TANEYTOWN, MARYLAND, FRIDAY, JUNE 13, 1930.

No. 50

THE TANEYTOWN HIGH COMMENCEMENT.

Fifth Annual Banquet held on Thursday night.

The annual Commencement exercises of the Taneytown High School took place on Wednesday evening, at 8:00 o'clock, in the High School Auditorium. Relatives and friends of the graduates were present in large numbers, every available seat being occupied, with many persons standing.

The exercises were of an interesting character. Musical selections were rendered by the Boys' Glee Club, which sang "On the Road to Mandalay," by the Girls' Glee Club which sang "Danny Boy," and by Prof. Royer, who played "Gypsy Serenade".

The diplomas were presented by Prof. Unger, Superintendent of Schools. Medals were presented by Prof. Smith as follows: A medal provided by the Parent-Teacher Association, for scholarship, for the best marks throughout the entire four years' course; awarded to Mary Isabel Elliot. A medal, provided by the American Legion for citizenship; awarded to Franklin Baker. The Faculty medal, for the best all-around boy in school; awarded to Stanley Lutz.

The address of the occasion was delivered by Rev. Dr. Oscar Thomas Olson, pastor of Mt. Vernon Methodist Episcopal Church, Baltimore. Dr. Olson, in his address, which was witty and absorbing, in spite of its length, regretted the evident tendency in modern life toward standardization. He showed that, with the development of the machine age, in which manual labor in performing the ordinary work of life is saved and the inconvenience of former days is largely done away with, thereby making life even in the rural sections much more agreeable. There has been developed also a spirit which waits for things to be done, thereby destroying to a great degree initiative and individual effort.

He deplored the present day bigness of things and the evident admiration of things because of their size. He pleaded for a return to the right evaluation of things, for the development of the ability and desire to accord to fitness and worth in service. Dr. Olson's remarks were timely and impressive, and were greatly appreciated and attentively received by the graduates and by the large audience present.

On Thursday evening, the fifth annual banquet of the Taneytown High School Association was enjoyed by a large number of graduates, former students, and friends of the local school, at Vindabona Inn, Braddock Heights. Sixty-seven partook of the excellent banquet, which was served in the large dining room of the hostelry. After the banquet, dancing, and other amusement were enjoyed by the guests until a late hour.

Short addresses were made by Prof. J. Kellar Smith and Rev. Guy P. Bready. A pleasant and unexpected feature was the presentation to Rev. Bready of a beautiful gold-trimmed fountain pen and pencil as a mark of appreciation and affection by his former students.

At a business meeting held during the banquet, officers of the association were re-elected as follows: President, Ralph Yealy; Secretary, Miss Leah Reindollar; and Kenneth Koutz, Treasurer.

The association passed a resolution to the effect that all members of the faculty of the Taneytown High and Elementary Schools are to be invited to become members of the Association; and that the Association will offer, at the next Commencement, gold pieces to the boy and the girl in next year's graduating class making the highest average during their four years' High School course.

FELL FROM HOUSE ROOF AT TREVANION.

Last Friday afternoon, George L. Harner, well known plumber and heating contractor, Taneytown, fell from the roof of the former McFarland Mansion, at Trevanion, owned by Miss Percy Adelaide Shriver, but reported to have recently been sold to Miss Winder, of near Philadelphia. He was helping Edward Stuller, contractor, to measure for a new roof, and while going around a chimney top he lost his footing and slid off the roof to the ground, a distance of over 30 feet.

He landed on his feet, and thereby likely escaped death; but he suffered a compound fracture of the left leg below the knee, and was otherwise injured. He was hurried to Frederick Hospital where X-rays were taken and the injured leg properly treated. It is thought that he may be at the Hospital five or six weeks.

REFORMED REUNION, JULY 17.

The annual reunion of the Reformed church will be held at Pen-Mar, on July 17th, it has been announced. A program for the event is being arranged, but has not yet been completed. As the Western Maryland Railroad has discontinued its train service to Pen-Mar, it will be necessary for persons attending the reunion to go by bus or automobile. Emory L. Coblenz, of Frederick and Middleton, is president of the board of directors of the reunion; William C. Birely, Frederick, is a member of the board; and Paul F. Schminke, York, Pa., is secretary.

The man you like very much, indeed is the man you won't argue with.

THE UNION BRIDGE SCHOOL

Trying to Find Remedy for a Serious Local Situation.

Union Bridge is in a bad way, so far as school facilities are concerned, and the outlook for the coming school year is that it will temporarily have to go without high school facilities. The present high school building has been in bad condition, for years, was recently condemned by a Hagerstown architect, the walls being in an especially unsafe condition, from bulging.

The story of the present situation is of somewhat long standing, and is due to defeated bond issues, and lack of financial ability on the part of the County Commissioners and the Board of Education to build expensive school houses as rapidly as they are needed. Union Bridge has been appealing for a new building for the past ten years, but has been compelled to stand by for the necessities of others, the last occasion being when Sykesville was selected by the Board of Education for a building this year.

At a meeting of citizens held on Monday evening, the situation was again discussed, in an effort to make the best possible out of the very unsatisfactory situation that now faces the school—that of having to use two portables at Union Bridge and transporting the remainder of the pupils to Linwood and New Windsor, which means that for the present the high school for Union Bridge will be discontinued.

The citizens and school patrons are naturally up in arms, but with apparently no recourse.

The result of the public meeting was the adoption of several motions; "That we as a Committee sign a statement to the school board objecting to the transfer of Union Bridge students to New Windsor."

"That we assure hearty co-operation with the School Board in securing rooms for children in Union Bridge for the years 1930-1931."

The second resolution seems to represent what was done, both at Taneytown and Charles Carroll, under like circumstances; which, while very unsatisfactory, was much better than transporting pupils to other places, and maintaining continuous operation of the local school, all working together to overcome the big handicap.

RURAL CARRIERS CONVENE.

EDWARDS SENTENCED TO EIGHTEEN YEARS.

The Case likely to be Taken to the Court of Appeals.

Paul W. Edwards, found guilty of murder in the second degree, on the charge of having murdered his foster father, William Thomas Keefer, by placing poison in oatmeal eaten by Mr. and Mrs. Keefer, was sentenced to eighteen years in the penitentiary, last Friday afternoon by Judge Francis Neal Parke.

Sentence was imposed after the court over-ruled the motion of his counsel, Want & Woods, for a new trial. On being asked by the Judge whether he had anything to say Edwards asserted, "I am innocent of the crime of which I am accused," to which Judge Parke replied, "You are extremely fortunate in that you were found guilty of murder in the second degree. The evidence submitted fully warranted a verdict of first-degree murder."

A motion to strike out the judgment, and sentence of 18 years in the penitentiary, was over-ruled on Monday, by Judge Francis Neal Parke and Judge William H. Fosythe, Jr. There was no argument. "When the ruling was announced, a prayer for appeal to the Court of Appeals was filed, and July 15 was fixed as the date limit for filing a bill of exception.

"INSIDE" INFORMATION FOR WOMEN.

An invisible pocket in the seam of a little girl's dress similar to a boy's trouser pocket is useful when she has to carry money.

Production in the United States has increased greatly in recent years. This country supply 75 percent of the total world production. In choosing a gas stove consider where it is to be installed and how the window light will fall on it. The choice of a left-hand or right-hand oven is not so much a matter of left or right-handedness as it is provision for good light on the open burners when one is cooking, or cleaning. When the oven is between the window and the burners it casts a shadow on them.

Buy bright-colored bathing suits and caps for children. Orange, yellow, red, vivid blue, green, or violet are colors that can be seen readily from a distance along the shore. Neutral-colored suits blend with the background of trees or rocks and the shades of the water. Should a child wander out of sight or beyond depth his absence will be more promptly noticed if he wears a bright colored suit which makes it easy to locate him quickly.

Real estate dealers say that a good, dry, light cellar adds from $500 to $1,000 to the value of a dwelling. Of first importance is the site for a building, says the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads. Choose a site moderately elevated so that there is a fall in at least one direction. The soil and subsoil should be open and porous so that air and water are admitted readily. Sands, gravels, and loams are good soils. There should be good deep, natural drainage, so that during the wet season of the year the ground water will be at least 10 feet below the ground surface.

M. P. CONFERENCE FOR DRY CANDIDATES.

The Maryland Annual Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, which opened in Cambridge, on Wednesday, was urged to place its resources in support of "such a candidate for Governor or any other important public office who believes in the prohibition law and will actually use his influence in support of it."

This call for political activity on the part of the Conference, which extends throughout Maryland, Delaware and parts of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Virginia, was made by the Rev. Dr. L. B. Smith, re-elected as president of the Conference.

In his annual report, in which he issued the call to support dry candidates, Dr. Smith said: "No sensible man today can possibly be sincere in his belief that to make liquor control a matter of States' Rights would be in the interest of temperance, sobriety and public safety. I care not whether such a man be a governor of a great State like ours, or a candidate for the United States Senate from a State recognized as warring wet."

9 FARMS SOLD BY SHERIFF.

Nine farms, comprising the holdings of W. S. Adams, Peach Glen, were sold on Saturday afternoon in front of the Adams county court house by Sheriff G. D. Morrison for $29,625.

Six of the farms purchased by Attorney John D. Keith, Gettysburg, for a company, brought $18,500, with a $40,000 mortgage attached. These six places, including the home farm of 144 acres, the Woodview farm of 107 acres; the Hilltop farm, 220 acres; the Bowers farm 97 acres; the Crouse farm, 58 acres, contain some of the best orchards in Adams county.

Mr. Keith also purchased the Crum farm, containing 117 acres, for $9,400.

The Bear Mountain timber tract of 420 acres was bought by P. W. Stallsmith for $1,200. The Kline tract, containing 10 acres, along the Carlisle road, was purchased by John Schlessor for $525.—Hanover Record.

GETTYSBURG COLLEGE

Again Excludes Women as Members of the Student Body.

The Board of Trustees of Gettysburg College has reaffirmed its action of 1923 to exclude women students after this year. This action was taken after strong protests, from various influential sources, had endeavored to have the college remain open to women students.

Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of the college, who acted as spokesman for the board, said the vote to exclude women after the academic year now closing was 16 for and 6 against. He said the board felt now, as it did seven years ago, that "in the best interests of the college and the Lutheran Church" co-eds should be excluded because they have always been without a dean and supervised dormitory facilities.

The college president pointed out the proposed Lutheran College for women at Washington, D. C., to be known as Grace College, will be opened within a few years, and will offer Lutheran women a place for higher education.

OUTLOOK FOR WHEAT.

The growth of wheat is generally held to be remarkable, considering the dry season, but it is feared that it will be a growth of straw, rather than of grain, for while the heads are large enough, many of them are immature. At any rate, the outlook is not better than for a fair crop, and those who harvest the average, will be lucky. Some will have to be content with much less.

THE POOR PEA CROP.

The pea packing season will close in Frederick county, this week, after the shortest pack in 20 years, and about two weeks earlier than normal. Under developed growth, is the explanation, the result being not over a one-third pack, which is said to be somewhat better than average results on the eastern shore, and in Carroll County.

About ten percent of the acreage in some sections was ploughed under for fertilizing purposes—in some sections, more, and the land used for corn, which is now growing nicely, and farmers are optimistic with regard to the harvest.

BOARD OF EDUCATION PROCEEDINGS.

Numerous Important Items of Business Transacted.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education was called to order in the office of the Board, on Wednesday, June 4, at 10:00 A. M. All members were present. The minutes of the preceding meeting were read and approved. The bills presented to the Board were ordered to be paid.

The staff members as nominated by the Superintendent were approved. They are as follows: Supervisor of Graded Schools, Myrtle Eckhardt; Supervisor of Rural Schools, Ruth DeVore; Supervisor of Rural Schools, Grace Alder; Supervisor of Colored Schools, Mae Prince; Director of music, Phillip Royer; County Nurse, Elizabeth Grumbine and Jessie Chenoweth; Attendance Officer, May Grimes; Clerk, Charles Reed; Stenographer, Mildred Ensor; Attorney, C. O. Clemson; Service Man, Roland Hailey.

The Superintendent nominated for approval the principals, high school assistants, elementary principals, and elementary assistants for the ensuing year, subject to such changes as are liable under the law before Aug. 1, with the proviso that changes in the appointments were to be approved at the August meeting and the list published.

The list of resignations, retired teachers, and teachers who have given unsatisfactory service, were read and authorized to be dropped from the force.

The nominations of Janitors for the various schools for the coming school year were approved.

The appointments were made for the bus drivers for the coming year with the exception of the routes at Mechanicsville, the extension of the route at Union Bridge, and the route from Westminster to Finksburg. The new contract will be drawn up in July to include the additional expense of hauling high school children free of charge. The appointees and routes are as follows:

Oliver Lambert—Walnut Grove and Piney Creek, to Harney.

Augustus Crabbs—Mayberry and Baust to Taneytown; Keysville to Taneytown.

Harvey D. Leister—Tyron to Pleasant Valley.

Guy E. Warren—Detour to Union Bridge, Cross Roads between Detour to Keysville, to Detour.

Harvey Sterner—Krider to Deep Run.

Clayton Bloom—Salem to Winfield.

John S. Hyde—Jasontown to New Windsor; Medford to New Windsor.

Unappointed—Louisville, Mahlon, Bird Hill to Mechanicsville.

Unappointed—Finksburg to Westminster.

The budget for the coming year was submitted for final approval. The amount for current expenses to be raised by the county is $316,452.14. In addition to this the capital outlay necessary to build the Sykesville building, equip it, finish the well, and the new equipment necessary at New Windsor High School, and the additional land at Union Bridge and Winfield create, an additional expense of $59,758.00, thus making a total school tax, including these last items, of $376,210.14.

A delegation representing Oakland Mills, Haight, Stoney Ridge, Brandenburg, and Hood's Mills communities, came before the Board with a petition containing 535 names requesting that there be provided a High School and an Elementary School to be located at Eldersburg, thus discontinuing the High School at Sykesville but erecting an elementary school there. In view of the facts that a large number of children now in the Sykesville School are located in that community; that the High School has been established there; that land has been purchased for a new school; that the Board has gone to the expense of boring a well, securing bids and arranging for the awarding of a contract for a new school in the Sykesville community, the Board unanimously decided to stand by its previous decisions, i. e., to build the proposed high school building at Sykesville this year.

The bids for the erection of the Sykesville building were opened and considered. The bid does not include the architects fee, the cost of grading, and the septic tank service, nor the interior equipment. The bids are as follows: E. E. Stuller, $45,570.00; (Continued on Fifth Page.)

AGRICULTURAL MARKETING

The Act Explained by one of its Members—Mr. McKelvie.

In a recent address, Mr. Samuel R. McKelvie, member of the Federal Farm Board, attempted to explain the Agricultural Marketing Act which he is helping to administer. He said the best this legislation can do is to bring about equality of opportunity for the farmer, and as soon as possible leave with the farmer the responsibility for doing things the government is helping him to do, and that co-operation is the key to this. In definite terms he did not seem to make clear how this unity of effort is to be manifested.

Perhaps the following statements credited to Mr. McKelvie may throw more light on the subject to others than it does to The Record.

"I cannot emphasize too strongly that there is no disposition in the Agricultural Marketing Act or among the members of the Federal Farm Board to impose the power of government upon the management or conduct of the farmers' business. Our desire is that at the earliest possible date the government may be relieved of doing for the farmer things that he can and prefers to do for himself. This does not mean that the Federal Farm Board is going out of business soon, but it does mean that as the co-operative agencies now being assisted by it are able to go it alone, they will be heartily welcomed to do so.

"The extent to which this law may be helpful to the farmer and ultimately successful in its purpose, rests almost wholly in the farmer himself. If he takes advantage of it and develops the right kind of leadership and management in his marketing affairs, it will succeed. If he listens to the sweet siren of those who are opposed to it, it will fail."

Stimulation of domestic production, and contracting some of the markets brought about at home through changes in dietary habits, and introduction of power machinery, and abroad through increased foreign competition, Mr. McKelvie said, have worked to the serious detriment of the American farmer.

"About ninety percent of our agricultural production is consumed at home," Mr. McKelvie continued in turning to the more promising side of the farm outlook picture, "While we export largely of wheat and cotton, we import considerably of some other products, such as oil, that are substituted for farm products of our own. To the extent that we can make the American market our own, the opportunity is afforded for the readjustment of farm production, so that in one way or another those of our farmers who are well qualified may prosper. Because of its very nature, and lack of organization, agriculture has not kept pace in meeting the rapidly changing conditions; but the time is not too remote when increased efficiency of the American farmer, plus organized effort, will have placed him on a basis of equality with other lines or endeavor."

Mr. McKelvie called attention to changed conditions in country towns—how the blacksmith shop has given way to the garage; the filling station does a part of the banking business of the community, and the graduate pharmacist must know how to make sandwiches as well as pills.

"The general store in your town is not the store of my day," Mr. McKelvie continued. "Instead of providing for a season's requirements six months ahead, the country merchant boards the train every week or two and goes shopping in some of the principal markets. He buys from hand to mouth and is obliged to do so for he is in competition with a chain store that has its representatives on the markets every day. In every line of business these changes have taken place with such rapidity since the war as to mystify the one who is not alert to the requirements of each day."

MISS GILMAN, SOCIALIST, FOR GOVERNOR.

Miss Elizabeth Gilman, Baltimore, has accepted the nomination by the Socialist party for Governor of Maryland. She explained that she stood for equal rights for both sexes; that prohibition was a moral and not a political question, she favored National ownership of transportation, opposed income taxes and declared for co-operative societies and government distributing agencies for the farmers, she said;

"Socialism must not be confounded with anarchism, the philosophy of a social order based on liberty unrestricted by any man-made law. "In contradistinction, 'the Socialist party is the party of the workers by hand and brain. In opposition to the two old parties of property and privilege, we Socialists, seek to use government as a means for attaining in even larger measure a true prosperity, peace and freedom. Our aim is to make this world a better place to live in. We seek to gain our ends through the ballot, used without corruption, without the giving of promises of party appointments, without graft."

Last year 1,876,000 persons moved from farms to cities, and 1,257,000 moved from cities to farms, a movement away from farms of 619,000, according to U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics figures. The farm population is now the smallest in 30 years.

Our knowledge is mostly like a smoky torch that lights the way only a step ahead.

Always taking out, and not putting in, soon uncovers the bottom.

UNSAFETY ON OUR HIGHWAYS.

The local Granges throughout the country are the latest bodies to call attention to the question of highway safety. A great many other agencies have been discussing the same question; but all such efforts are necessarily of an advisory character, depending on the acceptance of the advice by motorists that read it—for results; and while all of these efforts are praiseworthy, they amount to very little except wasted effort.

Primarily, automobile manufacturers have full rein in the invention of speed increasing models; and these, of course, are wanted by the buying public, to be up-to-date. While the "slow poke" is considered a nuisance on the highways, and is charged with causing accidents because of holding back traffic, the big fact remains that if all autos were of the same low speed—say 20 to 25 miles an hour—but few accidents would then result.

There was a time—and only a few years ago—when thirty and thirty-five miles an hour was considered fast going; but now, since we have cars that can easily do fifty or sixty miles, we do not consider that too fast, because, our cars can do it.

Actually, there is no real need for speed in excess of twenty-five miles an hour, when we consider that in the old horse and buggy days, six miles an hour was considered a good speed to be kept up for a long distance. Four times as fast going, as a gain in fifty years, would seem to be a very good gain indeed—if our cars could do no better. And that is the point—what our cars can do, is the right thing to do. If the highways are unsafe, it is not our fault.

Laws relating to greater safety, when it is possible to pass them—for our law-makers drive cars—are of little value, because they are not enforced, and are not meant to be. We merely expect to keep on going, as fast as cars can be invented to go, and that is the substance of the whole matter; and, at the present rate of speed development, in another twenty-five years—or less—we will be making a blur of the beautiful scenery of the country, at the rate of 100 miles an hour.

