating results are astonishing.

"Tiny worms emerge by millions from the cocoons in which the eggs have been laid. Soon they begin to make their blind ways to the outer edges—blind, because they have no eyes, but are guided by primitive, light-detecting organs. In due course they are dug up from the mulch and placed where they can be packed for market on short notice."

Reform School Lads Needn't Learn to Sew

Sacramento, Calif.—Sewing was ordered removed from the list of subjects taught incorrigible youths at the Preston reform school at Ione by E. E. Jensen, state director of institutions.

All the sewing equipment is to be transferred from the reformatory to the woman's ward at San Quentin prison, where, Jensen believes, it will be put to better use.

"The boys never did take to sewing," remarked the director, "they don't see any future in it for them."

Narcotic Addicts Turn to Use of Chloroform

Butte, Mont.—Increased obstacles placed in the paths of drug addicts have turned many narcotic users to chloroform, a veteran Butte physician declared. It is the practice in many Butte homes, he said, to use a few drops of chloroform to ease excitement and quiet nerves after a party.

The Tests Tell Truth.

Livestock are not necessarily free from diseases because they are fat, sleek and apparently in good health, and it is well to keep newly purchased animals under observation for a few weeks before adding them to the farm herd. Many tuberculous cattle that appear to be in perfect health transmit the disease to other animals. The tuberculin test is the only means of detecting the disease in the early stages. Animals infected with infectious abortion seldom seem to be sick, and the disease can be diagnosed only by blood tests, bacteriological examination, or the act of aborting. Animals that have only mild attacks of diseases may spread infection that causes severe attacks in other animals.—U. S. Department Agriculture.

SPECIAL ONE CENT SALE One Week - July 27 to August 3

For ONE CENT additional to regular price you receive TWO of the Special Articles listed.

Probably Only "Ghost"

of Island on Record

I was staying in Oratava, Teneriffe, with the family of the English chaplain there. One very sultry day he asked me to come up to the flat roof of the house, as he wished to show me something very remarkable. Finding I had strong and far eyesight, he asked me to count the islands I could see round the coast of Teneriffe, and I found that, with Grande Canary, they numbered seven.

He then requested me to look through the telescope and name what I could see on the islet beyond Palma. And after I had specified a small palm tree, some low-growing trees and a small white hut, he showed me the latest map of these islands—which did not include the islands I had remarked; there were six only with Teneriffe.

The old charts gave this island when Portugal ceded these islands to Spain in 1479, but several years later surveys sent out to locate this island had failed to find it. Yet it reappeared from time to time in some particular state of the atmosphere—and is, in fact, the ghost of a submerged island.—London Post.

Successful Hotel Man

Must "Know the Ropes"

Every big metropolitan hotel faces bankruptcy its first year. People are skittish about going to a new one, no matter how fine it is, until some one breaks the ice. Fortunately is the hostelry which can attract a few notables under its roof soon after it opens for business. That is why free board and lodging frequently are offered certain celebrities who may be bought off that way. Once it is noised around that people of importance are putting up at a hotel the herd follows. Then, of course, continued prosperity depends upon service standards maintained. The management always tries to create a prosperous air around a new hotel. One trick is to turn on the lights at dusk in every outside room. Employees circulate around raising and lowering shades to give an air of bustle and life. Page boys are instructed to shout important names in the lobby and dining rooms even if the owners of those names are in Europe. All these tricks help.

Disappearing Gulf

However slow and imperceptible the process may be, it is a well-established fact that the contour of the earth is changing constantly. Sea captains frequently note the presence of islands in midocean where no islands were seen before and just as often note is made of the total disappearance of points of land in the sea. The peninsula of Lower California, in the western part of Mexico, is, as most persons know, a long tongue of land following the coast line and forming the elongated Gulf of California. Recent observations show that the land of Lower California is raising and accordingly increasing in width and at the same time the gulf is narrowing so that in the course of time the land of the peninsula may be joined to the mainland of Mexico and water now separating them will disappear entirely.