HOW OUR REPRESENTATIVES REPRESENT.

Congress does not always exercise good business sense—for the country. Too frequently, individual members play their own selfish business—getting re-elected—at the expense of the U. S. Treasury, which, in one way or another means, the taxpayers. Presidential votes are handed out, with a hurrah. "Who cares? Let Uncle Sam pay the bills!" Quite a joke on the President, isn't it, to upset his economy plans?

The "Why should we worry if taxes are raised" policy passes the buck to the administration—and that is the administration's business to take care of the best it can. Retiring the immense war debt, is not in the bag of worries of the average Congressman. Economy in legislation? That's an old song—nobody expects it to materialize. The better song is, "We're all jolly good fellows, and we want to come back."

"Is it more pensions? Why sure, let's hand 'em out. The fellows back home want 'em, and that's tip enough for us. We represent the people—that's what we are sent to Washington for."

Let somebody may read this and jump to a wrong conclusion, we hasten to say that we do not oppose war pensions properly bestowed. And we also agree that neither our government—nor any other—pays its soldiers a fair price for being shot, or shot at; but, war is war, the same as a pestilence, and every now and then it comes along and takes its toll, without weighing what men are worth.

And let it be also understood that those who hand out pensions almost indiscriminately, do so because the beneficiaries are voters. If they were not, the pension list would be an extremely short one.

As a matter of fact, much of our National money-spending is influenced, not so much by genuine consideration for justice, as by consideration for how the thousands will vote. One rarely hears of any very small body of men getting deserved gratuities from the National treasury. If there are any, let us see the list of them.

BIG-TYPING CRIME.

We do so devoutly wish the newspapers would stop using big type on stories of so-called crime in this orderly community. It does us all an injustice. Haven't we been told, or hasn't it been told in other cities, that there is little major crime in Baltimore, due to the wise and beneficent policies of our State administration in control of the city police? Don't the reporters and the editors as well now know that such incidents as highway robbery, hold-ups in shops, and bold burglaries are only incidents in the life of a great administration? Why damage the community by publishing such tales?—Baltimore Observer.

THE COST OF CAMPAIGNS MISLEADING.

The recent publication of the figures spent in the Pennsylvania primaries, approximating $250,000 each by rival contestants, but emphasizes what we have been talking about for a good many years—laws limiting the expenditures by, or for, candidates, or groups of candidates; and "what to do about it" is no nearer a solution now, than it was years ago.

And, it must be said too, that these immense expenditures need not mean the buying of votes, but be perfectly legitimate, so far as actual criminality is concerned. Why this is true is easily explained, for two reasons. First, the old-time party newspaper, the duty of which used to be to give, as a party paper's duty, any amount of free space to the candidates of its party, and to take the lead in educating voters, is a thing of the past. It now makes a showing of party loyalty in a few editorials, and possibly a little partiality in its news columns, but, that is all.

Newspaper publishing is a business, for profit, just as public office getting is a business for profit, and publishers consider themselves "laborers worthy of hire." And, the position is a correct one—but a costly one too.

Another change in political campaigns, is, that the mass-meeting held at different points in a district, as about the only activity in a campaign, has gone into the discard; and the more so now, because of women voting. A brass band and a speaker's stand draws but few who are actually influenced, to vote for any particular candidates.

And this means the big present day cost of buying newspaper space, wherever papers are published, and distributing campaign reading matter into homes. And the cost of this at but ten cents per voter, means $100. for every thousand voters, which in a big state like Pennsylvania can easily run into the hundreds of thousands.

Equally legitimate expenses are, organization headquarters, employment and travelling expenses of speakers, employment of persons to get voters to the polls, watchers at the polls, and numerous incidental expenses connected with a well organized campaign, all of which must be reported in detail, under oath, under present laws.

What is to be done about it? What is actually wrong about it? Why should not a candidate use every legitimate effort, within his means, to be elected? As we see it, the worst feature of present campaigns, is that aspirants with small means, who would enter a contest for a state-wide office, are frozen out on account of the expense. Another may be, that, once elected, there may be a strong temptation to try to "get back" the cost of being elected, because the salary of the office for an entire term, may not pay the bill.

Still another bad feature may be, that placing the important offices of the country in the hands of the very wealthy, may not represent either the best public service nor the truest representative government "by the people." But, on the other hand, the mere possession of wealth should not be a handicap, because many of our very wealthy men are actually men of wide business experience—an experience that may be of great value to the country, when honestly exercised.

So, we are hardly justified in deciding, off-hand, that campaign expenses are too high—so high as to make an elected U. S. Senator—for instance—ineligible to take his seat; and that may happen again with John S. Davis, Pennsylvania, as it not so long ago happened to William S. Vare. And incidentally, such action by the Senate might easily be used to gain partisan advantage when the Senate is almost equally divided, as at present.

Failure consists largely in thinking so. That is what "inferiority complex" means.

CRABS WILL BE PLENTIFUL.

Crabs will be plentiful and cheap for the housewife's menu this summer.

The famous Chesapeake Bay crabs, which are now reigning supreme in the realms of the seafood world, have entered the second month of what the crab industry and State Conservation Commission believe will be the best and biggest crab supply season known in the history of the State.

The prediction is based upon the present bountiful supply and the success of the 1929 season which showed an increase of thirty percent. on hard crabs and nine percent on peelers over 1928. The report for last season of State Conservation Commission Swepson Earle shows that 67,026,722 crabs were marketed in Maryland alone, while thousands were shipped to the Pacific Coast to be served in California hotels.

Local dealers attribute the approximate 33 1/3 percent. reduction in the price this year chiefly to the unusual abundance of crabs.

Commissioner Earle feels that the increase in supply is the result of the passage of the crab legislation by Virginia in 1926, which was designed to protect the female crab bearing the egg sponge, and other remedial legislation passed by the General Assembly of Maryland in 1927.

Although large shipments of crabs are arriving every day from Annapolis, Crisfield, Cambridge, Deal's, Smith's and Solomon's Islands, Commissioner Earle explained that the so-called Maryland crab is really not a native product, but originates in the Virginia waters near Capes Henry and Charles. The salt water front in this section is necessary for developing the egg.

The crab is migratory and it is in the waters of the neighboring State that the famous blue crab hatches its eggs, although it may leave that vicinity immediately after the hatching. One female crab bears from 1,750,000 to 2,000,000 eggs at a time.

After it is hatched, the young crab leaves the mother and begins its swim up the Chesapeake Bay, during the course of which it sheds its skin several times. Finally the young crab reaches the vicinity of Tangier Sound, the developing ground for young crabs, as its very shallow and grassy bottom permits the crab to receive plenty of sunshine, which makes it shed more rapidly. After the sunshine has hardened the shell, the crab sheds it in a day and becomes soft.

Left in the water it will remain in this state for three days and then go through the stages of "paper shell" and "green" before becoming hard again. If taken out of the water when soft, it will remain so for one or two weeks. In winter crabs hibernate in the mud and sand, and as the weather becomes warmer they become more abundant.

Commissioner Earle explained that the zone of crab migration in 1929 was higher than it has been known to be in Maryland for twenty years, crabs being found as far north on the bay as Chesapeake City. Prior to 1926 the zone was below the Great Choptank river and the crabbers of Tilghman's, Oxford, Cambridge and Kent Island had practically abandoned their crab nets for other means of livelihood.

Similar conditions existed on the Western shore north of the Patuxent river. But last season hundreds of thousands of dollars were paid to Marylanders engaged in the crab industry. Dredgers are continually bringing up crabs from oyster bars, showing that the water bottoms are amply supplied for this season.

Officially, the Maryland crab season is from May 1 to August 1, but this seafood is to be found in the markets in late September. The crabs are picked into various grades of meat which is used for such delicious dishes as creamed crab, deviled crabs, crab salad, cakes and cocktails.

The tenderloin of the crab is the large, luscious lumps attached to each side of the back fin, while the other large meat next to the fin lumps is the flake. After these two have been picked there remains the smaller meat known as "white meat," although actually all the meat is white except the brown meat which comes from the claws.—The Centreville Observer.

Let There Be Light

Bill, four years old, asked his father to leave the light burning in the bathroom at night.

"No, son, we can't have that," the father replied. "The light bill would run too high."

Bill pondered a moment, then came a juvenile solution of the problem. "That's easy," the youngster suggested. "Just take out the bulb!"

World's Next Job

Ahead lies the huge labor of stemming by prevention, the rising flood of mental disorder, which has its sources in the complexity, jangle and scurry of modern life.—Woman's Home Companion.

DEATH VALLEY HAS ITS "GHOST" TOWNS

Cities, as Well as Pioneers, Buried There.

Death Valley, Calif.—Cities, as well as hardy pioneers, are buried in Death Valley.

Such famous "ghost towns" as Greenwater, Rhyolite, Panamint, and Skidoo, to mention only four, are all in the region. Greenwater, however, was the only town ever built on the floor of the valley.

In 1906 and 1907 a deceptive copper lode brought 2,500 residents to the site of the shaft, and a town, optimistically called "Greenwater," burst into shanty existence. The titling of the town was indeed happy, since there was neither water nor green vegetation.

A miserable hillside well, the owner of which got almost as much for his water as the saloonkeepers did for trucked-in beer, was the only moisture anywhere in the neighborhood.

Back to Desolation.

After two years the shaft had produced only two carloads of mediocre ore and the town was abandoned to the desolation of the valley from which it had been claimed.

Rhyolite, across the Nevada line, is perhaps the most famous "ghost city" in the country. Twenty-four years ago 10,000 people called it home. Several impressive concrete shells are still standing—the three-story bank, the schoolhouse, and the $50,000 railroad depot flanked by a roadbed from which the tracks have been removed.

The most unusual building in Rhyolite is the famous "bottle house," the walls of which are entirely constructed of bottles cemented together with adobe. The miners were efficient drinkers of "hard" beverages, so the architect of the bottle house was never at a loss for building material.

As a matter of fact, hundreds of miles of railroad lines have been uprooted. A stretch of over 200 miles, between Rhyolite, Beatty, Goldfield and Las Vegas, has been torn up. "Death Valley Scotty," of special train fame, bought the telegraph wires for a private phone circuit and the ties for kindling wood.

Scotty's $2,000,000 Home.

In contrast to the "ghost cities" of the old mining camps, and to the other towns like Goldfield, which are mere staking specters of their former selves, is the bustle of activity at Furnace Creek ranch and at "Death Valley Scotty's" luxurious hacienda in Grapevine canyon.

The $2,000,000 "ranch house" which Scotty is building and the up-to-date resort hotel at Furnace Creek, on which a new wing has just been added, are the only signs of activity in this region of the dead.

With the dismantling of the railroad north of the valley, the only approach by rail is now from the south over the regularly established junket from Los Angeles to Death Valley Junction and Ryan. Track and equipment over this line are in excellent shape and the wonderful attractions of Death Valley as a winter resort insure permanent maintenance.

British Writer Tells of Wild Parties in U. S.

Ashford, Kent.—Sir Charles Iglzeden, one of the party of 100 British journalists who visited the United States in 1928, has just published a book about the "land of bad tea and wild parties"—the United States.

He says about drinking as he observed it in the United States: "Pandemonium reigns supreme. At early hours of the morning the yelling in the hotels is fearful. Jugs, bottles, glasses, and earthenware of all sorts is hurled out of the windows, especially before collegiate football contests. Hotel corridors are filled with intoxicated young men and women, the latter mostly pretty girls in evening dress, but in such a state that they dance and sing in the manner of a virago.

"Love of the freest kind is said to prevail among the younger people of the better classes, and the same is said of undergraduates, where the two sexes mix freely in the universities. Mad scenes in Chicago and Los Angeles are the result of too much drinking."

Tastes Differ

A farmer took his wife to a concert and after listening with apparent joy the pair suddenly became interested in one of the choruses: "All we, like sheep, have gone astray."

First a sharp soprano voice exclaimed, "All we, like sheep"; next a deep voice uttered in a most earnest tone, "All we, like sheep." Then all the singers at once asserted, "All we, like sheep."

"Well, I don't!" exclaimed the farmer to his wife. "I like beef and bacon, but I can't bear mutton."

Goes Into the Highways

The pastor of a scattered parish near Steyning, England, has discovered the way to obtain a good attendance at his church. Each Sunday before the service the preacher takes his car to regular calling places some distance from the church. Whether the day is stormy or fair, he never fails to gather enough people to fill his church. Every one who attends gets a free ride after the service to the point where he was picked up.

Handy Turpentine

Turpentine is a useful commodity, which is not often found in the kitchen. These are some of its uses: The thinning of paint, cleansing glazed tiles, porcelain baths and sinks. Applied with a stiff brush it will keep the gas cooker clean outside. Removes grease instantly from all surfaces. Mixed with floor polish helps the polish to go twice as far and removes spots from the floors. Mixed with black enamel, it makes a good paint for grates and gas stoves.

Coined Living Phrase

"Almighty Dollar" is applied to money as the supposed object of worship in America. The phrase is attributed to Washington Irving, who is supposed to have been the first to use it. It appears twice in his "Creole Village," which was published in England in 1837. Irving wrote: "In a word, the almighty dollar, that great object of universal devotion throughout our land, seems to have no genuine devotees in these peculiar villages."

POULTRY

INFERTILE EGGS
BEST PRESERVED

Only Fresh, Clean and Sound
Should Be Used.

Only those eggs that are fresh, clean and sound of shell should be preserved or "put down" for use next winter. One spoiled egg will, in many cases, cause the entire lot to spoil.

"To be absolutely sure that the eggs are fresh and the shells sound, they should be candled," says A. G. Oliver, extension poultry man at the North Carolina State college. "An old shoe box may be used for this purpose by cutting holes in it to fit the egg and fitting it over a lamp or an electric bulb.

"This test will show up any porous or cracked shells and will also show if germination has started. This is a safety-first precaution and, as it takes only a few minutes time, should be practiced by every housewife before putting down any eggs."

For best results infertile eggs should be used but fertile eggs can be used with good results if they are put down each day. If this is done the danger of germination will be eliminated. Never wash the egg before preserving as this removes the natural protective coating on the shell.

In preparing the solution, Mr. Oliver advises one quart of water glass to nine quarts of pure water. The water should be boiled and cooled before mixing with the water glass.

For containers, a clean stone jar is the best but tin or wood vessels may be used. A six-gallon jar will hold about fifteen dozen eggs.

Mr. Oliver states that the eggs at the top of the container should be covered by at least one and one-half inches of the solution. It is not necessary to fill the jar at one time as fresh eggs can be added each day, taking care, however, that the eggs on top are always covered with the solution.

The containers should be kept covered to prevent evaporation and should be stored in a cool place until needed.

Give Good Ventilation During Summer Months

Plenty of ventilation should be provided for brooder houses during the hot summer months, advises John Vandervort, extension poultry specialist of the Pennsylvania State college. Ventilators at the rear of the chicken house and windows at the front and on the sides should be kept open to allow free circulation of air, Mr. Vandervort says. Results of poultry demonstrations among college flocks prove that pullets reared in hot, stuffy houses are likely to be stunted and unprofitable.

Frequent cleaning of the house in the summer is necessary also to prevent flies from breeding and to keep the air in the building pure. Course wire netting placed around the roosts will keep the pullets from the manure, one means of helping to prevent tapeworm infestation.

Home-grown feeds are the best for turkeys.

Ducklings can be brooded much like chicks.

It is always a problem to have the duck eggs clean.

Milk, cod-liver oil, corn products, and leafy green food make chickens grow.

Gather eggs regularly, twice each day, during excessively warm or excessively cold weather.

Turkey hens will lay in places prepared for them. Boxes or barrels placed suitably will do very well.

As the poults grow older and the season advances the heat can be gradually reduced until they require little heat.

In order to make the greatest profit on chicks, it is necessary to raise as large a percentage of the chicks hatched as possible. In order to do this they must be kept warm and healthy.

Baby chicks of a reliable hatchery is a sound investment.

Poults, like young chicks, should be raised on a fresh range—one which has not been frequented by turkeys or chickens the year previous.

To make a complete job of diversification every farm should have besides chickens, turkeys, ducks, geese and guineas. But the same rule applies to all when it comes to the kind; there is no profit to be derived from mongrels.

Photoelectric cells have been applied to an egg candling machine. It automatically selects the bad eggs and rejects them as they pass on a belt in front of the cell.

DEAD BABY BRINGS HELP TO HUNGRY

for Searchers.

New York.—A poverty ridden mother who, when her baby died, dressed it in its best clothes and left the body on the street for the police to find and bury, was found in a poorly furnished house in Brooklyn. With her, all half starved, were her mother and three little children, from three months to five years old. The woman's husband deserted her six months ago.

Early one morning Patrolman George Hackett found the rigid body of an eighteen-months-old boy on the sidewalk in the Bushwick section. An autopsy showed that the child had died from natural causes. Detectives were instructed to find its parents.

On the covering which wrapped the dead child the detectives found the tag of a Broadway store. Through a saleswoman they learned that the purchaser of the wrapping lived in the Bushwick section. They made a house to house canvass, checking up on families and their circumstances, asking questions.

The two detectives finally located the right house. They found three little children lying on the floor. Detective John Quinn was munching a piece of candy as he entered. The children ran up to him, begging for something to eat.

In the rear of the wretched house the detectives found Mrs. Willetta Knight, twenty-four years old, and her mother, Mrs. Katherine Johnson, forty-eight. They, too, were suffering from hunger.

The women admitted having taken the child after it had died, probably from malnutrition, out into the street at night and leaving it there. Mrs. Knight, the child's mother, said they had only 32 cents in the house when the child died and there was no money for funeral expenses.

The police took the family to the station. The hat was passed, and from the contributions the two women and the children were fed.

Canadian Writer Says Good Word for "Bunny"

Rabbits have been much in the news of late. A motorist has put on record the fact that he had to travel at thirty-four miles an hour to keep up with a rabbit that was running in front of his car. Then, Russia decided to raise rabbits by the million for food. But the rabbit, in spite of its smallness and timidity, has had a way of making a noise in the world. It is a curse to gardeners and farmers even in this country, and in Australia it quickly became a national menace. In this connection a good story is told of a newcomer to the Island continent—a Scot—who asked an Australian if there were many Scots in Australia. "Yes," was the immediate reply, "but our real plague is the rabbit!" But— even though the Australian won't believe it—rabbits are luckbringers. Say "White Rabbits" three times first thing on the first day of each month, and you're in for four weeks of good fortune! So, at least, runs the story. —Montreal Family Herald.

Crisp Salads to Serve When Days Grow Warm

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.,
H. J. Heinz Company.

A CRISP vegetable salad or a dainty concoction of fruit will make even the simplest meal attractive. And on these glorious spring days, when we wish to get away entirely from thought of winter—even in the foods we serve—salads are more than ever welcome.

Wise housewives take full advantage of the numerous fresh vegetables available during the spring and summer months. Instead of continually serving hot dishes for dinner, they frequently substitute a thoroughly chilled vegetable salad, prepared with a snappy, well-seasoned French Dressing, or with Mayonnaise. Many a woman, too, finds that a dainty fruit salad often will take the place of a dessert, and thus save her long hours in a hot kitchen making puddings, pies or cakes.

Following are recipes for a number of vegetable salads which are suitable for serving either as the main dish for luncheon or supper, or in place of cooked vegetables for dinner:

Jellied Vegetable Salad:—1½ tablespoons gelatin, ¼ cup cold water, 1/3 cup boiling water, 3 tablespoons vinegar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1/3 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ cup diced celery, 1 cup shredded cabbage, 1 cup cooked peas, and a few drops of onion juice. Soak gelatin in the cold water five minutes and dissolve in the boiling water. Add vinegar, lemon juice, sugar, salt, onion juice and vegetables and mix thoroughly. Turn into a ring mold which has been dipped in cold water, and chill. Remove from mold to salad plate. Fill center with crisp lettuce, and serve with Mayonnaise Salad Dressing.