Mangian Love Letters

Inscribed on Bamboo

Perhaps the queerest type of love letter known in the world is that in vogue among the Mangians of the hill lands and mountains of Mindoro, P. I., who still hold to the ancient alphabet of about three vowels and ten consonants which they group into words inscribed on bamboo in a single vertical column, their bolos serving them as a stylus. They are an extremely simple and timid people and their more aggressive Malayan neighbors have made them hunt cover in the highlands and the primeval forests. For business, aside from the very important business of making love, they hardly need writing at all; and surely no bamboo ledgers to record their wealth. But love makes as ardent demands upon them as upon other folk, and their swains fallen victim to Cupid whip out their bolos, slash down a good-sized bamboo, and go to verse writing with intense gusto. So that a love missive may be strung along the length of a 45-foot pole, and the one end trailing in the forest path as the poet indites a warm postscript on the other. Popular damsels soon have enough finely etched poles to build a hut—to burn such telltale documents would be to light a fire endangering the forest. Specimens of the love letter poles have been acquired by scientists and translated, and the astounding truth discovered that a Mangian in love is an inordinate liar!

Cold Not Only Thing

Hoarded by the Miser

No one loves a miser. He does not consider money as a medium of exchange, as a counter in a game, but as an end in itself. He delights to hoard it, hold it, gloat over it, but never does he delight to spend. So have I observed men to hoard their virtues, count them, finger them, exult over them, yet none escape to serve a needy world. By this it does appear men may be misers in other things than gold.

One of the most subtle of all temptations is the tendency to become miserly and covetous of some prized possession. It may be physical strength, it may be beauty, it may be intellectual power or accomplishment. We are so apt to make the possession of these things an end in itself and to forget the more important fact that they have been given to us for a purpose.—Exchange.

On or Off?

Tom, age five, was getting ready for bed when he suddenly asked: "Dad, must I get sealed with my shoes on or off?"

Dad didn't seem to understand what it was all about so Tom explained: "The nurse comes to kindergarten to scale us and I don't know whether I should keep my shoes on or take them off."

Dread of Evil Spirits

Inherent in Papuans

Papuans are pagan, and largely governed by superstitious beliefs handed down from generation to generation. The Papuan cautiously approaches the rocks on the shores of the ocean and inland streams lest a spirit that abides there stir up a storm. A spirit in the clouds destroys their children, but the strongest spirit lurks in the forests. For this reason tribesmen seldom venture out at night. Papuan villages are built more for protection than comfort. Near the sea coast and rivers many of them are built over the water, while in the interior they occupy the hills where the tribesmen can survey the neighborhood for enemy invaders. If a village is in a valley, it is usually protected by a high stockade or the huts are in the tree tops. Tree platforms are the tribal watch-towers.

Trumped

Dropping into his club, a thirsty member ordered a bottle of beer, but before he could enjoy it he was called away to the telephone. In order to protect his property he seized the top card of a pack—it happened to be the three of diamonds, and, writing his name upon it, leaned it against the bottle and went to answer the call.

When he returned his beer had gone. "I say," he complained loudly, "where's my drink?" "Oh, didn't you know?" chuckled a nearby denizen of an easy chair, "Old Jenkins came along with the ten of diamonds and took the trick." —Weekly Telegraph, London.

Lesson for August 4

BELSHAZZAR'S FEAST

Temperance Lesson

LESSON TEXT—Daniel 5:1-31.
GOLDEN TEXT—Be not drunk with wine, wherein is excess.
PRIMARY TOPIC—What Wine Leads To.
JUNIOR TOPIC—What Drink Leads To.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Drink Leads To.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Reveling and Ruin.

I. Belshazzar's Impious Feast (vv. 1-4).

1. The attendants (vv. 1, 2). Belshazzar, his wife and concubines and a thousand of his lords.

2. Their behavior (vv. 3, 4).

(1) They drank wine; they engaged in revelry. (2) They committed sacrilege, drinking wine out of the sacred vessels taken from the temple at Jerusalem. (3) They worshiped idols, gods of gold, silver, brass, iron, wood and stone.

II. The Handwriting on the Wall (vv. 5-16).

1. The time of (v. 5). It occurred in the same hour in which they were engaged in their drunken revelry.

2. The effect upon the king (v. 6). He was seized with consternation.

3. The king's behavior (vv. 7-16).

(1) He called forth astrologers and soothsayers, offering rich rewards (vv. 7-9). Their utter inability to interpret the writing left the king even more perplexed.

(2) Daniel brought in at the suggestion of the queen (vv. 10-16). The queen reminded the king of Daniel's service to Nebuchadnezzar. He was sent for and promised great reward.