Lettuce Roll Salad:—Mash a package of soft cream cheese. Add ½ cup cold cooked ham, finely ground, and 2 tablespoons India Relish. Spread a thin layer of this mixture on crisp lettuce leaves. Roll as you do jelly roll and put in a cool place to chill. Cut into ½ inch slices and place several slices on a crisp lettuce leaf. Serve with French Dressing, or with Mayonnaise Salad Dressing.

Tomato Sandwich Salad:—Dip small red tomatoes into scalding water for a moment so the skin will come off easily—then chill and cut in half crosswise through the center. On one half place a generous layer of Sandwich Relish or Cream Cheese mixed with Stuffed Spanish Olives. Cover with the other half of the tomato. In the top of the tomato make a little incision with a sharp knife and insert a sprig of crisp parsley.

Chicken and Vegetable Salad:—2 cups cold diced chicken, ½ cup cooked carrots, diced, ¼ cup cooked peas, ½ cup cooked string beans, cut in pieces, ½ cup cooked beets, diced, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon paprika, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley. Mix the chicken and vegetables and add salt, paprika and parsley. Mix well with French Dressing and let stand in ice box until thoroughly chilled. Arrange in nests of lettuce leaves and top with Mayonnaise Salad Dressing. Garnish with beets cut in fancy shapes and asparagus tips.

Macedoine Salad:—1 small cooked cauliflower, 1 cup cooked peas, 1 cup cooked carrots, cut in cubes, 1 chopped green pepper. Separate cauliflower in small pieces. Marinate each vegetable separately in French Dressing and let stand in ice box until thoroughly chilled. Arrange vegetables on crisp lettuce leaves in separate nests, and sprinkle with chopped green pepper. Serve with French Dressing.

SERVING MANY BUSINESSES

Experience of large fleet owners reveals the unusual reliability and economy of the new Ford

A SIGNIFICANT TRIBUTE to the value of the new Ford is found in its increasing use by Federal, state and city governments and by large industrial companies which keep careful day-by-day cost records. In most instances, the Ford has been chosen only after exhaustive tests of every factor that contributes to good performance—speed, power, safety, comfort, low cost of operation and up-keep, reliability and long life.

Prominent among the companies using the Ford are the Associated Companies of the Bell System, Armour and Company, The Borden Company, Continental Baking Corporation, Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, General Electric Company, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Kellogg Company, Knickerbocker Ice Company, Morton Salt Company, Pillsbury Flour Mills Company, The Procter and Gamble Company, and Swift & Company.

Each of these companies uses a large number of Ford cars and trucks. The Associated Companies of the Bell System use more than eight thousand.

Modern business moves at a fast pace and it needs the Ford. Daily, in countless ways and places, it helps to speed the production and delivery of the world's goods and extend the useful service of men and companies.

Constant, steady operation over many thousands of miles emphasizes the advantages of the sound design of the Ford car, its high quality of materials, and unusual accuracy in manufacturing. Beneath its graceful lines and beautiful colors there is a high degree of mechanical excellence.

An example of the value built into the Ford is the use of more than twenty ball and roller bearings. They are hidden within the car and you may never see them. Yet they play an important part in satisfactory, economical performance. Their function is similar to the jewels of a fine watch.

Throughout the Ford chassis, a ball or roller bearing is used at every place where it is needed to reduce friction and wear and give smooth, reliable mechanical operation.

At many points, as on the transmission counter-shaft, clutch release, fan and pump shaft, and front drive shaft, these ball and roller bearings are used where less costly types of bearings might be considered adequate.

Additional instances of the high quality built into the Ford are the extensive use of steel forgings, fully enclosed four-wheel brakes, Rustless Steel, four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves, torque-tube drive, three-quarter floating rear axle, and the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield.

The Ford policy has always been to use the best possible material for each part and then, through large production, give it to the public at low cost.

As we write, a strong voice that should be used for better things, comes over the Radio from N. Y., advertising the Prize-fight on Thursday night, Shane on America! to gamble on human beings smashing each other, and pretend it is all for charity; "Be not deceived, God is no mocked."

A young New York college professor recently received a mass of flowers and telegrams that he didn't appreciate, all due to the carelessness of a rewrite man on a financial newspaper. This rewrite man is employed in boiling down the news of the day as it comes over the tickers. One item read that Soandso, assistant dean at a certain college, had been made dean. The rewrite man thought the information to be that Soandso is dead—and he wrote it Soand.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR TOPIC.

Topic:—"How Great Leaders Served their Generations."
Acts 20:17-33; Eph. 3:14-19.

Written by—Earl E. Redding, pastor Taneytown United Brethren Charge.

Quoting from last week's discussion of the topic, concerning the place of prayer in the life of Spiritual Leaders: "Prayer was their preparedness for work." This week we think of them in "action." There is an old Spiritual I have often heard, the singing of which stirs me. It is called "Keep me on the Firing Line." Vividly it bears to us a picture of the Soldier of the Cross in action.

Somehow men of all ages have been born with the disposition to be doing something. But it depends upon what that "something" is, whether their efforts were worthwhile and fruitful. Our heroes, these of greatest admiration to us, are those who not only served themselves and their own interests. Very seldom does a person become worthy of admiration, rather he has our contempt, whose service does not go to help anyone further than the end of his own nose.

Great leaders were and are those who actually served their generation. And it must be that kind of altruistic service that bounds on past a mere compensational or mercenary ideal. Byron presses upon us a psychological truth:

"I live not in myself, but become Portion of that around me."

The men in every community where I have lived, to whom everyone looked with respect and admiration as a leader, were a very vital and indispensable part of that community. They looked about them and served in the interest and welfare of all. Students of history, Biblical or general, know the inalterable truth of history's pages to this effect.

Jesus Christ would not hold the place in my heart and life that he does, if he had held himself aloof, withdrawn from the crowd and had lived a self-centered and selfish life. But His lips, His hands, His feet, backed by a Passion for Human-kind, were everywhere ready to serve. He became the Greatest Man of all time, because His greatness was in serving others. He teaches us that: "Whoever will be chief among you, let Him be servant." Matt. 20:27.

Paul, the great Apostle, stands alone on the horizon as a leader, in the early Christian Church. But he only stands alone in his greatness. Incomplete is he. But the only reason he attained that exalted position is conveyed to us as we think of his, "five times forty stiped save one," "Thrice beaten with rods, once stoned."

GENERAL NEWS NOTES.

The House Committee on election contests, last week, found that Vincent L. Palmisan, Democrat, was not entitled to his seat from the Third Md. District, in the election of 1928; but that his contestant, John Phillip Hill, Republican, was not thereby entitled to the seat. Both candidates have filed for the nomination again this year.

Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, who headed the revolt against Smith for president, in North Carolina, was badly defeated for renomination by Josiah W. Bailey, who ran on a party regularity platform.

Senator Johnson, of California, who has something of a reputation as an objector, is apparently leading the opposition to accepting the London Naval treaty. There are some who prefer to act on it at the special session that the President will surely call if it fails to be acted on at the regular session; but many are weary of the present tiresome session, and hope to get a vote on it now. It is believed that it will be accepted, despite the opposition.

Three bandits caught robbing the Geo. F. Roupp jewelry store, Baltimore, May 21, were sentenced to twenty years in the Maryland penitentiary in the Criminal Court, Baltimore, on Wednesday.

The question of whether Gifford Pinchot, Republican, was nominated for Governor in Pennsylvania, is still hanging fire in the Luzerne County Court. The question hinges on whether the ballots of the county, that were perforated by order of the court, are legal. If illegal, the vote of the county will be thrown out, and Francis Shunk Brown will be declared the nominee.

Forty-six persons perished in a crash of the steamship Fairfax into an oil tanker on Massachusetts Bay, Tuesday night. The Fairfax carried 71 passengers for Baltimore and Norfolk, while the whole crew of 19 on the tanker perished. The oil in the tanker caught fire and burned on the surface of the water. Those from the Fairfax who lost their lives were ones who became panic stricken and jumped overboard. Many others were burned, some of them seriously.

The former British Ambassador at Washington, had been dry; but the present Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, received twenty-seven large cases of liquor, this week, containing more than 2000 bottles, which seems to indicate that he is wet.

The only fellow human to whom you owe no sympathy is you.

Bob's Dream.

Robert Benchly relates that he had a dream the other night.

"I dreamed," he told me, "that I was acting as a judge in a dispute between two Indians over a blanket. The affair had just got to the point where one Indian called the other a thief, when I woke up. I looked at the clock. It was early—only 8 o'clock. So I decided I had time to go back to sleep and hear the rest of the case."

New Vogue

It is not surprising these days to notice among the snooty limousines that race up and down Park avenue a ridiculous old gasoline buggy of the vintage of 1905 or 1910. The occupant thereof will not be a junkman, as one might suspect, but one of the upper set. The rich, and particularly the nouveau riche, have adopted the fad of buying and operating museum-piece motor cars.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

DeCou & Childlaw, $49,876.00; Allen Feeser, $52,867.00; N. C. Erb, $53,020.00; Wm. H. Saylor, $57,873.74; P. B. Strobal Construction Co., $62,904.00.

The contract will be awarded to the lowest bidder as soon as the budget is returned by the County Commissioners showing that the amount requested has been granted. The situation in reference to the order to vacate the school property at the Bark Hill Colored School was considered. The Superintendent was authorized to write to the secretary of the lodge offering him a rental compensation of $25.00 per school year for the use of the building.

The Superintendent reported the conditions of the new contract with Blue Ridge College. The Board is to furnish all the equipment except what is now in use belonging to the college, which applies to furnishings already there. The college is to provide two additional rooms for the commercial department, and one additional room properly heated and finished for the seventh grade. The total contract amounts to $4,750.00 a year, this being a reduction of nearly a thousand dollars over previous contracts.

The Board carefully considered the situation at Union Bridge for another year and developed the following plan:

- 1—Combine the elementary school of Linwood and Union Bridge using the two portables at Union Bridge and three class rooms at Linwood and furnish the necessary transportation.
- 2—Transport the Union Bridge High School pupils to New Windsor.
- 3—Reorganize the high school teaching force by retiring the principal, Mr. Wolfe, on pension; dropping Mrs. Merrill under the married teachers rule; transferring Miss Fuss to New Windsor, and dropping Miss Hoffman because of no place.

The Medford school is to be reduced to a six grade school because of the lack of sufficient number of pupils to justify a two teacher school. The seventh grade and high school children in this territory extending from Medford to New Windsor will be furnished transportation by the extension of the Jasantown bus to Medford.

Dumb?

And there's the story of the beautiful girl who became secretary to the president of a large investment counsel firm in Wall street, and worked at her new job for some months before she discovered she was working for a financial institution, and not a firm of lawyers.

Idea of Fun.

Joseph Horowitz, an interpreter for the Magistrate's court, recently inherited $1,000,000 from his brother, the late Conrad Huber, flashlight manufacturer. With all that money in his pocket, he has modestly asked for a month's vacation, so that he may accompany a German opera company on a tour of the Mid-West and Far West. He says he likes German opera. After the tour he will return to work. (©, 1930. Bell Syndicate.)

Royal Elephant Runs Away to Go Swimming

Delhi.—An elephant from the royal stable took French leave to go swimming in the river. Six elephants and two camels were sent after him. The two camels, holding the elephant's ears in their jaws, and the six truant officers whipping him with their trunks from behind, returned the wayward animal home. He has gone on a hunger strike and refused food for 10 days.

Milk Is Milk

A RECENT issue of one of this nation's great monthly women's magazines had the following caption under an illustration showing four cans and a bottle:

"Evaporated, condensed, powdered or malted, milk is milk just the same."

Science bears out the above assertion. An article entitled "An Experimental Study of the Use of Unsweetened Evaporated Milk for the Preparation of Infant Feeding Formulae" by McKim Marriott, M.D., and Ludwig Schoenthal, Dr. Med., which was published in a recent issue of the Archives of Pediatrics summarized its conclusions as follows:

"1. Unsweetened evaporated milk is, from the nutritional standpoint, the full equivalent of pasteurized or boiled whole cow's milk.

"2. The continued use of evaporated milk as a routine food for normal infants is unattended by nutritional disturbances.

"3. Evaporated milk was found to be especially suitable for premature infants.

"4. The experiment proves evaporated milk, when suitably modified, to be a satisfactory food for sick infants, especially those suffering from nutritional or gastro-intestinal disturbances.

"5. The known qualities of unsweetened evaporated milk—its sterility, its ready digestibility and uniformity of composition—are distinct advantages which recommend it for general use as milk for infants."

Ram Literally Butted Himself to Bitter End

A farmer named Darby had a ram. This ram could have taken the blue ribbon in the butter class at any fair. He would butt anything in sight, especially if it was moving.

Darby was a patient man but after the ram had butted everything on the farm, including Darby himself, he vowed vengeance. So one morning when he and his family were going to be gone for the day he suspended a heavy post-maul by a rope from a tree limb and turned the ram loose. The ram, seeing the maul swinging, made a rush for it. He hit it a blow that sent it swinging more. The maul, on the return trip, hit him on the head but he didn't mind it; in fact it merely made him call out his reserve powers.

Darby and his family grew tired of watching the duel between the ram and the maul, so they went to town. Toward evening they returned and the first thing they did was to visit the dueling ground. They saw the maul swinging—and they wondered what had become of the ram.

Then on going closer they found that the ram had actually worn himself out butting the maul. All that was left of him was a piece of his tail about as long as your thumb.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Dear Editor:

THE other day I met a novelist. What kind of a typewriter do you suppose he uses? An old 1904 model where you lift up the carriage to see what's been written.

I've noticed several other well-to-do writers still cling to some old typewriter of their youth. They seem to feel it's friendly and will be patient with them if the thoughts don't come right at first.

Many a good idea has been jotted down on the back of an envelope; many more, probably, than on any new-fangled desk memo pad. An idea is a weak, timid thing to start with; it needs to be encouraged. Even Lincoln's Gettysburg address was written on a scrap of paper. If he'd had to use embossed stationery the thing never would have been written at all.—Fred Barton.

Unpopular Kitty Shows He's Perfect Gentleman

Burbank, Calif.—Think of police officers releasing a reported "gentleman" after they had actually found plenty of evidence that he was guilty of unlawful entry and what's more, think of the fact that the aforesaid officers were actually glad to release him!

That's what occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bartlett when Captain Hampton and Motor Sergeant Lombard found the asserted "gentleman" in complete and unauthorized possession of a back screen porch and particularly of a refrigerator.

After a survey of the situation Captain Hampton ordered Lombard "To make a noise like a saucer of milk."

Evidently the ruse was successful, because the skunk slunk out of the refrigerator that he had made his own.

A wide avenue so as to leave no hindrance to his escape was opened to him and he was permitted to return to his native hills without molestation.

Men of Inventive Mind Belong to All Nations

Answering an inquiry as to the names and nationalities of the inventors or discoverers of the steamship, locomotive, telephone, printing press, automobile, radio, airplane, airship, electricity, electric light, television, the Detroit News says:

As many of these inventions are the results of years of development by numerous workers rather than of one inventor, we can give only the name of the inventor of the first practical device. Steamship, Robert Fulton, United States; locomotive, George Stephenson, English; telephone, Alexander Graham Bell, Scottish inventor living in America; printing press, attributed to Johann Gutenberg, German, though printing presses were probably used first in China centuries before; automobile, Carl Benz and Gottlieb Daimler, Germans; radio, Guglielmo Marconi, Italian (wireless telegraphy), Valdemar Poulsen, Danish, Dr. Lee De Forest, United States, and others; airplane, Orville and Wilbur Wright, United States; airship, Henri Giffard, French, A Santos-Dumont, Brazilian, and Count Ferdinand von Zeppelin, German; electric light (incandescent), Thomas A. Edison, United States, and Joseph W. Swan, English; television, John L. Baird, Scottish. No man can be considered the inventor or discoverer of electricity; some of its manifestations have been known since the time of the ancient Greeks.

Writer Has Long List of Rail Superstitions

Black cats are eyed with horror by railroad men, but dogs are considered lucky. Cross-eyed people avoid approaching American engine cabs because they are evil omens liable to be driven away with well-aimed lumps of coal.

Their proper function is to sit on the first seat of the rear coach, thereby conferring one day's luck on the conductor. As a matter of fact, while the engine driver is giving his steed a final inspection all adults who stare at him are considered unlucky unless they are accompanied by children.

Accidents on United States lines are believed to occur in triplets. An engineer who reports one is gloomy and despondent until he has worked off the spell by reporting two more.

Neither will any engineer who has not lost all interest in life cheerfully write "13 cars" on his report; he prefers to report "13 cars and an engine." The brakeman supports the driver in his observance of superstitious rites by never carrying his lamp above his waist. To do so is considered fatal.

But the strangest of all tales of railway superstition is the story of the engine on the New York, New Haven and Hartford line. On the thirtieth of every month, no matter who he may be, the driver of that engine reports sick. The number of the engine is O-13.—London Mail.

Claims Elephant Leads Beasts in Intelligence

The question of the relative intelligence of our so-called "dumb" beasts seems to be one to which there is no end. Wherever animal men gather the controversy wages hot and furious. "I think elephants are the most intelligent of all animals," says Hubbard Nye, writing in Liberty Magazine. "I realize this opens an argument, for every man who has worked in a circus or menagerie may think otherwise.

"My contention," continues Nye, "is that elephants show more intelligence in learning to work. In twenty minutes you can teach an elephant to plow a cornfield and not step on a single shoot. The big beast's intelligence shines brightest in vaudeville work. He is the only animal capable of going through his stunts without a trainer and without cues.

"The three-ton star will stand backstage waiting for his act for an hour and a half, placid, thinking his elephant thoughts, while property men shift scenery right under his trunk and chorus girls go scuttling around him. You can lead him between the most fragile sets of gauze, and he won't hurt a thing."

Few Insects Absolutely Enemies of Human Race

Some insects, says a writer in John o' London's Weekly, are beneficial, such as bees and silkworms; some are altogether injurious, such as those mosquitoes that carry the malaria organism, and the tse-tse flies that carry the cause of sleeping sickness. But most insects are half and half, partly helpful to man and his interests, and partly prejudicial. Thus, if we consider wasps in a broad way, we must admit that while they spoil a lot of fruit, they destroy many insects that are pests of plants. While the world of life is on the whole "friendly" to man, we need not expect it to be always on our side. And as regards particular insects, such as earwigs, it is often impossible to get a true bill, for there is a "con" to every "pro." So we turn with mental satisfaction to clothes moths, for they are altogether on the black list, except to the naturalist, who finds them very interesting.

Community of Silence

This is the secret of our intercourse with those persons of whom our friends will say, or think, what can you find to talk about? Talk about? Why, nothing; the enigmatic person remains, with us as with all the rest of the world, silent, inarticulate, incapable, sometimes, of any nice making of formula. But we know that our companion is seeing, feeling, the same lines of the hills and washes of colors; the same scudding or feathering out of clouds; is living, in the completest sense, in that particular scene and hour; and knowing this, it matters nothing how long we trudge along the road or saunter across the grass without uttering.—Violet Paget, in "Hortus Vita."

Holland Land of Flowers

No one, says a traveler, will ever forget his first sight of the acres and acres of myriad colored flowers in bloom in Holland. The spectacle is breath-taking and every season of the year sees the land in some new beauty. In spring the bulb fields near Haarlem hold carnival from February, when the crocus blooms, until August when the late gladioli are in flower. The vision of a square mile of tulips in full bloom, in every hue in the rainbow, is worth a visit to Holland from any distance.

Riches in Black Hills

The Black hills constitute one of the richest gold mining districts in the United States and have yielded over $100,000,000. Silver, copper, tin and iron ores also occur within their limits, besides coal, salt, petroleum, mica, gypsum and building stone. About one-third of the area is covered with dense dark forests of pine, whence the name, while deciduous trees are abundant. The climate is salubrious, the soil fertile, and the hills are well adapted to grazing purposes.