III. Daniel Interprets the Writing (vv. 17-28).

1. Daniel's address to the king (vv. 17-24).

(1) He brushes aside the promised gifts (v. 17). He would not have his speech limited by the king's gifts.

(2) He reviewed before him the history of Nebuchadnezzar and applied the lesson to the behavior of Belshazzar (vv. 18-24), showing that Belshazzar should have profited by the experience of his father.

2. The interpretation of the writing (vv. 25-28).

(1) "Mene" means "numbered" (v. 26). "God hath numbered thy kingdom and finished it."

(2) "Tekel" means "weighed" (v. 27). "Thou art weighed in the balances, and art found wanting."

(3) "Peres" means "divided" (v. 28). "Thy kingdom is divided, and given to the Medes and Persians."

IV. The Judgment Executed (vv. 29-31).

In that night was Belshazzar slain and Darius the Median took the kingdom.

The Chaldean dynasty ended with Belshazzar. So we may interpret this whole scene as pointing to the conditions at the close of the times of the Gentiles, and as foreshadowing the prevailing conditions. Let us note:

1. The stupidity of men.

They, like people today, would not learn by example. Nebuchadnezzar's fate should have deterred Belshazzar from such frivolity.

2. The magnificent splendor.

This great feast was characterized by pomp, display, parade. How characteristic of this age!

3. Luxury. The famous hanging gardens of Babylon were a noteworthy example. Signs of luxury today are on every hand.

4. The licentiousness of the king with his wives and concubines. Licentiousness is notoriously prevalent today.

5. Blasphemous sacrilege.

And may not the sacrilege of today be in excess of theirs, expressing itself in (1) a profession of religion for pecuniary gain, social and political preferment; (2) use of the pulpit and of the ministry for display and notoriety, even for the propagation of false doctrine; (3) union with the church, attendance on the communion, so as to cover up secret sins; (4) the use of the Word of God to give point to a joke; (5) denying that the Bible is God's Word, making it a book of errors, myths and legends; (6) sneering at the virgin birth, repudiating Christ's deity and setting aside His vicarious atonement.

6. Drunken carousals. The hand writing is on the wall. God will not endure this forever; His judgment shall fall. Conditions in the world indicate that the time is drawing near. Are you ready?

Nothing

And though I have the gift of prophecy, and understand all mysteries, and all knowledge; and though I have all faith, so that I could remove mountains, and have not charity, I am nothing.—I Cor. 13:2.

The thoughtful are always thankful.

Knotty Legal Point

Whether the son of an American ambassador, born in a foreign country while his father was on duty would be eligible for the Presidency, is a debatable point. The situation has never arisen. Under all the laws of the United States, the child of American parents, born abroad, is considered an American citizen in exactly the same status as one born in the United States. On the other hand the Constitution expressly states that the President must be American-born. It would probably require a Supreme court interpretation to settle the matter.

Professional Appraisal

A junkie was driving his wavering old cart down a narrow London street. Behind him, traffic had to keep to his pace. An irate old man in a long, glittering town car had the chauffeur sounding the horn loud, long and insistently. The junkie turned his head, looked down along the polished perfection of the car, bowed low and said: "Right-o, guv'nor. I'll call for it tomorrow."—Boston Transcript.

Good Memory

Recently little Billy, age four, was taken to the Methodist hospital to visit some friends.

"You know Billy, you were here before, you were born here," remarked Billy's mother.

"Yes," replied Billy, "I remember."—Indianapolis News.

Slippery Ways

The airplane still calls for nerve. When skies appear forbidding, it has no chains such as would serve to keep the craft from skidding.

Leaving Clues

Edwin—Don't be afraid. No one's going to know I've been hugging you. Angelina—We can't be too careful. Mother's going to mend this waist tomorrow, and she's a fingerprint expert.

Dumas Loved to Eat

The last of the books that emanated from the facile pen of Alexander Dumas, the great French writer, was a cook book. It contained recipes for preparing eggs in 56 different ways. The famous author was as happy over the perfection of an original dish as he was at the successful creation of a fiction character. The value he himself placed on his cookery is revealed in his own words: "I see with pleasure that my culinary reputation is increasing and promising soon to take my literary reputation."

Here's how the Case Spreader will Increase Your Yields

THE CASE SPREADER pulverizes the manure so finely and spreads it so evenly that every square foot of ground is covered—every plant gets its full share of nourishment. The result—larger yields and extra profits.