Famous Health Centers

For centuries the "bads," or health resorts, of Germany and central Europe have been famous for the medicinal powers of their spring waters and for the elaborate establishments that have been built up about these springs, where every comfort and luxury is provided for those who come for the cure and for those who are merely in search of rest or recreation. Hundreds of thousands of persons visit them each year, and many return annually to their favorite resorts.

Deadly Poison Found in Plant of Castor Bean

The castor bean, source of one of the most useful medicinal oils, contains also the most deadly of all known vegetable poisons, writes Dr. Frank Thone in the Providence Journal.

In stem, leaves and fruit—in all parts of the plant—there are minute amounts of an exceedingly toxic substance. Many pounds of castor bean tissue, after long and elaborate chemical extraction, will yield a few crystals of this stuff, innocent as salt to look at, but so powerful that a speck no bigger than a needle-point can kill a cat or a rabbit as quickly as a thousand-volt live wire. The substance has been called ricin, from the Latin name of the castor bean plant, Ricinus.

Ricin has its fullest and quickest effects when it is injected directly into the blood stream, but it can cause severe sickness and even death when it is swallowed.

Yet though there is rather more ricin in the seeds of the castor oil plant than there is in its other tissues, the oil pressed from the bean contains none of it. The reason is that the ricin is held by the non-oil-bearing tissues, and at the temperatures of "cold pressing" it does not come free. "Hot pressing" would yield more oil, though of a poorer quality, and it might also liberate some of the ricin.

As Far as He Got

Bink—Well, it's true in a certain sense. They were delayed in the mails and he wrote and asked to have another copy sent.

A Real Job

"What are you trying to do now?" asked the reporter of the plant wizard he met at the street corner.

"Trying to cross a street with safety," he sighed.

She Was Doing the Letting
"So your husband is letting his beard grow?"
"He is not letting it grow—I am letting him grow it."

Our Cynics
"Father, what is a 'clue'?"
"Clue," my boy, is police pronunciation for 'gnee.' It means they're stuck."

Mail Student

"Why do you always address the letter carrier as professor?"
"It's a sort of honorary title. I'm taking a course by mail."

LUCKY AT THAT

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago)
(©, 1930, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for June 15 JESUS ON THE CROSS

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 27:1-66.
GOLDEN TEXT—Looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith; who for the joy that was set before him, endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus on the Cross.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus on the Cross.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Suffering of the Cross.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Calvary.

The grand climax of the six months' lessons is reached in this one. To miss the significance of the crucifixion of Christ will be to render valueless all the preceding lessons. It is not a matter of learning the lessons taught by a great teacher or imitating the examples of a great and good man, but of apprehending the atonement made by the world's Redeemer.

I. The Place of Crucifixion. (vv. 33, 34).

They led Him away to Golgotha, a hill north of Jerusalem, resembling a skull. He was crucified "without the gate" (Heb. 13:12). At first He was compelled to bear His own cross, but when physical weakness made it impossible for Him to continue, they compelled Simon the Cyrenean to bear it for Him (v. 32). In order to strengthen Him for the ordeal before He was nailed to the cross, the soldiers offered Him a stimulant of vinegar mixed with gall. He refused the stimulant offered and consciously drank the cup of sin to its bitter dregs.

II. Gambling for the Clothing of the Lord (vv. 35, 36).

It was the custom for the soldiers who had charge of a crucifixion to receive the garments of the one crucified. We have here a fulfillment of Psalm 22:18. What sacrifice for them to gamble for His seamless robe under the very cross where He was dying!

III. The Accusation (v. 37).

It was customary to place over the victim on the cross his name and indicate his crime. This superscription was placed over Jesus by Pilate to vex the Jews. He was their King in absolute truth. They had long looked for Him and now, when He had come, this is the kind of treatment they gave Him.

IV. Two Malefactors Crucified With Him (v. 38).

We are not told who they were. Perhaps they belonged to the band of Barabbas. This was another fulfillment of Scripture (Isa. 53:12). In these three crosses we have set forth a spiritual history of the whole world.

V. The Dying Savior Reviled (vv. 39-44).

This reviling was engaged in by the passerby, the chief priests, the scribes, elders, and the malefactors who were crucified with Him.

1. "He saved others, Himself He cannot save" (v. 42).

This jest was meant to show the absurdity of Jesus' claims, but it demonstrated them and showed the reason for His suffering. He could not save Himself and others, so He chose to give Himself to save others.

2. "If he be the king of Israel, let him now come down from the cross" (v. 42).

His refusal to abandon the cross established His rightful claims. The devil offered Him the kingdoms of the world if He would escape the cross (Matt. 4:8-10). Through His death He came into His place of kingship over all who bow to Him.

3. "He trusted in God. Let him deliver him now" (v. 43).

His obedience unto death was the sacrifice which met God's full approval.

VI. The Death of Christ (vv. 45-50).

Who is sufficient to comment upon this tragedy! Let us contemplate it in adoration and wonder. So shocking was this crime that nature threw around the Son of God a shroud that the goddess company could not gaze upon him. Darkness was upon the land at noonday. Upon the termination of the darkness, He cried with a loud voice, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" He became sin for the world and the world's sin hid God's face from Him. God forsook Him, turned from Him who had taken the sinner's place. God was dealing with sin on the innocent substitute. No one can understand that but God, but we can believe. When the price of sin was paid, He cried out with a loud voice, showing that He still had vitality; that His death was not from exhaustion, but by His sovereign will. He yielded up the ghost and sent away His spirit.

Kindness

Full half our holiness is shown in simple, everyday relations with our fellow men; and nine times out of ten the best immediate expression for our love of God and gratitude to Christ is found in some small kindness to our neighbor.—Isaac Edwards.

God Can Be Trusted

The God who ordained the beginning can safely be trusted with the end, as with all that lies between.—Christian Evangelist.

Statesmen Not Money Getters

George Washington left an estate valued at more than $800,000. John Adams' estate amounted to $75,000. Thomas Jefferson died poor. If congress had not appropriated $20,000 to purchase his library he would have occupied a pauper's grave. Madison left an estate of $150,000. President Monroe died so poor that his relatives supplied the money to bury him. John Quincy Adams left $55,000. Jackson, $80,000; Van Buren, $400,000. Polk left an estate worth $150,000. President Taylor's estate was worth $150,000. Tyler married a well-to-do wife, as did also Fillmore, who left an estate of $200,000. President Pierce's estate was valued at $50,000; Buchanan's at $550,000, and Johnson's at $50,000. Lincoln and Grant were poor men.—Capper's Weekly.

Men Once Carried Muffs

Though we are told that muffs are to be worn again by women, it is highly unlikely that any of the once sterner sex will follow their example. Yet up to the close of the Eighteenth century it was common for the well-dressed man to sport a muff suspended round his neck by a ribbon. Horace Walpole, writing to George Montagu in December, 1765, says: "I send you a decent smallish muff that you may put in your pocket, and it costs but 14 shillings."

Pepps took his wife's old muff into use and let her buy a new one. But then Pepps was capable of edging his waistcoat with gold braid taken from his wife's best petticoat, "that she had when I married her."—Manchester Guardian.

English May-Day Custom

As far back as the medieval period in England, Chaucer says it was customary to go out early on the morning of the first of May "to fetch the flowers fresh." Hawthorn branches were carried home about sunset amid much merry making. The name "The May" was given to the hawthorn, and the ceremony was called "the bringing home the May." A relic of the Roman custom, when on May day the goddess Flora was especially honored, is seen in the selection of a beautiful village maid to be crowned as "Queen of the May."

Origin of "Chop Suey"

It has often been said that chop suey is unknown in China, and that it was invented in the United States by Chinese cooks. But if the particular recipe of Chinese cooks in this country are not commonly followed in China, very similar dishes, at least are served there. Chop suey is simply a combination of meat, Chinese vegetables and other common ingredients; it required no great amount of ingenuity to think of mixing them, and it is not likely that any modern cook could claim the credit.

Self-Confidence Wins

Faith in yourself, and in the purpose you have set for yourself, is a prime requisite for success. The world at one time laughed at Edison, at Ford, and at others. But these men laughed last—and they laughed best.—Grit.

Baffling the Moloch

"Tis true the day is still
For little girls and boys;
But we need pay no costly bill
Unto the god of noise."

Rule Doesn't Apply Here

Visitor—In China friendship is cemented by the breaking of a piece of china.

Mistress of House (hearing crash)—I think that if we lived in China we should have to regard our maid as a special friend.

Extra Valuable Share of "Catch" Not Wanted

Fishing activities in the islands of Tuce and Skye are operated on the communal principle, and the catch is equally divided among fishers at the close of the day. This custom is to be found all over the West Highlands; in fact, short of direct marketing, it is the only feasible way in which fishing can be carried on. In some districts an extra share is awarded to the owner of the boat, whether or not he happens to be actually one of the crew engaged on a particular day. In Skye and the neighboring islands this share is called "cuid Chulla." An interesting superstitious idea regarding the casting of the lots at the divide survives in some districts. While the shares are always as near equality as it is possible to make them, it occasionally happens that one particularly good or rare fish gives the share on which it is placed a special value. The superstitious fisherman, however, would rather not have that particular share fall to his lot. The most covetous member of the crew, or one who is doomed to die young, will, according to popular belief, be sure to have his "mark" fall on that share.

Poland Offers Much to Attract the Traveler

Poland to many travelers is a country unknown. Yet to the tourist it offers much in the great variety of scenery, the richness and color of its native peasantry, and the charm and beauty of its myriad churches and ancient ruins. Its art treasures, its architecture, its numerous museums, compare favorably with those of other European countries.