This spreader is low—it's easy and fast to load. And easy on the horses, too. As for handling, you can drive it right through a 6 foot door and turn square around. The box is extra tight—holds the valuable liquids till you get to the field.

The Case Spreader is built to last—in fact, there's practically no wear-out to it. Many have run for years with no upkeep expense at all.

Come in and see this crop booster—then decide for yourself if you can afford to be without it. Try our service—fast and reliable.

Mrs. Margaret Elliot, who had been visiting her sisters-in-law, Mrs. Margaret Franquist and Miss Lelia Elliott, at Rochester, N. Y., was brought home by them on Tuesday evening. The latter will visit around among the Elliot family a short while before returning to Rochester.

The fear of a short crop of corn—especially sweet corn—in this section of the county, is no longer a fear, but a reality. Field corn, especially on hills, is also seriously hurt, and the potato crop is estimated at something like 50 percent normal. The rain here, on Monday, lasted only a few minutes, though very heavy in some other sections.

There is a snake story circulating about town that a monster snake 12 feet long and as thick as a stove pipe, was seen the first of the week a short distance out of town along the Middleburg road, by the driver of a Gulf oil truck, who came to town all excited about it. Until there are further developments, we will put it down as a hot weather "snake story".

(For the Record.)

It is reliably reported that the Pennsylvania end of the macadam road, from north of Harney to Round Top, will be built this year. This will be a strong incentive for the Maryland end, to Taneytown, to be kept in something like a condition equaling the Pennsylvania end.

Evidently, Taneytown does not care for baseball, as the receipts at the game of Wednesday were less than $10.00. The probability is that the managers of the local team will go out of the business. When a 25c admission, including grand-stand, does not attract, there is nothing to encourage the continuance of games.

Robert A. Elliot, who has been most acceptably filling the post of R. R. Agent in Taneytown for the past seventeen months, has been promoted to the same post at Wrightsville, Pa., and left on Thursday to take up his duties there. While his many friends rejoice in his deserved promotion, they at the same time, feel a personal loss in his transfer. Harry B. Miller, former agent at Wrightsville, is said to have been transferred to Sparks, Baltimore County. Thos. H. Tracy, former agent at Sparks, has been transferred to Taneytown.

Home-makers' Club Meeting.
(For the Record.)

The Taneytown Home-makers Club held its regular monthly meeting in the Firemen's Building, Friday evening, July 26th. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Clyde Hesson and opened with a duet sang by Miss Elizabeth Wilt and Miss Leah Catherine Reindollar, accompanied by Miss Virginia Ott.

Roll-call was answered with their favorite quotation or kitchen helps. There were 29 regular members and 7 visitors present. There was a song by the club accompanied by Mrs. Rein Motter; Miss Slindie gave a very interesting talk and demonstration on accessories for the home, on pictures, their beauty of line, the quality of color and the interest of their pattern. The recreation which was in charge of Mrs. Norval Shoemaker and Mrs. Nellie Dern, consisted of a piano solo cradle song by Miss Agatha Weant; reading by Miss Amelia Null. The meeting was greatly appreciated and enjoyed by all present. There will be no meeting in August.

The recreation for September meeting will be in charge of Mrs. Bernard Arnold and Mrs. Allen Sanders. Remember the date of the County wide Home-makers' Club picnic to be held Wednesday, August 28th, in Flicking-er's grove starting at 11 o'clock. Bring your lunch boxes. There will be a supply of free ice water for the day. Also refreshments on the ground for sale. Each club is to prepare two features for a program. All members are invited to bring their families and friends. Every person welcome. Come and make it a big remembrance day.

Taneytown 7—Thurmont 5.

Taneytown won from Thurmont, on Wednesday afternoon on the home ground, by the score of 7 to 5. As amateur games go, this was a good one, barring some weak spots and a few bad errors on both sides, especially in the 5th. inning. The home team excelled both in batting and in the pitchers box, Thurmont using four delivery artists, while Myers for Taneytown pitched a strong game the whole way, having 14 strike outs and giving 2 bases on balls, while Thurmont pitchers struck out only 4 and gave 5 bases on balls. The score by innings follows:

Taneytown 2-0-0-0-3-0-2-0-x=7
Thurmont 0-1-0-0-3-0-0-1-0=5

In the absence of a Taneytown scorer, we are unable to give a detailed score of the game.