Warsaw, the capital and largest city, has a population of over 1,000,000 persons and a history which dates back to the Thirteenth century. Since that time it has seen many changes and events which have helped to make the history of Europe. During the latter part of the Eighteenth century the city experienced a period of great splendor. It was then one of the largest cities of Europe and it became the very center of artistic, literary and scientific activity, and had also a brilliant court of life. Gracow, only a few hours' ride from the capital, is really the heart of Poland, although Warsaw is the seat of government.

Blooms of the Desert

Many floral dwellers of the desert are worthy of the highest praise, says Nature Magazine. Among them are several shrubs and trees, which in their seasons, are bewitching bowers of bloom—the palo verde, with its cloud of yellow; the smoke tree, a solid mass of dark-blue; the mesquite, hazy with fringed catkins of yellow-green; the desert willow, charming and attractive in a dress of pink-and-lavender; the scarlet chuparosa, and the white-leaved, yellow-flowered brittle-bush, or golden hills. There are others aplenty—the ocotillo, "candlebush" of the natives, most striking and unique of the Colorado desert flora, and the yuccas, with the Spanish bayonet, glorious in bloom, and the Joshua tree, that grotesque plant creation which the Mojave desert claims as its most distinctive feature, acting as the leading representative.

Adulterating With Water

Adding unnecessary water to canned goods manufactured for shipment and sale in interstate commerce is in violation of the federal food and drugs act. Inspectors of the food, drug and insecticide administration, United States Department of Agriculture, are constantly on the alert to detect and punish violators. Such adulterated food, if otherwise properly prepared, would not be harmful to the health of the consumer, but to his pocket-book. He would be buying water at food prices.

Simple

A man was telling a girl about a motor car trip from which he had just returned. The trip was made during a spell of very rainy weather and high waters.

"I arrived about four o'clock in the afternoon at a very swollen river, and it was necessary that I should cross," he said. "No bridge was within miles. Night was approaching, but I knew it would be madness for me to drive my car into the rushing stream."

"Well, what did you do?" inquired the girl.

"Oh, I sat in my machine and thought it over."—London Tit-Bits.

Court Rules Dog's Fleas

Belong to Its Owner

Cincinnati.—Fleas and other insects which usually abide with a cat or dog are the property of the owner of the animals. Common Pleas Judge Otis Hess ruled here. Mrs. Amy L. Roth sued Charles Poorman, a former roomer, for $80, charging it cost her that amount to renovate rooms where Poorman kept three dogs, four cats, a parrot, an alligator and several canaries. The insects must be taken with the animals when the owner of the latter moves, the court held, awarding Mrs. Roth $65.50 damages.

Soldering, Aluminum

Contrary to general opinion, soldered joints in aluminum are easily made and are as strong when first made as other metals. They fail, however, without exception a few weeks or even hours after exposure to mild corrosives, because during soldering, the solder dissolves some of the aluminum, forming alloys, generally of tin or zinc. These corrode so readily they even disintegrate in damp air, but where complete protection is afforded, as by painting, immersion in oil, etc., soldering is sometimes very useful. This protection is obviously rather impracticable in the case of utensils.

IT'S WISE TO CHOOSE A SIX

SIX

reasons why it's wise to choose a "SIX"

1. It's Smooth! Chevrolet has a 50-horsepower six-cylinder valve-in-head engine that delivers its power with a smoothness and silence that are impossible with anything less than six cylinders.
2. It's Comfortable! Chevrolet offers modern spring suspension, roomy bodies, and a smooth-running six-cylinder engine.
3. It's Easy to Drive! Chevrolet provides an extra-easy ball bearing steering mechanism. And six-cylinder flexibility means unusual simplicity of control.
4. It's Beautiful! Chevrolet is the only low-priced car with Body by Fisher. Hence, its style compares favorably with that of costly cars.
5. It's Economical! The Chevrolet costs no more for gas—oil—tires—or service. And six-cylinder smoothness holds down costs, by protecting the car from destructive vibration.
6. It's Easy to Buy! The G. M. A. C. payment plan, with its easy terms, is available to all Chevrolet buyers. Come in! Confirm all the reasons why it's wise to choose a Chevrolet Six.

It's rather early, but, we have a fine line of Christmas Card samples, ready for your selection. Orders will be booked at any time, for delivery in December. Why not place your orders now, and be sure of getting what you order?

The growth of vegetation has been very pronounced, during the past week, notwithstanding some cloudy days and cool nights. The strawberry crop, usually a good one in this section, was almost a complete failure this year, due to the long drouth.

Three columns of "locals," last week, was another unusual feature for The Record; but we have not heard any complaint about it. So, if our friends will help, we will try it again—any time. The local news should be published in the local paper—don't you think?

Many do not think of coming to The Record office to buy yard-sticks, or lead pencils, by the 1000, but give their orders to salesmen. We can supply these articles for advertising purposes, at prices lower than the salesmen. We also supply the manifold sales books, so widely used.

The Firemen again defeated the High School team, last Saturday, in a closely played game, the score being 10 to 7. The youngsters had every intention of winning the game, but lacked the necessary punch at critical points. The Firemen are now a little stuck-up, and talk about trying to form a County Firemen's League.

Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Little, on Sunday, were: Mr. and Mrs. George Henry, Hanover, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Krietz, Emmitsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Albaugh, of New Midway and Mr. and Mrs. Luther Albaugh, of Ladiesburg, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Albaugh, near town.

We do not know who the "Glendale Giants" are, but they are scheduled to play the Firemen's team, on the home ground, this Saturday afternoon, at 2:30. Better attend and see.

Miss Josephine B. Zupnik, of New Freedom, Pa., is a guest of Miss Elizabeth L. Wilt, and attended the Alumni Banquet of the High School at Braddock Heights, Thursday night. Miss Zupnik will be the room-mate of Miss Wilt at Hood College, this year.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Baumgardner and sons, John and Murray, attended the Annual Commencement of the University of Maryland, which was held at the Lyric Theatre. At this commencement their son, George, received the Degree of Doctor of Medicine. Mrs. Charles Hesson and son son, accompanied them back home to visit a few days.

The Record office placed a telephone call for a linotype machinist in Baltimore, on Wednesday morning. He happened not to be in when the call was made, and his return was uncertain, but the telephone employees kept the call in mind, and had our man here in a few hours. This is what we call "service" of the very best kind, when it was needed as a big favor.

A. G. Riffle, Merle S. Ohler, James Myers, Chas. O. Fuss, B. W. Crapster and Raymond Davidson, attended the Firemen's Convention, in Baltimore, on Thursday. Ocean City was chosen as the place of next meeting. Taneytown was on the map by receiving five votes. H. T. Wentz, of Lineboro, this county, was elected president. The city firemen gave the visiting firemen a big reception.

The baccalaureate sermon, on Sunday night, to the graduating class of Taneytown High School, delivered by Rev. Earl E. Redding, in the Lutheran Church, was very largely attended. The Glee Clubs of the school sang "Glory be to the Father," as a march, an anthem "Send out the Light," and Miss Mary Isabel Elliot sang a solo, "The Golden Key." The topic of Rev. Redding's address was, "A Life, or a Living."

SUNBATH KILLS MOTH.

Housekeepers who give their down comforts a good dose of sunshine before they put them away for the summer, will be interested to know that in giving them a sunbath they are using one of the most effective methods of protecting their treasures from the ever dreaded moth. In connection with inspections of materials used in filling comforts, pillows and other bedding, made recently under the State Bedding law, a number of moths were found in some of the articles. These were placed in a covered glass jar and kept in a dark cupboard where several generations lived and flourished for five months. When the jar was brought out again and exposed to the direct sunlight, life departed from these pests that are the despair of every homemaker.

Best to Register Bonds

Registration protects the owner of a United States bond from loss or theft, and holders generally are urged, wherever practicable, to take advantage of the privilege of registration. In case of the loss or theft of a registered bond, unless assigned in blank or for exchange for coupon bonds without instructions restricting delivery, the Treasury department will give relief to the owner in accordance with the provisions of paragraphs 83 to 85 of Department Circular No. 300. Holders of registered bonds receive interest checks drawn on the treasurer of the United States in payment of interest as it falls due, and their names are all recorded on the books of the Treasury department.

OUR CANADA NEIGHBOR.

For the second consecutive year Canada has bought more United States goods than any other country. And, this nation last year bought more from Canada than it bought from any other nation.

We sold goods to the Canadians to the value of $948,501,000. We bought from them goods to the value of $504,277,000.

This is true interdependence. Each man, woman and child in Canada has an interest in trade with us to the amount of $148. Wellkniringers have shouted for years over the glory of our Canadian border, 1200 miles of boundary line, unprotected by a single fort. This is a state of affairs incomprehensible to the crowded nations of Europe which spend vast sums of their money and time seeing that each stays in his own backyard. The relations existing between this country and Canada show plainly what is possible and denies the fable that nations must be enemies.

What a fine example, when nations learn to use each other's advantages legitimate. They can have, as Canada and America have, the benefit of their mutual trade and, more important than all, the benefit of friendliness and neighborliness, which releases border guards for better work and takes the fog of fear out of international affairs.—Exchange.

Our forefathers objected to taxation without representation. Now we would be glad to get taxation without misrepresentation. — American Lumberman.

The Company will give a very liberal commission contract (direct with the Home Office) to a good personal producer. 6-13-3t

Make your own Tests Feeding will tell

Feeds have individuality - certain characteristics which place them above or below the average.

Some Feeds have spurts of fine quality. Some go plugging along in a medium, never being very bad or very Good. Some fewer in number - set a high standard in the beginning and keep it up year in and year out.

The Key Feeds are individual in that their quality is not only high but invariably high.

Pound for pound - ton for ton, you will find that The Key Feeds are uniform; no variations because we absolutely control our selection of ingredients and our blending process.

When we say make your own tests we mean what we say - make your test with any stock you feed. Cow, Pig or poultry.

MONEY

Is Your Best Friend

IF YOU get into trouble, it will pay you out. If you get sick, it will pay the doctor's and druggist's bills. If you want to take a trip, it will pay your way. If you want to develop your business to take advantage of some good investment, you can do it at a moment's notice.

But the man without money can do none of these. Instead, whenever opportunity is offered or adversity befalls him, he is forcibly embarrassed.
